Walsh is simply immense as Spurlock; if anything more were said it might spoil everything. Dan Mason plays Spurlock, Senior, with a naturalness that borders on the perfect; in fact, it strikes one that Mr. Mason might have had the experience in real life. Anita Grey, Jack's sweetheart, is very capably portrayed by pretty Ruth Taylor. Carl Harbaugh directed and has handled the many complex situations in an adroit manner.

The story: Jack Spurlock is expelled from college because he takes a kindly interest in a bear which persists in following him around—even to studies. But you can't blame Jack, because he was returning home from a party and was pretty drunk when he bought the creature. Anyway, Jack is put to work by his father, a wealthy grocery dealer, and is given a position as purchasing agent. Unaware of the fact that the company had quite enough of onions, Jack went right ahead and bought up all the onions he could get. Result, the onion workers went on strike and Jack went with them. When the strike was finally settled Jack found himself without a job and managed to get along as a waiter in a silent system restaurant. But he left that and became a demonstrator for physical culture specialists. While engaged in this work Jack met Col. Jackson, a soldier of fortune, who had managed to live by selling a patent medicine. The colonel received a large order for his medicine, but could not fill it because he could not get enough of the chief ingredient. That ingredient was onions. Easy enough for Jack, who went to the onion workers and commandeered the entire supply. Just then Spurlock, Senior, came in with Anita Grey, Jack's sweetheart, who was rather displeased with Jack and his escapades. But Jack explained matters and saved his father quite a bit of money and the onion workers many tears. The colonel had his supply of onions and Anita was willing to give Jack another chance. So was Spurlock, Senior.

"The Crucible of Life"

General Enterprises Inc., Starring Grace Darmond. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

ANOTHER addition to the ranks of war dramas, with the present conflict filling in as a patriotic background, is "The Crucible of Life," a screen adaptation of the stage success, "Fairfax." For this type of drama a strong story is a non-essential; battle scenes and flag waving will usually suffice to draw the crowds. But when the story is in itself an interesting one that has pathos, love and patriotism, and is exceptionally well titled, it is bound to be a sure fire hit. Interest is not lacking in any of the seven parts of the picture.

This picture was made by the Authors Film Company and is being exploited by General Enterprises. An extensive advertising campaign has kept the film in the public eye for some time and when it is released, which will be in the near future, the anxious film fan will have ample cause for rejoicing. Probably never before have more realistic battle scenes been seen, and of additional interest is a scene where the villain, a spy in the uniform of our army, is caught lowering the Stars and Stripes by a loyal Sammy. This is a signal for the Hun attack and the American boys are warned in time to repulse the enemy when they advance. Situations like this are abundant.

Grace Darmond is a charming heroine and is surrounded by an exceptional supporting cast headed by Jack Sherrill and Frank O'Connor. Suspense is maintained throughout and a great heart interest is ever in evidence. Augmented by the thrilling battle scenes and parades of our soldiers and our Red Cross workers, the picture is one that should enlist an army of lovers.

The story: After the death of her mother, Gladys Dale enters into an unfortunate marriage with Marigold, a crook, who deserts her. Gladys is befriended by Mrs. Dorset, who employs her as companion to Diana, her daughter. At the Dorset country home Gladys meets Robert, the ne'er do well son, and incurs his enmity by repulsing his advances. Edwin Fairfax, a younger brother of Mrs. Dorset, admires Gladys and so tells her. But Robert has gotten into bad company, robs his mother and places the blame on Gladys. By a curious coincidence Gladys discovers Robert is the real thief and to spare her benefactress the blow, leaves the house.

Later, enlisted as a Red Cross worker, Gladys is sent to France. The national army draft has taken Fairfax and after months of severe training he is sent to France with his regiment. Neither Fairfax nor Gladys is aware of the other's presence in the sector until one day a German airman drops bombs on the hospital tent and Gladys is severely injured. With other wounded she is taken to a hospital base in the rear.

A spy in the camp is discovered by Fairfax in the act of signalling the German trenches and in a thrilling hand to hand fight the spy is overpowered and the alarm given in time to warn of a coming attack by the enemy. Fairfax is wounded and, by a strange coincidence, is taken to the same hospital base as Gladys. A happy reunion results and is made happier when news comes from Mrs. Dorset that Robert had been arrested and had admitted his guilt of the robberies.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Serial, Starring William Duncan and Carol Holloway. Episode No. 9, Buried Alive. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

BLAKE and his wife, who have fallen from a cable trolley over a deep gorge, are not injured and are followed by the outlaws. During the chase Comanche Pete, the Indian guide of the outlaws, falls in the water and Blake saves him. The outlaws see Mrs. Blake alone and make her prisoner, while Comanche, thankful because of Blake having saved him, promises Blake to help rescue his wife. Pete rejoins the outlaws, who carry Mrs. Blake away and Blake follows. They learn of his presence and surround and capture him. They dig a grave for him but allow his head to protrude and, buried alive, Blake is helpless, as a mountain lion, scenting him, comes near. In the stillness of the night Comanche escapes from the outlaws' camp, presumably going to Blake's rescue. What happens must be left to the imagination of the audience.

Another feat of daring is accomplished by William Duncan in this episode of the adventurous serial. When the Indian falls into the water Duncan, who is on a ledge overlooking the brink of the lake, sees he is unable to swim, and dives after the Indian. The dive is by no means a simple one, as the plunge is all of fifty feet, or possibly more, over a rocky ledge. Had he missed the dive Duncan might have been seriously injured. But he didn't miss it.

"Keys of the Righteous"

Ince-Paramount Picture, Starring Enid Bennett. Reviewed by L. J. Bournstein

ENID BENNETT'S first Paramount picture, if taken as a criterion of what her work will be in the future, promises to bring that star to the fore rather rapidly. With one of the most absorbing stories provided in some time the picture is, probably, drama in its finest and tensest form; not the overdone or often abused melodrama, but simply of the type that holds the audience until the last scene. As Mary Manning, a girl brought up with little love, but amid much hatred and bitterness, the star from the Antipodes gives an entirely human interpretation of the character. Alone in the solitudes of the great lumber camps of the west, Mary had known few happy moments and the caring of an invalid mother was the cause of much grief. A stern and unrelenting grandfather and a derelict father are the causes of the girl's unhappiness and how the two men are finally brought together makes an exceptionally gripping story.

Miss Bennett is assisted by George Nichols and Joser Swickard as the estranged father and son and Earl Rodney, the one man who brought happiness into her life. Jerome Storm directed under supervision of Thos. H. Ince.

I'll have no strangers around my house.

The story: Mary Manning lives in a lonely cabin with her invalid mother and stern grandfather. Mary had learned the story of how her mother had come to the cabin very ill and deserted by her husband. Mary's mother had been sickly for some time, but longed to see her husband before she died. Peter Manning, the grandfather, had been bitter for years because his son had married, and had taken his wife into his home only because of the baby, Mary. Tom Gale, a young lumberman, meets Mary and brings a little happiness to the girl.

In a nearby city Paul Manning, the father, is discharged from court with a reprimand; his continual drunkenness is a source of great discomfort for the judge, who believes that Manning could better his life. Manning comes to the cabin and sees his wife who, unable to stand the shock of his sudden reappearance, dies, leaving Mary alone with her father. He leaves the cabin and returns to the city and Mary, fearful lest harm come to him, takes some money from her grandfather and follows her father. The old man discovers the discrepancy and follows the girl. In the city Mary finds her father in a dance hall and saloon and while there with him the place is raided. In court Mary takes the blame, but the judge is able to see her sacrifice. The grandfather explains the cause of his son's downfall and takes the blame for it. And so father and son return home together and Mary finds complete happiness in the unselfish love of Gale.

"The City of Purple Dreams"

Thomas Santschi in Selig State Rights Production. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

CHICAGO is "The City of Purple Dreams" of this story. But viewers expecting to see the Windy City presented in so romantic a guise as this attractive title leads them to expect will be disappointed. The pleasanter features of Our Village have been ignored; instead the more sordid phases are emphasized and the production falls into the "underworld story" class, dealing with derelicts, anarchists and the like. It will recall somewhat "Beware of Strangers," the crook play made by Selig some time ago with the same cast and director, but it is not so vivid or well produced an offering.

Colin Campbell directed this from a novel. Mr. Campbell, in previous successes, notably "The Spoilers," "The Crisis" and "The Garden of Allah," has shown a rare talent for transferring the very spirit of a book from printed page to screen. We are inclined to think the reason this play falls so far below his usual high standard is that the book itself was not worth while. For one thing, it is not up to date. It pictures a Chicago of a past decade, although the time is supposedly the present. The events are not convincing and the sub-titles are written in a melodramatic, dime-novel style. The sets and photography, with the exception of some clear and attractive exteriors, are mediocre.

The players, especially Thomas Santschi, Bessie Eyton and Fritzi Brunette, do good work, as they usually do. They are handicapped by the story, which makes them do unreal things.

As presented at the Ziegfeld Theater, Michigan avenue, Chicago, this photoplay did not seem to be making a very favorable impression. It will meet with more success with a less high class clientele. Patrons with a taste for melodramatic underworld stories will be entertained by this picture, and of course in the Chicago territory it will draw because of its local color. In itself, the story is not uninteresting to those who care nothing for probability and to whom the derelict's rapidly mounting thermometer of wealth is at all plausible. It has some unexpected twists and its characters are not hackneyed. It has a ferocious fight, too, for those interested in physical encounters. But as a whole it is a play for an uncritical, middle class audience.

The story: Daniels arrives in Chicago penniless and discouraged. An automobile nearly runs him down and he angrily drags the chauffeur from behind the wheel when the girl in the car (Bessie Eyton) interferes. She gives Daniels a dollar, telling him that he is the dirtiest man she ever saw and ordering him to get clean and stay clean.

Daniels chances into a meeting of anarchists that night and is struck by their principle of taking from the world what they want. He begins to dream of a worth while future and the girl of the automobile plays the leading part in his dream.

Olga, a young Russian girl in the anarchist society, falls in love with Daniels but he thinks only of the wealthy girl. Setting out to acquire a fortune, he begins as a dish-washer and the picture shows the various steps, not all of them very legitimate, by which he becomes a power in the stock exchange. He meets the girl again and wins her heart but her father objects to their marriage. So Daniels gets the father into his power and ruins him financially. Olga, fired by jealousy, interferes and nearly wrecks the romance but in the end the lovers are reconciled.

"The Song of Songs"

Artcraft Feature, Starring Elsie Ferguson. Released February 11. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

AS a vehicle to exploit the exceptional dramatic ability of Elsie Ferguson, it is doubtful if a more fitting one than "The Song of Songs" could have been selected. Miss Ferguson has greatly strengthened her position since her advent into the realms of the screen world. As Lily Kardos, a child of poverty-stricken parents, the star gives an entirely comprehensible interpretation and her work throughout the picture is of the highest grade.

Fate brings Lily and Calkins together.

The staging of the picture is on a lavish scale and nothing was spared to make it as near to perfection as possible. The photography is of the best seen in some time, although devoid of any special effects. The late Joseph Kaufman directed and as his final effort before the last call has achieved another well deserved success. The supporting cast, headed by Frank Losee and Crauford Kent, have left nothing open to criticism and withal the picture is one of the finest.

The story: Anselm Kardos, a composer, becomes disgusted with his wife, a morbid drunkard, and leaves home; his daughter Lily keeps his composition, "The Song of Songs," as an ode to perfect love. The mother dies and Lily secures employment in a curio shop and in time meets Ex-Senator Calkins, a wealthy man about town. He uses every means of winning Lily and finally proposes marriage. Lily accepts.

In her new home in the country Lily meets Dick Laird and an animated friendship brings jealousy to Calkins. A scheming housekeeper, once a victim of Calkins, plans revenge and one night causes Lily and Laird to be found together. Calkins divorces her and Laird gives her his home. Introduced to a fast set, Lily meets Bennett, a high-minded young man, and they fall in love. He proposes and Lily, refusing, confesses the story of her life, but Bennett is willing to forget the past. His uncle, however, thinks otherwise, and plans to break the attachment; at a private dinner he plies Lily with wine until she is in a bad state of intoxication. This mortifies Bennett, who is convinced of her many faults. Lily returns to Laird and is visited by Bennett, making a last appeal for her hand in marriage. Lily convinces him that it would be wrong and accepts the promise of Laird to become her husband.

"The Forbidden Path"

Fox Film Production, Starring Theda Bara. Released February 3. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

THIS latest vehicle for the queen of film vampires is not an altogether improbable phase of the depths of human degradation and the character around whom the story is woven is one that gives Miss Bara an opportunity to exhibit her unlimited capability. Somewhat different from her recent portrayals of "Cleopatra" and "DuBarry," yet equally as effective, the character of Mary Lynde is one of the best interpretations the star has done. As Mary she is seen in all the vividness and power that has made her such a universal favorite. From her life as a tenement girl, brought up amid Puritanical atmosphere, Mary is thrown upon a new world of luxury and comfort by the man who deserts her after the birth of her child. And then from the heights of her existence she is brought to the depths of degradation, lower than she had been before her new life began; once more to rise and, before the people the girl had longed to meet, the man is denounced in all his vileness and duplicity.

What has already been said about the star's work cannot be greatly augmented, and mention must be made of the good work done by Hugh Thompson as Robert Sinclair, the man responsible for leading the girl to the forbidden path. J. Gordon Edwards again directs and the masterly manner in which the situations have been handled promise another success for both director and star. The picture is in six reels.

The story: Mary Lynde is approached by a well known artist who induces her to pose for a painting of Madonna and child. In the studio she meets Robert Sinclair, whose father had given the artist the commission for the picture. Sinclair sees in her another prospect for his insidiousness and his marked attention is resented by Mary's father, who drives her from home.

Mary goes to Sinclair and under pretense of marriage he establishes her in his summer lodge in the mountains. Months later a child is born and Sinclair refuses to have anything more to do with Mary. She follows him to the city and the child dies. Mary sinks to the depths and a year later is one of the many vile creatures inhabiting an underworld resort.

The artist is commissioned to paint a picture depicting "Sin" and finds Mary, who is again induced to pose. Sinclair meets her in the studio and, fearful less he be exposed by her, again establishes Mary in luxurious quarters. Mary insists that he marry her, but he refuses, as he is engaged to a society belle. Threatening exposure, he is cajoled into consenting, and as she reaches the alter Mary unhesitatingly denounces Sinclair and reveals his implicity in her downfall. She throws his money in his face and refuses to marry him, having found solace in the sincere friendship of the artist. Sinclair pays the penalty of his perfidy while Mary asks a prayer that she may be forgiven.

"Keith of the Border"

Triangle Picture, Starring Roy Stewart. Released February 17. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

ANOTHER tale of the west, abounding in adventure and touched off with a bit of mystery, is the Triangle picture—"Keith of the Border"—adapted from the novel of the same name. The Texas desert and plains constitute the locale and the daring raiders and hold-up men of the border furnish the excitement. The action of the plot runs smoothly and events lead up to a startling conclusion. Keith is a member of the Rangers, a body of state police whose duty it is to preserve order in the many isolated towns along the border. He stumbles upon a mystery which leads him into many adventures, finally culminating in a terrific fist battle with a member of the outlaw gang he had been trying to break up. The point of mystery is the discovery of a young lady in a lonely cabin who bears a remarkable resemblance to a girl in town. This similarity proves a means by which the outlaws are apprehended and the two girls are revealed as sisters.

Roy Stewart is excellent as the ranger Keith and is convincing in his role. Josie Sedgewick enacts the double role of Hope Waite and Christie McClaire. Although there is only one instance of the two characters being on the screen at the same time, the work is creditable and little, if any, fault can be found. Black Bart, the villain, is ably interpreted by Norbert Cills, while the rest of the cast do equally as acceptable work.

The story: Jack Keith is assigned the mission of running down a band of criminals known as border wolves and riding across the desert finds the bodies of two victims of the band. After burying the men he rides to town where the Wolves, to cover their crime, fasten the guilt on Keith. Incited by Black Bart, the townsmen prepare to lynch Keith, but he escapes from jail with Black Bart and his gang in pursuit. Coming upon a lonely cabin, Keith meets Hope Waite, who had been brought there by Black Bart under pretense of meeting her father, for whom she had been searching. Keith takes her to a nearby town, where he discovers that Black Bart had intended to pass her off as a missing heiress. Keith frustrates the plot and learns that the heiress is a girl known as Christie, who bears a remarkable resemblance to the girl he had rescued. Hope is induced to pose as Christie and Black Bart, unaware of the deception, tells her of the plan and turns the papers over to her. Hope learns that she is the real heiress. In the meantime the real Christie turns up and Bart sees the deception. He kidnaps Hope but Keith follows in pursuit with a sheriff's posse. In a bloody fist fight Keith gets the best of it and Hope and Christie are revealed as sisters. His mission complete, Keith is about to leave but thinks of Hope and changes his mind.

"Which Loved Him Best?"

Edna Goodrich in Mutual Feature of February 4. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS latest Edna Goodrich feature is the most interesting and in many ways the best produced of the series. One element prominent in its composition is always sure-fire with the average audience—glimpses behind the scenes at the real lives of players and artists and other inhabitants of the land of Bohemia. The scenes which take place in a motion picture studio, an artist's studio and the cafes of the Greenwich Village quarter of New York City are pleasingly portrayed and have an air of reality. The story, too, is interesting.

Miss Goodrich follows her usual custom of wearing a variety of very striking costumes. Her role, that of a motion picture actress who gives up her own career to aid the artist she loves, is the most fitting one she has had recently, and she makes the most of the opportunity it gives. Her style of acting is in keeping with the character. The entire cast, however, even the child player, seems to have caught the rather artificial manner of the star, and as a result lack spontaniety. Otherwise there is little to criticise in the offering and much to praise.

Dell Henderson directed the play. Herbert Evans, Frank Otto, Charles Martin, Mirial Folger, Burt Busby, Nadia Cary, Thomas Wallace and Francois Du Barry are in the cast.

The story: Doria Dane, a motion picture star, meets George Steele, a talented sculptor of Greenwich Village, who sees in her a source of inspiration, and obtains her consent to pose for him. Doria is attracted by his personality and genius, despite his irresponsible mode of life. Mrs. Schuyler, a wealthy widow, who maintains a "Bohemian" salon, is interested in George and is jealous of Doria's influence over him.

Harry North, a sculptor whose studio adjoins Steele's, courts Mrs. Schuyler's favor and is jealous of her preference for George and his superior talent. Under the influence of Doria, who has sacrificed her career for him, George achieves success, and with success comes egotism and neglect of Doria. At the Greenwich Village Bazaar, George's attentions to Mrs. Schuyler convinces Doria that he has tired of her, and she returns to the studio, intending to leave a message for him that she is leaving his life forever. Entering the studio, she discovers North copying Steele's model for a statue of "America Militant," which he has completed for a prize competition, and which he considers his masterpiece.

Some days later, when friends are in Steele's studio, admiring the statue, Doria enters and with a hammer smashes the masterpiece, stating that in that fashion Steele had ruined her life. Steele acknowledges his unfairness, and begs Doria's forgiveness for his neglect. She grants it, then reveals the fact that it was Harry North's copy she had ruined, not the original work.

"The Wife He Bought"

Carmel Myers and Kenneth Harlan in Bluebird Photoplay. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

CARMEL MYERS and Kenneth Harlan enact their roles in an interesting fashion in this picture, which is taken from a story by Larry Evans, entitled "One Clear Call." The main situation, upon which the story is founded, seems improbable, but if we grant that the hero would marry his enemy's daughter, merely for revenge, the working out of the story from that point is well handled. Harlan has a rather artificial role, but he acts it cleverly. Carmel Myers, as the wife, is very good.

The direction, by Harry Solter, is first class. Harvey Gates arranged the scenario, and the story is well portrayed. The photography and settings are satisfactory. The story will have appeal for most audiences. It is not risque or over-emotional. Its scenes are handled with good taste throughout, and it is the sympathetic, human note which is emphasized.

The story: Hutch Valiant faced ruin at the hands of his business enemy, James Brieson. The shock of the disgrace killed him. Steele Valiant, his son, vows vengeance upon Brieson. Finally he ruins Brieson and threatens to send him to jail. Janice Brieson, the daughter, has shown her contempt of Valiant, and the young man tells Brieson that he will save him only if he will give him his daughter. Brieson refuses, but Janice offers to marry Valiant to save her father.

After their marriage, Valiant, who hates Janice as well as her father, treats her with coldness and contempt. Janice grows to pity Valiant because of his loneliness. She tries to soften his disposition, but is unsuccessful and leaves him. Valiant becomes jealous of one of Janice's friends, but later he learns that Janice cared nothing for the man. In his relief, he realizes that he loves his wife. He goes to her, rescues her from a wrecked yacht, and the two are reconciled.

"The Planter" a Good Attraction, Exhibitors Report

The tremendous success of "The Planter," the big Mutual Special production based on Herman Whitaker's striking story of life on a Mexican rubber plantation, in which the eminent Shakesperian actor, Tyrone Power, is starred, is reflected in returns from exhibitors.

Power's virile and masterly characterization of the brutal planter in this strange, exotic story of the tropics, is one of the really forceful screen delineations on record. His adventure into filmdom proves that he is without a peer in certain roles, and his interpretation for the screen loses little of the strength that is his on the spoken stage.

The box office drawing power of this production shows what can be done when the genius of the actor is allied with that of the producer in filming a literary masterpiece. Whitaker's novel was acclaimed as one of the most vivid expositions of Mexican plantation life ever written, and created a sensation when published in 1910. His book was the result of long residence in Mexico, and the story is of life as he observed it first-hand.

The services of more than two hundred men and women are involved in the production, while the cost exceeded $250,000. A brilliant cast, a strong story and gorgeous tropical scenery combine to make this a powerful attraction.

Exhibitors who have shown "The Planter" are enthusiastic over it and report record-breaking box office receipts, and in many instances request return bookings.

Frank I. Frayne, manager of the Palace Theater, Schenectady, N. Y., which is affiliated with the Strand, New York City, writes under a recent date:

"It is with pleasure that I hand you herewith our check for 'The Planter.' You may refer any exhibitor to me and I will be pleased to give 'The Planter' a strong boost because it's a good feature and will 'get the money' for any house."

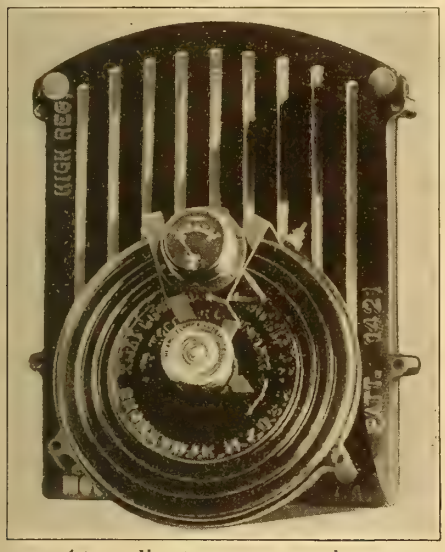
Within a period of thirty days one hundred and thirty-five representative houses played "The Planter" for runs of three days to a week and without exception reported big business.

Duncan Escapes Awful Death

William Duncan, with his desire for realism even in the most dangerous of stunts, narrowly escaped death during the filming of a scene for Vitagraph's serial, "Vengeance—and the Woman."

Duncan insisted upon going down to his arm pits in quicksand, but after the scene was made the company discovered it was going to be a difficult matter to haul him out. Joe Ryan threw a rope around Duncan's shoulders and all pulled, but to no avail.

One rope broke. The second and last one available was tied to the saddle of Ryan's horse, however, and Duncan finally was pulled to solid earth. Wounds caused by the rope cutting into the flesh of his shoulders were dressed by a physician and he is able again to direct and play in the picture.



Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO OBTAIN THE BEST RESULTS DESCRIBED IN DETAIL

Projection by Mazda Lamps Practical

Gives Soft and Pleasing Picture, Eliminating Flicker of the Arc, and There Never Is Any Carbon Dust

EVIDENTLY THE OLD CARBON ARC, for all the service it has rendered for lo, these many years, is in disfavor. It is merely tolerated for want of a superior substitute. That is demonstrated by the extraordinary interest manifested by exhibitors in the article, published January 19, on "Mazda Lamps for Motion Picture Projection." It is plain to see that the idea of discarding the open carbon flame and using in its place the familiar glass bulb is highly popular. For everybody knows that the modern incandescent lamp, with its total absence of bad habits, is well-night perfect.

Argus direct current regulator.

Therefore we hasten to assure our thousands of inquiring readers that projection by Mazda lamps is a reality—a practical procedure ready to be adopted by all enterprising exhibitors.

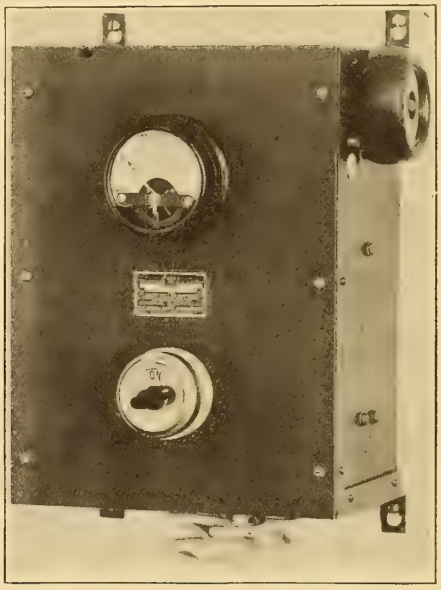
Just as a reminder of the benefits they will gain by installing Mazda outfits, we present here, at the risk of repeating ourselves, a few of the advantages.

The quality of light from a Mazda lamp is one important feature that might not occur to the theater man who thought only of escaping from the troubles of the arc. Mazda light approaches the ideal in tone and color. It gives a soft and pleasing picture on the screen. It contributes to its pictures a greater depth than is possible with the arc, with a notable absence of harshness.

It eliminates the annoying flicker of the arc—which is always blamed on the picture itself by unthinking persons. The so-called "arc travel" familiar to alternating current users is, of course, wholly absent; and so the light on the screen is always even and uniform. The hiss and hum of the arc is gone, too.

There is no carbon dust from the Mazda lamp. That saves not only the fine mechanism of the projecting machine, but the tissues of the operator's lungs and throat. The operator also escapes the carbon monoxide gas generated by the carbon arc. There is no "feeding" to be done, no adjustments to make; and that alone makes for better projection, because it gives the operator time for a higher class of work.

There is a considerable direct saving by the use of Mazda projection, since the arc uses 2,000 to 4,000 watts, against a maximum of 1,200 for the Mazda. This difference is net on alternating current, using a regulator. It is somewhat less on direct current, using the d. c. regulators, but still well worth while.



It is announced by the Argus Lamp and Appliance Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, that the Sheck universal adapter, when properly installed, will adapt any make of carbon-arc motion picture projection machine to use any type of Mazda projector lamp on the market. This adapter is a complete lamp house in itself and fits on the front of any existing make of carbon-arc machine so that any type of Mazda projector lamp may be properly focused in it for successfully projecting motion pictures in place of the carbon arc, within the limitations of the different types of Mazda projector lamps.

Exterior view of all models of the Sheck universal adapter.

At the present time there are three models, and other models will be announced as the Mazda lamp manufacturers announce other types of Mazda projector lamps.

The Model "A" Sheck universal adapter is designed only for the proper operation of the 20-ampere, 28-30-volt 600-watt Mazda projector lamp in the T-20 bulb. This type of lamp is supplied by all the different lamp manufacturers or their agents.

Argus alternating current regulator.

The Model "B" Sheck universal adapter is designed for the operation of the 30-ampere, 25-volt, 750-watt Mazda lamp supplied by the Mazda lamp manufacturers or their agents.

The Model "C" Sheck universal adapter is designed for the operation of the 30-ampere, 40-volt, 1200-watt Mazda projector lamp supplied at present by only one Mazda lamp manufacturer.

Existing compensarcs, transformers, rheostats and economizers used for the operation of present carbon-arc equipment, will not do for the correct operation of Mazda projector lamps for motion picture projection.

Argus Current Regulators for the proper operation of Mazda projector lamps have been designed under the supervision and approval of the Mazda lamp engineers.

It is important not to attempt to op-

up and Bart sees the deception. He kidnaps Hope but Keith follows in pursuit with a sheriff's posse. In a bloody fist fight Keith gets the best of it and Hope and Christie are revealed as sisters. His mission complete, Keith is about to leave but thinks of Hope and changes his mind.

"Which Loved Him Best?"

Edna Goodrich in Mutual Feature of February 4. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS latest Edna Goodrich feature is the most interesting and in many ways the best produced of the series. One element prominent in its composition is always sure-fire with the average audience—glimpses behind the scenes at the real lives of players and artists and other inhabitants of the land of Bohemia. The scenes which take place in a motion picture studio, an artist's studio and the cafes of the Greenwich Village quarter of New York City are pleasingly portrayed and have an air of reality. The story, too, is interesting.

Miss Goodrich follows her usual custom of wearing a variety of very striking costumes. Her role, that of a motion picture actress who gives up her own career to aid the artist she loves, is the most fitting one she has had recently, and she makes the most of the opportunity it gives. Her style of acting is in keeping with the character. The entire cast, however, even the child player, seems to have caught the rather artificial manner of the star, and as a result lack spontaniety. Otherwise there is little to criticise in the offering and much to praise.

Dell Henderson directed the play. Herbert Evans, Frank Otto, Charles Martin, Mirial Folger, Burt Busby, Nadia Cary, Thomas Wallace and Francois Du Barry are in the cast.

The story: Doria Dane, a motion picture star, meets George Steele, a talented sculptor of Greenwich Village, who sees in her a source of inspiration, and obtains her consent to pose for him. Doria is attracted by his personality and genius, despite his irresponsible mode of life. Mrs. Schuyler, a wealthy widow, who maintains a "Bohemian" salon, is interested in George and is jealous of Doria's influence over him.

Harry North, a sculptor whose studio adjoins Steele's, courts Mrs. Schuyler's favor and is jealous of her preference for George and his superior talent. Under the influence of Doria, who has sacrificed her career for him, George achieves success, and with success comes egotism and neglect of Doria. At the Greenwich Village Bazaar, George's attentions to Mrs. Schuyler convinces Doria that he has tired of her, and she returns to the studio, intending to leave a message for him that she is leaving his life forever. Entering the studio, she discovers North copying Steele's model for a statue of "America Militant," which he has completed for a prize competition, and which he considers his masterpiece.

Some days later, when friends are in Steele's studio, admiring the statue, Doria enters and with a hammer smashes the masterpiece, stating that in that fashion Steele had ruined her life. Steele acknowledges his unfairness, and begs Doria's forgiveness for his neglect. She grants it, then reveals the fact that it was Harry North's copy she had ruined, not the original work.

"The Wife He Bought"

Carmel Myers and Kenneth Harlan in Bluebird Photoplay. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

CARMEL MYERS and Kenneth Harlan enact their roles in an interesting fashion in this picture, which is taken from a story by Larry Evans, entitled "One Clear Call." The main situation, upon which the story is founded, seems improbable, but if we grant that the hero would marry his enemy's daughter, merely for revenge, the working out of the story from that point is well handled. Harlan has a rather artificial role, but he acts it cleverly. Carmel Myers, as the wife, is very good.

The direction, by Harry Solter, is first class. Harvey Gates arranged the scenario, and the story is well portrayed. The photography and settings are satisfactory. The story will have appeal for most audiences. It is not risque or over-emotional. Its scenes are handled with good taste throughout, and it is the sympathetic, human note which is emphasized.

The story: Hutch Valiant faced ruin at the hands of his business enemy, James Brieson. The shock of the disgrace killed him. Steele Valiant, his son, vows vengeance upon Brieson. Finally he ruins Brieson and threatens to send him to jail. Janice Brieson, the daughter, has shown her contempt of Valiant, and the young man tells Brieson that he will save him only if he will give him his daughter. Brieson refuses, but Janice offers to marry Valiant to save her father.

After their marriage, Valiant, who hates Janice as well as her father, treats her with coldness and contempt. Janice grows to pity Valiant because of his loneliness. She tries to soften his disposition, but is unsuccessful and leaves him. Valiant becomes jealous of one of Janice's friends, but later he learns that Janice cared nothing for the man. In his relief, he realizes that he loves his wife. He goes to her, rescues her from a wrecked yacht, and the two are reconciled.

"The Planter" a Good Attraction, Exhibitors Report

The tremendous success of "The Planter," the big Mutual Special production based on Herman Whitaker's striking story of life on a Mexican rubber plantation, in which the eminent Shakesperian actor, Tyrone Power, is starred, is reflected in returns from exhibitors.

Power's virile and masterly characterization of the brutal planter in this strange, exotic story of the tropics, is one of the really forceful screen delineations on record. His adventure into filmdom proves that he is without a peer in certain roles, and his interpretation for the screen loses little of the strength that is his on the spoken stage.

The box office drawing power of this production shows what can be done when the genius of the actor is allied with that of the producer in filming a literary masterpiece. Whitaker's novel was acclaimed as one of the most vivid expositions of Mexican plantation life ever written, and created a sensation when published in 1910. His book was the result of long residence in Mexico, and the story is of life as he observed it first-hand.

The services of more than two hundred men and women are involved in the production, while the cost exceeded $250,000. A brilliant cast, a strong story and gorgeous tropical scenery combine to make this a powerful attraction.

Exhibitors who have shown "The Planter" are enthusiastic over it and report record-breaking box office receipts, and in many instances request return bookings.

Frank I. Frayne, manager of the Palace Theater, Schenectady, N. Y., which is affiliated with the Strand, New York City, writes under a recent date:

"It is with pleasure that I hand you herewith our check for 'The Planter.' You may refer any exhibitor to me and I will be pleased to give 'The Planter' a strong boost because it's a good feature and will 'get the money' for any house."

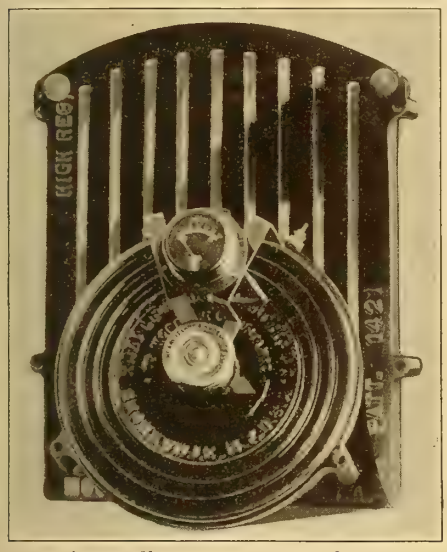
Within a period of thirty days one hundred and thirty-five representative houses played "The Planter" for runs of three days to a week and without exception reported big business.

Duncan Escapes Awful Death

William Duncan, with his desire for realism even in the most dangerous of stunts, narrowly escaped death during the filming of a scene for Vitagraph's serial, "Vengeance—and the Woman."

Duncan insisted upon going down to his arm pits in quicksand, but after the scene was made the company discovered it was going to be a difficult matter to haul him out. Joe Ryan threw a rope around Duncan's shoulders and all pulled, but to no avail.

One rope broke. The second and last one available was tied to the saddle of Ryan's horse, however, and Duncan finally was pulled to solid earth. Wounds caused by the rope cutting into the flesh of his shoulders were dressed by a physician and he is able again to direct and play in the picture.



Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO OBTAIN THE BEST RESULTS DESCRIBED IN DETAIL

Projection by Mazda Lamps Practical

Gives Soft and Pleasing Picture, Eliminating Flicker of the Arc, and There Never Is Any Carbon Dust

EVIDENTLY THE OLD CARBON ARC, for all the service it has rendered for lo, these many years, is in disfavor. It is merely tolerated for want of a superior substitute. That is demonstrated by the extraordinary interest manifested by exhibitors in the article, published January 19, on "Mazda Lamps for Motion Picture Projection." It is plain to see that the idea of discarding the open carbon flame and using in its place the familiar glass bulb is highly popular. For everybody knows that the modern incandescent lamp, with its total absence of bad habits, is well-night perfect.

Argus direct current regulator.

Therefore we hasten to assure our thousands of inquiring readers that projection by Mazda lamps is a reality—a practical procedure ready to be adopted by all enterprising exhibitors.

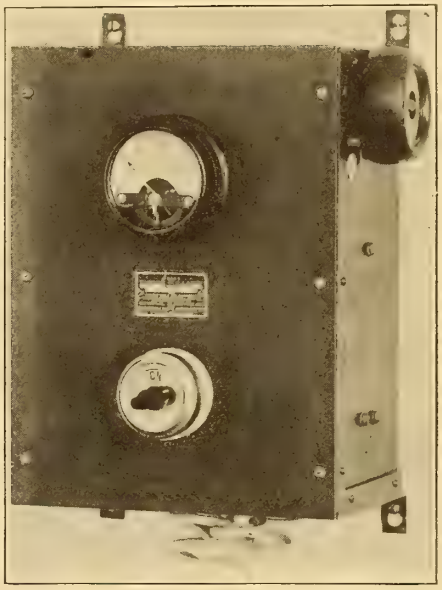
Just as a reminder of the benefits they will gain by installing Mazda outfits, we present here, at the risk of repeating ourselves, a few of the advantages.

The quality of light from a Mazda lamp is one important feature that might not occur to the theater man who thought only of escaping from the troubles of the arc. Mazda light approaches the ideal in tone and color. It gives a soft and pleasing picture on the screen. It contributes to its pictures a greater depth than is possible with the arc, with a notable absence of harshness.

It eliminates the annoying flicker of the arc—which is always blamed on the picture itself by unthinking persons. The so-called "arc travel" familiar to alternating current users is, of course, wholly absent; and so the light on the screen is always even and uniform. The hiss and hum of the arc is gone, too.

There is no carbon dust from the Mazda lamp. That saves not only the fine mechanism of the projecting machine, but the tissues of the operator's lungs and throat. The operator also escapes the carbon monoxide gas generated by the carbon arc. There is no "feeding" to be done, no adjustments to make; and that alone makes for better projection, because it gives the operator time for a higher class of work.

There is a considerable direct saving by the use of Mazda projection, since the arc uses 2,000 to 4,000 watts, against a maximum of 1,200 for the Mazda. This difference is net on alternating current, using a regulator. It is somewhat less on direct current, using the d. c. regulators, but still well worth while.



It is announced by the Argus Lamp and Appliance Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, that the Sheck universal adapter, when properly installed, will adapt any make of carbon-arc motion picture projection machine to use any type of Mazda projector lamp on the market. This adapter is a complete lamp house in itself and fits on the front of any existing make of carbon-arc machine so that any type of Mazda projector lamp may be properly focused in it for successfully projecting motion pictures in place of the carbon arc, within the limitations of the different types of Mazda projector lamps.

Exterior view of all models of the Sheck universal adapter.

At the present time there are three models, and other models will be announced as the Mazda lamp manufacturers announce other types of Mazda projector lamps.

The Model "A" Sheck universal adapter is designed only for the proper operation of the 20-ampere, 28-30-volt 600-watt Mazda projector lamp in the T-20 bulb. This type of lamp is supplied by all the different lamp manufacturers or their agents.

Argus alternating current regulator.

The Model "B" Sheck universal adapter is designed for the operation of the 30-ampere, 25-volt, 750-watt Mazda lamp supplied by the Mazda lamp manufacturers or their agents.

The Model "C" Sheck universal adapter is designed for the operation of the 30-ampere, 40-volt, 1200-watt Mazda projector lamp supplied at present by only one Mazda lamp manufacturer.

Existing compensarcs, transformers, rheostats and economizers used for the operation of present carbon-arc equipment, will not do for the correct operation of Mazda projector lamps for motion picture projection.

Argus Current Regulators for the proper operation of Mazda projector lamps have been designed under the supervision and approval of the Mazda lamp engineers.

It is important not to attempt to operate Mazda projector lamps without properly designed regulators.

For alternating current service the Argus alternating current regulator is most efficient, transforming alternating current line voltage to the voltage and operating current of Mazda projector lamps at an efficiency of approximately 88 per cent.

For direct current service the Argus direct current regulator is designed for reducing the line voltage of direct current circuits to the voltage and operating current of Mazda projector lamps. These are not as efficient as Argus alternating current regulators, on account of the resistance dissipating considerable wattage.

General conditions under which carbon-arc motion picture propection machine arc lamps can be displaced by the present types of Mazda projector lamps as recommended by the Mazda lamp engineers after two years' successful experience, are as follows:

When alternating current is used: If a compensarc, transformer, economizer or rheostat is being used with the carbon-arc equipment the resulting screen intensity will be such that usually the Sheck universal adapter, with the present types of Mazda projector lamps, can be installed with very satisfactory and comparable screen illumination where the length of throw is less than 100 feet from the projection lens to the screen, if the size of the picture is no wider than 14 feet.

If alternating current service is used with a mercury-arc rectifier and less than 40 amperes of current is used at the arc, the same recommendation applies.

On direct current service: This means either direct current service secured from the line and at present controlled through a rheostat for the operation of the present carbon-arc equipment or where the line voltage is alternating current and direct current service is secured by the use of a motor generator set.

If exhibitors are now using 35 amperes of current or less at the arc, present types of Mazda projector lamps will produce satisfactory screen results where the length of throw does not exceed 90 feet and the width of the picture 14 feet, but not over 35 amperes.

It is important to secure information relating to present carbon-arc equipment and projection conditions before making definite statements or recommendations regarding the performance of present types of Mazda projector lamps. The recommendations given are entirely general and it is advisable to get complete information before making definite recommendations. The essential information to obtain is:

(1) The line voltage.

(2) Whether direct current or alternating current.

(3) If alternating current, find out if it is 60-cycle or 25-cycle service. Different types of Argus alternating current regulators are necessary for 60- and 25-cycle alternating current circuits.

(4) Secure information in reference to the kind of compensarc, transformer, economizer, rheostat or motor generator set in service at present.

(5) Length of throw from screen to projection lens.

(6) Size of the picture thrown on the screen (not the size of screen).

(7) Kind and description of screen.

(8) Size of projection lens used: No. 1, ¼ size, or No. 2, ½ size.

Oftentimes wider aperture lenses with Mazda projector lamps will secure increased screen illumination. Information blanks are furnished by the manufacturer for this purpose.

The cost of Mazda lamp renewals compares favorably with the cost of arc lamp carbons per 100 hours burning, as with Mazda lamps there is no extra expense for arc lamp parts, carbon jaws, etc. As the special prismatic lens used with Mazda lamps is made of high heat resisting glass there is practically no lens expense.

The saving in cost of current will average 75 per cent on alternating current service and the saving in current cost will soon pay for the Argus units and any increased cost for Mazda lamp renewals.

You Can Do Almost Anything with 'Em

Will a Ford Car Run a Picture Machine? Asks Reader —It Certainly Will, Motography's Expert Replies

By J. WESLEY SMITH

I AM ASKED this week, among other things, to tell whether an outfit consisting of a Ford automobile and a dynamo could be used to operate a projection machine. After writing an answer in the affirmative I learned that such a combination already has been used, but I am unable to supply the name of the exhibitor.

I am informed that my opinions, which were published in Motography for the first time last week, have brought very favorable comment from prominent theater owners. I am glad to know they like the department. I hope they avail themselves of the opportunity and ask all the questions that are puzzling them. I will be only too glad to give my answers.

Peggy Hyland as she appears in "The Debt of Honor," her first picture for William Fox.

Q.—Do you think an outfit consisting of a Ford car and a dynamo would make a satisfactory electric lighting outfit for a motion picture machine? If the Ford engine were used to run the dynamo, would it be necessary to buy very much in addition to make the outfit complete? What size dynamo would you recommend?

A.—You will be able to make quite a satisfactory lighting equipment with the Ford motor and generator. However, there are many things to be taken into consideration in order to get a steady light, and perhaps the most important one of all is the constant speed of the engine. This is absolutely necessary and there are many things which will slow the speed, as the speed of the engine is in direct proportion to the load, and the voltage will drop or rise as the speed of the motor drops or rises. You will have to purchase at least two pulleys and belt. You do not state what size picture you intend to show or how far the throw will be, but a 60 volt 35 amp. D. C. generator will probably be all that you will require, as this size of generator will give a good 12-foot picture up to 75 feet.

Q.—If possible, will you tell me what percentage of light is absorbed by different colored films?

A.—Taking the screen illumination as 100 per cent, the percentage of light absorption is approximately as follows:

Black and white	8 to 10 per cent.
Yellow	20 per cent.
Amber, light and dark	20 to 35 per cent.
Blue, light and dark	30 to 40 per cent.
Green	50 per cent.
Purple	60 to 65 per cent.
Orange	65 per cent.
Red	75 to 80 per cent.

What Theater Men Are Doing

NEWS OF EXHIBITORS WHO ARE SUCCEEDING—ARE YOU ONE?

This department of MOTOGRAPHY specializes in giving to exhibitors stories of the accomplishments of successful theater managers. If you have attempted any experiments and they have succeeded or failed write MOTOGRAPHY about it.

Chicago House Does Record Business

Theater Seating 390 Takes In $1,260 in One Day by Running from 9 a. m. to Midnight and Giving Fourteen Shows

TWELVE HUNDRED AND SIXTY DOLLARS in one day in a house seating three hundred and ninety persons! Impossible, you say; but is was actually done in Chicago—in the midst of the worst blizzard the windy city has ever known—and the achievement marks one of the most notable instances of business building co-operation ever recorded between an exhibitor and an exchange manager.

The picture was Pathe's five reel official war film, "The German Curse in Russia," the exhibitor, Harry Thompson of the Pastime on Madison street, and the exchange man, R. O. Proctor of Pathe.

Here's how it was done:

Proctor had a big offer for one week at another house, but he decided that seven days was not a long enough time. So he talked to Mr. Thompson about an extended run.

The capacity of Mr. Thompson's theater is exactly 390 and his regular price of admission is 10 cents. However, Mr. Proctor showed Mr. Thompson in black and white where he could charge 25 cents, open his theater at 9 o'clock in the morning, put on an entertainment running an hour and 5 minutes and by closing at midnight play 14 full performances.

Having sold the exhibitor, Mr. Proctor did not stop there, but went out to help him. He created a public demand first by showing the picture at private screenings to aldermen and judges, to the exclusive Union League Club, to the strongest political organization in the city, the Hamilton club, to the Elks in their new home, the occasion prompting the exalted ruler to send out invitations to Elks in the adjoining states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana, as well as to all the lodges in Illinois, and to the highest Army and Navy officials from the Great Lakes Training station and army headquarters.

At the expiration of two weeks, the time consumed in this advance campaign, mouth-to-mouth advertising was making "The German Curse in Russia" a household word.

Here is a telegram telling the result:

"We opened with 'German Curse in Russia' Monday to largest business this house has enjoyed in twelve years of operation on Madison Street. More favorable comments on this picture—applause and cheers—from spectators than on any picture we have ever played. Chicago is a big city, but everybody—exhibitors and public alike—are talking about this production. My congratulations to Pathe.—Harry Thompson, Manager Pastime Theater."

Theaters Get School Aid

San Diego, Cal., has a better films committee which co-operates with exhibitors in this effective fashion:

When a theater manager has a film he considers especially suitable for children he telephones the chairman, Mrs. L. J. Rice, who sends three of her committee to see the picture. If they approve of it, announcement is made in the public schools. This permission has been granted by the board of education.

The plan is one which might be tried with success in other cities and towns and would aid the exhibitor in solving the problem of drawing the right people to see the many beautiful productions now made for children and young people.

City Boosts License Fee

The city council of Saskatoon, Canada, has increased the annual license fee for picture theaters. For houses seating more than 1,000, the fee is increased from $150 to $250; for houses of 500 to 1,000 seating capacity from $100 to $150. Those with less than 500 seats will continue under the old rate of $50 per year. This tax is in addition to the license fee imposed by the Province of Saskatchewan, which is also to be increased this year.

A dramatic moment in "Madam Jealousy," Pauline Frederick's current picture for Paramount.

Turn Theaters Over for Worship

Indiana Exhibitors Show Patriotism by Permitting Services to Be Held So Churches Can Close and Save Coal

THEATER OWNERS OF INDIANA not only have complied with all orders of the various fuel administrations without a murmur, but in some instances threw open their houses for divine worship so the churches could save coal.

At Goshen, where the Jefferson theater was used for union services, it was estimated that more persons were present than ordinarily would have attended their respective churches.

So far as is known the closing orders worked very little havoc with general revenues, for where some empty seats might have been evident at performances before the fuel orders applied, every big theater now is full to the brim on nights they are allowed to remain open.

Many houses were in dire need of fuel during the recent cold wave. It practically was impossible to obtain any large supplies of fuel during those days and unless a big stock was on hand the theaters were forced to close. Many houses in the small towns hurriedly obtained supplies of wood to use as a substitute for coal. Most of the larger theaters in Indianapolis were successful in obtaining coal. In some instances, however, the theaters were cold.

The coming of warmer weather relieved the situation. Large stocks of coal will be laid in by all the theaters this spring and summer, the managers say, as they realize that if the war continues another year, it will be up to them to obtain all the coal they need for next winter before the winter sets in.

Clara Kimball Young as she appears in the new Select picture, "The House of Glass."

Fight for Sunday Shows

The Sunday closing question has been re-opened in Birmingham, Ala., and the fight threatens to surpass those of former days. A year ago a campaign was started in that city by a group of radicals who wished to close the theaters on Sunday, but permission was granted the managers to continue Sunday shows until it was decided whether their influence was good or bad. Nothing further was done until February 5, when a committee from the Birmingham Pastors' Union and laymen of the various churches appeared before the city commission and asked that body to discontinue the operation of Sunday theaters. Exhibitors see a hot fight before them.

Two Tickets in Election

At a meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, the nominating committee made the following report:

Red Ticket—F. L. Emmert, president; A. G. Hettesheimer, first vice-president; J. A. Ackerman, second vice-president; John J. Huss, treasurer; Frank Willenborg, sergeant-at-arms.

Blue Ticket—I. W. McMahan, president; Otto Dieckmann, first vice-president; John J. Huebner, Jr., second vice-president; Otto Luedeking, treasurer; William H. Wilson, sergeant-at-arms.

The league will meet in the near future and elect its officers from these candidates.

Runs Film Three Weeks

A telegram received at the New York headquarters of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation announces that Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles has just started on its third week's run of the new Douglas Fairbanks-Artcraft picture, "A Modern Musketeer," which was produced under the direction of Allan Dwan several months ago in the Grand Canyon. It is stated that the business on this picture has been so tremendous that the Auditorium will perhaps hold the feature over for four weeks.

May Hold Sunday Shows

Exhibitors in New London, Conn., may be granted the right to hold Sunday shows as a war-time measure, with a view to meeting the recreation needs of the many soldiers and sailors in the neighborhood of that city, according to Orrin G. Cocks, advisory secretary of the Motion Picture Board of Review, who has completed a tour of eastern cities near training camps.

Mutual-Chaplins Popular

Keith's Theater at Buffalo has hit a high mark with the series of twelve Mutual-Chaplin comedies. The entire series has been repeated eight times, a total of 96 runs from twelve releases.

Gets Big Crowds by Using Telephone

Oregon Exhibitor Invites Every One in Town to See "Man Without a Country" and the Majority Respond

A. H. McDONALD, owner of the Rex Theater, Eugene, Ore., does not believe in sitting around and waiting for business to come to him.

Having been in the moving picture field for a number of years, he insists that while it may have been the practical thing back in the prophet Elijah's time to wait for the ravens to feed you, you've got to go after business with both fists a'swinging if you want to start things coming your way.

The other day McDonald ran the Jewel production, "The Man Without a Country," to a capacity business. This, in spite of the tales of woe concerning poor industrial conditions that others in his section of the country were relating. The reason for his success was due to a spirit of aggressiveness plus a telephone. McDonald pays a fixed monthly rental for his phone. Realizing that he had booked an attraction possessing more than ordinary interest, he promptly took steps to tell all the folks owning phones in his town about the picture. They were interested. They thanked him for his thoughtfulness and promised to be on hand when the feature was shown. What was more important, the majority did come.

Of course it was a trifle hard on the telephone girls. Some of them have threatened to quit the next time McDonald decides to use his phone as a first aid to business. But the Oregonian exhibitor proposes to make use of this novel medium just as often as he has a picture that is worth boosting.

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Notables See "The Crucible of Life"

Many Are Guests of Sawyer and Lubin at Banquet in Churchill's Restaurant at New York

MANY NOTABLES of the film world attended a private premiere of "The Crucible of Life" at Churchill's restaurant, New York City, a few days ago as the guests of Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, who are disposing of the state rights.

Being a patriotic film, Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin presented the play with appropriate music. Through special permission the Camp Upton quartette was present. Together with Private Frederick Rath, author of the famous war song, "When the Moon is Shining Somewhere in France," the Camp Upton quartette scored a tremendous hit.

Following the picture an elaborate dinner was served during the course of which entertainment was furnished by William McKenna in a pianologue and song routine, Sam Ryan, legitimate star and screen actor, and a jazz band. The occasion was marked by the absence of speeches and formality and those present voted the affair one of the most enjoyable they ever attended.

Among the guests were Richard A. Rowland, president of the Metro Pictures Corporation; Joseph Engle and William E. Atkinson, treasurer and business manager respectively, for Metro; J. Skirboll of Pittsburgh; Conrad Milliken, vice-president of the Petrova Picture Company; J. F. Bacon of Sanger and Jordan; L. M. Day of Washington, D. C.; W. E. Drummond of Knoxville, Tenn.; Herman Rifkin of Boston; W. Witney of the American Standard Film Company; C. Westfall of the Atlantic Film Corporation; H. A. Gillespie, president of Frank Brockliss Company, Inc.; H. C. Walton of Sanger and Jordan; William H. Rudolph of the Clara Kimball Young Company; Walter H. Jordan of Sanger and Jordan; William Sherril of the Frohman Amusement Company and Leslie Ennis of the National City Bank.

Goldburg Expands Business

Jesse J. Goldburg, state rights distributor of Independent attractions, has returned to New York from a tour of the United States investigating the state rights market and forming connections with independent exchanges.

Contracts were signed whereby Mr. Goldburg was made sole buying representative for one year for A. H. Blank of Des Moines, Iowa, for the territory of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska; the consolidated Film Corporation of San Francisco, Cal., for California, Arizona, Nevada and the Hawaaian islands; the consolidated Film Corporation of Seattle, for Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana; the Unity Photoplay Company of Chicago, for Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin; and the Standard Film Corporation of Minnesota; the Standard Film Corporation of Missouri; and the Van Dyke Amusement Enterprises of Illinois, jointly for the combined territory of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

Mr. Goldburg has also made arrangements to represent Sidney Lust of Washington, D. C. Mr. Lust operates in Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and North Carolina.

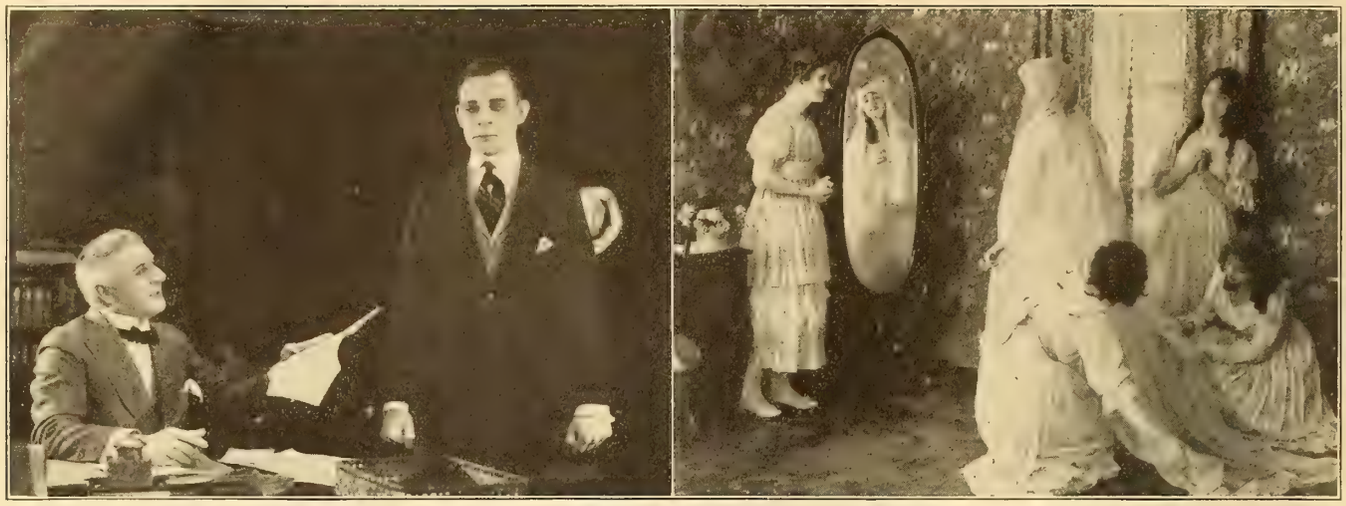
A laugh from the William Fox Sunshine comedy, "Are Married Policemen Safe?"

Titan Company Organized

The Titan Feature Photo Co., which will specialize in state rights, has been organized at Spokane.

The company is capitalized for $500,000. Nothing will be produced, it is said until the entire $500,000 is fully subscribed and paid into the treasury.

J. Don Alexander is president; Eugene De Smeth, vice president; R. E. Musser, treasurer, and H. G. Twomley, secretary.



Plans for discerning market needs, cooperative methods to be inaugurated between the Titan Company and state rights buyers, and terms of release will be announced later.

Ernest Shipman has been selected as the New York representative and will have entire charge of the Titan product, both in America and abroad.

It is rumored that four other independent companies—two in California, one in Florida, and one in Utah,—are organizing along similar lines.

New Film Exchange

New York exhibitors will be interested to learn that a new independent film exchange, the Magnet, with offices at 71 West Twenty-third street, has been organized for the purpose of booking super-productions. The Magnet already has acquired the rights to W. H. Production Company's first Hart super-feature, "The Two Gun Man," in "The Bargain." The New York City territory will be handled by Jesse Levine, formerly of the New York office of Metro.

Scenes from the Triangle play, "A Soul in Trust."

Gets Foreign Rights to All Crest Films

Robertson-Cole Company Makes Big Deal, Paying Record Price for "The Grain of Dust" at Same Time

ONE OF THE BIGGEST DEALS from a monetary standpoint transacted in the state rights field for some time was consummated last week when the Robertson-Cole company, European distributors, bought outright the Crest Picture Corporation's film version of David Graham Phillips' novel, "The Grain of Dust," for distribution in all countries abroad.

At the same time the European interests entered into a contract with Carle E. Carlton, President of Crest Pictures, for the foreign rights of all the pictures produced by the Crest organization.

It is said that a record cash price was paid by the Robertson-Cole company for "The Grain of Dust." An elaborate trade showing of the attraction will be given by the London office in Albert Hall at which a symphony orchestra will be employed to play the special score for the production.

This is the second of the Crest pictures for which the Robertson-Cole company has purchased the foreign rights, the other production being "The Lust of the Ages."

The purchase of both of these pictures was completed by Miss Edna Williams, general manager of the Robertson-Cole Company.

In addition to the foreign rights, announcement of the sale of several territories in this country will be made next week. The purchase of the rights has been completed and the announcement is only being withheld pending the determination of the release dates.

"The Grain of Dust" is already being distributed in the Pittsburg territory where the rights were purchased by the Liberty Film Renting Company.

"Warrior" Gets Big Crowds

Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, executives of General Enterprises, Inc., are in receipt of excellent reports from the various territories in which "The Warrior" is now playing.

C. F. Schwerin, general manager of the First National Exhibitors' exchange of Pittsburg, from whose office "The Warrior" is being distributed throughout Pennsylvania, writes as follows:

"Rowland & Clark's Regent Theater, the most beautiful house in Pittsburg, ran 'The Warrior' for three days, breaking all house records, and then repeated the picture for two days.

"Following this the Princess Theater at Jeannette, Pa., showed the spectacle for two days and with the temperature 10 below zero and a ten inch fall of snow, broke all records. The Princess has rebooked the picture.

"Joseph Lombarde of the Empire Theater, DuBois, Pa., played 'The Warrior' for three days and had to call the police reserves to take care of the crowds. He has already arranged to play the film again."

Finish "All 'Fur' Her"

The third of the series of Jester Comedies, "All 'Fur' Her," which is to be released in April, is now completed, and as soon as the cutting and titling has been finished, it will be given a screening for the critics.

"All 'Fur' Her" shows "Twede-Dan" in an entirely different line of comedy from that of "The Recruit" and "His Golden Romance." It is fast, furious and full of amusing situations, and no doubt will be as great a favorite as its predecessors.

Arrow to Handle Two Pathes

Through arrangements recently concluded between J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, and W. E. Shallenberger, President of the Arrow Film Corporation, the Arrow will act as exclusive agents for Pathe on the sale of state rights on the Pathe pictures "Today," with Florence Reed, and "The Mad Lover," with Robert Warwick.

The territory still unsold consists of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi.

Gets Rights to Hart Films

W. E. Drummond, owner of one of the principal state rights exchanges in the South, the special Features Company of Knoxville, Tenn., has been in New York for a week and has acquired the rights from W. H. Productions Company for two of the super Hart features. "The Bandit and the Preacher," and "The Hell Hound of Alaska" for Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Selig Sells Three Films

Arrangements have been made between C. L. Hull of Chicago and the E. & H. Film Distributing Company of Atlanta for the distribution of three big productions for the southeast, "The Spoilers," "Beware of Strangers" and "Who Shall Take My Life?

"Split Reel" Notes For Theater Men

SNAPPY ITEMS OF INTEREST TO OWNERS AND MANAGERS

SEVERAL changes in department heads have recently been made by J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc. Joseph Dunn of the publicity department, who has been with Pathe for something over a year, and as a former newspaper man has a wide acquaintance in New York City, has been placed in charge of the title editing department. Tarleton Winchester, who in addition to special sales and publicity work has been the editor of the Pathe Sun, has been put in Mr. Dunn's place. Tom North becomes editor of the Pathe Sun. Mr. North has been in charge of the Pathe super-feature department.

* * *

A panic was narrowly averted at the Academy of Music, Halifax, Nova Scotia, during a moving picture performance when a street car dashed down a hill and into the front of the theater. The accident occurred shortly after the theater had been re-opened following the great fire and explosion in December and the people were still more or less shaky. There was a big crash when the car struck the ticket booth and the audience leaped to its feet. Manager O'Connell used great presence of mind when he switched on all lights and announced quickly than only a large icicle had fallen from the roof.

* * *

Vitagraph and Anita Stewart, are engaged in a court contest to decide whether Miss Stewart can leave the company and go with Metro. Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph says he has done everything to please the star, going so far as to engage the leading man and directors she wanted. Mr. Smith declares, however, that she broke her contract. To this Miss Stewart replies that Vitagraph invalidated its own contract by failure to furnish her with an accounting of its receipts on her pictures. The star receives more than $100,000 a year.

* * *

Paramount soon will move from the Consumers' building, Chicago, to Wabash avenue and Ninth street. The change will be made as soon as remodeling of the Wabash avenue building is finished. Paramount is moving for two reasons. One is that it has outgrown its present quarters and the other is the growing strictness of loop building regulations. With business bounding ahead in big spurts and the building regulations tightening, Paramount decided that moving was the only alternative.

* * *

Sam Steinberg of the Omaha branch of the Universal Film Co., dropped in last week to see how film business was being conducted in the windy city. Mr. Steinberg claimed that there were more exhibitors in one day lounging about and visiting the fifteenth floor of the Consumers Bldg., where the Chicago office of the Universal Film Exchange is located, than there are in the Omaha exchange in a whole year.

* * *

I. Van Ronkel, who has resigned as manager for the Jewel and Bluebird photoplays, is now on a four weeks' tour of the "Sunny South." When asked before leaving what his plans were, he replied: "I haven't decided. I am not even going to think business, let alone talk business for the next month. Mrs. Van and myself are going to take a vacation for the first time in fourteen years and you can bet your life this isn't going to be a business trip."

* * *

Nat Rothstein, general publicity manager for the Universal Film Exchange, was a visitor at the Chicago branch of the Universal Film Company last week. He is a former Chicagoan and well known to exhibitors and film folks in this territory. Mr. Rothstein was returning from a flying visit to the Coast to bury his father.

* * *

Kentucky picture interests were dealt a hard blow a few days ago when Chief Justice Settle of the court of appeals ruled that Sunday shows are barred by the law. Under the decision theater owners may be fined $50 for each employe engaged in operating a show on the Sabbath. The decision was given in the case of the Capitol theater of Frankfort and upheld a fine of $51.

* * *

Charles Berman has been obtained to represent the United States Booking Corporation in Toronto, Canada. United States subjects are handled in Canada by the Superfeatures Ltd., of which Charles Stevens is president. It is the intention of the Superfeatures Ltd., to expand its organization. Other branch offices soon will be established in the Western part of the dominion.

* * *

Homer Howard, one of the most popular film men in the upper New York State district, has resigned as Buffalo representative of Paramount to join the sales forces of the United States Exhibitors' Booking Corporation. He will be in charge of the Buffalo district, making his headquarters in the Hoffman-Foursquare exchange there.

* * *

Max Cutler has joined the United States Exhibitors' Booking Corporation and has been assigned by the general sales manager, Lynn S. Card, to the Chicago office. Cutler has had much experience in the middle west.

* * *

John K. Grier who recently resigned as Canadian sales manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, has joined the sales staff of the United

Alice Joyce as she appears in the new Vitagraph film, "A Woman Between Friends."

Mae Marsh as she appears in her new Goldwyn picture, "The Beloved Traitor."

States Exhibitors' Booking Corporation and will supervise distribution in the Cleveland territory. Mr. Grier formerly served as manager of the Triangle exchange in that city and has a wide circle of friends among Ohio exhibitors.

✣ ✣ ✣

William L. Sherrill, president of the Frohman Amusement Corporation has returned to his offices from the corporation's Tampa, Fla., studios, where, for the last four weeks he has been lending his direct supervision to the production of "The Birth of a Race," which is being made with The Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation of Chicago. Three or four months more will be required to complete the play.

✣ ✣ ✣

The sales department of the home office of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation was increased last week by the addition of W. A. Bach as assistant to Sales Manager P. N. Brinch. Mr. Bach has just finished a five months' tour of the country for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company as representative of the general manager.

✣ ✣ ✣

Announcement is made of the reappointment of John M. Casey as mayor's license clerk of Boston. He is the only representative of Mayor Curley's administration left in office. Mr. Casey's duties include the regulation of motion pictures. He handles the duties of his office from an intensely human standpoint and is regarded as intelligent, fearless, fair and sympathetic.

✣ ✣ ✣

Engent Gerbase, formerly acting manager of the Denver branch of General, is now covering the northern part of the Denver territory and L. D. Prudy, formerly manager of the Salt Lake office, is covering the Salt Lake and southern half of the Denver territory.

✣ ✣ ✣

Charles W. Harden, one of the best known exchange managers in the south, has resigned as manager of the Atlanta office of Foursquare Pictures. The resignation was made necessary by the increasing business of the E. & H. Film Company, of which Mr. Harden is half owner.

✣ ✣ ✣

Earl Moore, a lieutenant in Battery F, First Indiana field artillery, who formerly was manager of the Indiana Union theater at Bloomington, writes home from "over there" that he is having thrills at the rate of ten years per week.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. A. Howe, who directed the Vitagraph Big V. Comedy, "Telephones and Troubles," claims a record for multiple exposures on one piece of film. Eight different exposures were made in some scenes showing eight persons talking to each other over the wires.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Masterpiece Film Attractions Company, which is known in connection with "The Garden of Allah" and other super-productions, has opened up a branch office in Cincinnatti with Leon D. Netter as manager.

✣ ✣ ✣

The opening of Crane Wilbur's new theater, the Wilbur Playhouse, in Oakland, California, was a great success. He presented "Cheating Cheaters" before a S. R. O. audience, and it went over big, so big in fact that he had to hold it over for another week.

✣ ✣ ✣

G. W. Whitney, who was manager of Mutual's Butte branch, resigned that position recently to take over the managerial reins at the Denver branch of General.

✣ ✣ ✣

A. H. McLaughlin has been appointed manager of Select's exchange at Kansas City. Mr. McLaughlin formerly was with the Vitagraph organization as manager of the Cincinnatti branch.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Rivoli theater of New York City is showing the first of a series of striking scenes taken in the Arctic regions. For certain reasons the source of the pictures has been kept secret.

✣ ✣ ✣

Theater men of Cadillac, Mich., have launched a campaign in favor of Sunday shows. Ministers and churches are fighting the move. Petitions both for and against Sunday shows are being circulated.

A. H. McLaughlin, Select's new manager at Kansas City.

✣ ✣ ✣

Between the Liberty Loan, Red Cross, War Savings stamps and other patriotic enterprises, Cincinnatti exhibitors are now devoting approximately twelve hours a week to helping win the war.

✣ ✣ ✣

W. T. McGarry, treasurer of the Canadian province of Ontario, says he does not intend to follow the policy of Manitoba in placing a ban on comedies.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Yorke Film Company of New York, a branch of Metro, has leased the Klutho studio in Jacksonville, Fla., for four months.

✣ ✣ ✣

Cleveland and Columbus exhibitors are conducting lip-reading contests.

Arizona Girl Thought a "Find"

Douglas Fairbanks believes in "finds" and Allen Dwan, supervising director, agrees with him. Their latest discovery is Ruth Mason, who worked in a men's furnishing store in Tucson, Ariz., where the Fairbanks company produced some of the exterior scenes of "Headin' South," the new Artcraft picture.

Miss Mason was among a hundred Tucson girls who welcomed Douglas to Arizona. She seemed to stand out alone among her friends and attracted Fairbanks' attention. That same day she was interviewed by Director Rosson and assigned to a small part that has since developed in production. It then became necessary to bring her to Los Angeles, where she is now a regular member of the Fairbanks company.

"All the girls in Tucson envied my opportunity," said Miss Mason. "I can hardly realize I am playing with Douglas Fairbanks."

Mary MacLaren Goes Back to Universal

On the eve of a court decision that has been awaited with considerable interest, Mary MacLaren, former Bluebird star, has signed a contract which gives the Universal Film Manufacturing Company the exclusive use of her services for several years.

Miss MacLaren left Universal about a year ago and it became known that an issue of great importance was involved—the right of a performer to claim as her own and so use a name expressly coined for her and popularized via paid publicity by the organization employing her.

In view of the amicable settlement it is doubtful now whether any decision will be given in court.

Latest News of Chicago

DETAILS of the Manufacturer to Exhibitor Direct Sales plan were explained to members of the Chicago Theater Owners' Association last week by C. C. Pettijohn, Harry Rapf and Frank J. Rembusch, national organizer of the American Exhibitors' Association.

The promoters of the new plan screened "Passing of the Third Floor Back," the latest release of Herbert Brenon, one of the pictures they have obtained for weekly distribution.

"These pictures are available to exhibitors whether large or small at prices so reasonable that not a single man should fail to book them," said Mr. Pettijohn in the course of his talk.

✣ ✣ ✣

Of interest to his many friends in the film business will be the announcement that Edwin Silverman will hereafter be associated with Select Pictures. Mr. Silverman is one of the best known and most youthful men in the Chicago film world, and earned for himself an enviable reputation while with the Universal Film Company at the head of Butterfly Pictures, and before that while with the V. L. S. E., under the I. Van Ronkel regime.

✣ ✣ ✣

Several one reel subjects being made in the interest of the Anti-Cigarette League of America, whose superintendent, Miss Lucy Page Gaston, is now conducting a campaign for 1,000,000 members, will be distributed through the Unity Photoplays Company. The films it is said, will have enough story interest, to make them worth showing even if they have no value as reform propaganda.

✣ ✣ ✣

At least two theaters had to close because of Chicago's fuel famine. The Temple at Lincoln and Belmont avenue, of which Louis Gumbiner is owner and Charles W. Cadwallader, manager, was one. It closed for a week. The other was the Clark at Clark street and Wilson avenue, which shut down four days. J. W. Brett is owner of the Clark.

* * *

Norma Talmadge in "Ghosts of Yesterday" is smashing all records for the Select office. Booked for a week at the Bijou, it proved such a good box office attraction that Bijou postponed its next feature and held "Ghosts of Yesterday" over for a second week.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Weiss of the Central Film Company departed from Chicago this week for another swing through Illinois. The object of his present trip is to exploit "The Fall of the Romanoffs," a First National Exhibitors' release for which the Central Film Company has the Illinois rights. Mr. Weiss also will visit Indiana on other matters.

✣ ✣ ✣

Celebrated Players has obtained "The Thirteenth Labor of Hercules" for Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The film already is enjoying successful runs at the Rose, Boston and Alcazar loop houses, and the twenty-one theaters on the Ascher Bros. and Lubliner & Trinz circuits.

✣ ✣ ✣

Louis B. Goulden of Celebrated Players has just returned from a five weeks' trip through Illinois, booking Christie comedies and features. Out of eight theaters in Rock Island five were running Christie comedies a week or so ago, Mr. Goulden reports.

✣ ✣ ✣

A. R. Nelson has been appointed Wisconsin representative of the Central Film Company. He has established headquarters at Milwaukee. Mr. Nelson comes to Central Film from the local sales force of Select.

✣ ✣ ✣

A. Friedman, manager of the Palace theater at Racine, Wis., disclosed during a visit to the Paramount office that he will read a paper before the Rotary club of Racine on "The Motion Picture Industry."

Katherine MacDonald, Douglas Fairbanks' new leading lady.

✣ ✣ ✣

Julius Bernheim, formerly manager of the Universal exchange at Minneapolis, is now connected with the sales force of the Chicago Universal exchange.

✣ ✣ ✣

Joe Kallison, formerly of Vitagraph and more recently of Paramount, is now booker at the Celebrated Players Film Co. and is busier than ever meeting his friends and lining them up with Christies and specials.

✣ ✣ ✣

Charles Schaver again is manager of the Dearborn theater, 41 West Division street. He has been away from the house for two years. Many old patrons told him they were glad to see him back.

✣ ✣ ✣

Frank J. Rembusch, national organizer of the American Exhibitors' association, is getting to be a steady caller in Chicago. He has been in the city twice now in two weeks.

✣ ✣ ✣

Bessie Love, Pathe star, delighted the Pathe forces by calling at the offices last week during a stopoff enroute to the coast.

✣ ✣ ✣

Leonard G. Rover, proprietor and manager of the Family theater at Dixon, Ill.. was one of the callers at the Paramount office last week.

✣ ✣ ✣

Johnny S. Mednikow, former manager of the independence theater and city salesman of Universal, is now one of the Celebrated Players city men.

✣ ✣ ✣

L. A. Bernstein, owner of the Lyric and Star theaters at Lincoln, Ill., was a caller at the Paramount offices last week.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ed Saiter of Celebrated Players is out in Indiana hustling up business and, according to contracts, he is sure on the run.

✣ ✣ ✣

Sidney E. Abel, special representative of Select, spent a week in Chicago boosting the exhibition of Select's star features.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Fitzpatrick-McElroy Company, Inc., which controls and operates several theaters in the middle west, has opened a new theater in Cadillac, Mich.

Newslets For Use in Your Program

FACTS ABOUT FILM FOLK—YOU MAY CLIP AND PRINT THEM

Myrtis "Peggy" Morgan, who plays with Rita Jolivet and Hamilton Revelle in Metro's great screen spectacle, "Lest We Forget," is well remembered for her excellent portrayals in some of the picturizations of the O. Henry stories. Miss Morgan is a Southern girl who was born on Ledgewood Plantation at Magnolia, Mississippi. She has played with Selig, World, and other companies.

Nazimova has completed her second Metro starring vehicle, which is a story of gypsy life, and is now reading stories and plays in search of a suitable subject for her next picture, which will be directed by Albert Capellani.

David H. Thompson, assistant production manager at the Metro studio, recalled recently, when Effie Shannon was acting in scenes for "Her Boy," that he was once stage manager for Miss Shannon and Herbert Kelsey on the speaking stage in "The Walls of Jerico," and "Bridge."

Emmy Wehlen is now working in a Metro screen version of "Good-Will and Almond Shells" a story by Kenneth L. Roberts which was published in The Saturday Evening Post. George D. Baker adapted the story and is directing the production.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew will provide their legions of admirers with many surprises when their special five-reel comedy-drama, "Pay Day," is shown on the screen. The Metro comedians have made a departure from their usual domestic comedies and produced a "regular thriller."

Henry Kolker has been engaged to portray a leading role in support of Emmy Wehlen in the Metro picturization of "Good-Will and Almond Shells" by Kenneth L. Roberts. Kolker has played with leading stars including Nazimova with whom he appeared on the stage in Ibsen plays.

E. Richard Schayer, of the Paralta staff of authors, has applied for enlistment in the Army Aviation Corps, and has passed the physical examinations. At the beginning of the war, Mr. Schayer served for a time in the British army. This was when he was sent over by a New York newspaper syndicate as war correspondent, with Richard Harding Davis.

Louise Glaum's dressing room at the Paralta studios has been fitted up strictly to suit her tastes. Her new quarters will be known as the "Egyptian Room." Egypt and the Orient,—all that is picturesque and bizarre in color and pattern, are the things she likes best, and those will go into the fitting of the new dressing room. The atmosphere of mystery, and glamour, and incense, and strange perfumes lent by a thoroughly Oriental furnishing, will be hers at the Paralta.

A most remarkable and graphic illustration of why peace without annexations or indemnities cannot be looked on with favor by the United States and her Allies at this time forms part of the 104th release of the Paramount-Bray Pictographs. Professor Douglas Johnson, of Columbia University, a student of international affairs, provided the Bray studios with the data upon which this film is based, and which proves convincingly that Prussianism must be crushed, and, in the words of President Wilson, "the world made safe for democracy." It shows the policy of conquest of the Hohenzollerns dating from 1477 down to the plan of 1911 by which Germany was to control the backbone of Europe and hold the balance of power.

Anna Q. Nilsson, a star of Goldwyn pictures.

Theda Bara's latest production, "The Soul of Buddha," was written, scenario and story, by the star herself while she was traveling across the continent from California. It deals with life and conditions in Java and is said to strongly develop the Oriental atmosphere.

Margarita Fischer, star of the American Film Company, is a good cook. She has become so interested in doing her bit for her country by assidulously observing all meatless, wheatless and sweetless days, that she has involved herself in the editing of a War Cookbook, in which all of the recipes are tested out personally before being accepted.

Belle Bennett, the pretty star of the Triangle Film Corporation, was granted permission by the company to play in Ashton Stevens' new stage drama, "Mary's Way Out," which opened at the Morosco Theater in Los Angeles on January 27.

The next Pauline Frederick vehicle following "Mrs. Dane's Defense," to be released by Paramount is "Madame Jealousy," the George V. Hobart story staged recently under the direction of Robert Vignola, the scenario for which was written by Eve Unsell. Miss Frederick is now busily engaged in the production of an elaborate version of "La Tosca" at the Famous Players-Lasky studio in New York City.

Margarita Fischer has just completed another feature at the Santa Barbara studios of the American Film Company, entitled "High Heels," under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham.

Harley Knoles, who directs the World-Pictures, starring little Madge Evans, sent her a beautiful wrist watch for Christmas. Madge telephoned her thanks to Mr. Knoles at four a. m.

The title of Sessue Hayakawa's newest Paramount picture to follow "Hidden Pearls," which will be his next release, is "The Honor of His House," from an original story and scenario by Marian Fairfax and directed by William C. DeMille.

C. Gardner Sullivan, author of many successful photoplays, is responsible for "Love Me," in which Thomas H. Ince will present Dorothy Dalton following "Flare-Up-Sal."

Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, who is one of the oldest producers in the motion picture industry and who is now doing a series of pictures for Paramount, recently remarked that the greatest change that had been evidenced in the industry, was in the attitude of the actors, who at first had to be kidnaped into going into a studio and who now can't be kept away. When he first made pictures, he himself played two, three and sometimes four parts in the same production. He had to do it. There weren't any actors to be had who would take the parts, despite the fact that there was little or no discrimination as to the calibre of the actor.

Master Bobby Connelly, who has been engaged by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew to support them in "Gas Logic," the Metro-Drew comedy which they are now producing, has just arranged to pay his income tax, without a protest. He and his father, Joseph I. Connelly, who is a business man, signed their papers at the same time. Bobby was formerly starred in a Vitagraph series of short comedy-dramas.

Recently a canvass was made of the Goldwyn studio for the purpose of learning what wartime sacrifices were being made by the stars. This is the result: Mabel Normand has given up the Sunday parties so well known in fildom's smart set. She sees her friends, of course, but quietly. Mary Garden wears only an artificial flower, never a real one, and her rooms at the Pitz-Carlton are without the roses she adores. Mae Marsh is most conscientious in carrying out her resolutions. For nearly a year she has ommitted sugar from her tea and coffee, and she does not touch candy. Her sister, Marguerite Marsh, a great letter writer, uses the plainest stationery, without watermark or monogram. Madge Kennedy also curtails her consumption of expensive writing paper.

Synopses of the Latest Film Releases

FOR EXHIBITORS WHO WOULD KNOW THE STORY OF THE PICTURE

Feature Programs

Artcraft

The Song of Songs—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 11—Starring Elsie Ferguson. Reviewed in this issue.

Bluebird

Morgan's Raiders — (FIVE REELS) — FEBRUARY 11—Starring Violet Mersereau. The story is laid in Kentucky in Civil War days. The heroine lives with her father in a hut in the mountains. When war breaks out, she joins a band of mountaineers known as Morgan's Raiders. In this capacity she meets the hero, an officer in the Northern army. While riding with precious dispatches, she is wounded and carried to the home of her grandfather, an aristocratic old gentleman, estranged from his outlaw son. Here she drops her pet name of Wildcat and assumes the costume and manners of a Southern belle. She rescues her wounded father from a body of soldiers who have come to take him prisoner, led by the hero, who is outwitted by a girlish ruse and wounded in the hand. He is generous enough not to retaliate, however, and when the villain attacks her in the woods he forgets the past and saves her. The scene ends with a sunset glow in which the blue and the gray are reconciled.

Fox

The Forbidden Path—(SIX REELS)—FEBRUARY 3—Starring Theda Bara. The star plays a role unusual for her, a wronged girl who seeks and finds revenge. Picture reviewed in this issue.

Jack Spurlock, Prodigal — (FIVE REELS) — FEBRUARY 10—Starring George Walsh. Taken from a story by George Horace Lorimer, published in the Saturday Evening Post. It deals with the adventures of a lively young man who is expelled from college and goes into the grocery business, in which his father has made a fortune. After a series of comic adventures, he makes good. Reviewed in this issue.

Metro

Under Suspicion—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 4—Starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. Based on a detective story, "The Woolworth Diamonds." Gerry Simpson, a young millionaire, is a frequent visitor at the home of Mrs. Alice Woolworth. At a musicale there one afternoon he becomes interested in Virginia Blake, a newspaper reporter from the Sentinel. In the midst of the festivities there is great commotion over the theft of Mrs. Woolworth's jewel case. The hostess's pet monkey snatched a button from the coat of one of the burglars and Virginia Blake uses it as a clue in discovering the culprit. The young reporter has a contempt for the "idle rich" young men, and Gerry, fearing he may lose out, secures a position as a cub reporter on the Sentinel. Gerry and Virginia cover a number of assignments together. A reward is offered for the return of the jewels and the apprehension of the thieves. Against her will, Virginia suspects Gerry, on discovering that the button which she holds matches the ones on his coat. Rogers, Gerry's valet, is the head of the band of thieves, and while he and his accomplices are "making a haul" at the Charity Ball, Virginia discovers the Woolworth jewels hidden in the fireplace in Gerry's apartment, whither she has come during his absence in search of evidence. The thieves return, and on discovering what has happened, a tussle ensues, but Gerry arrives just in time to save the girl.

Rogers confesses to the robberies and the police recover the jewels. Gerry buys the paper outright, takes the position of general manager, and announces to the city editor that the first issue under the new regime will carry two interesting items, his marriage to Miss Blake and the capture of the famous jewel thieves.

Mutual Star Production

My Wife—(FIVE REELS)—EMPIRE—FEBRUARY 17—Starring Ann Murdock. The heroine, just after the man she loves has come to France, learns that she must be married before her next birthday if she is to inherit her aunt's fortune. She persuades her guardian to go through a "marriage in name only," which is to be ended when her lover returns. But by that time she and her husband have fallen in love and the other man has found a French girl he loves better than his first sweetheart. Picture reviewed in this issue.

Paramount

Keys of the Righteous—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 17—Starring Enid Bennett. An Ince production. Reviewed in this issue.

The Guilty Man—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 17—This is a screen version of an A. H. Woods stage success. Reviewed in this issue.

Pathe

Loaded Dice—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 10—Starring Frank Keenan. Richard Gordon (Frank Keenan) holds everything on earth as a gamble. His theory of life is to win at all costs. His partner in various enterprises is Rose Ashton, whom he promises to marry. It is she who discovers that there is to be a corner on food and Gordon demands to be let in on it. To do so he must have a hundred thousand dollars. With Rose and a disreputable character actress he secures this money from Harry Palmer by working the old game of the young lady compromised. So financial success is his, but through an old flame of Gordon's, Palmer discovers the trick and confronts Gordon with the knowledge of it. Palmer never lives to tell the world of it and neither does the old flame. But Gordon was careless in his second murder. A gentleman crook saw him and it is he who, when Gordon is elected governor, rises to blacken his happiness. But determined Gordon plans to do away with him also. This time he is unsuccessful. In the fracas he is wounded himself and his case is pronounced hopeless. Though discarded, Rose comes to his side and before he dies realizes there is goodness in the world.

Triangle

Keith of the Border—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 17—Starring Roy Stewart. A western story, reviewed in this issue.

Vitagraph

The Woman Between Friends—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 11—Starring Alice Joyce. Taken from the Robert W. Chambers novel, "Between Friends." Reviewed in this issue.

Universal Program

The Flash of Fate—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 18—Starring Herbert Rawlinson as Randolph Shorb, a young financier who sets about to ruin Hinman, the man who had caused the death of young Shorb's father. Realizing that Hinman was a crook himself, and too clever for him, Randolph Shorb decided to overpower him even if by so doing he had to become the crookedest man in the world. His only anchor to windward was little Mary Freeman, his country sweetheart. Mary and her brother Joe were the telegraph operators of two suburban offices. Joe had yearned for the city, and one day he threw up his job, went to the city, and not finding Randolph in his apartment, made himself at home. But Joe wasn't fast enough for the crowd in which he was introduced, and one of Randolph's gang had soon relieved him of a sum of money which belonged to the bank where Randolph had obtained a position for him. In desperation he sent to Mary for money, and Mary came to the city with it herself, and fell into the clutches of Philadelphia Johnson. Though the situation threatened exposure and ruin for Randolph, he gave up all thought of himself when he discovered that Mary was in the city and in Johnson's clutches, and a terrific combat ensued between Randolph and Johnson's gang, with the police fighting both sides. Eventually Randolph rescues both Mary and Joe, and escapes to his office, where to his surprise he finds an immense stack of money on the desk. Old Hinman had found the toils closing around him, and the vision of the man he had killed had so haunted him, that in expiation he had sent to Randolph the amount of money which the firm of Shorb & Son had originally lost.

Ship Oy, Oy—(ONE REEL)—NESTOR COMEDY—Players are William Franey, Lillian Peacock and Milburn Moranti. The lovemaking of Hortense, a fisher maiden, and her revenue officer sweetheart, John Long, is interrupted by Handsome Horace, the boldest and most graceful smuggler who ever pulled off a smuggle. Horace's hard heart is immediately softened toward the fair one, he tries the box office value of his ardent attack on the lady's heart. She'll have none of him, and John drives him off. Horace returns with his trusty smugglers and captures the lady, whom he leaves them guard while he finishes off John. Throwing red pepper in the smugglers' eyes, Hortense escapes in time to prevent Horace from torturing Long to death. Then both pitch on Horace and he has the time of his wicked life smuggling himself out to sea. Finally he is caught and the interrupted courtship continues.

Beaches and Peaches — (TWO REELS) — L-KO COMEDY—Players are Dave Morris, Gladys Varden and Fay Holderness. That old guy, Father Neptune, certainly knew a thing or two when he picked out the ocean to live. Ferdy Fishcake had it on Neptune, though, for though he had a fright of a wife, he was easing himself into forgetfulness by taking a few days' vacation with her at the beach. And the sights he saw! They almost made him forget this wife. He burrowed under the sand to get near Lotta Pepp and when his wife woke up she thought he was gone for good. So she hired a detective and they started a search which complicated itself so many times in hotels and cast suspicion on so many marriage vows that we can't bear to tell about it.

Mount Hood—(SPLIT REEL)—FINLEY NATURE SERIES—Views of the mountain and of the Federal Forest Rangers work in fire prevention.

The Garden Spot of the World—(SPLIT REEL)—SCENIC—The Garden Spot of the World is a splendid description of Norway, on account of the beauty and splendor of its scenery.

Screen Magazine No. 59—(ONE REEL)—The making of an artilleryman is the first subject in this Screen Magazine, and it shows the modern method of trench warfare as applied to the raw recruits handling the heavy artillery which will soon be booming on the Western front in France. In domestic science the Screen Magazine's cook, Mrs. A. Louise Andrea, who is conducting an experimetal kitchen for the Gentlewoman's Magazine, shows how to make a cheese souffle. The are of dislocation is vividly portrayed by an acrobat who styles himself the "Human Bowknot." There is also a department of agriculture film showing the sheep industry as carried out in the great forest and grazing land reservations of the United States. Willie Hopkins adds a Miracle in Mud which this week is entitled "The Winning Hand."

The Bull's Eye—SERIAL—EPISODE ONE, "DESPERATE ODDS"—Eddy Polo is the star. Cora Clayton (Vivian Reed) has been captured by an outlaw band, lead by Sweeney Bodin. Cody, with a number of cattle rangers, attack Sweeney's cabin and Cody overpowers the leader. He sends Cora for help while he guards Sweeney. She returns home to find her father, Clayton, kidnapped, and McGuire waiting for her. Together they set out to find the boys to go to Clayton's rescue. In the meantime, the cattle rustlers, reinforced, arrive at the cabin, but Cody, escaping through a back window, makes a daring getaway, only to be followed by Sweeney and the rustlers. Cody realizes that the chase is ending and takes a desperate chance to throw them off. He leaps his horse over a cliff and the two come down by the side of a cabin. The rustlers see the feat and hurry to surround the cabin. Cody, however, revives and, once inside, barricades the door and endeavors to ward off the onslaught of the rustlers' bullets.

Mutual Pictures

Miss Cinderella—(ONE REEL)—STRAND—FEBRUARY 19—Comedy, featuring Billie Rhodes. When Mary's father tells her that Jack, the son of his boyhood chum who has amassed scads of wealth, is coming to visit them, Mary informs him that all scions of wealthy families are spendthrifts and cads, and promises to show him up. She rents a squalid room in the tenement district, enlists the aid of confederates to help her out in her scheme, and poses as a "poor working girl." In this guise she manages to meet Jack on the street and feigns starvation. Jack takes her to her room, buys her food, prevents the landlady from turning her out into the cold world, pays the installment collector on her sewing machine, and saves her from Black Handers (the real thing), who mistake Mary for the Italian woman from whom she rented the room. Father comes on the scene in time to witness the finale of Jack's heroic deeds and give them his blessing.

Complete Record of Current Films

ASSEMBLED FOR USE OF THEATER MANAGERS—CORRECTED EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D The Tracking of Stingaree..... 2,000
D Arrayed with the Enemy..... 2,000
D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D The Poisoned Cup..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000
D Through Fire and Water..... 2,000
D A Bushranger's Stategy..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Broadway Star Features

D The Fifth Wheel (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D Compliments of the Season (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D The Moment of Victory (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D The Trimmed Lamp (O. Henry Series) 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2,000
C A Woman 2,000

Essanay Comedies

C "Next" 1,000
C The Soup and Fish Ball..... 1,000
C A Tough Knight..... 1,000
C Our Little Nell..... 1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C Out and In (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D The Lost Lie..... 2,000
C-D Tad's Swimming Hole..... 2,000
C-D Marrying Off Dad..... 2,000
C-D The Preacher's Son..... 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000
C A Hash House Romance..... 1,000
C The Hod Carrier's Million..... 1,000

Mutual Program

Monday

T 2-18 Mutual Weekly .....Mutual 1,000

Tuesday

C 2-19 Miss Cinderella (Billie Rhodes) 1,000

Universal Program

12-15 Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)... 5,000
12-24 Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey) 5,000
12-31 The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson) 5,000
1-7 The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely) 5,000
1-14 Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard).. 5,000
1-21 Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)... 5,000
1-28 The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey) 5,000
2-4 Painted Lips (Louise Lovely).. 5,000
2-11 New Love for Old (Ella Hall) 5,000
2-16 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58 1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Are Passions Inherited?.Warner Bros. 7,000
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,000
A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray)..... ..... Friedman 5,000
Balloonatics .....Century Comedies
Below Zero .....Wharton 2,000
Birth Control.Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 6,000
Bit o' Heaven..... 5,000
Beware of Strangers.....Selig Special 7,000
Birth .....Eugenics Film 6,000
Christie Comedies..... .....Christie Film Co.
Christus.....Historic Features
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,000
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Cross-Eyed Submarine..... .....Universal Film Mfg.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Eagle's Wing .....Bluebird 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Eyes of the World....Clune Film Co. 10,000
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,000
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine.Bluebird Photoplays 5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,000
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co.....
Span of Life.....Joseph F. Lee 5,000
Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp 12,000
Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp. 5,000
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,000
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,000
Trip Through China, A..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,000
Trooper 44..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,000
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow 7,000
The Barrier.....Rex Beach 9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter 2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
The Woman and the Beast...Graphic 5,000
The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall 9,000
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000
The Crisis .....Sherman Elliot 10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
West Is West.....Ultra Films
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-11 Song of Songs (Elsie Ferguson) 5,000
2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

1-21 Broadway Love (Dorothy Phillips) 5,000
1-28 The Fighting Grin (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
2-4 The Wife He Bought (Carmel Myers) 5,000
2-11 Morgan's Raiders (Violet Mersereau) 5,000
2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

2-3 The Heart of Romance (June Caprice) 5,000
2-3 Hungry Lions in a Hospital—(Comedy) 2,000
2-10 Les Miserables (Wm. Farnum) 8,000
2-10 Jack Spurlock — Prodigal (George Walsh) 5,000
2-17 The Moral Law (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
2-17 Are Married Policemen Safe?. .....Fox-Lehrman 2,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

12-30 Thais (Mary Garden)..... 6,000
1-14 Fields of Honor (Mae Marsh)... 6,000
1-28 Dodging a Million (Mabel Normand) 6,000
2-10 Our Little Wife (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
2-27 The Beloved Traitor (Mae Marsh) 6,000
3-10 The Room Below (Mabel Normand) 6,000
3-24 Powder Nose Annie (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
4-7 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall.....
.....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West). 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-11 Broadway Bill (Harold Lockwood) 5,000
2-11 The Bright Lights Dimmed (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-18 A Weaver of Dreams (Viola Dana) 5,000
2-18 After Henry (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

1-21 In Bad (William Russell)..... .....American 5,000
1-28 Beauty and the Rogue (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000
2-4 Who Loved Him Best? (Edna Goodrich) 5,000
2-11 Jilted Janet (Margaret Fischer) 5,000
2-18 My Wife (Ann Murdock)..... 5,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

1-14 "Who Is 'Number One?'" Episode No. 12..... 2,000
1-21 Rimrock Jones (Wallace Reid) 5,000
1-21 Blackton's the World for Sale 5,000
1-21 Who Is "Number One"? Episode 13 2,000
1-28 Who is "Number One?" Episode 14 2,000
1-28 The Hired Man..... 5,000
2-4 "Flare-up Sal" (Dorothy Dalton) 5,000
2-4 Madam Jealousy (Pauline Frederick) 5,000
2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15..... 2,000
2-11 Things We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

1-27 Cartoon and Educational..... .....International 1,000
1-30 Hearst Pathe News, No. 10... 1,000
2-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 11... 1,000
2-3 The Other Woman (Peggy Hyland) .....Astra 5,000
2-3 The Hidden Hand, No. 11..... .....Pathe 2,000
2-3 The Price of Folly, No. 3... .....Balboa 2,000
2-3 The Lamb (Harold Lloyd.... .....Rolin 1,000
2-3 Picturesque Brittany (Colored) .....Pathe 500
2-3 Bonnets of Brittany (Educ.) .....Pathe 500
2-3 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon) 500
2-3 For Desert (Educ.)..... .....International 500
2-6 Hearst Pathe News No. 12..... 1,000
2-9 Hearst Pathe News No. 13..... 1,000
2-10 Loaded Dice (Frank Keenan) .....Pathe 5,000
2-10 The Hidden Hand, No. 12 .....Pathe 2,000
2-10 The Price of Folly, No. 4 .....Balboa 2,000
2-10 The Junk Man (Comedy) Rolin 2,000
2-10 The Argus Pictorial, No. 7 (Educ.) 1,000
2-10 Rocamadour and the Valley of Lot France (Educ.)...Pathe 500
2-10 The Horse in Action (Educ.) .....Pathe 500
2-10 Cartoon and Educational—International 1,000
2-13 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 14.... 1,000
2-16 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 15.... 1,000
2-17 The Inner Voice (I. I. Mozukin) .....Russian Art 5,000
2-17 The Hidden Hand, No. 13... .....Pathe 2,000
2-17 The Price of Folly, No. 5.Balboa 2,000
2-17 Hit Him Again (Harry Pollard) .....Rolin 1,000
2-17 Along the Reviera — Italy (Travel) 500
2-17 Watching the Flowers Bloom (Educ.) 500
2-17 Cartoon & Educational..... .....International 1,000
2-20 Hearst Pathe News, No. 16... 1,000
2-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 17... 1,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

1-1 Uneasy Money (Taylor Holmes). 6,000
1-7 Quo Vadis 8,000
1-10 Brown of Harvard (Tom Moore) 6,000
1-21 The Unbeliever (Raymond McKee) 5,000

Select Pictures Corporation

The Moth (Norma Talmadge)..... 6,000
Magda (Clara Kimball Young)..... 5,000
Scandal (Constance Talmadge)..... 5,000
Her Silent Sacrifice (Alice Brady).. 5,000
Secret of the Storm Country (Norma Talmadge) 5,000
Shirley Kaye (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Honeymoon (Constance Talmadge) 5,000
Woman and Wife (Alice Brady).... 5,000
Ghosts of Yesterday (Norma Talmadge) 5,000
The Marionettes (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Studio Girl (Constance Talmadge) 5,000
The Barrier..... 7,000
The Lone Wolf (Hazel Dawn)..... 6,000
Public Be Damned (Charles Richman) 6,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tanguay)..... 5,000
Over There (Anna Q. Nilsson)..... 6,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 Keith of the Border (Roy Stewart) 5,000
2-17 Their Undercover Capers..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) 5,000
2-17 A Full Dress Fizzle..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 His Double Life..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

1-21 The Next Generation (Harry Morey) 2,000
1-21 And His Wife Came Back (John Bunny) 1,000
1-28 A Mother's Sin (Earle Williams) 5,000
1-28 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 6 2,000
2-4 The Other Man (Harry Morey). 5,000
2-4 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 7 2,000
2-11 The Woman Between Friends (Alice Joyce) 5,000
2-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 8 2,000
2-18 The Wooing of Princess Pat (Gladys Leslie) 5,000
2-18 Courts and Convicts..... .....Bog V Comedy 1,000
2-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 9 2,000
2-18 The Mischief Maker (Edith Storey) 2,000
2-18 Sonny Jim in Search of a Mother (Bobby Connelly)... 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

1-7 Stolen Hours (Ethel Clayton)—World 5,000
1-14 The Strong Way (June Elvidge) —World 5,000
1-21 The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (Carlyle Blackwell).....World 5,000
1-28 Gates of Gladness..... 5,000
2-4 The Divine Sacrifice (Kitty Gordon) 5,000
2-11 Whims of Society (Ethel Clayton) 5,000
2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Bar Sinister (Hedda Nova..... 8,000
The Fringe of Society (Ruth Roland) 7,000
One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

George K. Spoor presents

TAYLOR HOLMES

with an all-star cast

in

"Ruggles of Red Gap"

by Harry Leon Wilson

This picture carries the greatest national bill board advertising ever given an individual star. Arrange your booking dates NOW.

Essanay

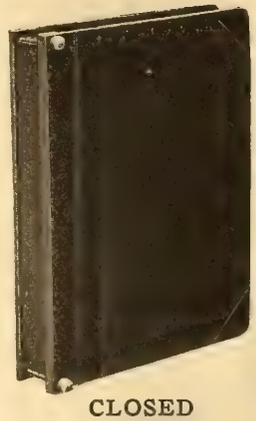
Distributed by George Kleine System throughout the United States

Perfection Pictures

EXHIBITORS

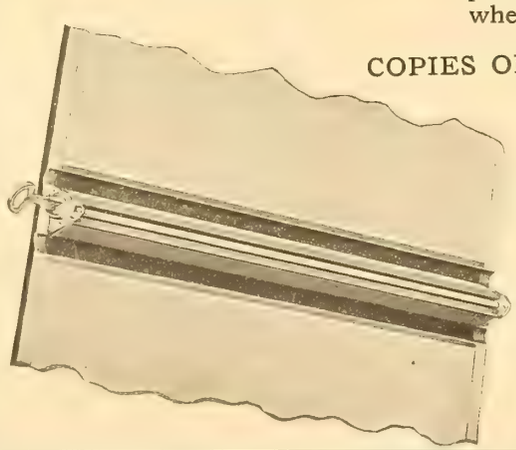
OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference



By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.



Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT - DURABLE - ATTRACTIVE - INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

CLOSED

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

MAURICE TOURNEUR
Whose Latest Artcraft Production Is Entitled "The Bluebird"

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 2, 1918 No. 9

The Greatest Serials Ever Screened!

ALBERT E. SMITH
presents

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"

Featuring
WILLIAM DUNCAN with
CAROL HOLLOWAY
Written by J. Stuart Blackton
AND Cyrus Townsend Brady

This Smashing 15-Episode Melodrama, With Its Crashing Climaxes Piling Up In Rapid Succession, Ushered In a New Era In Screen Serials.

It Changed the Course of the Stream of Dollars that Passed the Box-Office—It Turned the Golden Stream Into the Box-Office. It Was High-Tide In the Money Drawer!

But—

ALBERT E. SMITH
presents

"VENGEANCE-AND THE WOMAN"

Featuring
WILLIAM DUNCAN with
CAROL HOLLOWAY
Written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady

"Vengeance—and the Woman" Is Doing What Seemed Impossible—Beating Even the Amazing Box-Office Records Set By "The Fighting Trail".

Every Exhibitor Who Has Played These Serial Masterpieces Will Tell You They Are

THE GREATEST MONEY MAKERS ON THE MARKET!

VITAGRAPH

TRIANGLE

Triangle Order No. 395

Exhibitors are entitled to some proof other than "Say So"—other than camouflage, some tangible evidence that our expressions of good faith, fairness, and equity are exactly as represented.

Request any Branch Manager to show you the original of the following Triangle Order No. 395, dated July 5, 1917.

"In your future dealings with exhibitors, bear in mind that your interest in Triangle products has only started when you have sold the exhibitor and that our future success is in direct proportion to his success. That your active co-operation with him is essential to the end that the public may be brought to a full realization and appreciation of our product, you are specifically instructed to deal with no exhibitor except on a basis that will be profitable to him. You are to bear in mind that unless the exhibitor makes money, we cannot. You must at all times be guided by the fact that a contract is only profitable when it insures profit to both parties; that you are giving your greatest service to the Triangle when you give your greatest service to the exhibitor."

This order was issued shortly after the inception of the present Triangle organization. It was not intended for publication nor exhibition to exhibitors. It is published at this time only as concrete proof that the Triangle Organization is not only spreading broadcast its policy of fairness toward exhibitors, but is insisting that these principles are carried into effect.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH, President
R. W. LYNCH, Vice-President
FRED KENT, Treasurer
Y. F. FREEMAN, General Manager

A high point in "The Turn of a Card," a Paralta offering with J. Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson.

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 2, 1918 No. 9

Cut Out the Sobs, Exhibitors Say

THEATRE MEN ADDRESS PRODUCERS THROUGH MOTOGRAPHY

CUT OUT SADNESS AND GIVE US GLADNESS. This is the message of the exhibitors to the producers.

Appreciating the change in the taste of the motion picture public, MOTOGRAPHY last week sent out a letter to theatre men asking them to outline their views as a guide to the producers, and from their response it is certain that managers the country over do not want so many "sob" stories, but comedies and comedy dramas instead.

H. M. Crandall, owner of a string of big houses in Washington, D. C., writes:

"In my opinion, based on box office receipts, the days of the so-called vampire picture are gone.

"It has always been a mystery to me as to why the manufacturers don't know exactly what the public wants. Let's stop for a minute on this and think who are generally the most popular stars in America—Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin. These stars are popular year in and year out and everybody knows about the cabilre of pictures they make, also their box office value.

"There are of course a few exceptions to this rule who are in a class by themselves in their particular lines—William S. Hart, Clara Kimball Young, Norma Talmadge, Alice Brady and others whose work is generally recognized as much as the above stars.

"There are also stars who flash for a few months and are gone, but the public's taste seems to be going towards the lighter shows—but as variety is necessary, let them be clean and well handled.

"Along this line let me suggest, however, that business in many cases is as the exhibitor makes it. The producer is only one end of the picture business—an exhibitor can often 'put over' a fair picture and he can also kill a wonderful one. Therefore the exhibitor must get his business at least 80 per cent perfect before he can find trouble with others, and when he does get this percentage he will find there is no trouble with others, for he will not pick shows that do not suit his particular audience."

S. A. Moran of the Arcade Theatre, Ann Arbor, Mich., writes:

"What kind of pictures does the public want at this time? One thing is certain. It does not want a lot of the pictures which are being made in these strenuous war times.

"In this city comedy-dramas and society dramas with now and then a good mystery plot and wholesome comedies take best among theatre patrons. People certainly do not want so many depressing, tragic stories when the whole world is one great tragedy. People go to the movies to gain a little respite from the awful gloom that hangs over the world. For this reason the majority of people do not want war stories and attempts at patriotic stories.

"A good patriotic subject now and then takes all right, but too much of it would indicate that the producers have an idea that people generally are not as patriotic as they should be when in fact the people as a whole are patriotic to the core. I think, therefore, the producers are prone to overdo the patriotic stunt.

"Ann Arbor people have been especially well pleased with such pictures as Madge Kennedy in 'Baby Mine' and 'Nearly Married,' Constance Talmadge in 'Scandal' and 'The Honeymoon,' Mabel Normand in 'Dodging a Million,' Mae Marsh in 'The Cinderella Man,' Harold Lockwood in 'Pidgin Island' and 'The Haunted Pajamas,' Bushman and Bayne in 'Red, White and Blue Blood,' and breezy, 'peppy' stories such as those in which George Walsh plays.

"It goes without saying that people do not care to see comedy-dramas all the time, but I believe that generally they want light, entertaining features instead of the sad and depressing kind. There is too much of that sort of thing in the world already."

George A. Bleich of George A. Bleich Amusement Enterprises, Owensboro, Ky., controlling the Empress Theatre, a picture house, and the Grand Theatre, a "regular" house, writes:

"I wish to register as in favor of the lighter plays, those of the bright and cheery kind in these days when everyone's mind cannot be other than on the great war daily.

"It is not meant that comedy is wanted altogether, but if there ever was a time when gloomy and depressing subjects should be taboo it is now. And the producers should quit injecting the war into everything. Let the news weeklies and actual films from the war fields take care of this.

"The national slogan for the picture houses should be: 'Amusement, Cheery Amusement.' And when amusement is said it doesn't mean tragedy, sobs and sighs, but entertainment that will make people leave a picture theatre the happier for having attended."

Emery Newell Downs of the Knickerbocker Theatre, Cleveland, O., writes:

"The public does not want 'violent war dramas' and is showing a strong taste for stories with a lighter vein such as 'Uneasy Money,' 'Tom Sawyer,' 'Stella Maris' and the like.

"These subjects gained universal approval, while the so-called gripping war dramas brought an alarming number of depreciating remarks.

"People want to be amused when they go out for an evening's entertainment, and to show them horrors and tragedies is not the way to do it in this age of conflict.

"Reorganization for a downward revision of the high cost of amusement will be the salvation of the industry, for even if this war is brought to a close at an early date the war tax will have to be continued for several years after the actual conflict and a chaotic state is bound to exist in the industrial world during the years following peace.

"The photoplay is the 'family man's' amusement and will remain so as long as the price of admission is kept within reach of his pocket-book. This statement should be in the minds of all the big producers, for when they lose sight of this fact they will have killed the proverbial 'hen that laid the golden egg.'

"The Knickerbocker has an almost exclusive patronage of the better class of patrons. Our prices are 15, 25 and 35 cents, but this scale of prices is positively the limit for even them, with the war tax added."

Charles H. Ryan, manager of the Garfield Theater, Chicago, writes:

"Women make up 60 per cent of the average neighborhood audience. It is the fair sex who bring the men out evenings to see the movie plays. They study our weekly programs, and it is they who generally are the ones who pick out the nights he and she will attend our theatre. They will not come seven nights a week, but they may come three or four.

"Now what they judge by is first, the popularity of the star in their estimation, then the title might seem catchy, or it may be a well-known book or stage play. Girl stars are bigger box office attractions than the men because the women like to see the pretty clothes they wear and the men like to admire them.

"Our house has a steady patronage which varies, according to the popularity of the star. There are many so-called stars on the producers' payroll that don't draw an extra admission into our box office.

"Let the producers share some of their huge advertising campaigns with the exhibitor's rental. Exhibitors have to pay for the campaigns, with positively no result, which has been proven to us.

"Our patrons do not care for historical or costume plays. They like modern domestic plays, good love stories, comedy-dramas and farce comedies. Of the pictures that were really big features in regard to being box office attractions and that pleased the people after we had boosted them during the year of 1918 are: 'Civilization,' 'The Slacker,' 'The Honor System,' 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm,' 'Within the Law,' 'The Whip,' 'Rasputin, the Black Monk,' 'The Barrier,' and 'Draft 258.' "

W. E. Drummond, manager of the Special Features Company of Knoxville, Tenn., writes:

"Being one of the owners of the largest house in Knoxville, and also the Palace Theatre, Maryville, Tennessee, another large house, after carefully studying my public and conditions, I feel that the day is past when you can get real money for certain kinds of pictures.

"The present crisis is gradually forcing movie patrons to take more notice of the play and less notice of the star. I find a great many people all over the South, who kick about so much mush and racey scenes. I find a great deal of complaints regarding the use of so many close-ups in scenes of Catholicism used in seven-tenths of the pictures.

"Directors, when they desire to create a sad impression, seem to find the crucifix hanging just in the right place in a scene.

"The public is gradually tiring of the eternal triangle question and it seems that one-half the pictures of today always have their story, or a part of it, based on a home wrecked by the husband's best friend, and this thing is growing tiresome to the public.

"We don't need amalgamation at the present time. We don't need combines and trusts, but we do need pictures with punch, thrills and real heart interest stories with action and good direction.

"Give us stories of country life; good, wholesome, broad, outdoor stories, pictures that will make people glad they are living and create a desire in them to see a movie show every night in the week.

"Under the above conditions there would be less talk of hard times and more satisfied customers."

H. M. Thomas, secretary and manager of the Strand Amusement Company of Nebraska, which has affiliations with theatres in Des Moines and Davenport, Ia., writes:

"To my mind, scenarios are the important factors just now, as it does not matter if you have Mary Pickford, plus William Hart and Douglas Fairbanks in one production; if the story is not 'there' the public goes away dissatisfied.

"I do not know how to remedy this defect myself. Everything has gone ahead in picture production except the story, and about three-fourths of all the stories in film form, at least of those I see, are enough to make people kick themselves for spending the time looking at them.

"I believe in stars, but they are of no earthly good except when in a good story. Mary Pickford in 'A Poor Little Rich Girl' or 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm' meant capacity to any house playing her, while 'Less Than the Dust' and 'Pride of the Clan' meant just the opposite. Miss Pickford is clever, but neither she nor any other performer is clever enough to put over a poor story.

"Personally I believe a whole lot of the blame is with the different scenario departments. I know that I have submitted several scenarios, built to fit the peculiar traits of well-known stars, but these scenarios were returned because they did not contain any original ideas. Now then, my idea is that the scenario departments demand such high averages in scenario-writing that the average author cannot meet them, and I doubt if many of the department heads themselves could pass the requirements they demand.

"If a few scenarios were accepted and paid for, rather than some of the ideas unconsciously absorbed by the scenario departments and used in their own scripts later on, I believe that a number of real scenario writers would soon be lined up; but with the amount of consideration shown embryo writers just now, we will have nothing to look forward to in the future but the worn-out ideas of the scenario departments themselves.

"I am not writing this because of 'sour grapes' on my part, as I simply submitted my scripts for fun, but because this is one of the faults of the business to-day. We do not get the right kind of stories, and lots of this fault is right with the scenario department itself."

Fred Cosman, manager of the Electric Theatre, St. Joseph, Mo., writes:

"From an exhibitor standpoint, I believe there is no question but what the moving picture business is going through a change, like many other lines of business; and one has to adjust his business to suit present conditions. However, I fail to see the great change in the picture business that we are led to believe is taking place.

"It is true now and always has been, if we are at war or not, conditions are different in all parts of the United States. What may be suited for one place is not suited for another. A successful attraction depends a good deal on the theatre, its location, the class such a theatre caters to, etc. Every manager should study his local conditions and act accordingly.

"On this point, I wish to say that last spring and summer two-reel war pictures slipped in as an extra attraction brought in good returns. Now the public does not care for this line of subjects, especially those that show any fighting; neither do they want these cheap two-reel so-called comedy subjects.

"Just at present I find the comedy-drama with a pleasing climax, of five to seven reels, the best suited, also sensational dramas of love, thrills, mystery and romance; if any war stuff, no battle scenes showing death. By all means, dear producer, keep away from the kissing scene finish, which has been worked to death.

"A word in reference to the price of admission. All over the country when the cent on ten war tax went into effect, theatres raised their price of admission five cents or more. This was very wrong from a patriotic standpoint, as well as a hold-up on the public. The public knows the money from such tax does not come out of theatre receipts and is a one cent tax on ten; then what excuse has the theatre manager to offer for the extra money he has received?

"If the operation of any theatre was such under his former price of admission that he could not make all ends meet, he should not have blamed it on the war tax, but waited until the public had got used to the war tax, then raised his prices.

"In this city we had a meeting of theatre managers shortly before the tax went into effect and every manager wanted to raise his price of admission five cents except myself. I would not agree to the raise for reasons as stated above, and the general opinion of the managers of this city of me the present day is that I am putting the show business on the bum. Because I would not raise none of the others did. That was up to them. I wish to say that the week of February 3 was the best week in attendance in the history of my house. The months of November and December were away ahead in attendance of these same months in the preceding two years. January dropped off some because of the extreme cold weather and nothing else.

"My idea is to give the public as near as possible what they want and as cheap as possible. Then there will be no kick on poor business.

"Another thing, as is the case here and in many other cities and small towns, whenever a theatre has an extra good attraction it raises the price of admission. Now if these theatres raise when they have an extra good show, they should reduce when they have an extra poor show, which happens more often, no doubt, than when they have extra good shows. If you want a standard, good business, always play fair with the public; this has been my policy as manager for the past fifteen years and has been the cause of my success where others have failed."

Other letters will be published later.

Select Title for Patriotic Film

Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, makes the official announcement that the title of the big patriotic picture which Vitagraph is making in conjunction with the State Defense Council of New York will be "New York, or Danger Within."

Corinne Griffith is to be the star. Webster Campbell and Marc MacDermott will have leading parts. Gov. Charles S. Whitman of New York also appears in the picture. The film is designed to show how New York State has protected itself against the intrigues of the enemy.

The military and civil officers of the state government have worked in close cooperation with President Smith and John Robertson, director of the picture, to assure accuracy.

There is a great purpose behind the making of this picture, one designed to reach into the minds of all the millions of loyal Americans. Until now, there has been the greatest secrecy about the plans and methods adopted by the Empire State—which naturally has borne the brunt of all enemy schemes and plots—in the suppression of sabotage, espionage and anti-American propaganda.

Long before the United States entered the war, New York state was handling this big problem. Even before the Lusitania was sunk, New York's protective machinery was in operation. Thus there is real national value in the production inasmuch as it will show in detail how the most exposed section of the Union has been successfully protected against alien plots.

Demand Theatreless Day Rentals

Exhibitors in Ontario, Canada, must pay for service on the five heatless Mondays starting February 18, according to a resolution passed by the Exchange Managers' Association at a meeting held at the Regent Theatre, Toronto.

The exchangemen explained their action by saying that exhibitors are getting their films at a lower rental than ever before and that the exchanges are paying both the Canadian and American war taxes, duty, etc.

The subject of petitioning the government to change the closing day from Monday to Tuesday, as was done in the United States, was discussed but nothing definite decided.

Officers of the association were elected as follows: N. L. Nathanson, managing director of Regal Films, Limited, president; Merrick R. Nutting, secretary; executive committee, J. Allen, of the Famous Players' Film Service, Limited, and Clair Hague, president and general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited.

Hart's Hat Sent to Washington

William S. Hart's famous sombrero, worn for thirteen years by the Thomas H. Ince star, in films as well as on the stage, is now on its way to Washington, D. C., after being autographed by the star, to receive the signatures of the President and his staff, thence to be transported to Europe for the names of the big figures of the Allied forces and the rulers of the Allied nations.

On its return it will be auctioned off for the benefit of the Red Cross.

"What The Picture Did For Me"

ACTUAL VERDICTS ON FILMS IN THE LANGUAGE OF THE EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. Every criticism received is published and the words are the exhibitor's own. If the picture you wish to know about is not included in the following list, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form herewith, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D., Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

ARTCRAFT

A MODERN MUSKETEER, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Doug. certainly keeps moving in this five-reeler. It is one continual string of stunts from beginning to end. I liked everything but its title, as everyone has not read 'The Three Musketeers.' Before seeing it, you might imagine it a costume play."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

The Rise of Jennie Cushing, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Miss Ferguson is making a big hit here."—H. H. Kincey, Academy of Music, Selma, Ala.

The Rise of Jennie Cushing, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"A story that appealed to all. Business good."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Little Princess, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Very good business. Very good story."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Man From Painted Post, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Doug's best yet. Drew bigger the second night."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Man From Painted Post, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Up to the usual Fairbanks standard. Capacity business, afternoon and evening."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Narrow Trail, with William S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Went over big. Typical Hart picture."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg.,Chicago.

Less Than the Dust, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Very good but it did not draw like The Poor Little Rich Girl and others."—James M. Fulkerson, Union Hall, Smithfield, Utah.

Down to Earth, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Every patron went out with a smile on his face."—James M. Fulkerson, Union Hall, Smithfield, Utah.

Reaching for the Moon, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Good. Big audience."—H. H. Kincey, Academy of Music, Selma, Ala.

BLUEBIRD

The Girl by the Roadside, with Violet Mersereau (Bluebird)—"An extra good one."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Triumph, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)—"Picture fairly good; we've had better. Business fair."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.—Neighborhood house.

A Stormy Knight, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"A good program picture. Only drew fair."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Spotted Lily, with Ella Hall (Bluebird)—"As good as the average feature. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Desire of the Moth, with Rupert Julian (Bluebird)—"O. K. Business O. K."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Mysterious Mr. Tiller, with Rupert Julian (Bluebird)—"An A-1 detective story. Business fair."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Anything Once, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"Comedy-drama, western. Star looks and acts like Fairbanks. Many liked him as well. Good picture for program stuff, snappy."—Carroll E. King, Johnsonia Theatre, Leesburg, Ohio.

Mother O' Mine, with Rupert Julian (Bluebird)—"A beautiful story, well handled. Rather sad but with a surprise ending. It is truthfully advertised as a winner. Strong appeal for women and men. Does not attract young people. A fine production."—Carroll E. King, Johnsonia Theatre, Leesburg, Ohio.

BUTTERFLY

The Man From Montana, with Neal Hart (Butterfly)—"Picture O. K. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.—Neighborhood house.

Fighting Mad, with William Stowell (Butterfly)—"Very good. Business good."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Fear Not, with Brownie Vernon (Butterfly)—"Fair picture. Business fair."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Silent Lady, with Zoe Ray (Butterfly)—"Not very strong. Fair business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOX

All for a Husband, with Virginia Pearson (Fox)—"A very poor production. Everybody was disappointed, as Miss Pearson is popular here. We ran a Fox comedy with it, which helped things out."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Heart of a Lion, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A story well suited to Bill Farnum. Big business."—S. P. Totten, Star Theatre, Everett, Wash.

Conscience, with Gladys Brockwell (Fox)—"I would say this is as big as a good many specials. Its only fault is that it was over the heads of some of our patrons."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

The Scarlet Pimpernal, with Dustin Farnum (Fox)—"My patrons don't want costume pictures. Farnum's work, however, is good. Business fair."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Jack Spurlock, Prodigal, with George Walsh (Fox)—"As poor as Pride of New York was good. If George expects to hold his high position, he had better do better than this."—H. C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Daughter of the Gods, with Annette Kellerman (Fox)—"This broke all house records on a one week's run at the Alcazar."—H. C. Miller, Alcazar Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Cheating the Public, with Enid Markey (Fox)—"A very timely picture. Miss Markey does excellent work. A fair picture from a box-office standpoint. Story depressing."—W. C. Lamoreaux, Ascher's Lakeside Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

His Smashing Career (Fox Comedy)—"Good settings. There was money spent on this two reel comedy. It is very good and well up to the standard set by these Lehrmann Sunshine comedies."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

His Smashing Career (Fox Comedy)—"Kept them laughing. You will make no mistake playing these comedies. Patrons want slapstick that goes over with a bang."—A. R. Anderson, Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho.

GENERAL

Indian Summer (O. Henry-Vitagraph)—"Everyone pleased with it. Great picture to run with an Arbuckle or Chaplin comedy."—Gordon Francis, Hyde Park Theatre, Chicago.

GOLDWYN

Our Little Wife, with Madge Kennedy (Goldwyn)—"A genuine farce comedy, with splendid cast. Public was pleased. A top-notch box-office attraction."—W. C. Lamoreaux, Ascher's Lakeside Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Cinderella Man, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Business great. Everyone satisfied."—Gordon Francis, Hyde Park Theatre, Chicago.

The Auction Block, with Rubye de Remere (Goldwyn)—"Played to capacity."—H. H. Kincey, Academy of Music, Selma, Ala.

Thais, with Mary Garden (Goldwyn)—"An artistic production. Mary Garden's work is excellent. Weather bad during the run."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Thais, with Mary Garden (Goldwyn)—"Played to good business but the majority of our patrons went out displeased. Costume and historical plays do not entertain our audience. The picture is lavishly staged but why spend so much money on a picture when it is not what the general public care for?"—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"In spite of strong competition, this got money. A sure-fire production. Star great. Wonderful war scenes, much different from the average."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"A splendid production. Many comments from the patrons saying it was great. One patron however thought the scene showing the big guns in action should be cut, for guns don't spout fire-works. We've seen too many war pictures not to notice this. This picture drew big business on a cold night."—A. R. Anderson, Twin Falls, Idaho.

JEWEL

The Man Without a Country, with Florence LaBadie (Thanhouser)—"A wonderful picture, one of the most forceful arraignments of 'slackerism' I have ever seen. Should play to turn away business everywhere."—Carroll E. King, Johnsonia Theatre, Leesburg, Ohio.

KLEINE

The Land of Long Shadows, with Jack Gardner (Essanay)—"Picture good. Star fine. Beautiful scenery."—Elmer W. Rice, Memorial Hall, Westport, N. Y.

Filling His Own Shoes, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay)—"A picture that pleased a fair crowd. Star fine."—Elmer W. Rice, Memorial Hall, Westport, N. Y.

Two-Bit Seats, with Taylor Holmes (Essanay-Perfection)—"An exceptionally good comedy-drama that pleased everyone."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

METRO

The Weaver of Dreams, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"Picture good, star great, story could be better, photography good."—H. C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Eyes of Mystery, with Edith Storey (Metro)—"A melodrama with plenty of action. It will go over if your audience likes a picture with punch and gun-fighting."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Draft 258, with Mabel Taliaferro (Metro)—"Splendid. Played to capacity."—H. H. Kincey, Academy of Music, Selma, Ala.

The Winding Trail, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A western story with some good character acting. The star's work is liked. We have no fault to find with this offering."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Sleeping Memory, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"Just a fair picture."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Draft 258, with Mabel Taliaferro (Metro)—"An extra good feature injured by titles so dark you could hardly get a ray of light through them with an X-ray machine!"—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Under Suspicion, with Bushman and Bayne (Metero)—"A good picture. Stars are doing excellent work. Business good."—W. C. Lamoreaux, Ascher's Lakeside Theatre, Chicago.—High-class neighborhood.

Broadway Luck, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"A good picture. Star popular. Wonderful snow scenes. Public liked it very much, but are tired of Lockwood in pictures that are a combination of New York and the far north. Too much sameness about Lockwood's stories."—W. C. Lamoreaux, Ascher's Lakeside Theatre, Chicago.—In high-class neighborhood.

MUTUAL

Bab the Fixer, with Jackie Saunders (Horkheimer-Mutual)—"As fine a comedy drama as we have seen. Photography good. All our patrons went out laughing and commented on this. This is a town of one thousand population and we depend on rural patrons mostly. In spite of bad roads business was fair."—John W. Baird, Crystal Theatre, Pattonsburg, Mo.

Reputation, with Edna Goodrich (Mutual)—"Film in very good condition. This is the class of pictures that is making Mutual more popular with my patrons. Business good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Planter, with Tyrone Power (Mutual)—"A good story with Power in a good characterization. Action a little slow at times. Good business."—S. P. Totten, Star Theatre, Everett, Wash.

Miss Jackie of the Army, with Margarita Fischer (American-Mutual)—"Not as good as Miss Jackie of the Navy and not up to Mutual standards, as they are making real pictures."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

The Mate of the Sally Ann, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"The best picture this star ever made. I would say, go after this strong. It will please everybody."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Her Second Husband, with Edna Goodrich (Mutual)—"Just fair, that's all I can say for this. Don't promise too much in this production."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

PARAMOUNT

Son of Democracy, with Benjamin Chapin (Paramount)—"This offering attracted more attention than any picture along the line of a serial (though it is not a serial) than anything I ever played. The first chapter, 'My Mother,' is well done and shows the rough life of Lincoln's boyhood days. I predict that this will be one of the greatest episode pictures ever presented. We have received hundreds of letters about it and hardly an hour passes that we do not receive from one to twenty-five telephone calls asking about it. For a neighborhood house, this picture, if properly handled, is the greatest production an exhibitor can buy. Each exhibitor owes it to himself, as an American citizen, to exploit this picture, and also owes it to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. And besides, it will get money in every neighborhood."—H. C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Hired Man, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"A very good picture for Ray. This star is very popular."—Harry C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Hired Man, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"This is a typical Ray picture which went over big."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Mysterious Miss Terry, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"The picture gets over and that's all. The story is not what it should be."—J. R. Baxter, Jr., Lyceum Theatre, Spring City, Utah.

Arms and the Girl, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"Better than her previous picture."—J. R. Baxter, Lyceum Theatre, Spring City, Utah.

Arms and the Girl, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"Good story, well liked. Big business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Trouble Buster, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"Very good. Went over big."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Call of the East, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"Very good picture. Big business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Out West, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Good comedy. A burlesque on western drama. Received many laughs. Al St. John and Buster Keaton are good foils for Fatty."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Poor Little Peppina, with Mary Pickford (Paramount—"A fine picture. A small house very well pleased."—Elmer W. Rice, Memorial Hall, West Point, N. Y.

Countess Charming, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"A good picture. Took well. Business good."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.—Neighborhood house.

The Ghost House, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A splendid picture. Went over big."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Freckles, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Pleased a capacity house. One of the most satisfactory pictures I have played."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A very good picture which pleased well and drew a big crowd."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Good outdoor picture with many snow scenes. Star is well liked and business was fairly good on a cold day. Theodore Roberts is in the supporting cast. Plenty of action and fights in the picture."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Bab's Burglar, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Subject fair. Plenty of comedy. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

On the Level, with Fannie Ward (Paramount)—"S. R. O. Subject better than the average."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Clever Mrs. Carfax, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Fairly good. Capacity business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Hungry Heart, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"Miss Frederick's best photoplay, in my estimation. Big business. S. R. O."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Son of His Father, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"The biggest day this theatre ever had. A very good photoplay."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Freckles, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Photoplay good. Good business in spite of bad roads. Patrons highly pleased."—John W. Baird, Crystal Theatre, Pattonsburg, Mo.—One thousand population.

Jules of the Strong Heart, with George Beban (Paramount)—"Very good, with many a chuckle here and there. You will find everyone will like this picture. The star does not draw for us."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

A Roadside Impresario, with George Beban (Paramount)—"The first Beban picture we have had that our patrons really cared for."—James M. Fulkerson, Union Hall, Smithfield, Utah.

The Heir of the Ages, with House Peters (Paramount)—"Picture good. Good drawing power. Film good."—James M. Fulkerson, Union Hall, Smithfield, Utah.

The Jaguar's Claws, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"Very good. Our patrons go wild over this star."—James M. Fulkerson, Union Hall, Smithfield, Utah.

The Pullman Bride (Sennett-Paramount)—"A good novelty comedy, the scene of action being on a train. Has the Mack Sennett original tricks and gets many a laugh."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

The Antics of Ann, with Ann Pennington (Paramount)—"A delightful story. We should have more on the same order."—H. H. Kincey, Academy of Music, Selma, Ala.

PATHE

The On-the-Square Girl, with Mollie King (Pathe)—"The picture received a number of comments and seemed to please all."—J. Walton, Auditorium Theatre, Lockwood, Mo.

The German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—"One of the greatest pictures ever made. Photoplay very clear. Interesting from start to finish. Business very good."—W. C. Lamoreaux, Ascher's Lakeside Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The Stars and Stripes in France and France in Arms (Pathe)—"These were accompanied by Pathe lectures. We could not accommodate the patrons. These are splendid productions. Show actual fights in the air between two French and two German airplanes. It is very thrilling. Both the German airplanes are seen falling to the ground."—A. R. Anderson, Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho.

The Pendleton Round-up of 1917 (Pathe)—"Three reels. The best round-up picture I believe ever made. Real bucking bronchos and action that made the audience hold on to their seats Turn-away business."—A. R. Anderson, Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho.

SELECT

Panthea, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"This star is wonderful and a great drawing card. Picture very good."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

The Marionettes, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"Picture fairly good. Drawing power limited. Photography excellent."—H. C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Secret of the Storm Country, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"This is absolutely a wonderful picture. Norma Talmadge is positively great in this."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Her Silent Sacrifice, with Alice Brady (Select)—"Miss Brady is a favorite here. This played to big business."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

Shirley Kaye, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"Heard no complaints. Picture is good, but the title does not attract those who have never heard of it."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

TRIANGLE

Ashes of Hope, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"One of the best Triangles that we have ever played. Went over big."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Phantom Husband, with Ruth Stonehouse (Triangle)—"Good entertainment for anyone. Big business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Medicine Man, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"Good story. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Indiscreet Corinne, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"Triangle deserves the highest praise for a photoplay of this kind. Big business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Seeking Happiness, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"A splendid feature. Everyone pleased."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—"A good picture that pleased. Film in good condition. Business good."—L. Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

One-Shot Ross, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"Film in extra good condition. A first-class picture, far superior to the old pictures of this class. Business extra good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

One-Shot Ross, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A photoplay that should go over big for other houses as it did for me."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.—Neighborhood house.

Idolators, with Louise Glaum (Triangle)—"Picture O. K. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mountain Dew, with Margery Wilson (Triangle)—"A photoplay that should make money for any house."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Polly Ann, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"Up to the usual Triangle standard. Good business."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Haunted House, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Very good. Business O. K."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Flying Colors, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"Very good. Business good."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Bond of Fear, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A very good subject. Big business. Stewart draws as well for us as Hart."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Devil Dodger, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"Nuff sed."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

An Even Break, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"Fine character study, strong plot, excellent star. Miss Thomas surely is a comer. Liked by everyone."—Carroll E. King, Johnsonia Theatre, Leesburg, O.

VITAGRAPH

The Marriage Speculation, with Mildred Manning (Vitagraph)—"A good feature."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

The Maelstrom, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"Film good and audience well pleased. Played to good business."—J. Walton, Auditorium Theatre, Lockwood, Mo.

The Glory of Yolanda, with Anita Stewart (Vitagraph)—"Excellent from every angle."—J. Walton, Auditorium Theatre, Lockwood, Mo.

WORLD

Whims of Society, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Played it on the first warm Sunday to nearly record business."—Gordon Francis, Hyde Park Theatre, Chicago.

Gates of Gladness, with Madge Evans (World)—"Star is becoming a favorite with our fans. Picture went well and we heard no complaints. One good thing about Madge's pictures is that they interest grown-ups as well as children."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Broken Ties, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"A fair picture."—H. C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Tenth Case, with June Elvidge (World)—"A good program release. People liked June Elvidge. The supporting cast, with one or two exceptions, was weak."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

The Little Volunteer, with Madge Evans (World)—"I tried to avoid booking this because I thought it a child's picture, but I am now very glad I ran it. Boost it to the limit. Such pictures are a credit to your house."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

The Divine Sacrifice, with Kitty Gordon (World)—"The star has not the personality to attract as some of her younger rivals do. This picture is fairly good and drew well."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

The Web of Desire, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Good. Pleased everyone. This is the star's first time here."—E. A. Keithly, Lyric Theatre, Center, Mo.

SERIALS AND SERIES

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Best we ever played. Turned them away on the first episode. In our theatre, 495 seating capacity, we played to 1,200 people in three shows."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Goes over well. Excellent photography, outdoor stuff, like The Fighting Trail, with the same characters."—A. R. Anderson, Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho.

The Voice on the Wire (Universal)—"Went over big all through the entire serial."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mystery Ship and The Red Ace (Universal)—"Going very big."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Fatal Ring, with Pearl White (Pathe)—"A knock-out."—Maurice Haas, Pelham Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Lost Express, with Helen Holmes (Mutual)—"Capacity business. Nuff sed."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—"If you can hold the crowd until the sixth episode, you are sure of them afterwards."—E. A. Keithly, Lyric Theatre, Center, Mo.

STATE RIGHTS AND SPECIALS

Today, with Florence Reed (Pathe)—"Wonderful acting on the part of the entire cast. Story simple but effective. Good business."—S. P. Totten, Star Theatre, Everett, Wash.

Today, with Florence Reed (Pathe)—"A great picture. Drew capacity business here without much advertising, but the right kind."—D. H. Bestor, Court Theatre, Kankakee, Ill.

The Light Within, with Mme. Petrova (McClure)—"A little better than the average Petrova picture."—H. C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Birth of a Nation (D. W. Griffith)—"This broke all of our box-office records. Take notice, you producers who charge fifteen cents a reel for running your pictures, these films went through my machine almost perfectly and they had been run 216 times before they came here. They are expected to go 200 more at least, and yet you say the life of a film is fifty shows."—William Call, Kozy Theatre, Moroni, Utah.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Picture Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of Motography, is published:

A

Adopted Son (Metro)—February 9, February 2.
Adventures of Buffalo Bill (Kleine)—February 2.
Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—February 23.
All For a Husband (Fox)—March 2, February 2.
Amazons (Paramount)—February 2.
American Husband, Her (Triangle)—February 23.
American Maid (Mutual)—February 9.
Annie For Spite (Mutual)—February 9.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 2.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 2, February 9.
Apartment 29 (Vitagraph)—February 9, February 2.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—February 9.
Arms and the Girl (Paramount)—March 2, February 23, February 2.
Artie the Millionaire Kid (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—March 2, February 23.
At a Premium (Metro)—February 2.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—March 2, February 16, February 9.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—February 9.

B

Bab the Fixer (Mutual)—March 2, February 16.
Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—March 2, February 23.
Bab's Diary (Paramount)—February 23, February 16, February 9, February 2.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—February 23, February 9.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—February 16.
Baby Mine (Goldwyn)—February 23, February 9.
Barbary Sheep (Artcraft)—February 2.
Barrier (Goldwyn)—February 23, February 9.

Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—February 23, February 2.
Because of a Woman (Triangle)—February 9.
Beloved Rogues (Mutual)—February 9.
Betrayed (Fox)—February 9.
Betty Takes a Hand (Triangle)—February 23, February 9.
Between Men (Triangle)—February 16.
Big V. Comedies (Vitagraph)—February 23, February 9, February 2.
Birth of a Nation (Griffith)—March 2.
Blind Justice (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Blood Will Tell (Triangle)—February 23.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—February 9, February 2.
Bond of Fear (Triangle)—March 2, February 16, February 9.
Bondage (Bluebird)—February 9.
Book Agent (Fox)—February 16.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—February 2.
Bottom of the Well (Vitagraph)—February 2.
Bride's Silence (Mutual)—February 9.
Broadway Luck (Metro)—March 2.
Broken Ties (World)—March 2.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—February 9.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—February 23.
Butterfly Girl (Mutual)—February 9.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—February 23.
Call of the East (Paramount)—March 2, February 9.
Camille (Fox)—February 9.
Candy Girl (Pathe)—February 9.
Cassidy (Triangle)—February 23, February 2.
Charity Castle (Mutual)—February 9.
Cheating the Public (Fox)—March 2, February 23.
Cinderella (Paramount)—February 2.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—March 2, February 23, February 9.
Clean-up (Bluebird)—February 2.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—March 2, February 23, February 9.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—February 23, February 9.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—February 16, February 9.
Come Through (Jewel)—February 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—February 23, February 9.
Conquest Programs (Kleine)—February 9.
Conscience (Fox)—March 2, February 23.
Cook of Canyon Camp (Paramount)—February 23.
Corner Grocery (World)—February 9.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 2, February 2.
Country Hero (Paramount)—February 16.
Country's Call, Her (Mutual)—February 23.
Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—March 2.
Crooked Romance (Pathe)—February 23, February 2.
Crystal Gazer (Paramount)—February 2.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—February 9.
Cupid's Round-up (Fox)—February 2.

D

Dangers of a Bride (Keystone)—February 9.
Daughter of Destiny (Petrova)—February 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 2, February 9.
Daughter of Uncle Sam (General)—February 23, February 2.
Daybreak (Metro)—February 23.
Debt (Mutual)—February 9.
Desire of the Moth (Bluebird)—March 2.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 2.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—February 16, February 9.
Diamonds and Pearls (World)—February 23, February 9.
Disciple (Triangle)—February 2.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 2, February 16.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—February 2.
Double Trouble (Triangle)—February 2.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 2, February 2.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 2, February 2.
Drew Comedies (Metro)—February 23.
Dummy (Paramount)—February 9.

E

Easiest Way (Select)—February 9, February 2.
Easy Money (World)—February 9.
Environment (Mutual)—February 9, February 2.
Eternal Grind (Paramount)—February 9.
Eternal Mother (Metro)—February 16.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—February 2.
Even Break (Triangle)—March 2, February 2.
Every Girl's Dream (Fox)—February 9.
Exile (Paramount)—February 23, February 2.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—March 2.

F

Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—February 16, February 2.
Falcon Features (General)—February 23, February 9.
Fall of a Nation (Vitagraph)—February 23, February 2.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—March 2, February 16.
Fear Not (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fibbers (Kleine)—February 16.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—March 2, February 23.
Fifty-Fifty (Triangle)—February 23.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—February 16.
Fighting Gentleman, My (Mutual)—February 9.
Fighting Mad (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—February 2.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—February 23, February 16, February 9, February 2.
Filling His Own Shoes (Kleine)—March 2, February 9.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—February 23, February 2.
Fires of Rebellion (Bluebird)—February 9.
Flames of Chance (Triangle)—February 9.
Flirting With Death (Bluebird)—February 16.
Flying Colors (Triangle)—March 2, February 16.
Food Gamblers (Triangle)—February 2.
Footlights of Fate (Vitagraph)—February 9.
For France (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Ford Educational Weekly—February 23.
France in Arms (Pathe)—February 23.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 2.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—February 16, February 9.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—February 23.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 2.
General Comedies—February 23.
General Film Program—February 2.
George Ade Fables (General)—February 2.
Gentle Intruder (Mutual)—February 9.
German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—March 2.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 2.
Ghosts of Yesterday (Select)—February 16.
Girl Angle (Mutual)—February 2.
Girl by the Roadside (Bluebird)—March 2.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—February 16, February 9.
Girl Who Couldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—February 2.
Glory of Yolande (Vitagraph)—March 2.

God's Country and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 16.
God's Crucible (Bluebird)—February 2.
Going Straight (Triangle)—February 2.
Golden Rule Kate (Triangle)—February 9, February 2.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—February 9.
Gown of Destiny (Triangle)—February 9.
Graustark (Kleine)—February 9.
Grell Mystery (Vitagraph)—February 9.

H

Habit of Happiness (Triangle)—February 23, February 16, February 2.
Hashimura Togo (Paramount)—February 16, February 2.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 2.
Haunted Pajamas (Metro)—February 16.
Heart of Ezra Greer (Pathe)—February 23.
Heart of a Lion (Fox)—March 2.
Heir of the Ages (Paramount)—March 2.
Helene of the North (Paramount)—February 23.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—February 16, February 2.
Her American Husband (Triangle)—February 23.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—February 23.
Her Second Husband (Mutual)—March 2.
Her Silent Sacrifice (Select)—March 2, February 23.
Her Sister (Mutual)—February 9.
High Play (Mutual)—February 23, February 9.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 2.
His Bitter Pill (Triangle)—February 2.
His Mother's Son (Paramount)—February 2.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—February 23.
His Smashing Career (Fox)—March 2.
His Sweetheart (Paramount)—February 16.
Honeymoon (Select)—February 9.
Honor System (Fox)—February 2, February 9.
Hopper (Triangle)—February 23.
Hostage (Paramount)—February 2.
Hulda from Holland (Paramount)—February 2.

I

I Love You (Triangle)—February 9.
I Will Repay (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Idolators (Triangle)—March 2, February 2.
Impostor (Mutual)—February 2.
In Slumberland (Triangle)—February 2.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Indian Summer (General)—March 2.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—March 2, February 23.
Indiscretion (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Island of Surprise (Vitagraph)—February 9.

J

Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—February 9.
Jack and Jill (Paramount)—February 23.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 2.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—March 2.
Judge Brown Stories (General)—February 23, February 2.
Judgment House (Paramount)—February 23, February 9, February 2.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 2, February 2.

K

Keystone Comedies (Triangle)—February 2.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—February 23, February 2.
Land of Long Shadows (Kleine)—March 2.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—February 23, February 16.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—February 23.
Lash of Power (Bluebird)—February 23.
Last of the Carnabys (Pathe)—February 23.
Law Decides (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Law of the Land (Paramount)—February 2.
Law's Outlaw (Triangle)—February 16.
Less Than the Dust (Artcraft)—March 2.
Light Within (Petrova)—March 2.
Little Boy, My (Bluebird)—February 16.
Little Brother (Triangle)—February 16.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—February 2.
Little Patriot (Pathe)—February 23.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—March 2, February 23, February 16.
Little Terror (Bluebird)—February 2.
Little Volunteer (World)—February 23, March 2.
Lonesome Town (Mutual)—February 16.
Lost and Won (Paramount)—February 16.
Lost Express (Mutual)—March 2, February 23, February 9, February 2.
Lost in Transit (Paramount)—February 2.
Love Letters (Paramount)—February 23.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—February 9.

M

Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—February 2.
Madame Who (Paralta)—February 23.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Magda (Select)—February 9.
Man Above the Law (Triangle)—February 9.
Man From Montana (Butterfly)—March 2, February 23.
Man From Painted Post (Artcraft)—March 2, February 2.
Man Trap (Bluebird)—February 23, February 2.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—February 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—February 23.
Man Who Would Not Die (Mutual)—February 9.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—March 2, February 23.
Man's Man (Paralta)—February 16.
Mark of Cain (Pathe)—February 23.
Marriage Speculation (Vitagraph)—March 2, February 23.
Marionettes (Select)—March 2.
Master of His Home (Triangle)—February 2.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—March 2, February 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 2.
Milk-fed Vamp (Fox)—February 23, February 2.
Million Dollar Husband (Paramount)—February 2.
Millionaire Vagrant (Triangle)—February 9.
Miss Jackie of the Army (Mutual)—February 23.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (Mutual)—March 2, February 2.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—February 2, February 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—March 2, February 23. February 11, February 9.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—February 23, February 16.
Money Magic (Vitagraph)—February 16.
More Truth Than Poetry (Metro)—February 2.
Moth (Select)—February 16.
Mother (State Rights)—February 23, February 2.
Mother O' Mine (Bluebird)—March 2.
Mountain Dew (Triangle)—March 2, February 16.
Mr. 44 (Metro)—February 2.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—February 9.
Mutt and Jeff Cartoons (Fisher)—February 2.
My Little Boy (Bluebird)—February 16.
Mysterious Miss Terry (Paramount)—February 2, March 2.
Mysterious Mr. Tiller (Bluebird)—March 2, February 16, February 9.
Mystery Ship (Universal)—March 2.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 2, February 9.
Nanette of the Wilds (Paramount)—February 2.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 2, February 9.
Nation's Peril (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Ne'er Do Well (Selig)—February 16.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—February 23, February 16.
New York Luck (Mutual)—February 23.
North of 53 (Fox)—February 16.

O

O. Henry Pictures (General)—February 23.
Old Folks at Home (Triangle)—February 23.
On the Level (Paramount)—March 2, February 11.
On the Square Girl (Pathe)—March 2.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—March 2, February 23, February 2.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 2.
Outcast (Mutual)—February 16, February 2.
Outsider (Metro)—February 9.
Out West (Paramount)—March 2.
Outwitted (Metro)—February 23.

P

Paddy O'Hara (Triangle)—February 16.
Painted Lie (Mutual)—February 9.
Painted Madonna (Fox)—February 23, February 2.
Panthea (Select)—March 2.
Pants (Kleine)—February 9.
Paradise Garden (Metro)—February 16, February 2.
Patriot (Triangle)—February 2.
Payment (Triangle)—February 2.
Pearl of Paradise (Mutual)—February 9.
Peer Gynt (Paramount)—February 2.
Pendleton Round-up (Pathe)—March 2.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 2, February 2.
Pinch Hitter (Triangle)—February 16.
Planter (Mutual)—March 2.
Please Help Emily (Metro)—February 9, February 2.
Polly Ann (Triangle)—March 2.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—February 23, February 9.
Poor Little Peppina (Paramount)—February 9.
Pretenders (Metro)—February 9.
Price Mark (Paramount)—February 23.
Price She Paid (Select)—February 9.
Pride and the Man (Mutual)—February 16, February 9, February 2.
Princess Virtue (Bluebird)—February 16.
Public Be Damned (Select)—February 9.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 2.

R

Raggedy Queen (Bluebird)—February 2.
Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—February 23.
Rasputin (World)—February 23, February 15.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 2, February 16, February 2.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—February 23, February 2.
Red Ace (Universal)—February 23, February 9, February 2.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—February 9.
Redemption (State Rights)—February 9.
Reed Case (Butterfly)—February 9.
Reputation (Mutual)—March 2.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—February 9.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 2, February 9.
Roadside Impresario (Paramount)—March 2.
Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells (Fox)—February 16.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—February 23, February 2.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—February 9.

S

Salvation Joan (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Sands of Sacrifice (Mutual)—February 23.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—February 16.
Scandal (Select)—February 9.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 2, February 16.
Scrub Lady (Goldwyn)—February 9.
Secret Game (Paramount)—February 23, February 16, February 9, February 2.
Secret of the Storm Country (Select)—March 2.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—March 2, February 16, February 2.
Serpent's Tooth (Mutual)—February 9.
Seven Keys to Baldpate (Artcraft)—February 2.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—February 23, February 9.
Shadows of Her Past (Fox)—February 16.
Shirley Kaye (Select)—March 2, February 23, February 2.
Show-down (Bluebird)—February 2.
Silence Sellers (Metro)—February 2.
Silent Lady (Butterfly)—March 2, February 23.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—February 16.
Silent Master (Select)—February 9.
Silks and Satins (Paramount)—February 2.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—February 16, February 2.
Skinner's Baby (Kleine)—February 2.
Skinner's Bubble (Kleine)—February 9, February 2.
Skinner's Dress Suit (Kleine)—February 16, February 9.
Slacker (Metro)—February 23, February 2.
Slave (Standard)—February 16.
Sleeping Memory (Metro)—March 2.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—February 23, February 16.
Snarl (Triangle)—February 23, February 9.
Snow White (Paramount)—February 16, February 2.
Soft Tenderfoot (Fox)—February 9.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 2.
Son of His Father (Paramount)—March 2, February 16, February 9.
Souls in Pawn (Mutual)—February 16.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—March 2.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—February 16, February 2.
Spy (Fox)—February 23, February 9.
Square Deal Man (Triangle)—February 16.
Stage Struck (Triangle)—February 16.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—March 2.
Stars and Stripes in France (Pathe)—March 2.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—February 23.
Stolen Hours (World)—February 23, February 9.
Stormy Knight (Bluebird)—March 2, February 16.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—February 23.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—February 9.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—February 2.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—February 23.
Sunset Trail (Paramount)—February 23, February 2.
Suspect (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—February 2.

T

T. Haviland Hicks (Kleine)—February 23.
Tanks at Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—February 9.
Tar-heel Warrior (Triangle)—February 9.
Tenderfoot (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 2.

Thais (Goldwyn)—February 23, February 16, February 9, March 2.
Their Compact (Metro)—February 2.
They're Off (Triangle)—February 2.
This Is the Life (Fox)—February 23.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—February 9.
Today (Pathe)—March 2, February 23.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—February 23, February 16.
Torture of Silence (Pathe)—February 2.
Treason (Bluebird)—February 23, February 16.
Treasure Island (Fox)—February 23.
Triumph (Bluebird)—March 2.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—March 2.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (Universal)—February 9.
Two-Bit Seats (Kleine)—March 2.

U

Under False Colors (Pathe)—February 9, February 2.
Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 2, February 16.
Understudy (General)—February 2.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—February 16.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—February 23.
Up or Down (Triangle)—February 16.

V

Valley of the Moon (Paramount)—February 23.
Varmint (Paramount)—February 2.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 2, February 16.
Virginian (Paramount)—February 2.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—February 23, February 16.
Voice on the Wire (Universal)—March 2.

W

Wall Street Tragedy (Mutual)—February 9.
War's Women (State Rights)—February 9.
Weaker Sex (Triangle)—February 2.
Weaver of Dreams (Metro)—March 2.
Web of Desire (World)—March 2.
Wee Lady Betty (Triangle)—February 2.
When False Tongues Speak (Fox)—February 9.
Whims of Society (World)—March 2.
White Raven (Metro)—February 16.
Who Goes There? (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Who Loved Him Best? (Mutual)—February 16.
Who Is Number One? (Paramount)—February 9.
Whom the Gods Destroy (Vitagraph)—February 2.
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—February 16.
Wildcat (Mutual)—February 9.
Wild Girl (Select)—February 9.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—February 2.
Winding Trail (Metro)—March 2, February 16.
Winning of Sally Temple (Paramount)—February 2.
Within the Law (Vitagraph)—February 9, February 2.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—February 23.
Woman and Wife (Select)—February 23, February 16.
Woman Beneath (World)—February 2.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—February 16, February 9.
Woman's Awakening (Triangle)—February 2.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Wooden Shoes (Triangle)—February 2.
World For Sale (Paramount)—February 16.

Y

Yankee Way (Fox)—February 23, February 9, February 2.

Z

Zaza (Paramount)—February 16.
Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—February 9.

Coincidence In "The Reason Why"

Lucille, Lady Duff-Gordon, creator of women's fashions, it taking an active interest in the filming of "The Reason Why," a dramatization of Elinor Glyn's well-known novel of the same name, which Clara Kimball Young is planning to make as her next Select production.

In ignorance of the fact that Lucille and Mrs. Glyn are sisters, Miss Young went to the famous designer for the purpose of ordering gowns for the picture. During the interview the title of the play was mentioned and Lady Duff-Gordon at once became keenly interested. She explained to Miss Young the relationship between herself and Mrs. Glyn and assured the star that her own personal attention would be given the gowns.

In consequence, "The Reason Why" is destined to go down in film industry as one of the most extravagantly costumed pictures of the day. Miss Young has ordered nineteen gowns in all. These include evening and morning and afternoon frocks, dinner and tea gowns, robes d'intime and sports clothes. Sets are now being constructed for the picture and work is scheduled to start immediately.

"The Reason Why" is one of the most popular of Elinor Glyn's novels. It was first published serially in a New York magazine and later brought out in book form. The gayest of European society forms a background for the action of the story and the characters are tinged with romance and high adventure. The screen adaptation has been prepared by Mary Murillo and the picture will be directed by Robert G. Vignola.

Canada and U. S. Work Together

Canada exhibitors are watching conditions in the United States closely these days. It is plain now that there is very close co-operation between the governments at Washington and Ottawa and the exhibitors are able to anticipate many regulations in a general way.

There is a strong feeling in Canadian film circles that the next step by Washington will be to save daylight during the greater part of the year by moving all clocks forward one hour. If this move is taken in the states, as indicated by the latest dispatches, then Canada will follow suit. Toronto exhibitors are already trying to figure out means to offset any adverse influence which might arise from moving the clock hands.

Toronto streets now resemble those of London, England, on the night of a raid. All exterior illumination of buildings has been cut off, thousands of street lights have been shut off, absolutely no store window in the city is illuminated and candles and coal oil lamps have been revived.

Not one electric light is allowed on the front or entrance to theatres. The only outside lighting permitted is that from the exterior emergency exit lamps. Even the interior lobby illumination is cut down.

A number of the larger downtown theatres, including the Allen, Globe, Rialto and Red Mill have obtained permission to use gas lamps with reflectors in order to light the entrances. Some exhibitors asked to be permitted to use several exterior electric lights as a safeguard for patrons, but they were refused.

The theatres are also prohibited from using electric lights behind glass signs which bear the names of current attractions. It is impossible as a result to depend upon any electric illumination to find any theatre while riding along in motor cars or trolleys. It is even sometimes difficult to find a theatre at all, yet the theatres are handling good crowds.

Saturday, February 9, and Monday, February 11, were heatless holidays for all factories, office buildings, etc., with certain exceptions in both Ontario and Quebec, but the theatres were allowed to remain open. The result was that all moving picture theatres in Toronto did a wonderful business on both days. Practically every film theatre in the city was filled to capacity three or four times on both days.

This business, local exhibitors believed, would make up for losses which will be encountered through the closing of theatres for five successive Mondays starting February 18.

S. ROYAL TUPPER
General Manager

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W. BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday. New advertisements will be accepted up to within ten days of date of issue, but proof of such advertisements can not be shown in advance of publication.

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - - Per year $4.00
Foreign - - Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - - .15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 2, 1918 Number 9

Some Free Advice on Picture Making

GIVING advice is so easy, and withal so gratifying to the giver, that it has become one of the stock properties of humor. Yet we would not discourage it if we could, for out of many and miscellaneous suggestions for the betterment of our business or the cure of our colds there frequently come a few ideas of real value. And so there may be a thought or two in the views expressed to the National Board of Review the other day by members of a picture audience "representative," the board says, "of New York."

The report quotes six of the opinions contributed to its invitation, three of which it identifies as coming from a professor of English, a journalist (whatever exact meaning that term may have) and a successful scenario writer. Our associate remarks that the "representative" audience seems to have been composed of highbrows; but possibly he was unduly impressed by the presence of the professor.

A symposium of the comment recorded gives about this list of recommendations:

Simplicity in acting, higher scenario ideals, clean tone.

Heart appeal, closer observation of human nature, less emotion and comedy vulgarity, less punch and more sincerity.

More careful subtitles, more simplicity and truth in stage settings.

Make pictorial as well as dramatic ART the fundamental controlling factor, avoid the risque, escape from the rapidly growing list of directors' conventionalities and hackneyed devices.

And again—simplicity, human interest.

Of course, there is not a really new thing in the list—unless it is the adjuration to avoid those set tricks of directing which are accumulating as fast as set phrases of expression gather around a careless writer's pen. That is a subject which promises to be interesting for future discussion, when someone shall have collected enough data for a story.

But the other suggestions, including the one about subtitles and settings, are good if they are old; perhaps all the better for that reason. Simplicity particularly is the best of guides, and paradoxically the hardest to follow because ambition always tends away from it. Yet we could mention one director who, with all his mastery of stupendous spectacles, has never lost simplicity. You all know whom we mean.

The "successful scenario writer" mentioned in the board's report, whom we have not yet quoted, devoted his five minutes to a criticism of slap-stick comedy—introducing it with the statement that the magazine story has steadily declined in popular favor, and that therefore the film should watch its step.

We once wrote an argument in favor of slap-stick comedy, and we are not yet inclined to change our attitude. Moreover, we regard Chaplinism as an institution which would be sorely missed if its type should disappear.

"Give us," says the successful scenario writer, "more mental action and less physical action. So many producers rely almost wholly on physical action as to throw the picture into the dime novel class. Mental action is the real essential of a good play."

Very desirable, to be sure. But the picture would become anaemic if it did not take some exercise, and slap-stick comedy is its blood circulator. Avoid the vulgar and the risque, and seek simplicity, and no classification of picture needs an apology.

* * *

Serving the Rural Fifty Millions

PICTURES are as frequently made in the country as in the city. The location finders and the camera men know neither geographical nor social boundaries. But wherever the negatives are taken, they are generally aimed for the gratification of city folk. The concentrated populations are the only locations deemed remunerative for the showing of pictures.

The rural population of the United States constitutes over fifty per cent of the total population. A motion picture industry conducted as a public utility would have to see to it that these scattered rural units received the same entertainment service as the congested urban units.

The picture industry is not a public utility, even theoretically, because the exhibitor is an independent unit and is free to select his location where the greatest attendance is promised. The fact that the farmer wants pictures does not bring them to him, because it takes a thousand people wanting pictures to establish a theatre patronage. The farmer's automobile has helped solve the problem, of course, by extending the service area of the small town theatre ten or twenty miles into the country.

But even that makes the farmer's picture show attendance an event, and not a habit. To give him his full opportunity and therefore make his patronage profitable to the industry, the theatre must be convenient of access to the more or less isolated millions he represents.

Taking the picture to the farmer presents two major problems. The first is housing. Comparatively few rural centers can provide buildings or facilities suitable for picture shows. The second is money. This, as always, is the more important problem, because it influences all other considerations. If it were sufficiently profitable to the industry, films, housing, operators, and all other paraphernalia would be furnished as a matter of course.

The state of North Carolina has had some experience along this line which indicates the possibilities of future development of the motion picture as a means of rural recreation. In that state the legislature, at its last session, appropriated $25,000 to assist rural communities in arranging for motion picture entertainments. This fund is administered by the state superintendent of public instruction and the state bureau of community service. The act provides for a series of entertainments varying in number and cost, two-thirds of the cost being paid by the community served and one-third by the state. A unit consisting of one complete projection outfit, films, operator, and everything necessary for one year's service costs about $3,000, the county's share of this expense being $2,000 and the state providing the balance.

The North Carolina plan involves the organization of a circuit of ten community centers, each guaranteeing its proportionate part of the cost to the county board of education. Entertainments lasting about one and one-half hours are held twice a month in connection with the general community development meetings.

It is suggested by the National Board of Review that the North Carolina plan could be carried out without state aid, through the medium of farmers' clubs, granges and the like. Based on the necessarily low operating cost (about twelve dollars per performance) North Carolina has found that a ten cent admission charge is actually profitable, some performances having taken in more than three times their cost.

While it is gratifying to the industry to be accorded the hearty approval of a state, whose sincerity is demonstrated by its funds, it would be still more satisfying to see the industry itself get back of the rural problem. This big industry should have men in it big enough to derive pleasure from the practical application of the North Carolina plan to other states, backed by their personal financial guarantee.

And it has such men. They are willing and able, but they are not yet interested because the immediate thing they are doing takes all their time and attention. A great many things will be accomplished that are now scarcely considered when the big men of the picture business have so adjusted their affairs that they have more leisure.

Turmoil is the Life of "The Game"

DAY WHEN INDUSTRY "SETTLES DOWN" MAY MEAN GETTING IN A RUT

BY MACK SENNETT

Here is one of the best pen pictures of the motion picture industry ever written. Mr. Sennett has turned out a masterpiece, but it is a question whether he had any idea of doing so when he started out. Admittedly his purpose was to say something nice about "Mickey," a Mabel Normand picture that he produced and which is controlled by the Western Import Company. He has done that, but he has gone farther. Sometimes the best things one does are with another idea in view. But this adds to, rather than detracts from, the effort. Read this story by all means. It is truly an inspiration.

THERE IS NO FORM of American industry which experiences such rapid and sensational changes as the motion picture business. There is no other business which has made such enormous strides in so short a time.

It is my impression that much of this extraordinary development is due to the fact that the producers have never had a chance to get into a rut. The business is too new to have developed much of a rut.

Dread Day of Settling Down

I often hear producers sigh for the day when the picture business finds itself and settles down. For my part I dread that day. When it settles down it is likely to sink.

The salvation of the picture business has been that the workers in its ranks have been vigorous young men who came into the field from other professions. Some came from newspaper offices and they brought to it newspaper readiness and resources; also a wide knowledge of human nature. I suppose there is no institution in the world where so much is accomplished in so short a space of time as in a modern newspaper office.

Other young fellows came from the stage; from the college campus; from the automobile racing game; from railroad offices and even from the prize ring. Each brought youth and enthusiasm; each one also brought special knowledge.

Studios a Melting Pot of Ideas

The motion picture studio has been the great melting pot of new ideas; especially in the mechanical departments. Absolute wonders of photography have been accomplished. In fact, photography has virtually been removed from the realms of art. It has been standardized into a routine.

The conduct of a studio is coming to a danger point where it will be easy to slip into ruts. It is not possible that the next ten years will bring forth the new things that the past ten have produced. As a matter of necessity the future development of the movies will have to be along somewhat more standardized lines.

The first sprint is over; the picture business is now settling down to a long grind. Those who allow themselves to settle down with it into a rut will find the going hard.

Life a Process of Changing

Henri Bergsen, the noted French philosopher, wrote a young library which so few understood that someone wrote a "key" to Bergsen. So few "got" the key that another fellow wrote a key to the key. But anyhow, Bergsen gave out one mighty thought that we can all understand and take to heart: That life is the process of changing. And when you stop changing you die and decay.

M. Bergsen could have said that with one eye on some motion picture studio. In my business, I do not regard a single rule or institution of the studio as permanent. There isn't a day that I don't change things around in some way.

Sometimes these changes are made in parts of the machinery that are apparently in good working order. I believe in making changes sometimes just for the sake of the changes; just to keep things moving; to keep anybody from taking root.

"Let Well Enough Alone?" No!

The man who recommended that well enough should be let alone didn't know much about modern business competition. If you let well enough alone, presently you find yourself let alone and all your customers gone over to some other fellow who did not have such complacent ideas.

The most deadly thing in the world of business—especially in the motion picture business—is to tell yourself that everything at last is as it should be.

No man's operations will ever actually reach the stage where he can afford to be satisfied with them. When you get to the place where you feel that you can rest satisfied with the results, you can be pretty sure that at least one part of the establishment is dreadfully out of "kilter" and that is yourself.

I believe in progressiveness and the greatest example I can refer to in explanation of this belief is "MICKEY," which to my mind, will set a standard in photoplay producing that will require an awful lot of far-sighted thinking to surpass.

Constance Talmadge in the Select picture, "The Shuttle."

Horkheimer Launches a New Star

DECLARES MONA LISA IS OBJECT OF SEARCH FOR IDEAL BEAUTY

H. M. HORKHEIMER announces that his nation-wide search for a beautiful woman to launch into stardom is over and that he has been more successful than he had permitted himself to hope.

The woman bears such a striking resemblance to Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" that he purposes to star her under that name.

The likeness, moreover, is not a matter of chance, Mr. Horkheimer says, but the new star actually is a descendant of da Vinci's famous model.

Painting Is Art History

The annals of art contain no more fascinating story than that of da Vinci's life-long search for "the woman soul." He finally found it in the young wife of Zanobi del Giocondo, a sixteenth century patrician, when she came to sit for her portrait.

The Madonna Lisa, as she was then known, proved such an unusual subject that the artist devoted four years to her picture. It turned out a masterpiece and is regarded today by many as the most perfect specimen of feminine portraiture on canvas.

Many Rejected By Horkheimer

Just so, Mr. Horkheimer has been combing the country in search of one who would measure up to his ideal for a contemplated film production. To this end, upwards of a thousand applicants have been passed on. Many have been beautiful and possessed of charm. Yet, each lacked something which prevented her even approximating the standard set.

About the time he was beginning to despair, Mr. Horkheimer had a woman caller.

"Mona Lisa!" he greeted her.

"Why call me that?" she smiled.

"Because of the striking resemblance you bear to the famous painting. It is unmistakable—your eyes, the smile, that face! Ever had any stage experience?"

"Some," she admitted. "And now, I want a chance to work before the camera."

Makes Good in Try-out

That was easily arranged. At the try-out she brought to view exceptional photographic qualities and showed the sort of dramatic fire which should make her a favorite with screen connoisseurs.

To be addressed as Mona Lisa was no new experience. Friends had often noted the likeness. Of Italian parentage, there was a tradition in the family that it was distantly related to Leonardo's heroine. Investigation established the tradition as true.

As a little girl, the renowned portrait had appealed strongly to the modern

Mona Lisa of the famous painting and Mona Lisa of the films.

Mona Lisa. A copy hung in her bedroom and she spent hours studying it, often imitating the make-up. The haunting, enigmatic charm of the original's face is to be found again in the present-day edition. Although the eyes are a trifle larger, they are as fetching and benign as those of the prototype.

In view of all this, the new Horkheimer star has adopted Mona Lisa as her professional name and logically so. The practice is not unusual, because few people in the player-world go by their real names. This is particularly true of the very best known artists.

The amusement-seeking public is ever on the qui vive for a new idol, at whose shrine to burn incense. It is the eternal cry: "The king is dead; long live the king!" Wherefore, it is believed that Mona Lisa has a good chance to win the motion-picture-goers' favor. Competent critics who have viewed her pictures declare her to be "the world's most beautiful woman." This is a strong statement and there will probably be a lot of Missourians until shown.

To Make Debut in Drama

Mona Lisa's first screen appearance will be in an emotional drama of seven reels. The piece is one Mr. Horkheimer has been waiting years to do, while seeking the right player for the stellar role. In Mona Lisa, he is sure she has been found, at last. The play, from which the film version has been adapted, is to be presented on Broadway's speaking stage about the same time the picture is released.

Paul Powell, who is filming the piece, predicts that Mona Lisa will prove one of the greatest finds in the history of the screen.

Long Time Since New Star

It has been a long time since a new film star of the first magnitude was discovered. Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Clara Kimball Young, Mae Marsh—all hark back several years. Meanwhile, numerous actresses have vainly sought to displace them in the public's favor, or to win a place for themselves in their class.

Comes now Mona Lisa, with her subtle smile and soft eyes, seeking a following of her own. Endowed with youth, beauty and artistry, she starts unhandicapped and should win the coveted niche if her grip proves anything like that of da Vinci's treasure.

Speaking of Mary MacLane

And now Mary MacLane, star in "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," writes to George K. Spoor that as a conservation measure she is experimenting to get a potatoless boiled potato highball. "However," she says, "I fear the peculiarly appetizing aroma cannot be maintained by using any other ingredient."

Economy Urged as Patriotic Move

WASTAGE OF FILM BY DIRECTORS DECLARED WITHOUT EXCUSE

BY SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON
President of the American Film Company.

REDUCTION OF OUTPUT seems to be occupying manufacturers to some extent just now. Level-headed manufacturers have seen this crisis coming for more than a year and have prepared for it.

Every producer who has taken the precaution to look ahead and figure out the situation for himself has known that reduction was bound to come. No company can afford to work without profit and as the motion picture film is not usually an article which increases in value with the holding, it cannot pay to make too many just to shelve for a possible market.

Waste of Film Deplorable

For one thing, conservation in the use of the film proper is important. When you hear a director solemnly assuring you that he must waste thousands of feet of film to produce one picture, you may safely assume that he does not know how to make a picture and is putting up a bluff to conceal his ignorance.

You might as well expect your architect in figuring on lumber for a new house to tell you that while only 50,000 feet of lumber will be used in the finished product you must order 100,000 to allow for artistic temperament in the wastage.

Abuse Could Be Remedied

If the producers charged up the wastage of film to the director as they charge up the expense of an overset in a newspaper office the abuse would soon be remedied. A wastage of film is a tacit admission of incompetency on the part of the director—he admits that he has not once had a clear outline of his picture in his mind—he has been fishing for ideas all the time.

If we had a little more sense in the picture business to offset the artistic temperament that we seem to think is essential, perhaps we would not find it necessary to hold so many useless conferences in large hotels to discuss the situation. We know what the situation is—any level-headed business man knows enough to retrench when retrenching is necessary.

Film Material Needed for War

The materials used in the manufacture of films are necessary just now as a war product. Cotton and nitric acid are too valuable to be wasted at the artistic whim of a vague director who has to try out thousands of feet of film before he knows what he is doing.

Such criminal waste of valuable material should not be allowed in any studio at this time. The industry should voluntarily reduce production from a patriotic standpoint, if nothing else, and thereby release necessary war products.

The policy of the American Film Company has always been along the line of fewer, but better pictures. We have marched steadily along—making the type of wholesome comedy with a dramatic appeal that the public wants to see. For that reason the present situation has not found us unprepared or with a lot of film that we cannot sell.

Will Make Money Count

We shall continue to share no expense where expense is necessary to produce evenly balanced pictures that appeal. But the money we put into a picture goes into its merit and not waste and we intend to adhere to this policy rigidly.

There is no necessity for a waste at any time. If manufacturers would employ less time in arguing over non-essential details of the situation and put a business head to work ferreting out the leaks in the industry and cementing them up, there would not only be a decided gain in finances, but a higher standard for pictures.

Don Barclay is nearing the completion of his second Essanay comedy, "All Stuck Up," in which the famous "Ziegfeld Follies" comedien plays the role of a paper hanger's assistant. His first comedy, released on February 16, is called "Check Your Hat, Sir?" and the scenes are for the most part laid in a cafe.

Norma Talmadge in the Select picture, "By Right of Purchase," which follows "Ghosts of Yesterday."

New Sales Plan Wins Many Friends

EIGHT PRODUCERS ARE NOW IN LEAGUE TO ELIMINATE THE MIDDLEMAN

GREAT INTEREST has been aroused throughout the country by the news that independent producers of motion pictures have joined the Producers and Exhibitors—Affiliated for the purpose of selling high-class productions direct to the exhibitor in keeping with a plan to market pictures of high standard at one-half the present prices and to put into working effect the expressed desire of exhibitors attending the meeting of the Allied Exchange Organization in Washington, D. C., December 11 and 12.

Leading exhibitors have written to headquarters in New York expressing their firm belief in the project and their confidence that it is the solution of their difficulties.

Eight Producers in Plan

Eight producers are members of the Producers and Exhibitors — Affiliated now—the Frohman Amusement Corporation, the Herbert Brenon Productions, the Rialto Pictures Corporation, Shubert, Hammerstein & Ince Productions, Triumph Pictures, the Lillian Walker Pictures Corporation, the High Art Productions Company and L. Lawrence Weber Photo Dramas, Inc.

H. M. Crandall, head of the Crandall circuit of theatres in Washington, D. C., writes that he is doing everything in his power to further the plan.

"We are ready," he says, "to take over the following territory if it is open: Delaware, Virginia, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Florida, District of Columbia, South Carolina and Alabama."

Frank Rembusch, one of the promoters, reports that he is rounding up territory with excellent results.

Exhibitors Praise Plan

Following are excerpts of some of the letters and telegrams to Producers and Exhibitors—Affiliated from exhibitors all over the country:

Proposition outlined ideal.—S. C. Hurley, St. John, N. B.

I think the idea of the independent manufacturers mentioned in your wire is ideal and constitutes a finger post to a happy solution of film problems now confronting exhibitors on all sides. Perhaps no territory on either side of the boundary line feels the drastic imposition of middlemen more than we in Canada.—Walter H. Golding, Imperial Theatre, Canada.

I think the plan of the independent manufacturers, if properly worked out, a movement along the right lines.—Alfred S. Black, Maine Theatres, Rockland, Maine.

Your plan of manufacturer to exhibitor direct looks like a very good proposition to me and I believe this would be an opportune time to spring the matter.—Peter J. Jeup, Detroit, Michigan.

Note your remarks about the saving to exhibitors on the price of service. This in itself would be a great item and if the subjects were up to standard, I see no reason why your plan would not be a great success.—Apollo Amusement Company, Dee Robinson, Peoria, Ill.

I certainly believe that this step is along the right line, and I believe that the exhibitors all over the United States should support the men that went to the convention at Washington and offered the plan named in your telegram. Will do all that I can possibly do to make it a success in Illinois.—A. M. Luttrell, president, Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, Jacksonville, Ill.

Co-operation Is Promised

At our moving picture convention in Raleigh we read your booking plan and discussed it thoroughly. I explained it to the best of my ability and recommended it unreservedly, and the boys were delighted with the proposition and will be glad to co-operate with you.—H. B. Varner, Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of North Carolina.

Your communication containing the principles of direct dealing between producers and exhibitors received. It is a step in the right direction. It will mean the first ray of hope through the dark clouds that have been threatening the industry for the past three years or more. I think the idea a good one and can be worked out to the satisfaction of all, and it will revolutionize the motion picture business.—F. J. Herrington, Pittsburgh.

Interested, Says Tennesseean

I have your letter outlining plan of marketing films direct from the producer to the exhibitor and am very much interested in the organization.—Tony S. Rum, Nashville, Tenn.

The writer having the pleasure of being present when the several representatives of the various independent producers addressed the convention, was very much impressed with the idea as it was then outlined and since reading communication from you the fact in my mind is evident that the plan would be most successful if put into effect. The proposed plan of distribution would at least assure superior quality at an attractive price and there is little, if any room, for suggestions on this plan as outlined.—J. H. Spencer, Winding Gulf, W. Va.

Organizations of theatre men in many cities have the question under consideration and reports from them will be disclosed as soon as available.

A touching moment in "The Beloved Traitor," the new Goldwyn picture with Mae Marsh.

Tourneur Wins Renown

Artistic to a superlative degree, Maurice Tourneur has won renown as the creator of some of the most pleasing photoplays which have been presented in recent years.

Mr. Tourneur is a Frenchman and was engaged in staging legitimate plays in Paris and other metropolitan cities of Europe when the wonderful possibilities of the motion picture caused him to enter that field of endeavor. After several years in Italian and French studios his fame spread to America and he came to this country.

Mr. Tourneur is considered one of the most capable directors in the Famous Players-Lasky organization. The debut of Miss Elsie Ferguson into motion pictures was under his direction, and he had charge of the production of "Barbary Sheep," "The Rise of Jennie Cushing" and "Rose of the World," starring this noted actress.

His most notable achievement is said to be a film version of Maurice Maeterlinck's famous masterpiece, "The Blue Bird," which is soon to be released as an Artcraft picture, and has been produced in a spectacular manner. It is claimed that this photoplay will establish several new records in film production.

Goldwyn Gets New Writer

Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, has just closed a long term contract with Harry R. Durant, one of the most successful film writers and editors in the business.

Mr. Durant was the first so-called "high brow" editor lured into the moving picture game. In turn he has been managing editor of the Biograph, Empire and Famous Players organizations. He has contributed many feature photoplays to the screen, all marked by originality and distinction.

Three contrasting scenes from "The Whispering Chorus," new Artcraft picture starring Kathlyn Williams.

Program Film Costs $100,000

Pathe maintains that in Kipling's "The Naulahka" it offers to exhibitors the costliest picture ever placed upon a program by any concern.

More than $100,000 was spent in the production of this film. The sets are on a scale such as has been rarely attempted. Many hundreds of extras were employed. It was necessary to use elephants, camels, leopards and other animals native to India. Whole villages were constructed, and to get the proper locations it was found desirable to transport large companies long distances. Places in five states were used.

It had been originally intended to put "The Naulahka" out as a special feature, but J. A. Berst determined to place it upon the program to assure exhibitors of his intention to give them the best pictures available.

He Just Looked It—That's All

After many trials and tribulations, Edward Earle, star of Vitagraph Comedies, finished his work in the one-reeler, "Coals for the Fire."

As may be imagined from the title, the story is built around the extraordinary coal situation. Earle, in his role of faithful husband, was hard put to get coal for his home, so he hired out as a coal wagon driver, and each load of coal he was ordered to deliver he put in his own cellar.

That's the screen part of the story. The other side has to do with Earle going to a big New York coal dealer and making arrangements to have the scenes made in the dealer's yards. When he was first shown around the place he was garbed in fashionable clothes, including a sealskin-collared overcoat, spats and a walking stick. A negro worker marveled at and admired the screen star's raiment.

Three days later Earle showed up in a coal driver's garb. A long line of people were outside, all anxious for coal. As Earle started into the yard, a man handed him a scuttle and said: "Say, pal, if you get that filled for me, I'll slip you a buck." Earle handed back the scuttle and passed on into the yard, but there he received another shock, when the big negro who had watched him a few days before said:

"Ain't no telling what's goin' happen dese yere days. You comes in here a dude and now you's a bum jes' de same as me."

Commence New Juvenile

The Baby Marie Osborne Company has started work on "Dolly Does Her Bit" which, as is always the case with Baby Marie Osborne features, will be five reels. Most of the action is centered around children, just enough adults being used to carry out the plot.

Alice Brady Talks to Fans from Stage

Appears in Twenty-eight Loew Theatres in New York in Five Nights After Tour of Vicinity

VERSATILE ALICE BRADY has been giving a shining example of "how to live on twenty-four hours a day" ever since, in a spirit of enterprise she consented to oblige Loew patrons by appearing in person at theatres where her pictures are being shown.

Miss Brady began her whirl around the circle by appearing at the Loew house in Providence, Rhode Island, the Emery, on Monday. Mayor Gainor received the popular little actress.

After a talk, Miss Brady sang "Eyes of Gray," and "Over There," and as her audience clamored for more she obliged with "Jimsy Boy." The theatre was packed and more than five thousand persons were turned away. When the little star left the house she was fairly mobbed by a part of this crowd which had remained on the outside. A "reglar feller," Miss Brady shook hands with all those who could crowd around her auto, and then, standing on the seat, made a little speech to the rest.

Returning to New York Miss Brady spent a busy day at the studio on Tuesday and also on Wednesday, and on Wednesday night appeared at the Loew Theatre in New Rochelle, where "Woman and Wife," the second of her Select Pictures, was being presented. Here, practically the same program was followed out—and with the same result.

Friday found the little star at the Loew theatre in Newark, "Woman and Wife" again being the picture on the bill. This rounded out Miss Brady's personal appearances for the week, but these three special occasions were only the beginning of the Select star's speaking and singing program. During the week of February 18 Miss Brady appeared in twenty-eight of the Loew theatres in New York in five nights.

Announcement of her appearances at the Loew theatres has brought a flood of requests to Select for personal appearances of the star elsewhere. Most of these, of course, both star and producer will be compelled to refuse, as Miss Brady has a very busy production schedule ahead.

She is engaged at present in completing the fourth of her Select pictures, a Russian story which is being directed by Charles Miller, and the final title of which has not been chosen.

Alice Brady and her leading man, Frank Morgan, during a thrilling moment in the forthcoming Select production, "The Knife."

Screen Telegram Organized

A staff of cameramen and camera correspondents who will supply the material for the Screen Telegram, the Mutual Film Corporation's twice-a-week news release, is being organized with such rapidity that before the publication of the first issue on March 3, every source of news film in the world will have been covered.

Numerous subjects have been received at the laboratory and arrangements are being made for the handling of up-to-the-minute happenings until a few hours in advance of the time for shipping the completed films to the various Mutual exchanges.

In planning the make-up of the Screen Telegram the same methods are being pursued as in the making of the news columns of a newspaper. No advertising "plants" will be permitted to find their way into this film, and all subjects contained in each reel will be selected only on their merits.

Beach Assembles Picture

Rex Beach is directing the titling and assembling of his newest picture, "Heart of the Sunset," now in process of editing in the Rex Beach Pictures Company's laboratories in New York. Pursuing the practice he established for "The Auction Block," the author will personally write the sub-titles for the new production, which is to be distributed by Goldwyn as a Rex Beach special.

Mr. Beach and his aids find themselves facing a problem in assembling "Heart of the Sunset." Working under unusually favorable weather conditions at Eagle Pass and Corpus Christi, Tex., Director Frank Powell and Cameraman William Fildew photographed every scene laid out in the continuity. As a consequence, there is a plentitude of photographically perfect film, a major portion of which cannot possibly be used

Cummings Back with Fox

Irving Cummings has returned to the William Fox forces as leading man for Peggy Hyland. Mr. Cummings played opposite Virginia Pearson in "Sister Against Sister," "Royal Romance" and "Wrath of Love."

"The Blue Bird" to Be an Easter Release

Eighty Big Theatres, Including Rivoli in New York and Grauman's in Los Angeles, Have Picture Booked Now

MAETERLINCK'S, "THE BLUE BIRD," which has been produced for Artcraft under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, will be offered as a special Easter release.

Already eighty of the finest theatres in the country, stretching from S. L. Rothapfel's Rivoli in New York to Grauman's new $1,000,000 cinema palace in Los Angeles, have arranged for the debut of this world-renowned subject, and preparations are being made for presentations of a special nature.

The executives of the Famous Players-Lasky organization are highly enthusiastic over the visualization and have decided on a pretentious exploitation plan. A special score by James R. Bradford is now under way and everything is being done to give the film an elaborate presentation on a scale in accord with the high standard of Materlinck's piece.

The tremendous popularity of "The Blue Bird" makes the film an immediate drawing card of exceptional force. The merit of the cinema itself, however, it is expected, will more than duplicate the fame of the stage offering in this country and abroad. Considered the world over as a literary and dramatic masterpiece, the subject proved one of the greatest achievements of the celebrated Belgian poet and dramatic author. The play pleased young and old alike in this country as well as in Europe.

In London it opened at the Boudoir theatre in December, 1909, where it created a sensation and attracted devotees of the dramatic art and further enhanced the fame of Maeterlinck. The play was presented in ten scenes and took four hours to portray. With its American appearance in New York at the New Theatre, a play house erected to present the world's most renowned dramatic offerings, the production was revived with two additional scenes in February, 1911.

In speaking of the screen version, Jesse L. Lasky, head of productions of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, said:

"After negotiating for this subject more than two years, we were finally able to produce it on the screen. To stage our elaborate adaptation, we selected Maurice Tourneur, the accomplished producer of various artistic cinema triumphs. A master of screen craft, the talented French director has always displayed in his lines a certain touch of the artist which has made them exceptionally distinctive.

The important task of preparing the scenario for this gigantic cinema was entrusted to Charles Maigne, whose work in connection with the production of other notable Artcraft pictures speaks well for what may be expected of him in 'The Blue Bird.'

"It is immediately apparent that nothing in the way of expense, time nor labor has been spared. Probably the crowning accomplishment of Tourneur, the film discloses various departures in motion picture technique.

"In addition to its many other unusual features, the cast of 'The Blue Bird' stands out as an exceptional combination of histrionic talent. The two clever children, Robin McDougall and Tula Belle, portray the parts of Tyltyl and Mytyl, the famous little characters who go in search of the bird of happiness. Odd characters such as those personifying light, water, sugar, etc., are particularly difficult to handle, but Mr. Tourneur has shown wonderful results.

Jane and Katherine Lee in "American Buds," a new picture for Fox.

Mystery, Sorrow, Pain, Fear and Happiness, as registered in the Paralta play "Within the Cup," with Bessie Barriscale and George Fisher.

Bessie Barriscale Takes a Hard Part

Appears in "Within the Cup" as Serious-minded Girl with Great Love, Then as Care-free Bohemian Lost in Gaiety

ONE OF THE MOST COMPLEX PARTS ever played by Bessie Barriscale is that which she portrays in her second Paralta Play, "Within the Cup."

In this picture, Miss Barriscale's character as "Thisbe Lorraine," an art student and writer, undergoes a complete change, which taxes the star's versatility to its extreme.

At the opening of the story Miss Barriscale presents a serious-minded American girl who is studying art in the Latin Quarter of Paris. Her life is fast becoming a tragedy, yet in the face of starvation, she shuns the care-free, frivolous life of the other artists about her.

A young member of the nobility who is studying art merely as a means of idling his time plays a serious tune upon the heart strings of Thisbe, and she believes in him—and offers him her love and life. Then she discovers him to be untrue and she leaves, broken-hearted and disgusted with life, for America.

In New York the change in her character occurs. Miss Barriscale transforms herself into the gayest of the gay Bohemians, living the very life she detested in the past in New York's Greenwich Village, the "super-world" of artists and authors.

"Within the Cup" is an original story written especially for Miss Barriscale by the Paralta staff author, Monte M. Katterjohn.

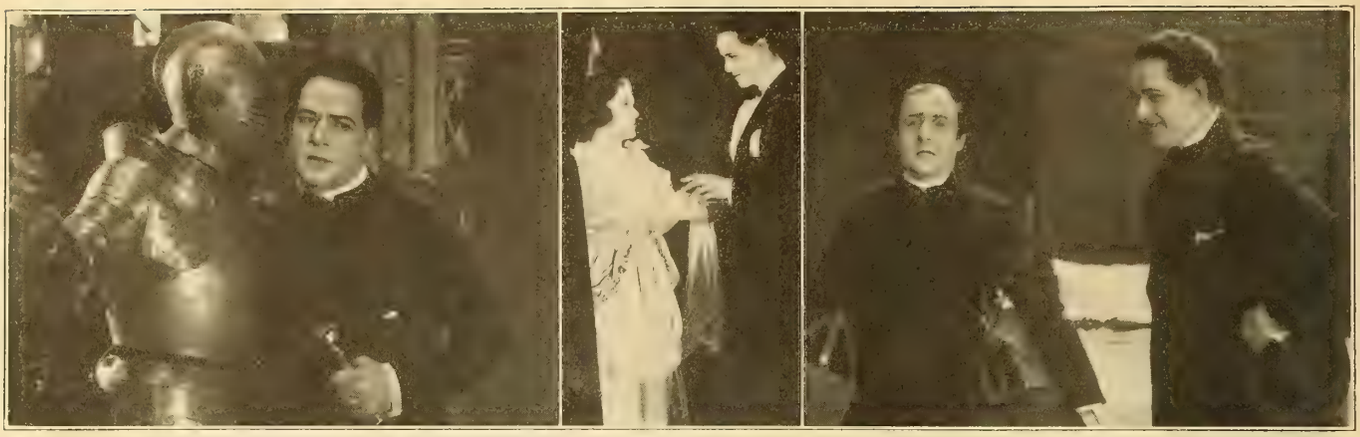
"Within the Cup" is a seven-reel feature which will follow Miss Barriscale's picture, "Madam Who." It is entirely completed and is practically ready for distribution through the W. W. Hodkinson service.

Pathe Busy in West

Pathe's west coast producing forces were augmented last week by the arrival of Bessie Love, who will immediately begin work on "A Little Sister to Everybody." She was preceded by Frank Keenan and his director, Ernest Ward, who on Jan. 28 turned the crank on the first Keenan Pathe play to be made on the Pacific coast. She will be followed by Fannie Ward, who has just made the biggest success of her career in Astra's production of A. H. Woods' big hit, "Innocent."

"Queen of the Sea" Ready on April 21

William Fox Predicts New Annette Kellerman Picture Will Create More Comment Than "A Daughter of the Gods"



WILLIAM FOX announces that the subsea fantasy, "Queen of the Sea," with Annette Kellerman, will be released as a Standard Picture on April 21.

"This production," said Mr. Fox, "undoubtedly will create even greater comment than 'A Daughter of the Gods,' Miss Kellerman's other picture. 'A Daughter of the Gods' was the first $1,000,000 picture ever made and broke all records in every theatre in which it was exhibited.

"'Queen of the Sea' is filled with thrills, including one in which Miss Kellerman walks a wire eighty feet in the air and dives into the ocean. But, it is in the under-sea stunts that Miss Kellerman excels. She gives a marvelous exhibition of swimming and diving and the photography is of the best.

"The British National Museum and the United States Fisheries Commission were of great assistance in the making of 'Queen of the Sea' and the wonderful beauties of the ocean depths are revealed in all their splendor and wonder. This will be one of the most spectacular productions of the year and those who have seen it in course of preparation declare it to be a marvel."

Much of the picture was taken amid the beautiful natural scenery of Bar Harbor and Mt. Desert Island.

Three interesting pictures in "The Midnight Trail," new American-Mutual feature production starring William Russell.

Russell to Make His Own Pictures

Star Organizes Company, Hires Players and Gets Studios in California—Will Release Through Mutual

WILLIAM RUSSELL is to appear in a series of special productions made by his own company and distributed to the trade through the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation.

This announcement is made by Mr. Russell from the Los Angeles offices of his new concern, William Russell Productions, Inc. Mr. Russell has just returned to the west coast after several weeks in New York, where he conducted negotiations relating to the formation of his company and conferred with various distributing concerns and agencies.

The studios of William Russell Productions, Inc., will be located in southern California, centrally situated for the range of scenic settings necessary to the depiction of the Russell type of story.

"My specials will be built on the biggest vehicles obtainable," said Mr. Russell, "always chosen with a view to giving me the big chance at doing those things which seem to have had the largest share in making my following with the public.

"It seems probable now that my first vehicle will be a strong story by William Hamilton Osborne. While in New York I negotiated with a number of writers of the first rank and I shall have an interesting announcement presently in that connection. I am also bringing on from the east a special staff scenario writer who is going to live on the job with me.

"I am not at liberty yet to give out the names of my staff, including the director, as there is a possibility that I may make a change in directors before we start to shoot on story No. 1.

"I am pleased to have concluded arrangements for distribution through the Mutual Film Corporation. Through my connection with the American Film Company under my contract which expired several weeks ago I went before the picture public through Mutual exchanges for the larger part of my screen career and I feel that there is important value to me in this connection.

"The fact that Mutual is not offering the work of any other male star in competition is another consideration. I am sure that one of the reasons for the big success of Charlie Chaplin during his connection with Mutual was the fact that he was without competition of any kind within his own releasing schedule. He had a better chance than ever before to stand out by himself. I have the same sort of opportunity in my line of drama now. Mutual will not have to sell me against anything else of a like character."

Big Patriotic Film to Be Ready Soon

All Exterior Scenes and Many Interiors of Vitagraph Production Finished—President Smith Promises Thrills

ALBERT E. SMITH, president of the Vitagraph Company, announces that through the co-operation which military and civil authorities have given him, the patriotic production which Vitagraph is making in conjunction with the State Defense Council of New York is now reaching its final stages.

All of the exterior scenes have been completed and many of the interiors, in some of which Governor Charles S. Whitman has been filmed. Corinne Griffith, with Webster Campbell and Marc MacDermott, the leading players, returned to Brooklyn last week and were engaged at the big studio where Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey also is working.

During the six weeks the company has been working on the picture, the Vitagraphers have been all over New York state and have undergone actual suffering and hardship on account of the intense cold.

Miss Griffith, the star, collapsed from cold while working at a location on the Hudson river, and John Robertson, the director, suffered a frozen chin while upstate.

The company was working at Lock 9 on the Erie canal and the temperature stood at 29 degrees below zero. Mr. Robertson worked for several hours in the Arctic-like region and did not know his chin had been frozen until several hours after he returned to his hotel, when he discovered that it was still numb.

Mr. Smith declares the picture will be one of the most thrilling melodramas ever screened, although in the background will be the more serious story of a state's protective measures. The play is from the pen of Robert W. Chambers.

Alice Lake Back in Comedy

Only a few months ago a new face flashed on the dramatic screen showing undoubted emotional qualities. It was that of Alice Lake and the photodrama was "Come Through," which created a sensation at the time.

Critics predicted a brilliant future for this young woman in drama. But what did she do? She deserted her honors and returned to become Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's leading woman in comedy.

Miss Lake had been a well known comedienne and she merely wished to show her admirers what she could do in the drama.

Maude Eburne in Films

Maude Eburne, who created the role of "Coddles" in the stage play, "A Pair of Sixes," has been secured to support Taylor Holmes in George K. Spoor's screen adaptation of Edward Peple's famous comedy. "Coddles" is the role of the antique and hefty housemaid who falls madly and amusingly in love with T. Boggs Johns, the butler.

Six New Triangle Pictures Begun

Include "The Servant in the House," "The Law of the Great Northwest" and "Boss of the Lazy Y"

TRIANGLE production is making rapid headway at the Culver City studios, where nine features are in various stages of completion and six new subjects have been commenced during the past week under the personal supervision of Vice-President and General Manager H. C. Davis. Two other companies have nearly completed dramas and Director Jack Dillon has sent his latest offering to the film editing department, where four additional subjects are awaiting shipment.

These completed pictures are "The Scar," a western featuring Roy Stewart; "The Sea Panther," a thrilling romance of the days of Captain Kidd in which William Desmond is a swashbuckling pirate; "The Answer," a socialistic drama featuring Alma Rubens and Joe King, and "The Hard Rock Breed," with Margery Wilson, Jack Curtis and Jack Livingston in the leading roles.

Charles Rann Kennedy's play, "The Servant in the House," considered a masterpiece of the legitimate stage, will be transferred to the screen as one of the foremost features of the Triangle program. The play has been adapted by Lanier Bartlett, recently added to the Triangle scenario staff. It is probable that this story will be unfolded in seven reels.

Director Walter Edwards declares the script from which he will work has caught the lofty spirit of Kennedy's play, through which runs a tense human appeal. Triangle officials say that all the difficulties incident to preparing this story have been overcome and that as a photoplay, "The Servant in the House" promises to duplicate its success on the stage.

The necessity of obtaining unusual types for the cast resulted in Casting Director Arthur Hoyt selecting one of the strongest aggregations of character actors ever offered in a Triangle picture. Jack Curtis has been chosen for the important and difficult role of the Drain Man, the most ambitious part he has ever had. Jean Hersholt will portray Manson, the Christ-like character, whose love and tenderness overcame the conventionalities and dogmatic principles which obscure the truth from the professional churchmen.

"The Law of the Great Northwest" is the working title of Director Raymond Wells' new feature. Wells, whose specialty is rough and ready stories of the great outdoors, is working with a carefully chosen cast comprising Margery Wilson, William Jeffries, William V. Mong, Eugene Corey, William Dyer, Louis Durham, J. P. Wild and Leo Willis. This picture, adapted from Ralph Westfall's story, is the first of his tales of the Canadian wilderness to be produced by Triangle.

Pretty little Billie Rhodes, Mutual-Strand comedienne, in her new picture, "Up in the Air."

Following the completion of "The Sea Panther," Director Thomas Heffron has a subject of a distinctly different calibre, a society drama, entitled "The Veil." Heffron numbers in the supporting cast J. Barney Sherry, who recently appeared in "Real Folks" and "A Soul in Trust"; Ed Brady, Mary Mersck, leading woman engaged especially for the picture; Frank Bonn and Dora Rodgers.

"The Vortex," is the working title of a Triangle five-reel picture which has just been started under the direction of Gilbert P. Hamilton. Cast with Hamilton are Joe King, George Hernandez, Eugene Burr, William Higbee, Mary Warren and Myrtle Rishelle, a character woman of the grand dame type who is making her first appearance under Triangle colors. The compromising situations and misunderstandings which influence a young woman to wed the man she thinks she hates to save her father from financial ruin form the theme of "The Vortex."

A new Western thriller with Roy Stewart, cowboy star, in the title role, has been begun under the direction of Cliff Smith at the big ranch studio, Hartville. This picture, entitled "Boss of the Lazy Y," is an adaptation of Charles Alden Seltzer's novel by the same name and is said to offer Stewart an opportunity for an entirely new Western characterization. Instead of the happy, carefree man of the range, he appears as a thoughtful, serious ranchman with an unequal share of responsibilities. Josie Sedgwick, who played a dual role in "Keith of the Border," supports Stewart in this latest vehicle. The cast also includes Walt Whitman, recently seen in "The Hopper"; William Ellingford, Frank McQuarrie, Aaron Edwards, Graham Pette and five-year-old Frankie Lee.

The sixth new Triangle production to be started in the week is "Another Foolish Virgin," an adaptation of W. Carey Wonderly's magazine story by the same name, directed by E. Mason Hopper. Thomas Guinan has an important part in this production.

Charter Train to See Film

Agnes Ayres, co-star with Edward Earle in Vitagraph comedies, had an unusual tribute paid to her by the folks of her home town last week.

Miss Ayres comes from Carbondale, Ill., and her fame on the screen is deeply relished by the folk there. Consequently, when "His Wife Got All the Credit" was shown at a theater in Murphysboro, Ill., several miles away, the home folks decided to see it. Owing to the severe snowstorm, they couldn't make the trip in autos, so they chartered a special train.

James Morrison to Play in "Over the Top"

Will Take Part of Coward Who "Finds" Himself and Saves Company From Slaughter at Cost of Own Life

ALBERT E. SMITH, president of the Vitagraph Company, announces the engagement of James Morrison to play the part of the coward in Vitagraph's superproduction, "Over the Top," in which Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey himself will play the leading role.

A remarkable story lies back of the engagement of Morrison. Those who have read "Over the Top" will remember the dramatic story of the coward. Terrorized by his experience in the trenches, the coward deserts the line. He is captured, tried by court martial, and condemned to be shot. During the night—his last on earth—he is imprisoned in a barn. A German shell comes, blows the barn to pieces and kills the guard.

James Morrison, who has been selected by Vitagraph to play in the super-war picture, "Over the Top."

But in the silences of the night, with the realization that his course is run, the coward becomes a man and an overwhelming desire seizes him to go back to the trenches and die with his face to the enemy, rather than at the hands of a firing squad.

And so when fate intervenes and sets him free he rushes back to the trenches and finds that his company has gone over the top in a charge. With a blind heroism divinely inspired, he goes over alone and unarmed to search for his company and to die with them.

In the dimness of the early dawn in No Man's Land he sees his fellows, caught in a pocket of deadly German fire. He looks around and is amazed to find that the machine gun of his company is silent. He rushes over and finds the gunner dying.

When he asks the gunner how to operate the machine gun so that he may help his company the gunner spurns him as a coward and a deserter. Seizing the gunner's automatic, he holds it to his head and threatens him with instant death if he doesn't show him how to use the gun.

Briefly, the gunner tells him how it is done, and then the coward in a wild frenzy of heroism turns the gun on the Germans, mowing them down as they charge on the helpless company. The company makes good its return to the lines, saved by the deserter, who gives up his life that God and his fellows may know that after all he was a man.

Perret Presents Dolly Sisters

Leonce Perret, the French director who made his American debut as director of Captain Robert Warwick in "The Silent Master," and who wrote as well as directed "The Mad Lover" and "The Accidental Honeymoon" with the same star, is now engaged in the production of a series of features at the Biograph studio in which the Dolly Sisters, headliners of the vaudeville stage, are making their bow to the motion picture public.

M. Perret has made an enviable reputation for himself abroad as an author and director of photoplays. During the fourteen years he served as director-general of the Compagnie Gaumont in Paris, he wrote and produced 308 feature films, many of which were shown in this country before the war.

Following the production of the Warwick features, M. Perret wrote a story commemorating the sinking of the Lusitania and the entry of the United States into the war, "Lest We Forget," a feature considered by many critics to rank next to "The Birth of a Nation."

Miriam Cooper Returns to the Screen

Former Fox Star Lured Back from Retirement by Promising Role of the Wife in "Woman and the Law"

MIRIAM COOPER, who retired from motion picture acting in the latter part of 1917, has re-entered the world of the screen and will be seen as the wife in the William Fox photodrama, "Woman and the Law."

Miss Cooper enjoys the distinction of having portrayed characters in the largest productions ever thrown on the screen, among them "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," and the Fox Standard picture, "The Honor System."

After being featured in "Betrayed," six months ago, she announced her retirement from film activities. She stated that she had wearied of the excitement and was going away for a long rest. The sincerity of her declaration is evidenced by the fact that until now no news had been heard from her.

Miss Cooper was born in Baltimore and went to New York when she was twelve years of age. She made her first picture in 1912, when she was a school girl.

When R. A. Walsh began the selection of the cast for "Women and the Law," he realized that the part of the wife required an actress of unusual subtlety and power. She must not only be capable of registering the tenderness of mother love, but also possess the power of rising to the great emotional heights which take place at the end of the drama.

Checking over in his mind the actresses who had been seen in similar roles, he recalled that there was none as peculiarly fitted for the part as Miss Cooper and at once entered into negotiations with her.

For a time she demurred. She had quit the screen, she said, and had no desire to resume. But Mr. Walsh is a persistent person and he brought before her so strongly the unprecedented opportunity which the role affords that Miss Cooper finally consented. As a result admirers who had abandoned hopes of seeing her again face a pleasant surprise.

Miriam Cooper, Fox star.

Contrasting scenes in the William Fox picture, "Six Shooter Andy," with Tom Mix and Enid Markey.

"Six Shooter Andy" Breezy Tale of West

Tom Mix Overthrows Corrupt Sheriff and Weds Widow Whom He Has Saved from Death in the Wilds

A NEW PLAY of the gold mining West entitled "Six Shooter Andy," with Tom Mix as the star, is the William Fox Special Feature release for the week of February 24.

The cast includes several of the children who made hits in "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" and other William Fox standard pictures. Among them are: George Stone, Lewis Sargent, Buddie Messinger, Raymond Lee, Virginia Lee Corbin, Violet Radcliffe, Vivian Plank and Beulah Burns.

Tom Mix plays the part of Andy Crawford. On his way to a desperate frontier town with his father he finds Susan Allenby and her eight children. Allenby has been killed. Andy and his father play the good Samaritan and help the mother and her children in the mining town where the mother opens an eating house.

Shortly after the party reaches the mining town Andy's father is killed. It does not take long for Andy to learn that the sheriff of the place is at the bottom of all the lawlessness in town. Andy starts to clean up in his usual breezy western way. He forms a Vigilance committee, marries the widow he rescued, regenerates the town and is elected sheriff himself.

Enid Marky plays opposite Mix.

New Blackwell Picture Soon

The next Carlyle Blackwell-Evelyn Greeley picture has been named "His Royal Highness" and will be released soon.

The story relates the adventures of an American collegian who has the throne of a European monarchy thrust upon him and is confronted with the necessity of relinquishing the hand of an attractive young heiress.

Evelyn Greeley, who has been the recipient of much praise because of her work in "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds," makes her third appearance as co-star of Mr. Blackwell in this picture.

Actor Is Kin of Ex-president

Hugh Thompson, William Fox player, is the great great grandson of John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States.

Gets Up New Lobby Displays

Appreciating the value of advertising and particularly the value of an attractive lobby, Triangle has prepared new combinations of lobby displays which are now ready for distribution.

Great care was taken in choosing scenes from pictures which have a maximum sales value. And having chosen strong and attractive scenes no effort or expense has been spared in having them properly reproduced so as to procure the very best results.

The first is a set of five hand-tinted photographs, size 11x14, with appropriate title card; the second is a set of five sepia photographs, size 11x14, with title card; the third is a set of two hand-tinted photographs, size 22x28, and the fourth is a complete set which comprises the three sets just mentioned. Triangle also furnishes for use with the 22x28 photographs, or for use alone, hand-tinted portraits of players, size 22x28.

San Fernando Mission Shown in Film

Famous Structure Assures Charm to Vitagraph Feature, "An American Live Wire," in Which Earle Williams Is Starred

SAN FERNANDO mission, one of the most famous and most visited spots in Southern California, will be filmed in several scenes in "An American Live Wire," a forthcoming Blue Ribbon feature in which Earle Williams, with Grace Darmond will be starred.

Not only does the mission provide an artistic and beautiful setting, but to Easterners who read the railroad guides to California, it will recall all the charm and romance of the spot. Director Thomas Mills has been happy in his selections of locations for this picture, which is adapted from the O. Henry story, "The Lotus and the Bottle," and predicts one of the most finished features in this respect he ever turned out.

Perfect in every detail and beautiful to the eye is the reproduction of a part of the city of Carillio, South America. One street is three blocks long and a score of buildings—dwellings as well as shops—are finished inside as well as out.

Giant Yuccas, which Vitagraph's property man drove more than 100 miles to obtain in the California mountains, are planted in the studio lot in Hollywood and give a thoroughly tropical appearance. Two hundred extra players, all Mexicans—working under orders given by interpreters—with burros and babies, lend color to the scene.

It was planned first to build this scene at Laguna Beach, California, and several of the buildings were constructed, but ocean winds made work almost impossible.

Bret Harte Story for Mary Pickford

"M'liss," a Tale of California in the Days of '47, to Follow "Amarilly of Clothes-line Alley"

MARY PICKFORD'S newest Artcraft picture, "Amarilly of Clothes-Line Alley," has just been finished at the Lasky studio in Hollywood.

This story by Belle K. Maniates was adapted to the screen by Frances Marion and directed by Marshall Neilan. It is said to be Miss Pickford's most humorus play and will probably be released in March.

The next vehicle for "Little Mary" has already been selected and activities on this production will be started immediately. The new subject is Francis Bret Harte's famous story, "M'liss." Marshall Neilan will direct it.

"M'liss" is one of the most stirring of all California stories by the famous novelist. It has been produced on the stage and its dramatic qualities are assured. There is certain to be a full quota of that romantic and picturesque atmosphere which made the California of Harte, Twain and others famous the world over; the California that was and that will come no more; the California at a time when love ran strong in the veins of men and women and tragedy walked hand in hand with comedy through the virgin forests or camped beside the goldseekers and those who came in their wake, in the placer fields or the fastnesses of the giant mountains in the shadows of the great sequoias.

"M'liss" is a hoydenish, mischievous, ingenuous, insouciant, uncouth yet lovable character, withal. It will give Miss Pickford an opportunity again to display the gifts that have blessed her beyond the ordinary.

A good cast of principals with ensembles of extra people will support the star. Mr. Neilan will devote to the picture every energy he possesses to surpass his previous work—which entails no small effort. Frances Marion supplies the scenario, which means that it will be faithfully representative of the quality that made Bret Harte's name a household word wherever books are read.

Pensions Actor for Life

Eagle Eye, the famous Sioux Indian chief, last week fell from his horse and broke his left leg in a scene for the new Douglas Fairbanks-Artcraft picture, "Headin' South." The popular star ordered that the Indian be placed under the care of an expert surgeon and provided for until able to resume work. Later it was reported that the injured man would be crippled permanently, whereupon Fairbanks agreed to pension him for life.

Ain't He the Devil, Girls?

A forthcoming Essanay one-reel comedy is based on the adventures of an English dude in the heart of the wild west. He carries a revolver (22 calibre) embellished with a bow of pink ribbon.

Fox Productions Forge Steadily On

Two New Studios in New York Relieve Handicap of Bad Weather and Scant Supply of Fuel at Fort Lee

PRODUCTION of subjects for William Fox is going on at a steady rate. Although the fuel situation somewhat handicapped the work in the Fort Lee studios the two new studios in New York relieved the situation in the east, while in the west the making of new photoplays continued without interruption.

In the Los Angeles studios Lynn Reynolds is directing Tom Mix in a new photoplay. The story is by Mix and the scenario by Reynolds. In this production Victoria Forde comes back as leading lady for Mix. Others in the cast are Frank Clark and Barney Furey.

Edward Le Saint has finished photopraphing a new picture in which Gladys Brockwell is starred. The story is by Charles Kenyon. In the cast are Lucille Young, William Scott, Bertram Grassby, T. D. Crittenden, Henry De Montford and Andrew Robson.

J. Gordon Edwards has begun photographing a new Theda Bara super production. The story has been adapted by Adrian Johnson. Miss Bara is said to do better work in this piece than she did in Cleopatra. Big things are expected of this production.

C. M. Franklin is directing another story in which Jewel Carmen is the star.

Frank Lloyd has finished his divorce propaganda picture.

At the Fort Lee studios Peggy Hyland has finished her first picture for Fox. It is called "The Debt of Honor" and was directed by O. A. C. Lund. This picture has a touch of the spy interest. It is set for one of the March releases.

William Farnum and his company of players, having returned from exteriors at Port Henry in the Adirondacks, are at the Biograph studios in New York, finishing work on the William Farnum de luxe production, "Rough and Ready."

R. A. Walsh is at work at the Biograph studios also on "Woman and the Law," the story of which is based on a recent sensational murder, and the Lees—Jane and Katherine—are busy on a new picture to follow "American Buds."

Don Barclay, noted comedian of the Follies, now engaged in making a comedy for George K. Spoor, is an artist as well as a fun maker. He is seen here drawing a picture of Taylor Holmes, another George K. Spoor star, whose latest picture, "Ruggles of Red Gap," has just been released. It is easy to see that Barclay and Holmes are pretty good friends, though rivals.

Three scenes from J. Warren Kerrigan's second Paralta play, "The Turn of a Card."

"The Turn of a Card" Ready for Screen

J. Warren Kerrigan's Second Paralta Play a Seven-reel Feature with Elaborate Settings and Breezy Plot

J. WARREN KERRIGAN'S second Paralta play, "The Turn of a Card," is now ready for distribution through the W. W. Hodkinson service. The picture is a seven-reel comedy-drama with elaborate settings, both exterior and interior, and an unusually breezy plot.

Mr. Kerrigan as "Jimmy Montgomery Farrell," an oil prospector from the West, is given wide scope in which to display his versatility. Mr. Kerrigan accomplishes the difficult feat of carrying the same role through three distinctly different characterizations.

In the first part of the picture he is a rough Westerner who comes to New York and takes up the life of a business man, mingling in the best of New York society. However, the cleverest portrayal in the picture occurs when Mr. Kerrigan plays the part of a chauffeur, who has a fortune in oil interests.

Miss Lois Wilson, who will be remembered as having appeared opposite Mr. Kerrigan in his first Paralta Play, "A Man's Man," also plays opposite him in "The Turn of a Card" as "Cynthia Burdette," daughter of "Ace High Burdette," a gambler whom "Jimmy Farrell" beats at his own game.

"The Turn of a Card" was produced from the story by Frederick Chapin and was directed by Oscar Apfel.

Miss Young Starts "The Reason Why"

Conway Tearle to Play Opposite Star—Story Is European Society Romance from Pen of Elinor Glyn

PRODUCTION has started on "The Reason Why," Clara Kimball Young's picture for Select.

While the casting has not been completed, principals have been chosen. Conway Tearle as Lord Tancred will play opposite the star, who has the role of Zara. Tearle, it will be remembered, was Miss Young's leading man in "The Common Law," and his support was one of the notable features of that production.

Other members of the company will be Kate Lestor as the Duchess of Glastonbudy and Little Eldean Stewart as Mimo.

Robert G. Vignola and his assistant, William J. Scully, will handle the direction of the piece, and Lewis J. Physioc has been retained as cameraman.

"The Reason Why" is a story of European social life from the pen of Elinor Glyn. It deals with the love affairs of Lord Tancred and the beautiful Zara, whom he has married. Misunderstandings and seemingly insurmountable difficulties obstruct the way of true love and multiply the complications. Miss Young is provided with an emotional role of great sympathy.

With the usual disregard for expense, the star is ordering lavish settings and her wardrobe, including nineteen gowns, is being made by the famous costumer, Lucile. The designer, incidentally, is Mrs. Glyn's sister, and is taking a personal interest in her work.

The new play will be the fifth of Miss Young's Select Star Series. The others are "Magda," "Shirley Kaye," "The Marionettes" and "The House of Glass."

Short Essanay Planned

Such a novel idea for a short farce comedy was conceived by one of Essanay's scenario writers that George K. Spoor ordered production of it under the direction of Arthur Berthelet, director of "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," the I, Mary MacLane feature.

The picture is to be called "The Lie That Failed," and deals with the attempts of two hubbies to have an evening of poker against the odds of their wives.

Playing the leading roles are Robert Conness, the well known stage and screen star, and Virginia Valli.

O'Brien Directs Miss Kenyon

"The Street of Seven Stars," the first picture to be produced with Doris Kenyon at the head of her own company, De Luxe Pictures, Inc., will be directed by John B. (Jack) O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien signed a contract last week. He expects to start actual work on the feature, which will be of six reels, on or about March 10.

Mr. O'Brien directed a number of the most famous pictures of Mary Pickford, including "Hulda from Holland" and "The Foundling." He has also directed Blanche Sweet, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Alice Brady, Charlotte Walker, Emmy Wehlan, Bessie Love, Louise Huff, Olive Tell, Edna Goodrich and other stars.

Kitty Gordon Has New Role in "The Wasp"

World Star Gets Opportunity to Display Acting Ability as Well as Beauty and Latest Fashions

MISS KITTY GORDON'S next World Picture, entitled "The Wasp," to be released on the program March 11, is very different from any of her previous pictures.

Miss Gordon's preceding pictures were models of sartorial elegance, giving the star every opportunity for the display of her pulchritude, and the subject matter dealt with the problems and injustices of the social structure.

The new picture gives admirers of Miss Gordon an excellent chance to see the highly developed histrionic ability of the English beauty, which talent has hitherto been left unemphasized. The story is replete with action, episode after episode piling up into one smashing climax, and besides permits the star to display a dazzling series of spring styles.

Miss Gordon assumes the part of Grace Culver, better known as "the wasp" because of her caustic tongue, the daughter of John Culver, who is owner of vast canneries working on government contracts. On his deathbed, Culver's partner sends his son, Kane Putnam, to the Culver home, but the friendship between Grace and Kane does not prosper.

The elder Culver, hoping that the fortunes of both families would be united, strenuously urges marriage, but Grace rejects the proposal of her father, and as a means of escaping from further discussion of the subject, decides to make an automobile trip. She hires a new chauffeur named Tim Purchell, the possessor of a most aggressive personality, which is rather disconcerting to the willful Grace.

While this family problem was in the process of development, the employes of the Culver factory, swayed by the oratory and activities of one Wagner, who is really a German agent, become dissatisfied and strike. The machinations of Wagner are successful and the strikers assist him in constructing a tunnel to enable them to destroy the plant.

At this juncture Tim refuses to continue the trip and compels Grace to return home. While taking a short cut they come in contact with a group of striking employes who seize Grace and her maid and hurry the chauffeur away. Grace and her maid escape to a vantage point where they learn that Wagner is to light the fuse to destroy the factory. Coincident with this they discover the prostrate form of Tim.

Grace and Tim send the maid for assistance and set out to find the tunnel. Unable to prevent the explosion, they are trapped, and only then realize their fundamental interest in each other. With the aid of United States troops the prisoners are finally rescued.

It transpires that Tim is really the millionaire John Cortland and his assumption of the disguise was part of his plan to win the sharp-tongued wasp.

Kitty Gordon in her new World picture, "The Wasp."

"A Daughter of Uncle Sam" Makes Good

Reports received from branch managers by General Film Company indicate that "A Daughter of Uncle Sam," the spy exposure serial starring Jane Vance, has "gone over" with a rush.

Important bookings have been reported from many territories. The Gordon Theatre in Rochester, N. Y., one of the largest in that city, and the Olympic Theatre in Buffalo, another large house, have booked "A Daughter of Uncle Sam" for three days for each episode.

T. C. Lacey, proprietor of the Vaudeville Theatre, Muncie, Ind., reports that "A Daughter of Uncle Sam" is the most wonderful serial he has ever seen and that it has proved to be a big drawing card.

Graphic Company Home Again

Ivan Abramson, president and director-general of the Graphic Film Corporation, accompanied by John Mason, Ann Luther, Leah Baird, Alan Hale, Claire Whitney, Sidney Mason, Jack McLean, William Lampe and the other members of his company, has returned to New York from Palm Beach, Fla., where he spent several weeks directing the exterior scenes of his latest photoplay, "Moral Suicide."

Mr. Abramson declares the locations used at Palm Beach and the vicinity were the most beautiful he had ever seen and finely adapted to the requirements of his new drama.

Three Louise Glaum Plays Announced

"Intelligence," "Snapdragon" and "The Lady of the Peacocks" Will Be Her First Under Paralta Banner

SEVERAL STORIES have already been prepared for production by Louise Glaum, who started work on her first Paralta play last week at the Los Angeles studios of that company.

The filming of the picture in which she will make her debut as a star of the Paralta organization is now well under way and the scenario department is losing no time in making plans for "The Lady of the Peacocks."

The first two productions since she has abandoned the realm of the screen vampires for the more pleasing roles of dramatic and emotional characterizations will be "Intelligence" and "Snapdragon." The former was written for her by Monte M. Katterjohn of the Paralta staff of authors and the latter is adapted from the story of the same title by Horace Hazeltine, which appeared in the Cavalier Magazine. All of the first of Miss Glaum's Paralta plays will be produced under the direction of Wallace Worsley.

Louise Glaum, Paralta star.

"Soul in Trust" Is New Type of Spy Play

Triangle Feature Based on Efforts of Schemers to Make Big Profits by Learning War Secrets at Washington

EXPANSION of the government's naval policy following the outbreak of the war led to efforts on the part of unscrupulous business men to obtain the inside "dope" on locations for naval bases. Advance knowledge of this kind would have been worth thousands to speculators.

In Triangle's second seven-reel feature, "A Soul in Trust," released February 24, Wall Street schemers use a clever woman to obtain information of this sort from an incorruptible senator on the naval affairs committee.

This drama, by Catherine Carr, follows the characters through Virginia society life in the nineties to the climax in Washington's legislative halls. The grim shadow of an old mammy's superstition supplies an air of mystery which is thought to intensify the dramatic values.

The story relates how Nan, a mountain girl, betrayed by Dabney Carter, a wealthy Virginian, sells her infant son to Mrs. Carter when Carter dies. Mrs. Carter treats the child as "A soul given into her care to mould." She brings the boy up to an appreciation of all that is honorable, noble and worthy. In after years, Nan, who has developed into an adventuress, uses him as a tool in a criminal conspiracy against the man he most respects. A mother's love is awakened and in the climax which follows Nan renounces her schemes when she discovers that her victim is her own flesh and blood.

Belle Bennett, last seen in "Because of a Woman," the first Triangle seven-reel production, enacts the role of Mrs. Carter. J. Barney Sherry, familiarly known as the "screen millionaire," appears as Senator Franklin. The pleasure-loving aristocrat, Dabney Carter, is portrayed by Darrell Foss, who recently appeared in "Her American Husband." Lillian West is Nan Barker. Grover Franke as Dabney Carter, Jr., has his first important role as a Triangle player. The supporting body also includes Lee Hill, Lizzie Davis and William Dyer. Gilbert P. Hamilton is credited with the direction of the play.

"Little Red Decides," adapted from William V. McCoy's American Magazine story of the same name, is the second feature on the February 24 program. In this story "Little Red," a maverick of the range, is saved from a professionally prescribed mother and finds a substitute and equivalent for maternal love in the affection of Duck Sing, a Chinese cook. Many Americans believe that the Chinaman is a most dangerous enemy to white society, and various plays have been based on the racial differences of the east and west. But "Little Red Decides" offers a reversal of this theme, emphasizing the fidelity and trustworthiness of the Chinese character.

When Little Red's father dies, cowmen bring the orphan boy to Colonel Aliso's ranchhouse, where he becomes the idol of many rough range-riding souls. Duck Sing, the Chinese cook, appoints himself chief guardian. A delegation of church women of Casitas demand custody of the lad, but the punchers trick them with an organ donation. Pneumonia brings the doctor to Little Red's bedside, and a woman's care is prescribed, also the removal of the boy to the minister's home until the ranchers fill the prescription. Duck Sing finally solves the problem by letting Little Red decide for himself.

Little Barbara Connolly, three and a half years old, appears as "Little Red," Director Jack Conway states that she is far easier to manage than many of her grown up sisters. The role of Duck Sing is played by the oriental actor, Gora Kino.

Fritz Schade, as the husband in "The Tell Tale Shirt," Keystone comedy released for the week of February 24, is doing his best to deceive his wife (Peggy Pearce) at every opportunity. And not satisfied with flirting with the maid (Clara Roberts), his active heart beats overtime in the expectation of a rendezvous with the vampire (Marianna de la Torre). But a misplaced address and oriental innocence, personified by Paddy McQuire, lead to a fatal tangle in a Chinese laundry.

"A Coward's Courage" and "His Nimble Twist" are Triangle one-reel Komedies, also released for the week of February 24.

A sample of the humor in the Triangle play, "Little Red Decides."

Exhibitors Visit Lockwood

Members of the Florida branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of America, assembled in convention in Jacksonville last week, paid a visit to Harold Lockwood, Metro star, and witnessed the filmization of several scenes for Metro's screen production of Holman Day's novel, "The Landloper."

The party, guided by S. A. Sparks and W. L. Whitehead, both Jacksonville exhibitors, included Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bennett, Ocala, Fla., Thornton Parker, St. Petersburg; Frank Genover, St. Augustine; Mr. and Mrs. L. Kalbfield, Palatka; Fletcher Catron, A. H. La Belle and C. D. Cooley, Tampa; Braxton Beacham, jr., Orlando; H. W. Titus, Daytona; C. E. Daffin, Tallahassee; William Denworth, Fort Lauderdale; Parish Carter, Gainesville; J. E. Rivers, Green Cove Springs, and L. P. Davis, Arcadia.

Fairbanks Poses for Sculptor

Douglas Fairbanks is being "sculptored" by Prince Troubetsky. The prince is spending an hour a day at the studio where Douglas, in the makeup of a westerner, with his famous horse, has been posing for him.

Exhibitors Report on Goldwyn Films

Rialto Theater in Los Angeles Has Five Weeks' Run on "Dodging a Million" and "The Cinderella Man"

AS INDICATIVE of the widespread enthusiasm with which "Dodging a Million," Mabel Normand's first Goldwyn Picture, is being received, Goldwyn cites the fact that J. A. Quinn of the Rialto Theatre, Los Angeles, has just finished a two-weeks' run of this film. Business in the first week was big, but in the second was even better.

The approval thus expressed follows on the heels of another remarkable engagement—a three-weeks run of "The Cinderella Man," with Mae Marsh as the star. Goldwyn believes that few, if any, two program pictures can boast of five weeks at a metropolitan theatre.

Exhibitor praise of Goldwyn productions old and new continues to pour into the home offices of the company in New York. A letter from C. B. Nance, who conducts the Ruth Theatre at Ruth, Nevada, is typical as well as remarkable for the fact that Mr. Nance is manager of the big mining company at Ruth and is running the theatre solely for his employes and their families.

"The Goldwyn service is sure going good here," writes Mr. Nance. "I think it is the best of them all. We used 'Baby Mine' last night. Could you arrange to rebook this subject some time in March? This is the first time in the history of this house, it may interest you to know, that we have ever thought of rebooking a subject."

Mr. Nance's enthusiasm finds a parallel in an exhibitor's approval of the first Goldwyn Picture, Mae Marsh in "Polly of the Circus." J. P. Lannan of the Swan Theatre, Clarinda, Ia., says: "Splendid production, with a big race that is different. We charged 25 and 50 cents, gave 17 and 32 cents to the Red Cross, 3 and 5 cents to Uncle Sam and I kept 5 and 13 cents. This star is great."

A. R. Anderson of the Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho, says of "The Cinderella Man": "Don't be afraid to boost this production. It can't help but please the most critical. Well directed and splendidly acted."

"Dodging a Million" has created no end of enthusiasm in the Boston territory. Of it Mrs. Ayer, owner of the Exeter Theatre, which caters to an exclusive Boston clientele, says: "It was unique and entertaining. Everyone was more than pleased."

J. Lourie of the Beacon and Modern theatres, Boston, says: "It is one of the most unusual, intensely mysterious and entertaining photoplays I have ever seen. It is perfect in detail, exquisite in settings. It went over big in both of our houses, as was evidenced by the appreciative applause which greeted it."

Of the same production, Charles G. Branham, manager of the Strand Theatre in Minneapolis, says: "We exhibitors say so many bad things about pictures that I think it is only fair to pass the word along when there is really something good to say. The picture I have in mind is Mabel Normand in 'Dodging a Million.' This is a high-class production. The star is delightful, the story good and the direction of George Loane Tucker splendid. 'Dodging a Million' should be a good buy for any theatre. Give us more pictures like 'The Cinderella Man' and 'Dodging a Million.'"

"I went to Portland yesterday to see 'Thais,' and think it is one of the greatest pictures I ever witnessed," writes W. H. Durham of the Grand Theatre, Camas, Wash.

Charles D. Cooley, owner of the Strand Theatre in Tampa, Fla., says: "We played 'Thais' yesterday and the day before. I must congratulate you on having a great box office attraction and an excellent picture. We did a splendid business to a very satisfied audience."

J. F. Tompkins, manager of the Pike Theatre in Colorado Springs, says: "I cannot refrain from complimenting you on 'Thais.' To me it is one of the most elaborate productions that has ever been shown in our city, not only for magnitude, but from a photographic standpoint and in detail. My customers (by whom we must judge a picture) were more than pleased and my business was capacity during the entire engagement, which goes to show that the production advertised itself. I trust we may receive many more Goldwyns like 'Thais.'"

Diando Finishes Juvenile

The Diando Film Corporation, Glendale, California, has finished the five-reel feature "A Daughter of the West," with Baby Marie Osborne, supported by Frank Whitson, Marion Warner, J. Morris Foster, William Quinn, H. M. Lindley and a galaxy of medal wearing cowboys and cowgirls and atmosphere, and the negatives have been forwarded to the Pathe Exchange, New York, where the picture will be given a release.

Barbara Castleton to World

Exhibitors will be interested to learn that Miss Barbara Castleton has signed a long-term contract with World-Pictures. Miss Castleton comes to World-Pictures with an experience and repute derived from some of the most successful productions, among them "A Daughter of the Gods," "God's Man," "Parentage," "On Trial," "For the Freedom of the World," "Sins of Ambition," "Empty Pockets" and the forthcoming "Mothers of Liberty."

Shirley Mason and Matt Moore in "Aliens," the new picture Bernard Durning is making for Thomas A. Edison, Inc.

"Laugh and the World Laughs with You"

A THREE COLUMN CURE FOR THE BLUES

RING LARDNER, noted humorist, wrote the following for The Chicago Tribune a few days ago:

It's a Tuesday morning and I'd amazingly love to eat a Cold Boiled Prune.

I shall never be able to tell one-tenth of my quaintly-vulgar Tuesday morning fondness for a Cold Boiled Prune.

But now I must work, work, work, work, work. So I write me this stuff of me.

I find Me in this Chicago-Illinois, in a sweetly madison street picture-show. I am fascinatingly-B. & Oly late. The things I see are garbedly-tangled into an indescribable heap in my abdomen. I can write of them only vaguely-jumbley.

The picture is You, Mary MacLane, and your Passionate Male Sextet.

I see your white flannel-trouseredly naughty boy.

And I see your portfolioly pen-pushing black-black-black bow-tied writer-man.

And your too easily ossified son-of-a-baronet.

And your napkin-in-his-necked box fighter.

And your anti-alcoholic bucolic bank clerk.

And your married devil-in-his-own-home-town.

I see all six of the Men Who Have Made Love to You (and by the way, Mary, I'll say you weren't entirely on the defensive).

And I hear them and others subtitley addressing you with such remarks as "Say listen" and "I should worry" and "You're some jane" and "For God's sake, lay off him." And I see you standing for it.

And I must admit that even if you do play with a doll and drink cocktails and don a kimono at 7:50 p. m., I'm off'n You, Mary MacLane, and never again will I believe that a girl is damnably different because of what she says in a book.

You're a broken idol with I, Ring Lardner, and in spite of my futile way-of-life and my rotting destroying half-acquiescence in it I have a furious positive Murder in me.

I do not know why I don't do the Murder. It is not from fear of consequences—not in this Chicago-Illinois.

It would be simpler and finer for me to do this Murder than to keep it in me.

It would be a simpler and finer thing to do any Murder than to feel, even once, the strangling damnedness rising, rising at my throat.

I wish I'd been born a Wild Boar.

* * *

Overheard by Irving Mack at the Chicago exchange of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company:

First exhibitor—Yep, advertising put me out of business.

Second exhibitor—Is that so? I didn't know you advertised.

First exhibitor—I didn't, but my competitor did.

* * *

While Goldwyn's screen version of "Thais" was being played at the Strand Theatre in Evansville, Ind., a woman patron telephoned to ask what the bill was. It was morning and two negro porters were the only persons in the house. The following conversation ensued:

Patron—What is playing at the Strand today?

Porter—Mary Garden in "Them Is."

Patron (indignant)—What?

Porter (after conferring with other porter)—I was mistaken, lady. The other fellow says it's Mary Garden in "They Is."

* * *

"What is a pippin?" This question is being asked William Bertram, director of the Pathe star, Baby Marie Osborne, by his friends. The answer is embarrassing to "Willum."

Recently the baby looked into the face of Bertram when she was asked if she loved her director, and declared she did, clapping her tiny hands and exclaiming, "He's a pippin."

In a few moments she was rubbing the nose of a Rocky Mountain canary, and pulling down one of his long ears she whispered into it: "You are a pippin."

Bertram refuses to see the joke.

George Hernandez, who frequently is seen in Triangle productions.

* * *

"The kaiser gets my goat," said Wallace MacDonald, who will be seen in Triangle's new picture, "The Shoes That Danced." "Mine, too," chirped in Pauline Starke and Dick Rosson, who appear in the same photoplay. "Evidently," said Director Frank Borzage, "the kaiser's scheme is to get the goats of a hundred million Americans, have them shipped over to Germany and fed to his people."

* * *

Mrs. Irene Lee, mother of Jane and Katherine Lee, the William Fox "Baby Grand" stars, was trying to impress upon Jane, aged five, the necessity of telling the truth at all times. Washington's Birthday was approaching.

"George Washington had difficulties enough for ten men," Mrs. Lee told Jane, "yet he never told a lie."

"Maybe that's why he had so much trouble," piped Jane.

* * *

Charles Ray often has a laugh over an incident which occurred in the days when he was struggling for fame along the vaudeville circuit (small time). He and Chester Conklin were partners and one morning they set out from a small hotel for an early train. There was a particularly beautiful and rosy break of day. They saw a man sitting by a fence babbling, and thinking he might be hurt, asked him what the trouble was. "Trouble nothing," he replied, "I'm lookin' at (hic!) the beauful shunshet."

"Consomme Solo"

"The Consomme Solo" is the title of a bit of laughable pantomime in Don Barclay's one-reel Essanay comedy, "Check Your Hat, Sir?" Barclay, in a cafe, observes another patron drinking his soup in "fortissimo" and walks over. Using a fork for a baton, he assists in the "musical rendition" and proves his claim to being the "funniest man in the Ziegfeld Follies," from which he was borrowed for this picture.

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY'S TRAINED MOTION PICTURE REVIEWERS

MOTOGRAPHY is compelled in this issue to present a greatly abbreviated department of reviews. All of the New York notices are missing, apparently having been lost in transit. Indulgence is asked of readers. Steps will be taken to guard against such a thing happening again.

"The Midnight Trail"

William Russell's Latest American-Mutual Feature, February 25. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

WILLIAM RUSSELL is not the kind of a star who insists that to him alone belong the honors of a picture. A clever supporting cast is usually found with him, and this greatly adds to the enjoyment of the features without in the least detracting from the star's work.

Harvey Clark as Jasper Stride, the hero's valet, contributes a character role to this comedy drama that is unusually good. Russell himself has a clever role and handles it with the usual mixture of energy and good acting which makes him a favorite. With Carl Stockdale, Clarence Burton and Edward Jobson in roles full of opportunity, and a story full of action and fun, the result is a first-class offering for comedy-drama loving audiences. It can be summed up in two statements: It's a typical Russell play, and it's the sort of entertainment audiences of every type appreciate.

The director and the players make the most of a number of funny situations in a spontaneous fashion which is pleasing. The story is good, the settings satisfactory, the photography fine.

Edward Sloman directed. Francelia Billington plays opposite the star. Sydney Deane, Jerome Sheler, Helen Howard and Alfred Ferguson are also in the cast.

The story: Jack Woodford, wealthy sportsman, devours detective stories and cherishes an ambition to be a second Sherlock Holmes.

When he catches a glimpse of Alice, the beautiful daughter of the Reverend Moreland, at his lawyer's office, he falls in love with her. The rector has been robbed of valuable jewels and asks the lawyer to recommend to him a detective. Jack secures a card of the detective, W. H. Irons, and, posing as the sleuth, contrives to introduce himself and his faithful valet, Stride, into the rector's home, assuming the disguise of theological students.

Jack's curiosity and sleuth-sense is excited by the actions of Faxon, the rector's private secretary, whose love-making is objectionable to Alice. He overhears Faxon threatening to reveal a secret of Harry's, the rector's son, unless Harry compels Alice to look with favor on his suit.

Jack and Stride keep a midnight vigil, and are dumbfounded when they see Alice take the jewels from the safe and bring them to her room. Mystified but determined to shield her, Jack goes to her room next day, secures the jewels and returns them to the rector, refusing to divulge how he has recovered them. Faxon, who has watched him, has him arrested by the real detective, Irons, who has just arrived, and Jack and Stride are made prisoners in the basement.

Harry Moreland assists in their escape that night. As they are creeping through the front hall, they see Alice at the safe taking the jewels, which the rector had returned, thinking the thieves had been captured. As Alice passes them they see that she is walking in her sleep, and following her observe Faxon steal into her room and take the jewels from the vase where she had placed them.

Jack attacks Faxon and they are engaged in a furious fight when Irons arrives. Faxon confesses that he has used Alice's somnambulistic habits as a means for his theft. Harry's secret is his marriage to Marie, a dancer, to whom his father objected, while Jack proves as successful a suitor as he is a Sherlock when Alice decides that Mrs. Jack Woodford sounds rather nice.

"Loaded Dice"

Frank Keenan in His First Pathe Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

EXCELLENTLY produced, with Keenan in a powerful role, this offering nevertheless is not a pleasant one nor the sort of picture most audiences enjoy. It is built around the career of a man who is so utterly merciless that he does not hesitate to commit two cold-blooded murders in order to advance his financial interests. Keenan's acting is masterly, and the story is dramatically set forth. Its strength and its artistry compel admiration. Restraint is a noteworthy feature of its production and there are no scenes of violence or passion. Instead we have an impression of cold, intense cruelty. Patrons will remain fascinated during the unfolding of the story, but many of them will be glad when the last scene is over and a comedy (if the exhibitor is wise) breaks the tension. There is no comedy relief in the picture itself.

By the audiences which like intense, even if unhappy plays, this offering will be appreciated. But the average patron, who seeks relaxation after a day of tension and war worry and expects his favorite theater to supply it, will not be pleased.

The story: Richard Gordon (Keenan) does not believe in goodness or even in fair play. His creed is to win at any cost. His only tender emotion is for Rose Ashton, whose love he accepts but whom he refuses to marry.

Determined to win a fortune, he forces a group of dishonest promoters to take him into partnership. They agree to do so if he supplies a large sum of money. He persuades Rose to aid him in a base trick by which he compromises a wealthy young man and by blackmail gets the money he requires. When he is threatened with exposure, he kills the young man and throws his body into a quick-sand mire, and strangles the only other person who might betray him, a young actress.

Fortune aids Gordon. He wins his money and advances politically until he is elected governor of the state. He breaks off his affair with Rose and his engagement to a wealthy debutante is announced. Then fate turns against him. He learns that one man has enough evidence to convict him of the murder of the actress and he yields to blackmailing demands until in a quarrel he is shot. As he is dying, he sends for Rose, and she comes to him. He tells her that he has gambled with the idea that there is no God of justice and that he has lost. He dies in terror.

"Ruggles of Red Gap"

Taylor Holmes in George K. Spoor Ultra Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

A COMEDY-DRAMA adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story by Harry Leon Wilson, which has also appeared as a stage play, serves as the latest vehicle for the talents of Taylor Holmes. Ruggles is an English valet of an extremely conventional sort who accompanies a family of newly rich Americans to their home in Red Gap, Arizona. The steps by which the American spirit of democracy overcomes his inborn ideas of caste afford humor of a clever kind. Although the story progresses rather jerkily, its humor saves it.

The picture was filmed at the Grand Canyon in Arizona and the exterior scenes are in themselves an entertaining feature of the play. There are many humorous incidents of the sort found in preceding Taylor Holmes pictures. Another comedian in the cast, Frederick Burton, as Cousin Egbert, the rough westerner who has an English valet "wished" on him by his family, contributes much of the fun to the picture. He is especially good. Edna Phillips Holmes, who is Taylor Holmes' wife, plays Klondike Kate in a pleasing manner. Virginia Valli plays opposite Holmes. Others in the cast are Lawrence D'Orsay, Lillian Drew, Rose Mayo, Charles Lane, Rod La Rocque, Frances Conrad and James F. Fulton, a competent group. L. C. Windom directed.

The picture, released through Kleine, is in seven reels. It will attract the many admirers Taylor Holmes has won through his film work, and it will entertain them. It is a good offering for any theatre whose patrons like comedy-dramas and light plays.

The story: Marmaduke Ruggles, valet to the Honorable George, becomes the stake in a game of draw poker between the English aristocrat and Senator Floud, who is traveling with his family in England. When the Flouds return to their home in Arizona they take Ruggles with them as the valet to Cousin Egbert, Floud's cousin, a typical westerner of the old days.

Cousin Egbert, now greatly attached to Ruggles, dubs him "the Colonel" and the newspapers come out with a story to the effect that the distinguished "Colonel Marmaduke Ruggles" of London is visiting with his American friends, the Senator Flouds. Ruggles is dazzled by his overnight distinction and finds himself Red Gap's greatest idol. There is nothing to do but live up to his reputation. Then he starts a fashionable restaurant in Red Gap. The Honorable George, who comes to Red Gap to visit the senator does not give the story away. But Ruggles is still not Americanized and the interest the Honorable George shows in "Klondike Kate," leader of the town's Bohemian element, disturbs him so much that he sends for George's brother. The brother arrives, meets and falls in love with Kate and marries her. Ruggles' snobbishness is fast disappearing. His restaurant flourishes. He becomes an American business man and marries the Widow Judson, who had aided his success.

Call Tucker "Apostle of Silence"

"The Apostle of Silence," George Loane Tucker is called at the Goldwyn studios. The new general manager of production is a believer in the power of silence both in the drama and the studio. Few directors can invest a screen situation with more eloquence than George Loane Tucker, nor can any studio factor so imbue his workers with the knowledge that silence is an aid to greater efficiency.

His method of direction relies largely on quiet self-possession. No one has ever heard Mr. Tucker raise his voice; neither has he been known to relax his vigilance because his voice happened to be silent. In fact, his players feel that they are under a mental magnifying glass because of this unceasing scrutiny. His suggestions and comments are made in low, even tones with never a needless word or an order open to change. His direction is almost telepathic. It is proof of his belief in silence and its potent effect.

The same rule applies to studio activities in general. The Goldwyn studios in Fort Lee are as quiet as a library—or as quiet as the movement of many workers will permit. There is no place where so much thought is required as a motion picture studio, says Mr. Tucker, and noise kills thought.

"The Shuttle" to be Ready Soon

Out at the Morosco studios in Los Angeles final touches are being placed on Constance Talmadge's recently completed Select production, "The Shuttle."

In this, her first picture to be made since her arrival in the west, Miss Talmadge has combined the lighter touches of comedy with the heavier demands of drama, as in her earlier release, "Scandal." Unlike "Honeymoon" and "The Studio Girl," "The Shuttle" provides her with an impersonation of unusual force in which her deeper vein of dramatic ability is given ample opportunity for expression.

The story is a film adaptation of Frances Hodgson Burnett's well-known novel, "The Shuttle," and tells a tale of romance and international entanglements which furnishes excellent material for the screen. In it the star as Bettina Vanderpoel, brilliant and resourceful young New Yorker, comes to the rescue of her older sister who had years before married a dissolute English peer, but in rescuing Sister Rosy she herself falls victim to the wiles of Cupid. The play is filled with tense moments and the action moves rapidly.

Work on "Up the Road with Sallie," Miss Talmadge's next Select production, is well under way and promises a return to her lighter comedy vein. All of her pictures are distributed by Select.

Who Was It? You?

Will the exhibitor who sent in reports on "His Picture in the Paper," "American Consul," "Broadway Arizona," "The Dummy," "The Man Without a Country," and other features, but forgot to sign his name or address, please supply these? Then MOTOGRAPHY can publish his reports.

The film that first made motion pictures practical is easily identifiable by the words

"EASTMAN"
AND "KODAK"

on the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Warn Theaters of Fake Collector

An imposter who claims to be a revenue officer is operating among the moving picture theaters in the South, according to a report received by Collector of Internal Revenue E. B. Craig, who is stationed at Nashville.

Collector Craig and his force are endeavoring to locate the man. Meanwhile they have issued a warning to theater owners to beware of paying war revenue to anyone until assured that the collector is actually an employe of the government and has with him a properly signed commission and seal, or unless the collector is personally known to be what he represents.

April Blue Ribbon Releases

Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, announces his Blue Ribbon feature release list for April as follows:

April 1—Gladys Leslie in "Little Miss No-Account," written by Edward P. Smaney, directed by William P. S. Earle.

April 8—Alice Joyce in Robert W. Chambers' novel, "The Business of Life," directed by Tom Terriss.

April 15.—Earle Williams supported by Grace Darmond in George Barr McCutcheon's novel, "The Man from Brodneys," directed by Thomas Mills.

April 22—Harry Morey with Florence Deshon in "A Bachelor's Children," written by William Addison Lathrop, directed by Paul Scardon.

April 29—Nell Shipman with Alfred Whitman in "The Girl from Beyond," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, directed by William Wolbert.

Mr. Smith directs particular attention to his April feature program as further evidence of the carrying out of his "best authors" policy as announced a number of months ago.

Walter Finnigan Reed, a famous Irish comedian known from one end of the coast to the other as a fun-maker, has been added to the Arbuckle scenario staff, of which Richard Warren is editor. Fatty and Walter are old partners in musical comedy and the jovial "Finnigan" promises to introduce some of their old stage gags in the Paramount-Arbuckle comedies.

What Theater Men Are Doing

NEWS OF EXHIBITORS WHO ARE SUCCEEDING—ARE YOU ONE?

This department of Motography specializes in giving to exhibitors stories of the accomplishments of successful theater managers. If you have attempted any experiments and they have succeeded or failed write Motography about it.

E. H. Hulsey Opens Fine House in Dallas

Library Which Can Be Used at All Times as Waiting Room and Device for Flower Scents Two of Its Features

THE QUEEN THEATRE at Dallas, Texas., after extensive remodeling, was reopened the other day in an auspicious way.

The management declares there is not a better show place in a city the size of Dallas to be found anywhere.

There are many features in the new playhouse which, it is declared, have never before been installed in a theatre in the Southwest.

One of these is a commodious library on the second oor, which will be free to patrons. It is furnished with tables, lounges, the latest newspapers and motion picture magazines. Patrons are invited to use this room for a waiting place at any time.

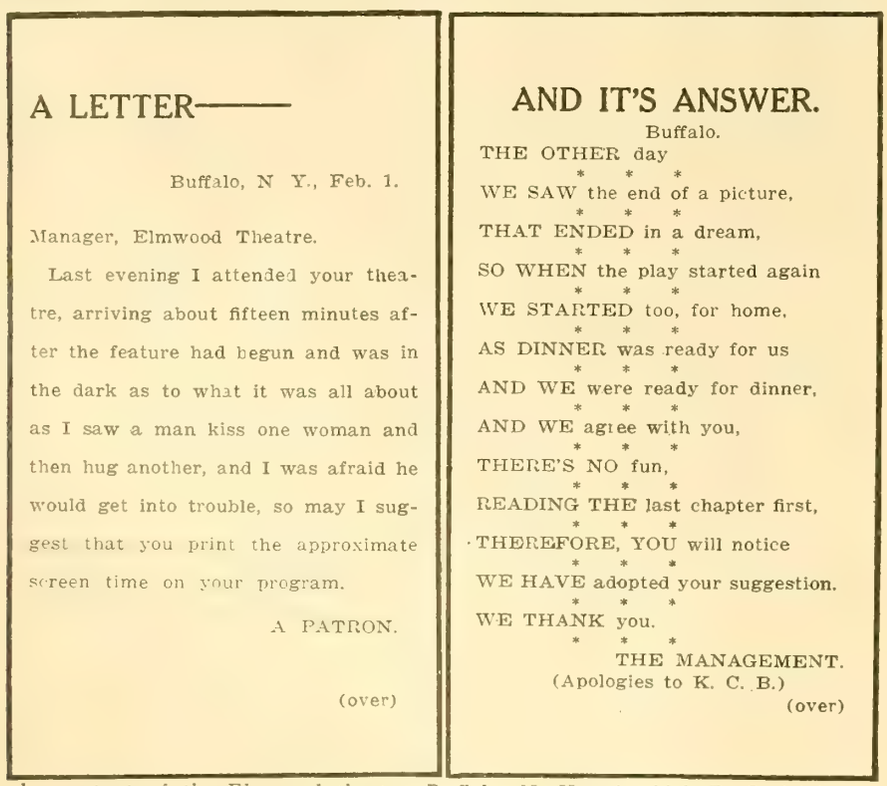
A room has also been arranged on the second floor where men may go to see the show and at the same time have their cigar or cigarette.

Throughout the theatre close attention has been given to color schemes, the rooms being done in lavender and dark purple.

There is a complete system of ventilation, which forces in currents of fresh air and forces out the stale air. Hot draughts circulate through the house in cold weather and it is arranged for cold draughts in summer weather.

A lighting system has also been installed which will assist in carrying out picture effects, and an arrangement has been installed in the basement for the perfuming of the atmosphere with various flower scents to aid in realistic presentation.

On the third floor a lounging room with baths has been installed for the benefit of the employes.



A special room has been equipped for women patrons, with a maid in attendance. There is a cot in this room and an emergency kit of medicines.

The room in which the motion picture machines are housed is fireproof, being constructed entirely of heavy tin.

The theatre is planning to install the largest pipe organ in the South.

The opening bill was Viola Dana in "Blue Jeans." There was also a comedy and Pathe News.

E. H. Hulsey is president of the company operating the Queen, and John DeStefano is manager.

A LETTER——

Buffalo, N Y., Feb. 1.

Manager, Elmwood Theatre.

Last evening I attended your theatre, arriving about fifteen minutes after the feature had begun and was in the dark as to what it was all about as I saw a man kiss one woman and then hug another, and I was afraid he would get into trouble, so may I suggest that you print the approximate screen time on your program.

A PATRON.

(over)

AND IT'S ANSWER.

Buffalo.

THE OTHER day
* * *
WE SAW the end of a picture,
* * *
THAT ENDED in a dream,
* * *
SO WHEN the play started again
* * *
WE STARTED too, for home,
* * *
AS DINNER was ready for us
* * *
AND WE were ready for dinner,
* * *
AND WE agree with you,
* * *
THERE'S NO fun,
* * *
READING THE last chapter first,
* * *
THEREFORE, YOU will notice
* * *
WE HAVE adopted your suggestion.
* * *
WE THANK you.
* * *
THE MANAGEMENT.

(Apologies to K. C. B.)

(over)

A clever stunt of the Elmwood theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., of which E. O. Weinberg is manager. This was sent out to patrons with the weekly program.

MacLane Film Gets Long Runs

"Men Who Have Made Love to Me," the George K. Spoor feature starring I, Mary MacLane, is enjoying long-run bookings in various parts of the country. Reports state that it has created a great deal of talk in Kansas City, where it was shown in the Garden theatre, and in Chicago, where it ran for two weeks solid at the Band Box, a loop house. The "Rialto" in New York offered the picture for an entire week.

Holmes Play Nearly Ready

"A Pair of Sixes" is now in the cutting room and the subtitles are being designed. This is Taylor Holmes' newly completed George K. Spoor feature and is an adaptation of the well known stage play by Edward Peple.

"A Pair of Sixes" moves rapidly and gives Mr. Holmes ample opportunity to show some rapid action comedy. Mr. Holmes expressed himself as pleased with the co-operative work of his new leading lady, Alice Mann.

Manager Enters New Field

Walter Jacobson has resigned as manager of the Garden theatre at Flint, Mich. He has been succeeded by Steve N. Willett. The house has been placed under the general supervision of Howard O. Pierce, manager of the Majestic theatre and publicity representative of the Majestic, Palace and Garden. Mr. Jacobson intends to devote his time to pushing the sale of a carbon holder for projection machines which he recently patented.

Scenes from the beautiful new Circle Theatre at Indianapolis and a picture of the managing director, S. Barret McCormick.

Works Out Guide for Program Selection

George D. Hopkinson, Manager of Hamlin Theatre, Chicago, Gauges Various Brands by Applause of Patrons

GEORGE D. HOPKINSON, manager of the Hamlin Theatre, in the residence district of Chicago, has just discovered a new way to test programs as a guide to future buying. He is checking up on applause and the brands which get the most are the ones he purposes to purchase consistently.

"For the Freedom of the World," the Ira M. Lowry story of love and war, was the medium of his first test. Applause that greeted patriotic scenes the first night of this picture, gave Mr. Hopkinson the idea. He resolved to see for himself by careful "Clocking" just which scenes stirred the spectators most.

Much after the manner of the judge of the theatre dancing contest, in which the awards are based on the volume of applause, Mr. Hopkinson admits he was perplexed to decide which of three big scenes evoked the most approval.

It was about a stand-off, Mr. Hopkinson determined, between the night battle scene in which the American flag goes "over the top" for the first time in the trenches, the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by a regimental band of the 97th Canadian Overseas Battalion (American Legion), in the course of which the colors are raised over the camp in France of the young heroes who couldn't wait to fight, and the actual scene showing the arrival in Paris of General Pershing and the first contingent of the American troops.

But the test proved plainly that the picture pleased and it registered in the favor of Goldwyn. Since this test Mr. Hopkinson has learned much in regard to the public taste and has found that it aids him greatly in the selection of his programs.

O. C. Hauber has assumed control of the Hauber theatre at Pine Bluff, Ark.

Novel Stunt Packs House

The Gifts' theatre at Cincinnati used a novel scheme to boost "The Zeppelin's Last Raid." Paper Zeppelins were scattered to the winds from the roof of the house and caused considerable excitement. A clever lobby display also was arranged. It consisted of an exact reproduction of a Zeppelin, made out of silk and aluminum, and created much comment. The theatre broke all records with the film. Patrons were turned away at every performance.

Plan to Open New House

Kitterman Brothers, who operate the Princess theatre, at Orange, Texas, have planned to open another house. The new theatre will be called "The Queen." It will have a seating capacity of 800 and be thoroughly modern.

Pay Big War Taxes

Theatres of Washington, D. C., including regular play houses, are contributing war taxes to the government at the rate of nearly $1,000,000 a year.

Edward L. Hyman Gets Story on Page 1

Buffalo Evening Times Plays Up Manager and His Victoria Theatre When He Arranges for Patriotic Benefits

EDWARD L. HYMAN and his Victoria Theatre at Buffalo, N. Y., received a story on page 1 of the Buffalo Evening Times recently when he arranged to give two performances on a closed day for the benefit of the Times' apple fund for American soldiers in France. Here is the story:

"The patriotic manager of the Victoria Theatre, Edward L. Hyman, has secured permission from Fuel Administrator Elliot C. McDougall to open his splendid theatre at the corner of West Ferry and Grant streets, Wednesday evening, for the purpose of giving two benefit performances, the entire proceeds to be donated to The Buffalo Times' Apple Fund for U. S. Soldiers in France.

"Record-breaking crowds are assured, for a great, patriotic bill is promised by Manager Hyman.

"Clara Kimball Young in 'Shirley Kaye' will be the big film play. She will be assisted by Corliss Giles, a Buffalo favorite, well remembered here as Jessie Bonstelle's former leading man.

"Several other plays will be presented and a splendid series of scenic, comedy and news pictures will be offered. A special program of music will be given and the bill is one of exceptional interest—a genuine holiday bill.

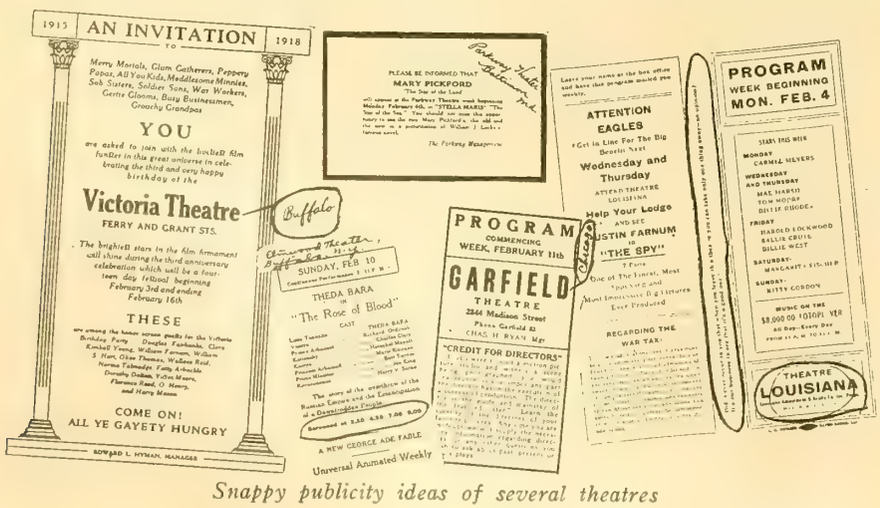
"The prices will not be increased, remaining at 11, 17 and 22 cents, this including the war tax. Doors open at 6:30 P. M., and two performances will be given, one at 7 o'clock and the other beginning at 9 o'clock.

"As stated, the entire proceeds will be given to The Times' Apple Fund. See this fine show and thus help boost the Apple Fund."

Louisville Men Organize

Exhibitors of Louisville, Ky., joined to protect their interests under the name of the Theatre Managers' Association of Louisville. The new organization takes the place of the Louisville Managers' Protective Association of a few years' back. Officers of the new organization are: President, Carl Rettick; vice-president, William Woolfolk; secretary-treasurer, Harry J. Martin.

Women Approve Lincoln Film



The first series of "The Son of Democracy," Paramount's version of the life of Abraham Lincoln, received the endorsement of the Cincinnati Woman's City Club before being shown at the Walnut theatre there. Scott Small, city censor, recommended the picture highly to Randall J. Condon, superintendent of public schools.

Cincinnati Exhibitors Elect

At a meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce the other day the following officers were elected for 1918: President, F. L. Emmert; first vice-president, A. G. Hettesheimer; second vice-president, J. A. Ackerman; treasurer, Otto Luedeking; sergeant-at-arms, Frank Willenborg; managing secretary, H. Serkowich of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

Considers Attractive Offer

Manager Thomas of the Strand theatre, at Omaha, who is president of the Nebraska Exhibitors' League, is considering an offer as supervisor of the chain of theatres consisting of the Regent, Toronto, St. Denis, Montreal and the Flower, at Ottawa, Canada.

Snappy publicity ideas of several theatres

Gives Coal As Prize

Speaking of coal, there seems to be loads of it out in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Every Thursday night the Princess Theater of Calgary is giving away a ton to one person in the audience, thanks to an advertising arrangement with the Brownie Coal Company.

A strange fact in connection with this stunt is that on the first occasion the person who obtained the ton was a returned soldier without a home, who promptly turned the black diamonds over to the local Red Cross.

The second week the man who got the ton was a Celestial by the name of Wah Lee. The Chinaman refused to make a speech of acceptance although pressed by the crowd to do so. He was sure, however, to give directions for the delivery of the coal and asked that it be sent right away. His face was wreathed in smiles.

Plan to Exploit Scout Film

Universal is preparing for a big campaign in co-operation with the Boy Scouts of America for a five-part—two reels to an episode—boy scout serial, "Boy Scouts to the Rescue, or Aids of the Nation," produced in England under the supervision of Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, chief scout and founder of the British Boy Scouts, and in fact, the father of the world's scout movement.

The Boy Scout serial inaugurates a new source, or method of attracting patronage as the attendance of the local scout organizations and their friends is assured wherever the serial is shown.

Launch New Patriotic Film

Wm. H. Hoffman of Foursquares Pictures has arranged with W. M. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company of Chicago, to distribute a patriotic one-reel subject, "Food Will Win the War."

"People are just beginning to awake to the fact that food is one of the vital elements in our combat with the enemy," said Mr. Hoffman. "Food and munitions and men—all are of the utmost value.

"Foursquare exchanges everywhere are getting behind this film with push and vim. We aim to put it in every theater in the country."

To Show Pictures on Roof

The Bofan Amusement Company of New York is planning to construct a roof garden on top of its theatre at 623-627 Eighth avenue. The theater will be closed in the summer and pictures shown on the roof instead.

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Goldwyn Gets New Connections Abroad

Harold Bolster Closes Contracts for Distribution in Australia, New Zealand and Islands of South Seas

A CONTRACT has been signed between Harold Bolster of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and F. W. Thring, managing director of J. C. Williamson Films, whereby the latter company will have exclusive control of all Goldwyn pictures in Australia.

J. C. Williamson Films is the cinema branch of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., regarded by many as the strongest theatrical organization in Australia.

The significance of the contract will be more clearly understood when it is stated that Goldwyn pictures hereafter will have entree at the Paramount, the Star and Victoria theatres, the greatest houses in Melbourne, and the Theatre Royal, the biggest amusement institution of Sydney. The first named theatre in each city will be the first run house.

Mr. Bolster also has closed a contract for the distribution of all Goldwyn productions in New Zealand with New Zealand Picture Supplies, Ltd., through Harry Hayward, chairman of the board of directors. This contract also includes the Samoan Islands, Fiji Islands and the island of Tahiti.

Mr. Bolster made a close study of conditions in Australia and New Zealand.

"I am sure that conditions were much worse in Australia and New Zealand than they have been in America," he said, upon his return home. "The American people will find, just as the Australians did, that the theatre is the one diversion and amusement which they will not consent to renounce. In Australia the public 'came back' in even larger numbers than ever before and business generally was stimulated instantly. This change in the tide is already much in evidence in the United States."

New Quarters for France

To accommodate its augmented sales force and care for increased activities incident to the selling campaign on the six-reel superpicture, "The Natural Law," France Films, Inc., has moved from the eighth to the twentieth floor at 220 West Forty-second street, New York City.

Although this company started its selling campaign on "The Natural Law" less than two weeks ago, several important territories have been sold, and there are deals pending for practically every available territory in the United States.

Charles H. France and M. G. Watkins, president and secretary of the company, respectively, are elated.

Carmel Myers in "The Girl in the Dark," a five-act Bluebird drama adapted from Charles Edmond Walk's mystery story, "The Green Seal."

Spy Play Links Up With News

Captain Franz von Rintlen, who with ten other German plotters was convicted in the United States Court at New York recently of conspiracy to destroy neutral shipping, will be one of the kaiser's spy army prominently identified in the fourth, fifth and sixth episodes of Chief Flynn's moving picture expose of the imperial German spy system, "The Eagle's Eye."

Von Rintelen was sentenced to eighteen months in the federal prison at Atlanta, fined $2,000 and assessed the costs of his trial. This sentence will begin at the termination of a sentence of one year he is now serving on conviction of inciting strikes in munition plants.

The part of von Rintlen will be played by Wellington Playter, who as closely resembles the spy in personality as the players who impersonate von Bernstorff, Dr. Albert and Captains von Papen and Boy-Ed resemble these plotters.

Deal Recalls Coincidence

C. C. Hite of Cincinnati has bought the Ohio rights of Edward Warren's production, "Souls Redeemed," and several other features from W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation. Mr. Shallenberger's youngest brother, R. K. Shallenberger, is a partner of Mr. Hite. Mr. Hite is the youngest brother of the late Charles J. Hite, who was a partner of W. E. Shallenberger.

Get Selexart Film

Arrangements have been consummated under the terms of which the State Right Distributors, Inc. will present as their initial offering the Selexart Pictures production of "Carmen of the Klondike," in which Clara Williams will be seen in the title role.

C. M. Simmons, general manager of the State Right Distributors, Inc., will leave New York soon for a trip to many of the principal cities to co-operate with the franchise holders.

Scenes from the first two-reel Paramount releases of the Benjamin Chapin series, "The Son of Democracy."

Judge Rules on Old Pictures of Stars

Denies Injunction to Mutual to Restrain Four Companies From Reissuing Through Other Agencies

JUSTICE WHITTAKER of the New York Supreme Court has just given a decision of vital importance to the state rights field.

The decision was a denial of the application of the Mutual Film Corporation for an injunction against the New York Motion Picture Corporation, The Keystone Film Company, the Domino Motion Picture Corporation and the Broncho Motion Picture Company to restrain them from reissuing through any company except Mutual and refusing to supply Mutual with reprints of certain Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Fatty Arbuckle and William S. Hart pictures.

Through Arthur Butler Graham, their attorney, the defendants contended that their contract with Mutual did not give Mutual the right to reissues, but only the original releases and to reprints of those subjects. In denying the application for an injunction the judge sustained this contention.

This case will affect many companies that have changed their releasing agencies or have engaged in state rights distribution of pictures containing actors that have become famous since the pictures were made.

Sterling Gets World Rights to Keen Kartoons

The Sterling Pictures Corporation has acquired the world's rights to Keen Kartoons. The company announces that every territory will receive the pictures at terms consistent with "the usual safe and sane selling policies that characterize Sterling Methods."

The cartoons will be released in series. The first offering consists of twelve, each from five hundred and fifty to seven hundred feet in length. They consist of animated subjects—each one tinted and toned, and technically as well finished as an expensive feature.

Gets World Rights to Film

Sol L. Lesser, president of the State Right Distributors of San Francisco, has acquired world rights to "Carmen of the Klondyke." He is said to have paid $150,000 for the film. Mr. Lesser also has contracted with Ben S. Simpson of Triangle for twenty-eight Hart and Fairbanks releases and sixteen films featuring Norma Talmadge and Charles Ray, paying more than $100,000 for the forty-four pictures.

New Jester Sales Announced

William Steiner of the Jester Comedy Company reports the lease of Jester Comedies for North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee to B. M. Savini of Atlanta. With the exception of the New England states and several minor territories, Jester Comedies have been sold solid for the country.

Drew Takes Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have gone to Florida for a vacation after completing their second year as creators and co-stars of Metro-Drew comedies. Forty-seven one-act Metro-Drew comedies were written, produced and released during 1916, and forty-two one-act pictures with a five-act "thriller" to complete the quota were done in 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew will vary their work soon by an excursion into the realm of the legitimate stage, appearing during the spring under the auspices of Richard Walton Tully.

Buys "Redemption" Rights

Julius L. Lazarus, exhibitor and distributor of Canada and New York, has just purchased from the Nanuet Amusement Corporation, the rights to Julius Steger's "Redemption," featuring Evelyn Nesbit and her son Russell Thaw, for the territory of California, Nevada and Arizona. He has left for the Coast and expects within the next few days to open new offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles. N. R. Greathouse, the producer, has joined Mr. Lazarus in his new venture.

Film First Mastercraft

Work has been started in the Paralta studios in Los Angeles on the first Mastercraft production, which will be a version of Thomas Dixon's famous novel, "The One Woman."

The scenario was prepared from Mr. Dixon's book by J. Grubb Alexander and Fred Myton. The picture is being directed by Reginald Barker and the management of the production is in charge of F. Eugene Farnsworth, who has charge of the Mastercraft interests in California.

"The One Woman" is the first of a series of special productions which will be taken from the best of Mr. Dixon's works.

Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO OBTAIN THE BEST RESULTS DESCRIBED IN DETAIL

How to Determine the Right Size Lens

Good Rule to Remember Is Given by Motography Expert, Clearing Up Difficulty That May Be Experienced by Many

BY J. WESLEY SMITH

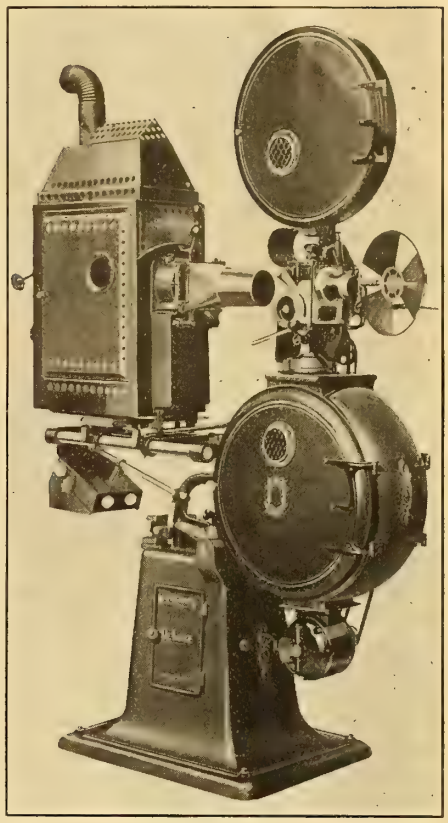
LYKES MANSELL of Trinity, Tex., asks a question this week, the answer of which may solve difficulties for many others as well. Below will be found Mr. Mansell's question, the answer, and questions and answers of others:

Q—I have been running one Powers 6A machine for about three years and have had to throw a picture on the screen which was about 50 feet from the machine. Now my boss has moved into a new building and I have to throw the picture about 65 feet. He wants to get a picture about 9x12. Now what size lens will I have to get? I am using a 4¾-inch size now, but it makes the picture too large for the screen. And what size condensors would be best? I am installing another machine now and I would like very much for you to tell me if it is possible to hook two machines up with one compensarc? We are using 110 volts A. C. current on a compensarc.

A—A good rule to remember regarding the size lens to be used for a given throw and specified size picture is this: Divide the length of throw by the width of picture desired and the quotient or answer will be the size lens required.

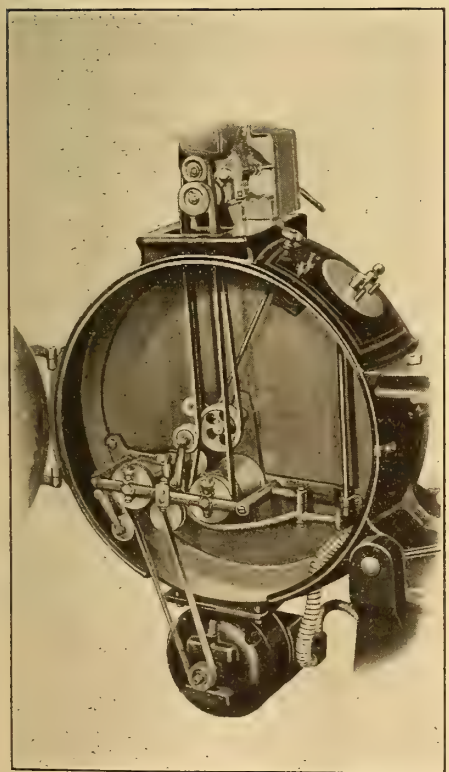
Thus in your case the throw is 65 feet and the width of the picture wanted is 12 feet. Sixty-five feet divided by 12 feet is 5 5/12. You will need either a 5¼-inch or 5½-inch lens. For a picture slightly smaller than 12 feet use the 5½-inch lens and for a slightly larger picture use a 5¼-inch lens.

The angle of divergence in different makes of lenses varies slightly, but in your case any standard make will be all right. I feel positive that any reputable house will send you both of the above lenses to try out. Return to them the lens not suited for your picture.



The question regarding the proper size condensor is mostly a matter of experiment, but would advise you to purchase a pair of 6½-inch and a pair of 7½-inch condensors.

You will have to try different combinations of the above condensors until your field is uniformly illuminated, but remember, always place the smallest size lens nearest the arc.



Yes, you can hook up both machines to the same compensarc, but do not burn both machines at once for more than a few seconds at a time, as you will overload the compensarc and will probably burn it out. Not only that, but the illumination of the picture on the screen will drop while the other machine is burning.

Q—For the last few days the pictures I have been showing are not as clear as formerly. They do not seem to be out of focus, yet at the same time are not clear. This is especially noticeable in the titles, as the bottom of the letters seem to run. Kindly let me know where my trouble lies.

A—Your last description of the trouble makes this a very easy matter to fix and can be told in very few words. The whole trouble is that your shutter is out of time with your intermittent and the film is starting to move at the aperature before the shutter is entirely closed.

Latest model of the Motiograph.

Gear case of the latest model of the Motiograph open and showing pulley gearing and motor drive.

Benjamin Chapin Turns Inventor

Works Out Novel Combination of Lights Whereby Lack of Contrast in Costume Is Largely Overcome

BENJAMIN CHAPIN, the star, was dissatisfied with any lights that he could purchase for getting certain effects "close up," so he evolved a combination himself.

Conferring with his technical director and chief electrician, he outlined his invention and instructed them to make the new bank out of parts of Cooper Hewitt banks.

"As you doubtless know," explained Mr. Chapin later, "the character of Abraham Lincoln, which I portray in "The Son of Democracy," is a very difficult subject to photograph for various reasons.

"In numerous tests I noticed that the black beard was hard to be distinguished from the black coat. I figured that if I could get sufficient light from underneath it would act as a back light and throw the dark outlines into relief. When the combination bank was made and tested it proved to be just as I anticipated and gave wonderful results, which can be especially noticed in our recent 'close-ups.' The effect is a soft natural tone which we could not get in the glare of carbon lamps generally used in these close-up scenes."

Latest News of Chicago

CHICAGO THEATRE MEN and other exhibitors of the Central States and Northwest, represented by a committee of seven, are investigating to determine whether they shall enter the new organization for carrying out the Manufacturer to Exhibitor Direct Sales plan.

The committee, consisting of Joseph Hopp, W. D. Burford and William E. Heaney of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League; J. Cooper, Harry Corbett and Louis Frank of the American Exhibitors' Association, and D. Robinson of Peoria, a member of both organizations, has held several meetings but is not yet ready to report.

The committee was appointed when exhibitors held a meeting two weeks ago to hear an explanation of the plan by C. C. Pettijohn and Harry Rapf. At the committee's first meeting Mr. Hopp was appointed temporary chairman, and Mr. Frank temporary secretary. Mr. Burford and Mr. Frank were detailed to investigate legal aspects, especially whether a company should be organized by the direct sale of stock or whether the stock should be held in trust.

Meanwhile more exhibitors are being interested. Tom Hamlin of the Associated Theatres, Inc., of the Northwest, which controls 700 theatres, is lining up exhibitors in that territory.

* * *

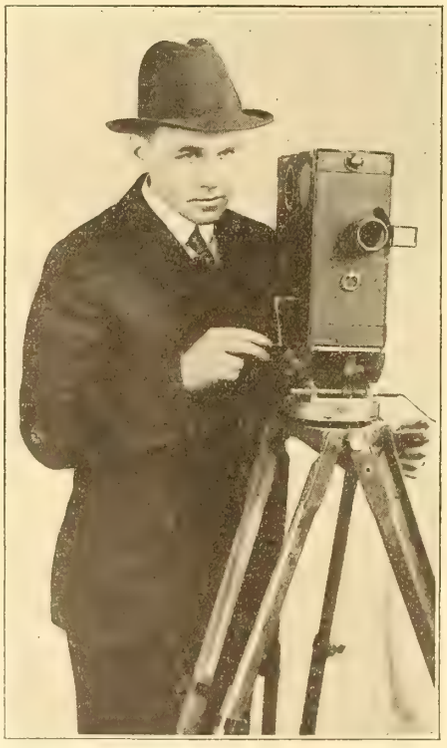
I. J. Ingraham is the new representative for the International Film Service in this territory, succeeding Harold Brown, who recently joined Mutual's Screen Telegram. Mr. Ingraham has had a varied career as cameraman. He traveled with Burton Holmes on his trips to the South Sea Islands, Hawaii and the Far East, and through Alaska and Canada. He was connected with the Chicago Land Bureau for some time and covered twenty-five states in this capacity. He has also taken many industrial and travel pictures on contract for various concerns, among them the Crossette Film Company. He thus brings a wide technical and news training to his new position.

* * *

J. R. Grainger, general manager of the Allen Film Corporation, has gone to New Orleans following his return from New York, where he closed a big deal. Upon his return it is expected he will disclose the nature of the proposition. The Allen Corporation controls the rights of "The Garden of Allah," "The Warrior," and "Mother" in eleven states —Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Ben Beadell, assistant manager of the Select office, is back from a trip through Indiana with John Balaban, Indiana representative. Mr. Beadell said he found conditions much better than had been reported and did an excellent business. Among other things he arranged to start a billboard campaign in Kokomo. Similar campaigns will be started in all pivotal cities of the state.

* * *



Having straightened out all the kinks and curves at his new office for Chicago and Cook County business in the Consumers' building, Pat Dillon of the Allen Film Corporation wants it known that his friends cannot come in too fast. Mr. Dillon formerly was on the city sales force of Vitagraph.

* * *

Charles H. Ryan of the Garfield Theatre, a West Madison street house, arranged a special matinee for school children on Washington's Birthday. He chose for their entertainment the patriotic Metro play, "Her Boy," a Chaplin film, a Sidney Drew comedy and a Pathe News Weekly.

* * *

W. R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, stopped off en route to New York from a trip through the west and northwest. Mr. Sheehan said that he found business good, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Harold P. Brown, who has just been appointed chief of the camera staff of Mutual's "Screen Telegram."

* * *

Albert L. Kahn, formerly of Chicago, but now manager of the Quality film exchange at Kansas City, was a visitor in the city one day last week. He spent the day in saying "Hello" to his old office mates at the Chicago Universal exchange, where he was employed for seven years. Mr. Kahn has just organized another independent film exchange in Kansas City to be known as the Emerald.

* * *

The Alcazar Theatre, a Loop house, of which Harry C. Miller is manager, departed from its custom of a daily change of program last week and played the Fox feature, "A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellerman, for all seven days.

* * *

William Fox has opened a separate office in the City Hall Square building for the booking of road shows. All western territory will be handled from this office, New York taking care of the east. J. A. Brehany is in charge.

* * *

C. E. Smith, manager of the Metro exchange, has returned from Indianapolis and reports that he booked Viola Dana's new picture, "Blue Jeans," for a week at the Circle Theatre, one of the leading houses of the middle west.

* * *

Ned Allen, president of the Allen Film Corporation, has just opened a new branch office in the Sincere building in Cleveland. Dan Martin and J. J. Gilmore will handle Ohio and Indiana from this office.

* * *

A private showing of the special Bluebird picture, "The Grand Passion," with Dorothy Phillips and a start cast, was held at the Bluebird exhibition room last Wednesday.

* * *

A. S. Kirkpatrick of the Mutual Sales department has returned from a trip of inspection of the Milwaukee office.

* * *

Joe Engle, treasurer of the Metro Pictures Corporation, spent a day in Chicago en route to the Coast.

* * *

F. C. Aiken, manager of the Select exchange, made a flying trip through Wisconsin last week.

* * *

Al Lichtman, general manager of Paramount, spent Sunday in Chicago.

"Split Reel" Notes For Theater Men

SNAPPY ITEMS OF INTEREST TO OWNERS AND MANAGERS

FINANCING of The Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation has struck a snag of disagreeable publicity in Chicago.

Giles P. Cory of Giles P. Cory and Company, which is disposing of the stock, and F. W. Sherwood, one of his salesmen, were arrested on a charge of violating the blue sky law which provides that brokers shall carry state licenses and not deal in unlisted securities except when the securities are approved by the secretary of state.

Arrest of the broker and salesman caused a panic among many who had bought the stock. Officials of the photoplay corporation declared they were being made "the goats" for malicious attacks. They insisted that the stock of the company was as good an investment as the stock of any other new picture company.

Attorney Orville W. Lee, secretary of the company, said:

"More than one-half the picture is completed. From the sale of $800,000 worth of stock through Cory the company will realize about $600,000. Of this amount $300,000 has been turned over to the Frohman Amusement Company for the actual production. The rest will be available for exploitation, advertising, and similar legitimate purposes.

"It is to be a great picture—bringing the story of race prejudice from Biblical times down to the melting pot history of the United States. I have seen 5,000 feet of it, including some immense spectacular scenes. Unless such attacks as this check the payment of money on stock the picture can be finished on the scale we have used so far. There is every reason to believe it will pay well and there is a chance for big money."

✣ ✣ ✣

Charles C. Burr, for the past year advertising manager of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, was appointed assistant general manager of the distributing department of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation last week, according to an announcement issued by that company. Mr. Burr will be associated with General Manager Al Lichtman.

Mr. Burr became a member of the Paramount organization in the latter part of 1913 as exploitation manager of the South American travel series. He came from the New York Times where he was doing general promotion work.

At the conclusion of his work in the interests of the travel series, Mr. Burr was placed in charge of Paramount trade paper advertising. He was later made editor of the Paramount Pictographs, and after reorganizing this department returned to the advertising department and conducted the first national campaign in motion picture history. He has since conducted the Paramount and Artcraft trade advertising campaign.

✣ ✣ ✣

In order to take better care of its augmented business in that territory, Select Pictures Corporation has just opened a new exchange in New Orleans. This makes twenty-one Select branches in the United States. The new office has been placed under the management of John S. Taylor, who was formerly associated with Manager C. C. Ezell in Select's Dallas exchange. The New Orleans office will take care of Mississippi and Louisiana, which heretofore have been served from the Atlanta branch under Manager Walter J. Price, and the Dallas branch under Mr. Ezell.

✣ ✣ ✣

Robert Allen, a machinist of Jasonville, Ind., who recently started a theatre in Bloomfield, nearby, confessed to Judge Slinkard that he attempted to burn his house to obtain insurance. He was sentenced to the reformatory for from one to three years, but sentence was suspended.

C. E. Shurtleff, who has been appointed general sales manager of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Allen said he had invested $1,000 in the theatre and had taken out $1,450 insurance. When the house proved a losing venture he said he could not reconcile himself to the loss and tried to recoup in the only way he knew how.

✣ ✣ ✣

Several persons were injured in a panic that followed fire in the motion picture theatre at Harrington, Del., a few days ago.

Presence of mind of the operator is thought to have prevented loss of life. When a reel caught fire he threw it into the street, and while men, women and children were jumping through windows and fighting to get to the street, he shouted at the top of his voice that the danger was over and those remaining departed without confusion.

✣ ✣ ✣

George K. Spoor is establishing new branch exchanges in many foreign countries. The one farthest from the United States is in Sydney, Australia. It is conducted by Clement Mason. This exchange handles not only all Essanay pictures, including scenics and comedies, but is booking the George K. Spoor Ultra features: "Uneasy Money," "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," and "Ruggles of Red Gap."

✣ ✣ ✣

W. W. Hodkinson has engaged C. E. Shurtleff as general sales manager for the Hodkinson service. Mr. Shurtleff has been sales manager for Select pictures for the last six months. Prior to his connection with Select he was special representative for Pathe for one year. Shurtleff hails from commercial fields. Just before entering the picture industry he was engaged in the real estate business.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Betzwood Film Corporation of Philadelphia, which has just been organized, announces that it has purchased outright the plant of Siegmund Lubin, which comprises 400 acres with nearly a mile fronting on the Schuylkill river.

Clarence Wolf is president of the new corporation. Others identified with it are Leonard A. Blumberg, Norman Jeffries and Ira M. Lowry.

✣ ✣ ✣

A. I. Shapiro, Goldwyn Pictures' branch manager at Detroit, has resigned to enter the army. J. F. Flynn, who has just returned from a four months' trip to Australia, will succeed Mr. Shapiro. He formerly was Cleveland manager for the General Film Company.

* * *

Sunday shows in Michigan are illegal. An official opinion to this effect has been handed down by Attorney General Groesbeck.

Mr. Groesbeck says Sunday shows are in violation of the state constitution and no city has the authority to enact ordinances to the contrary, even though the city may have home rule. The ruling was given as a result of agitation for Sunday shows in the town of Holland.

* * *

It is announced at Washington that distributors shipping films out of New York by boat must submit all pictures to custom house officials at least seventy-two hours before their scheduled departure. The new order also applies to mechanical devices, including cameras.

* * *

Harry Chandlee, editor of the Paralta eastern scenario department, was married recently to Miss Edith Creel Spoffard at Washington, D. C. The couple are at home now in New York.

* * *

Edward J. Bauman, special representative of McMahan & Jackson, Cincinnati, has returned from a successful trip through Kentucky booking William S. Hart productions.

* * *

The Titan Film Corporation of Spokane, according to announcement by J. Don Alexander, the president, has acquired a studio site covering 70 acres near Spokane.

Charles C. Burr, who has just been appointed assistant general manager of the distributing department of the Famous Players—Lasky Corporation.

Realism with a Vengeance

Montgomery and Rock, comedians in Vitagraph Big V. comedies, have been in bad for months with everybody in authority within a radius of twenty miles of Los Angeles, and now they are on the blacklist of the Southern Pacific.

They decided to add a few frills to a scene in "Tramps and Traitors," where the action calls for a couple of hoboes to roll down an embankment in front of an on-rushing passenger train just to show how near they could come to getting run over.

An ordinary train wasn't good enough, so they chose to work with an Overland Limited at a curve where it slows down to something like forty miles an hour. Down the embankment they bumped and square on the rails. The engineer didn't wait to see them keep on rolling, nor did he see the camera, Director J. A. Howe, or anybody else. He jammed on the emergency brakes and brought his twelve-coach train to a stop with a jerk that upset all the passengers and brought the conductor to the scene on the run.

Explanations helped, but the conductor and the engineer thought it would have been only fair to have tipped them off to save wear and tear of nerves and brake shoes. Mr. Howe said, however, that had the engineer known such a stunt was to have been pulled off, he would have slowed down a bit and thus much of the thrill would have been lost.

Brief Theater News

California

A motion picture theater with a seating capacity of 900 is to be started at once by N. O. Anderson on Palos Verdes avenue, near Sixth street, Los Angeles, in the outer harbor district. Plans for the building were drawn by L. A. Smith.

Samuel H. Levin has purchased land at the southeast corner of Clement street and Ninth avenue, San Francisco, where he contemplates erecting a theater. The total investment when building is completed will be $250,000.

Plans are being prepared by G. E. Green for a large theater at Modesto for William McIvoo of Fresno. This building is estimated at $60,000.

Plans for remodeling the Majestic Theater at Los Angeles, owned by the Hamburger Realty & Trust Co., are being prepared by Albert C. Martin, architect.

District of Columbia

Tom Moore, care of Garden Theater, 432 Ninth street, Washington, has let contract to M. A. Weller Co., 816 Fourteenth street, Washington, to erect four theaters.

Connecticut

The Strand Theatre building in East Main street, Torrington, has been burned out, causing a loss of about $30,000.

The Race Amusement Company of Waterbury has been incorporated by Adolph Race, William W. Gager of Waterbury and Fred Oscar Race of Newark, N. J., with a capital stock of $2,000.

Delaware

The Brandywine Moving Picture Company has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000.

Dr. David Roseman, a physician will erect a new theatre on Market street between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, Wilmington.

Florida

Lynch Enterprise, Inc., has let a contract to C. E. Hillyer, Jacksonville, to erect a theatre at Camp Johnson to cost $15,000.

Georgia

Mr. W. K. Atkinson of Thomasville has taken over the management of the Valway and Strand Theaters at Valdosta.

Harris M. King, proprietor of the Bijou Theater at Brunswick is contemplating the erection of an airdome.

Illinois

The Pantheon Theater Co. of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $12,0000. Incorporators are Geo. A. Chritton, M. Sullivan and O. Nelson.

South Side Turner Hall at 3143-47 South State street, Chicago, will be extensively remodelled by the buyer as a moving picture theatre. Fifty thousand dollars will be spent by Oliver E. Hammond.

Indiana

The Mirth Theater of South Marion has been sold to George Miller by former owner Mrs. Mary Shippey.

The Etropal Theater at La Porte has been purchased by Orrin K. Redington and George Rootes from Philo Q. Doran.

Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Barrett of Corydon have purchased the Olympic Theatre at Knoxville and have taken possession.

The Plaza Theater at Cedar Rapids has been sold by Thorpe Bros. to W. W. Matthews, W. A. Dutton and Hobart Cooley, who will conduct the place under similar policy.

J. E. Benton, who owns the Comet picture show at Albia has purchased the King Opera House from Harvey Porter.

Massachusetts

Tivoli Amusement Company, 213 Hanover street, Boston, will erect a stone theatre building.

Michigan

The Liberty Theater at Hillsdale has been swept by fire. The loss is $14,000.

J. A. Daniels has leased the Lyric Theater at Calumet and will remodel it.

Missouri

M. D. C. Ridge has let the contract to the Swenson Construction Company, Kansas City, to erect a theatre to cost $50,000.

New Mexico

The Liberty Theater Co. of Silver City has filed articles of incorporation with capital stock of $25,000. H. J. McGrath, John A. Shipley and Lee H. Ellis, incorporators.

New York

The United Picture Theaters of America has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000 by H. J. Stelljes, J. S. Edelman and S. Goldsmith, 524 West 152d street.

The Josephine Theatrical Company has been incorporated by E. A. Weil, 206 West Forty-sixth street; W. D. Marony, 42 Broadway, and C. Dunne, 30 East Forty-second street, New York City.

The Bunny Theatre Company of Manhattan has increased its capital stock from $1,000 to $50,000.

Fire which started in the basement of the four-story brick building at Walton avenue and One Hundred and Fortieth street, the Bronx, occupied by the H. P. Knight Scenic Studios, swept through the entire building and to two-story frame dwellings adjoining in Walton avenue, doing a damage estimated at $75,000.

Photo of the renowned Charlie Chaplin and some visitors from a United States man of war off the Southern California coast.

Ohio

The Cincinnati-Columbus Amusement Company has been incorporated in Columbus by I. Libson and Attorney Ben L. Heidensfeld with a capital stock of $10,000.

The Victoria Theater at Dayton has been destroyed by fire. The loss is $50,000.

The Colonial Theater, 443 Summit street, Toledo, has been damaged by a $25,000 fire.

Chillicothe Picture Theater Co. of Chillicothe has been incorporated with a capital stock of $70,000.

The Southern Theater at Bucyrus, owned by Marion capital, has been damaged by fire causing a loss of $800.

H. Erben has leased for a period of ten years the motion picture theater at Wade Park avenue, Cleveland, from Mary E. Cowan.

The Rockford Theater Co. of Rockford has been incorporated by J. O. Wickersham, Chas. F. Dull, Ray William and others.

Oklahoma

The Pickford Theater at Marietta has been damaged by fire. The loss will total about $2,000.

O. W. Edwards has let the contract to Stone & Co., Inc., at 222 Iowa building, Tulsa, to erect an office and theatre building on Fourth street between Main street and Boston avenue; cost, $400,000. Thompson & Blocker are the architects, 220 Iowa building, Tulsa.

Pennsylvania

The American Moving Picture Theatre, at 1510 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, owned by Samuel Harris, suffered a loss of $50 when films in the operating booth took fire from the projecting machine. The spectators kept their presence of mind and no one was hurt. The fire was confined to the operating booth.

Community Theater Corp. of Illinois has been incorporated to conduct places of amusement with a capital $150,000. The incorporators are F. M. Ely, M. G. Zopf and M. A. Zopf, Chicago.

E. Morgolies of New York has been awarded the contract for the construction of the new theater on the site of the old Horticultural Hall on Broad street, Philadelphia, for Publicker & Berg.

Architect Charles Bickel has completed plans for the remodeling of the Olympic Theater on the Reed Sawyer property at Pittsburgh which will cost $30,000.

Alexander Chamblay has contract for the erection of a theater at Broad and Lombard streets, Philadelphia, for the Dunbar Amusement Company .

Frank A. Keeney, multi-millionaire theatrical man, has purchased the site of the Lycoming opera house, Williamsport, destroyed by fire, and will erect thereon a $200,000 theater.

The moving picture theater at 1205 to 1209 N. Fifty-second street, Philadelphia, was sold by Francis J. Loughran to Jay Eamuel.

South Dakota

The McCarthy Theatre Company has been incorporated at Aberdeen with a capital stock of $100,000 by J. J. McCarthy, W. T. McCarthy and others.

The Orpheum Theater at Sioux Falls is going to be enlarged, according to Manager Solari.

A. L. Hess of Watertown and J. H. Hess of Fargo, N. D., are the new owners of the Yankton and Lyric Theaters at Yankton. The Yankton Theater will probably be remodeled.

Tennessee

The Olympic Theatre of Knoxville has been sold to Mr. Barrett of Corning, Ia.

Dowler Enterprise, Inc., has plans by R. H. Hunt for vaudeville theater on Broad street, Chattanooga, to cost $40,000.

Texas

Harry Kitterman of the firm of Kitterman Bros., who operate the Princess Theatre, at Orange, will establish another motion picture house in the New Holland building, Main and Fifth streets, to seat 800 people, and will be equipped with a $10,000 piano and modern contrivances.

Chester and Earl C. Erhard, W. A. McCord and W. E. Goodman will expend $3,000 in remodeling the Arion Opera House at Bastrop.

D. W. Powell of Marshall has purchased the Grand Theater there from M. H. Moore.

Edward Gray will rebuild his theater at 1505 Elm street, Dallas, recently destroyed by fire.

Utah

D. Leo Madsen, Ogden architect, is preparing plans for new theater to be erected on Main street, Logan.

Alexander Pantages will erect a new theater and office building at Salt Lake City, to be completed within a year.

Washington

Joe Lucas, manager of the Grand Theatre at Centralia, has leased the new $50,000 theatre being erected at the corner of Tower avenue and Center streets by the F. & S. Improvement Company. He has also purchased the Ideal Theatre from Ray and J. F. Griner, and will operate all three houses.

The Casady & McKee Amusement Company has been incorporated at Tacoma with $50,000 capital. Address H. W. Casady, manager.

The Camp Lewis Amusement Company has been incorporated at Tacoma with $100,000 capital. Address H. F. Proctor or P. W. Smioy, who are interested.

West Virginia

Architects C. C. and E. A. Weber, Citizens' Building, Cincinnati, O., have prepared plans for the construction of a $35,000 theater three stories in height for Frank Middleburg of Logan.

Wisconsin

P. Bronstad has sold the theater at Badger to W. D. Martin of Fredderick, Okla.

The Bijou Theater at Oconto has been destroyed by fire. It will be rebuilt.

Manager Mike Gates' opera house at Ontario was destroyed by fire.

A. H. Steindorn has purchased the Rex theater at Clear Lake from L. E. Joppa.

Work has already started on the picture theater to be built at Madison by Dr. William G. Beecroft.

The Bijou Theater at Kaukauna was completely destroyed by fire to the extent of $3,000, about half of which is covered by insurance.

C. S. Rice of Marshfield has leased the Idle Hour Theater at Prentice and will make extensive improvements before opening.

Charles Cohen purchased the Lyric Theater at Waupaca and will improve same extensively.

Ernest Klinkert, 826 Washington avenue, Racine, will erect a picture theater addition 65x148 feet.

Messrs. Rudloff and Altschwager have leased the Columbus Opera house at Columbus and will remodel and open.

Mary Miles Minter, American-Mutual star, shown as she was about to lead a patriotic parade in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Synopses of the Latest Film Releases

FOR EXHIBITORS WHO WOULD KNOW THE STORY OF THE PICTURE

Feature Programs

Artcraft

Blue Blazes Rawden—(Five Reels)—February 18.—Starring W. S. Hart in the title role, the river boss of a logging camp. The timberjacks come in from the wilderness and visit the dance hall of "Ladyfingers" Hilgard, the black sheep of a fine English family. His favorite girl, "Babette," flirts with "Blue Blazes" and he kisses her, precipitating a terrific fight between the audacious timberman and the giant bartender, who receives a sound thrashing when he resents the "insult" to his boss. "Ladyfingers" bides his time and when "Blue Blazes" has bcome unsteady from drink he taunts him at the gaming table and challenges him to a duel in dark for the money on the table, the entire resort—and the girl. "Ladyfingers" is mortally wounded by a shot fired in the darkened room, though Babette discovers that "Blue Blazes" has been too befuddled to pull the trigger, and the cartridges in his gun are unexploded. She surreptitiously picks up the pistol and fires a shot and "Blue Blazes" is convinced that he is responsible for the death of "Ladyfingers." The dead man's mother and younger brother arrive from England and the manner of her son's death is withheld from the old lady, who evinces a great affection for "Blue Blazes," believing that he was the friend of "Ladyfingers." She works a powerful influence on the timberjack and he ignores Babette, who revengefully tells Eric, the boy, the forbidden story. Eric shoots "Blue Blazes," who offers no defense, and the wounded man orders his pack and departs for the wilderness. As he staggers away Mrs. Hilgard starts to run after him, but she is gently restrained and by a silent understanding in the camp is kept in ignorance of what occurred.

Christie Comedies

In the Dark—(One Reel)—February 11.—Comedy featuring Ethel Lynne and Bobby Vernon. Ethel and Bobby were engaged, but a new quarrel that same day caused by Ethel's jealousy was the cause of a new delay. Harry, a friend of Bobby's, felt sorry for the poor lovers, who couldn't control their temper. Aided by the boys at the club, he kidnaps Bobby and Ethel, takes them to a country house and there in the dark a fake marriage ceremony is performed. Harry had read somewhere that this was a great remedy in such desperate cases. In this case the remedy worked wonders. Bobby and Ethel when thrown out of "The Dark," recognized each other, made up and went speeding on their honeymoon, stealing Harry's car. It was more than Harry anticipated. They were not legally married and they didn't know it. Harry and his friends piled in a "Lizzy" and started in pursuit. They learned that the "Newlyweds" had left for Seal Beach and they finally located the hotel where Bobby and Ethel were stopping. With the help of the house detective they broke into Bobby's room and told them the truth. A real marriage certificate was put under the detective's eyes by Ethel. Bobby got into action and cleared the place of the intruders. Harry, the real cause of their happiness, had been outwitted by clever Bobby.

Metro

Weavers of Dreams—(Five Reels)—Rolfe—February 18.—Features Viola Dana as Judith Sylvester, who lives with her Aunt Cynthia Bancroft, a cripple. Judith is engaged to Dr. Carter Keith; their marriage to take place as soon as their "House of Hearts" is ready. Near by is the home of Martin Chandler, also the victim of a tragic accident. He and Cynthia exchange books and flowers but they have never met. Margery Gordon, Chandler's niece, arrives to live with him. Her vivacious personality, quite a contrast to Judith's more demure manner, captivates Keith. In several heartrending scenes Judith learns of his change of heart and releases him to Margery. Aunt Cynthia, in consoling her, declares no man has ever been absolutely true to one woman. Judith defends the statement by relating the tragedy of her friend Chandler's life. Her story of the railroad wreck, interestingly pictured, in which he and the "one woman" were injured and then set on different paths, takes Miss Cynthia to Chandler's house, where the recognition is mutual.

Mutual Star Production

The Midnight Trail—(Five Reels)—American—February 24.—Features William Russell as a young millionaire who believes he could be a great detective. When an attractive girl, a minister's daughter, comes to headquarters requesting that a detective be sent to find out who stole her father's valuables, the would-be detective sets out to aid her. He goes to her father's home, accompanied by his valet, both disguised as theological students. Many things happen, and the detective himself is accused of the crime. He accepts the accusation because he thinks the girl herself is guilty. But in the end the truth is revealed. Reviewed in this issue.

Paramount

Hidden Pearls—(Five Reels)—February 18.—Starring Sessue Hayakawa, who plays the part of the son of a South Sea Island princess and an American trader. He feels himself an American, for he has been raised in the United States. Here he meets and falls in love with an American society girl. To win her he feels he must have a fortune and quickly. From his father's brother he learns that he is hereditary king, through his mother, of one of the South Sea Islands which contains a treasure in pearls kept hidden by the natives. His uncle urges him to go there and claim his rights and so win the pearls. This he does, being aided in his search by a native girl who falls in love with him. But his plan to escape with the pearls is discovered and the infuriated natives take him captive. He is helped to escape, however, by the native girl who is sentenced to death for her share in the undertaking unless the prince returns in ninety days. This the prince does not know, but he does know that he knows no peace for his part in the theft. He at last decides he must restore the pearls, a decision which reveals to him the mercenary character of the American girl and the cupidity of his uncle. He conceals the pearls, with the aid of a native, in the flesh of his arm and makes his way as a stoker, suffering innumerable hardships, back to the island. There he restores the pearls, saves the life of the native girl, who has been set adrift in a leaking canoe, and at last finds happiness with her as the hereditary king of the island.

The Thing We Love—(Five Reels)—February 11.—Starring Walace Reid and Kathlyn Williams. Reid has the role of a young American, who, though innocent, serves a prison sentence of seven years, coming out embittered at the country of his brith. He looks upon society as an enemy and this nation, about to enter the world-war, as something to be despised. But memories of the part his ancestors have played in the country's history and the stirring of his manhood save him at last and call him to the country's service. His struggles to do the right thing are intensified by a love affair with the daughter of a munitions magnate who is attempting to further his own ends and increase his profits at the expense of the government. When the hero is forced to choose between hatred of the nation which has falsely punished him and betrayal of that nation's interests in time of crisis, he stands by the call of patriotism, even though it means losing the girl he loves. His choice of the bigger love wins him the affection of the girl, however, and when he marches away as an enlisted man he wears in his buttonhole the American flag given him by the girl.

A new portrait of the stately Madame Petrova.

Pathe

Loaded Dice—(Five Reels)—February 10.—Starring Frank Keenan. Picture reviewed in this issue.

Mutual Pictures

Up in the Air—(One Reel)—Strand—February 26.—Comedy starring Billie Rhodes. Mary is in love with Jack, a daring young aviator, but father favors an elderly suitor possessed of wealth. Persuading her girl chum to act as a vamp, the aged suitor is captivated and transfers his affections to Mary's friend, who promises to marry him. When father learns the situation, he reluctantly consents to Jack as a son-in-law, and a double wedding is arranged. Mary is married first, but the second ceremony is interrupted by the arrival of a man accompanied by two children, who wants to know why his wife (Mary's chum) doesn't come home and get his supper ready. The ancient and prospective bridegroom gives up in disgust. Mary's chum goes out to lunch with the alleged husband, who is an accomplice in the plot, while Mary and Jack start on their honeymoon.

General Program

Check Your Hat, Sir?—(One Reel)—Essanay—February 16.—Comedy featuring Don Barclay. Don enters the cafe for an evening of pleasure. After outwitting the check room boy, he occupies a seat of prominence as the entertainment begins. He mimics the classic dancer to the hilarity of the other patrons and when Whystewso, the Italian tenor, attempts to sing, Don appropriates a pie, furnished by another disgusted guest and slams it in his face. Ordering his dinner, Don is forced to go through several yards of red tape to obtain sugar for his coffee, only obtaining it when the manager signs an order for the luxury. The sugar (one lump) is brought in, set in a jewel case and as the waiter times the procedure with his watch, the lump is dipped into the coffee. As the evening progresses Don becomes somewhat inebriated and staggering to his feet, clutches the air, ripping off the waist of a young woman at his side. He stumbles backward and ends his evening in a big trough of flour.

Wild Algy of Picadilly—(One Reel)—Essanay—February 23.—Comedy. Algy arrives in the west, fresh from London, and is made the brunt of numerous cowboy tricks. His tiny 22-calibre revolver, daintily draped with blue baby ribbon, arouses merriment from the dance hall crowd. Algy is stripped of his wealth at a game of cards in which he holds but five aces against his opponent's six. Algy plans revenge and shoots a bullet bearing a message, at one of the westerners, informing that he is out for revenge. He comes in later all disguised and wearing a mask. After holding up the crowd, he floors the villain who robbed him, and sees a picture protruding out of the man's pocket. He recognizes it as that of his mother and asks the fellow what he is doing with it. "She is my wife," he says. "You scoundrel," retorts Algy, pummeling him again, "I've been searching for you for twenty years for deserting my mother."

Complete Record of Current Films

ASSEMBLED FOR USE OF THEATER MANAGERS—CORRECTED EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D The Tracking of Stingaree..... 2,000
D Arrayed with the Enemy..... 2,000
D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D The Poisoned Cup..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000
D Through Fire and Water..... 2,000
D A Bushranger's Stategy..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Broadway Star Features

D School and Schools (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series) 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2.000
C A Woman 2.000
C The Tramp 2,000

Essanay Comedies

C Check Your Hat, Sir..... 1,000
C Wild Algy of Picadilly..... 1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2.000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1.000

Jaxon Comedies

C Out and In (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1.000
C Marooned 1,000
C Sherman Was Right.....

Judge Brown Stories

C-D Thief or Angel..... 2,000
C-D The Accusing Toe 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000
C A Hash House Romance..... 1,000
C The Hod Carrier's Million..... 1,000

Mutual Program

Monday

T 2-25 Mutual Weekly.....Mutual 1,000

Tuesday

C 2-26 Up in the Air (Billie Rhodes). 1,000

Universal Program

12-15 Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)... 5,000
12-24 Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey) 5,000
12-31 The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson) 5,000
1-7 The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely) 5,000
1-14 Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard).. 5,000
1-21 Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)... 5,000
1-28 The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey) 5,000
2-4 Painted Lips (Louise Lovely).. 5,000
2-11 New Love for Old (Ella Hall) 5,000
2-16 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58 1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Are Passions Inherited?.Warner Bros. 7,000
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,00
A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray)..... ..... Friedman 5,000
Balloonatics .....Century Comedies
Below Zero .....Wharton 2,000
Birth Control.Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 6,000
Bit o' Heaven..... 5,000
Beware of Strangers.....Selig Special 7,000
Birth .....Eugenics Film 6,000
Christie Comedies..... .....Christie Film Co.
Christus.....Historic Features
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,00
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Cross-Eyed Submarine..... .....Universal Film Mfg.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,00
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Eagle's Wing .....Bluebird 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Eyes of the World....Clune Film Co. 10,000
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,00
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine.Bluebird Photoplays 5.00
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,00
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,00
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co..... .....Joseph F. Lee 5,00
Span of Life.....
Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp 12,00
Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp. 5,00
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,00
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,00
Trip Through China, A..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,00
Trooper 44..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,00
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow 7,000
The Barrier.....Rex Beach 9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter 2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
The Woman and the Beast...Graphic 5,000
The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall 9,000
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000
The Crisis .....Sherman Elliot 10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
West Is West.....Ultra Films
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-11 Song of Songs (Elsie Ferguson) 5,000
2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-4 The Wife He Bought (Carmel Myers) 5,000
2-11 Morgan's Raiders (Violet Mersereau) 5,000
2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

2-3 The Heart of Romance (June Caprice) 5,000
2-3 Hungry Lions in a Hospital—(Comedy) 2,000
2-10 Les Miserables (Wm. Farnum) 8,000
2-10 Jack Spurlock — Prodigal (George Walsh) 5,000
2-17 The Moral Law (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
2-17 Are Married Policemen Safe?. .....Fox-Lehrman 2,000
2-24 American Buds (Jane and Catherine Lee) 7,000
2-24 Six-Shooter Andy (Tom Mix). 5,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

2-10 Our Little Wife (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
2-27 The Beloved Traitor (Mae Marsh) 6,000
3-10 The Room Below (Mabel Normand) 6,000
3-24 Powder Nose Annie (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
4-7 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall.....
.....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West). 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-11 Broadway Bill (Harold Lockwood) 5,000
2-11 The Bright Lights Dimmed (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-18 A Weaver of Dreams (Viola Dana) 5,000
2-18 After Henry (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

2-4 Who Loved Him Best? (Edna Goodrich) 5,000
2-11 Jilted Janet (Margaret Fischer) 5,000
2-18 My Wife (Ann Murdock)..... 5,000
2-25 The Midnight Trail (Wm. Russell) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

12-15 A Man's Man (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
1-1 Madam Who? (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
1-15 His Robe of Honor (Henry B. Walthall) 7,000
2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

2-4 "Flare-up Sal" (Dorothy Dalton) 5,000
2-4 Madam Jealousy (Pauline Frederick) 5,000
2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15 2,000
2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Beban) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

2-3 Picturesque Brittany (Colored) .....Pathe 500
2-3 Bonnets of Brittany (Educ.) .....Pathe 500
2-3 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon) 500
2-3 For Desert (Educ.)..... .....International 500
2-6 Hearst Pathe News No. 12.... 1,000
2-9 Hearst Pathe News No. 13..... 1,000
2-10 Loaded Dice (Frank Keenan) .....Pathe 5,000
2-10 The Hidden Hand, No. 12 .....Pathe 2,000
2-10 The Price of Folly, No. 4 .....Balboa 2,000
2-10 The Junk Man (Comedy) Rolin 2,000
2-10 The Argus Pictorial, No. 7 (Educ.) 1,000
2-10 Rocamadour and the Valley of Lot France (Educ.)...Pathe 500
2-10 The Horse in Action (Educ.) .....Pathe 500
2-10 Cartoon and Educational—International 1,000
2-13 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 14.... 1,000
2-16 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 15.... 1,000
2-17 The Inner Voice (I. I. Mozukin) .....Russian Art 5,000
2-17 The Hidden Hand, No. 13... .....Pathe 2,000
2-17 The Price of Folly, No. 5.Balboa 2,000
2-17 Hit Him Again (Harry Pollard) .....Rolin 1,000
2-17 Along the Reviera — Italy (Travel) 500
2-17 Watching the Flowers Bloom (Educ.) 500
2-17 Cartoon & Educational..... .....International 1,000
2-20 Hearst Pathe News, No. 16... 1,000
2-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 17... 1,000
2-24 The Saulahka (Antonio Moreno) 6,000
2-24 The Hidden Hand, No. 14... .....Pathe 2,000
2-24 The Price of Folly, No. 6..... .....Balboa 2,000
2-24 Argus Pictorial, No. 8...Argus 1,000
2-24 A One Night Stand..... .....Rolin Comedy 2,000
2-24 Beat It (Harold Lloyd)..Rolin 1,000
2-24 Around Central Auvergne (France) 500
2-24 Clermont-Ferrand (France).... 500
2-24 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon). 500
2-24 Appleblossom Land (Educ.)... 500
2-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 18... 1,000
3-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 19... 1,000

Select Pictures Corporation

OCTOBER

Magda (Clara Kimball Young)..... 5,000
The Moth (Norma Talmadge)..... 6,000
Scandal (Constance Talmadge)..... 5,000

NOVEMBER

Her Silent Sacrifice (Alice Brady).. 5,000
Secret of the Storm Country (Norma Talmadge) 6,000

DECEMBER

Shirley Kaye (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Honeymoon (Constance Talmadge) 5,000

JANUARY

The Marionettes (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Ghosts of Yesterday (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Studio Girl (Constance Talmadge) 5,000
Woman and Wife (Alice Brady)... 5,000

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady)..... 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)..... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 Keith of the Border (Roy Stewart) 5,000
2-17 Their Undercover Capers..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) 5,000
2-17 A Full Dress Fizzle..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 His Double Life..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
2-24 Little Red Decides (Triangle Players) 5,000
2-24 A Coward's Courage..... 1,000
2-24 The Answer (Alma Rubens)... 7,000
2-24 His Nimble Twist..... 1,000
2-24 A Tell Tale Shirt..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

2-11 The Woman Between Friends (Alice Joyce) 5,000
2-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 8 2,000
2-18 The Wooing of Princess Pat (Gladys Leslie) 5,000
2-18 Courts and Convicts..... .....Bog V Comedy 1,000
2-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 9 2,000
2-18 The Mischief Maker (Edith Storey) 2,000
2-18 Sonny Jim in Search of a Mother (Bobby Connelly)... 1,000
2-25 Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers (Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman) 5,000
2-25 Rooms and Rumors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
2-25 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 10 2,000
2-25 Old Reliable (Norma Talmadge) 2,000
2-25 Stenographer Troubles (Clara Kimball Young) 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-4 The Divine Sacrifice (Kitty Gordon) 5,000
2-11 Whims of Society (Ethel Clayton) 5,000
2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Bar Sinister (Hedda Nova..... 8,000
The Fringe of Society (Ruth Roland) 7,000
One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

George K. Spoor presents

TAYLOR HOLMES

with an all-star cast

in

"Ruggles of Red Gap"

by Harry Leon Wilson

This picture carries the greatest national bill board advertising ever given an individual star. Arrange your booking dates NOW.

Essanay

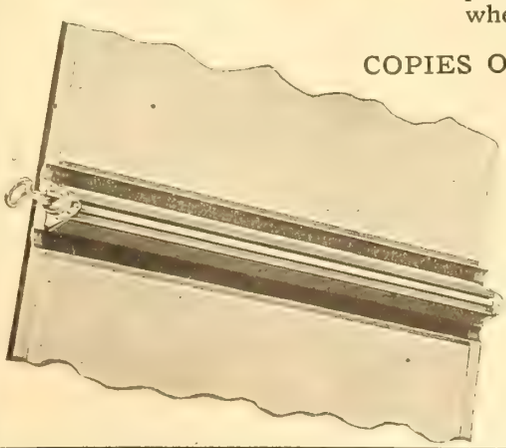
Distributed by George Kleine System throughout the United States

Perfection Pictures

EXHIBITORS

OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference

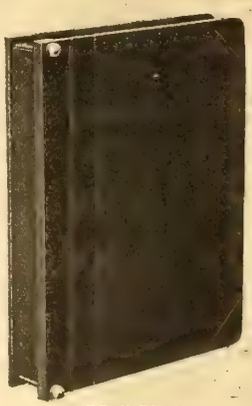


By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.

Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT · DURABLE · ATTRACTIVE · INEXPENSIVE



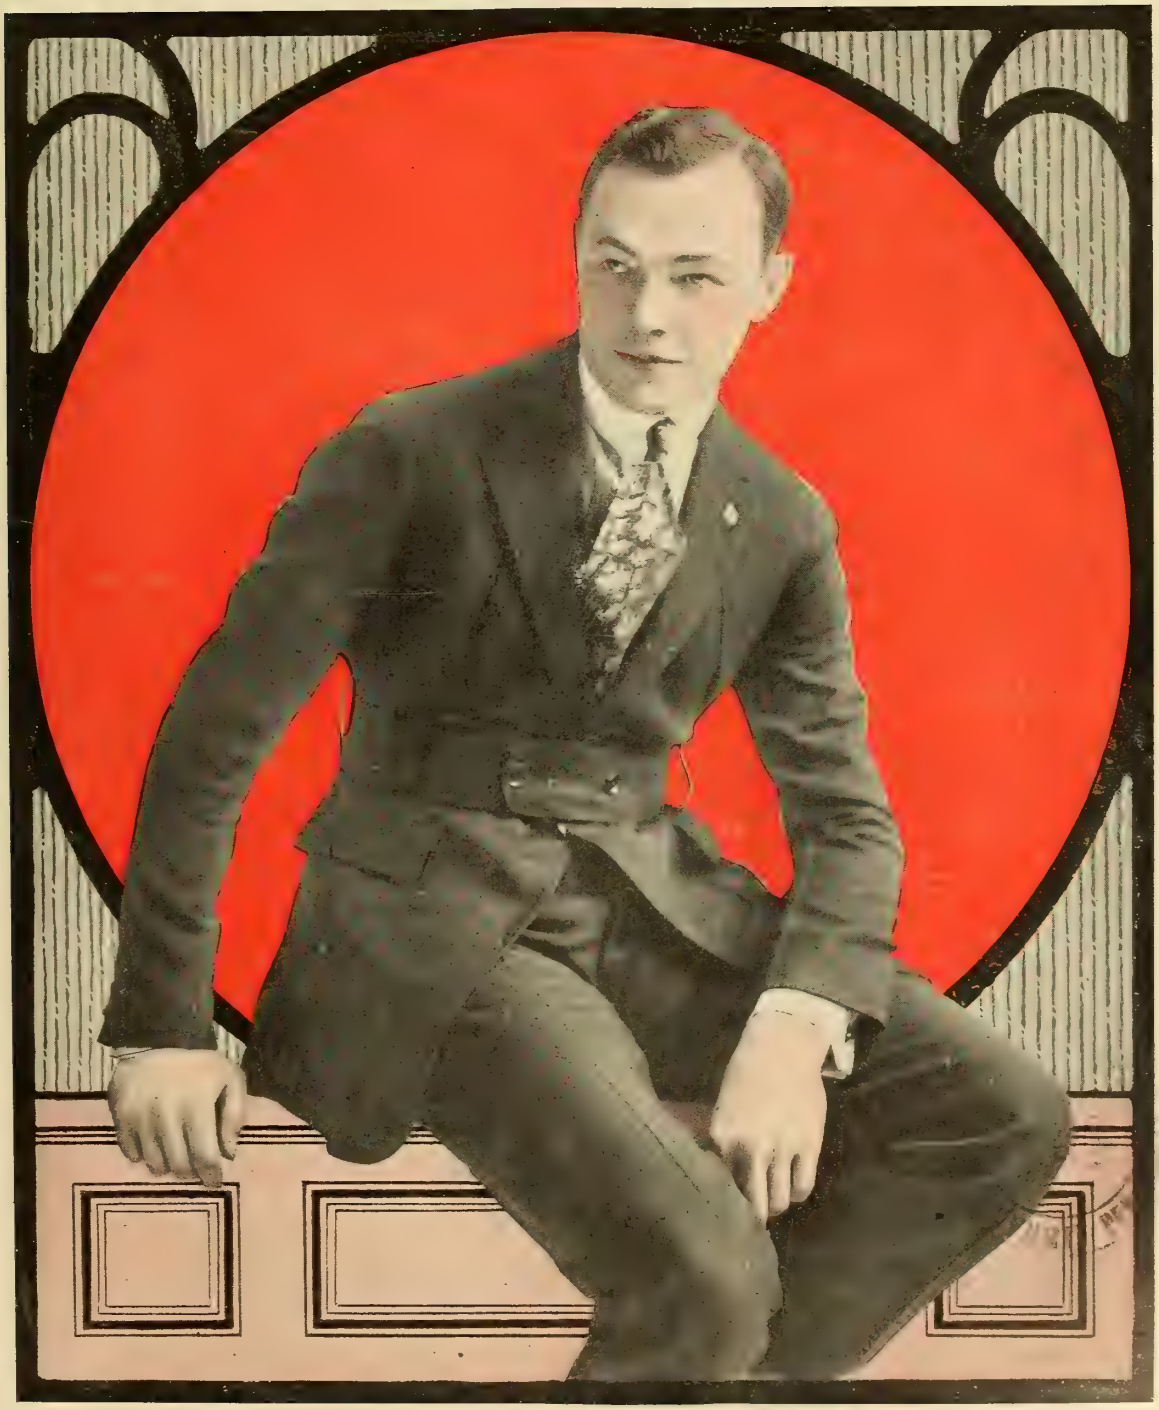
When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

CLOSED



SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

CHARLES RAY
Thomas H. Ince Star in Paramount Pictures

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 9, 1918 No. 10

Goldwyn Pictures

Goldwyn Announces The Turning Of The Tide

INCREASED business for Goldwyn Pictures from the great and unconquerable WEST—a sure sign of returning prosperity for the nation's exhibitors.

Increased businesss from the prosperous Ten Billion Dollar SOUTH; richer and wealthier than ever before in its history.

Increased business and bigger patronage from the recently-zero NORTH, just thawing out under the first sunshine after the worst winter ever recorded.

Bigger business than ever from all-powerful EAST—the financial heart of America with steadily mounting war profits coursing through its veins.

Goldwyn business is feeling and benefitting by these wonderfully changing conditions and the reason we are benefitting is that our productions throughout a desperate winter have kept thousands of our exhibitors "ahead of the game" in revenues; ahead of their competition in patronage; ahead of their rivals in quality product.

We definitely predict the most prosperous Spring and Summer exhibitors have had in several years and we can further insure this prosperity with Goldwyn productions made according to the most skilful box-office pattern.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42nd Street New York City

TRIANGLE

Here's More Proof

YOU read in a recent Triangle advertisement of what Mr. H. R. Mason at Goldsboro, N. C., had to say about Triangle service.

Here's another letter which is also well worth reading. It was written by Mr. Herman J. Brown, President of the Brown's Amusement Enterprises at Boise, Idaho:

"When your service lost certain of its stars we were of the opinion that its value had been hurt, and cancelled. We then opened our Majestic Theatre to a straight open-market booking policy and secured a succession of high priced stars. With the inauguration of the 15-cent per reel "graft," we placed your service in our Isis Theatre, throwing out the product of one of the predatory grafting producers. We immediately realized after seeing your new film what a foolish mistake we had made in cancelling your service and hastened to book a second change, thus eliminating the product of another one of the skin-'em-alive boys. As an experiment we then lifted your "One Shot Ross" into our Majestic Theatre and were astonished to find that it out-drew the high-priced should-be, but is-not lady star, in one of our super-de-luxe feature company's pictures. We pleased our public and made good money on "One Shot Ross"—we lost heavily on the lady star that had succeeded in sticking one of the producing companies with an enormous salary, but is unable to get the public into the theatre. Exhibitors near here tell us that some of the new Triangles have broken their house record for business.

With best wishes for your continued success in delivering the exhibitor fine pictures at fair prices with clean methods and an absence of bludgeoning tactics of other exchanges, we are, Yours very truly,

BROWN'S AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES, Ltd.
(Signed) Herman J. Brown."

We want to repeat our recent statement. If the pictures you are running are not making money for you, if the service you are receiving is not prompt and satisfactory, if the business methods of the companies furnishing you pictures are not perfectly fair and square, let us suggest that you communicate with the nearest Triangle exchange and find out what Triangle has to offer you.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH
President

R. W. LYNCH
Vice-President

FRED KENT
Treasurer

Y. F. FREEMAN
General Manager

A dramatic moment in Clara Kimball Young's new Select picture, "The House of Glass."

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 9, 1918 No. 10

Three States Fight Censorship

VICTORY ALREADY ASSURED TO EXHIBITORS OF NEW JERSEY

EXHIBITORS in three states—New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland—struck hard blows last week against censorship. The result is that New Jersey and Virginia may escape arbitrary regulation, while Maryland may throw off the yoke of a board that has seriously interfered with the successful showing of pictures.

Exhibitors the nation over are watching the three-cornered fight, hoping that the outcome will spell victory, for the success of the exhibitors in the east is bound to have an effect in frustrating similar legislation should it be attempted elsewhere.

Interest Centers in New Jersey

The fight in New Jersey is attracting the most interest. There are two reasons for this; first, it is practically certain that censorship has been defeated; second, the proximity of the state to New York.

Assemblyman Alexander Simpson, declaring the censorship bill if enacted would take the life out of the industry, predicted that it would never gain sufficient strength now to get away from the desk of the speaker of the house. Should the author, Assemblyman Emmor Roberts, succeed in getting it put to a vote, he said, it would be killed by the combination of North New Jersey members, who are liberal in their attitude. The opposition must hurry, however, for the session is nearly at an end.

Measure Already Tabled

The vital question is whether Roberts can assemble thirty-one men who will vote for the bill, as it was plainly demonstrated a few days ago when the measure was tabled for reconsideration after 27 members had voted for it and 26 against, that quite a number of the assemblymen desired to be among the missing when the bill was finally acted upon. Then, again, the revivifying of an almost "dead bill" is hardly possible, owing to the large number of administration and other important measures being on the house calendar for imperative action before the termination of the session.

It has been indicated that the entire Hudson county delegation, in combination with a majority of the members from Essex and Passaic, and not including assemblymen from here and there in the state who are fond of film plays with a tinge of life to them, would vote vigorously against the bill if it came out once more. Assemblyman William J. McGovern from the bailiwick of Hudson is one of the opponents of the bill, and he does not think that it will ever be moved from where it now rests.

The senate would most likely pass the bill if it ever reached that body, but there is small prospect the senate will vote upon it.

Hard Fight in Virginia

In Virginia the exhibitors are not in such an enviable position as the theatre men of New Jersey. With the sudden and unexpected departure for Europe of Rev. James Cannon, Jr., author of the censorship bill, chances for defeating the measure were materially improved, but the exhibitors are not at all assured of victory. Dr. Cannon had worked out his plan of campaign against the screen carefully and thoroughly, and he left instructions to his political and religious supporters to bring every possible influence to bear upon the lawmakers in the effort to obtain the passage of the bill at this term of the legislature.

This week will decide the fate of the bill. It is scheduled to be advanced to its third reading and engrossment in both Senate and House. A determined effort to have it dismissed from the calendar will be made in the Senate. The best that can be expected in the House is to have it "passed by" for future consideration, when it comes up in the regular order of business.

Cannon Has Strong Support

Pursuant to instructions sent out by Cannon, Methodist and Baptist ministers in every city, town and county of Virginia have besieged their representatives in both branches of the legislature with exhortations by mail and wire to support and work for the passage of the censorship measure.

This system is Cannon's favorite method of bringing influence to bear. He is the editor and publisher of the Christian Advocate, official journal of the Methodist denomination in the state, and has employed that publication to excellent advantage in his political achievements.

It is believed that the bill will pass the House by an overwhelming vote. The broader caliber of the Senate gives the exhibitors some hope, however.

Maryland Exhibitors Active

In Maryland the exhibitors are working tooth and toenail to get a bill passed that will repeal the present censorship law and relieve them of regulation which they declare is expensive and entirely unnecessary as well as irksome.

Theatre owners from all parts of the state went to Annapolis the other day and presented their case to the legislature with vigor.

The exhibitors, led by Frank A. Hornig, E. C. Sandel and Walter Pacy of their legislative committee, declared before a joint committee of the house and senate that they are backed by public sentiment in their claim that the censor law is an unpopular measure from many standpoints.

Board Owes Life to Politics

After repeating that there are existing laws that, through the powers of the police, will protect the public against the showing of improper pictures, they asserted that the board of censors is being conducted almost solely for political reasons, with the motion picture men paying the piper.

As an evidence of this they cited the fact that until last Thursday there had been a vacancy on the board since last September. C. I. T. Gould was named to fill the place, the governor having taken advantage of the small import of the vacancy, which carries a nice salary, to leave it open and use the patronage as a political lever.

They also pointed out that one member of the board holds another position and spends only a few hours each day in the office of the board.

Cite Bad Censorship

One case was cited by the exhibitors to the effect that a picture was presented to the censor by an exhibitor and reviewed. The picture passed without any eliminations. Three weeks later the same film was presented to the censors under another title. It was an exact duplicate in every scene. But the same censor went over the film and ordered a great deal of pruning.

Another case brought up was that of a big production brought to Baltimore last week. It was shown in private to many members of the clergy, as well as to some prominent literary men in the community. They declared it was an excellent production and should not be cut. It was shown to a school of boys by the head master, who declared that in his opinion it was a fit subject to be shown. The censors thought differently and cut it.

Few States So Burdened

To strengthen their claim that state motion picture boards overlap police powers and are generally considered a useless burden, the exhibitors called attention to the fact that Maryland is one of only four states in the Union which has such institutions.

Maryland is one of the few states in the country, they added, in which educational pictures are not shown to children. The exhibitors assert that this is due to the censorship board. The cost of censoring three reels is $14. This means 280 children's admissions will be necessary to pay the censor fee alone, consequently educationals for children are quite out of the question.

Others to Protest Soon

These and other reasons for the repeal of the censor law were advanced by the spokesmen and still more are expected to be given at later hearings, for there are still other motion picture men throughout Maryland who demand to be heard on the subject.

The success or failure of the latest and strongest campaign against the law depends largely upon the power of the economy plea, since it is certain that the legislators are not going to give up three juicy patronage plums unless driven to it by public opinion.

A bill which would hurt the afternoon patronage of the motion picture houses was introduced at Annapolis last week by Walter League of Baltimore. By its provisions, children less than 12 years old would be prevented from attending picture shows unless accompanied by a guardian. The picture men are expected to oppose it on the ground that special arrangements are provided for the care of the children by the management of the theatres.

Manitoba Tax Law Passed

The amusement tax act has become law in the province of Manitoba, Canada. The tax on admission tickets, therefore, is now as follows: Five cents, one cent tax; six to fifteen cents, two cent tax; sixteen to twenty-five cents, three cent tax; twenty-six to forty cents, four cent tax; forty-one to seventy-five cents, five cents; seventy-five cents to $1, ten cent tax; $1.01 to $1.50, fifteen cent tax; $1.51 to $2, twenty cent tax; $2.01 to $2.50, twenty-five cent tax.

The burden falls upon the poor person who buys low-priced tickets, the average percentage of taxation on all tickets up to fifteen cents being twenty per cent. On tickets costing from 6c to 25c, the tax averages fifteen per cent. For all admissions above this mark, the percentage of taxation varies from 12.3 to 9 per cent.

The act will be enforced beginning April 1. In the meantime the organization necessary for the enforcement of the law will be perfected. J. H. Willoughby, for a number of years a member of the Manitoba Provincial Board of Censors, and recently chairman of the board, has been appointed administrator under the supervision of J. Headley Garland, head of the treasurer's department. Mr. Willoughby will have charge of the enforcement outside of Winnipeg, while Walter Deering, formerly of the Walker Theatre staff, Winnipeg, will look after the details in Winnipeg.

Incidentally, announcement was made that T. A. D. Bevington had been appointed the new chairman of the Manitoba Provincial Board of Censors in successsion to Mr. Willoughby.

Special regulations to govern the collection of the new tax are being printed and will be distributed to all theatres and other places of amusement. In the meantime the following details have been made known:

The tax will be collected by means of special war revenue stamps which theatre patrons themselves will buy at the box office. The theatres will be supplied with the stamps by the provincial treasurer. Theatre goers will be allowed the privilege of buying the stamps in large quantities and to use them as needed.

The Government will also provide special receptacles for the collection of the stamps at the entrance to all theatres. The stamps will be destroyed as they are taken into these boxes. It is presumed that these boxes will resemble the choppers already in use.

It is also definitely settled that the theatre owner or manager is prohibited from paying the war tax himself for any or all patrons. Pass holders, including newspapermen, are required to pay the tax, the amount of the tax in this instance being that for the highest priced seat in the house.

Hearst Puts Money in Graphic

To those who are versed in reading the "writing on the wall," a deal recently consummated whereby the International Film Service Co., Inc., a Hearst organization, becomes half owner of the Graphic Film Corporation, may mean even more than the combination of two well-established motion picture companies.

The first picture, to be released about March 15, under this new arrangement is entitled "Moral Suicide," and is from the pen of Ivan Abramson, director general of the corporation.

More Exhibitors Tell What They Want

BETTER AND CLEANER STORIES AND FEWER WAR PICTURES ARE URGED

MOTOGRAPHY herewith presents several more answers to its request of a limited number of exhibitors for opinions as to what they think producers should give them now:

E. L. Hyman, manager of the Victoria theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

"A picture that isn't capable of making the ordinary run of persons forget themselves does not serve its purpose!

"There are few of us who are not wrapped up in ourselves, and if a photoplay, whether it be drama, comedy or topical, does not force us to lose sight of our thoughts then the producer has fallen down and so has the showman. The latter has no right to book a film that does not have an appeal stronger than that appeal which the viewer's thoughts have.

Films Must Rout Dull Care

"If the things you have done during the day interest you more than does the picture upon the screen—then the makers of that film haven't done their duty. The picture isn't big enough to absorb him or her who is watching it.

"In other words—there must be more big pictures and more big pictures must necessarily mean a decrease in the production. There are too many films upon the market and too many of them are not worthy of the stars nor of the houses in which they are shown.

"Mine is a community theatre, a big one—and my patrons are of the sometimes warm and more often critical class. I have studied them closely and have found them excellent barometers. Chiefs of productions for the big companies would find them excellent subjects for study I believe.

"There should be a reorganization in the producing field to meet the changing ideas of a changing people and from observation I would cite these as revolutionary measures that will have to be invoked.

Decreased Production Necessary

"Decreased productions, with its consequent creation of fewer features and better ones.

"A revolutionary change in the character of film stories, the film world now being made a victim of too much similiarity in plays.

"Better film stories; more attention to the vehicle for the star.

"Less padding in the average two-reel comedy.

"Elimination of the salacious and unclean pictures.

"The community theatre should be furnished features of the sort that it would not be necessary to screen them and make elimination of scenes before making them presentable to the public.

Society Plays Best

"Society plays with pretty gowns, beautiful women and a clean theme with plenty of love moments are the most popular films, I sincerely believe."

J. D. Palmer of the Palmer Theatre, Black Lick, Pa., says:

"Producers would do well by making pictures with a humorous vein. Human stories with 'human' characters of the present generation are most desired at present. The sets and out-door scenes must be correct and beautiful; the director should see to that. The titles have much to do with the success of a picture—give it the right name and be sure it's catchy. The sub-titles must be constructed properly.

"The story must be considered the prime factor, then the star and supporting cast. The locations, scenes, etc., must 'fit,' and then the directors must be right. Last but very important, the photography must be perfect. Trick photography can and is used to great advantage.

Period Plays Not Desired

"Costumes of forgotten periods and peoples are not desired. One can hardly recognize the players, the stories are of the fairy-tale variety and do not seem natural or real. People like to imagine that the actions on the screen are genuine occurences in the land of romance and adventure. They want the star to be sort of an acquaintance, struggling in a natural state of mind and affairs and at the present time. The struggle must be won against odds, but they despise the impossible. They enjoy mystery, but not the crystal gazing or magical sort.

"A girl must often sacrifice her honor to drive home the point, but the heroine should seldom be the one, and so with the hero, because a great many mortals swear by the film stories and believe they, too, could do the same and get away with it. Quaint and lovable characterizations—Mary Pickford's success, George Beban's specialty, Charles Ray's ways, etc., make good pictures and that 'human interest' stuff is in vogue. Ever notice when a small, homely child cries because a puppy has been lost?

"The western type of picture forms a very good entertainment for the majority. My idea of a good western is: Beautiful natural scenery, fancy and hard fast riding, cattle scenes or mining scenes, the heroines' dangers caused by a natural coincident, say a storm, flood, fire, wreck, sneak thief or a degenerate character, but the Indian fights and bold bad road man is counted out in my estimation. People like to believe that the west is the same as ever—cow punchers with chaps and lariat, gun, etc.—but they know that trains are not 'stuck up;' neither are stage coaches in use. But so long as there are no hold-ups they are pleased with the action. A good two-man fist fight goes fine.

Realistic Comedies Good

"Then the comedies form a 'big' part of the entertainment value of a program. Vulgar slapstick is appreciated by a few, but the majority prefer the comedian to be a young person that gets in wrong or has domestic problems and troubles. Those comedians with hideous make-ups still get the laughs too, but I am of the opinion that everyday occurrences humorously presented are the ones that please patrons and bring them back. In everyone's life there are many things occuring which are funny and these sort of comedies can be compared by the patron to something, someone or their own experiences and consequently they laugh and remember them—they are funny.

C. Everett Wagner, manager of the Dreamland theatre, Chester, S. C., and the Grotto, Burlington, N. C., writes:

"As to my particular locality, pictures of the Fairbanks and Walsh type are really appreciated more than any other kind, while a good story or book picturized is also received with appreciation. Good society dramas go well also. Of course we all know that the pie-throwing, slapstick comedy is no more appreciated now than the western stage coach stuff.

Clean Comedies Wanted

"I believe that what the entire public wants now is good, clean comedies, society dramas and good books done in picture form. I don't think the public wants war stuff. I have booked my last one. The last one I played I heard one old lady come out saying, 'I wish I had not seen that, what if my boy was to happen to such fate,' you see, it makes them think. It leaves the wrong impression on their minds, I think, they know now the war is on and why bring it to their doors, their minds. Why not, instead, give them something that will make them forget about it?"

"What The Picture Did For Me"

ACTUAL VERDICTS ON FILMS IN THE LANGUAGE OF THE EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. Every criticism received is published and the words are the exhibitor's own. If the picture you wish to know about is not included in the following list, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form herewith, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D., Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

WOLVES OF THE RAIL, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Somewhat different from his usual line of plays. If you don't like the title, call it 'Dead or Alive.' Drew fairly well for us. All our patrons seemed pleased with it. Contains plenty of action and does not drag."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

The Little American, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Great picture. Drew a full house. All satisfied."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

Wild and Woolly, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"One of Fairbanks' best. Audience pronounced it the best they have seen."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A great production which went over big and did the business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"I always have a good house for Hart or Fairbanks and everybody is satisfied."—Mrs. Lou Bacon, Pastime Theatre, Itasca, Texas.

The Woman God Forgot, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"A wonderful picture with an equally wonderful star. Brought big business"—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theater, Middletown, Pa.

The Woman God Forgot, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"This is an excellent box-office attraction. We played to good business but patrons were not en-

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg. Chicago.

thused."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Stella Maris, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A fair picture to very poor business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Stella Maris, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A good story but 'Our Mary' should have simpler roles, as she is a favorite of the younger folk especially. Business good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theater, Duluth, Minn.

The Rise of Jennie Cushing, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Very good. Miss Ferguson is surely getting to be a regular movie star. Not much drawing power, but all right."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Silent Man, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A very good picture, with a good star. Brought good business."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Rose of the World, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Rather slow. Drew well but didn't please. Battle effects were wonderful."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Devil Stone, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft.—"A splendid picture, well directed, also good locations."—E. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Down to Earth, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"While this was very good and got me some money, I think it about the slowest work the star ever did."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Little Princess, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A clean little picture, but not the best this star has made, by any means. Pleases women and children."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Bluebird

My Unmarried Wife, with Carmel Myers (Bluebird)—"An excellent feature."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Triumph, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)—"A unique picture which drew fairly well and satisfied our patrons."—Mrs. J. R. Vaughn, Star Theatre, Villa Grove, Ill.

The Fighting Grin, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"A good picture for anybody who likes to laugh occasionally."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Anything Once, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"This one went over fine but the last three fell far below par. Farnum is always good and gets me good business."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Princess Virtue, with Mae Murray (Bluebird)—"A lot of money wasted on a lavish production that failed to hold them."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Butterfly

Bucking Broadway, with Harry Carey (Butterfly)—"Some picture for the kids. Thrilling and exciting from start to finish. Carey is a second Hart in this neighborhood."—Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

Society's Driftwood, with Grace Cunard (Butterfly)—"Good story. Star passable. Title brought them in."—Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

The Man From Montana, with Neal Hart (Butterfly)—"A good western comedy drama that pleased my entire audience. If your patrons like western pictures, book this one. They will certainly like it. Business good."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Fox

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"George is good and got this over but he had no story to work on."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"Entertaining from start to finish. This star is very popular and is gaining high favor."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theater, Middletown, Pa.

Daughter of the Gods, with Annette Kellermann (Fox)—"Broke all house records. A very beautiful picture and it was liked by all who saw it."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theater, Middletown, Pa.

Camille, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"An interesting picture, although not the star's best. Drew good business in spite of bad weather."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

When a Man Sees Red, with William Farnum (Fox)—"Drew good crowds. Star is great. Picture one of his best."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theater, Middletown, Pa.

Conscience, with Gladys Brockwell (Fox)—"Not a pleasing picture, although a costly production. Business fair."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

A Rich Man's Plaything, with Valeska Suratt (Triangle)—"The name drew big business."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, O.

Goldwyn

For the Freedom of the World, with E. K. Lincoln (Goldwyn)—"A great and timely production. Played this at advanced prices and I am not sorry. Capacity business and every patron pleased."—Mrs. J. R. Vaughn, Star Theatre, Villa Grove, Ill.

Fighting Odds, with Maxine Elliott (Goldwyn)—"Not as good as the average program picture. I billed it heavily and patrons were disappointed."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Thais, with Mary Garden (Goldwyn)—"Packed the house and as a rule, pleased. Mary was out to show them what she could do and as a rule 'delivered the goods as well as the message.'"—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Auction Block, with Rubye de Remere (Goldwyn)—"Eight reels. Good picture. Show it at advanced prices. It is worth it. Rich settings, good direction, and plenty of action. Play up the name of Rex Beach when you run it. A box-office attraction without an advertised star. Pink permit for Chicago."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Six reels. Good picture. A few battle scenes. Ralph Ince directed. Star is O. K. Pleased all."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Jewel

The Co-respondent, with Elaine Hammerstein (Jewel)—"An extra good feature. Photography excellent."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Come Through, with Herbert Rawlinson (Jewel)—"This was a great disappointment to me and my patrons. A high-priced production, but not worth the money. Not as good as an average program picture."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Kleine

The Barker, with Lew Fields (Selig)—"Story fair. Star good. It pleased, although our patrons had expected to see Lew Fields in a comedy role."—Mrs. J. R. Vaughn, Star Theatre, Villa Grove, Ill.

Skinner's Dress Suit, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay)—"Not as much of a comedy as we thought it would be but it pulled well and everyone liked it."—Mrs. J. R. Vaughn, Star Theatre, Villa Grove, Ill.

The Gift of Gab, with Jack Gardner (Essanay)—"This picture was very satisfactory and contains the usual Gardner humor."—George C. Thorpe, New Grand Theatre, Crosby, Minn.

The Range Boss, with Jack Gardner (Essanay)—"A very good western of the usual type with many humorous situations. Went big."—George D. Thorpe, New Grand Theater, Crosby, Minn.

Metro

The Brand of Cowardice, with Lionel Barrymore (Metro)—"A splendid Saturday night show. It brought us the best day's business since Christmas. Metros are drawing well for us."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Blue Jeans, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A very good picture but not worth the high rental prices asked for it."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

An American Widow, with Ethel Barrymore (Metro)—"This wonderful star cannot get by with a story of this kind."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Draft 258, with Mabel Taliaferro (Metro)—"The best patriotic picture we ever played. Big business at advanced prices."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Her Boy, with Effie Shannon (Metro)—"Patriotic in its appeal. A sob picture. Most audiences will like it. Did not have much drawing power, due to the newness of the star in motion pictures."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Mutual

The Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up, with Margarita Fischer—(American-Mutual)—"Good picture, mostly comedy. Fair drawing power. The star is well liked here."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up, with Margarita Fischer (American-Mutual)—"A good comedy drama but the star does not draw here. Business poor."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

The Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up, with Margarita Fischer (American-Mutual)—"I thought it was a little over done. However, I heard no complaints on this picture."—Mrs. Lou Bacon, Pastime Theatre, Itasca, Texas.

Her Country's Call, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"Miss Minter is a good drawing card here. An exceptionally good picture."—Mrs. Lou Bacon, Pastime Theatre, Itasca, Texas.

Southern Pride, with Gail Kane (American-Mutual)—"Fair only. Some pretty ballroom scenes and an unattractive 'vamp.'"—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Calendar Girl, with Juliette Day (American-Mutual)—"A right interesting picture. Star is attractive and there are several amusing scenes and sub-titles as well as some beautiful gowns, which, of course, pleases the feminine audiences."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Cure, with Charles Chaplin (Mutual)—"Not as good as some of the others but brought good business."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

The Immigrant, with Charles Chaplin (Mutual)—"One of Chaplin's best. Business good."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland, Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Painted Lie, with Crane Wilbur (Mutual)—"Film in fair condition. This picture was sent to me to fill an open date in a hurry, which was a great accommodation from any film firm. Brought good business."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Shackles of Truth, with William Russell (American-Mutual)—"Film in good condition. Business average."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Cub Comedies, with George Ovey (Mutual)—"George is quite as good as much higher priced comedians and is becoming quite popular. Business is always good on a Cub comedy."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Strand Comedies, with Billie Rhodes (Mutual)—"We have run all of Billie Rhodes' comedies and have yet to find a poor one. Enjoyed by all."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Beautiful Adventure, with Ann Murdock (Empire-Mutual)—"Fair story. Not much drawing power. Miss Murdock resembles Billie Burke a great deal, as our patrons remarked."—Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

Peggy Leads the Way, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"This star is always pleasing. Our patrons like her very much. A good story."—Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

Paramount

The Eternal Temptress, with Lina Cavalieri (Paramount)—"Good picture with a clever star. Business not good but there was strong opposition."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Madame Jealousy, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"A good drawing card. Patrons divided in their opinions. Drew very good business during a week's run."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Hungry Heart, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"Picture was not liked, although the star is popular. Brought good business in bad weather."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

The Hungry Heart, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"A well liked picture, although some of Miss Frederick's former pictures have been better."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Rimrock Jones, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Excellent. Drew a capacity house in a blizzard."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Rimrock Jones, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Great picture. This star surely does get the money."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Spirit of '17, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A good production, but failed to draw for us."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Mrs. Dane's Defense, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"This brought up Miss Frederick's average."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Mrs. Dane's Defense, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"Excellent picture to fair business. This star is surely great."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Double Crossed, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"The weakest thing Miss Frederick has ever done."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Betty to the Rescue, with Fannie Ward (Paramount)—"Below standard. Old film in bad shape. No compliments for Paramount on this."—Mrs. J. R. Vaughn, Star Theatre, Villa Grove, Ill.

A Bedroom Blunder, with Charles Murray (Paramount)—"If you enjoy much laughing, don't miss this. It's a scream."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Jules of the Strong Heart, with George Beban (Paramount)—"One of Beban's best pictures, the kind that hits the spot."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"The title is catchy and attracts feminine patrons. Story too mild for the Dalton type."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

At Coney Island, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Star does more than is exected of him. A riot of fun."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

The Bond Between, with George Beban (Paramount)—"The star was unusually good as the French music teacher and the story holds interest."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Lost in Transit, with George Beban (Paramount)—"A good picture but I cannot do business on Beban pictures."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

The Hostage, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A very poor picture. Everybody disappointed. Star is well liked. Good business."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theater, Middletown, Pa.

Exile, with Mme. Petrova (Paramount)—"Very uninteresting. Patrons did not like it. The star is losing popularity here."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

Fatty Out West, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"The star's best yet. Fatty takes the front seat for this. Brought more laughs than any other picture I've run."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Arms and the Girl, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"Repeat engagement, with business good. This star is truly a clever one with a personality that wins instant favor."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Widow's Might, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Without a doubt the greatest female impersonator on stage or in pictures. A good picture, well acted. Business fair."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

A Kiss for Susie, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"A nice, clean story. Nothing wonderful, but it gets by."—Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

The Fair Barbarian, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"For some reason this clever little star doesn't draw for me. However, this picture pleased."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Bab's Burglar, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"This star is a favorite and in pictures of this kind she is at her best. Big business."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Tom Sawyer, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A clean production that is full of wholesome humor. A good picture."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Antics of Ann, with Ann Pennington (Paramount)—"Mighty cute and clever. This little star could make more pictures than two a year and put them over big."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Bab's Matinee Idol, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Last of the series and pulled biggest crowd of all. There should have been one more to bring events to a satisfactory closing."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Jack and Jill, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Pleased the average goer and brought fair business."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

The Secret Game, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"Many said the star's best picture."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—"About the best single-reelers I have been able to locate."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Pathe

Fires of Youth, with Frederick Warde (Pathe)—"Hardly an ordinary picture. No business."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Little Patriot, with Marie Osborne (Pathe)—"Baby Marie and her little darky, 'Man Friday,' made a hit with our patrons. This picture drew extra large attendance and pleased all."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

Triangle

The Bad Boy, with Robert Harron (Triangle)—"This story went over fine and was well received by everyone who saw it. Business fair. A picture that every mother and father should see. Insist on them coming out."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Time Locks and Diamonds, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"A good story well illustrated with a good cast which received many favorable comments."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Madcap Madge, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"Her first picture but her work in this is simply great and it certainly pleased a good number. Many favorable comments. Business good."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Sudden Jim, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"This star is very clever. Excellent picture to fair business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Evidence, with J. Barney Sherry (Triangle)—"We had many compliments on this picture."—Mrs. Lou Bacon, Pastime Theater, Itasca, Texas.

Flames of Chance, with Margery Wilson (Triangle)—"I consider this a good picture. Holds your interest to end."—Mrs. Lou Bacon, Pastime Theatre, Itasca, Texas.

Without Honor, with Margery Wilson (Triangle)—"A very good picture, up to the Triangle standard."—George C. Thorpe, New Grand Theatre, Crosby, Minn.

Cassidy, with Dick Rosson (Triangle)—"A good slum picture that is different. The only fault is having too many long close-ups of Rosson."—George C. Thorpe, New Grand Theatre, Crosby, Minn.

Up and Down, with George Hernandez (Triangle)—"Film in good condition. Picture different from the usual run, which adds variety to the program. Business twenty-five per cent above the average."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Fire-fly of Tough Luck, with Alma Rubens (Triangle)—Film in good condition. A good picture is like a good story; it holds the interest from start to finish, and you try to get another by the same author. This is a good picture. Business fifty per cent above average."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Paws of the Bear, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"A good story and a better star. Good acting and good photography makes its a splendid picture. Desmond is getting quite popular here and gets good business for us. He is certainly a comer."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

The Clodhopper, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Ray certatinly did some clever work in this picture. It's some comedy-drama. Ray has surely made a hit here."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

The Clodhopper, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Splendid picture. Many complimentary remarks by patrons."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

They're Off, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"Picture great. Drew good crowd. Star gaining popularity here."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

The Haunted House, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"One of the worst pictures we ever ran. Everybody was tired of it. Had lots of complaints."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

Ashes of Hope, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"A good western picture. Star is new, so the crowd was small."—J. P. Rogers, Realty Theatre, Middletown, Pa.

Indiscreet Corinne, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"Big business on this clever production. Olive is certainly pleasing them."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Fighting Back, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"A fine production to big business. Triangle pictures are in a class by themselves."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Up or Down (Triangle)—"Just a fair one, not up to what our patrons expect of Triangle."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

The Aryan, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Great. Bessie Love and Louise Glaum deserve part of the credit. This is the best of the Hart re-issues so far, but every one of them has been good."—A. N. Hiles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Aryan, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"A re-issue but O. K. and well liked by all. Drew fairly well." Miss C. Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

Cheerful Givers, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"This is fairly good. Miss Love did the best she could without a good story foundation. The action is too slow."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Madcap Madge, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"This is our kind. Everybody liked it and the star, too. Good business."—A. H. Miles, Eminence Theater, Eminence, Ky.

His Picture in the Papers, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"This is the best one we've run yet. Maybe it will improve his popularity here. It drew a little better than the last one, which is not saying much, however."—A. H. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

His Picture in the Papers, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Not very good. Print very dark."—George H. Don, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

A Shanghaied Jonah, with Keystone Players (Keystone)—"A scream from start to finish. Keystone comedies are always good."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Hell's Hinges, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Big business on a rainy night. These re-issues are getting the money."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Select

Woman and Wife, with Alice Brady (Select)—"Very good picture. Everyone well pleased."—E. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

The Honeymoon, with Constance Talmadge (Select)—"A good picture; a comedy-drama. Some scenes are taken at Niagara Falls. Title will draw for you. The star is becoming more popular in each picture."—Charles Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Ghosts of Yesterday, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"One of her very best pictures we have ever run. Capacity business."—E. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Ghosts of Yesterday, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"Six reels of Paris cabaret life, with a good cafe scene. Picture went over well. Star not as attractive as in some of her former pictures."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Vitagraph

Bobby, Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—"The best one-reel kid pictures ever made. There were not enough of them. Pleased grown-ups as well."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

In the Balance, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A very good feature."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

The Magnificent Meddler, with Antonio Moreno (Vitagraph)—"One of the best pictures ever run here. Moreno does many good athletic stunts."—George C. Thorpe, New Grand Theatre, Grosby, Minn.

Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"This is one great picture but it did not get me any money. I think the public is sick of war stuff."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"A wonderful production. Packed business for one solid week at advanced prices."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—A great picture; ran it twice to capacity business at advanced prices. Patrons well pleased."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Chattel, with E. H. Sothern (Vitagraph)—"A good picture. Did a good business on a cold night. All satisfied."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Hawk, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A good picture but Earle Williams does not get results here."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

A Mother's Sin, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A good picture. Satisfied the majority of patrons very well. Drew an excellent week's business."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Love Doctor, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—The poorest picture with this star I have run in many a day. Patrons disappointed.—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

For France, with Edward Earle (Vitagraph)—"An excellent picture and drew good business on an extremely cold day. It should be featured.—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

World

The Strong Way, with June Elvidge (World)—"A good plot, a little deep for the kids, but it proved to be satisfactory."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Dormant Power, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Ethel Clayton pleases our patrons in any kind of a picture. Good business."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

The Divine Sacrifice, with Kittie Gordon (World)—"It's the kind of a picture that hits the spot. Very educational for young girls."—E. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

The Tenth Case, with June Elvidge (World)—"Very fine picture. Shows a good lesson.—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Rasputin, the Black Monk, with Montague Love (World)—"A good picture, but not the kind the patrons like. Good business."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

Easy Money, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"A fair picture, but not up to this star's usual standard. She is a favorite."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

The Adventures of Carol, with Madge Evans (World)—"A clever little star in a clean, wholesome story. It pleased the kids and grown-ups."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Whims of Society, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Good box-office picture. Star always draws. Title good. But when Lasky gets this star we will have to pay more rental for her pictures and our patrons advance admission prices. Why?"—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

The Dormant Power, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"This is an excellent picture but the film's poor condition nearly ruined it."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

Serials and Series

The Lost Express, with Helen Holmes (Mutual)—"Chapter 13. Sorry there are but two episodes left. Business has been very good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"The best serial I have ever run, from the box-office point of view."—E. L. Kuykendall, Princess Theatre, Columbus, Miss.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Exhibitors, don't be afraid to book this. It is the best serial I have seen and my audience increased for each episode and toward the last I had packed houses. The people turned out to the show on stormy nights. It had them all coming. I can't say too much for it."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Going bigger than any serial we have ever played. Every week shows an increase."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

The Fatal Ring, with Pearl White (Pathe)—"We have run fifteen episodes and it is playing to S. R. O. My patrons certainly think the serial great. It is going over wonderfully. Pearl White has always been a favorite with our patrons."—S. A. Campbell, Electric Theatre, Bixby, Okla.

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"This serial, like The Fighting Trail, ought to draw a crowd anywhere. We have only shown two episodes but already it gets capacity attendance."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

Universal Weekly and Screen Magazine (Universal)—"A. 1. The best on the market. I have run them for six years."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 South Halsted street, Chicago.

State Rights and Specials

Two Men and a Woman, with James Morrison (State Rights)—"I can't say much for this except that the photography is excellent and the costumes beautiful. Several patrons stated so emphatically that they did not like it that I gave them tickets for another show."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Cold Deck, with W. S. Hart (State Rights)—"A good picture, well balanced. Drew capacity business in bad weather."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

The Zeppelin's Last Raid, with Howard Hickman (Ince-State Rights)—"Capacity business in a strictly German neighborhood."—Ed. F. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Alice in Wonderland, with Viola Savoy (State Rights)—"Not worth the money asked for. Probably would have been all right years ago. Very poor."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Alice in Wonderland, with Viola Savoy (State Rights)—"A good kid picture so far as that goes, but no good for adults."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Picture Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of MOTOGRAPHY, is published:

A

Adopted Son (Metro)—February 9.
Adventures of Carol (World)—March 11.
Alice in Wonderland (State Rights)—March 11.
Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—February 23.
All for a Husband (Fox)—March 2.
American Husband, Her (Triangle)—February 23.
American Maid (Mutual)—February 9.
American Widow (Metro)—March 11.
Annie for Spite (Mutual)—February 9.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 2, March 11.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—February 9, March 2, March 11.
Apartment 29 (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—February 9.
Arms and the Girl (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Artie, the Millionaire Kid (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 11.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 11.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 16, March 2, March 11.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—February 9.

B

Bab the Fixer (Mutual)—February 16, March 2.
Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Bab's Diary (Paramount)—February 9, February 16, February 23.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—February 9, February 23, March 11.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—February 16.
Baby Mine (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 23.
Bad Boy (Triangle)—March 11.
Barker (Kleine)—March 11.
Barrier (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 23.
Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—February 23, March 11.
Because of a Woman (Triangle)—February 9.
Bedroom Blunder (Paramount)—March 11.
Beloved Rogues (Mutual)—February 9.
Betrayed (Fox)—February 9.
Betty Takes a Hand (Triangle)—February 9, February 23.
Betty to the Rescue (Paramount)—March 11.
Between Men (Triangle)—February 16.
Big V Comedies (Vitagraph)—February 9, February 23.
Birth of a Nation (Griffith)—March 2.
Blind Justice (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Blood Will Tell (Triangle)—February 23.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 11.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—February 9, March 11.
Bond Between (Paramount)—March 11.

Bond of Fear (Triangle)—February 9, February 16, March 2,
Bondage (Bluebird)—February 9.
Book Agent (Fox)—February 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Bride's Silence (Mutual)—February 9.
Broadway Luck (Metro)—March 2.
Broken Ties (World)—March 2.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—February 9, March 11.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—February 23.
Burglar (World)—March 11.
Butterfly Girl (Mutual)—February 9.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—February 23, March 11.
Call of the East (Paramount)—February 9, March 2.
Camille (Fox)—February 9, March 11.
Candy Girl (Pathe)—February 9.
Cassidy (Triangle)—February 23, March 11.
Charity Castle (Mutual)—February 9.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Cheating the Public (Fox)—February 23, March 2.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 11.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 23, March 2.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—February 9, February 23, March 2.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—February 9, February 23, March 11.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—February 9, February 16, March 11.
Come Through (Jewel)—February 16, March 11.
Conqueror (Fox)—February 9, February 23.
Conquest Programs (Kleine)—February 9.
Conscience (Fox)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Cook of Canyon Camp (Paramount)—February 23.
Co-respondent (Jewel)—March 11.
Corner Grocery (World)—February 9.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 2.
Country Hero (Paramount)—February 16.
Country's Call, Her (Mutual)—February 23.
Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—March 2.
Crooked Romance (Pathe)—February 23.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—February 9, March 11.
Cure (Mutual)—March 11.

D

Dangers of a Bride (Keystone)—February 9.
Daughter of Destiny (Petrova)—February 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—February 9, March 2, March 11.
Daughter of Uncle Sam (General)—February 23.
Daybreak (Metro)—February 23.
Debt (Mutual)—February 9.
Desire of the Moth (Bluebird)—March 2.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 2.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—February 9, February 16, March 11.
Diamonds and Pearls (World)—February 9, February 23.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—February 16, March 2, March 11.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 11.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 2, March 11.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 2, March 11.
Drew Comedies (Metro)—February 23.
Dummy (Paramount)—February 9.

E

Easiest Way (Select)—February 9.
Easy Money (World)—February 9, March 11.
Environment (Mutual)—February 9.
Eternal Grind (Paramount)—February 9.
Eternal Mother (Metro)—February 16.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 11.
Even Break (Triangle)—March 2.
Every Girl's Dream (Fox)—February 9.
Evidence (Triangle)—March 11.
Exile (Paramount)—February 23.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—March 2.

F

Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—February 16, March 11.
Falcon Features (General)—February 9, February 23.
Fall of a Nation (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Fatty Out West (Paramount)—March 11.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—February 16, March 2, March 11.
Fear Not (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fibbers (Kleine)—February 16.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Fifty-Fifty (Triangle)—February 23.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—February 16, March 11.
Fighting Gentleman, My (Mutual)—February 9.
Fighting Grin (Bluebird)—March 11.
Fighting Mad (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—March 11.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—February 9, February 16, February 23, March 11.
Filling His Own Shoes (Kleine)—February 9, March 2.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—February 23, March 11.
Fires of Rebellion (Bluebird)—February 9.
Fires of Youth (Pathe)—March 11.
Flame of Chance (Triangle)—February 9, March 11.
Flirting with Death (Bluebird)—February 16.
Flying Colors (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
Footlights of Fate (Vitagraph)—February 9.
For France (Vitagraph)—February 9, March 11.
For the Freedom of the World (Goldwyn)—March 11.
Ford Educational Weekly—February 23.
France in Arms (Pathe)—February 23.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 2.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—February 9, February 16.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—February 23.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 2.
General Comedies—February 23.
Gentle Intruder (Mutual)—February 9.
German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—March 2.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 2.
Ghosts of Yesterday (Select)—February 16.
Gift of Gab (Kleine)—March 11.
Girl by the Roadside (Bluebird)—March 2.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—February
Girl Glory (Triangle)—February 9, February 16, 2, March 11.
Glory of Yolande (Vitagraph)—March 2.
God's Country and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 16.
Golden Rule Kate (Triangle)—February 9.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—February 9.
Gown of Destiny (Triangle)—February 9.
Graustark (Kleine)—February 9.
Grell Mystery (Vitagraph)—February 9.

H

Habit of Happiness (Triangle)—February 16, February 23.
Hashimura Togo (Paramount)—February 16.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 2, March 11.
Haunted Pajamas (Metro)—February 16.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Heart of Ezra Greer (Pathe)—February 23.
Heart of a Lion (Fox)—March 2.
Heir of the Ages (Paramount)—March 2.
Helene of the North (Paramount)—February 23.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—February 16, March 11.
Her American Husband (Triangle)—February 23.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 11.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—February 23, March 11.
Her Second Husband (Mutual)—March 2.
Her Silent Sacrifice (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Her Sister (Mutual)—February 9.
High Play (Mutual)—February 9, February 23.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 2.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—February 23.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—March 11.
Hiis Smashing Career (Fox)—March 2.
His Sweetheart (Paramount)—February 16.
Honeymoon (Select)—February 9.
Honor System (Fox)—February 9.
Hopper (Triangle)—February 23.
Hostage (Paramount)—March 11.
Hungry Heart (Paramount)—March 11.

I

I Love You (Triangle)—February 9.
Immigrant (Mutual)—March 11.
I Will Repay (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Idolators (Triangle)—March 2.
In Slumberland (Triangle)—February 2.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 11.
Indian Summer (General)—March 2.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Indiscretion (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Island of Surprise (Vitagraph)—February 9.

J

Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—February 9.
Jack and Jill (Paramount)—February 23, March 11.
Jack Spurloock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 2.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—March 2.
Judge Brown Stories (General)—February 23.
Judgment House (Paramount)—February 23, February 9.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 2, March 11.

K

Kiss for Susie (Paramount)—March 11.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—February 23.
Land of Long Shadows (Kleine)—March 2.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—February 16, February 23.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—February 23.
Lash of Power (Bluebird)—February 23.
Last of the Carnabys (Pathe)—February 23.
Law Decides (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Law's Outlaw (Triangle)—February 16.
Less Than the Dust (Artcraft)—March 2.
Light Within (Petrova)—March 2.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 11.
Little Boy, My (Bluebird)—February 16.
Little Brother (Triangle)—February 16.
Little Patriot (Pathe)—February 23, March 11.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—February 16, February 23, March 2, March 11.
Little Volunteer (World)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Lonesome Town (Mutual)—February 16.
Lost and Won (Paramount)—February 16.
Lost Express (Mutual)—February 9, February 23, March 2, March 11.
Love Doctor (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Love Letters (Paramount)—February 23, March 11.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—February 9.

M

Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—March 11.
Madame Who (Paralta)—February 23.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 11.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Magda (Select)—February 9.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Man Above the Law (Triangle)—February 9.
Man from Montana (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
Man from Painted Post (Artcraft)—March 2.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 11.
Man Trap (Bluebird)—February 23.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—February 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—February 23.
Man Who Would Not Die (Mutual)—February 9.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—February 23, March 2.
Man's Man (Paralta)—February 16.
Mark of Cain (Pathe)—February 23.
Marriage Speculation (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 2.
Marionettes (Select)—March 2.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—February 23, March 2.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 2.
Milk-Fed Vamp (Fox)—February 23.
Millionaire Vagrant (Triangle)—February 9.
Miss Jackie of the Army (Mutual)—February 23.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (Mutual)—March 2.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—February 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—February 9, February 11, February 23, March 2.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—February 16, February 23.
Money Magic (Vitagraph)—February 16.
Moth (Select)—February 16.
Mother (State Rights)—February 23.
Mother O' Mine (Bluebird)—March 2.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Mountain Dew (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—February 9, March 11.
My Little Boy (Bluebird)—February 16.
Mysterious Miss Terry (Paramount)—March 2.
Mysterious Mr. Tiller (Bluebird)—February 9, February 16, March 2.
Mystery Ship (Universal)—March 2.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—March 11.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—February 9, March 2.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—February 9, March 2, March 11.
Nation's Peril (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Ne'er Do Well (Selig)—February 16.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—February 16, February 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—February 23.
North of 53 (Fox)—February 16.

O

O. Henry Pictures (General)—February 23.
Old Folks at Home (Triangle)—February 23.
On the Level (Paramount)—February 11, March 2.
On the Square Girl (Pathe)—March 2.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—February 23, March 2.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 2.
Outcast (Mutual)—February 16.
Outsider (Metro)—February 9.
Out West (Paramount)—March 2.
Outwitted (Metro)—February 23.

P

Paddy O'Hara (Triangle)—February 16.
Painted Lie (Mutual)—February 9.
Painted Madonna (Fox)—February 23.
Panthea (Select)—March 2.
Pants (Kleine)—February 9.
Paradise Garden (Metro)—February 16.
Paws of the Bear (Triangle)—March 11.
Pearl of Paradise (Mutual)—February 9.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 11.
Pendleton Round-Up (Pathe)—March 2.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 2.
Pinch Hitter (Triangle)—February 16.
Planter (Mutual)—March 2.
Please Help Emily (Metro)—February 9.
Polly Ann (Triangle)—March 2.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 23.
Poor Little Peppina (Paramount)—February 9.
Pretenders (Metro)—February 9.
Price Mark (Paramount)—February 23.
Price She Paid (Select)—February 9.
Pride and the Man (Mutual)—February 9, February 16.

Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Princess Virtue (Bluebird)—February 16.
Public Be Damned (Select)—February 9.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 2.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—February 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 11.
Rasputin (World)—February 16, February 23, March 11.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—February 16, March 2.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—February 23.
Red Ace (Universal)—February 16, February 23.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—February 9.
Redemption (State Rights)—February 9.
Reed Case (Butterfly)—February 9.
Reputation (Mutual)—March 2.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—February 9, March 11.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 11.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—February 9, March 2, March 11.
Roadside Impresario (Paramount)—March 2.
Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells (Fox)—February 16.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—February 23.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—February 9, March 11.

S

Salvation Joan (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Sands of Sacrifice (Mutual)—February 23.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—February 16.
Scandal (Select)—February 9.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—February 16, March 2.
Scrub Lady (Goldwyn)—February 9.
Secret Game (Paramount)—February 9, February 16, February 23, March 11.
Secret of the Storm Country (Select)—March 2.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—February 16,
Serpent's Tooth (Mutual)—February 9.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—February 9, February 23.
Shackles of Truth (Mutual)—March 11.
Shanghaied Jonah (Keystone)—March 11.
Shadows of Her Past (Fox)—February 16.
Shirley Kaye (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Silent Lady (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—February 16.
Silent Master (Select)—February 9.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—February 16.
Skinner's Bubble (Kleine)—February 9.
Skinner's Dress Suit (Kleine)—February 9, February 16.
Slacker (Metro)—February 23.
Slave (Standard)—February 16.
Sleeping Memory (Metro)—March 2.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—February 16, February 23.
Snarl (Triangle)—February 9, February 23.
Snow White (Paramount)—February 16.
Society's Driftwood (Butterfly)—March 11.
Soft Tenderfoot (Fox)—February 9.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 2.
Son of His Father (Paramount)—February 9, February 16, March 2.
Souls in Pawn (Mutual)—February 16.
Southern Pride (Mutual)—March 11.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 11.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—March 2.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—February 16.
Spy (Fox)—February 9, February 23.
Square Deal Man (Triangle)—February 16.
Stage Struck (Triangle)—February 16.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—March 2.
Stars and Stripes in France (Pathe)—March 2.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—February 23, March 11.
Stolen Hours (World)—February 9, February 23.
Stormy Knight (Bluebird)—February 16, March 2.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—February 23, March 11.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 11.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—February 9.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 11.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—February 23.
Sunset Trail (Paramount)—February 23.
Suspect (Vitagraph)—February 9.

T

T. Haviland Hicks (Kleine)—February 23.
Tanks at Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—February 9.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—February 9.
Tenderfoot (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 2, March 11.
Thais (Goldwyn)—February 9, February 16, February 23, March 2, March 11.
They're Off (Triangle)—March 11.
This Is the Life (Fox)—February 23, March 11.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—February 9.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 11.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 11.
Today (Pathe)—February 23, March 2.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—February 16, February 23, March 11.
Treason (Bluebird)—February 16, February 23.
Treasure Island (Fox)—February 23.
Triumph (Bluebird)—March 2.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—March 2.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (Universal)—February 9.
Two-Bit Seats (Kleine)—March 2.
Two Men and a Woman (State Rights)—March 11.

U

Under False Colors (Pathe)—February 9.
Under Suspicion (Metro)—February 16, March 2.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—February 16, March 11.
Unmarried Wife, My (Bluebird)—March 11.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—February 23.
Up or Down (Triangle)—February 16, March 11.

V

Valley of the Moon (Paramount)—February 23.
Varmint (Paramount)—February 2.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 16, March 2, March 11.
Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—March 11.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—February 16, February 23.
Voice on the Wire (Universal)—March 2.

W

Wall Street Tragedy (Mutual)—February 9.
War's Women (State Rights)—February 9.
Weaver of Dreams (Metro)—March 2.
Web of Desire (World)—March 2.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 11.
When False Tongues Speak (Fox)—February 9.
Whims of Society (World)—March 2, March 11.
White Raven (Metro)—February 16.
Who Goes There? (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Who Loved Him Best? (Mutual)—February 16.
Who Is Number One? (Paramount)—February 9.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 11.
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—February 16, March 11.
Wildcat (Mutual)—February 9.
Wild Girl (Select)—February 9.
Winding Trail (Metro)—February 16, March 2.
Within the Law (Vitagraph)—February 9.
Without Honor (Triangle)—March 11.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—February 23, March 11.
Woman and Wife (Select)—February 16, February 23, March 11.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—February 9, February 16, March 11.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—February 9, March 11.
World for Sale (Paramount)—February 16.

Y

Yankee Way (Fox)—February 9, February 23.

Z

Zaza (Paramount)—February 16.
Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—February 9, March 11.

Two widely different scenes from Madam Petrova's new picture, "The Life Mask."

S. ROYAL TUPPER
General Manager

DON R. EGBERT, Managing Editor
NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING, Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W. BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - -	Per year $4.00
Foreign - -	Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - -	.15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 9, 1918 Number 10

The Exhibitors Tell What They Want

LAST week we presented eight letters from representative exhibitors, and this week we print some five or six more, all intended to convey to the producers a first-hand specification of the kind of pictures wanted. The negative side is mentioned incidentally by a number of them, as indicating the kind of pictures not wanted.

Let us attempt to digest this highly significant thought food in tabular form. While we cannot boil the reports down to a word apiece and retain their nutritive value, we can make them assimilable by slight concentration; and the subject surely merits all the study it requires.

It may be pointed out to the possible skeptics among producers, who doubt the exhibitor's ability to read accurately the public demand, that the opinion of the successful theatre man has really a double value. His specifications for popular pictures are based first on his broad experience as a showman, giving him instinctive powers of judgment; and on his direct reading of his own patronage, whose wishes he is forced to meet. It goes without saying that a shrewd exhibitor may book a picture displeasing to his own taste, if his judgment tells him his patrons will like it. The enterprising producer will be prepared to manufacture films on the same theory.

This is how the theatre men have outlined their observations on the needs of the present hour:

Exhibitor No. 1.—Lighter shows—but clean and well handled. Closer and more open-minded study of the kind of work done by the few really popular players. And—better showmanship by exhibitors themselves!

No. 2.—Comedy-dramas and society dramas, with now and then a good mystery plot. Light, entertaining features.

No. 3.—Lighter plays, the bright and cheery kind. AMUSEMENT—happiness.

No. 4.—Stories with a lighter vein. People want to be amused. Good titles.

No. 5.—Modern domestic plays, good love stories, comedy-dramas, farce comedies.

No. 6.—Stories of country life; good, wholesome, broad, outdoor stories; pictures that will make people glad they are living.

No. 7.—More pictures like "A Poor Little Rich Girl" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

No. 8.—Comedy-drama with a pleasing climax; sensational dramas of love, thrills, mystery and romance.

No. 9.—More big pictures. Society plays with pretty gowns, beautiful women, clean themes with plenty of love moments.

No. 10.—Comedies. Every-day occurrences with a humorous vein. Human stories of contemporary times, with correct settings, beautiful outdoor scenery and Good Titles. More quaint and lovable characters.

No. 11.—Clean comedies of the Fairbanks and Walsh type. Popular books well picturized. Society dramas.

Making allowances for all differences of opinion and expression, it is evident that the comedy-dramas have it. Most of the exhibitors mention them specifically as the leaders in desirability. More obvious still is the general yearning for simplicity, that, without being named in so many words, permeates the whole collection of exhibitors' desires.

Perhaps a still stronger light will be thrown upon the question if we go back over the list and view the negative side—the theatre man's urgent "don'ts":

No. 1.—No vampire pictures.

No. 2.—No tragedy—not now. And fewer "patriotic" pictures, many of which convey the idea that the people are not yet sufficiently imbued with patriotism.

No. 3.—Nothing gloomy or depressing. No war pictures except topicals and news films.

No. 4.—No violent war dramas.

No. 5.—No historical or costume plays.

No. 6.—No sad scenes. Less star and more play. Less mush and racial prejudice scenes, less religious motive. Fewer triangular plots.

No. 7.—Scenarios not good. Poor treatment of scenario writers. Don't waste a good star on a poor story. We do not get the right kind of stories.

No. 8.—The public does not care for war stories, nor for cheap slap-stick stuff called comedy. Keep away from the kissing scene finish.

No. 9.—Less similarity in plays. Less negligence in working out stories or in fitting vehicles to stars. Less padding in two-reel comedies. No salacious or unclean pictures. More attention to titles, subtitles and printed leaders.

No. 10.—No costume plays. No crystal-gazers or magicians. No sacrificing of the heroine's honor. No western train hold-ups or stage coaches. No hideous make-ups for "comedy's" sake.

No. 11.—No slap-stick, no western stage coach stuff, no war stuff.

Here, again, amidst an interesting conglomeration of prejudices, we have running through the whole composition the major theme of less gloom—more joy.

This sentiment shows so strongly in all these reports—practically one hundred per cent—that it would be the height of lax policy to ignore it. We call the attention of producers to it without further comment; for it is not our theme, but the surprisingly unanimous vote of the theatre men themselves.

And after reading this brief summary of a rather elaborate subject, we urge that all read the original communications as we print them.

* * *

The Author Scores Once

AMONG the hundreds of queries and comments that come to our office from exhibitors, one that arrived the other day deserves some kind of a medal for originality. An Oregon man, sending his praises of certain well known features, asks to be told of more "by the same AUTHORS." Not necessarily by the same producers, mind you, or even the same players—or the same directors, cameramen, prop custodians, location finders or darkroom experts. The same authors!

Now that, of course, is the way you buy books in a book store, or borrow them from a library or a friend. You do not ask for another volume produced by the Century Company or Bobbs-Merrill, or for a book edited by Jim Jones who used to work for them. You hunt for the same author's stuff, indifferent as to who published it. But in the motion picture business it is really quite an extraordinary request. The film title writers, indeed, do their best to disguise the fact that the picture has an author.

We speak for a resumption of the practice of throwing the author's name on the screen with the title of the picture. Some of the exceptional features do carry it; but the habit should be universal, not exceptional. The poorest of fiction writers in the meanest of publications gets his name printed if he breaks into type at all.

The object of making the author's name public is not because the public is crying for it; not even because a lone exhibitor has asked for "more by the same;" it is simply because the author himself would appreciate it, and it costs nothing.

The gain to the producer, in extending to the author this apparent favor that is really his right, is that when the writer's self-respect is increased, and when those who already have self-respect are attracted, a better quality of work will be produced. Recognition is as important to the author as it is to any other creator.

Perhaps the universal and habitual use of the "by-line" on films would lead, in time, to higher prices for scenarios. But not until they were worth it. And it would be a strange producer who did not welcome the chance to pay a higher average rate for a higher average quality of motion picture manuscript. P. H. W.

Exhibitors Give Increased Aid to U. S.

WAR EFFORTS OF THE INDUSTRY, VIEWED COLLECTIVELY, ARE STUPENDOUS

THE patriotic achievements of the motion picture industry, in co-operation with the 17,000 exhibitors of the country, have been remarkable since the United States entered the world war for democracy. For the first time Americans have an opportunity to realize the tremendous part played by the screen in modern life.

Through special work in all the picture theatres of the country millions upon millions were raised for the first and second Liberty loans. The motion picture industry and its allied trades directly subscribed for approximately $10,000,000 to both of these loans, which brought forth a letter of commendation from W. G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury.

Hoover Uses Pictures

Herbert Hoover, national food administrator, has been utilizing the film and screen as a direct avenue to send his food conservation propaganda to the public and another big campaign is now under preparation.

Secretary of Agriculture D. F. Houston is utilizing the screen to disseminate information on such things as the canning, preserving, drying and pickling of perishable food products.

National Association Responsible

These wartime achievements of the industry were possible through the excellent organization of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which includes the foremost film producing and distributing companies in America.

President Wilson himself, in his various official utterances, has always recognized the great value of the screen as a moulder of public opinion. Consequently, immediately after the country entered the war, the president asked that the industry be mobilized for the purpose of co-operating with the various federal departments in the prosecution of the war.

War Council Named

Through the national association a war council consisting of eighty was appointed, also a national committee, composed chiefly of exhibitors, with one representative in each state.

Since the entry of the United States into the world war, the national association has, of course, centered its efforts upon making the screen do its bit for Uncle Sam. In the first Liberty loan drive, for instance, the association distributed 30,000 slides to exhibitors, besides sending out 8,006 Liberty loan trailers. In the second Liberty loan drive 70,000 slides were sent out together with 500,000 feet of patriotic film.

Story of Association

All will be interested in the organization which made these patriotic achievements possible. The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry was formed on August 16, 1916, with only a score of companies as charter members. William A. Brady, the theatrical and screen producer, was the first president and still continues in that post. Today eighty-one companies—or 90 per cent of the film manufacturers of the country—are members of the association.

The original purpose of the organization was to bring the motion picture closer to the public. Aside from its wartime activities, the national association has taken up the problems of the movie fan from a number of angles. The Sunday closing of screen theatres has been one of the unreasonable hardships it has endeavored to eliminate, believing that the motion picture is of vital value to the single day of recreation belonging to the masses.

Censorship Is Curbed

The curbing of narrow-minded censorship, through a sincere and careful censorship from within, has been another of its hard fought achievements. The association, too, instituted a wide and vigorous fire prevention campaign among the exchanges and exhibitors, its purpose being to make the nation's theatres absolutely safe.

Legislation Big Factor

In organizing the national association the founders felt that the whole motion picture world—the producer and exhibitor, as well as the screen fan—was suffering from dangerous, inimical and altogether unintelligent legislation.

The association has not only fought enemies of the photoplay but it has conducted a campaign of public education and through its untiring efforts has made the open Sunday movie theatre a possibility in many sections.

Victory Won In Indiana

Bills were introduced simultaneously in several states, providing for the opening of picture theatres on Sunday, and a notable victory was won in Indiana.

Censorship has been met equally vigorously. The association has gone to the heart of the censorship problem by putting itself on record to censor from within. In other words, the products of its members are guaranteed ethically and morally. Should any of its members fail to abide by this agreement, they will not only be eliminated from the organization, but the association will lend every effort to prosecution of the offenders.

By this action, the industry eliminated the one possible excuse for censorship. Its strenuous battle along this line has been steadily gaining throughout the country and has brought about the defeat of censorship bills in thirty-one states during the past year.

Fans Shown Political Power

The organization has shown the film fan his organized power in politics. In certain instances where the association has pointed out the antagonism of certain political candidates and instituted active campaigns, the candidates in question have been defeated at the polls. A notable instance of this occurred when State Senator Christman of New York, one of the sponsors of the Christman-Wheeler censorship bill of 1915, was overwhelmingly defeated.

The vigorous campaign of the association in the interests of fire prevention has two aims: To safeguard the public and, incidentally, to reduce the fire hazards and thereby reduce exhibitors' insurance premiums. The adoption of a standardized film clause for fire insurance policies was obtained.

Promotes Pictures In Schools

The association has been taking active steps to further the use of motion pictures by churches, schools and Sunday schools. Special lists of films available for their particular needs have been prepared. A plan of co-operation has been put into effect with the International Sunday School Board, representing 5,000,000 boys and girls, reports of which are highly encouraging. Then, too, exhibitors everywhere are being aided and encouraged to give special matinees for children, presenting programs of juvenile interest.

Through the association's efforts, the motion picture film has been admitted to the parcel post. The film business, consequently, is probably the one industry in America capable of existing if the federal government found it necessary temporarily to discontinue express service.

Sees Chicago As Great Film Center

Watterson R. Rothacker Predicts Chicago Will Be Manufacturing Capital of the Industry Soon

CHICAGO—the manufacturing capital of the film world.

This is the prediction of Watterson R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, made to the managing editor of MOTOGRAPHY.

Mr. Rothacker believes New York will continue to be the executive capital and Los Angeles the producing capital, but he is certain that Chicago is going to wrest honors as the manufacturing capital from all contenders.

"When will that be?" he was asked.

"It will be just as soon as the industry wakes up to the great loss through waste and adopts efficiency as its watchword. When that time comes producers will realize that film can best be made here and the result will be an industry with three great headquarters stretching from one ocean to the other—embracing the entire country.

"When that time comes, however, I do not believe the producers will be manufacturing their film themselves. I look to see the manufacturing end of the industry segregated. And it should be, for the actual production of film is not akin to the production of plays and their distribution. It is a highly specialized business, requiring a large outlay of capital and operating on a small margin of profit.

"Naturally I must give my reasons for predicting that Chicago will be the film center of manufacture, although they appear obvious to every one in close touch with conditions.

"In the first place Chicago is the center of the greatest territory in the country. Ninety per cent of the exchanges can be reached quicker from Chicago than from New York or Los Angeles. Look at the big cities that can be reached in twelve to fourteen hours—Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Louisville, Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit; not to speak of the bundreds of other smaller, but substantial cities. It is easy to reach those places. It must be remembered that Chicago is the terminal of something like forty railroads—the greatest railroad center of the world.

"Another thing, Chicago is manufacturing territory and has all the advantages that go with that position, including a wonderful water supply, of especial importance to film manufacture, and good labor conditions.

"A contributing factor is our proximity to the raw material market, Rochester, N. Y. During the recent big storms that swept the East we got our raw stock without much difficulty, while New York was practically cut off. But the big factor is the saving of freight on long hauls. Much film is manufactured in California. Manufacture that film here and the saving in freight will amount to thousands annually.

"Chicago has a potential importance that is greater, I believe, than that of any other city in the world. I expect to see Chicago bigger in area and containing a larger population than New York.

"Chicago is going to be the manufacturing capital of the film world—that's certain. If we could just move California here it would be the center of practically all activities.

"Many producers will not realize the revolution in the manufacturing end of the industry, however, until their receivers tell them."

Read this interview with Mr. Rothacker and then slide down the page and read the one with Commodore Blackton. The two stories go hand in hand, although neither manufacturer nor producer knew the other was going to appear in print. The two stories are recommended especially for any who still retain the notion that the world starts and stops at New York.

Ray Has New Director

While Victor Schertzinger, who has directed Charles Ray's various Paramount pictures under supervision of Thomas H. Ince, takes a short rest, Irvin Willat of the Ince staff will handle the newest production starring Mr. Ray.

The picture is by Carson Stuart, with the continuity by J. G. Hawks. Truckee will be visited for the snow scenes. Chester Lyons is cameraman and among those in the cast will be Robert McKim, Helen Leslie, who will play opposite Mr. Ray; Charles K. French, Gloria Hope, Manuel Ojeda and Bert Offord.

"The Family Skeleton" by Bert Lennon is the latest Ray offering and will be followed by still another picture directed by Mr. Schertzinger.

Foils Bloodthirsty Lions

Glen Cavender wears a medal of honor from the French government for gallantry at the Boxer rebellion. Recently he had need of all his bravery in a Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy where several lions were used. One of the beasts "went bad." Glen faced death for a few moments and only saved his life by absolutely refusing to show fear and strolling indifferently and casually out of the set and danger.

Blackton Quits Producing in East

Convinced That California Is Only Place Where Best Pictures Can Be Turned Out at Minimum of Cost

"I SHALL NEVER make another foot of film in the East," emphatically asserts J. Stuart Blackton.

Talking with a friend at Los Angeles the other day, the Commodore, who has just completed "Wild Youth" for Paramount and in a few weeks will begin work on "Missing," reiterated the statement with added emphasis.

"I required just twenty-one years of worry and expense to drive me to this conclusion," he said, "but you know, it's never too late to learn. I probably would have moved out west long ago if I had had any idea of the many advantages California possesses.

"But when I heard all the wonderful eulogies of the state I though them simply the exaggerated ravings of superenthusiastic 'boosters.' What a mistake!

"Mrs. Blackton has never been in California but she will be here in a few days—and then I'm going to prove to her that I was not exercising my imagination by painting word pictures when I described the glories of the state in my letters. Truthfully, the west is the only place I have ever seen where the best in pictures can be produced at a minimum of cost.

The Commodore let his eye rove across the Santa Monica hills.

"Scenically," he went on, "I've been unable to discover a thing in any of the scripts intended for my forthcoming productions which cannot be found within a short distance of the Lasky studio. It is really marvelous."

Bear Valley for the Arctic, Playa del Rey for the tropics. The Panama Canal is out back of Beverly Hills and old England in all its pastoral beauty is within two miles. Fairyland is to be found at Pasadena, masquerading under another name. You can find Desolation over near Barstow. Near Newhall is the wildest of the woolly west and the quintessence of elegance and charm is—all over Hollywood. Los Angeles can supply the busiest of busy streets and there is desert and wilderness less than five miles distant.

"Honestly, I shudder when I think of the money I've spent sending companies all over creation, and in building different parts of the world in Brooklyn. So I repeat—California for me from now on!"

Freuler Lays Chief Waste to Theatres

DECLARES EXHIBITORS GET ONLY 30 PER CENT OF PICTURE'S VALUE

By John R. Freuler
President of the Mutual Film Corporation

A GREAT many men variously connected with the motion picture business have been proclaiming loudly about "waste."

A cry has gone up about the rising cost of production, the salaries of stars, the cost of distribution and a lot of related operations.

All these complaints here and there may contain a grain of fact—but all of these possible elements of waste and extravagance are particularly and specially the problem of the people making and distributing pictures. Their influences need not extend to the theatre. The exhibitor can run his own business quite regardless of how much money the picture makers may waste.

Chief Waste is in Theatre

The biggest waste and the most serious one in the motion picture business is in the motion picture theatre. The exhibitor, who is really the ruler and dictator of the business, can control this. It is a simple matter of merchandising efficiency. If the exhibitor will buy his show wisely and sell it well he will automatically remedy a great many of the complained conditions back at the exchanges and studios.

I believe that it is safe to say that the average exhibitor gets only about 30 per cent of the value out of the average picture presented in his house.

Daily change of program and short runs, determined by an arbitrary policy instead of by the value and drawing power of the picture, are the causes of the biggest waste in the business.

Evils of Short Runs

The exhibitor demand for too frequent change—in other words his refusal to really get the value out of his pictures—results in many evils:

It encourages over-production. It encourages "fly-by-night" picture promotions. It floods the market with pictures which discredit the business. It throws away a large part of the exhibitor's own investment and discounts the possibilities of his own promotional efforts. It forces higher rentals.

More recently there has been a tendency toward longer runs. The daily change is passing, but not as rapidly as it should. I began preaching against the daily change in the fall of 1914. Experience and results have proved the correctness of the principle of longer runs.

The daily change house is destined to go the same route that the old five cent house has gone. The daily change principle belongs right with the five cent house. The motion picture was a different sort of amusement in those days. The picture was just a novelty then. It is an art now.

The exhibitor can get more money with longer runs. There are many reasons for this. Most important among them is that the longer runs permit more intelligent and capable advertising. Further, the longer runs permit the picture to advertise itself. This self-advertising is one of the biggest factors in creating attendance.

In this connection I may observe that every motion picture theatre in the United States which is intelligently advertising its show and which is at the same time presenting even a fair show is making money.

Houses that Win Advertise

I am interested to note from the reports which come to my desk every week that the theatres which make the most consistent use of the advertising accessories furnished through the exchanges of the Mutual are invariably the bigger and better theatres.

There is another very interesting element of this business of picture buying and picture presentation. The motion picture exhibitor is very prone to judge the merits of a picture by the price that is asked for it. That is a common American failing.

Cost Not Key to Merit

It must not be assumed that a picture is worth a lot because it costs a lot, either in rental or in production costs. One of the poorest features I ever saw cost $150,000. It was worth about a nickel. It was rejected by the Mutual and released by a competitor. It was, of course, an ultimate failure, but I know of theatres which paid as high as $500 a week for it.

It often happens that an exhibitor, having booked a costly picture, feels that he will have to advertise to get his money out. He goes after it with a big promotion and perhaps makes money. I wish that it would sometime occur to the exhibitor that he can apply the same advertising principles to his theatre every day in the year. It ought not to be necessary to attack the exhibitor in the pocketbook to make him see the value of newspaper space, of billboards and of good presentation.

The first thing the exhibitor has to do is to sell himself. He requires more faith in his own judgment. If he puts the same advertising into pictures obtained at reasonable prices he would have far more cash in his own pockets and would foster a saner system of production.

As an illustration of the cash value which lies in proper selection and promotion, I will cite a recent experience of my own. I was compelled to take control of a neighborhood house which had been operating at a loss for a considerable period. The neighborhood seemed a good one and the business opportunity was there.

I placed the house in the hands of a competent manager who booked a fairly representative picture of good average quality and gave it real, but legitimate, advertising. We changed the policy from daily change to two changes a week, changing Sunday and Thursday. We took the four-day run at the beginning of the week so that the heavier initial attendance at the Sunday shows would give the longer of the two runs of the week the most of the mouth to mouth advertising.

Making Theatre Pay is Easy

This worked out just as we calculated and even better. The first four days paid all of the expenses for the week and left the receipts of the next three days as profit. The succeeding weeks have shown a consistently increasing business, which will develop until we have reached the maximum for the house and the neighborhood. It was merely a matter of recognizing the taste of the community and of presenting the picture in adequate style.

The system under which the exhibitor works now yields only about 30 per cent of revenue legitimately to be earned by the average production. Pictures are sold to slightly more than 30 per cent of the possible attendance and the rest of the picture's value goes to waste.

*A Word About Conndition*s

We hear declamations concerning the desperate condition of the film industry. What other industry in the world could have survived such handling and have retained the vitality that the film industry possesses today?

Several weeks ago I said, "When the wind blows hold your hat."

I will add another word of advice:

While holding on to your hat look around and see which way the wind is blowing.

Scenes from "The Girl with the Champagne Eyes," a William Fox production starring Jewel Carmen, which has just been released.

"Girl With Champagne Eyes" Released

Fox Picture with Jewel Carmen Contains Many Rugged Settings of the Far North and Mining Country

THE WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL FEATURE RELEASE of March 3, Jewel Carmen in "The Girl with the Champagne Eyes," has many scenes centered about trading posts of the far north.

The story opens on a steamship bound for San Francisco. Jewel Carmen, in the role of Nellie Proctor, a beautiful girl, steals a wallet from a fellow passenger. Fearing detection she slips the wallet into the pocket of a male passenger who is convicted of the crime and sentenced to two years in the chain gang.

The girl, overcome by remorse, gets a friend to help the innocent victim to escape. The man is brought to a rendezvous for thieves in the slums of San Francisco and the girl says she is willing to do anything to repay him for the injustice wrought.

The man accepts her help to get away from the police and the party goes to a mining town. He insists, however, that the party must go straight. Owing to lack of money they get into many trying situations. A dead miner's children whom Nellie has taken as her wards are of great aid in the reformation of the party.

L. C. Shumway plays opposite to Jewel Carmen. C. Raymond Nye is said to be a capable villain. Others in the cast are Charles Elder, A. Padget, Charles Goreman and Eleanor Washington. The story and scenario are by Bernard McConville and the play was staged by C. M. Franklin.

Members of the Los Angeles detective force gave Miss Carmen points on how pickpockets work and it is claimed that the picture will aid in the prevention of crime by putting people on their guard against persons whose abilities run to their fingers.

Enid Bennett Works in Cage of Lions

As Queen of Sawdust Ring, Thomas H. Ince Star Courts Death to Do Scene for New Picture

ENID BENNETT has started work on her third Ince production for Paramount release, the title of which has not yet been decided.

For this picture Mr. Ince leased the Al Barnes circus intact, including fourteen lions, trainers, clowns and wagons —all the paraphernalia of a menagerie circus.

A big lot has been obtained where the tents have gone up on the mimic show. As the queen of the sawdust ring, Miss Bennett was compelled to enter the lions' cage and put the beasts through their paces.

The lion tamers are Louis Roth and his wife, Mabel. Miss Bennett watched them work with the beasts and finally summoned all her girlish courage and followed their example, attiring herself as nearly as possible like the trainers so the beasts would not be too greatly shocked by the change. She got along nicely and the public will see Enid put the lions through all the tricks that they usually do in a show.

While the picture was being made one of the colored keepers drove up with a wagon-load of meat for the animals' dinner. They smelled it and gave vent to unearthly yowls. This startled the star, but she continued her work.

The scene will be a thrilling episode in a story by Florence Vincent, directed by Jerome Storm. The lion act was carefully superintended by Mr. Ince. Earl Rodney is leading man and Melbourne MacDowell has an important role.

New Company Gets Good Start

Pledged to limit its efforts to the making of not more than six to eight features a year, the Bacon-Backer Film Corporation begins with the equipment imperative to achieving the ultimate.

The part of the equipment of primary importance is the studio constructed under the supervision of George Backer, president of the corporation.

The studio, which is three stories, was built at 230-232 West Thirty-eighth street, New York, because Mr. Backer appreciates that such a location will effect a saving in time in enabling the players to reach it quickly and to secure instantly whatever materials are necessary in the making of a photoplay.

Those who have seen the studio pronounce it a model of compactness and perfection in arrangement, comfort, appearance and utility.

Illustrated Song Back

An echo from the past! The illustrated song is to return to Milwaukee cinema theatres, or to be more precise, to one theatre—the Strand. Charles C. Perry, who recently took over the management of the new house, has decided to have an atmospheric touch to his photoplays by having an illustrated song precede the headlining film. Singing in theatres was eliminated in Milwaukee, several years ago, and the veteran managers are of the opinion that Mr. Perry's plan will prove a failure. But, time will tell.

Essanay Releases Old Favorites

"Broncho Billy" Pictures Now Available Through Kleine and "Snakeville Comedies" Through General Film

RESPONDING TO A DEMAND that has increased instead of diminished in the last few years, George K. Spoor announces the immediate weekly release of the famous Essanay "Broncho Billy" pictures of the hills and plains.

Thus will come back to the screen the idol of millions of movie goers who have never forgotten the "good bad man" that thrilled and stirred them in other days.

Mr. Spoor is now engaged in selecting the very best of the one-reelers and announces the titles of the first ten as follows: "Broncho Billy's Leap," "Broncho Billy and the Rattler," "Broncho Billy's Close Call," "Broncho Billy and the Settler's Daughter," "Broncho Billy's Indian Romance," "Broncho Billy, A Friend in Need," "Broncho Billy's Wild Ride," "Broncho Billy's First Arrest," "Broncho Billy and the Rustler's Child" and "Broncho Billy's Last Deed."

Mr. Spoor has anticipated a great demand and plenty of new prints have been prepared to meet it. The pictures have been carefully re-edited and equipped with new subtitles. Not only is the film itself to be all new, but the paper and accessory advertising paper is all newly designed and printed.

These first ten Broncho Billy pictures represent some of the best photographic work as well as the most appealing story value of the lot. They are full of vivid action, heart interest and the spell of the great West.

In speaking of the releases, Mr. Spoor remarked that to his mind they rank up even higher than the present-day pictures of the same length and, in some cases, than even longer productions.

"It was difficult to find anything in them to criticise from a construction standpoint," he said. "Each contains the qualities that are supposed, even today, to represent the highest standard of motion pictures.

"There is suspense, a very important element of the melodrama and drama of the hills and plains, there is romance, in most cases afforded by the work of Marguerite Clayton in support of Broncho Billy, and there is a simplicity of story that gives the pictures each a 'punch'—a smash at the end."

Exhibitors may book the Broncho Billy films through the George Kleine System and are invited to inspect each picture before they book it at any Kleine offices.

Coincident with the foregoing announcement comes another to the effect that Essanay will also put out new prints of the well-known "Snakeville Comedies," which ran in harness with the Broncho Billy films.

"Snakeville Comedies," it will be remembered, afford a thrilling, laughable phase of western fun, featuring the inimitable "Slippery Slim" and "Sophie Clutts."

They are one-reelers and will be released one a week through the General Film Company.

J. Stuart Blackton painting the subtitles for "Wild Youth," which will be released through Paramount.

World Strives for Efficiency

In the cause of increased efficiency which will enable the World Film Corporation to give exhibitors better and better World Pictures at the minimum of cost, the World has recently made several radical changes in its scenario department and in the production end of the business.

The scenario department, under the management of Charles Sarver, will operate on the principle that the subject matter is sixty per cent of screen success.

In the casting, merit alone will count. The cost estimates of a production will be carefully checked. The whole work of production will be conducted just as efficiently and as carefully as possible, making every dollar spent mean more money for the exhibitor at the box office.

Comedy Based on Slackers

"A Lady Killer's Doom," the Keystone comedy released for the week of March 3, is a burlesque on the dangers and pitfalls awaiting the slacker, picturing the final doom of the man who dodges his duty. William Franey is the slacker who meets "A Lady Killer's Doom" when he finds himself entangled in a net of love, intrigue and woman's wiles.

Public Flocks Back to the Theatre

Result Is the Restoration of Exhibitor Confidence and Increased Booking of Strong Productions

A GREAT CHANGE for the better for exhibitors has come with suddenness in practically all sections of the United States, according to accurate information gathered by Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

Weather conditions everywhere have relaxed and with the first break in the severities of climate throughout the northern tier of states the public has begun flocking back to the screen houses. The immediate effect has been the restoration of exhibitor confidence and the increased booking of strong productions of assured-in-advance box-office value.

Goldwyn again finds itself in a fortunate and enviable position for serving the needs of exhibitors with its March and April releases, these being four pictures of great strength, including one of the most sensational productions of the year, Mary Garden in "The Splendid Sinner," by Kate Jordan.

Both the public and the industry have had a natural curiosity to know how strong a drawing card Mary Garden proved to be on her entry into pictures in Goldwyn's "Thais." Tabulation of Goldwyn contracts reveals the fact that in excess of sixty per cent of the regular Goldwyn customers who played "Thais" already have re-booked this production for repeat dates and that one-third of these repeat dates have been played at the time of this writing.

This can be taken as a forecast of Miss Garden's popularity in "The Splendid Sinner," which is an even bigger and more unusual picture than "Thais." Its advantage over "Thais" is found, perhaps, on the two important points of modernness of theme and dress and the fact that it is an emotional drama that gives this vital star the stormiest and most daring role of her career.

"The Splendid Sinner" was completed early in December and was directed by Edwin Carewe. It will be released on April 7 and goes to all Goldwyn customers at their regular rental price, although it would make a fortune for Goldwyn if released as a special at advanced prices.

Exhibitors themselves have determined Mae Marsh's newest Goldwyn production, "The Beloved Traitor," released February 24. Here again Miss Marsh is found to have an emotional role—one of those tense, heart-interest love stories which have been the basis of her world-wide popularity.

Both exhibitors and the public eagerly welcome her in an occasional sweet picture of "The Cinderella Man" type, but a huge volume of correspondence constantly demands that she be given other productions calling for stronger emotional work. "The Beloved Traitor" by Frank L. Packard, comes, therefore, in direct answer to demand.

Goldwyn's next release gives exhibitors Mabel Normand in an unusual comedy-drama, "The Floor Below," and brings this popular star to the screen quickly upon the heels of the big success scored by her in "Dodging a Million."

The new story is by Elaine Sterne and it is beyond question even bigger in its interest and gripping quality than "Dodging a Million." It is in popular language a comedy-drama, but it is a great deal more, for it is also rattling melodrama that gives Mabel Normand the opportunity for dramatic acting as well as for laugh-creating tricks and mannerisms. This production is released March 10. Clarence G. Badger is Miss Normand's director.

As the next Goldwyn release on March 24 comes Madge Kennedy in "The Danger Game," by Roy Somerville. As its title suggests, this too, is of a melodramatic character, but with a good measure of comedy.

Madge Kennedy asked Goldwyn to give her the chance for a picture that could not be termed a "bridal veil comedy." She wanted a picture with an "acting role" and Goldwyn is now glad that it acceded to her wishes.

"The Danger Game" is unlike anything she has done before and it possesses novelty that no other picture can duplicate. This exciting production was directed by Edward Dillon.

Goldwyn executives believe it is not saying too much to assert that these productions are the four strongest pictures they have issued in consecutive release since the organization of the company.

An eye-opener in the newest Mack Sennett comedy, "It Pays to Exercise."

Trapped By Chaplin Mustache

Scarcely a day passes that Charlie Chaplin is not either directly or indirectly responsible for some good.

His value was recognized recently even by the United States postal authorities when a country-wide search was being made for a young man who is alleged to have robbed the Cornell, Cal., post office of considerable money orders.

A description of the fugitive read: "He will be recognized by his small Charlie Chaplin mustache."

Not long after the police of Kansas City, Mo., arrested the young man, recognizing him by his mustache, and he has been returned to Los Angeles, where he awaits trial.

Remove Tax on Operators

At a meeting of the city commission of Nashville, Tenn., a few days ago, it was decided to remove the $1 license renewal tax assessed upon operators and the law governing this matter was accordingly revoked.

Six scenes from "Headin' South," Douglas Fairbanks' new picture for Artcraft.

Fairbanks' New Picture Completed

"Headin' South" a Thrilling Tale of the Border with Capture of Notorious Mexican Band as Climax

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS' newest Artcraft picture, "Headin' South," is finished, it was announced last week.

"Headin' South" discloses a thrilling tale of two borders, Mexican and Canadian, dealing with the capture of a notorious band of Mexicans who defy all laws and governmental warnings. The scenario is by Chief Director Allan Dwan and is said to present a unique plot, containing a strong undercurrent of fascinating mystery which is expected to create wide comment from this standpoint alone.

"Headin' South" marks the entrance of Art Rosson as a director of Fairbanks' pictures. Rosson is a pupil of Allan Dwan, who supervised his work in this photoplay. The feeling of both the star and the chief director that Rosson was entirely capable of handling the direction of a Fairbanks' picture is said to be amply justified by results.

Fairbanks' new leading lady, Catherine MacDonald, appears in "Headin' South." Miss MacDonald's recent appearance on the screen opposite Charles Ray won her considerable distinction and the fact that she is a typical outdoor girl, having participated in several athletic tournaments, fits her well for her work with Fairbanks. Other important parts in the story are portrayed by Frank Campeau, the famous "heavy" of the stage and screen, and James Mason. Hugh McClung and Harry Thorpe are responsible for the photography.

Film Has Only One Exterior

Something practically unprecedented in the production of motion pictures occurs in Bessie Barriscale's second Paralta Play, "Within the Cup," which will soon be released through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

In the entire drama, which is seven reels in length, there is only one exterior setting. All the scenes with the exception of the very few which were taken in this setting, were filmed inside the vast glass inclosure of the Paralta studios in Los Angeles.

The one exterior presents a society lawn fete. This required a great deal of adornment and embellishment to gain the atmosphere of an elaborate gathering.

New Strand Comedy

Billie Rhodes appears in a Mutual-Strand comedy, "Waltzing Around," released March 5. Billie gets her chum's husband in bad when she volunteers to teach him how to step through the latest dances so that he can surprise his wife at the next club dance. Believing he is philandering with another woman, she trails him on several suspicious clues, and finally runs him to earth in her own parlor, where Billie is showing him the intricacies of the "Honolulu Wiggle."

Shadows Give Strong Effect to "Splendid Sinner"

In stage settings the power of suggestion is developed to the utmost, particularly by the modern masters of stagecraft. In motion pictures, too, the obvious is being avoided more and more in lighting, in the choice of furnishings and in the acting itself. Often a powerful effect is gained by the use of a simple expedient, and the result is more satisfying to the discriminating than any amount of elaborate detail.

Very clearly is this demonstrated in Goldwyn's "The Splendid Sinner," in which Mary Garden makes her second appearance in motion pictures. The story is a modern one, shifting its action from Broadway to the battle front of France, the last scenes being laid in a chateau captured by the Germans. There a base hospital is in operation, manned by French doctors and surgeons. Mary Garden, as a Red Cross nurse, is forced to perform her duties under the eyes of the enemy.

Angered and humiliated by their ever-present espionage, she is on the point of refusing to continue when the man she loves is brought in wounded. Then the soldiers on guard do more than anger her; they jeopardize her chances to save her beloved France through dispatches carried by the soldier she is nursing. The soldier succeeds in passing the documents to her, however, and subsequent developments bring about a thrilling climax.

In staging this episode Director Edwin Carewe did not place German soldiers in the room to achieve the effect, but outside, in the hall, they stood. They are not seen by the audience, nor does Dolores (Miss Garden) actually see them. Their shadows, sharply outlined against the opposite wall, serve the purpose of sentries.

More than this, the shadows dominate the room and seem to rise from the very beds on which lie the wounded French. The result is sinister in the extreme. A roomful of soldiers could not have "got over" what these two shadows succeed in suggesting.

Heavy emotional scenes from Vitagraph's latest Blue Ribbon feature, "The Desired Woman," starring Harry Morey and Florence Deshon.

Williams Gets New Play

Earle Williams has begun work on a new Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, "The Man From Brodney's," from George Barr McCutcheon's famous book of the same title. Mr. Williams will play the title role, Hollingsworth Chase—the man from Brodney's, with Grace Darmond as the Pricess Generva playing opposite.

The story is an acknowledged "best seller" and offers beautiful settings in the "treasure island" locale. The plot is replete with incidents of adventure and dramatic tension and provides an excellent vehicle for the star.

Hodkinson Denies Rumor

Denial is made by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation of a rumor that Paralta plays will be available in the near future through Pathe exchanges.

Writer Has Rapid Rise

Of the meteoric flights to fame and fortune which have marked the careers of many leaders in the industry, the rise of Mary Murillo from obscurity to her present prominence in the field of scenario builders offers a remarkable example.

Credited with innumerable of the photoplay successes of the past few seasons, the versatility and originality displayed by this brilliant writer is perhaps best exemplified by the super Fox production, "Cheating the Public," which proved a sensation during a recent engagement at the Lyric Theater, New York.

The girl who helped to bring to the screen "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Babes in the Wood," and other delightful fairy tales now entertaining millions of fans, Miss Murillo is also responsible for many of the starring vehicles, both original and adaptations, in which have appeared such brilliant artists as William Farnum, Robert Mantell, Theda Bara, Virginia Pearson, Valeska Suratt, Katherine and Jane Lee, Robert Warwick, Edna Mayo, Norma Talmadge, Emily Stevens, Ethel Barrymore, Harold Lockwood and other luminaries of the picture play art.

Miss Murilllo now has in course of production a play intended for the stage dealing with a theme of poignant interest to all. It is understood that two or three leading Broadway managers have made tentative bids for it.

From a beginning of $25 a reel, this brilliant Irish-American author has blazed a path for herself to the assured income of $25,000 yearly.

Mix Works on New Picture

Lynn Reynolds is directing Tom Mix in a new photoplay which is being made for William Fox in the Hollywood studios. In this production Victoria Forde comes back as leading lady for Mix. She will be remembered in the Mix comedies. Others in the cast are Frank Clark and Barney Furey. The story is by Mix and the scenario by Reynolds.

Paramount Appreciates Chicago

Purchase of Big Building Is Seen as Realization by Executives of the City's Vast Importance to Trade

A STRIKING EXAMPLE of the appreciation of Chicago as a film distributing center is seen in the purchase by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation of the Newbury building at Ninth street and Wabash avenue, Chicago.

That the local organization was going to remove from its headquarters in the Consumers' building was told by MOTOGRAPHY several weeks ago. Details of the building not available then, however, are available now in a formal statement, and they emphasize how important Paramount considers the city.

The statement is as follows:

"The very attractive and substantial Newbury building located at Ninth street and Wabash avenue has been purchased from N. B. Jerry of New York by Max Goldstine, district manager for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, for the exchange quarters for his company.

"The consummation of a ninety-nine-year lease on the valuable property upon which the building stands is just announced and the work of preparing the five upper floors for exchange purposes will be pushed as rapidly as the expiring lease will make possible. It is expected the exchange will be able to move into the new offices about May 1.

"Government offices occupy the first, second and third floors of the building. The fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth will be devoted to exchange uses and will, when remodeling work is finished, open to exhibitors one of the most completely appointed exchanges to be found anywhere in the country, with ample facilities for office quarters, sales, advertising, paper and accessories, shipping, inspection and projection rooms.

"In the new quarters will be found a perfectly equipped projection room, in which will be given reviews of pictures to exhibitors and press representatives. Among the many advantages in the enlarged quarters will be the relief from the many stringent city requirements of exchanges located in the loop.

"The advertising, paper and accessories departments are now conducted on the seventh floor of the Newbury building, while the other exchange offices are located in the Consumers' building, causing much inconvenience in the handling of this work and hampering the work of maintaining the high standard of service, for which the Paramount exchange has always been conspicuous."

New Chicago home of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation, Ninth street and Wabash avenue, which will be occupied soon.

MOTOGRAPHY is in receipt of the following letter:

"Allow me to say a few nice things about your magazine.

"'What the Picture Did for Me' is a fine department. The projection department was very good—why is it gone? 'What Theatre Men Are Doing' is very helpful. Then you present the latest news of the industry.

"Hope you will find room in your magazine for a Program department, so that the advertising of one may help the other. Also, revive the Projection Department. [This department has been revived, appearing every week or two.]

"Success to you,

"J. D. Palmer,
"Palmer Theatre,
"Beach Lick, Pa."

Proves Right to Role

Mary Miles Minter, American star, loves nothing better than playing pranks. When she read the script for "A Bit of Jade" and discovered that she was to play a boy in several of the scenes, she was delighted.

She went down town and purchased the smartest clothes for a youth that she could find. On her return to the studio she donned them and sauntering up to E. V. Durling, who chanced to be a studio visitor that day and who is an old and valued friend, she slapped him on the shoulder with the salutation:

"Hello, Old Top!"

The visitor favored the daring "youth" with an amazed stare and as Miss Minter swaggered saucily away he indignantly inquired as to the antecedents, business and general integrity of the familiar "young man."

It meant that he had to stand treat for the crowd and later, when little Mary invited him to enter into an apple eating contest, he went in and cheerfully lost, for no one in the studio can eat more apples than Mary.

"Eve's Daughter" Shows Folly Checked

Billie Burke's New Play for Paramount Has Plot of the Prodigal Son Reversed

BILLIE BURKE'S next screen vehicle to be released under the Paramount trade-mark by arrangement with F. Ziegfeld, Jr., is an adaptation from a popular play.

Billie Burke as she appears in her newest Paramount release, "Eve's Daughter."

The film, "Eve's Daughter," is based on Alicia Ramsey's play which was originally produced with Grace George with notable success. The scenario, by Margaret Turnbull, was enacted before the camera under the direction of James Kirkwood, and treats with Irene Simpson-Bates, a beautiful girl surcharged with youth and spirit who chafes at the galling restraint placed upon her by her wealthy father, from whom she inherits a stubborn will. He believes himself a chosen disciple of the Lord and dictates details of the lives of his family. Following a violent quarrel between father and daughter he is stricken with heart disease and dies. His will discloses that the bulk of his fortune has been left to charity and that Irene is bequeathed $15,000. With this amount she rents a beautiful apartment and experiences the thrills of dances, dinners and theatres, capped with the admiration of attractive men which her beauty easily commands.

Among her new acquaintances is Courtenay Urquhart, an aristocratic roue, but a thorough sportsman. Irene's mother, who was wealthy in her own right, freed from the matrimonial shackles which have oppressed her for so many years, literally buys herself a husband thirty years her junior, which influences the girl in the continuation of her determination to enjoy life to the fullest measure. She has rejected an offer of marriage from John Norton, her father's lawyer, who loves her devotedly but is in moderate circumstances.

Irene's money is soon spent, and Courtenay, who is dependent on an elder brother for his income, and who is pledged to marry a distant cousin under the terms of his brother's will if he is to inherit the fortune, proposes to Irene that she live with him and after consideration she agrees and they begin a journey together.

Norton intervenes, however, and the girl's eyes are opened to the folly of her step. Courtenay accepts his defeat with good grace, and Irene, her mad moment over, turns to Norton and honorable marriage.

A strong vein of humor runs through the production and Miss Burke dominates many laughable scenes as the headstrong Irene.

You're Right, June

"I can always have time to grow a temperament," June Caprice, the William Fox "Sunshine Maid," told an interviewer, "because after all temperament is mostly selfishness, and giving way to your feelings because it is too much trouble to think of other people's comfort. So I think that I will forget temperament until I get a little more technique."

Miss Caprice shortly will complete her second year in moving pictures. In that time she has not had a quarrel with either her director or any member of her company.

Adopt Daylight Saving

Beating Congress to it in the saving of daylight, World-Pictures put a new schedule into effect at the studio in New York March 1. Instead of beginning work at 9 o'clock, the studio now hums with activity at 8.

R. A. Walsh Directs Without Script

Called "The Man with the Scenario Brain" Because He Keeps All Details of the Picture in His Head

"THE MAN WITH THE SCENARIO BRAIN," they call R. A. Walsh, director for William Fox. He is aptly named, for it is doubtful if he has ever made use of a scenario or script in any form. Some go so far as to say that he wouldn't recognize one if he saw it. All the story, all the plot is held in his keen, far-seeing brain.

He walks up and down the studio, his hands clasped behind him, apparently the only idler in a scene of feverish activity. Electricians, carpenters, scene-shifters are rushing to and fro and shouting to each other; men nailing the frame work for a set are plying their hammers with a noise like a battery of gatling guns, but he is unmoved by it all.

He has the power of concentration to a marked degree and all the time he is going through that slow pacing his mind is racing ahead—planning scenes, sifting over the best locations for exteriors, inventing the bits of humor that give his pictures such individuality.

However, intent as he is on the details of his visualizations, he is always alive to what is going on about him. Occasionally he will raise his head and give a low voiced direction; his personality is such that it is never necessary for him to shout or even speak loudly.

As an instance of his quick sizing up of a situation, take something that occurred in the production which he is at present engaged in directing, "The Woman and The Law." The scene required the mother to smile at the baby and the baby to smile back. There was no difficulty about the mother—she smiled all right. But the child was not in a jovial mood, and as it was not old enough to talk or understand directions matters were at a standstill till the director turned to the watching group behind the camera and commanded:

"Dance!"

They hesitated for a moment, then grinned, and began to caper somewhat in the manner of the Sioux Indians celebrating a football victory over the Blackfeet.

The youngest member of the cast gazed at them for a moment with wondering eyes, and then, as the performers grinned a little wider and jumped a little higher, broke into a smile; the cameraman leaped into action and the scene was shot.

R. A. Walsh, who has achieved fame as a director for Fox.

Humor and pathos in the Triangle play, "The Shoes That Danced," featuring Pauline Starke.

Plans Great Drive for "The Blue Bird"

Walter E. Greene Declares Publicity Campaign Will Reach Picture Public Throughout the Country

WHAT will probably prove to be the most pretentious, as well as distinctive exploitation campaign ever accorded a production of its kind, has been arranged for Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird," produced for the screen by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation under the direction of Maurice Tourneur and to be released as an Artcraft Easter Special.

Walter E. Greene, managing director in charge of the distribution department, says the campaign will be of national scope, reaching the motion picture public of every city and town in the country.

In outlining the plan, Mr. Greene said:

"The fame of Maeterlinck's masterpiece is international. Our campaign therefore will directly tie up with the popularity of this subject and treat it in a dignified manner. The stage could never do full justice to this subject and with the almost boundless possibilities of the film art only such a real interpretation could be disclosed.

"One of the distinctive features of our campaign will be, what is conceded by experts, a most effective arrangement for reaching the public in a direct appeal, giving the exhibitor exceptional advance publicity. This drive will be conducted with the co-operation of the Hearst newspapers. Through this channel an exploitation campaign has been perfected which assures direct returns for managers.

"Arrangements for advance publicity in newspapers all over the country are now under way and figures indicate that in this particular field alone the results will afford an exploitation service to exhibitors that has never before been duplicated.

"An agreement with Dodd, Meade & Company has also been planned whereby this company will publish a special motion picture edition of the book. Stills from the Artcraft picture will be used as illustrations and a general promotion plan of the novel throughout the entire country, in conjunction with the showing of the film, is now under way.

"Theatres and book dealers will be able to tie up their products to mutual advantage, as was so effectively brought about in the cases of 'The Poor Little Rich Girl,' 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm' and other Artcraft pictures.

"Waterson, Berlin and Snyder, the big music publishers, have also seen the advisability of co-operating with us on a plan of tying up their song, 'The Blue Bird,' with our photoplay. Negotiations, it is expected, will be completed soon."

To Constance

Constance Talmadge so petite,
With smiling lips and twinkling feet,
'Tis pleasure rare to see you play,
Your memory haunts me day by day.
For the "Studio Girl," I see you're cast,
This part should suit you like the last
Wherein I saw your features sweet;
Film favorites find you hard to beat.

Ruth Turner.

Put Final Touches on "Queen of the Sea"

Fox Subsea Fantasy Featuring Annette Kellermann Edited and Is Now in the Laboratory for Tinting

EDITING of the new William Fox subsea photo fantasy, "Queen of the Sea," featuring Annette Kellermann, has been completed and the prints are now at the laboratory for tinting. This picture will be released as a Standard production April 21.

Those who have been privileged to see the first prints declare that it exceeds in beauty and thrilling scenes Miss Kellermann's former starring success, "A Daughter of the Gods."

It is declared for one thing that there are many remarkable lighting and photographic effects. A phantom ship is one of the most striking scenes. It is in this ship that Thonor, King of Evil, sets out in a storm to do dire things to the Queen of the Sea, played by Miss Kellermann.

Many of the scenes were made at Bar Harbor, Me., last summer. Those in the cast frequently were guests of the wealthy people summering there. Bar Harbor society folk got many a thrill during the making of the picture. On one day Miss Kellermann walked a tight wire and dived 85 feet into the ocean. On another day a tower was destroyed by dynamite.

Miss Kellermann, as in all her work in pictures, refused to be doubled in the wire walking scene. She was almost blown from the top of the building to which the wire was anchored by a gale. Five cameras were focused on her as she started on her perilous trip.

In her dive the gale turned her in the air, but by a struggle she straightened out and struck the water 85 feet below perfectly. Society, which had assembled on the shore, gave her rounds of applause.

Star Works On First of Own Pictures

William Russell to Be Seen Under New Banner In a Love Story Replete with Action and Emotion

WILLIAM RUSSELL is at work on his first production with the new William Russell Productions organization at his studios in Southern California.

Mr. Russell, who arrived on the coast from New York only a week ago, jumped right into hard work on the first of his new pictures, which has the working title of "Adrienne Gascoyne."

It is the name of the principal feminine character—a fascinating young woman half buried in diamonds, who decides in the long run that kind hearts are more than tiaras, and true love more desirable than tainted millions.

The drama is based on a wonderful story of the same title written by William Hamilton Osborne, the New York lawyer, who turned to literature and the drama in 1894, just at the time that he was admitted to the New York bar, and whose marriage to Lydia Gelston Spring in 1898 was one of the sensations of that social season.

While master in chancery of New Jersey, Mr. Osborne wrote "The Red Mouse," a striking speaking stage success, dramatized as "The Prosecutor"; "The Running Fight," produced for the New York stage in 1910, "Cat's Paw," a Broadway hit of 1911; "Blue Buckle," a magazine story picturized in 1914; "Boomerang," a motion picture success in 1915, and "Neal of the Navy," a 1915 serial that had a remarkably successful run.

Mr. Osborne's story, "Adrienne Gascoyne," is said to be one of the strongest he ever wrote. It deals with the efforts of a pair of South African crooks, Adrian Gascoyne and his wife, to win a fortune in America out of the old and exploded crucible scheme of making diamonds.

The Gascoynes have a charming daughter, Adrienne, and with her a famous New York diamond collector, Larry Hanrahan, falls in love. What happens when the scheme of the thieves to rob Hanrahan fails through his discovery that Adrienne is not the daughter of Gascoyne but the scion of a distinguished family who has been kidnaped, is the climax of an exceedingly dramatic and well constructed story.

Mr. Russell selected the plot of "Adrienne Gascoyne" for his initial product under the new flag, because after studying many manuscripts by famous writers he became convinced that this one held the chief elements of dramatic action he sought.

Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien, her leading man, in a yachting scene from her new Select production, "By Right of Purchase."

The Man on the Cover

Charles Ray came under the direction of Thomas H. Ince three years ago, following several years' experience with repertoire companies on the road. He flashed into stardom over night in the leading role of "The Coward," and he was generally proclaimed a remarkable "find" for the screen.

He is now appearing in Thomas H. Ince productions for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, released under the Paramount trademark, his last picture being "The Family Skeleton," to be released March 11.

Possessing a variety of talents aside from the histrionic, this young star does not limit his activities to the studio. He excels in all forms of athletics, takes a keen interest in electrical experiments, is an apt student of French and Spanish, and has devoted some time to literary work.

Totally unlike the weakling characters which he has played, Ray developed a dogged perseverance early in his life, which eventually led to his appearance on the stage. His father opposed his dramatic ambitions and wished him to become trained for a business life, agreeing that at the end of his commercial course if he still desired to try the footlights he would have the consent of Ray, senior. Ray, junior, fulfilled the requirement and then took advantage of the privilege, meeting with such success that his father not only encouraged him in his vocation, but assisted him in every way.

As Ray is but twenty-six years old his greatest successes are undoubtedly yet to come.

Draws Picture on Bald Pate

Don Barclay, comedian of the "Ziegfeld Follies," gives movie-goers an opportunity to see what the world of art lost when he was won by the stage in a forthcoming one-reel Essanay comedy. Mr. Barclay draws a picture on the bald head of a man asleep and draws it so realistically that it seems as if the man's head must be set on wrong.

Two scenes from the Triangle play, "Heiress for a Day," with Olive Thomas.

Sharp Contrast in Triangle Program

"Heiress For a Day" Presents Light Side and "The Shoes That Danced" the Dark Side of New York Life

TWO WIDELY DIFFERENT PHASES of New York life will be seen in the Triangle March 3 releases, "Heiress for a Day," with Olive Thomas in the title role, and a play of life on the fringe of the underworld, "The Shoes That Danced," featuring Pauline Starke as an East-Side heroine.

"Heiress for a Day," scenarioized by Robert F. Hill from Henry Albert Phillips' story of the same name, deals with the adventures of a little manicurist at the Ritz Carlton hotel, whose sudden inheritance wins a place for her among the 400. Many of the scenes are staged at the Ritz, and the ballroom of that hostelry was accurately reproduced by the Triangle decorators. Elaborate costuming is said to be a feature.

The story tells how little Helen Thurston (Olive Thomas) longs for social position that she may win the love of Jack Standring, millionaire and target of match-making mammas. Opportunity comes when she receives word of the sudden inheritance. Without learning the extent or conditions of her wealth, she makes the social plunge and revels in the luxuries which unlimited credit brings.

News comes that the mythical millions are but a paltry thousand, but Helen determines to be an "Heiress for a Day" to make an impression on Standring. Although he has found the little manicurist attractive, Standring seems indifferent to the millionairess. The inevitable hour of reckoning comes at a ball at the Ritz, when clamoring creditors and detectives confront her. But impending poverty is her good fortune, for Standring comes to the rescue and in the closing scenes finds that he has inadvertently won a real heiress.

"The Shoes That Danced," the second feature of the March 3 program, has been adapted from John A. Moroso's story of the same name which appeared in the Metropolitan magazine. It picturizes gang life in the New York underworld as it flourished in the days before the famous Rosenthal murder turned the piercing light of investigation on the police department. Many angles of life in the underworld are seen. Pictures of gang killings, views of well-known East Side corners, and gambling and cabaret scenes are reproduced. A feature of this production is a masquerade in an East Side dance hall.

Little Pauline Starke is the heroine, whose love for "The Harmony Lad" induces her to dance all night under the eyes of a detective to save her sweetheart. Wallace MacDonald is "The Harmony Lad," a gangster because of environment, who is regenerated by the love of a good woman.

MOTOGRAPHY, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

We do not want to miss a single issue of MOTOGRAPHY. Start us on the issue of February 23. We feel safe in booking from your section, "What the Picture Did for Me."

If you want an item from us you might say: "To managers: If you want a Saturday's business on your dullest day, book 'The Fighting Trail.' Give it a good start and the business is yours."

F. H. WARDEN,
Manager, the Gem Theatre,
Kirksville, Mo.

Big Houses Book Chapin Film

For the first time, the largest and finest houses in America will show a series, having booked the Paramount Benjamin Chapin release of "The Son of Democracy," which is being issued in ten two-reel features, each one an individual story of America in the making.

The fact that it is not necessary to see the preceding chapter to catch the thread of the story has made it possible for theatres catering to transient patronage to present the series effectively and take advantage of the cumulative effect of the advertising.

Among the larger houses in Greater New York which have booked the pictures are the Loew circuit; Proctor's 125th Street; the Spooner, Elsmere, Concourse and U. S., in the Bronx; Hamilton, Yonkers; Proctor's, Portchester; the Bunny and the Heights, New York City; the Westchester, Mt. Vernon, and the Park in Brooklyn. Adjacent to New York City there are the Regent, Paterson; City, Newark; Playhouse, Dover; Garden, Elizabeth; Victoria, Buffalo; Avon, Utica; Regent, Rochester; Eckel, Syracuse, and Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.

Others include the Isis, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Queen, Houston, Tex.; Princess, Everett, Washington; Paramount Empress, Salt Lake City; Colonial, Lansing, Mich.; Rialto, Denver; Dome, Youngstown, Ohio; Walnut, Cincinnati; Vaudette, Springfield, Ill.; Rose, Chicago; Zoe, Houston, Texas; Colonial, Reading, Pa.; Arcadia, Philadelphia, and the Old Mill, Houston, Texas.

Nell Shipman "Vamps" in New Make-Up

Jade Ear-rings and Snakelike Dresses Replaced With Billowing Skirts and Poke Bonnet in "The Home Trail"

TIGER SKINS, jade ear-rings and snake-like dresses do not make a vampire. Witness Nell Shipman in "The Home Trail," a forthcoming Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, in billowing skirts and a poke bonnet in her interpretation of a "woman of sin," the first vampire role she ever essayed.

She plays the part of the daughter of a Mississippi gambler and her portrayal is declared by Director William Wolbert and others to be one of her best. The story is of the days of 1870 in the far west before the law came and gripping situations give her unlimited scope for emotional work.

A dance hall that will deviate from the stereotyped dance hall common to western pictures has been built for this picture and Mr. Wolbert has lost no opportunity to introduce detail of a sort that lifts the set out of the ordinary and gives it character and makes it convincing.

Bark-covered doors, walls of cement mixed with leaves, and old English prints add to the correctness and effectiveness.

The "jazz" band of 1870 differs widely from that of today. One of the players in a "Lord Dunberry" make-up wields the bones to the accompaniment of an accordion.

The entire company, including Miss Shipman and Alfred Whitman, who has played opposite her in many recent Blue Ribbon releases, has just returned to Hollywood from the Mojave desert, where they have been finishing the desert scenes. A number of scenes previously had been made during which a terrific sand and wind storm drove the company to more secluded spots. The company again traveled in prairie schooners far into the interior and the scenes obtained are exquisite bits of action and photography.

Scenes from Bernarr Macfadden's five reel production, "Zongar," with George Larkin, Grace Davison and Dolores Cassinelli. This picture is being released by the Physical Culture Photoplays, Inc.

Fun Rules "Huck and Tom"

The spirit of American boyhood is found throughout the entire five reels of Jack Pickford's latest Paramount picture, "Huck and Tom," which was released March 4.

This is the second of the Tom Sawyer pictures, which are taken from Mark Twain's immortal books. Each in itself is a complete release. Director William D. Taylor divided the subject matter into two productions because he found there was too much material for one.

Beginning with the determination of Tom and his inseparable friend, Huck, to ward off all possibility of warts, the story finds the two boys in a graveyard at midnight, according to the advice of an old darky.

How they overhear grave-robbers planning their grewsome work and how they are unwilling witnesses of a murder is thrillingly depicted. The next day Tom is ill in bed and his Aunt Polly, cleverly portrayed by Edythe Chapman, is administering the painkiller, which Tom, in turn, passes on to an unsuspecting cat—with dire results.

Later the boys are present at the trial of the supposed murderer and by telling an accurate story of their adventures succeed in freeing an innocent man and convicting the criminal.

The Height of Realism

A banquet given by Teuton officers in one of the scenes of "A Daughter of France," the new war drama which Virginia Pearson is making for William Fox, was so German that even Dresden china was used.

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY'S TRAINED MOTION PICTURE REVIEWERS

"'Blue Blazes' Rawden"

Artcraft-Paramount Picture Starring Wm. S. Hart. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

WILLIAM HART has for the time being thrown aside his western sombrero and bucking broncho and has ceased to be a western bad man. In his most recent picture he is a lumberjack of the great north woods and a man respected and feared by his fellow-men. But the fight in the dance hall again prevails and as usual Hart comes out the victor; as a matter of fact, it would not be right for him to be beaten, for it would undoubtedly detract much interest from the story. In the great open country where men are appreciated by their ability to put up a good scrap their hearts are never tested and it remains for the most unexpected of them all to show them the errors of their ways. It is a virile tale that has been provided and under the capable directing hand of the star himself, a departure from previous Hart pictures is presented and is hailed as truly acceptable as the other and more familiar vehicles which the famous delineator of western characters has appeared in.

Rawden starts on the Lone Trail

Exceptionally clear photography is a great asset of this feature; special attention has been given to this department and good results are in evidence. Chief among the supporting cast are Robert McKim, a popular heavy who has earned an enviable position among screen villains, and Gertrude Claire, who plays her usual mother part with much sincerity. Others include Maud George, Hart Hoxie and Robert Gordon. The picture is supervised by Thomas H. Ince and bears his many earmarks of perfection. In all it is an absorbing production and should be fully as popular as other Hart pictures.

The story: Jim Rawden and his lumberjack pals come into town with their pay and proceed to open up the town. In the saloon they imbibe great quantities of the "devil's eye" and Rawden, the leader, becomes involved in a fight with the bartender, who is severely whipped.

Hilgard, the saloon-owner, resents Rawden's attentions to his girl, Babette, and is further infuriated when Rawden wins at the card table. To end the dispute a duel is proposed and Hilgard is killed. He reveals himself as a renegade Englishman and begs Rawden to keep the story of his life from his mother, who is on her way to visit him. Rawden imposes silence on the habitues of the saloon and the mother is utterly unaware of her son's misled life and Rawden is won to her by her kindly nature and lovable manner. The mother believes that her son died honored among friends and Rawden's iron hand maintains the silence. But the girl Babette becomes jealous and reveals to Erie, younger brother of the dead Hilgard, of Rawden's implicity in the death of his brother. Erie confronts Rawden with this evidence, and, unable to face the misery of the mother should she learn of his part in her son's killing, he takes the Lone Trail over the mountains and the hardened men of the camp keep their silence.

"His Royal Highness"

World Picture Starring Carlyle Blackwell. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

A PICTURE that should be a good attraction is the latest World Pictures release, "His Royal Highness," with Carlyle Blackwell, the leading player. Although rather improbable in plot it is acceptable and capably interpreted by a zealous cast should prove an interesting release. It is not very often that an American college man undertakes to become king in some small and fictitious Balkan province, but the story is an absorbing one. Jack Christie becomes the king because his pal, who is the real heir, is unable to be present; but the pal has no desire to leave his bride and so Jack has to stick it out and be a king. There is the usual pretender to the throne who provides the intrigue of the story and he is finally convinced that it is pretty hard work to get the best of an American king.

Carlyle Blackwell plays the American Jack Christie in convincing fashion and Evelyn Greely is the heroine. Bert Money is Victor Borden, the prince, and is very good in his part. Carlyle Blackwell also directed.

The story: Jack Christie and Victor Borden are college chums at Harvard. Jack is the star of the football team but Victor is a quiet unassuming and studious young man. Victor receives a cable to come to Paris and induces Jack to go along. On the boat they meet Princess Diana traveling incognito with her aunt. In Paris Victor introduces Jack to General Malcoff, his guardian, who exacts a promise from Jack to see that no harm comes to Victor. But Victor has had an affair with an Apache girl and when he and Jack go to the dive where the girl dances, a fight is started and Victor is seriously wounded. Jack carries the news to the General, who reveals Victor's identity, as being heir to the throne of Wallarya. Jack takes his pal's place and starts for Wallarya as king. The real heir having been kept from his country for years, Jack is able to pass himself as the heir to the throne.

On the way several attempts are made on his life by agents of a pretender to the throne but they are frustrated and Jack takes active leadership of his newfound kingdom. War is threatened by the nearby province of Terresta of which province the Princess Diana is the ruler. Jack meets her again and the old friendship is renewed. To avert war a royal marriage is arranged but Jack balks at the plans. A cable comes that Victor has been discharged from the hospital and has gone to America with his bride, Apache girl. Jack has nothing else to do but stay and by the marriage the two provinces are united.

The impostor becomes a genuine king.

"Heiress for a Day"

Triangle Picture Starring Olive Thomas. Released March 3. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

"IN-AGAIN, OUT-AGAIN, BACK-AGAIN, FINNEGAN." That is the trend of this latest Olive Thomas vehicle and it is in its entirety a pleasing comedy; for such it is and nothing more. It certainly must be exasperating to be told that you are an heiress, later to discover that the "fortune" amounts to only one thousand dollars. And then to carry out the heiress part of the story so as to be near the fellow you love, only to have him tell you that he wished you never had a fortune. Finally he discovers that your fortune is gone and he proposes to pay all your bills for the rest of your life. Finally, after you accept him, you get your fortune anyway and then the fellow tries to back out. Gee—it certainly is a tough life. But the picture is one of the cleanest cut comedies seen in some time and the pleasing countenance of the star helps to make it all the more so. Olive Thomas must now be accepted as a full-fledged movie queen and there are few to obstruct her way.

Manicurist and millionaire

Miss Thomas plays Helen Hodges with that same equanimity which has paved her way to movie stardom and is ably assisted by Joe King as Jack Standring and acceptable cast including, among others, Eugene Burr and Mary Warren. Jack Dillon directed and has produced some intricate moments that are productive of humorous results.

The story: Helen is a manicurist in a fashionable hotel and meets Jack Standring, a millionaire clubman, whose only purpose in coming to the hotel is to be near Helen. In the course of her daily routine word comes that she has been left the bulk of her grandfather's vast estate, mounting to untold millions. However, the lawyer, carrying out the orders of the will, gives Helen only $1,000, telling her that is all she shall get.

Her cousin Spindrift receives the balance of the bequeathal and Helen borrows money from him to carry out the bluff she had started. She is accepted by society and feted wherever she appears. Spindrift spreads the news that Helen is not the heiress she is supposed to be and creditors flock to collect. Jack realizes that her playing the game was merely to win his love and proposes. Helen can do nothing but accept. Then the lawyer appears on the scene and reveals a special clause of the will whereby Spindrift was to sacrifice his share of the fortune should he reveal the meagreness of Helen's share. So Helen comes into the entire fortune in the end and holds Jack to his proposal.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Vitagraph Serial. Episode No. 10—The Leap for Life. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

BLAKE is rescued by Comanche Pete, who digs him out of a living grave. Returning to the outlaw camp in the dead of night, the Indian turns Mrs. Blake loose. Next morning the double escape is discovered and Comanche is charged with assisting the captives. He attempts escape but is shot by Black Jack, the outlaw leader. Blake, searching for the camp, finds the faithful Indian, who in his last breath tells of Mrs. Blake's escape. After burying the Indian Blake continues the search for his wife and finds her with the outlaws in pursuit. To escape capture Blake and his wife dive from a high cliff into the sea below and hide themselves in a secret cave. Black Jack and the outlaws do not give up the chase but take a point of vantage with the mouth of the cave under their surveillance. What will happen next to the unfortunate couple no one can predict.

The daring Carol Holloway and her manly partner again defy death in this episode of the stirring serial. Wild riding and reckless climbing and descending of seemingly unscalable cliffs continue to provide thrill upon thrill.

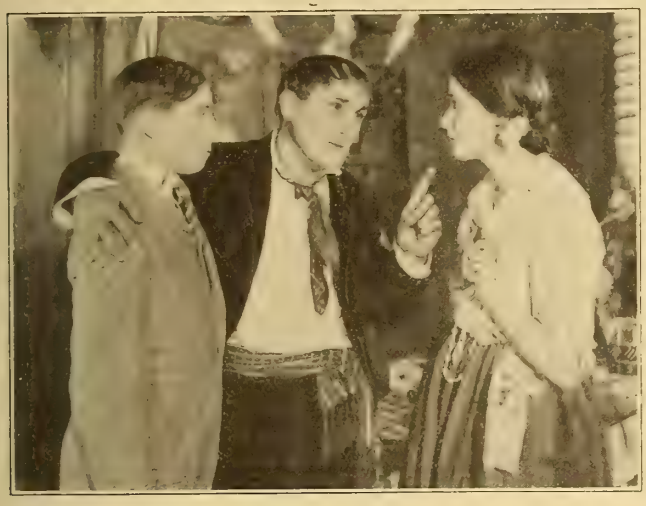
"Little Red Decides"

Triangle Picture with Barbara Connolly. Released February 24. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

ONE of those delightfully pleasing stories that are few and far between is this latest Triangle release, with baby Barbara Connolly the star. It is not very often that a child of tender years is able to hold an audience for five reels; at times during the picture the action is wont to drag, but clever directing has injected the needed human touch and several perplexing situations are saved. Little Barbara is all over the screen and her actions are so unconcernedly executed that one wonders if the camera had but snapped her at play. The leading player enacts the role of a boy who becomes known as Little Red by the men of the ranch, who adopt him after the death of his father. Their roughness disappears in their efforts to provide real home comfort for the child and when Red falls ill the men despair. The doctor prescribes "One little mama for Red, to be obtained at once," and the efforts of the cowpunchers to select one of their pals as the "victim" provide the necessary humorous touches. The Chinese cook, Duck Sing, solves the problem, much to the satisfaction of the boys.

Goro Kino plays Duck Sing with unaffected humor and the many angles from which the comedy is taken mark the Chinese star as an accomplished player. Tom Gilroy is played by Jack Curtis with a bluffness and uneasiness that is well carried; Gilroy being the one selected to obtain the mama for Red, the many grimaces he affects are tolerable. Others prominent in the cast include Fred Vroom, George Pearce and Frank McQuarrie. Jack Conway directed and the complete satisfaction of the many reviewers who witnessed the picture is proof of his good work.

The story: Little Red is adopted by men of the Aliso ranch after the death of his father. He becomes a great favorite with Col. Aliso, the ranch owner, and his men, particularly with Duck Sing, the camp cook. Church people in the neighboring settlement endeavor to take the child away, but free contributions to the organ fund change their minds. Later Red becomes ill and a physician when sent for diagnoses the case as lack of proper care and prescribes a mother for the boy. Gilroy, popular among the men, is chosen to obtain the mother and he goes a-courtin'. Although there are only three eligibles in town, two spinsters and a widow, Gilroy is firm and is refused by the three women. Red is taken by the doctor to a neighboring home for recuperation, but Duck Sing kidnaps the child. Aliso, moved by the devotion of the Chinese, decides to legally adopt the child and asks Red to decide the question of a mother. Red picks Duck Sing amid great rejoicing, the leader being none other than Tom Gilroy, a near-benedict.



Little Red decides on Duck Sing as a mother

"One More American"

Famous Players-Paramount with George Beban. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

GEORGE BEBAN returns to one of his favorite Italian characters in his latest picture, and probably because of this homecoming to his first love, he does some exceptional work. He is seen as the owner of a marionette theatre in the heart of

Luigi gives advice as to happiness

New York's little Italy and the entire picture is maintained in the atmosphere of the spaghetti and garlic eaters. Mr. Beban's work is characteristic of his usual high standard and the many touches of minute human appeal have been injected at points where they are of the most artistic value. While the story has been told before, it has never reached the heights of skillful manipulation of plot and clever interpretation of characters as has this present feature and, augmented by clear photography, the picture is one of the most interesting in some time.

Mr. Beban plays Luigi with every touch of art at his command; his very heart is engrossed in the character and he works with a subtleness that has endeared him in the hearts of his many lovers. Helen Eddy and Raymond Hatton, as Lucia and Bump Rundle, two of Luigi's friends, are used as the mediums for injecting a series of grimly humorous incidents into the main plot. H. B. Carpenter plays the political boss Regan, who resents Luigi's refusal to affiliate with the Regan Political Club. Wm. C. DeMille directed and his name alone assures a good picture.

The story: Luigi, owner of a marionette theatre, receives a letter from his wife saying that she and their child are on the way to New York. Luigi has saved for five years to send for his wife and child and cannot wait until the boat comes in. When the eventful day does arrive, Luigi is at the immigration station the first thing in the morning and is shocked when the doctor in charge refuses to pass his child.

Luigi returns home heartbroken and later sees Boss Regan's hand in the affair. Luigi had refused to pay graft to Regan or join his political club and this had stimulated a feeling of mutual hatred. A reporter, whose paper is anxious to get the goods on Regan, learns of the affair and formulates a plan whereby Regan will be exposed. The reporter goes to the doctor's home and from him exacts the truth about the child; it develops that Regan had secured the appointment for the doctor and to hold on to the post the doctor had done as Regan ordered. Regan comes to Luigi's home and agrees to get Luigi's naturalization papers for a small remuneration. Luigi hands him marked money and Regan is caught with the goods. Detectives take him away and then Luigi's wife and child enter; a happy reunion follows amid great rejoicing of Luigi's many friends.

"Cleopatra"

George Kleine Presents Eight Reel Cines Historical Production. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

GEORGE KLEINE is presenting a Cines version of the Anthony and Cleopatra story, made some time ago in Italy. It is about seven thousand feet in length and is in eight reels.

In this production, emphasis is laid on the spectacular features of the historical romance rather than upon its human note. The actress who plays Cleopatra is not the average American's idea of a siren. The acting as a whole will not greatly move our audiences. But as a spectacle, there is much beauty through the entire picture. The crowd scenes are finely handled. Italian artistry is shown in the elaborate and impressive staging. The many scenes of the Roman army disembarking from their ships and marching along the sea shore towards Alexandria, are as poetically lovely as anything photographed in America.

As an attraction, exhibitors may make much of this by appealing to the higher classes. It is a clean, beautiful picture, the kind that can be fittingly shown in co-operation with schools and clubs. It is less exciting and sensational than later spectacular features and less human perhaps, but it is dignified and worth-while.

The story follows the Shakespearean version.

"The Cast-Off"

Hoffman-Foursquare Picture Starring Bessie Barriscale. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

ONE of the last pictures Bessie Bariscale did before leaving the Triangle Company was "The Cast-off" by C. Gardner Sullivan. It contains all the heart throbs and pathos that can be so forceably interpreted by the star and the capable direction by the master-director Thos. H. Ince is all that can be desired. Miss Barriscale is first Pansy May, an orphan kitchen slavey, in an exclusive boarding house. Possessed of an exceptional artistic temperament she is taken in hand by a theatrical manager and soon becomes a shining star among stage celebrities and at the height of her career two men come to her; one is the man who years before had been responsible for her many heartaches and the other the man whom she learns to love. The intervention of years had naturally taken its course in the general turning of Pansy's fortunes and the change from kitchen slavey to stage celebrity is convincingly interpreted.

The production has been staged with all the lavishness of former Ince productions and every detail is given adequate attention. Howard Hickman plays Doctor Thorpe in his usual capable manner and Jack Livingstone is Guy Henley the despoiler of Pansy May's dreams. Others in the cast include Dorcas Mathews and Thos. H. Guise.

The story: Pansy May, a slavey in Mrs. Ware's boarding house, meets Guy Henley who in the spirit of jest makes an appointment to take Pansy to the theatre to see her favorite actress. Henley takes Miss Wilson instead and Pansy is broken-hearted but her sorrows are turned to joys when she is employed by a theatrical manager for one of his plays. Several years pass rapidly and Pansy is now known as Panerimee Nethaway, the popular and well known actress. After a performance Henley, now married to Miss Wilson, sees Pansy and recognizes her; he forces his attentions upon her and Dr. Thorpe interferes. Pansy desires to avenge herself for the wrong Henley had done her in the years gone by and plans to disrupt his home but the doctor tells her of Henley's baby who is very ill and asks her to go and see the child. Pansy does so and cheers the baby with her mimicry and the child gets well after several visits. Pansy relents and Henley, who had deserted his wife and child, is forgiven by Pansy and returns to his home. Doctor Thorpe has expressed his love for Pansy and is accepted.

Happiness comes at last to Pansy May.

"Revelation"

Nazimova in Screen Classics-Metro. Released February 17. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

MME. NAZIMOVA'S debut as a Metro star is truly an auspicious one and her reappearance on the screen should be hailed with delight by the thousands who saw her in "War Brides." "The Rosebush of a Thousand Years," by Mabel Wagnalls, is the story provided and the character of Joline is peculiarly suitable to the star's personality and mannerisms. The picture as a whole is one that should prove a great drawing card, for it is big in every way. The dramatic angles have been so carefully treated that they touch at the high spots of interest only. Mme. Nazimova is indeed a revelation, for her interpretation of the Apache dance-hall girl is one of the most remarkable bits of work seen on the screen in a long time. The star's great vivacity is ever in evidence and as she literally flies from scene to scene, the spectator is spellbound by her charm and grace.

Charles Bryant plays Granville in a free and easy manner that is very effective. Bigelow Cooper is La Roche and is excellent in his part. George D. Baker directed and no end of congratulations would be sufficient tribute to his fine work.

The story: Joline, an Apache dancer, meets Granville, an American artist, and agrees to pose for him. His picture, "The Bacchante," brings him fame and fortune and Joline lives with him as model and inspiration. La Roche, bon vivant and connoisseur, commissions Granville to make a picture depicting the Madonna of the Rosebush and Joline accompanies Granville to the sacred monastery in which the rosebush grows. As no women are permitted to enter the gates, Joline poses as a boy and gains entrance to the garden. Donning the garb of the Madonna, Joline poses and is seen by brother Augustine, a sick and delirious member of the monastery. Augustine falls unconscious at the sight of the Holy Mother and next morning comes word that the rosebush, for many years apparently dead, had suddenly bloomed. Joline, unable to bear the continued statements that the Madonna had been responsible for the rosebush blooming, confesses to the Prior that she had been that Madonna. The good Father convinces her that God had exerted his will through her and Joline, affected by his admonitions and advice, resolves to leave Granville and start life anew.

Some time later Joline is seen as a nursing sister on the battlefields and is able to rescue Granville, who had been seriously wounded. He finally recognizes the good in Joline and, convalescent, he marries her in the sacred Monastery, the rosebush serving as a fitting remembrance.

"Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers"

Vitagraph-Blue Ribbon Feature with Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman. Released February 25. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

THE free and open west as picturized in the present release on the Vitagraph program still maintains the intrigue and daring that existed in that section of the country years ago. The modern west, however, deals not with mining operations but with sheep and cattle raising and the story, beginning about fifteen years back, is worked up to the present-day period and the changes effected by time are generally maintained. The story gives Nell Shipman just the role for which she is particularly suited. Capable work by star and supporting cast make this an acceptable release.

A feud of many years' standing causes disruption in the home of Ed Whetherford and when he is sent to prison for a crime he did not commit the enigma sticks to his family. In later years he returns and exposes the girl as being the child of his wife by a former marriage. Cavanaugh is the man through whom final happiness is reached and when he completes the mission he had set out to accomplish he learns the truth about the girl he loves.

Nell Shipman plays Virginia with a sincerity that is very effective and Alfred Whitman is Cavanaugh, the ranger. Otto Lederer plays Ed Whetherford in a capable manner, while the villain in the case is Sam Gregg, played by R. Bradbury.

The story: Whetherford becomes involved in a battle with cattle rustlers and quits the country, leaving his wife and child to shift for themselves. The girl Virginia is sent East to relatives and her mother opens a boarding house. Fifteen years later Virginia returns to find her mother a physical wreck and the home in great disorder. She takes charge of the place and in time meets Cavanaugh, a ranger, who protects her from annoyances from undesirables. Cavanaugh loves Virginia, but hears than an enigma hangs over the family. Whetherford, now aged and a shadow of his former self, returns, but is not recognized by his wife and child. He confides in Cavanaugh and tells him that Virginia is not his child, but that she comes from the best blood of the state, after which she had been named. Whetherford dies and the ranger keeps his secret.

A family reunited but unknown

Cavanaugh succeeds in rounding up the men who, it is revealed, were responsible for Whetherford's downfall years before, and having evidence to convict them of more recent offenses, they are sent away. Cavanaugh goes to claim his bride.

"The Doctor and the Woman"

Lois Weber Universal Production of the Novel "K." Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART'S novel, "K," makes an unusually interesting and pleasing screen story, under Lois Weber's capable direction. The new title isn't especially attractive; in view of the popularity of the book, it would seem that the original title might have stood, unless a really better one was found. The exhibitor in an intelligent community will gain a point by emphasizing in his announcements that this is a picture version of "K."

There is a pleasant element of mystery throughout the story. The plot holds interest, the characters are likeable, the scenes convincing. True Boardman as "K," Mildred Harris as the heroine, Sidney Page, Albert Roscoe, Zella Caull and Carl Miller play their roles cleverly and sincerely. The photography and settings are entirely satisfactory. The hospital scenes, of which there are many, from the nature of the story, are not allowed to become depressing, as such scenes have a tendency to be. As a whole, this offering is one which will please audiences of every type.

The story: "K," a mysterious individual, is a boarder at the home of Sidney Page, a young girl with an ambition to be a trained nurse. No one knows who "K" has been, but he becomes the friend and benefactor of the entire neighborhood. Sidney, in training at the hospital where Dr. Max Wilson is in charge, falls in love with the doctor and discourages her boyish admirer, Joe Drummond. Dr. Wilson's attentions to Sidney arouse the jealousy of Carlotta, one of the nurses with whom the doctor had had an affair. Learning of Sidney's engagement to Max, Carlotta seeks to compromise him by luring him to a roadhouse. Joe Drummond follows the couple and shoots the young doctor, mistaking Carlotta for Sidney. The wound is serious. In her desperation Carlotta reveals that "K" is an expert surgeon, and he is induced to perform the difficult "Edwardes" operation, which saves the life of Max.

Then it is revealed that "K" is the famous Dr. Edwardes himself, who had given up his profession because for some mysterious reason he kept losing cases. Carlotta confesses that she was the cause of the mistakes that happened and "K" regains his lost confidence. Sidney is cured of her infatuation for the fickle Max and realizes that she loved "K" instead.

"The Wooing of Princess Pat"

Vitagraph-Blue Ribbon Feature Starring Gladys Leslie Released February 18. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

PIQUANT Gladys Leslie is the star of this latest Vitagraph comedy-drama and her charm and beauty make this one of the most delightful of recent Blue Ribbon features. Fictitious provinces in Europe are used as the locale of the plot and the foreign atmosphere is maintained throughout the story; the many exteriors are very suitably selected and provide a very attractive background. The star as the Princess Pat is a winsome miss, who marries the ruler of a neighboring province because war is threatened and the only way out of it is by marital means. So to save her aged father and his subjects from the horrors of war Pat marries the man, although greatly against her desires. How she finally realizes the worth of her husband is told in an entirely interesting manner.

Princess Pat and her brothers

A bit of exceptional interest attached to this picture is the appearance of two old-timers in the cast; they are Charles Kent as Pat's father and Bigelow Cooper as Marask. These two men are pioneers in the film industry, and to see them together brings reminiscences of the days that used to be. Others in the cast include William Dunn, J. Frank Glendon and Templar Saxe. William Earle directed.

The story: Princess Pat is the only daughter of the Grand Duke of Paxtavia and is the beloved of her three brothers. When the neighboring province of Waravia threatens an invasion the prime minister, Marask, to avert disaster makes arrangements with the Grand Duke to have Pat marry the ruler of Waravia. Visiting under an incognito, Eric the Iron Duke of Waravia, meets Pat who, although admiring him, treats him shamefully when she learns who he is. Pressure is exerted and Pat leaves to marry Eric.

Installed in her new home, Pat treats Eric with defiance and disregards his every admonition. When Eric banished Ladislaus, a court member, for riding with Pat, Ladislaus brings tales to the three brothers of their sister's brutal treatment at the hands of her husband. They go to the castle of Eric and Pat to frustrate any hostilities feigns affection for Eric; Ladislaus attempts to assassinate Eric but is halted by the three brothers. Then fully realizing the true worth of her husband, Pat decides that he isn't so bad after all and her partly serious love turns to real devotion.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Serial. Episode No. 11. The Cavern of Terror. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

WHEW—what an episode this is! The weak-hearted lovers of screen drama had better take precautions before going to see this part of the blood-curdling serial. Whole mountains are blown up and to a certain degree of probability the entire cast of characters is destroyed in the havoc that follows. But this is only the eleventh episode and there are fifteen to go, so it is presumed that those who will come out of the upheaval with whole skins will undoubtedly be Blake and his wife, the gang of outlaws and possibly one or two others. This is how the whole event is staged:

Blake and his wife, who have escaped from the outlaws by hiding in a secret cave, attempt a further evasion and are pursued by the outlaws. They are driven to a section of the country in which a company of engineers are dynamiting preparatory to laying a railroad and Blake leaves his wife in an apparent point of safety while he goes for aid. The outlaws capture the woman and Blake, heading the sheriff's posse which he had met, gives chase. The chase brings the entire party, outlaws, posse and principals, into a deep ravine just as the engineers begin their blasting operations. The explosion topples mountains over and the entire party is buried beneath mounds of earth and stone.

"Powers That Prey"

Mary Miles Minter in American-Mutual Feature of March 4. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

PRAISING Mary Miles Minter features has become almost a habit with us but here is one we cannot say much for. It has as many faults as "The Mate of the Sally Ann" had merits. Even its title is misleading and poorly chosen. Mary is as pretty as ever, but is miscast in her role. The story is not humorous enough for a farce but can hardly be called anything else. The owner of an independent newspaper is forced by a powerful politician to leave town and sends his young daughter to inform the editor that he is to have full charge during the owner's absence. Instead, little daughter herself takes charge. The things she does in her innocence of business methods are too improbable and far-fetched to be really funny.

However, in neighborhood houses, Mary is sure of her following and they will perhaps accept this in a less critical spirit. It won't add to her popularity, though. It is the story which is at fault. The technical side is up to standard and the players do the best they can with their roles.

In the supporting cast are Alan Forrest, Harvey Clarke, Clarence Burton, Lucille Ward, Emma Kluge, Perry Banks and Robert Miller. Henry King directed.

The story: Burton Grant, owner of a newspaper, incurs the enmity of Jarvis McVey, the political boss, by exposing his attempt to betray the city in a deal with the railroad. McVey forces Grant to leave town and Grant sends his daughter, Sylvia, from boarding school with a message to install Frank Summers, the editor, as manager. Instead Sylvia sets out to manage things herself. She insists upon writing and publishing her childish opinions upon people of the town. She discharges Summers and most of the other members of the staff, but they work for her father's interests and when events lead the people to suspect McVey, the paper gets much of the credit for his overthrow. Her father returns home and finds that McVey is discredited and his paper powerful once more. A romance has begun between Sylvia and Summers.

"The Unbeliever"

Thomas A. Edison Picture with Raymond McKee and Marguerite Courtot Released February 11. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

BEYOND a shadow of a doubt the strongest and most vital of all war dramas to be presented on the screen is the film version of Mary Shipman Andrews' novel, "The Three Things." Never before has so great a lesson been brought to the hearts and minds of a people at a more suitable time; the teachings of God that all men are created equal is the predominating theme. A young man of wealthy and aristocratic tendencies is the main character and his nature is such that he considers all his inferiors; he even doubts the presence of the Almighty above and not until he has suffered on the death strewn battlefields of bloody France and is rescued from death by a former chauffeur serving his country in like capacity as himself, does he finally realize that all men are equal. Rich man and poor man; Jew and Gentile; black or white; all are placed on equal footings and no distinction is made among them. On the field of honor they are all men of one nation fighting for the righteousness and peace that is theirs; individual classes there are none for they are all God's children.

The picture has the unusual privilege of having the U. S. Marine Corps as their co-workers. The battle scenes and trenches were under the supervision of Marine Corps' officers, several of whom are entrusted with small parts in the picture and no professional distinction is made. The service men are a great asset for their work in the picture is of a thorough nature and no army of "supers" could ever do the work they do.

Of Raymond McKee, who plays the leading role of Phil Landicutt, nothing but praise can be said. His work is of a sterling nature and he is convincing in the part. Marguerite Courtot is the heroine and while her part is secondary, her pleasing countenance and capable manner add to the interest of the picture.

The story: Phil Landicutt is a young man of wealthy parents and because of this has come to consider all those not in his social class as inferiors. The white fire of patriotism awakens him to his country's call and he enlists in the marine corps. In his company is Lefty, a former chauffeur, who still retains his respect for Phil and the two become inseparable pals and in his letter home Phil tells his mother of Lefty, but in terms of superiority. In the trenches in France Phil gets his first lesson; volunteers are called for to perform a perilous mission and Phil and Lefty are chosen. They return successful and both are commented for their action. Later going over the top Lefty is killed and Phil first realizes the common relation existing between all men. Billeted in Dixmude Phil meets Virginie Harbrok, a Belgian refugee; the Germans raid the village and Phil's company is about to be wiped out when re-enforcements arrive and save the day. Phil gives Virginie a note to his folks asking them to take care of her. In another charge he is wounded and invalided home. His mother brings in the new Virginie and Phil's eyes are opened. A little thought of kindness, a little belief in the Almighty have changed Phil's life and as he clasps Virginie to him he murmurs a prayer of thanks for having seen the light; the unbeliever is no more.

"From Two to Six"

Triangle Picture Starring Winifred Allen Released February 17. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

ANOTHER of those delightfully amusing comedy-dramas is the film version of Arthur Stringer's novel, "The Button Thief." The picture starts off as though it were going to be the tensest of drama, but as the plot unfolds the comedy asserts itself and predominates to the end. German spies are the cause of the mix-up and the tangle that results from their efforts to secure the plans of an anti-submarine device produces many humorous incidents. The novel singularity of the story is that the entire action takes place within the short space of time from two in the afternoon until six the same evening. Four hours elapse but in that time enough takes place to satisfy lovers of excitement. The Hotel Alconquin is the recipient of voluminous advertising in this picture as the greater part of the story has for its locale the spacious and pleasant surroundings of that hostelry.

Winifred Allen is a charming comedienne and is captivating in her part of Alice Stevens. Earle Fox is no stranger to film folk and his ability to portray young men, who are wont to be indifferent to admonitions of irate parents, is equally as familiar. Robert Fischer makes a good German propagandist if such a person can be termed good. Albert Parker directed under the supervision of Allan Dwan.

The story: Elsa, an agent of the German spy system in this country, is commissioned to secure the plans, executed by John Stevens, of an anti-submarine device. Under pretence of being a representative of the U. S. War department she gains entrance to the Stevens' home and manages to get the coveted plans. Alice, daughter of the inventor, realizes the importance of robbery and follows the German agent to New York. A letter which Elsa had dropped furnishes a clue and Alice has no difficulty in getting a room at the same hotel as Elsa.

At the hotel are stopping two families, the Steeles and the Worths. The fathers have planned to have Howard Steele marry Margaret Worth, but the young folks object as the girl is in love with a young army officer and the boy just doesn't feel like getting married. Each is imprisoned in their room by their respective parent and Howard, to escape, climbs down the fire escape and enters the room below. But the German agent, Baron Kuno, is the guest in that room and Howard hides behind a curtain. Then Alice, bound on getting the plans that were stolen, enters the room and is caught by the Baron. He threatens her and when she demands the plans the Baron attacks her. Howard takes a hand, knocks the Baron into unconsciousness and having discovered the hiding place delivers the plans to Alice. His father having threatened to disinherit him unless he is married by 6 p. m. Howard proposes and Alice accepts. The spies are taken into custody, the plans are recovered and Messrs. Steele and Worth seeing the futility of their efforts relax in their oppressions and Howard is forgiven.

"Zongar"

Bernarr MacFadden Film Starring George Larkin. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

THE old melodrama is brought back to us by Bernarr MacFadden, the eminent physical culturist. Using his motto of healthful living and substantial food as the basis of perfect health and with a story containing many improbable thrills, the exponent of exercise has produced a novel feature. The need of regular exercise and systematic relief from the effects of daily routine is clearly emphasized; the person of Zongar, a hard working sculptor, is used as an example and the many experiences which the young man meets in his every day life furnish ample proof of the need of clean living. George Larkin plays Zongar and reveals himself as an athlete of no mean ability; he does everything that is necessary of an acrobatic screen star. His feats of strength and daring are many, chief among them being the rescue of his sweetheart from an automobile about to plunge down a steep embankment, while he is flying in an aeroplane. Leaning over the wing of the low flying machine Zongar picks the girl out of the car just as it goes over the cliff. Then again he plunges into the river and rescues two girls who in their struggles in the water have become exhausted to a point of near drowning.

The sculptor hero and the woman seeking his affections.

Throughout the picture is woven a plot of both love and intrigue and the villain, Dick Sutton, played by Jack Hopkins, in his attempts to win the fiance of Zongar for himself is the perpetrator of many insidious attacks upon Zongar. However, as Sutton had never appreciated the value of daily exercise he is always under a distinct handicap and finally meets a violent death upon the rocks after his car plunges down the embankment. The heroine is Helen Thorpe, played by Grace Davidson, a newcomer to the screen who, while lacking in the art of screen acting, is nevertheless the possessor of distinct physical charm, and is pleasing in her part.

The story is simple yet replete with action and thrills. Zongar is engaged to Helen Thorpe, a well-to-do young lady, but through the efforts of Dick Sutton, who secretly harbors a great love for the girl, the two are estranged. Dick's mistress works her way into the good favor of Zongar and Helen seeing them together grows jealous. Zongar, is commissioned to make a statue of the perfect woman and induces Helen to pose for him. Sutton, at heart a crook and living a double life, plans a robbery and after it is effected finds Helen in Zongar's studio. He kidnaps her and then begins a wild chase; purloining a racing car Sutton carries Helen away but Zongar follows in an aeroplane. The chase leads them to the hills and Sutton in his anxiety to escape rides recklessly toward the edge of a cliff. In the aeroplane Zongar sees what is happening and riding low over the ground he picks Helen out of the car just as it carries Sutton to his death on the rocks below.

"The Heart of Romance"

Fox Film Starring June Caprice. Released February 3. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

"THE HEART OF ROMANCE" presents the Fox Sunshine girl in a role different than any she has previously appeared in. June Caprice enacts the part of a wealthy but extravagant miss; it seems as if Miss Caprice despises wealth. In the past she has been seen usually as a poor girl; now that she is a wealthy young lady she attempts to get rid of her surplus allowance. June is June in the picture, June Jackson to be be exact, and she lives with her uncle, Judge Stafford, and her aunt, Mrs. Stafford, both of whom are rather skeptical as to the selection June has made in choosing her friends. To prove to June that her many supposed friends are not staunch in their friendship an ingenious scheme is hit upon that produces some unexpected results. But one of the many, and that one an unexpected party, proves his friendship to the complete satisfaction of uncle and aunt.

As before mentioned, Miss Caprice plays the name part of June Jackson and with a fervor that demonstrates clearly her adeptness and capability. Bernard Thornton is Harvey Grayson, a struggling young author, who meets June and proves the real friend. Although his work is overdone in spots, it provides the necessary humorous touches and is acceptable. George Bunny, brother of the lamented and far-famed John, plays the guardian uncle. Harry Millarde, who has directed many of the Caprice features, also directed this one, which is fully up to the standard of his previous efforts.

The story: In the course of a party which June Jackson is giving to her friends Harvey Grayson, a young author, comes to the house to enlist the aid of Judge Stafford, June's uncle, in exploiting his writings. June invites him to partake of the festivities and when the party is in full swing two deputies enter and declare June a bankrupt. Her many supposed friends desert her and only Harvey is left and he pledges his aid. Harvey turns over to the deputies his best manuscripts as payment of June's debts. June finds out that her uncle had planned the affair to prove that her friends were not true to her and carries out the bluff. Harvey manages to get June into the chorus of a burlesque show, but when the manager makes advances Harvey rescues June and takes her home. The judge realizes that Harvey is the only real friend in the bunch and imparts the news that two prominent publishers have accepted all of his writings. The usual happy ending results.

"The Light Within"

Petrova Picture Starring Olga Petrova Released February 10. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

MADAME PETROVA'S second picture made by her own company is one that should create great interest. The star has a role that differs in many respects from what she has heretofore appeared in. As Laurel Carlisle, daughter of a famous surgeon, her remarkable talents are put to a severe test and they are not found to be inadequate. The story provided is one of the strongest imaginable and holds the thorough attention of the spectator while the suspense is maintained with touches of great heart interest. Laurel Carlisle marries a wealthy man so as to be uncurbed in her scientific research work, but her husband is of a jealous nature and causes no end of disruption in the unhappy home.

The medical side of the picture has been carefully supervised and the slightest detail is taken care of. The photography, although devoid of special effects, is clear-cut and measures up to a high standard of perfection. The many exteriors have been well chosen and supply the necessary atmosphere while the interiors are in full keeping with the rest of the picture.

In support of Madame Petrova there appears Thomas Holding as Doctor Leslie and Lumsden Hare as Durand, Laurel's husband. Both are convincing in their respective roles and do admirable work. Of the star little more can be said than that she has made the most of a rare opportunity and has fulfilled her part in a finished manner. Larry Trimble directed and the general excellence of the picture is fitting tribute to his work.

The story: Laurel Carlisle, to continue her scientific researches, marries Durand, a man of wealthy connections, and through the marriage is able to fit up a private laboratory. The intervening years have brought a little son to Laurel and her time is divided between her work and the boy. An epidemic of fever causes Laurel to take the boy to the country and she returns to the city to help fight the disease. Through Durand's carelessness the boy falls ill and pneumonia sets in. Laurel is sent for and leaves her work in the city to take care of her child. The boy dies and Durand blames his death on the mother. Dr. Leslie, an old friend whom Laurel had known and loved in the days before her marriage, comforts her in the absence of Durand who returning unexpectedly finds the two together and becomes insanely jealous.

In her research work Laurel has discovered a serum for the cure of anthrox through the medium of a mascarine turtle. Doctor Leslie agrees to act as a subject for the trial and after being inoculated with the germs is resting comfortably. In a moment of fiendish frenzy Durand meddles with the test tube containing the germs and accidently becomes inoculated with the germs. There being only sufficient serum to cure one patient Laurel realizes the futility of attempting to cure her husband, whose case is far more serious and less apt to be cured than the doctor's, and the serum is used for the latter. Durand dies and Laurel is free to love Leslie who rapidly improves under her loving care.

"Shoes That Danced"

Triangle Picture Starring Pauline Starke. Released March 3. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

THE underworld of New York is given a clear and apprehensive interpretation in this Triangle release and those who have seen, or read, of the numerous gang fights and killings which so mysteriously occur, should revel in the clever and intense manner in which the story is unfolded. Rivalry among opposing gangs, and their intermittent fighting, has long been a thorn in the side of New York and the Police Department has done its duty to certain limitations. What is shown in the picture can be taken as authentic, for even in these days, although the law has changed their actions materially, there are gangs which settle their own disputes and in their parlance of the law. The underworld atmosphere has been very carefully maintained and the characters very well chosen. And although there is much gun-play and many subsequent deaths, the picture should please because of that seemingly unredeeming feature. The picture would not survive without the numerous intricacies and they are injected at the very proper moments and produce the necessary thrills.

The cast is one in full keeping with the story and has been exceptionally well selected. Little Pauline Starke, as Rhoda, is as convincing in the part as can be desired and adds to her already increasing popularity. Wallace MacDonald plays the Harmony Lad, a gang leader, and Dick Rosson is Stumpy Darcy, a member of the gang.

The story: Harmony Lad is entreated by his sweetheart, Rhoda, to give up his gangster life and try to make an honest living. A gang murder is committed and after seeing the disastrous after effects, Lad, possessing a fine voice which earned for him his sobriquet, goes to work as a cabaret singer and makes good.

The Lad's deserting the gang has made Darcy, a lieutenant, very suspicious, and as the Lad has secured a vaudeville engagement, Darcy fears he has turned squealer for the position. In jealous frenzy Darcy kills Barker, leader of a rival gang, for his attentions to Mamie Conlon, Darcy's girl. Darcy flees and the police seek Harmony Lad, hoping that he may be able to lead them to Darcy's hiding place. To outwit the police the Lad gets word to Rhoda to go to the Social Club masquerade while he makes a get-away to keep his vaudeville engagement. At the affair she dances with a man made up like Charlie Chaplin and is escorted home by him. She discovers he is Darcy and plans to have him arrested. Detectives have followed her and, seeing her kissing the man, believe him to be the Lad. They arrest Darcy just as the Harmony Lad comes up. Darcy is unmasked and explanations are made to the jealous and furious Harmony Lad, who takes Rhoda with him on his vaudeville tour.

"The Rough Lover"

Latest Bluebird Franklyn Farnum Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

MORE of a farce than his previous comedy-drama, this Franklyn Farnum Bluebird has an unhackneyed plot and as a whole will please Farnum admirers. The star plays a dual role, a timid bookworm and a prize fighter. There is rapid action and funny situations of the farce variety. It can be summed up as, in another department, an exhibitor sums up "The Fighting Grin,"—"A good picture for those who like to laugh occasionally."

Juanita Hansen is the leading lady. Her ability as a swimmer is made use of. Catherine Henry, Fred Montague and Martha Mattox have important roles. The story is by Joseph F. Poland, scenario by C. A. Kenyon and direction by Joseph De Grasse.

The story: Richard Bolton is a timid, retiring suitor in love with Helen. The Countess Grosspferd falls in love with him and her husband threatens to kill him. Richard swims away to escape the countess and is believed drowned. Instead he reaches an island where Breeze Bolton, a prize fighter, is training. The two men are so much alike that Breeze offers to go back in Richard's place and settle his troubles. Richard's aunt, who is a spiritualist, believes he has come back from the other world. Many complications arise, when Breeze makes love to both the Countess and Helen, but everything comes out right when Richard returns and claims Helen.

"The Naulahka"

Six-Reel Pathe Version of Kipling Novel Stars Doraldina. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris.

HERE is an excellent picture, with romantic interest, beauty and suspense and above all that "something different" quality. It is a wonderfully artistic picture, but not the kind which goes over the heads of the average patron. Taken from a Kipling novel, its scenes are laid in India but it begins and ends in a Colorado mining town and its main theme is the love story of two young Americans who will be understood by any audience, Kate Sheriff (Helene Chadwick) determined to be a foreign missionary and Nicholas Tarvin (Antonio Moreno), who goes to India in search of a famous diamond, the Naulahka, to use as a sort of bribe in winning a railroad for "his" town, Topaz, Colorado.

Both reach India and the action for about five reels is laid in that country. The director, George Fitzmaurice, lived for nine years in India. The details, therefore, should be correct. But as to that, very few who see the picture will be able to judge. The important thing is that he has created an illusion which pleases us. Those who love their Kipling will feel, "Ah, this is as it should be." To gain these effects, wonderful technical mastery and photography, tinting and construction of settings is shown. Few of the big spectacular features have contained scenes so exquisitively beautiful. The tinting and photography is beyond criticism. The dancers' long ropes of pearls, the jeweled mosaics of the palace, and the temples really gleam and sparkle with color.

Doraldina, an eccentric dancer of cabaret and vaudeville, makes her first film appearance in the important role of the Rajah's favorite, a gypsy dancer, and proves a read "discovery." She is fascinating as the wild, untamed creature, fearless and ambitious. She has several dance scenes, but it is her acting ability which is surprising. She gives a colorful, vivid characterization of the gypsy which will not soon be forgotten.

Antonio Moreno, Helene Chadwick and Mary Alden, the latter in a pathetic role of the neglected mother of the rightful prince, give good accounts of themselves. Warner Oland as the Indian ruler, plays the role cleverly.

The picture will be appreciated by audiences of every class. Its artistry makes it a feature which should live. In presenting it, an exhibitor will find it worthy of special display and fitting musical accompaniment. Above all, he should see that his projection machines are up to standard and his screen clean so that none of the picture's beauty is lost.

The story: The plot deals with the adventures of two young Americans who invade India and upset the plans of some of the members of the ruler's family. The intriguing favorite of the rajah tries to have her rival's son, the rightful heir, poisoned so that her son may reign. The Americans are instrumental in foiling her plots and save the life of the baby. The young man is even able to get possession of the Naulahka, a famed diamond for which he came to India, but when he learns that its loss means the death of the dancer, he returns it to her and both young people go back to America, deciding that it is better not to disturb the East.

Praise "Girl with Champagne Eyes"

Dramatic reviewers throughout the country praise "The Girl with the Champagne Eyes," in which Jewel Carmen is starred. They declare that the interest throughout is well sustained and that the climax has an unusual twist that pleases lovers of "something new."

Plot Is Rapid in "Sunshine Nan"

Theatre-goers who have been accustomed to seeing Ann Pennington attired in gorgeous raiment and bedecked with jewels will find much to amuse them in the role she plays in "Sunshine Nan," in which the dainty star is introduced as a "tom-boy" of the slums. The story was adapted to the screen by Eve Unsell from the novel, "Calvary Alley," by Alice Hegan Rice and produced for Paramount release on March 11 by Charles Gibly.

The story will be familiar to most readers of fiction who know and love Alice Hegan Rice's humanly clever books. Nance Molloy, living back of the great cathedral in Calvary Alley, does her best to instill cleanliness in the few rooms occupied by the large family of which she is a member.

The long-standing feud between the "Alley Rats," of which Nan is the acknowledged leader, and the boys of the choir of the cathedral, occupies all of Nan's leisure moments. Her one loyal henchman is Dan Lewis, who stands by to the bitter end—which comes all too soon when Nan is unjustly sent to a reformatory.

This, however, proves to be the making of Nan, for after four years she emerges as a self-reliant young person quite able to support herself, having been given an education and taught stenography.

Dan has become a chemist in the great shoe factory owned by MacPherson Clark's father. As one of the choir boys, Mac was the youthful enemy of Nan and Dan, and in his young manhood he is a disappointment to his father, who has given him charge of a department. Nan becomes a stenographer in the shoe factory and soon squelches Mac's amorous advances.

Dan works out a formula for a new dye and Mac steals it. Nan working overtime, surprises Mac and snatches the paper from his hands. In pursuing her he is caught in the machinery and is saved from instant death by the heroism of Nan, though he is badly injured. Mr. Clark is grieved at the duplicity of his son, who makes a clean breast of everything, and Dan is richly rewarded for his formula and finds happiness with Nance as his wife.

In the cast are Richard Barthelmess, John Hines, Helen Tracey and Charles Eldridge.

Abramson Finds Potential Star

During his stay at Palm Beach, Fla., where he went with John Mason and other members of his company to take the exterior scenes of his latest photoplay drama, "Moral Suicide," Ivan Abramson, president of the Graphic Film Corporation, met with one of the many accidents that frequently befall the photoplay director and make his path the proverbial thorny one.

At a most critical time in the play's production one of the cast became seriously ill. Visions of sending to New York for a young woman to take her place, with consequent thoughts of delay, confronted Mr. Abramson. In his dilemma he turned his attention to the many girls wintering at Palm Beach in the hope of finding one with sufficient dramatic ability to substitute.

He chanced upon Miss Helen Price of Glasgow, Mo., and his search came to an end. That his selection of Miss Price was a fortunate one was proved by the ease, grace, poise and seeming experience with which she played the role.

Mr. Abramson offered the young woman a contract, but it has not yet been accepted.

Miss Price is the great granddaughter of Sterling Price, the famous major general of the Confederate army and one time governor of Missouri. She spends her winters at her parents' villas in Florida and Cuba and is a social leader.

Mr. Abramson declares that in all his experience he never met such a promising player.

No Feuds in this Kentucky Tale

A Kentucky story without the traditional feud basis is announced by Metro as the next screen vehicle for Viola Dana, following her appearance in "Breakers Ahead."

John H. Collins, who directed Miss Dana in "Blue Jeans" and many other of her great Metro successes, wrote the original story, the working title of which is "The Night Riders." Mr. Collins will direct the production from a scenario prepared by Albert Shelby Le Vino.

Miss Dana will be seen as Sally Castleton, a vivacious daughter of the south. The theme has to do with the efforts of farmers to abolish toll-gates.

What Theatre Men Are Doing

NEWS OF EXHIBITORS WHO ARE SUCCEEDING—ARE YOU ONE?

This department of Motography specializes in giving to exhibitors stories of the accomplishments of successful theater managers. If you have attempted any experiments and they have succeeded or failed write Motography about it.

Says "Upside-Down" Theatre Is Success

O. L. Meister, Manager of Whitehouse, Milwaukee, Gives Observations After Year's Operation of New House

BECAUSE of its overwhelming success after a year's thorough trial, O. L. Meister, manager of the Whitehouse theatre, local originator of reverse seating arrangements, declares he will never return to the "old-fashioned" way.

When the Whitehouse was under construction many "wiseacres" scoffed at Mr. Meister's idea, prophesying that it would be a failure. But today, they, too, have been converted.

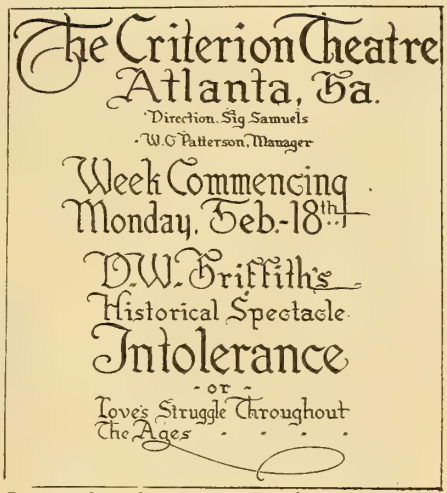
"When I operated my little Vaudette nickel theatre, I experienced extreme difficulty in persuading my patrons to occupy the front seats," said Mr. Meister. "Today it's different—in fact, you cannot find a person loitering in the aisles of the Whitehouse searching for a seat.

"In the 'old-fashioned' theatres the ushers will say, 'This way, please,' and instead of heeding the call, persons insist upon gazing at the screen without taking the first available seat. Other times, people will argue between themselves as to which part of the house they prefer to occupy and congestion is bound to result.

"At my theatre they enter at the front row seats first, which afford an excellent view. Why, when J. Warren Kerrigan appeared at the Whitehouse last season every seat was occupied at every performance and not once were we bothered with congestion.

"Still, we are at another advantage at the Whitehouse. In other theatres where you enter the rear of the house, and where you are compelled to occupy a front seat you grope about in the dark looking for a vacant spot. But it's different in the 'up-side-down' theatre. Every part is elaborately illuminated."

The Whitehouse is well deserving of its name. The exterior is entirely white. The interior is equally as white. A dim and unobtrusive light pervades the house. Lights are always aglow in the aisle floors, which makes it possible for one to scan a newspaper or a book if the production is not to one's liking. Still, the illumination does not interfere with the pictures on the screen.



The choice seats are in the balcony; next to these are the ones in the parquet. Women, and men escorting women or children, only are permitted in these upper sections. This is done, say the officials of the theatre, to encourage men to bring their wives.

A huge pipe organ is concealed from the public, but the full volume of its sound comes booming forth from a grated opening at the top of the prescenium arch when the six-piece orchestra rests.

The heating plant at the Whitehouse cost Mr. Meister $16,000. The heat rushes in 90,000 cubic feet of freshly heated air and by suction pumps pulls it out as fast as it enters; still, not the slightest draught is felt. The temperature is always at 72 at the ceiling. By actual count, it takes only three minutes to raise the temperature from 32 to 72 degrees.

Censor Board for South Bend

South Bend, Ind., is to have a censor board. Mayor Franklin R. Carson will appoint three citizens as members as soon as a final conference is held with theatre managers. The managers, according to reports, have agreed to the change unanimously.

Cover of a six page souvenir program put out by the Criterion Theatre of Atlanta.

Sunday Closing Ordered in Birmingham

Moving picture theaters in Birmingham, Ala., will not be allowed to operate on Sunday by the city commission after April 14, according to an announcement by Dr. N. A. Barrett, the president, at a meeting last week. A crowded council chamber heard the decision. Petitions were immediately put in circulation by the theatre men seeking a referendum.

President Barrett's announcement was as follows:

"It is the unanimous conviction of this board that it is not best that shows should be operated on Sunday. However, in order that no injustice may be done to the operators because of a misapprehension of the law on their part and ours, and that the people may be afforded an opportunity to express themselves on this question if they so desire, we have decided that the shows shall be closed on Sunday after April 14."

Sunday Fight Grows Warmer

The Sunday show war in Cadillac, Mich., is getting warmer. The managers of the Star and Lyric theatres have been arrested, but have arranged to fight the case. The agitation started when church workers got 1,000 signatures on a petition to the city commission to refuse the theatres the right to keep open. The commission took no action and prosecution was started as a result.

Big Booking Arranged

At the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation headquarters in New York last week it was announced that with one exception, the Rialto and Rivoli theatres have been booked solid with Paramount and Artcraft pictures up to April 8.

Undoubtedly one of the most pretentions booking arrangements of its kind, it is readily felt that this deal involves the greatest array of stars for successive presentation ever consummated.

This is the first time in the history of even these two famous Broadway picture palaces that such a schedule of attractions have been booked, particularly through one organization.

Beautiful New Theatre is Opened

Citizens Pack House at First Show in Rialto at Bremerton, Wash.—Oswald and Rantz, Proprietors

THE OPENING of the new Rialto theatre at Bremerton, Wash., was made quite a gala event by Seattle film men and the citizens of Bremerton.

Several days previous to the opening Eugene Oswald and Jack Rantz, the managers, sent engraved invitations to all the exchange managers in Seattle and to the managers of the leading theatres. A reception and supper following the show was announced. The following film folk accepted the invitation:

H. G. Rosebaum, representing the Artcraft-Paramount exchange, and Mrs. Rosebaum; C. F. Hill, manager of the Goldwyn office, Jas. M. Tally, Northwest manager for Vitagraph, and Mrs. Tally; John R. Meldrum, Universal manager; Mike and Al. Rosenberg, president and secretary, respectively, of the De Luxe Feature Film Company; S. P. Peck, representing the Exhibitors' Film Exchange; Frank Steffy, Kleine manager; Jack Lannon, president of Greater Features, and the correspondent for Motography.

When the Seattle delegation arrived, a few minutes after six o'clock, the street in front of the house was blocked with people waiting to get in, while the house inside was already packed. The visitors were accommodated, however.

The show was scheduled to begin at six-thirty. The music of a big pipe organ entertained the audience until opening time. Then the curtain parted and four big floral horseshoes were discovered upon the stage. The largest was the gift of the Northwest Film Board of Trade, composed of the exchange managers of Seattle.

A dedication of the house to the people of Bremerton, "who have made the theatre possible," were the first words shown upon the screen.

The program was composed of the Mary Pickford production, "Stella Maris," and the Fatty Arbuckle comedy, "Out West." The audiences were very enthusiastic, applauding at every opportunity.

At ten-thirty the invited guests assembled in the foyer and went with Mr. and Mrs. Oswald and Mr. Rantz to the Alexandria Cafe, where the reception and supper were held. Many toasts to the success of the new house were drunk.

The Rialto has been under construction for about a year, the labor shortage causing much delay. Oswald and Rantz have been operating the Dream theatre in Bremerton for several years and had been planning to erect a new house for some time.

When the navy department decided last year upon Bremerton for a Pacific base the two men promptly began planning a house that would be big enough and fine enough for the increase in population which was sure to come in the next few years.

The Rialto is the result of their planning. The theatre is a detached building with outside walls of stucco in natural color. Above the imposing marquee are three broad shallow niches. On the back wall of each of these is painted a life size peacock with gorgeous tail.

The interior walls are also in natural colored stucco, trimmed with gold borders, but the decorations throughout the house carry out the color scheme of red and green. The curtain is red velvet and the draperies at the entrance to the auditorium are also red velvet. The carpets are red, while four pairs of blind French doors are curtained in silk, two pairs in red and two in green. Wicker chairs in the boxes in the balcony are upholstered in red and green cretonne.

The ladies' rest room is a very well furnished and pleasing little room in red and green. The managers' office is unusually large and airy. The house has a seating capacity of a little under a thousand.

The lighting is a special feature. The indirect method is used throughout, with a full equipment of dimmers. A row of red and green lights stretches across the center of the auditorium, and red and green lights make rainbows in tiny fountains at either side of the stage. There are also different colored lights at the foot of the stage.

Ray H. Muntz Gets New House

Ray H. Muntz of Greenville, Pa., has taken a lease on the Gamble theatre at Altoona and is in active charge of the house. Mr. Muntz has had considerable experience. He has managed theatres for five years. He plans several changes at the Gamble, among them the employment of women attendants. Mr. Muntz retains management of the Mercer Square theatre in Greenville.

Has Canary Orchestra

Leo Landau, manager of the Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee, adds charm to his house by maintaining a supplementary orchestra of canaries.

The birds, says Mr. Laudau, are temperamental, singing only when they please and they do not like interruptions.

A porter and a maid care for the canaries. At 9:30 each evening a cover is placed over the cages and the birds retire until noon the following day.

A vacation will be given the canaries next summer, says Mr. Landau, who will send them to the country among the trees and flowers.

Draft Hits Big Orchestra

Milton Blankstein, conductor of the St. Denis Theatre, Montreal, has been compelled to engage several new musicians for his big orchestra to fill vacancies caused by the recent draft under the Canadian military service act. The St. Denis orchestra consists of nineteen players.

Mary Pickford, Artcraft star, on duty with the Red Cross.

Gets Support of Entire School System

Joseph G. Rhode of Kenosha, Wis., Inaugurates Clever Scheme in Boosting Attendance for "Son of Democracy"

W. L. HILL, Paramount publicity director in the Chicago district, is in receipt of the following letter from Joseph G. Rhode, proprietor and manager of the Rhode opera house, Kenosha, Wis.:

"You will undoubtedly be interested in knowing that the publicity campaign on "The Son of Democracy" series which the Paramount Pictures Corporation has been carrying on, especially through its appeal to the schools from an educational standpoint, has had its effect in Kenosha.

"Our superintendent of schools recently mailed me one of the descriptive circulars which she received with a notation on same to the effect 'that if I would secure these pictures we could count on the schools for support.' That suggestion made it possible for me to put through a 'publicity stunt' that appeals to me as not only effective and profitable, but economical and labor-saving as well, and as the idea may prove of value to other exhibitors who may book the series, I will give you a brief outline of the scheme. Here it is:

"We are going to give four prizes each week to the school children for the best essays of five hundred words or less on each story of 'The Son of Democracy'; one prize to the pupils of the sixth grade, one to the seventh, one to the eighth and one to the ninth grade. We divided the allotment of the prizes to the various grades because it will eliminate the competition of a sixth grade student with one from the ninth, etc.

"The teachers of the grades will pick what they consider the best essays turned in by their scholars and send same to the superintendent's office where the judges—a committee of three teachers—will pass final judgment. This method will minimize the work of decision.

"The prizes are tickets good for two months' admission to our Paramount-Artcraft pictures.

"During the ten weeks' run of the series we will extend to the judges the courtesy of free admission. This offers a slight compensation for their efforts and after seeing the pictures qualifies them to pass more efficiently on the merits of the essays.

"In addition to the weekly prizes we are also offering $20 in gold for the best essay in the whole series.

"The proposition appealed so strongly to the school authorities that they have already had the teachers of every sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grade of all schools explain the plan to their pupils and urge them to compete, and if the interest manifested to date is any criterion, we will have all the patronage that we can take care of.

"In my experience as an exhibitor, extending over quite a number of years, nothing in 'pictures' ever offered the splendid opportunity for securing the co-operation of the schools as easily as 'The Son of Democracy' series."

Loew Signs Up "Oh, Baby!"

Marcus Loew has signed a contract with the Universal Film Exchange of New York, whereby "Oh, Baby!" the newest Alice Howell Century Comedy, will be shown over the entire Loew circuit for a period of sixty-five days.

Moore Signs Long Contract

Goldwyn announces that Tom Moore has been placed under contract for a long period.

Arrange "Seven Swans" Party

A "Seven Swans" party is being arranged at Moberly, Mo., under the auspices of the Moberly Index, similar to that given recently in Kansas City, and the Paramount picture starring Marguerite Clark will be shown at the Fourth Street theatre.

J. H. Blawitz, manager of the theatre, and the Kansas City Feature Film Company, are co-operating with the Index to make the event one that will be long remembered.

The success of the party held in Kansas City, which was under the auspices of the Kansas City Star, induced the Moberly Index to give a similar entertainment, though, of course, on a much smaller scale. In Kansas City the picture was projected on four screens simultaneously in Convention Hall, and 500,000 persons were admitted during the two days the exhibition ran. The Star paid expenses, including $1,400 for the music, $1,200 for the hall and insisted on paying rental for the film.

Don Barclay, noted comedian of the Ziegfeld Follies, as he appears in forthcoming Essanay comedy.

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Goldwyn Opens New Foreign Markets

Contracts Are Signed for Distribution in Africa, South America, U. S. Insular Possessions and the Orient

FOLLOWING QUICKLY upon the entry of Goldwyn pictures into Australasia comes an announcement from Goldwyn of the distribution of Goldwyn pictures in South Africa, South America, Porto Rico and the orient.

Negotiations have been closed through Arthur Zichm of Goldwyn's export department, whereby Goldwyn pictures are to be shown in all of Africa south of the equator in association with the African Film Trust, Limited. This organization controls the South African territory, owning up-to-date theatres and representing the leading cinema producing organizations of the world in that field.

Contracts for distribution in the Argentine republic, Uruguay and Paraguay have been signed with Saenz & Gonzalez, a comparatively new but powerful organization in Argentina. This company has tremendous financial resources at its disposal and after long consideration closed with Goldwyn for its productions because of their peculiar fitness for the South American market.

In India, Burmah and Ceylon oriental audiences will see the Goldwyn productions as a result of a contract just signed for exclusive distribution in this territory by K. D. & Brothers, the largest film concern in India.

Agencia General Cinematografica of San Juan, Porto Rico, has closed negotiations for the distribution of all Goldwyn productions in Porto Rico, Venezuela and Santo Domingo.

Goldwyn's entry into two of the great European nations and in still other parts of the world is to be announced shortly.

In less than six months from the date of its first release in the theatres of North America, Goldwyn has girdled the globe and finds its productions being shown in virtually all civilized lands, with the natural exception of Germany and lands allied with the Germans.

New Jester Sales

The following state rights have been disposed of on the Jester Comedies: For Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, Foursquare Pictures, Inc., Dallas, Texas; for Louisiana and Mississippi, Foursquare Pictures, Inc., New Orleans, La.; for North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, R. M. Savini, Atlanta; for the New England states, R. D. Marson Attraction Company, Boston, Mass.; for Northern New Jersey, Photo Drama Company, New York.

Barriscale Series Planned

Executives of W. H. Productions Company announce that they are about to release a series of super-feature productions with Bessie Barriscale. It is expected that this series will be as popular as the Hart series being released now. The pictures will be disposed of on a state right basis.

"Carmen of the Klondike" a Thriller

First Offering of State Right Distributors, Inc., Replete with Action—Big Fight in Storm Is Feature

ONE OF THE BIG and tensely dramatic scenes in "Carmen of the Klondike," Miss Clara Williams' new Selexart picture, which will be the first production to be offered by the State Right Distributors, Inc., is the great fight which is shown in the latter part of the production.

The locale of the story is Alaska during the days of the great gold rush and tells of a young girl who braves the dangers of the northland to be with Cameron Stewart, the man she loves.

Through the trickery of "Silk" McDonald, who is amassing a fortune by fleecing the gold-seekers who are pouring into the country, she is enticed to his rooms where he forces his attentions upon her. During the struggle which follows, furniture is overturned and the building is set on fire by the explosion of a lighted lamp, which she hurls at his head just as Stewart breaks through the door to come to her rescue.

The fight which follows will take its place with the greatest scenes that have ever been enacted before a motion picture camera. Herschall Mayall, who plays the role of "Silk" McDonald and Ed. Coxen, who enacts Cameron Stewart, are both large athletic men, and recognized in athletic clubs for their boxing skill.

From out of the burning building they stagger into the street of the frontier town. Forgetful of all else, they struggle in the deep mud amid a downpour of rain and the teeth of an Arctic gale, and battle until blood and mud disguise their personality; make them seem what they are—no longer humans, but raging beasts. Clothes torn off, bodies and garments sodden with mud, they battle on, taking real knock-down blows, and scramble to their feet for more.

William S. Hart in "The Aryan," which is being released through open market exchanges by S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc.

Meanwhile the crowd, as crazed and bestial as the fighters, watch and urge them on; regardless of the rain and whipping gale. Dance hall girls in flimsy costume and miners in mackinaws and oil-skins alike ignore the wrath of the elements to behold the greater wrath of the fighters, until at last, when the combatants are nearing the end of the struggle, there comes the startling and unexpected end—the end of the fight—an ending that grips and holds and sends the cold ripples down the spine as few scenes in motion pictures do.

"Carmen of the Klondike" is declared to be the kind of picture that will appeal to people in every walk of life.

Lesser Buys "Raffles"

Sol. L. Lesser, president of the All Star Features Distributors, Inc., San Francisco and Los Angeles, has just concluded a contract for the purchase of "Raffles"

Crest May Scale Down Its Prices

President Carlton Starts Out to Learn Conditions, Then Purposes to Fix Rentals Accordingly

CARLE E. CARLTON, president of Crest Pictures, is on a tour of the country to learn conditions first hand so he can price his films accordingly. Such a move is said to be without precedent.

"I don't want it all," said Mr. Carlton before leaving New York. "Nor do I think that state rights distributors should expect more than a just share. We will all make more money if we let each of the other fellows make as much as we do.

"With the conflicting reports about conditions, however, it is difficult to sit in New York and decide what is fair and what is not. Distributors claim that exhibitors are beating down prices to the point where exchanges are running at a loss, and exhibitors declare that distributors are holding them up.

"Therefore there is nothing to do if a producer wants to deal equitably by all concerned, including himself, except go out into the field and make his own conclusions. As an exhibitor myself I think I shall be able to get the exhibitors' point of view and at the same time see to it that justice is done to the distributors of our first two pictures, 'Lust of the Ages' and 'The Grain of Dust.'

"Where I find that exhibitors cannot afford to pay the prices that are being asked for special attractions, I will accept bookings direct from them at prices which I believe to be equitable to all concerned and guarantee that our distributors will honor such bookings.

"On the other hand, where I find that exhibitors fail to rate such pictures properly, I will back my judgment against theirs on a basis that will quickly prove whether they are right or whether I am right.

"In a great many cases, I believe that exhibitors are not making the money they should because many of them fail to exploit these special productions in a manner that their money-making possibilities justify.

"We have recently engaged several field promotion managers — practical exhibitors who have proved that they know how to manage a theater. These men, who are located in different sections of the country, will meet me and where exhibitors are willing to be shown what can be done, these experts will be sent to their cities without charge.

"The trip is going to involve a lot of time and considerable expense which will be paid for out of my own pocket and not charged to Crest Pictures for exhibitors to defray, but I think when it is completed I will have a fund of information which will be of inestimable help to all concerned."

Mr. Carlton's first stops are Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City. From Kansas City he will continue to the coast.

Norma Talmadge in "The Children in the House," which is being released through open market exchanges by S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc.

Fit Up Room for Visitors

A step forward in salesmanship of state right features has been made by Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., whose handling of "The Warrior" and "Mother" has created much comment.

A special room adjoining their offices has been fitted up especially for the convenience of out of town buyers. A stenographer is present to take care of correspondence. Complete information relative to hotels, theaters and the location of the various film offices is available.

Latest News of Chicago

SELECT has added two new salesmen to its force—J. R. Thompson and Lee Woodyat. Mr. Thompson will travel Wisconsin and Mr. Woodyat Southeastern Illinois. Both will have their headquarters in Chicago. Mr. Thompson formerly was manager of the Milwaukee offices of Mutual and Universal and comes highly recommended. Mr. Woodyat also is highly recommended. He comes from Moline, where he was proprietor of the Bio Theatre. He has a great many friends among the exhibitors in Illinois, which assures him a cordial reception at each visit.

* * *

One of the most popular exchanges in the middle west as well as one of the most productive is that of Foursquare Pictures. In a few months Frank J. Flaherty, the manager, has brought his branch to a high point in efficiency.

"Good pictures and good service form the keynote of any success we may have had," said Mr. Flaherty modestly. "We try to get good product and after that to sell at a reasonable figure and let the exhibitor have every assistance to 'put it over.'"

* * *

A. S. Kirkpatrick, representing the sales department of the Mutual Film Corporation, has just returned from a ten days' trip covering branch offices. He reports that the recent embargo was beneficial rather than detrimental to the business.

Mr. Kirkpatrick talked with many exhibitors.

"The consensus of opinion among exhibitors is that no producing concern should issue more than one feature a week," he said. "They are asking for quality rather than quantity.

"Generally speaking, I think the outlook is highly favorable to an era of prosperity if those principles are subscribed to which John R. Freuler, president of Mutual, has so frequently emphasized—recognition of and adherence to sane business rules."

* * *

A statement has been issued on behalf of Giles P. Cory, arrested for infraction of the "blue sky" law by selling stock in the photoplay, "Birth of a Race." The statement denies that Cory's firm is guilty of violating the law, predicating that assumption on the ground that "any security listed in a standard manual" is exempt from the operation of the act; that the "Birth of a Race" stock is listed in several standard manuals, and therefore there has been no illegality committed in its sale without a license.

Meanwhile prominent persons whose names had been used in the advertising literature offering the stock of "The Birth of a Race," under the heading, "Prominent Men Who Are Either Officers or Interested in" the venture, are busily engaged in denying they ever had any financial interest in the concern or had advised the purchase of its stock. This list included the names of former President William H. Taft, Gov. Frank O. Lowden and former Judge Edward O. Brown.

* * *

Thomas H. Adams of Vincennes, Ind., owner of a string of theatres and publisher of the Vincennes Daily Commercial and other periodicals, came to Chicago the other day on a booking expedition. Walking down Madison street, his attention was attracted by a striking display at the Pastime theatre, playing "Over There," with Charles Richman and Anna Q. Nilsson. He entered, saw the show and was so impressed that he went to the Select exchange at once and signed up to put the picture in every one of his houses. Arrangements were made so that he will obtain the film through the St. Louis branch.

* * *

Ralph Bradford of Minneapolis has taken charge of the Triangle offices in the Mallers building.

Mr. Bradford is one of the best known exchange managers in this section and was manager of the Chicago exchange of the Mutual for two years until he went to Minneapolis and opened up the Triangle exchange there.

After successfully conducting the Triangle offices in Minneapolis for eighteen months Mr. Bradford was selected to open the Goldwyn exchange in Minneapolis and only resigned last week to accept the Triangle offer in Chicago.

While the exhibitors in Chicago territory will welcome him back, the Northwest exhibitors have suffered a distinct loss and very much regret to see him leave.

Ralph Bradford, who has just been appointed manager of Triangle's Chicago exchange.

* * *

From manager down they're stepping on air at the Vitagraph exchange as a result of a letter from the management of the Kozy theatre, Eureka, Ill., to Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization.

"I certainly want to thank your Chicago exchange for prompt work in getting our service here," the letter said. "You have made an effort to get it out a little earlier than usual and as a result it was the only service in the last few weeks which arrived on time. We were disappointed three times by not receiving film. Yours have arrived at least twelve hours ahead of time and once twenty-four hours ahead."

* * *

Two new players will appear at the Selig studios soon. They are Emma Hanrahan and Clarence Hanson of Milwaukee. They were chosen for try-outs by Hazel Daley in a fan contest at Milwaukee. Miss Hanrahan is a telephone operator. She is slender, with upturned nose, blue eyes and a crown of red-brown curls. Hanson is a hotel clerk. He is six feet tall, slender and lithe, with clear blue eyes and a smooth golden pompadour. Miss Daley says their looks are greatly in their favor.

* * *

Joseph Hopp, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, was struck by a street car and laid up for nearly a week. His injuries, while painful, are not regarded as serious.

* * *

The Kleine exchange reports that Ascher Bros. have booked "I, Mary MacLane," in "Men Who Have Made Love to Me" for all of their houses.

* * *

Ben Beadell, assistant manager of the Select exchange, has returned from a trip to Moline, Ill.

"Split Reel" Notes For Theater Men

SNAPPY ITEMS OF INTEREST TO OWNERS AND MANAGERS

Members of the executive and sales forces of the Notable Feature Film Company held a two-day conference in Salt Lake City last week. Notable handles distribution for Paramount and Artcraft in ten intermountain states.

The conference was called by Louis Marcus, district manager, with headquarters in Salt Lake. Those attending, in addition to Mr. Marcus, who presided, were T. Y. Henry, branch manager, Denver; M. S. Wilson, branch manager, Butte; M. H. Cohn, branch manager, Salt Lake; H. I. Krause, short subjects manager, Denver; E. V. Saderup and F. B. McCracken, salesmen, Salt Lake; Gordon H. Place, publicity manager, and Miss Dora B. Keyser, secretary to the district manager, Salt Lake.

Problems of service and sales campaigns were discussed in detail, and steps were taken to bring a closer relationship between the exchanges and the exhibitors.

"The condition of the trade is satisfactory," District Manager Marcus said, "as a result of the people turning in steadily increasing numbers to the better class of theatres for diversion from the thoughts of war and all that the war means to them."

* * *

The motion picture industry is now actively co-operating with the United States Commission on Training Comp Activities of the war and Navy departments in supplying the cantonments with films, having been given complete handling of the service.

A special committee will direct the work, which includes the following: P. A. Powers, Universal Film Manufacturing Company, chairman; Adolph Zukor, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; Ricord Gradwell, World Film Corporation; J. A. Berst, Pathé Exchange, Inc.; William Fox, Fox Film Corporation; Richard Rowland, Metro Pictures Corporation; S. A. Lynch, Triangle Pictures Corporation; J. R. Freuler, Mutual Film Corporation; Samuel Goldfish, Goldwyn Pictures Corporation; George Kleine, General Film Corporation; D. W. Griffith; Albert E. Smith, Vitagraph Company; C. G. Cocks, advisory secretary, National Board of Review, and W. D. McGuire, executive secretary, National Board of Review.

* * *

H. W. Adams, mayor of Beloit, Wis., and Rev. James Boyd Coxe, Rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, St. Louis, have just been elected members of the national advisory committee of the National board of Review.

Mayor Adams has shown a very intelligent interest in regulation. Soon after entering office he invited the proprietors of the motion picture houses to meet him for a conference. At this conference he told them of the city's desire to co-operate in placing their business upon a basis that would deserve public confidence and respect, and added that it was the city's intention that only acceptable pictures should be shown. The mayor requested the exhibitors to inform him of any picture about which they had any doubt.

"We found," said Mayor Adams in describing this plan, "that they were all willing to co-operate, and this voluntary censorship was established. I believe that the producers, knowing that we have this plan and practice here, are very careful as to what pictures they send in."

Rev. Coxe is one of the leading clergymen in St. Louis and has shown great interest in pictures.

* * *

Ben Bloom, Winnipeg branch manager of the Famous Players' Film Service, Limited, was recently a visitor in Eastern Canadian cities. Max Finkelstein of Winnipeg, an attorney who has become widely known because of his handling of legislative and legal cases involving the interests of Winnipeg exhibitors, has been in Ottawa and Toronto on business.

I. Soskin, general sales manager of the Famous Players Film Service in Canada, and his secretary are spending a couple of months in Montreal. This is in line with the firm's plan of studying conditions as they exist with the exhibitor.

* * *

E. H. Hulsey, the Texas theatrical magnate, has returned to Houston from New York, where he was elected vice-president of the Metro Pictures Corporation. Mr. Hulsey has been a director of the Metro organization for some time.

This is the second time recently that Mr. Hulsey has been honored with executive power in the producing end of the industry. The other was when he was chosen one of the seven directors of the First National Exhibitors' circuit.

A patriotic ceremony took place in the lobby of the Strand Theatre, New York, the other day, when the management unveiled a tablet of bronze in honor of its employes in the army and navy. The ceremony was opened with patriotic music by the Strand symphony orchestra, after which Dr. J. Victor Wilson of the Strand staff made a short address and introduced Samuel Spedon, the main speaker, who unveiled the tablet while the orchestra played the Star-Spangled Banner.

A bit of Fairyland in the new Mutual-Strand comedy, "Waltzing Around," with Billie Rhodes.

Capt. Waring, an army chaplain, was the next speaker. Dr. Blum, rabbi in the police department, closed the ceremony with a prayer.

The following names appear on the tablet: Bruce Weyman, Harry Johnson, Francis Sutherland, William Lebish, Arthur Depew, Jr., William Dobbs, Jack Faeder, Roy Whitelaw, Walter Blumenthal, James McManus, William McFetridge, Arthur Burnett, Jack Fosket, Bernard Skahill, James Murray, Percy Eleman, James Clark, Robert Bustanoby, Vincent Cruise and Robert Fosket.

* * *

M. H. Hoffman of Foursquare Pictures has departed from New York on a trip which will take him to nearly every one of the twenty-one Foursquare exchanges before he returns. It is Mr. Hoffman's fourth visit to the branches within the last four months.

"There is nothing like being on the ground and putting a shoulder to the wheel," he said before he left. "I have always believed in this policy; now that I have tried it continuously for several months I have learned that it should be continued as frequently as my time will allow."

* * *

C. G. Kingsley has just been appointed manager of its Cleveland exchange by the General Film Company. Mr. Kingsley is rated as one of the most successful exchange men in the country. He served under the Fox banner in Boston, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Detroit and is thoroughly familiar with the Cleveland district. He was also connected with Paramount for a time. Previous to entering the film business, Mr. Kingsley was advance man for a number of important theatrical productions, obtaining experience which made him an all-around showman.

* * *

Charles Sarver, noted novelist, has been signed by World-Pictures as chief of the scenario department. Mr. Sarver will conduct the department on entirely new lines and will supervise the work of a large staff of writers. He comes to World-Pictures with a long record of achievement in the field of fiction and play writing. He is the author of many of the biggest screen successes played by the most famous stars.

* * *

S. L. Rothapfel, the prominent New York manager, was the honor guest at a ball in Carbondale, Pa., the other night that was given for the benefit of the Red Cross. Mr. Rothapfel formerly conducted a theatre in Carbondale. Mr. Rothapfel's appearance was spectacular, for he brought with him nearly a dozen stars. Later he surprised the committee in charge by giving them his check for $500.

* * *

The offices of Paralta Plays, Inc., are being moved from the Godfrey building, 729 Seventh avenue, New York, to a new building at 8 West Forty-eighth street, which is near the corner of Fifth avenue. Paralta has taken the entire top floor of the new building and a private projection room and film vaults are being erected on the roof.

* * *

M. E. Corcoran of the General Film Company (Canada) Ltd., reports that General has closed its offices in Winnipeg, Vancouver and St. John, N. B.

Charles P. Watson, director of distribution for government pictures, participated the other day in a conference between the Washington State Council of Defense and Gov. Lister, when arrangements were made for the exhibition of war films.

* * *

Tom Kress, who for the past fourteen months has been representing the Mutual Film Corporation in Minnesota and North and South Dakota, has gone to Pathe as Minneapolis and St. Paul sales representative. Before becoming associated with Mutual Mr. Kress was salesman for the World Film Corporation at Kansas City and Chicago.

* * *

"Tommy" Regan, formerly assistant director with Pathé, Mittenthal, Pokes & Jabs and the World Film Company, has been engaged by the Jester Comedy Company in the same capacity.

* * *

Richard Schlessinger, an exhibitor of Lachine, Quebec, has started a weekly magazine called "The Ladies' Ready to Wear Bulletin."

Virginia Pearson in the new William Fox play, "A Daughter of France."

Synopses of the Latest Film Releases

FOR EXHIBITORS WHO WOULD KNOW THE STORY OF THE PICTURE

Feature Programs

Bluebird

The Rough Lover—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 25—Starring Franklyn Farnum in a dual role, one, a timid lover, the other a prize fighter of much daring. Juanita Hansen plays opposite. Reviewed in this issue.

Christie Comedies

Whose Wife?—(ONE REEL)—FEBRUARY 18—With Betty Compson and Billy Mason. A few days after they had been married Billy and Betty are invited to dinner by Harry, a two months newlywed himself. Dorothy, Harry's wife, happens to be an old sweetheart of Billy. To relieve the embarrassing situation Harry calls the attention to the new piano, saying that it was his uncle's wedding present. When asked what his uncle had given him, Billy said that if his uncle should happen to know that he was married he would be discharged, uncle being a woman hater. Then, one day, uncle blew in and Billy taken by surprise had to take him home. Betty at first objected to act as a maid but so much was at stake that she finally consented. When uncle saw Betty and got acquainted with her splendid cooking he started a little flirtation much to Billy's dissatisfaction. As a last resource he told uncle that Betty was married. "All right," says uncle, "Go and get her husband, I am going to get a divorce for her and marry her myself. Billy in despair thought of friend Harry. He dragged him to his home and forced him to play the part of Betty's husband, and Harry was inaccessible to Uncle's offers. Dorothy who had not been told of the plot starts after hubby and finds him hugging Betty, and the mixup started. The more Billy tried to square himself the deeper he got entangled. Uncle was at a loss to know "Whose Wife" Betty was when finally Dorothy told him the truth. Of course, uncle pretended that he had been wise to Billy's game from the start. He proved that he was not an incorrigible woman hater, and congratulated Billy on his choice.

Fox

The Heart of Romance—(FIVE REELS)—Starring June Caprice. Picture reviewed in this issue.

Jewel

The Doctor and the Woman—(FIVE REELS)—A film version of Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel, "K." Lois Weber directed. Mildred Harris is featured. Reviewed in this issue.

Kleine

Cleopatra—(EIGHT REELS)—CINES—An Italian made production of the historical romance. Reviewed in this issue.

Metro

Revelation—(SEVEN REELS)—FEBRUARY 17—Starring Alla Nazimova in a screen version of the story, "The Rose Bush of a Thousand Years." Reviewed in this issue.

Mutual Star Production

Powers That Prey—(FIVE REELS)—MARCH 4—Starring Mary Miles Minter in a comedy-drama written about the newspaper profession. Reviewed in this issue.

Paramount

One More American—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 25—Starring George Beban. Reviewed in this issue.

Eve's Daughter—(FIVE REELS)—MARCH 4—Starring Billie Burke. Irene is Eve's Daughter—a young and high spirited girl who longs for life and love. She revolts against the narrowness and hypocrisy of her father, a man who was wild in his youth, but has grown intensely Puritanical in his old age. The clash of wills between father and daughter is followed by the former's death and with the small fortune left her Irene goes to London to find some of the joy in life she has been denied at home. She plunges into a whirl of social gaiety and scatters her inheritance right and left. When her money is gone she is urged by a young nobleman to come away with him to Paris, and rather than return to the poverty-stricken and joyless life she has known, she consents. Her decision to go is learned by the man who has long loved Irene hopelessly and he sets out to save her. Realization of what she is doing comes to Irene, however, and declaring her mad moment over, she refuses to go on with the elopement. The arrival of her young lover and his affection for her ends with her decision to return to England and become his wife.

Huck and Tom—(FIVE REELS)—MARCH 4—Starring Jack Pickford. Buster Collier is Huck. The present story has to do with the visit of the boys to the graveyard at midnight to rid Tom of his warts by the aid of a dead cat. There they are witnesses to the murder by Injun Joe of Dr. Robinson and Injun Joe's planting of the crime on the innocent Muff Potter. The trial of Muff follows, with Tom's story on the stand clearing him and the escape of Injun Joe. Tom and Huck then set out in their search for "buried Treasures" and find same at last in the "Painted Cave" where Tom and Becky get lost. Injun Joe is the man who had hidden it there and the boys fall heir to it with the death of the murderer. Armed with all this wealth they set out to make their plans to become robber chiefs when they grow up.

Pathe

The Naulahka—(SIX REELS)—A film version of the Kipling novel of India. Antonio Moreno and Doraldina are featured. Reviewed in this issue.

Triangle

Little Red Decides—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 24—Features little Barbara Connelly in an unusual story. Reviewed in this issue.

Heiress For a Day—(FIVE REELS)—MARCH 3.—Starring Olive Thomas. The story of a manicurist who believes she has inherited a fortune, later is told the fortune has disappeared, but finally wins both the money and a husband. Story and review in this issue.

The Shoes That Danced—(FIVE REELS)—MARCH 3—Starring Pauline Starke. A story of New York's underworld. Reviewed in this issue.

Myrtle Lind, formerly of the Triangle-Keystone Beauty Brigade, who has entered Triangle drama.

Vitagraph

Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers—(FIVE REELS)—BLUE RIBBON—FEBRUARY 25—Features Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman in a western romance. Story and review elsewhere in this issue.

Universal Program

Wild Women—(FIVE REELS)—FEBRUARY 25—Starring Harry Carey. The heart of Cheyenne Harry was soft and the cook needed $200, but $200 was hard to raise until the invitation to the Rodeo came. They all went off to the Rodeo and won so many prizes that they had to celebrate before relieving the cook's distress. The first thing they knew they were all on the Alden Bessie, a short-handed five-mastered schooner. The traitor cowboy was shanghaied along with them. The vessel is wrecked and the party is cast up on Dicki Hula Island, where the horribly homely queen, Hula Yoki, rules. She is bound to marry a white man and sets her cap for Harry. Cheyenne, however, has seen the Princess Wykickie, a real beauty, and they two fall in love. A revolution takes place and, by quelling it, Harry obtains from the grateful queen the throne and the right to choose his partner. Just as the Hawaiian dream is floating into this delectable wedding, the boys wake up to the sad realities. They are being swept out of the cafe by the mop boy.

Watch Your Watch—(ONE REEL)—NESTOR COMEDY—FEBRUARY 25. Mr. Dick was the victim of an unbounded admiration for the wife of his general manager, Douglas Wiggins. He bought a very expensive watch for Mrs. Wiggins. Mrs. Wiggins was afraid to accept it, and they compromised on this happy solution. She took the watch to a pawn broker and told her husband that she had found the ticket, and wouldn't he please redeem it for her. But when Douglas saw what a fine watch it was he gave it to his stenographer, and sent William out to buy a dollar watch to give to his wife.

Ambrose the Lion Hearted—(TWO REELS)—L-KO—FEBRUARY 27—With Mack Swain. Luther Lottercoin was the cattle king of Cobweb County, the county seat of which was Slumber Valley, and to this village came one Haroil Hal, with his bandit band, intent upon getting a little of Lottercoin's blood. Haroil had a perfectly legal wife, but the only way he saw to annex the cattle man's fortune was to marry the daughter. And this he set out to do attired in an ancient title. His calling cards read, Count Lucas De Jazbo, but Lily Lottercoin, the heiress, had set her heart upon Ambrose, and Ambrose had just passed the kindergarten stage in courtship. He was entering upon the post-office-in-the-old-apple-tree grade. Love-making wasn't Ambrose's bread-winner, for in private life he kept a shoe store for horses, and when he really wanted to get a horse shoe in quickly he pulled it off with his teeth. That is how good Ambrose was. For this and other manifestations of unusual strength Ambrose was created sheriff of the county, and well it was for Lottercoin that Ambrose was the sheriff, for in this capacity he was able to foil Haroil's marriage to Lily, and this fact made Lottercoin more willing to give his daughter to him.

Mutual Pictures

Waltzing Around—(ONE REEL)—MARCH 5—STRAND—Featuring Billie Rhodes. Billie undertakes to teach the clodhopper husband of a girl friend how to dance and the lessons are given on the quiet that friend wife may be surprised on the night of the Athletic Club ball. The first lesson takes place in husband's office with a victrola borrowed for the occasions. The Mrs. arrives unexpectedly but Billie hides on the fire escape and husband explains the presence of the music machine. That evening the wife is called to her mother's home—mother-in-law being in on the conspiracy. Billie's sweetheart sees Billie sneaking into the house and wife's suspicions are aroused. They are confirmed when she rings up home on the telephone and hears the victrola at work. Billie's sweetheart climbs in a window and ducks into a closet just as Billie, ducking wife's unexpected return, runs into the bedroom. To escape the wife, Billie too takes to the closet and runs face to face against her sweetheart. Explanations avert marital catastrophe and Friend Wife forgives when she finds that her husband can dance.

Complete Record of Current Films

ASSEMBLED FOR USE OF THEATER MANAGERS—CORRECTED EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D The Tracking of Stingaree..... 2,000
D Arrayed with the Enemy..... 2,000
D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D The Poisoned Cup..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000
D Through Fire and Water..... 2,000
D A Bushranger's Stategy..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Broadway Star Features

D School and Schools (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series) 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2,000
C A Woman 2,000
C The Tramp 2,000

Essanay Comedies

C Check Your Hat, Sir..... 1,000
C Wild Algy of Picadilly..... 1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C Out and In (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1,000
C Marooned 1,000
C Sherman Was Right.....

Judge Brown Stories

C-D Thief or Angel..... 2,000
C-D The Accusing Toe 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000
C A Hash House Romance..... 1,000
C The Hod Carrier's Million..... 1,000

Mutual Program

Tuesday

C 3-5 Waltzing Around (Billie Rhodes) 1,000

Wednesday

T 3-6 Screen Telegram .....Mutual 1,000

Universal Program

12-15 Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)... 5,000
12-24 Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey) 5,000
12-31 The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson) 5,000
1-7 The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely) 5,000
1-14 Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard).. 5,000
1-21 Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)... 5,000
1-28 The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey) 5,000
2-4 Painted Lips (Louise Lovely).. 5,000
2-11 New Love for Old (Ella Hall) 5,000
2-16 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58 1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Are Passions Inherited?.Warner Bros. 7,000
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,000
A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray)..... ..... Friedman 5,000
Balloonatics .....Century Comedies
Below Zero .....Wharton 2,000
Birth Control.Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 6,000
Bit o' Heaven..... 5,000
Beware of Strangers.....Selig Special 7,000
Birth .....Eugenics Film 6,000
Christie Comedies..... .....Christie Film Co.
Christus.....Historic Features
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,000
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Cross-Eyed Submarine..... .....Universal Film Mfg.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Eagle's Wing .....Bluebird 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Eyes of the World....Clune Film Co. 10,000
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,000
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine.Bluebird Photoplays 5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,000
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co.....
Span of Life.....Joseph F. Lee 5,000
Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp 12,000
Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp. 5,000
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,000
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,000
Trip Through China, A..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,000
Trooper 44..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,000
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow 7,000
The Barrier.....Rex Beach 9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter 2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
The Woman and the Beast...Graphic 5,000
The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall 9,000
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000
The Crisis .....Sherman Elliot 10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
West Is West.....Ultra Films
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 The Moral Law (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
2-17 Are Married Policemen Safe?. .....Fox-Lehrman 2,000
2-24 American Buds (Jane and Catherine Lee) 7,000
2-24 Six-Shooter Andy (Tom Mix). 5,000
3-3 The Girl with the Champagne Eyes (Jewel Carmen)..... 5,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

2-27 The Beloved Traitor (Mae Marsh) 6,000
3-10 The Room Below (Mabel Normand) 6,000
3-24 Powder Nose Annie (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
4-7 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Bar Sinister (Hedda Nova..... 8,000
The Fringe of Society (Ruth Roland) 7,000
One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

Jester Comedies

Feb. The Recruit (Twede Dan)..... 1,000
Mar. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) 1,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West).. 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-11 Broadway Bill (Harold Lockwood) 5,000
2-11 The Bright Lights Dimmed (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-18 A Weaver of Dreams (Viola Dana) 5,000
2-18 After Henry (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

2-11 Jilted Janet (Margaret Fischer) 5,000
2-18 My Wife (Ann Murdock)..... 5,000
2-25 The Midnight Trail (Wm. Russell) 5,000
3-4 Powers That Prey (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

12-15 A Man's Man (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
1-1 Madam Who? (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
1-15 His Robe of Honor (Henry B. Walthall) 7,000
2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

2-4 "Flare-up Sal" (Dorothy Dalton) 5,000
2-4 Madam Jealousy (Pauline Frederick) 5,000
2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15 2,000
2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Beban) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

2-10 Rocamadour and the Valley of Lot France (Educ.)...Pathe 500
2-10 The Horse in Action (Educ.) .....Pathe 500
2-10 Cartoon and Educational—International 1,000
2-13 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 14.... 1,000
2-16 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 15.... 1,000
2-17 The Inner Voice (I. I. Mozukin) .....Russian Art 5,000
2-17 The Hidden Hand, No. 13... .....Pathe 2,000
2-17 The Price of Folly, No. 5.Balboa 2,000
2-17 Hit Him Again (Harry Pollard) .....Rolin 1,000
2-17 Along the Reviera — Italy (Travel) 500
2-17 Watching the Flowers Bloom (Educ.) 500
2-17 Cartoon & Educational..... .....International 1,000
2-20 Hearst Pathe News, No. 16... 1,000
2-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 17... 1,000
2-24 The Naulahka (Antonio Moreno) 6,000
2-24 The Hidden Hand, No. 14... .....Pathe 2,000
2-24 The Price of Folly, No. 6..... .....Balboa 2,000
2-24 Argus Pictorial, No. 8...Argus 1,000
2-24 A One Night Stand..... .....Rolin Comedy 2,000
2-24 Beat It (Harold Lloyd)..Rolin 1,000
2-24 Around Central Auvergne (France) 500
2-24 Clermont-Ferrand (France).... 500
2-24 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon). 500
2-24 Appleblossom Land (Educ.)... 500
2-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 18... 1,000
3-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 19... 1,000
3-3 Daddy's Girl (Comedy, Drew) .....Diando 5,000
3-3 The House of Hate, No. 1 "The Hooded Terror" (Drama) .....Astra 3,000
3-3 The Hidden Hand, No. 15 "The Girl of the Prophecy" (Drama) .....Pathe 2,000
3-3 The Price of Folly, No. 7 "The Rebound" (Drama)...Balboa 2,000
3-3 The Gasoline Wedding (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-3 Our National Parks—Yellowstone Park—The Geysers (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-3 Buxton (Derbyshire, England) Col. (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-6 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-9 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000

Select Pictures Corporation

OCTOBER

Magda (Clara Kimball Young)..... 5,000
The Moth (Norma Talmadge)..... 6,000
Scandal (Constance Talmadge)..... 5,000

NOVEMBER

Her Silent Sacrifice (Alice Brady).. 5,000
Secret of the Storm Country (Norma Talmadge) 6,000

DECEMBER

Shirley Kaye (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Honeymoon (Constance Talmadge) 5,000

JANUARY

The Marionettes (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Ghosts of Yesterday (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Studio Girl (Constance Talmadge) 5,000
Woman and Wife (Alice Brady)... 5,000

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady)..... 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)..... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 A Full Dress Fizzle..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 His Double Life..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
2-24 Little Red Decides (Triangle Players) 5,000
2-24 A Coward's Courage..... 1,000
2-24 The Answer (Alma Rubens)... 7,000
2-24 His Nimble Twist..... 1,000
2-24 A Tell Tale Shirt..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-3 Heiress for a Day (Olive Thomas) .....Triangle 5,000
3-3 A Discord in a Flat..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) .....Triangle 5,000
3-3 His Hidden Shame..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 A Lady Killer's Dream..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

2-18 The Wooing of Princess Pat (Gladys Leslie) 5,000
2-18 Courts and Convicts..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
2-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 9 2,000
2-18 The Mischief Maker (Edith Storey) 2,000
2-18 Sonny Jim in Search of a Mother (Bobby Connelly)... 1,000
2-25 Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers (Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman) 5,000
2-25 Rooms and Rumors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
2-25 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 10 2,000
2-25 Old Reliable (Norma Talmadge) 2,000
2-25 Stenographer Troubles (Clara Kimball Young) 1,000
.....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-4 The Song of the Soul (Alice Joyce) 5,000
3-4 Telephone Troubles ....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-4 Vengeance and the Woman, No. 11 2,000
3-4 An Officer and a Gentleman (Clara Kimball Young).Com. 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-11 Whims of Society (Ethel Clayton) 5,000
2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall..... .....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

Calls "RUGGLES OF RED GAP" A Scream!

The Exhibitor's Trade Review says: "The story and dramatization of 'Ruggles of Red Gap' were a scream. The acting of Taylor Holmes and Frederick Burton alone is worth going to see, but there are other things which make the picture unusual. The scenes in the Grand Canyon are wonderful and the photography very superior."

Essanay

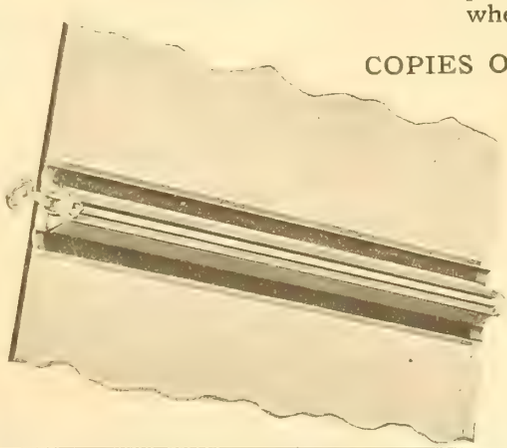
Distributed by George Kleine System throughout the United States

Perfection Pictures

EXHIBITORS

OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference

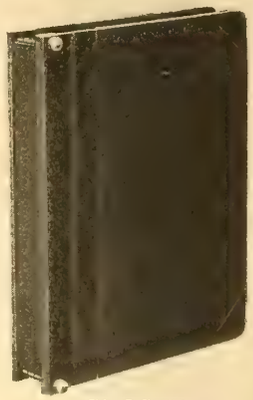


By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.

Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT - DURABLE - ATTRACTIVE - INEXPENSIVE



When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

CLOSED

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

MARY PICKFORD
Star in Artcraft Pictures

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 16, 1918 No. 11

ALBERT E. SMITH Presents

MR. and MRS. SIDNEY DREW

IN THE VITAGRAPH COMEDIES THAT MADE THEM FAMOUS

ONE REEL A WEEK

THIS latest unit of Vitagraph service will be enthusiastically welcomed by exhibitors all over the country who should reap a harvest of dollars with these clean, original comedies, free from all vulgarity and suggestiveness. They are the very pick of the inimitable laugh-makers that placed the Drews on the ladder of fame.

Each subject has been carefully re-edited and will strengthen the program of any high-class theatre.

They're sure-fire hits!

VITAGRAPH

TRIANGLE

To think

—while you still have the God-given privilege—

Brains, backbone and money must be hitched to the pen that dictates the policy of successful motion picture concerns these "hot" times.

This is an age of split-second watches.

When munitions and gigantic guns grow out of date before they even get to the firing line,—

When war is costing almost a million a minute and "NO MAN'S LAND" is making all other battle grounds look like "pikers,"—

When General Sherman's everlasting epigram is coming home with new force at every tick of the clock,—

When wheatless days, lightless nights and common sense are asking every patriotic American to KILL WASTE—to STOP THE LEAKAGE,— —why don't you hitch your check writing arm to your brain?

Quit flirting with the Sheriff and his FOR SALE sign if you expect that theatre of yours to feed and clothe your wife and baby during the rest of the year 1918.

Triangle dollars are spent so efficiently that they get right through to your screen 99% strong.

We've cut the corners, but we've saved the meat for you. There isn't a ten thousand dollar a week star on our pay-roll. Our department heads and managers are business men.

Triangle days may not be the largest box office days in your town but at the end of the month your Triangle contract will help you pay back some of the money you gambled away with other pictures.

There's a Triangle Exchange just at the other end of your telephone —and we pay the war tax.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH, President — R. W. LYNCH, Vice-President — FRED KENT, Treasurer — Y. F. FREEMAN, General Manager

William Desmond and Mary Warren in the new Triangle play, "The Sea Panther."

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 16, 1918 No. 11

Big German Film Plot Discovered

TWO ENEMY AGENTS ARE SEIZED AFTER INVESTIGATION BARES FACTS

SEIZURE of 15,000 feet of film from the steamer Kristianiafjord at New York and the arrest of two German army officers there last week has revealed an extensive enemy plot to flood the country with pictures designed to remove part, if not all, of the bitterness of the public over Teuton outrages.

United States Attorney Melville J. France of Brooklyn declares the plot dates back to the time when Ambassador Von Bernstorff and Dr. Dumba were accredited representatives at Washington. The German and Austrian ambassadors, according to Mr. France, conspired to counteract the bitter feeling aroused by German treatment of Belgium and left it to their alleged agents to further the dissemination of films following the declaration of war.

Alleged Agents in Jail

The alleged agents, Felix Malitz and Gustave Engler, who are now locked up in the Raymond Street Jail in New York under $20,000 bond, operated, it is charged, through what was known as the American Correspondence Film Company, with offices in Rector street, Malitz posing as president, and Engler as secretary. Malitz, it has been definitely determined, holds rank in a regiment commanded by Prince Heinrich of Prussia, and Engler formerly was attached to the heavy artillery of the Thirteenth German Army Corps.

With former Ambassador Von Bernstorff brought into the case, more than a score of Government agents were turned loose on the investigation, which is being carried on in all parts of the United States. It was just before Ambassador Dumba sailed for Austria, after his recall, that the first propaganda films are alleged to have been received from Germany and distributed. All of the films, whether made in the United States or Germany, had to be submitted to Berlin before being shown, it is said. One film, it is reported, was called "The Boy from Indiana."

Planned to Dupe Americans

It is understood that the American Correspondence Film Company planned to send a large number of "open-minded Americans" to Belgium, where pictures showing them shaking hands and greeting "laughing children" and inspecting "loaded farm wagons piled high with food" would be taken.

Anything thought to display "Belgian content with German rule" was to be filmed with "open-minded Americans" looking on in satisfaction. Smuggled back to the United States, it was with these films German agents hoped to counteract the true stories of German atrocities in devastated Belgium.

True Pictures Sidetracked

"It's a safe bet any picture showing the true conditions and hardships imposed upon the enslaved Belgians had little or no chance of finding its way back to America," declared Assistant United States Attorney Beer.

Other reports reaching the United States authorities tend to show that after this propaganda had been well established pictures taken in America might have been sent to neutral countries in Europe and then smuggled into Germany.

Captions to be Code Messages

These films, according to rumor, would all be submitted to the United States censors, but it is understood that after they had been passed the captions would be altered to such an extent that it would be possible to send code messages back to Germany with important military information which could not be sent out of the country in any other way.

Both Malitz and Engler are highly intelligent. The former first came to the United States in 1913 and became general manager of a French motion picture company, but was forced to quit owing to his nationality when war was declared. His first move after leaving the French company, which was in 1914, it is declared, was to report to the German consul's office in New York for war duty.

Malitz Long Under Suspicion

It was after his report to the German consul that he formed the American Correspondence Film Company, but little was heard of him until May, 1916, when Adolph De Leuw, one of his employes, was arrested by Police Lieutenant George Busby after, it was alleged, he had tried to sell Captain Guy Gaunt of the British Embassy an alleged code letter addressed to the German foreign office.

Malitz then appeared against De Leuw, charging him with larceny, and De Leuw was convicted and sent to the penitentiary. It was then the government agents began to watch Malitz and they allowed him to continue his operations until enough evidence to assure his conviction had been obtained.

According to the information in the possession of the United States the smuggled films were taken to the office of the American Correspondence Film Company, then in Forty-second street, and private showings were given.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff, as head of all German activities in the United States, was the principal spectator. Next in importance came Ambassador Dumba, Captain Franz von Papen, Hugo Schweitzer, Dr. Albert and Malitz.

A general jollification, said to have almost equaled the celebration participated in by Ambassador Von Bernstorff after the sinking of the Lusitania, followed, and it was the general belief of all present that thousands and thousands of American citizens would be converted by the propaganda plans.

Plan Well Organized

Nothing has been left undone to make the campaign successful, according to information now in the possession of the United States attorney. Every state in the Union has been divided into fifteen parts, and American citizens, far above suspicion, whose sympathies were known to the promoters to be on the German side, were selected to distribute the films throughout the country.

The American Correspondence Film Company, it is said, was known as the German Information Bureau of America. It was through Malitz, according to Assistant United States Attorney Beer, that Captain Albert Knox Dawson, recently commissioned in the United States Signal Corps, was sent to Belgium with letters of introduction to the German foreign office for the purpose of obtaining the films.

American Officer Held

Captain Dawson, detained at Governor's Island, charged with larceny from the United States, it was explained by Mr. Beer, is awaiting trial by courtmartial. He was known to the German agents, it is alleged as "The Boy from Indiana," who appears in many of the propaganda films smuggled into the United States.

How many reels of films were smuggled into the United States neither Mr. France nor Mr. Beer would disclose. They, however, pointed with pride to more than 15,000 feet of similar films taken from the steamer Kristianiafjord.

Parcel Post Admits More Film

Through a ruling of Postmaster General Burleson, which is effective March 15, the motion picture industry will be greatly benefited. The ruling increases the allowable weights of parcel post packages, thus permitting the shipments of films which heretofore have been forced into express transportation.

The new order will permit film shipments in the first or second zones for delivery in the first, second or third zones to be as heavy as seventy pounds, where they are now restricted to fifty pounds. The weight limit for all other zones will be increased from twenty to fifty pounds.

Film exchanges are utilizing the parcel post for shipments in the first and second zones in the eastern territory, while in the west they extend into the third and fourth zones, so that the industry will be very materially benefited, as both exchanges and exhibitors will save hundreds of dollars in transportation charges.

The transportation committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry at a meeting a year ago went on record in favor of increasing the parcel post weight limitations for film shipments and the order just issued at Washington is undoubtedly based upon the committee's recommendations, which were filed with the post office department at that time.

The transportation committee of the national association will now seek to have the post office department permit the giving of a receipt for group shipments of films so as to have an official record of all shipments. At the present time the only way a receipt can be procured is by insuring the film at a cost of 10 cents, and each shipment must have a separate receipt.

Mutual Elects New Directors

The Mutual Film Corporation announces the election of a new board of directors including five new financier members, representing and connected with several of the larger banking and investment houses of the middle west.

The new directors are: Charles Henry Bosworth, former president of the People's Trust & Savings Bank, and former chairman of the board of directors and federal reserve agent of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago; William Tabor Abbott, lawyer and banker, vice-president of the Central Trust Company of Chicago; Walter Field McLellan, assistant federal reserve agent and secretary of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago; Isaac Compton Elston, Jr., investment broker of Chicago, largely interested in utility concerns, and Warren Gorrell, investment securities, also of Chicago.

The other directors are James M. Sheldon, long associated with film enterprises, including the Randolph Film Corporation and the Empire All Star Corporation of which he is president; President John R. Freuler, Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, Inc.; John F. Cuneo, P. H. Davis, George W. Hall, J. W. Smith, banker of Fargo, N. D.; Dr. Wilbert Shallenberger, F. E. Kahn of New York and Crawford Livingston of New York.

"The election represents a move for the strengthening of Mutual's directorate, helping us in the execution of our firmly established policies of distribution on a business-like and effective basis," said President Freuler.

It's Col. Mary Pickford Now

Signal honors were paid to Mary Pickford recently when the popular star had the honorary title of Colonel conferred upon her at a big military gathering in San Diego.

The day began with an announcement that Miss Pickford had adopted the entire 143rd Field Artillery and had given her regiment 1,200 Smileage Books as well as a handsome standard with an appropriately engraved silver plate.

Colonel R. J. Faneuf, the commanding officer, then presented "Our Mary" with a silver loving cup from the regiment and conferred upon her the title of honorary colonel.

Following this Mary reviewed the troops, mounted on Dolly Dimples, a magnificent thoroughbred mare, which she was told had been brought to San Diego for her personal use. After the review Mary received the surprise of her life when told that the horse was hers.

In the afternoon Mary blew the whistle which started a football game. In the evening she was the guest of honor at a regimental banquet and ball held at the Hotel Coronado, and led the grand march with Col. Faneuf.

Sun Starts to Shine on Exhibitors

DARKEST CLOUDS ARE PAST, SAYS WALTER E. GREENE OF PARAMOUNT

ACCORDING to Walter E. Greene, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of the distribution department, the darkest clouds have now rolled by as far as exhibitors are concerned, for business throughout the country is moving forward with an added impetus and the breaking up of a severe winter has evidenced a brighter view than disclosed since the beginning of the new year.

"The passing of 'heatless days' and the abnormally cold weather which has gripped the country throughout the entire winter has already brought about a reaction," says Mr. Greene, "and the rapidity with which business has increased after being relieved of the deterrent factors is added proof of its rock-ribbed foundation and its resiliency.

Sees Banner Season

"The next few months promise to be the banner season as compared with similar periods in the past. The more reassuring view of the crisis in Europe, the successful landing of many American troops and the prospect that the conflict may be terminated this year as well as the loosening up of railroad congestion and the rescinding of embargoes will benefit the entire world of amusements and the motion picture in particular.

"The maintenance of a high price for wheat and the prediction that it will be increased slightly, as well as the unprecedented demand for farm products is spelling prosperity for the agricultural districts.

Workers Have the Money

"In the manufacturing field everything is being speeded up and factories are attempting to work twenty-four hours a day. For every hour that has been lost in the past few months, two will be made up in the near future. There is no problem of unemployment, but rather of a shortage of men, and the wage scale is the highest the country has ever known.

"There is no scarcity of money, and the limitations of food and clothing are patriotic ones. Conservation of food is asked by the government in order that our soldiers may be fed and our allies assisted. This means that every pound of foodstuff will find a ready sale at good prices.

Public Saves on Clothes

"The public has been requested to refrain from extravagance in clothing in order to divert the material for the making of garments for our soldiers. Manufacturing industries are asked to decrease their output of regular products so that the metals can be used for war purposes.

"All these economies are the result of

Walter E. Greene, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of the distribution department.

bullish conditions so vast that the general mind has not yet fully grasped them. The country is experiencing under-production, notwithstanding that all its vast resources are being called upon. Thus, while unprecedented prosperity in dollars and cents exists, the public is asked not to eat unnecessarily or clothe itself extravagantly.

Boon for Pictures

"This means a boon for moving pictures, for it has been clearly established that amusement is essential to the well-being of the human race, and the photoplay is the favorite of all entertainment. Under the strain of the war and forced industrial conditions the motion picture is the safety valve for an over-wrought people, who can conserve their health and happiness with its pleasant and diverting entertainment.

"As the industrial lines are bounding forward in renewed and increasing activities, so will the motion picture become enlarged in the new order of things, and it is up to the exhibitor to brighten up his house, increase his advertising and wear his best smile to welcome the multitudes that will come to his house in search of amusement.

"The exhibitor's province in these times is that of a manager of a theatre of good cheer. Notwithstanding the fact that a man has his pockets filled with money, if he is tired out from long hours of over-work, and is worrying about a son or a brother 'over there,' the funeral mien of the manager of a morgue-like house will not prove inviting."

Hedda Nova Hurt While at Work

Hedda Nova had a narrow escape from serious injury last week in the filming of a scene for "The Woman in the Web," the forthcoming Vitagraph serial. The company had deserted the hills where they had been doing a lot of daring riding and other stunt scenes for San Pedro harbor.

The action called for Miss Nova and J. Frank Glendon, who plays oposite her, to enter a small boat, and when seeking to escape from a pursuing launch, to be run into and the smaller craft completely demolished, the players being thrown into the ocean, where they are captured.

The scene was made several times, as the captain of the launch engaged to run the small boat down, fearing an accident, was over cautious. Finally, under orders, the engineer ran the launch full speed ahead into the small boat. No realism was lacking in what followed.

Miss Nova was hit by an oar and although later it was discovered that her ankle was badly sprained, she held the scene and gave an exhibition of swimming that a professional would envy. This is the first accident Miss Nova has suffered, although strenuous riding and dare-devil stunts have been performed in the first three episodes.

"Barbary Coast" Gets Crowds

Packed houses greeted Rev. Paul Smith's spectacle, "The Fall of the Barbary Coast," or "The Finger of Justice," at Quinn's Rialto theatre in Los Angeles, in which Crane Wilbur is featured.

The management of the theatre tried to get Mr. Wilbur to be present at the opening night, but of course this was impossible, as he has to be on hand at his own theatre, the Wilbur Playhouse in Oakland, where he heads his own company in stock.

"What The Picture Did For Me"

ACTUAL VERDICTS ON FILMS IN THE LANGUAGE OF THE EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. Every criticism received is published and the words are the exhibitor's own. If the picture you wish to know about is not included in the following list, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form herewith, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D., Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

Blue Blazes Rawden, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A new kind of a film for Hart. He is better liked in his western roles. Business good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Poor Little Rich Girl, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Best Pickford picture I ever saw. Pleased both young and old at advanced prices. Drew a very large crowd with stiff opposition. The print was in very fine condition. These make excellent specials for me."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Little Princess, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A good picture of its kind, but patrons are tiring of kid pictures. Direction, settings and detail fine."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Reaching for the Moon, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Doug. always pleases. Gets away from the western stuff and gives a change for this star."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

In Again, Out Again, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Extra good. Film in good condition. Top business. Held them out till nine forty-five p. m."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Bluebird

Hell Morgan's Girl, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)—"Surely a rough picture. Poorly and cheaply produced. Dance scenes overdone. Heart interest lacking. Will draw but that is all."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

The Flash-light, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago.

—"Nothing to commend, just five reels of picture. Go easy on this."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

The Winged Mystery, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"Story inconsistent, yet entertaining for the class that likes fast action even though improbable."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Raggedy Queen, with Violet Mersereau (Bluebird)—"An average picture. The star is good but did not get over well in this. Bluebird photography I find about the best."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Fox

Daughter of the Gods, with Annette Kellermann (Fox)—"Played at advanced prices and did not please. Personally I think it a fine picture but the public disagreed with me. They expected more, it seems. This hurt future business on specials."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Her Greatest Love, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"For a Fox super-de luxe feature, this is poor. I didn't like to see Miss Bara taking the part of a young and innocent school girl. The story is old. Excepting a few changes, it has been used thousands of times."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

Heart and Soul, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"Excellent. It was in five reels, instead of six as marked on our list of Fox pictures."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

Fox Two Reel Comedies—"Very good rough stuff."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Damaged—No Goods (Fox)—"A good knockabout, chase comedy in two reels. The kind much effort and care was taken in the making."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Miss U. S. A., with June Caprice (Fox)—"The best picture Fox has released on the regular program in six months. Business good."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Hearts and Saddles, with Tom Mix (Fox)—"Poor. Not what its cracked up to be."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Babes in the Woods, with Fox Kiddies (Fox)—"A very pleasing picture, though not extraordinary."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Darling of Paris, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"A splendid picture of its kind. Very well acted by a competent cast. Drew well for a costume play."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

Jack and the Beanstalk, with Fox Kiddies (Fox)—"These pictures are a treat to the kids and truly wonderful. They do not draw the older people, so we class this as a picture for children both in story and box-office receipts."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Pride of New York, with George Walsh (Fox)—"A very good picture, patriotic, amusing, thrilling and educational, which goes to make a picture worth while. Walsh is gaining in popularity."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Kingdom of Love, with Jewel Carmen (Fox)—"A very good picture of the Klondike. Similar to The Flame of the Yukon. These pictures as a rule please the fan."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Jewel

The Man Without a Country, with Florence La Badie (Jewel)—"Great. Best production of a patriotic nature I ever ran. Biggest crowd I ever had and at increased prices. Public school teachers boosted the film."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Man Without a Country, with Florence La Badie (Jewel)—"Very good. Exceptional drawing power. It gave satisfaction among my patrons."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

The Co-respondent, with Elaine Hammerstein (Jewel)—"A fair show. Star not known. Rental price too high."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

Kleine

The Man Who Was Afraid, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay-Perfection)—"A great picture. Brought big business."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

The Range Boss, with Jack Gardner (Essanay-Perfection)—"Extra good western. Rather rough."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Pants, with Mary McAlister (Essanay-Perfection)—"An excellent picture. Everybody well pleased. We would like more pictures of this kind. Business good."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Open Places, with Jack Gardner (Essanay-Perfection)—"A very good western. Business good."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Open Places, with Jack Gardner (Essanay-Perfection)—"Good picture. No kicks. Gardner is popular here."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Gift O' Gab, with Jack Gardner (Essanay-Perfection)—"Excellent. Fine business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Appletree Girl, with Shirley Mason (Edison-Perfection)—"Good picture to good business. Star popular here."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Tour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Cy Whittaker's Ward, with Shirley Mason (Edison-Perfection)—"Good picture to fine business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

According to the Code, with Lewis Stone (Es-sanay)—"Poorest we ever ran. Business very poor."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Metro

The Square Deceiver, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"A light drama of the romantic type, which is suitable for Lockwood. It will please."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Voice of Conscience, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"This is the best Bushman picture for some time. Usual Metro standard."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

An American Widow, with Ethel Barrymore (Metro)—"A good comedy drama."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Miss Robinson Crusoe, with Emmy Wehlen (Metro)—"Poor. Not up to Metro standard. There is nothing to the story and no punch. I have run Metro two years and have found their program very good and consistent."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

The Jury of Fate, with Mabel Taliaferro (Metro)—"Very good. Star's work fine."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

The Winding Trail, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"The picture is fair. It should have been a 'pink permit.' Instead the censor board cut it too much."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Alias Mrs. Jessop, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"Good. We did good business with it. Star well liked here."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

Red, White and Blue Blood, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"This picture got us more business than any other for some time."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

Mutual

Somebody's Widow, with Billie Rhodes (Strand-Mutual)—"The Billie Rhodes comedies are very classy and an asset to any program."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up, with Margarita Fischer (American-Mutual)—"A very fine comedy-drama. Boost it hard. It will satisfy ninety-nine per cent of any audience."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

A Game of Wits, with Gail Kane (American-Mutual)—"An extra good comedy-drama. Will please all. Star fine, support excellent."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

New York Luck, with William Russell (American-Mutual)—Not up to the Russell standard. Poor story. Work of the star is good with what he has to work with."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

Molly Go Get 'Em, with Margarita Fischer (American-Mutual)—"Very good. This star is at her best in this picture. She is not very well known here."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

Betty and the Buccaneers, with Juliette Day (American-Mutual)—"Very poor offering. Very poor business in good weather."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

Betty and the Buccaneers, with Juliette Day (American-Mutual)—"A poor story. Picture only ordinary."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

The Upper Crust, with Gail Kane (American-Mutual—"This star and Mutual pictures are popular here. Business good. Film in poor condition."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

A Bit of Kindling, with Jackie Saunders (Horkheimer-Mutual)—"Business good. This is the kind of a picture that makes your theatre popular. Film in fair condition."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—"Chaplin doesn't take except with the kiddies and a few others."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Shorty Hamilton Series (Mutual)—"Hamilton gets by and that's about all, with us."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

A Daughter of War, with Mary Ward (Mutual)—"A poor picture sent us on a night when we should have had Mary Miles Minter in The Gentle Intruder."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

Snap Judgment, with William Russell (American-Mutual)—"A mighty good production. We did a very nice business on it."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

Motherhood, with Marjorie Rambeau (Mutual)—"Very good picture. Good print. Miss Rambeau is a great drawing card. Capacity business."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Michigan.

The Immigrant, with Charles Chaplin (Mutual)—"Not as good as his early releases. Chaplin gets the coin. Nuff sed."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Periwinkle, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"A good picture. Dainty Mary draws big. Good business in snow storm."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Sunny Jane, with Jackie Saunders (American-Mutual)—"This type of comedy and the star surely makes a hit here. Good business in threatening weather."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Twinkler, with William Russell (American-Mutual)—"Russell draws well. Picture good. Business good."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Dazzling Miss Davison, with Marjorie Rambeau (Powell-Mutual)—"An excellent mystery play, out of the ordinary. The star doesn't take but the story makes up for this. Keeps them guessing from start to finish."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Paramount

The World For Sale (Blackton-Paramount)—"One of J. Stuart Blackton's foremost productions."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Hidden Pearls, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"This Japanese star is without a doubt clever. He always does well any part he undertakes. A good picture to fair business."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Widow's Might, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Picture O. K. but the rental charged for these Paramount stars is out of proportion with the net profit when we exhibit them."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

The Widow's Might, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"A very good picture. Eltinge is coming big. Drew capacity house."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

His Mother's Boy, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Not as good as his other picture, although a good one. Ray is well liked here."—George H. Done, Gayety Theater, Payson, Utah.

Roping Her Romeo, with Polly Moran (Paramount)—"This is the best comedy Sennett has put out since he joined Paramount. Very good."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Snow White, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Went over big as a school benefit. A nice fairy story, but will not please all the adults."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

The Rough House, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Fatty is always good. Biggest business of the year on this picture."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Little Miss Optimist, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"A pleasing picture which makes your patrons smile as they leave. Well handled in every way and serves as real enjoyment."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Watch Your Neighbor, with Charles Murray (Paramount)—"As good a comedy as is usually produced."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Golden Fetters, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A good production and drew an extra large crowd, not all women, either."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The American Consul, with Theodore Roberts (Paramount)—"An ordinary program picture that failed to please even a small crowd."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Dummy, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Drew a fair crowd. Was only an ordinary melodrama. All were looking for a little comedy after seeing Seventeen."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Evil Eye, with Blanche Sweet (Paramount)—"Not up to the standard of her former productions. Film in poor condition. Fair crowd."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

A Petticoat Pilot, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"A good picture to fair business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Price Mark, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"Excellent feature and star up to standard. Business fair on a rainy day."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Hired Man, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Fine show and good business in spite of rain."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, S. D.

Double Crossed, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"An average story made into a good picture by good acting, settings and lighting."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Bab's Burglar, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Pleased the majority. A fine light comedy drama. The Bab series are pictures worth while."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Clever Mrs. Carfax, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Better than Countess Charming. Made a hit with the majority. These pictures help break the monotony of sameness in average programs."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Pullman Bride, with Chester Conklin (Sennett-Paramount)—"A corking good comedy, full of fun from start to finish."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Select

The Common Law, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"Here is a real production, artistic and elaborate. A fine story with a great cast."—C. F. Hansen, Strand Theatre, Warren, Minn.

Scandal, with Constance Talmadge (Select)—"Excellent. A good comedy drama."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

The Marionettes, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"One of the best Clara Kimball Young pictures we've ever run. Capacity business."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Triangle

Wild Sumac, with Margery Wilson (Triangle)—"A good story of Canadian northwest, although the part showing preparation to burn the girl as a witch is very improbable. This was the first warm Saturday and we played to S. R. O. for the first time in three months on Saturday. All were satisfied with the picture, though not enthusiastic."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

His Picture in the Paper, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Better than previous offerings but Fairbanks fails to draw. Many people come in once from curiosity, but fail to return the next time. Every copy I have had has been run to death. He must draw in other places."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Broadway, Arizona, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"This proved to be a winner, although Olive Thomas always draws. Everyone spoke well of this and voted it the best of the week."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Phantom Husband, with Ruth Stonehouse (Triangle)—"This story would make a good comedy if it had been handled right. Was filled with unnecessary scenes, especially the part showing the girl as a prisoner of white slavers."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Borrowed Plumage, with Bessie Barriscale (Triangle)—"A fine picture. Drew poor business on account of the costumes pictured on the posters."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Fuel of Life, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"Good picture to good business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Fuel of Life, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"The average Triangle drama. In my judgment there are several Triangles which are slow and lack the punch."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Triangle Comedies—"Best slapstick comedies on the market."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

The Lamb, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Fair picture, film in poor condition. Fair business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Regenerates, with Walt Whitman (Triangle)—"An old story worked out in an interesting way. A good picture which will please the majority."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Regenerates, with Walt Whitman (Triangle)—"No good. Story might have made a fair two-reeler. Poor photography. Business very poor."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Indiscreet Corinne, with Olive Thomas (Triangle) "Good picture, star popular. Good business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

A Case at Law, with Dick Rosson (Triangle)—"No story, no star. Film in poor condition."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

A Case at Law, with Dick Rosson (Triangle)—"A fair picture. Will not disappoint and yet will not give the satisfaction your patron looks for."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Between Men, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"A good picture to good business. Not the kind of a play for Hart, however."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Firefly of Tough Luck, with Alma Rubens (Triangle)—"The titles of most Triangles are not good money-getters. This picture is O. K., but business was poor."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Love or Justice, with Louise Glaum (Triangle)—"An excellent picture which pleased immensely."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Hell's Hinges, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Business good but people objected to the old film, and said we were trying to save money, which hurt the theatre. This film was badly cut and very short."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Man Hater, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Film badly cut, otherwise in good condition. Business good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Man Hater, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Drew good business on a Saturday. Picture fair."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

American, That's All, with Jack Devereaux (Triangle)—"Very good. We have used twelve Triangle pictures and they have all been good."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

For Valor, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"A good picture of the slacker proposition. Well acted and pleasing."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Sudden Gentleman, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"One of those pictures that please the majority. Desmond is getting better with every picture."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Fanatics, with Barney Sherry (Triangle)—"A good picture, well handled. Some wonderful photography in spots. Triangle is surely placing on the screen what they expend on a picture. It shows what can be done by cutting out a lot of unnecessary expense and putting the money into good average pictures which make rentals where they are fair to all."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Ship of Doom, with Claire McDowell (Triangle)—"A good picture of the sea, of the Jack London type. Somewhat gruesome and can hardly be classed as entertaining."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Madame Bo-Peep, with Seena Owen (Triangle)—"A very fine picture but a very poor title. Poor business on this account. The title is a big factor in the drawing power."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

A Strange Transgressor, with Louise Glaum (Triangle)—"Mediocre. The poorest Glaum picture I have run. Fair business."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Sawdust Ring, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"This is an extra fine picture, full of human interest and shows the work of an artist director. The leads are extra good. Give us more of this class."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

Madcap Madge, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—

"Good light entertainment."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

Madcap Madge, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"O. K. Plenty of ginger and amusing scenes. Star vivacious and attractive."—House and Justice, Grand Theater, Marion, N. C.

A Hater of Men, with Bessie Barriscale (Triangle) "Not much of a picture. Star new to us and did not make a hit with patrons. Film in bad condition."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

A Hater of Men, with Bessie Barriscale (Triangle) —"Very good. Good business. Will please all followers of Miss Barriscale and make new recruits."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Man Who Made Good, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Just ordinary or fair. No drawing power. Story good."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Clodhopper, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Fine. Pleased everybody. Star great in this picture."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Flame of the Yukon, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"Great. We did capacity business for two days. Cast all good."—George Monroe, Jewel Theatre, Beatrice, Nebr.

The Deserter, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"A fine production of army life in the west several years after the Civil War. Excellent scenery and many thrills. I had a new print and in good condition. Best picture of the week."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Tar-heel Warrior, with Walt Whitman (Triangle)—"A very good picture of the old type of southerner. The title is misleading but the feature is not. A good Saturday crowd."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Aryan, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"A good picture but it didn't draw as well as Hell's Hinges, although, the star is popular here."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Cheerful Givers, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"A poor production with little story or anything else. Poor crowd. I booked this in at short notice to fill extra date. Film in poor condition."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Medicine Man, with Roy Stewart (Triangle) —"Just fair. Film in poor condition. Business poor."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Universal

Hands Down, with Monroe Salisbury (Universal) —"The story is good and scenery beautiful. Salisbury doesn't draw well here."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Home Run Ambrose, with Mack Swain (Universal)—"A fair comedy. Ambrose seems out of place for lack of support."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Universal Current Events—"These make quite a hit because they show Pershing's boys in France."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Vitagraph

Her Right To Live, with Peggy Hyland and Antonio Moreno (Vitagraph)—"A good picture. Film fair. Stars are well liked."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Chattel, with E. H. Sothern and Peggy Hyland (Vitagraph)—"Excellent. Superb acting by the two stars. Film good. Photography fine."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Rose of the South, with Antonio Moreno and Peggy Hyland (Vitagraph)—"Excellent. Full of action. Good photography. Stars are both well liked. Good business."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Through the Wall, with Nell Shipman (Vitagraph) —"Very good picture and story. This should make good with any audience."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

A Prince in a Pawnshop, with Barney Bernard (Vitagraph)—"A good picture. Good business. Patrons well pleased."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Soul Master, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"Good picture. Good film condition. Business good."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Clover's Rebellion, with Anita Stewart (Vitagraph)—"Fair picture. Poor condition. Bad weather brought poor business."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Through the Wall, with Nell Shipman (Vitagraph)—"Good story and photography. Star takes just ordinarily well. Business fair. Film good."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Man Behind the Curtain, with Lillian Walker (Vitagraph)—"A mystery story that pleased our audience. Star doesn't take but the story makes up for it. Good business."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Last Man, with Mary Anderson (Vitagraph) —"Fine. Good photography. Everyone pleased. Fine business in big snow storm."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

The Devil's Prize, with Antonio Moreno (Vitagraph)—"Star well liked. Picture up to Vitagraph standard. Fair business."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

My Official Wife, with Clara Kimball Young (Vitagraph)—"A re-issue. I didn't see the picture but was told it was excellent. Business fair on an off night." —E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte, Center, Nebr.

Phantom Fortunes, with Barney Bernard (Vitagraph)—"Our audience didn't like this picture. Not much to it."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

Dollars and the Woman, with Lillian Walker (Vitagraph)—"An interesting picture issued in connection with the Thrift campaign. A boost for movies as against the stage. Audience liked the picture."—E. W. Laun, Lyric Theatre, Platte Center, Nebr.

World

The Burglar, with Carlyle Blackwell (World)—"Good picture to fine business."—Pfeiffer Bros., Opera House, Kenton, Ohio.

Whims of Society, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"A wonderful picture with a good moral lesson."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Broken Ties, with June Elvidge and Montague Love (World)—"The eternal triangle problem. Settings rich. Good cast. Title drew fairly well. The star wears pretty clothes, which the women like to see. It is up to the World standard. Arthur Ashley directs and plays in it. He is rising fast as a director, as shown by this offering."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

Serials and Series

Further Adventures of Stingaree, with True Boardman (General)—"We did well with these and liked them."—M. M. Schmock, Ideal Theatre, Bloomer, Wis.

The Son of Democracy, with Benjamin Chapin (Paramount)—Chapter one, 'My Mother.' This is the greatest series ever made, if the balance is as good as the first picture. Capacity every performance. Everyone should book it. It is wonderful."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

State Rights and Specials

Who Leads the National Army? (National Training Camps)—"After five different dates, I was able to show this to a good crowd. It gives a very good idea of the training of the future officers, something we had a very hazy idea. Outdrew Fairbanks."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Garden of Allah, with Helen Ware (Selig)—"A costume play and foreign story which did not please the average picture fan. It is a good picture and will go better with readers of that class of literature."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Frozen Warning, with Charlotte (C. Lynch)—"A good picture, full of pep. Charlotte was a great drawing card."—E. G. Gernady, Ideal Theatre, Chicago.

Christie Comedies (State Rights)—"Good clean, pleasing entertainment."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Picture Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of Motography, is published:

A

According to the Code (Kleine)—March 16.
Adventures of Carol (World)—March 9.
Alice in Wonderland (State Rights)—March 9.
Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—February 23.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—March 16.
All for a Husband (Fox)—March 2.
American Consul (Paramount)—March 16.
American Husband, Her (Triangle)—February 23.
American Maid (Mutual)—February 9.
American, That's All (Triangle)—March 16.
American Widow (Metro)—March 9, March 16.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 2, March 9.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 2, March 11.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—March 16.
Arms and the Girl (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Art in (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 11.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 9.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—February 16, March 2, March 9.

B

Bab, the Fixer (Mutual)—February 16, March 2.
Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16.
Bab's Diary (Paramount)—February 16, February 23.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—February 23, March 9.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—February 16, March 16.
Baby Mine (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Bad Boy (Triangle)—March 9.
Barker (Kleine)—March 9.
Barrier (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—February 23, March 9.
Bedroom Blunder (Paramount)—March 9.
Betty and the Buccaneers (Mutual)—March 16.
Betty Takes a Hand (Triangle)—February 23.
Betty to the Rescue (Paramount)—March 9.
Between Men (Triangle)—February 16, March 16.
Big V Comedies (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Birth of a Nation (Griffith)—March 2.
Bit of Kindling (Mutual)—March 16.
Blood Will Tell (Triangle)—February 23.
Blue Blazes Rawden (Artcraft)—March 16.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 9.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Bond Between (Paramount)—March 9.
Bond of Fear (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
Book Agent (Fox)—February 16.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—March 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Broadway, Arizona (Triangle)—March 16.
Broadway Luck (Metro)—March 2.
Broken Ties (World)—March 2.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 9.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—February 23.
Burglar (World)—March 16.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Call of the East (Paramount)—March 2.
Camille (Fox)—March 9.
Case at Law (Triangle)—March 16.
Cassidy (Triangle)—February 23, March 9.
Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 16.
Cheating the Public (Fox)—February 23, March 2.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 16.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 16.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—February 23, March 11, March 16.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—February 16, March 11.
Come Through (Jewel)—February 16, March 11.
Common Law (Select)—March 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—February 23.
Conscience (Fox)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Cook of Canyon Camp (Paramount)—February 23.
Co-respondent (Jewel)—March 9, March 16.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 2.
Country Hero (Paramount)—February 16.
Country's Call, Her (Mutual)—February 23.
Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—March 2.
Crooked Romance (Pathe)—February 23.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Cure (Mutual)—March 9.
Cy Whittaker's Ward (Kleine)—March 16.

D

Damaged No Goods (Fox)—March 16.
Darling of Paris (Fox)—March 16.
Daughter of Destiny (Petrova)—February 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
Daughter of Uncle Sam (General)—February 23.
Daughter of War (Mutual)—March 16.
Daybreak (Metro)—February 23.
Dazzling Miss Davison (Mutual)—March 16.
Deserter (Triangle)—March 16.
Desire of the Moth (Bluebird)—March 2.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 2.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—February 9, February 16, March 9.
Devil's Prize (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Diamonds and Pearls (World)—February 23.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—February 16, March 2, March 9.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 2, March 9.
Drew Comedies (Metro)—February 23.
Dummy (Paramount)—March 16.

E

Easy Money (World)—March 9.
Eternal Mother (Metro)—February 16.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 9.
Even Break (Triangle)—March 2.
Evidence (Triangle)—March 9.
Evil Eye (Paramount)—March 16.
Exile (Paramount)—February 23.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—March 2.

F

Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—February 16, March 9.
Falcon Features (General)—February 23.
Fall of a Nation (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Fanatics (Triangle)—March 16.
Fatty Out West (Paramount)—March 9.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—February 16, March 2, March 9.
Fear Not (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fibbers (Kleine)—February 16.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Fifty-Fifty (Triangle)—February 23.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Fighting Grin (Bluebird)—March 9.
Fighting Mad (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—March 9.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—February 16, February 23, March 11.
Filling His Own Shoes (Kleine)—February 9, March 2.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—February 23, March 9, March 16.
Fires of Youth (Pathe)—March 9.
Flames of Chance (Triangle)—March 9.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16.
Flirting with Death (Bluebird)—February 16.
Flying Colors (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 9.
For the Freedom of the World (Goldwyn)—March 9.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 16.
Ford Educational Weekly—February 23.
Fox Comedies (Fox)—March 16.
France in Arms (Pathe)—February 23.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 2.
Frozen Warning (Lynch)—March 16.
Fuel of Life (Triangle)—March 16.
Further Adventures of Stingaree (General)—March 16.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—February 16, March 16.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—February 23, March 16.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 2.
General Comedies—February 23.
German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—March 2.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 2.
Ghosts of Yesterday (Select)—February 16.
Gift of Gab (Kleine)—March 9.
Girl by the Roadside (Bluebird)—March 2.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Glory of Yolande (Vitagraph)—March 2.
God's Country and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 16.
Golden Fetters (Paramount)—March 16.

H

Habit of Happiness (Triangle)—February 16, February 23.
Hands Down (Universal)—March 16.
Hashimura Togo (Paramount)—February 16.
Hater of Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 2, March 9.
Haunted Pajamas (Metro)—February 16.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Heart and Soul (Fox)—March 16.
Heart of Ezra Greer (Pathe)—February 23.
Heart of a Lion (Fox)—March 2.
Hearts and Saddles (Fox)—March 16.
Heir of the Ages (Paramount)—March 2.
Helene of the North (Paramount)—February 23.
Hell Morgan's Girl (Bluebird)—March 16.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Her American Husband (Triangle)—February 23.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 9.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Her Greatest Love (Fox)—March 16.
Her Right to Live (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Her Second Husband (Mutual)—March 2.
Her Silent Sacrifice (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 16.
High Play (Mutual)—February 9, February 23.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 16.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 16.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—March 9.
His Smashing Career (Fox)—March 2.
His Sweetheart (Paramount)—February 16.
Home Run Ambrose (Universal)—March 16.
Hopper (Triangle)—February 23.
Hostage (Paramount)—March 9.
Hungry Heart (Paramount)—March 9.

I

Immigrant (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—March 16.
I Will Repay (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Idolators (Triangle)—March 2.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 9.
Indian Summer (General)—March 2.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16.

J

Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—March 16.
Jack and Jill (Paramount)—February 23, March 9.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 2.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—March 2.
Judge Brown Stories (General)—February 23.
Judgment House (Paramount)—February 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 2, March 9.
Jury of Fate (Metro)—March 16.

K

Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 16.
Kiss for Susie (Paramount)—March 9.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—February 23, March 16.
Land of Long Shadows (Kleine)—March 2.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—February 16, February 23.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—February 23.
Lash of Power (Bluebird)—February 23.
Last Man (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Last of the Carnabys (Pathe)—February 23.
Law's Outlaw (Triangle)—February 16.
Less Than the Dust (Artcraft)—March 2.
Light Within (Petrova)—March 2.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 9.
Little Boy, My (Bluebird)—February 16.
Little Brother (Triangle)—February 16.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—March 16.
Little Patriot (Pathe)—February 23, March 9.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—February 16, February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16.
Little Volunteer (World)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Lonesome Town (Mutual)—February 16.
Lost and Won (Paramount)—February 16.
Lost Express (Mutual)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Love Doctor (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Love Letters (Paramount)—February 23, March 9.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—March 16.

M

Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—March 16.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—March 9.
Madame Who (Paralta)—February 23.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Man Behind the Curtain (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Man from Montana (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Man from Painted Post (Artcraft)—March 2.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 16.
Man Trap (Bluebird)—February 23.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—February 23, March 16.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—February 23, March 16.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—February 23, March 2, March 16.
Man's Man (Paralta)—February 16.
Mark of Cain (Pathe)—February 23.
Marriage Speculation (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 2.
Marionettes (Select)—March 2, March 16.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—February 23, March 2.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 2, March 16.
Milk-Fed Vamp (Fox)—February 23.
Miss Jackie of the Army (Mutual)—February 23.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (Mutual)—March 2.
Miss Robinson Crusoe (Metro)—March 16.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—February 16, March 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—February 9, February 23, March 2.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—February 16, February 23.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—March 16.
Money Magic (Vitagraph)—February 16.
Moth (Select)—February 16.
Mother (State Rights)—February 23.
Mother O' Mine (Bluebird)—March 2.
Motherhood (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Mountain Dew (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—March 9.
My Little Boy (Bluebird)—February 16.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 16.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—March 9.
Mysterious Miss Terry (Paramount)—March 2.
Mysterious Mr. Tiller (Bluebird)—February 16, March 2.
Mystery Ship (Universal)—March 2.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 2.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Ne'er Do Well (Selig)—February 16.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—February 16, February 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—February 23, March 16.
North of 53 (Fox)—February 16.

O

O. Henry Pictures (General)—February 23.
Old Folks at Home (Triangle)—February 23.
On the Level (Paramount)—February 16, March 2.
On the Square Girl (Pathe)—March 2.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—February 23, March 2.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 16.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 2.
Outcast (Mutual)—February 16.
Out West (Paramount)—March 2.
Outwitted (Metro)—February 23.

P

Paddy O'Hara (Triangle)—February 16.
Painted Madonna (Fox)—February 23.
Panthea (Select)—March 2.
Pants (Kleine)—March 16.
Paradise Garden (Metro)—February 16.
Paws of the Bear (Triangle)—March 9.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 9.
Pendleton Round-Up (Pathe)—March 2.
Periwinkle (Mutual)—March 16.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—March 16.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 2, March 16.
Pinch Hitter (Triangle)—February 16.
Planter (Mutual)—March 2.
Polly Ann (Triangle)—March 2.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Poor Little Peppina (Paramount)—February 9.
Pretenders (Metro)—February 9.
Price Mark (Paramount)—February 23, March 16.
Price She Paid (Select)—February 9.
Pride and the Man (Mutual)—February 16.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 16.
Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Princess Virtue (Bluebird)—February 16.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—February 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 9, March 16.
Rasputin (World)—February 16, February 23, March 9.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—February 16, March 2, March 16.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—February 23.
Red Ace (Universal)—February 16, February 23.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—March 16.
Regenerates (Triangle)—March 16.
Reputation (Mutual)—March 2.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—March 9.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 9.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9.
Roadside Impresario (Paramount)—March 2.

Mary Pickford reviewing the 143rd Field Artillery at Camp Kearney, San Diego, in company with Col. R. J. Faneuf, following a ceremony at which she was given the title of honorary colonel. Miss Pickford has "adopted" this entire regiment.

Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells. (Fox)—February 16.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—February 23.
Roping Her Romeo (Paramount)—March 16.
Rose of the South (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—March 9.
Rough House (Paramount)—March 16.

S

Sands of Sacrifice (Mutual)—February 23.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—February 16, March 16.
Scandal (Select)—March 16.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—February 16, March 2.
Secret Game (Paramount)—February 16, February 23, March 9.
Secret of the Storm Country (Select)—March 2.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—February 16.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—February 23.
Shackles of Truth (Mutual)—March 9.
Shanghaied Jonah (Keystone)—March 9.
Shadows of Her Pest (Fox)—February 16.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 16.
Shirley Kaye (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Shorty Hamilton Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Silent Lady (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—February 16.
Silent Master (Select)—February 9.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—February 16.
Skinner's Dress Suit (Kleine)—February 16.
Slacker (Metro)—February 23.
Slave (Standard)—February 16.
Sleeping Memory (Metro)—March 2.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—February 16, February 23, March 16.
Snarl (Triangle)—February 23.
Snow White (Paramount)—February 16, March 16.
Society's Driftwood (Butterfly)—March 9.
Somebody's Widow (Mutual)—March 16.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Son of His Father (Paramount)—February 16, March 2.
Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls in Pawn (Mutual)—February 16.
Southern Pride (Mutual)—March 9.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 9.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—March 2.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—February 16.
Spy (Fox)—February 9, February 23.
Square Deal Man (Triangle)—February 16.
Square Deceiver (Metro)—March 16.
Stage Struck (Triangle)—February 16.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—March 2.
Stars and Stripes in France (Pathe)—March 2.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—February 23, March 9.
Stolen Hours (World)—February 23.
Stormy Knight (Bluebird)—February 16, March 2.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 16.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 9.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 16.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 9.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—February 23, March 16.
Sunset Trail (Paramount)—February 23.

T

T. Haviland Hicks (Kleine)—February 23.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tenderfoot (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 2, March 9.
Thais (Goldwyn)—February 16, February 23, March 2, March 9.
They're Off (Triangle)—March 9.
This Is the Life (Fox)—February 23, March 9.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 9.
Today (Pathe)—February 23, March 2.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—February 16, February 23, March 9.
Treason (Bluebird)—February 16, February 23.
Treasure Island (Fox)—February 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Triumph (Bluebird)—March 2.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—March 2.
Twinkler (Mutual)—March 16.
Two-Bit Seats (Kleine)—March 2.
Two Men and a Woman (State Rights)—March 9.

U

Under Suspicion (Metro)—February 16, March 2.
Universal Current Events—March 16.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—February 16, March 9.
Unmarried Wife, My (Bluebird)—March 9.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—February 23.
Up or Down (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Upper Crust (Mutual)—March 16.

V

Valley of the Moon (Paramount)—February 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—February 16, March 2, March 9.
Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—March 9.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—February 16, February 23, March 16.
Voice on the Wire (Universal)—March 2.

W

Watch Your Neighbor (Paramount)—March 16.
Weaver of Dreams (Metro)—March 2.
Web of Desire (World)—March 2.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 9.
When False Tongues Speak (Fox)—February 9.
Whims of Society (World)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
White Raven (Metro)—February 16.
Who Leads the National Army (National Training Camps)—March 16.
Who Loved Him Best? (Mutual)—February 16.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—February 16, March 9.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 16.
Winding Trail (Metro)—February 16, March 2, March 16.
Without Honor (Triangle)—March 9.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—February 23, March 9.
Woman and Wife (Select)—February 16, February 23, March 9.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—February 16, March 9.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 9.
World for Sale (Paramount)—February 16, March 16.

Y

Yankee Way (Fox)—February 23.

Z

Zaza (Paramount)—February 16.
Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—March 9.

Norman Kerry, Constance Talmadge's leading man in her new Select production, "Up the Road with Sally." In this picture the star for a change is supporting her leading man.

Exhibitor Hits Distributors

MOTOGRAPHY has received the following letter:

"I would like to give you a partial list of my troubles since becoming a 'speeler,' which was just before the war tax. A serial had just started (an old one) when I took charge. They sprung the war tax on me.

"I had to pay it, for I could not cancel. They sent me an episode of another serial when they had promised a two-reel feature and finally sent me a bill after settlement had been made in full, for all return expenses.

"Next I booked another serial with some changes and cancellations from printed contract, $5.00 deposit, and by accident took the matter up with them and later found the cancellations and other changes had been rubbed out and made to suit the company. I finally got my deposit back, after threatening to bring suit, indict, etc. Another sprung a bill for ad-paper after settlement was made.

"I leased a number of reels to be paid for when I ordered them out. They sent them ahead of time with letter stating that recent advice from New York made it absolutely necessary that they charge me 15 cents per reel war tax, and sent me a bill for same asking that I send check at my earliest convenience. I wrote them to cancel the war tax or I would return the films without exhibiting them. They wired me to cancel.

"I sent a check to an exchange for a special program. Date of exhibit passed without hearing from them. I wrote three letters trying to get my money back, then drew on them through the bank and got it. Now Ye Editor! The man who had charge before me said there were no honest distributors. Was he right? If so why are there not? Do they do all exhibitors this way, or just 'romp' on beginners? If you or some of your many readers can give me some consolation along these lines it will be highly appreciated by

"A. EXHIBITOR."

Beban Forms Own Company

George Beban has formed his own company and is seeking a studio to use until one can be built for him.

Big Company Launched on New Lines

UNITED THEATRES MODELED AFTER AMERICAN DRUGGISTS' SYNDICATE

THE United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., has taken a floor of the big Mecca building in New York, established the various departments of a well-equipped organization and embarked on a campaign of lining up the exhibitors to buy films on a co-operative basis.

The head of the organization is Lee A. Ochs, president of the National Exhibitors' League, and the treasurer is Louis F. Blumenthal, with Charles M. Blumenthal as secretary and Milton M. Goldsmith as general counsel. Perhaps the most significant name in the list, however, is C. R. Seelye, who is one of the greatest executives in the country, and as sales or business manager in the old days was largely responsible for the success of the Pathe, Vitagraph and World programs.

Promoters Plan Trips

Mr. Seelye announces his intention of leaving New York soon on a nation-wide tour, in the course of which he will organize distributing branches. Three days later President Ochs will begin his visits to all the important cities, where he will address hundreds of exhibitors in public meetings now being arranged.

Already a considerable number of influential managers of picture circuits in the East have declared their adherence to the plan and Messrs. Ochs and Seelye are confident that picture men in all sections will see advantages in their "cut-in-half" rental system. Harry Crandall of Washington and Frank A. Keeney of New York have already voiced warm approval of the movement and have enlisted in it to the number of all their theatres.

Appeal to the Trade

A formal appeal of the organization says in part:

"Get together and rid the industry of staggering expenses and ruinous extravagances. The time has come for plain words. Unless this plan of concerted operations be adopted, the business of exhibition faces the direst and blackest disaster in the history of commercial amusement.

"War caused 25 per cent of the picture theatres of England and of France to close. Your houses must cut down expense, eliminate middlemen, buy co-operatively and carefully, or many of them will go into the hands of the receiver.

"Do not be fooled by words and names. Co-operation cannot proceed from the producers or distributors—that has been tried and failed. The only true and economical co-operation is among yourselves—in the exercise of your united buying power."

Division of Costs Aim

For the first time outlined in detail, the method of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., is simply to divide the cost of film negative pro rata among as large a proportion of the exhibitor forces of the United States as it may be possible to align in an organization thoroughly identified with exhibitor personnel and exhibitor sentiment.

Exhibitors are to be graded into five classes, according to first and second runs, etc., money earning capacity and the like. The first grade will pay one-tenth of 1 per cent of the cost of the negative. Each lower grade will pay proportionately less till a unit in the last grade pays only one one-hundredth of 1 per cent.

Profit to Member Stockholders

If any profit on these transactions remains, it is paid back to the theatre proprietors who are stockholders. The organization pledges itself not to start business until 2,000 booking days are obtained.

The idea is borrowed from the astonishing success attained by the American Druggists' Syndicate in buying co-operatively for its 22,000 members. It is said that the wholesale cost of drugs has been cut in half thereby.

In Europe, moreover, and particularly in Great Britain, since the war started co-operative societies have largely replaced the old individual buying and have enabled many thousands of retail merchants as well as consumers to grapple with the problem of war stringency.

Balboa Signs Up Harlan

Kenneth Harlan, whose most recent screen appearance was as leading man in Lois Weber's "The Price of a Good Time," has been engaged by President H. M. Horkheimer of Bolboa as Kathleen Clifford's leading man.

Miss Clifford has written her next production herself. It is a five reel drama, which Howard M. Mitchell is directing.

Mr. Harlan has previously appeared on the Fine Arts and Universal screen, and spent a season in vaudeville over the Orpheum circuit with Gertrude Hoffman in her notable "Sumurun" production, subsequently traveling over the same circuit with his own troupe in a dancing act.

A fantastic scene in J. Stuart Blackson's production for Paramount of Sir Gilbert Parker's "Wild Youth."

Campaign for 15-Cent Piece Renewed

NATIONAL PICTURE ASSOCIATION MAY GET SUPPORT OF NEWSPAPERS

THE National Association of the Motion Picture Industry has renewed its campaign for a 15-cent coin. As the American Newspaper Publishers' Association is agitating for the issuance of a two-cent coin, it is not improbable that the picture and newspaper organizations will co-operate.

Frederick H. Elliott, executive secretary of the picture organization, is in communication with the executive officials of the publishers' association with a view towards such an arrangement.

Two-Cent Piece Before

The recent advance in price of practically all newspapers to two cents is the cause of the publishers' drive for the two-cent piece. The government has produced a two-cent piece in the past and a return to this coin would really be a re-issue.

The picture interests first launched the agitation for a 15-cent coin about a year ago. The war tax has since made the 15-cent piece a practical necessity in handling crowds quickly and satisfactorily. It is a theatrical proverb that the popular and successful admission price is the one that can be paid at the ticket office with one piece of money.

Theatre Stand Summed Up

The picture association in presenting its brief to Roy Baker, director of the mint, referred to the following recommendations as adopted by its executive committee:

"1. That the public generally would be greatly benefited by having a coin of this denomination.

"2. That the fifteen million daily patrons of the seventeen thousand picture theatres would be greatly convenienced.

"3. That it would facilitate the handling of these millions of patrons, who are put to great annoyance and inconvenience in crowded theatre lobbies while waiting for change.

"4. That the picture patrons, in many localities, are obliged to wait in line, often on the sidewalk during inclement weather, owing to delays in making change at the box office, which condition has grown much worse since the advent of the war tax.

"5. That along with the general trend towards increased prices of admission for the better class of picture entertainment comes a demand for the new coin. Thousands of theatres in the larger cities have been forced to raise their price from 10 cents to 15 cents."

Act of Congress Necessary

An act of Congress is necesary for the issuance of a coin of a new denomination and the first step necessary is to obtain a favorable report from the committee on coinage, weights and measures of the house. It is in this respect that the picture and publishers' associations could co-operate most effectively.

The picture industry has a special interest in the two-cent coin movement as well as the publishers as such a coin would aid materially in handling the war tax, where the tax is levied independent of the price of the ticket. Many theatres are meeting the problem by including the tax within the total price of the ticket, making the full price of admission 15, 20, 25, etc., including the tax. These houses need a 15-cent coin.

The Girl on the Cover

The front cover of this issue of MOTOGRAPHY is illustrated with the likeness of Mary Pickford, the Artcraft star, who is probably the most famous girl in the world. Miss Pickford has established a type of American girl that is widely followed in this country and admired in others. Her popularity has not been the result of sensationalism, but of her talents and charm. Her rise to stardom can be attributed in a large measure to her early training by famous directors, where she properly mastered the fundamental principles of dramatic work.

When other children were entering the first grade in school, Mary Pickford became a bread winner on the stage to lighten the burden of her widowed mother, who had two other babies to take care of, Lottie and Jack. David Belasco presented her to a Broadway audience in "The Warrens of Virginia," and David Wark Griffith, recognizing her extraordinary ability, put her in pictures.

She soon became a star, and since then, with one notable exception, has devoted all her time to motion pictures. That exception was "A Good Little Devil," in which she returned to the legitimate stage under David Belasco's direction. After that she enrolled with the Famous Players, appearing in a great many big productions, and for more than a year past her pictures have been released under the Artcraft trademark.

"Our Mary" has gained new laurels with each succeeding release under the Artcraft banner. Her interpretation of two dissimiar roles in "Stella Maris" was a daring venture, which proved a surprise to the public and resulted in unstinted praise from dramatic critics throughout the country. Her current Artcraft picture is "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley," in which she again creates a new character, that of a girl of the slums.

Margarita Fischer in the new American picture, "Ann's Finish."

Enter—The Convertible Photo Play

ALONE, "THE LIFE MASK" IS MELODRAMA; WITH PROLOGUE A MYSTERY

HERE is a real novelty in pictures, a convertible photoplay! For years the public has known of such conveniences as davenports that were convertible into beds, suspenders into belts, and so on. And now comes Mme. Petrova's latest screen play, "The Life Mask," produced in such a manner that it can be shown either as an out and out mystery story or as a straight melodrama of considerable suspense.

In producing the picture, which was directed by Frank Crane, who was responsible for the Goldwyn screen success, "Thais," it was decided so to film the various scenes as to leave the spectator thoroughly in doubt regarding the outcome until the word "finis" was written at the end of the play. Then the executives of the Petrova organization decided to leave it optional with the exhibitors as to whether the picture should be a mystery play.

Prologue Is Divided

To this end a prologue of about a hundred feet was made, in which the various leading characters are introduced and the finger of suspicion cleverly pointed at all by a few well-worded sub-titles. Following this preface, the story proper begins, running unbroken to the close of the picture.

By the simple expedient of eliminating the prologue the exhibitors may show their patrons a highly interesting society melodrama without mystery. If, however, they desire to attract the attention of their audience by leaving to them the probable solution of the story, the introductory phases of the picture may be run in conjunction with the play proper.

Story of Picture

"The Life Mask," which is the third release of the Petrova Picture Company, is from the pen of the famous anonymous author of mystery novels, whose sensational book, "To M. L. G.," was widely read and commented upon.

Mme. Petrova plays Anita Courtland, daughter of General Richard E. Courtland, dead for many years, who is passionately in love with Captain Hugh Shannon, a dashing young officer of the Foreign Legion and one of the first Americans to volunteer for service in France.

Her step-mother, a proud and arrogant society woman, becomes heavily in debt through her endeavor to keep pace with the set in which she moves. Hugh and Anita, on the eve of his departure for the other side, plan happily for the future, building air castles of a honeymoon in Spain.

Cloud Mars Happiness

The first cloud to appear is a hint dropped by Mrs. Courtland that a marriage between Anita and Woodruffe Clay, a profligate and waster of the idle rich type, would be most acceptable to her. Commencing to realize the dangerous road her step-mother has been traveling, Anita begs for economy, at the same time refusing to consider marriage to Clay, whom she loathes and fears.

Finally matters are brought sharply to a crisis by the loan of $5,000 which Mrs. Courtland begs of and receives from Clay, who has long been awaiting the opportunity to ingratiate himself. With a staggering amount of debts staring her in the face, Anita's step-mother desperately raises the check to $25,000. Woodruffe discovers this fact and immediately seizes the opportunity to demand an immediate marriage with Anita or exposure of Mrs. Courtland.

Heroine Sacrifices Self

Mrs. Courtland goes to Anita, discloses the act which she has committed and begs that the girl marry Clay to save the family honor. Stunned and heart-broken at the turn of affairs, Anita finally consents to sacrifice herself and writes Shannon a note, breaking off the engagement. She begs her brother, who is sailing with Hugh, to give him the letter after they have been two days at sea. Delighted that he has finally trapped Anita into a marriage, Clay forces an immediate wedding.

The heart-broken girl is brought to his town house, where commences a life of misery, loathing as she does her husband and with thoughts of Hugh ever recurring to remind her of the shattered romance. At Anita's insistent and repeated requests, Woodruffe permits her to occupy a separate room across the hall.

Meanwhile the girl's note is given to Captain Shannon as he travels the high seas for France, leaving him bewildered and heart-broken. Clay has promised to return to Mrs. Courtland the check which she had raised immediately following the marriage. His failure to keep his promise leads her to visit her son-in-law and demand the check's return, but the visit is in vain.

Action Is Swift

One evening when Clay has been particularly obnoxious with his unwelcome attentions, Anita leaves him in the music room, but returns for her bag which she has dropped, only to discover her husband in the embrace of Florence Robert, a former mistress. Dreading a scene, Anita flees to her room, followed shortly by Clay, who tries to force upon her an explanation.

In his excitement the husband seizes her. Every fibre of her body revolting at his touch, Anita struggles within his grasp, finally succeeding in throwing him off. So fierce have been her movements that Clay is thrown a considerable distance from her, striking his head on the sharp point of a chair. The servants are told that Clay has had a fall and he is placed in bed. It is found that the nerve centers of his brain have been affected and the doctor fears for his ultimate recovery.

Finds Husband Dead

Anita becomes addicted to the habit of sleep walking. One night Clay insists Anita sit up with him. She falls asleep, goes through the mock realities of a dreadful nightmare and awakens to find her husband dead. Convinced that in her nightmare she has killed him, Mrs. Clay becomes terror-stricken. But after a doctor's verdict of "death from natural causes," Anita with her faithful nurse, Sarah, decides to leave for Spain, the land where she and Hugh had planned their honeymoon.

Just as peace is beginning to come again to the young wife's troubled mind, an American newspaper arrives, headlining the fact that she is suspected of having poisoned her husband and that a thorough investigation is now under way. She decides to give herself up.

Reunited with Captain

Meanwhile Captain Shannon receives a furlough and goes to Spain. A happy reunion occurs between Hugh and Anita only to be marred by her recollection of the newspaper story. Fearing for her strength to refuse Captain Shannon's demand that they be married at once, the girl decides to flee with Sarah and returning to America, give herself up. She is packing her things when the faithful maid bursts in upon her and in a frenzy of excitement and remorse confesses that she killed Clay while Anita slept.

Maddened by the husband's torture of his young wife, Sarah had administered an overdose of morphine, trusting the suspicion would be thrown upon the nurse. At the close of her confession she takes poison and dies. Anita and Captain Hugh at last come into their happiness.

Sherrill Heads New Organization

President of Frohman Amusement Corporation Is Chosen for Same Position with Producers and Exhibitors-Affiliated

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, president of the Frohman Amusement Corporation, one of the eight independent producers who have formed the Producers & Exhibitors-Affiliated for marketing direct to the exhibitor, has just been elected prsident of the new concern.

Announcing his election to reporters in person, Mr. Sherrill said:

"The plans which we eight independent producers have drawn up has been adopted in an earnest and sincere effort to bridge the gap which ever seems to be growing bigger between producer and exhibitor.

"For the first time the exhibitor has been given an opportunity to share more of the gains of a production. Hitherto he has been obliged to pay a set price for his films and to get his profits as best he could. By our plan all revenue derived from distribution in excess of the minimum quota in each state shall be divided between the manufacturer making the particular picture and the exhibitors using that picture.

"Already we feel that the success of the project is assured. Exhibitors throughout the country have hailed the plan as the ultimate solution of their difficulties.

"I have just completed a trip to the middle West. The attitude of exhibitors wherever I went was most gratifying. Their co-operation is assured.

"We are forging ahead rapidly. We are making great progress in rounding up territories in every section of the country and we feel confident that before long our direct booking plan will be in good running order. The exhibitor is willing to do his share. We are anxious to do ours. We promise them a fair deal, hearty co-operation and productions of a high order, made by men whose position in the moving picture field in unquestioned."

The producers in the organization are Herbert Brenon, William L. Sherrill, L. Lawrence Weber, Harry Rapf, Lester Park, I. E. Chadwick, Joseph A. Golden and Shubert, Hammerstein & Ince.

C. C. Pettijohn, general manager of the Producers & Exhibitors-Affiliated, reports that fourteen states have been organized and are ready for distribution, that contracts in twenty-one states are being completed and that fifteen are being canvassed. Mr. Pettijohn also reports that it will require at least thirty to sixty days before the exhibitors will be sufficiently organized to handle their own distribution.

Mr. Pettijohn believes that before the various units are completed a meeting should be called when representative exhibitors could meet the original exhibitors' committee and independent producers and iron out a permanent contract. This probably will be done.

Fox Gets Mutt and Jeff Cartoons

Bud Fisher Characters Will Appear on Screen Under New Banner for the First Time March 24

MUTT AND JEFF—that is, the Mutt and Jeff of the films—have moved.

The famous comedians of the animated cartoons have forsaken the parental roof and through the formal process of legal adoption have become members of the large and growing family of William Fox.

This change of home was made during the present week, with the consent and assistance of Bud Fischer, the comedians' creator. Their first appearance under the new guardianship will take place March 24 and there will be subsequent appearances to the extent of about 500 lineal feet once each week. Bookings will be handled exclusively through Fox offices.

Under the new arrangement Mutt and Jeff not only will have a new home, but a greatly extended field of activity. As newspaper cartoons they are known from one end of the country to the other, appearing regularly in the New York World and being so widely syndicated there is scarcely an important town in the country they are not published.

They were introduced to the screen more than two years ago under the auspices of a corporation promoted by Bud Fischer and since that time they have firmly established themselves as screen stars. Now, they are to have the benefit of a larger distributing organization—becoming a regular feature of the William Fox output along with Standard Pictures, Fox Special Features and Fox-Lehrman Sunshine Comedies.

A half reel of clean comedy with a hearty laugh for every click of the projector's ratchets is the promise made by the Fox management. There will be no change in the plan of release or the general style of the pictures, according to Mr. Fox, and assurance is given that there will be no delays in service in consequence of the new arrangement. Contract blanks and other detailed information already is in the possession of the Fox branch offices.

Mr. Fischer, who until recently was a lieutentant in the United States army and who now is a captain in the British Army, will be in France within a comparatively short time. He has made all necessary arrangements for continuing his art work while abroad.

A thrilling scene from the Goldwyn play, "Heart of the Sunset," by Rex Beach, featuring Anna Q. Nilsson.

Scenes from Maeterlinck's allegorical play, "The Blue Bird," whichhas been produced for Paramount release by Artcraft under the direction of Maurice Tourneur.

Jesse L. Lasky Talks of "The Blue Bird"

Declares Maeterlinck's Famous Spectacle Is Even More Understandable on Screen Than as a Spoken Production

TULA BELLE, aged eight, and ROBIN MacDOUGALL, aged ten, are entrusted with the chief parts in Maeterlinck's masterpiece, "The Blue Bird," produced for Artcraft release by Maurice Tourneur.

Never was the Belgian poet's great message of happiness more appropriate than during the present war period and that the producers' selection for these two parts were well made will readily be conceded by everyone who sees the pretentious cinema to be released on Easter Day.

Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of productions, in bringing out the importance of these children in conveying Maeterlinck's ideals in "The Blue Bird," said:

"Tula Belle and Robin Macdougall, under Mr. Tourneur's expert direction, make the famous poet's great thoughts clear to those of their own age as well as older people. With them the audience will journey through scene after scene of symbolical magnificence. Through the magic of the Fairy Berylune they will witness the soul of all things become visible: Cat and Dog, gifted with speech; Milk, transformed to a beautiful feminine figure; Sugar, in grotesque shape, and Light, personified by a lovely girl radiantly costumed.

"In addition to being a renowned poet and dramatist, Maurice Maeterlinck is conceded to be the greatest philosopher of modern times and the most convincing exponent of the immortality of the soul. It is a significant fact that since the world war began the greatest newspapers and magazines have published articles on grave subjects by the noted author.

"The great attractiveness of the Maeterlinck play lies in the fact that it is in reality a cheerful drama of life, pointing the way to true happiness. In searching for the Bluebird—meaning happiness—the children view life from every angle and eventually find that true happiness lies in the humble home from which they started their journey.

"The lesson learned by Maeterlinck's Mytyl and Tyltyl, the two child characters, brightens our lives by removing the terror of death and in reviving hope for the future; by showing the folly of luxury and dissipation and opening our eyes to the simple things which we accept as a matter of course, but which in themselves, if properly appreciated, would constitute the greatest happiness.

"In the Palace of Night the children come face to face with the terrors of humanity. Here also dwell Sleep and Death. One of the most striking scenes is the transformation of a cemetery into a flower garden and the resurrection of the dead, which is accomplished in an artistic manner, and entirely free from gruesomeness.

"Dramatic values have been fostered in 'The Blue Bird,' and the light and shade is well balanced. There is even a touch of humor, which is developed spontaneously, as in the Palace of the Unborn where hundreds of children await their advent upon the earth, where the acting of the babes results in cute interpretations.

"Maeterlinck's remarkable innovation of making the central figure of his drama two children, who represent the average person, enabled him to present strong facts in a romantic manner, making logical the introduction of the Fairy Berylune and the magical presentation of the numerous characters taking part in the spectacle. The symbolism and allegory is kept within the vision of the children, making it easily understandable, which accounts for the universal popularity of the subject.

"When produced in the large cities of Europe, 'The Blue Bird' was patronized by the intellectual classes and the masses, and notwithstanding its high artistic value it is most significant that in Russia, fifty-nine companies were playing at one time. In the United States, owing to its artistic and dramatic appeal, it was selected for presentation in the New Theatre.

"As visualized in motion pictures it is naturally much more understandable than on the speaking stage. Maurice Tourneur, the producer, and Charles Maigne, who made the adaptation, have faithfully carried out the ideas of Maeterlinck and, while the subject has been produced on a colossal scale, the story has been so simply told that the two little actors, Tula Belle and Robin Macdougall, thoroughly understood the play."

Griffith's New Film a Hit

David Wark Griffith's latest spectacle was given a first showing before a Pomona, Cal., audience last week. The audience is reported to have gasped, laughed, cried, shouted and everything else. This is the second of Griffith's masterpieces to make its first appearance in Pomona. "Intolerance" was the first.

Virginia Senate Passes Censor Bill

Measure Is Now Before House, But May Be Kept From Passage by Rush at End of Session

THE state of Virginia is threatened with drastic censorship as a result of the passage of such a bill in the state senate without a disenting vote. The measure is now before the House of Delegates.

Exhibitors fear that the bill, which was drawn by Rev. James Cannon, Methodist minister and leader of the Prohibition party in Virginia, will soon become a law. Its advocates are all officers of various social uplift organizations.

Jake Wells and the Virginia Exhibitors' League have waged a determined fight against the bill ever since its was introduced. They succeeded in getting several concessions before it passed the Senate. The amendments reduce the fee to be exacted from $2 for a certificate for each original film to $1, and from $1 for duplicates to 50 cents.

The general effect of the amendments is to reduce the gross tax on the exhibitors from $50,000 a year to $25,000, estimated.

The exhibitors bear the total cost of maintaining the censorship. The board will consist of two members, and it is left optional with the governor, who appoints the board, to name a woman as one member. In case of disagreement between the censors the superintendent of public instruction is to be called in to cast the deciding vote. Before the amendments were obtained by Mr. Wells the membership was three.

Governor Davis may veto the measure, many of the exhibitors think, and there is another faint hope—the bill may fail to get through the house because of the rush of other business in the last week of the term. Opponents of the bill will make a final effort to hold up its passage in the house until the day of adjournment, March 7.

The exhibitors of Maryland, who are fighting for the repeal of the censorship law in that state, are seeking to prove to the legislature and the public that the censorship board is of no value by quoting the words of members of the state board who admitted that censorship was ineffective and did not correct the evils it set out to remedy. The National Board of Review is actively aiding the exhibitors.

The film men have discovered several bills which are aimed at the industry. A call for a meeting of the "defense council" of exhibitors at the New theatre brought to light the fact that there are pending some measures which, if passed, would work hardship and further injustice on the theatre owners.

"House of Hate" Released

An announcement from Pathe says that "The House of Hate," the new Pearl White serial with Antonio Moreno, was released March 10 in accordance with requests received from exhibitors throughout the country, who found this date better suited to their booking requirements than March 3, for which the serial was originally set.

Madge Kennedy in her new Goldwyn picture, "The Danger Game."

Two interesting scenes from the new Triangle picture, "The Sea Panther," featuring William Desmond and Mary Warren.

Pirate Thrills in "The Sea Panther"

Triangle Picture of March 10 Release Portrays Days of Captain Kidd—"The Hard Rock Breed" Also on Program

THE adventurous days of Captain Kidd are depicted in "The Sea Panther," a Triangle release of March 10, which has been adapted from Kenneth B. Clark's story of the same name in the Saturday Evening Post. In this seventeenth century costume play, William Desmond, in the title role, is featured as the Beau Brummel of a bloody pirate crew, who dices and duels for the life and favor of Molly Tarplay, daughter of the Carolinas. Mary Warren, in her initial role as leading woman, supports Mr. Desmond.

Much of the action of the play takes place about 1680, when Captain Kidd was the kingpin of deep sea profiteers, and Triangle has endeavored to reproduce faithfully and authoritatively the "atmosphere" of the period. The research department, under the direction of Count d'Elba, spent weeks getting authentic data for this production and obtained at great difficulty a collection of rare colored prints and models from which to fashion the costumes.

The script called for every variety of natural setting and many of the far-famed beauty spots of California were sought out and screened by Director Thomas N. Heffron. There are numerous water scenes and the historic old barkentine "Fremont," veteran of more than a hundred pictures, was manned by a piratical crew.

William Desmond is thought to have staged the greatest sword fight of his career in this production and as an accomplished buccaneer with a supple wrist and a ready blade he defeats Lee Hill, who is cast as a rival pirate captain.

The story follows the adventures of Paul le Marsan, gentlemanly freebooter, known as "The Sea Panther." With a band of merciless cuthroat pirates, he falls on the British ship Lady Devon, aboard which is Molly Tarplay, enroute to join her uncle, proprietary governor of the Carolinas.

The demand of the crew for the girl is met by the flashing blade of their captain. In the Bahamas, where the prisoners are taken, Molly is forced to share Le Marsan's home, and is overwhelmed by the barbaric splendor of her surroundings. She begins to love her captor, who protects her from Braga, fellow pirate, in a duel to the death.

Le Marsan realizes that an outlaw cannot win a niece of the governor of the Carolinas, and risks all to take her to her destination. When all are ready to embark, the captive crew smuggle themselves on board the ship and overcome the pirates. But in his hour of need, Molly proves her loyalty, and saves Le Marsan from an unkind fate.

"The Hard Rock Breed," another release of March 10, deals with the lives of the men who tunnel through huge mountains. Realism in every detail was demanded by Director Wells and the huge quarries of the Colton Company were obtained by Triangle for the location work.

Steam shovels and hydraulic drills are seen in action, as well as a blast of dynamite which tears away the side of a mountain. The Colton company allowed more than a score of their employes to mingle with the Triangle players. These workers furnish the types of every nationality required by the script. A terrific battle in which more than forty brawny men participate was staged and a fistic duel between Jack Livingston and Jack Curtis is one of several red-blooded encounters.

The story has as its theme the experiences of Jack Livington, city-bred aristocrat, who is sent to boss the quarry employes. How he "makes good" through the love of Shiela Dolan, daughter of the quarries, and his own fighting spirit, is told in the narrative.

Jack Curtis and J. Barney Sherry are the two typical "hard rock" men who started life on a par, Sherry rising to the presidency of the company, and Curtis, through drink, remaining where he started. Margery Wilson, last seen in "Flames of Chance," is Shiela Dolan, who helps Livingston make good.

An industrious criminal plays his own game so crookedly that he "double crosses" himself into his own villainous web in Keystone's latest comedy "Did She Do Wrong?" Harry Gribbon is the crook and Claire Anderson is the siren who lures him to new deeds of pillage. Dora Rogers is a vampire, whose path is strewn with broken hearts and pocketbooks.

"She Didn't Do It," and "Wives and Worries" are one-reel comedies which complete the program.

Bessie Love Film Released

The first picture in which Bessie Love figures as a Pathe star is "The Great Adventure." It was released March 10.

"The Great Adventure" is adapted from Henry Kitchell Webster's well-known book, "The Painted Scene." In it Miss Love gives a charming characterization in the kind of part in which she excels, that of a lovable young girl who by her innocence and sweetness dispenses sunshine upon those about her and is an influence for good.

In the cast are such well-known players as Chester Barnett, Donald Hall, Flora Finch, Florence Short, Walter Craven and Jack Dunn. Several of these players have appeared in Pathe pictures before. Chester Barnett only recently played leading man to Gladys Hulette in "Over the Hill"; Miss Finch was in the Gladys Hulette picture, "Prudence, the Pirate," and Mr. Dunn had a prominent part in the very successful Pearl White serial, "The Iron Claw."

Duncan Starts New Vitagraph Serial

Picture Will Be Released in the Middle of July Following Completion of "The Woman in the Web"

WILLIAM DUNCAN, star and director of "The Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance—and the Woman," Vitagraph's two sensational serials, has begun work on another serial which is scheduled to follow "The Woman in the Web."

Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, announces that Duncan and his company have left the studio in Hollywood and gone to Bear Valley to make some of the scenes. The title for the new picture and the cast which will support Mr. Duncan will be announced in a short time, Mr. Smith declares.

It is planned to release the serial about the middle of July, its run starting immediately upon the completion of that of "The Woman in the Web."

With Duncan at work, Vitagraph now has two serial companies producing simultaneously, and this probably will be made a permanent policy, in view of the fact that Mr. Smith has already announced that Vitagraph would provide exhibitors with a serial episode for each week of the year. Mr. Duncan only recently put the finishing touches on "Vengeance—and the Woman," having produced thirty serial episodes in less than a year.

Duncan has come to be recognized as being at the very front in the ranks of serial stars, his work in "The Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance—and the Woman" showing him as one of the most daring men on the screen. Because of his prodigious feats of strength he has been called "The Sandow of the Screen," and the sobriquet is particularly fitting because at one stage of his career Duncan was associated with Sandow in vaudeville, the famous physical culture exponent having held Duncan as a perfect specimen of physical development and also as master of the science of wrestling.

William Duncan, who will soon be seen in a new Vitagraph serial.

Wonder If They've Been Duped

Exhibitors of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, want to know who sent them lengthy telegrams on a collect basis regarding the rumor that all Canadian theatres would be required to close three days each week.

These telegrams were sent from Toronto and were signed by the "Committee of Motion Picture, Vaudeville and Legitimate Theatres and Film Exchanges." There is no such an organization.

The telegrams consisted of 101 words and each exhibitor had to pay $2.

The next time Edmonton exhibitors receive any big collect telegrams they intend to find out the reason why first, if possible.

Lasky Studios Throb with Activity

De Mille Assembles "The Whispering Chorus, While Several Stars Work on New Productions

THE West Coast Studios of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation are throbbing with activity these days.

Cecil B. DeMille has finished cutting "The Whispering Chorus," which will be a March Artcraft release. Beyond question the director says, this production will become a model for future pictures dealing with the deeper emotions. The theme is tremendous and the climax according to Mr. De Mille, is one of the most effective ever introduced. The piece is by Perley Poore Shehan, the scenario by Jeanie MacPherson and the story is now running as a serial in the All Story Weekly.

Sessue Hayakawa has finished "The Honor of His House," which is to be a Paramount release after "Hidden Pearls." Marion Fairfax is responsible for this story, which was directed by W. C. DeMille and which promises to be one of the most powerful dramas in which the noted Oriental star has appeared. Hayakawa is now preparing to start work on "The Unforgivable Sin" under the direction of James Young.

Work will start soon on "Missing," Commodore Blackton's new Paramount picture from the remarkable novel by Mrs. Humphry Ward.

Vivian Martin has been active during the past week on the first scenes for "Unclaimed Goods," produced at the Morosco studios for Paramount release. Miss Martin appears as a little girl of the mining camps in early western days. Rollin Sturgeon is directing this picture, the scenario for which is by Gardner Hunting from a story by Johnston McCully. Harrison Ford supports the star.

Wallace Reid and Ann Little are busy on a new picture under the direction of Donald Crisp. This is a detective story by Elwyn Barron and is full of mystery, thrills, and all the paraphernalia of tales of this sort.

Jack Pickford and Louise Huff are finishing "Sandy."

Milton E. Hoffman, manager of the Lasky studios at Hollywood.

Contrasting scenes from "Eve's Daughter, a Paramount picture starring Billie Burke.

"The Fatal Ring" Yields Big Profits

Pays $112,119 to Pathe and International Film Service, Inc., in Three Months, Suit Reveals

A NEW insight into producers' profits was obtained through the filing of a suit over payment of war taxes by the International Film Service, Inc., against Pathe Exchange, Inc.

"The Fatal Ring," a movie which has thrilled millions, yielded a profit of $112,-119 to its propagators during the months of October, November and December last. The war taxes alone for the three months amounted to $18,014, half of which Pathe deducted before turning over to the International its share of the profits. It is for this amount the latter concern is suing, alleging the subject of war taxes was not mentioned in the contract, and that the deduction is not legal.

In October the total receipts from "The Fatal Ring" ran up to $84,279, but the war taxes that month amounted to nearly $6,000. The net profits were $22,-371. In November the receipts dropped to $81,815, the war taxes to $744 and the net profits jumped to $42,566. In December the net profits were $47,179, the war taxes being only $519.

A news film for the same three months yielded a total net profit of $43,621 for its manufacturers and distributors. As there is newly manufactured film each week, the war taxes for manufacture are kept at a more even level, the minimum for the three months being in December, when they dropped to $1,763. In October they reached $7,611. The net profits for each of the three months was $11,432 for October, $17,464 for November, and $14,724 for December.

6,000,000 See Screen Telegram

Six million Americans saw the news of the world in 1,613 Screen Telegram theatres this week.

The Screen Telegram is being served by more than 100 correspondents in the United States. Chicago is the geographical and commercial center of the country. Distribution of film from Chicago is easier by 44 per cent in actual working availability than is distribution from New York. News will reach American theatres while it is still news.

That is why the Screen Telegram has been booked three for one, it is claimed over all weekly offerings.

Indiana members of the American Exhibitors' Association met last week at the Hotel Severin, Indianapolis. About twenty-five were present. Ray Andrews of Muncie is secretary and Ben Crose of Indianapolis is treasurer of the association.

S. ROYAL TUPPER
General Manager

DON R. EGBERT, Managing Editor

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - - Per year $4.00
Foreign - - Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - - .15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 16, 1918 Number 11

Coins for Convenience

NEWSPAPER men want a two-cent coin, because two cents is now practically a standard price for daily papers. Motion picture theatre men want a fifteen-cent coin because fifteen cents is rapidly becoming the picture show admission standard. There is so much logic in favor of both these new issues that the joint appeal to Congress by the newspaper men and the film men should meet with success. The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, through Secretary Frederick H. Elliot, is handling the proposal for the film industry.

The two-cent bronze coin authorized by act of April 22, 1864, was discontinued February 12, 1873. Less than a million dollars worth of these coins were issued—the smallest amount of any special denomination in our history except the silver twenty-cent piece of 1875 and the copper half-cent of 1792. Yet even then these two-cent coppers were so popular that most of us can remember them still in circulation in the early nineties—fifteen years or so after their discontinuance. And surely if there was ever need for a two-cent piece, we need it now.

The silver twenty-cent piece was issued only for three years with a total coinage of $271,000. While this might be regarded as historical precedent for a coin between the dime and the quarter, there is not now and really was not then any special demand for the denomination. Twenty cents has never been a standard price for anything, except as contemporaneous merchants fitted their goods to the fact of its existence.

Fifteen cents is a recognized rate for several things today; and by long odds the most important of them is picture show admission. The total coinage of the twenty-cent piece during its entire career, if made over into fifteen-cent pieces, would be used up between seven and nine o'clock every evening in paying for picture theatre tickets. That, in a nutshell, is the importance of the proposed fifteen-cent coin.

While the newspapers may have little or no interest in fifteen-cent pieces, the publishers' pet project of a two-cent piece has a place in the theatre man's scheme so long as the present war tax continues. When the patron of any fifteen cent house pays the war tax, as it is intended he should, he must deliver a minimum of four coins to the box office for even change—a dime, a nickel and two pennies. If he delivers instead the nearest single coin, a quarter, the cashier must deliver back to him four coins—a nickel and three pennies. There is no existing way of escape from this multiplicity of coins, either going into the box office or coming out. It is an annoying, distracting, confusing and time-consuming transaction. It adds extra operations to the box office labor which, in a factory, would certainly have to be charged to overhead expense as added cost. Meanwhile it exasperates the patron at the window and delays those behind him.

The newspaper men should and will have the support of the film men in their plea for a two-cent coin. It is only fair to expect reciprocal support from the publishers of the picture interests' appeal for a fifteen-cent coin.

This is the exhibitors' own measure, for their particular benefit. And every exhibitor can help to put it over by the simple expedient of writing to his congressman explaining the situation as briefly and clearly as possible, and making it plain that the new coins would aid efficiency and make the payment of war taxes easier for the people.

Everybody write a letter.

* * *

Parcel Post Film Shipments

DISTRIBUTION is the vital factor in the film business. Not even in the distribution of food is the necessity for efficient transportation methods so great. For it would be entirely possible for a community, provided with adequate ground space and man power, to create its own food supplies. It would never be practicable for every group of local exhibitors to produce their own pictures. The success of picture manufacture and exhibition depends wholly upon transportation.

For that reason the postmaster general's order of February 27, increasing the allowable weights of parcel post packages beginning March 15, is of great importance to all branches of the industry. Briefly, the order changes the weight limitations from fifty to seventy pounds for the first, second and third zones; and from twenty to fifty pounds for all other zones.

It cannot be contested that the mails constitute the most satisfactory of all means of parcel shipment. This is especially true at a time like the present, when other means of transporting merchandise (the express companies) are being driven almost to the point of distress by demands that are weightier in mass and probably in meaning. For the express service of necessity is operating on a basis of war duty first; while the mail service has no priority problems, and will continue to dispatch whatever bears stamps by the quickest route.

The Transportation Committee of the National Association, upon whose recommendations of a year ago the new order is based, is now working with the post office department for a system of receipts for group shipments of film. The committee is confident of success in this recommendation also, for such a system obviously would conserve much time for the post office as well as the shippers.

It is calculated that the new parcel post weight ruling will save the industry (exchanges and exhibitors) several hundred dollars a day. Some Eastern exchanges are now shipping films by parcel post into the second zone, and some Western exchanges into the fourth zone. The possibilities of the larger shipment will tend to make the parcel post the customary and standard method of transportation.

* * *

Locations for City Exchanges

AS related in our news columns last week, one of the big distributing concerns has purchased a large building of its own and prepared to occupy five floors of it for its Chicago headquarters. In doing so it says goodbye to the "loop," long regarded as Chicago's business center, and boldly pioneers its way into the outer belt, some three blocks distant from the prescribed boundaries of congested local industry.

Naturally a great deal more floor space may be had for the same money outside the loop than inside. This, however, was not the essential motive behind the transfer. The fact is that the restrictive lines drawn by the city building and fire prevention departments have become so onerous and drastic as to make downtown life a hardship for the film companies.

In the case of this particular removal from the retail center, Chicago is actually the gainer; for having more floor space the concern will doubtless employ more help and utilize more of the city's supplies. But the loop district is the loser, because the company's hundreds of visitors spent, it is reasonable to suppose, some of their money in the vicinity of the office.

Film distributing offices and exchanges are visited daily by a great many people with money in their pockets. Therefore they are a distinct and positive asset to any community. That fact is usually overlooked by those who frame drastic and frequently unnecessary restrictions.

P. H. W.

Distributor Also Demands Realism

Adds Voice to Exhibitors' in Calling for Different Class of Films to Meet Changing Taste of Public

IN THE SYMPOSIUM on what exhibitors want in pictures, which appeared in the two preceding numbers of Motography, it was demanded by practically all that producers get more simplicity and realism.

Read in this light, the appended interview, with M. H. Hoffman of Foursquare Pictures, is interesting. He says:

"Average pictures will not do." They must be better than average. To attain a specific standard should be the aim of whoever makes a photoplay.

"During the recent slump I visited several cities. Without exception I discovered that the persons who go to the theatres want, above all else, pictures that are human. They want a simple story. They are beginning to like that kind of acting which is what the character would do in real life.

"What is now causing the picture public to exclaim in disgust is the rambling story; that and poorly chosen actors and actreses who 'act' all over the place, especially children, whose direction permits them to exaggerate and to do everything which a child surely would not do. The best proof of all this is for one to go to a theatre and observe the attitude of the spectators during the showing of a photoplay containing these faults I mention.

"Go to the theatres, you producers and distributors who are crying for higher quality; go and observe and then think over a few things. It is so very patent to the man of ordinary powers of observation that I marvel at producers' stupidity in continuing to do the same old worn-out things in the hackneyed fashion which so many cling to with a death-like grip.

"If doing pictures in the right way meant greater thought, greater efforts, more expense, I might understand. But it doesn't. It is easier, in point of fact, to make good piceures than ordinary ones. For simplicity is always productive of the finest—whether it be in art, commerce or a combination of the two.

"I believe we are approaching a period of change in the making of pictures. Unless I am mistaken, there is to be a departure from antiquated methods. Within the next year—unless all signs fail—the people will force the producers to make cleaner pictures and better pictures. And I hope they will, because the industry has suffered all too long from sores in the side which need healing measures."

A laugh in the new Fatty Arbuckle comedy for Paramount release, "The Bell Boy."

Vitagraph Dates Changed

Owing to the inability to obtain a suitable yacht, because most vessels of this type are in the service of the government, a change has been necessitated in the April release list of Vitagraph Blue Ribbon features.

Albert E. Smith, president of the company, makes the announcement that it has been necessary to postpone production of George Barr McCutcheon's story, "The Man from Brodneys," which had been chosen for Earle Williams, and instead the players, under direction of Tom Mills, will be seen in "Sealed Lips." The corrected list of features, as given out by President Smith follows:

April 1—"Little Miss No-Account," featuring Gladys Leslie.

April 8—"The Business of Life," featuring Alice Joyce.

April 15—"The Girl from Beyond," featuring Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman.

April 22—"A Bachelor's Children," featuring Harry Morey with Florence Deshon.

April 29—"Sealed Lips," featuring Earle Williams with Grace Darmond.

The yacht, failure to get which necessitated the change in release dates, was wanted for "The Man from Brodneys."

Play Based on Meatless Days

Herbert Hoover's meatless days play an important part in the new production June Caprice is making for William Fox. Because of the ban on meat eating a special pork and bean combination come into high favor and this, in turn, results in a romance in which Miss Caprice figures. One scene in the picture shows eight freight cars, each bearing a great muslin banner reading:

"Buy a can of Chandler and King's pork and beans and tie the can to the Kaiser!"

Scenes from the Triangle play, "The Hard Rock Breed," featuring Margery Wilson.

First Chaplin Picture Nearly Ready

Rest of Eight for First National Exhibitors' Circuit Will Be Released Every Six Weeks

CHARLIE CHAPLIN will shortly be flickering along on the screen again with the presentation of his initial First National Exhibitors' Circuit production.

The famous comedian is now thundering down the home-stretch of his story, working day and night on what he claims will be the greatest comedy he ever turned out.

Chaplin is carrying out the same policy with his present production as he has in the past, that of not making public the nature of his story until the subject is well on its way to the exhibitors.

It may be said, however, that it is of a nature entirely different from anything the star has heretofore attempted and not alone will his comedy antics provoke thunderous outbursts of joy, but he has also added touches of pathos similar to those evidenced in "Easy Street" and "The Vagabond."

Several new faces will be seen in the forthcoming Chaplin picture as well as the ever welcome features of beautiful Edna Purviance. Fred Starr shoulders the character that usually fell to the late Eric Campbell, and Zasu Pitts, the little artist who won many admirers with her portrayal of the sympathetic slave in Mary Pickford's "Little Princess," will be new to Chaplin followers.

Close to one hundred persons have been used in the making of the picture and the greater part of the action takes place in interior "sets," affording the star tremendous scope for unique comedy situations.

Following the first release, it is planned to issue a Chaplin subject on an average of about every six weeks until the eight comedies, as contracted for, will have been released.

H. Seelig, former newspaper man and magazine writer, has been added to the Triangle scenario staff and is specializing on two-reel comedies.

Chaplin May Be Drafted

The treaty between the United States and Great Britain which permits the drafting of British subjects in this country will affect 200 actors engaged in motion picture work in Los Angeles.

Included in this number is Charlie Chaplin, who is 26 years of age, in good health and has no dependents. Chaplin does not claim exemption upon any grounds and has declared his willingness to answer the call at any time.

Mary Garden Release Date Advanced

"The Splendid Sinner" to Be Available March 24 Instead of April 7, Goldwyn Announces

MARY GARDEN'S second Goldwyn production, "The Splendid Sinner," will be released throughout North America March 24, instead of April 7, as was first announced.

This change of date is due to Samuel Goldfish's desire to increase exhibitor prosperity instantly in all parts of the country.

"When business shows a widespread inclination or tendency to improve," says Mr. Goldfish in explanation, "the greatest help a producing organization can give its exhibitor patrons is to release productions of great drawing power. In 'Thais' Miss Garden lifted business to record levels, and since 'The Splendid Sinner,' in my opinion, is twice as powerful as 'Thais,' I expect to see landslide business wherever this new production is played.

"I have a very fair indication of the pleasure and gratification that will be manifested by exhibitors in a thing that has happened in New York. I had told one or two exhibitors of our intention to bring forward the release date of Miss Garden's second picture, and they at once contracted for a showing of double the time usually given to a single picture in their houses."

Alteration of the releasing schedule brings Mabel Normand back before the public in her second Goldwyn release, "The Floor Below," on March 2.

John H. Kunsky, the Michigan exhibitor, who saw this production a few days ago at the Goldwyn studios in Fort Lee, proclaimed it as one of the best productions he has seen in months and added:

"I find every element of amusement and strength in this wonderful Goldwyn production which, to me, is even more successful and pleasing than her first Goldwyn success, 'Dodging a Million.' Productions like this will vastly aid in bringing the public back to the theatre."

Miss Garden follows the Mabel Normand picture on March 24 and then two weeks later comes Madge Kennedy in "The Danger Game."

"Rich Man, Poor Man" for Miss Clark

Paramount Star Begins Work on Production Which Was Success as Story and Spoken Drama

"RICH MAN, POOR MAN," is the title of a play on which Marguerite Clark has begun production in New York. The star has a strictly dramatic role.

If publicity counts for anything, this Paramount picture will make its appearance under auspicious conditions, as the story, by Maxmilian Foster, was published as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post. It was then issued in book form, and a large number of editions have been printed. It is still enjoying a steady demand at the best stores.

George Broadhurst dramatized "Rich Man, Poor Man" and presented it at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York, where it remained for a long run, and several companies have taken the piece on tour.

The plot is particularly adaptable to a photoplay and should prove more effective in picture form than when shown on the stage.

It deals with an orphan whose mother died in a boarding house when she was two years old and who was reared by the kindly keeper of the hostlery, who treated her as her own daughter. On the stage the play opened with the grown-up girl, while in the picture the pathetic incidents of her early life create sympathy for Bab, as she is called, and with tiny Marguerite Clark in the role, this sympathy should be intensified.

All actors are superstitious, and it is considered an omen of good luck that Miss Clark, through a coincidence, plays the part of Bab in "Rich Man, Poor Man," while as Bab in "Bab's Diary" she scored one of the biggest hits of her screen career.

Through a further coincidence, J. Searle Dawley, who produced the Bab series, is directing "Rich Man, Poor Man." Mr. Dawley's last picture was "The Lie," for Artcraft release, starring Elsie Ferguson.

Broncho Billy Booking Heavy

Bookings on Essanay's Broncho Billy re-issues prove George K. Spoor's belief that exhibitors have not forgotten the popularity of these pictures.

The first of this series, "Broncho Billy's Leap," was released on March 1. The others for the month are: March 8, "Broncho Billy and the Rattler"; March 15, "Broncho Billy's Close Call"; March 22, "Broncho Billy and the Settler's Daughter."

"Snakeville's Fire Brigade," the first re-issue of Essanay's familiar "Snakeville Comedies," is to be released on March 23. The comedies will be distributed through General Film weekly.

Four Triangle Pictures Completed

Work Starts on "In the Spring," "Heritage," "The Honorable Billy" and "The Siren in the House"

THE RECENT RAIN STORM which deluged southern California did not impede Triangle progress at Culver City, for, with most of the exteriors of current productions "shot," the producing companies continued their work in the five glass studios.

During the last week four feature pictures have been completed and as many new stories put under production with carefully selected casts.

A romance of the Canadian northwest, a western thriller, two society dramas and a one-reel comedy comprise the pictures now in the editing department. They are "The Law of the Great Northwest," "Boss of the Lazy Y," "Another Foolish Virgin," "The Vortex" and "Many Happy Returns."

Following the release of John A. Moroso's play, "The Shoes That Danced," a new drama by the same author has been obtained—"In the Spring." The story appeared in Collier's Magazine. It is based on the New York police force and shows life in the Italian underworld. Joe King is cast as a police inspector who falls in love with Margery Wilson, whom he believes is a reformed crook. Under the direction of Raymond Wells this play is well under way.

E. Mason Hopper has begun work on a drama written by Lillian Ducey, the working title of which is "Heritage." In the cast are Jack Richardson, Irene Hunt, Darrell Foss, Wilbur Higbee, Walter Whitman, Walter Perry, twelve-year-old Burwell Hamrick and little Frankie Lee, who appeared for the first time with Roy Stewart in "Boss of the Lazy Y."

"Heritage" is a transcontinental drama, whose action starts in the reconstruction period when many scions of proud old southern families found themselves without resources. Then the action jumps to California in the days of the gold rush, and depicts the struggles of the hero as a prospector. Jack Richardson and Irene Hunt are both required to play dual roles, first as lovers who are separated by circumstances and later as the son and daughter of those sweethearts.

A new comedy, "First Aid," on which Herman Raymaker is handling the megaphone, features Billy Franey, and includes in the supporting cast Maud

Twenty-four sheet stand on "A Pair of Sixes," which Essanay has designed for the new Taylor Holmes feature. The idea is also carried out in trade paper advertising, slides, window advertising and other accessories.

Scenes from the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, "An American Live Wire," featuring Earle Williams and Grace Darmond, which will be released March 18.

Wayne, Diana Carrillo, Myrtle Reeves and Burwell Hamrick. There are various bathing scenes in this new fun maker.

Director Jack Dillon is well under way on "The Siren in the House," a five-reel comedy with Olive Thomas in the title role, as the alluring siren. During the filming of the early scenes Miss Thomas nearly lost her new roadster. Wallace MacDonald, her leading man, had borrowed it and getting the gears mixed he slipped into reverse and tried to climb a telegraph pole backwards. MacDonald was uninjured and latest reports have it that the car will recover. William V. Mong, Claire McDowell, Ray Griffith and Lee Phelps are also cast in this production.

Director Thomas N. Heffron expects to finish within a week his latest subject, "The Veil," a political drama in which J. Barney Sherry is seen as a politician.

Exchange Men Declare War on Censors

Distributing Agencies in Winnipeg Threaten to Close and Force Theatres to Do Likewise Unless Demands Are Met

EXCHANGES at Winnipeg, Canada, have combined in a war against the Manitoba Board of Censors and unless certain demands are granted both the exchanges and exhibitors threaten to take drastic action, even to closing their doors.

Winnipeg exchange managers to the number of twelve have officially and formally complained that the Manitoba Censor Board is unreasonable in its judgment of films.

A one man censor board is demanded instead of the present board which consists to two men and one woman. The exchange managers also demand that an appeal board be established, the new organization to consist of one man and two women with representatives from such institutions as the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. M. I.

Unless the Department of Justice takes action along these lines, the exchanges, at least, threaten to close their doors soon. Notice to this effect has been sent to all exhibitors in the province. The latter, eighty in number, may then have to close for want of new releases or they may close voluntarily until some relief is afforded.

This move follows the adoption by the Manitoba government of the Amusement Tax act by means of which the province hopes to gain $300,000 revenue each year from patrons of theatres.

"Laugh and the World Laughs with You"

A THREE COLUMN CURE FOR THE BLUES

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS has started a fish farm at Hollywood, and thereby hangs a tale; a fish story, to be sure, but approximately true, nevertheless.

Bill, bald and smiling star of Goldwyn's new Capitol Comedies, took to heart the recent advice of Dr. C. H. Townsend, director of the New York Aquarium, who urges the raising of fish rather than chickens as a war economy. In the back yard of his studio at Hollywood he caused to be installed an up-to-date retreat for fish, old or young, rich or poor, without regard for race or creed. He barred only German carp.

When the pond had been stocked, Mr. Parsons invited to the dedicatory ceremonies John W. Fish, the Los Angeles film magnate; Herbert A. Codd, a city selectman; Ivy Troutman, the actress; Herbert Haddock, veteran director; Irving Crabb, San Diego banker; A. Toxen Worm, publicist, and a score of others. Mr. Worm very promptly sent his regrets from New York.

After the pool had been christened with a bottle of liquid fish food, Mr. Parsons addressed his guests and revealed the motives which prompted his experiment in the interests of Hooverism. Said he:

"I agree with Dr. Townsend that fish culture promises to be an interesting and profitable pursuit. It has even more advantages over chicken raising than he points out.

"Fish don't consume cracked corn and other grains needed for the allies.

"They don't run out into the road and get killed by reckless automobilists.

"They don't wake up the neighborhood before the milkman arrives.

"They will, if you let them alone, lay more eggs than a chicken ever knew existed."

✣ ✣ ✣

A number of Los Angeles women friends of Viola Dana, dainty little Metro star, were delighted the other day to receive neatly engraved invitations to a dinner party, to be given Miss Dana, so the cards read, at the Cafe des Enfants. A note gave the address of the cafe and explained that it had just been opened.

The guests arrived promptly, several of them in limousines. The cars drew up before a white fronted building. In the window a man in a white coat and cap was cooking wheat cakes and "sinkers." Inside the surprised women found Miss Dana, her face alight with mischief.

"Viola, dear," one of the guests exclaimed, "there must be some mistake. Your card said 'Cafe des Enfants.'"

"Yes," replied Miss Dana, grinning, "Cafe des Enfants is French for 'restaurant of the children'—therefore Child's."

After she had enjoyed her joke Miss Dana took the party around the corner to the Alexandria Hotel, where she had arranged a spread.

✣ ✣ ✣

They are telling this story on R. A. Walsh at the Fox studios:

A man playing a certain part was slow in comprehending instructions, so R. A. turned to an assistant and said: "Here, Jim, you really punch me—hit me hard." The assistant took him at his word—delivered a swinging blow with his weight behind it—and Walsh crashed through a railing and down the stairs to the floor below.

"There," he said, as he scrambled to his feet, "that's the way I want it done."

He had no more trouble in the shooting of the scene.

✣ ✣ ✣

Fatty Arbuckle tells a good joke on himself. "Fame is not all that it is cracked up to be," says the comedian.

While crossing the continent recently Fatty was enjoying life and everything in the prospects of getting back to his native California. Shortly after leaving New York along came a sour-visaged conductor on his ticket expedition. Fatty extracted one of those lengthy strips of paper which the railroads are pleased to call tickets and handed it to the conductor.

As the conductor glanced at the name he remarked:

"Oh, your name is Arbuckle?"

"Yes," acknowledged Fatty, trying to appear modest.

"Well, I'll declare," said friend conductor, "this is the first time I've met up with that Arbuckle coffee name in years."

Fatty says the jury is still out.

✣ ✣ ✣

Texas Guinan, who has been "pinched" for speeding more times than any three persons at the Triangle Culver City studios, still hasn't learned her lesson, according to reports. As she was leaving the studios for her home at the beach the other day an electric car passed her and she saw her husband, Julian Johnson, in one of the seats much engrossed in his paper. She let out a whoop that would have done credit to an Indian and gave chase, opening the throttle wide. She pulled up at two stops and tried to attract Johnson's attention, but without success. At the third stop the conductor asked her what the row was and Miss Guinan replied, "I want my husband. That's him in the last seat reading the paper. Throw him off." The conductor did as requested.

✣ ✣ ✣

Wallace MacDonald of Triangle claims that the best girl ushers in the world are to be found at Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles. Recently MacDonald went to attend the Harry Lauder performance and for safety carried a dollar umbrella. After the performance he found himself on the street without it. Rushing back he told his troubles to one of the girls and she reappeared in a few moments with his umbrella all done up in a nice silk cover and with a new gold handle on it. "Mac" says you can't beat that for service.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ben Turpin of the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedies knows what it means to sacrifice himself to art. In a new comedy he is required to make a fall on a hard board floor. In making the picture he took the tumble with such fidelity to his art that he broke the floor. The crash so startled the cameraman that he forgot to grind. Then he told Ben it would all have to be done over again. "Can't do it," said the comedian, laconically. "Why not?" he was asked. "I'm all full of splinters," replied Ben and he made for his dressing room.

Earl Rodney, who appears in "The Keys of the Righteous" and "Naughty, Naughty," as leading man for Enid Bennett, Thomas H. Ince star.

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY'S TRAINED MOTION PICTURE REVIEWERS

"Headin' South"

Artcraft Picture with Douglas Fairbanks. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

A UNIQUE and distinctive mystery plot is the basis of the most recent Fairbanks feature, written for the star by Allan Dwan. It is a story that presents unlimited opportunities for the popular athletic star and each one is taken full advantage of. Fairbanks is everywhere and his dominating personality is, as usual, a singular advantage.

"Headin' South" and his senorita.

The story relates an episode during the recent troubles on the Mexican border, the chief characters of which are a stranger, who because of his traveling tendencies is dubbed "Headin' South"; and a Mexican bandit who has earned the soubriquet of Mexican Joe. The action of the plot is traced from the innermost depths of the Canadian north country, to the far-off deserts of the Mexican border. This furnishes quite a variety of natural beauty; the Canadian forest scenes are rich in their regal splendor, while the cactus fields of Arizona offer just the opposite extreme of a barren country. The many exteriors have been well selected and are in keeping with the atmosphere of the plot.

Catherine MacDonald is a pleasing personality as the Mexican senorita, who later becomes a blushing bride, and adds materially to the interest of the story. Frank Campeau, who has been seen in many of the Fairbanks' pictures, is again seen as the villain in this picture; Campeau plays Mexican Joe, a role that is peculiarly suited to his talents. The only Doug plays the dashing hero "Headin' South," who creates the impression, at first sight, of being a ferocious villain. Arthur Rosson directed, under supervision of Allan Dwan, and the masterful manner in which the big scenes were handled is tribute to his excellent work.

The story: A strange outlaw lands in a small town on the border, and joins a band of Mexican bandits under the leadership of Mexican Joe, who has been terrorizing the neighborhood. The stranger tells of his travels from Canada to the south and earns the name of "Headin' South." As such a reward is offered by the authorities for his capture with that of the Mexican. After many experiences "Headin'" meets a beautiful Mexican senorita whose home the bandits have taken possession of. Mexican Joe forces his attentions upon the girl and Headin' beats him and makes him a prisoner. He helps the girl to escape with her many women servants. The bandits have become frenzied with drink and demand the women; upon learning they have escaped they follow in pursuit. The women arrive safely in the border town just as the bandits ride up. A furious gun battle then ensues in which the Mexicans appear to be getting the upper hand, but a band of Rangers arrive and turn the tables. Headin' South is captured with the bandits and is about to be taken away when he is recognized by one of the deputies. He reveals himself as Corporal Smith, of the North West Mounted Police of Canada, and explains that he had been detailed to arrest Mexican Joe for the murder of a member of the force. So Headin' South, or Corporal Smith as he is now known, makes his formal arrest and, incidentally, wins for a bride the Mexican girl he had saved.

"The Family Skeleton"

Ince-Paramount with Charles Ray. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

WHAT many people have hoped for has finally come to pass. It had to happen sometime and now it is an established fact. Charles Ray is not a country boy in his latest picture. And he loses no prestige by the change of his characters, but most assuredly adds to his reputation as a portrayer of characters other than those of rural origin.

Ray is a city-bred fellow, supposedly of strong character, but whose one weakness is a belief that he will ruin his life with drink. Ordinarily Billy Bates, which part Ray plays, was a mild indulger but the constant repetition of the statements that his father had died from drink, works upon his mind. He finally convinces himself that he is destined to follow in his father's footsteps, and establishes a record for consumption of the "devil's medicine." A chorus girl acquaintance, not the ordinary kind, takes matters into her own hands and works out the restitution of the man whom she finally admits she loves. So Billy is shown that his weakness was not due to heredity but to fear and habit; he admits his errors and all ends happily.

This is a strong appeal to those who have made themselves victims of booze. The story is told in a forceful and convincing manner and the many scenes of drunken riot are tolerable because of the great lesson they preach.

Charles Ray plays Billy Bates, and as before mentioned, does not lose any prestige. The customary boy role has its limits and to prove the versatility of a star, a variety of characters must be provided. Sylvia Bremer is a charming Poppy Drayton and is sincere in her part. Billy Elmer is an excellent type for the part of Spider Doyle and does some good work. Victor Schertzinger again directed under the supervision of Thos. M. Ince.

The story: Upon occasion of his coming into his majority, Billy Bates is visited by his numerous guardians and advised as to his future relation with drink. Mindful of the fact that his father had died from too much strong drink, Billy takes the advice to heart. In his acquaintanceship with the men about town the family weakness is well known, and wise men predict Billy's fall just as his father's had been. He continues to drink and convinces himself that heredity can not be denied. He feels that if he must die a drunkard, nothing will prevent it. But Poppy Drayton, a chorus girl, believes differently and works to convince Billy that it is habit and not blood heredity, that makes him drink.

"It's habit, not heredity."

She hits upon a plan and starts it moving. Billy, a habitat of a cheap saloon, meets Spider Doyle, an ex-prize fighter, and incurs his enmity. Poppy, on a slumming trip, meets Billy and is recognized by Doyle as a former pal. Billy, firm in his belief that the girl is honest, strenuously objects to the Spider's familiarity and is beaten up for his pains. He overhears a plot to kidnap Poppy and goes to her home as guard. Doyle enters bent on vengeance and Billy attacks him. The ex-pugilist is severely beaten and when the lights go up Poppy enters. She then reveals the whole plot and Billy is convinced of the errors of his way.

"Huck and Tom"

Paramount Picture Starring Jack Pickford. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein.

BEING the further adventures of Tom Sawyer, and Tom still being a boy, this delightful feature ends in a semi-satisfactory manner. Surpassing even the first of the Mark Twain stories, "Huck and Tom" have firmly entrenched themselves in the hearts of film lovers. There is no need to say that these stories of Twain's are, beyond a doubt, the best delineators of American boyhood; that statement has been oft repeated. But it must be admitted that the film versions of the many episodes, written by America's favorite humorist, have indeed proven themselves to be a series of most delightful comedy-dramas.

The many adventures which befall the two main characters are exceedingly amusing in their peculiarities. Superstition is the cause of their trouble in this story. Because Huck believed that a dead cat could cure warts, the youngsters are first seen in the cemetery, in the dead of night, and become the witnesses of a murder that is blamed on an innocent man. Tom's evidence saves the unfortunate one but the guilty party escapes. Upon this is based a series of incidents in which Tom and his sweetheart, Becky Thatcher, are lost and found.

Jack Pickford's work as Tom cannot be praised too highly; the same must be said of Robert Gordon as Huck. These two connive some intricate and inspiring adventures for themselves which threaten to work out disastrously. Clara Horton is Becky Thatcher. Frank Lanning is effective as Injun Joe, while others in the cast include Edythe Chapman, Tom Bates, Jane Keckley, and John Burton. William D. Taylor directed.

The story: Huck and Tom, up to mischief as usual, visit the cemetery and are witnesses to the murder of a "body snatcher." Injun Joe and Muff Potter, who had been engaged by the snatcher, are the culprits; but Injun Joe is the chief mischief maker, he having killed the man and placed the knife in Potter's hand, convincing that poor unfortunate that he had killed the snatcher. Huck and Tom swear secrecy, but when the trial of Potter comes up, Injun Joe lays all blame on Potter. The boys decide on action and Tom takes the stand for the defense. He reveals Joe's part in the affair and the Indian makes the most of an opportunity and escapes. Tom now is the hero of the town, but this does not stop him from planning new adventures.

Huck and Tom hide their treasure.

With Huck he searches an old haunted house. Injun Joe enters, effectively disguised, with a stranger. They hide some money in the house and the boys plan to get it. Tom leaves Huck to watch the Indian while he joins Becky Thatcher's picnic. Tom and Becky, with other boys and girls, enter a cave and start to explore. Tom and Becky separate from the others and lose their way in the cave; when the picnicers leave for home they do not notice the absence of the two. A two days' search brings the boy and girl home and Becky's father, to prevent a re-occurrence of the episode, has the cave sealed; but Tom reveals the presence of Injun Joe in the cave. He had said nothing to Becky for fear she would be frightened; on opening the cave Injun Joe is found dead. Huck and Tom secure the treasure and are again the heroes of the town.

"Carmen of the Klondike"

Selexart-States Right with Clara Williams. Released March 3. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

WHEN Monte M. Katterjohn wrote "The Flame of the Yukon" some time ago, few people thought that it would ever be surpassed as a drama of life in Alaska. But Katterjohn comes right back with another of his absorbing stories and "Carmen of the Klondike" is the result of his efforts. For a story to be made so convincing and forceful, co-operation between author, director and continuity writer is absolutely essential. Therefore Director Reggie Barker and Author Katterjohn collaborated as continuity writers and have retained every particle of interest.

Scenes of great natural beauty are abundant; wonderful snow scenes have been effected and a never-to-be-forgotten struggle in a drenching rain storm provides the necessary outstanding point of special attention. We have seen many fist fights on the screen, but nothing has ever approached the battle staged in this picture, with Ed. Coxen and Merschel Mayall as the principals. The men roll around and batter each other; they are soaked to the skin and covered with slime and mud, but continue the fight until Coxen ultimately is the victor.

Clara Williams is an excellent type for the dance hall girl character and does some exceptional work as Dorothy Harlan. Whether dancing in the saloon or in other less prominent scenes, the star accomplishes her work in a pleasing manner. Ed. Coxen, many times a hero in pioneer days of filmdom, is cast as Cameron Stewart, a young lawyer who travels to the unconfined regions of Alaska to establish a practice. Herschell Mayall, accredited the leading film heavy, has the part of "Silk" MacDonald, dance-hall owner and leading citizen of the town of Seward, Alaska. In all, the picture is one of the most interesting seen in some time and should prove a great attraction.

The story: Dorothy Harlan, a vaudeville singer in the States, is on her way to Alaska to join her fiance, Cameron Stewart. On the boat she befriends a stowaway and incidentally incurs the enmity of "Silk" MacDonald, saloon owner and generally recognized as ruler of the town for which Dorothy is bound. MacDonald vows to get her for himself and plans to blacken Stewart's name. Arriving in Seward "Silk" frames up Stewart and has him drugged and put to bed by one of the dance-hall girls. Dorothy finds him in this predicament and takes the natural course of breaking the engagement. She accepts a position as singer in MacDonald's place and Stewart, after recovering from the effects of the drug, joins in the gold rush. MacDonald joins the prospectors and keeps his eye open for trouble. Stewart locates a rich claim but MacDonald, nursing a secret enmity for him, jumps the claim and beats him. The old stowaway happens along and rescues the unconscious Stewart. The faithful man hastens back to the settlement and invokes the aid of Dorothy in filing the claim for Stewart. MacDonald returns and finds that Stewart had beaten him to the claim, but arranges a private dinner for Dorothy and himself. Plying MacDonald with wine, Dorothy has him good and drunk and attempts an escape. A lamp is overturned and the place catches fire. Dorothy is rescued by Stewart, who gets MacDonald and beats him up. In the course of the fight an old enemy, whose wife had been stolen by MacDonald, seeing his chance to get even, pulls a gun and kills MacDonald. The men accept Stewart as their new leader and he and Dorothy are reunited.

"Ann's Finish"

Margarita Fischer in American-Mutual Comedy Drama of March 11. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS is one of those comedy-dramas written about adventures in a girls' school. Miss Fischer, as Ann, a mischievous youngster in a finishing school, has a congenial role and acts it with her usual spirit. She wears some very becoming clothes and looks very pretty. The comedy is nicely produced, with good settings and photography, and is entertaining. Action and humorous complications are plentiful. The offering as a whole is well up to the standard of the Margarita Fischer series.

Ann announces that she is a war-bride.

Opposite the star is Jack Mower. Others in the cast are Adelaide Elliott, David Howard, John Gough, Robert Klein and Perry Banks. Lloyd Ingraham directed the play.

The story: Ann, having been expelled from several schools, hopes to finish in this one. But when a good-looking burglar invades her room and begs her, in the name of his sick mother, not to turn him over to the police, Ann tells the matron that he is her husband, and she is ordered home. At the senior reception, the story that Ann is a "war-bride" is spread among her friends and Ann determines to play up to the part. Later she captures another burglar and her bravery wins her forgiveness.

Deciding she would look nice in widow's weeds, Ann determines to get rid of her alleged husband. Reading in the paper of the sinking of a transport, she announces that her "husband" was on board, and once again she is the center of attraction, playing the part of an inconsolable widow.

Meanwhile, the second burglar manages to communicate with his pals and inform them that in his coat, which was lost in Ann's room during the struggle, are incriminating papers. The crooks go at night to the school to regain the papers. The same night, Ann, who has come upon the coat and discovered the list of proposed robberies, surmises that the crooks have planned to rob the Chappell home. She discovers the telephone wires have been cut, and resolves to go herself to the police station. She is abducted by the crooks and carried to their rendezvous in the mountains. Ann makes her escape in the morning from the cabin, and is pursued by the crook. Robert, the mysterious burglar and "husband," taking a morning canter, arrives in time to rescue Ann, and the crook is brought to the Chappell home, but when he calls Mrs. Chappell "mother," and tells her he is a novelist seeking "atmosphere" for a realistic story, Ann sees her "finish" and decides to forsake her widow's weeds and go back to her "husband."

"The Girl in the Dark"

Carmel Myers in Bluebird Mystery Story. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

MYSTERY is the predominating element in this picture. Adapted from a published story, "The Green Seal," written by Charles Edmund Walk, it is an entertaining adventure play, which should meet with the same amount of success attained by the other Bluebird mystery plays, such as "The Mysterious Mr. Tiller." Theaters in which mystery stories are popular, in which mystery serials are well liked, will find this play suitable. With its gang of villainous Chinamen, its intrigues and puzzling plot, it is somewhat in the style of an episode in a serial story, the complications of course being straightened out in the end.

Carmel Myers is attractive as the heroine, although she is not called upon to do very much acting. Miss Myers has many qualities which should make her a popular favorite, but as yet Bluebird has not given her especially fitting stories. She is the type of player who is adapted for emotional society plays in which there are plenty of pretty gowns to be worn. She is much more suited to that sort of story than to adventure plays.

Ashton Dearholt does good work as the hero, Brice Ferris. Others in the cast are Frank Tokanaga, Frank Deschon, Harry Carter, Alfred Allen and Betty Schade.

The story: Bruce Ferris (Dearholt) rescues Lois Fox (Miss Myers) from a group of Chinamen and takes her to his home. In reviving her, he discovers a peculiar Chinese idiograph tattooed into the flesh of her neck. Ming, his Chinese valet, becomes greatly excited, and when Ferris turns his back, slips a ring which bears the same green sign from her finger. But Ferris has seen the action in a mirror. He takes the ring away from his servant and throws him out of the house. Before the girl can tell him anything of her story a man calls to see the girl. As they go to the room where Ferris has left the girl, a scream indicates another struggle. The door is locked. While the stranger attempts to force the door, Ferris jumps in through a window and finds Ming on the floor, slain, with the mark of the idiograph upon his forehead. The girl is again unconscious. When he opens the door his visitor has strangely disappeared. But he soon gets a note from him asking for an interview under safe conduct. Ferris' answer proves a decoy to get the girl into the hands of a well-organized band of Chinamen who already have secured Ferris' strange visitor. By a well-planned trick the chief of police is enabled to follow Ferris into the band's headquarters, and by overwhelming force capture the stranger, whose name is Strang, and the girl. In the ruins of the highly-organized Chinese underground chamber, Strang tells his story. The girl is his niece, born in Thibet, who was left at an orphan asylum with no other means of identification or fortune than the green seal ring. This ring had been stolen by her father in Thibet, and was the sign and symbol of authority in the land of Lama. Strang had just obtained the address of his niece through the message which the girl had read in a newspaper asking her to call at Ferris' address.

"Sheriff Nell's Tussle"

Paramount-Sennett Comedy with Polly Moran. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

POLLY MORAN, the chief female mirth provoker of the Mack Sennett forces, is again featured in another of the Triggerville comedies. As mentioned in a sub-title, Sheriff Nell is still the Pride of Triggerville, and Ben Turpin, her steady-eyed and strong lover, is still after her.

Coinciding with other episodes of the Triggerville stories,

Sheriff Nell gets her man.

Nell is in full authority of the town and meets an eastern crook, under the guise of an artist seeking adequate atmosphere for a masterpiece. Nell becomes the model but when a billy goat puts his head through the canvas just where Nell's face should be, there is a small riot of indignation. Artist and model make up and plan to run a show in the "opry" house. Unknown to Nell and the entire populace, the entire twenty-nine of them, the stranger is in league with others to rob Nell's safe. While the show is on the safe is cracked and the contents absconded. Nell discovers the loss and with her partner, Ben, gives chase. Then follows a series of ludicrously humorous incidents in which Nell disguises herself as a man and makes the capture. She recovers the valuables and returns to Triggerville, still the pride of the town.

"It Pays to Exercise"

Paramount-Sennett Comedy. Released March 10. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

MACK SENNETT, the peer of motion picture comedy directors, has produced one that should convulse an audience in laughter. Chester Conklin is the chief fun-maker, and his partner is Slim Summerville, who is always getting Chester into trouble. Pretty Alice Maison is the girl in the case and is a great asset of the picture.

Chester is first seen as a demonstrator for a physical culture apparatus company and is just about to close a deal for a big order when Slim enters and Chester, to prove the merits of his article, starts a demonstration on the elongated one. Slim upsets the whole party and beats up Chester, with the result that the prospective buyer changes his mind. Chester loses his job but quickly gets another one as assistant to a dentist. The judge comes in to be treated and Chester doses him with gas. Slim again enters on the scene and in the fight that follows the judge is the recipient of a beautiful colored optic. The judge goes to a beauty parlor to have his eye recolored and there meets Alice, Chester's sweetheart. Chester and Slim also happen in. A mix-up, in which the judge loses his trousers, ensues, and next day the entire party is brought to court. Chester is about to be sentenced for life, but Alice interferes by exhibiting the judge's trousers, and Chester goes scot-free. The judge is at the receiving end of a sound beating, administered by his dutiful spouse.

"The Wasp"

World Picture Starring Kitty Gordon. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

AS a means of providing entertainment "The Wasp" should satisfy, for it has all the elements necessary. The love theme is interwoven with a spy plot and the two points of vantage are worked together to a fitting conclusion. But the continuity of the picture is sadly in want, and one or two minor changes would tend to bind the several angles of the story together more firmly. On a whole the picture is good entertainment; it relates the story of a young lady whose cynicism, satire and sharp tongue had earned for her the soubriquet of the "wasp." An ambitious father desires her marriage to a man she does not love, and to escape from the continual torment she leaves home. The many adventures she meets, and the way in which she extricates herself, culminate in a hurried marriage with her chauffeur, who in reality is the son of a wealthy business acquaintance of her father.

The regal exteriors are a great asset, for their rich splendor and fitting atmosphere are no small part of the picture. The factory and strike scenes are effective although the fight which takes place is rather stagey. Kitty Gordon plays the part of Grace Culver in her usual capable manner and is ably assisted by Rockcliffe Fellowes, as John Courtland, the chauffeur and later her husband; Charles Gerry plays her father, John Culver, in an acceptable manner, and Victor Kennard is Kane Putnam, the objectionable suitor. Lionel Belmore is Wagner, leader of the strikers but secretly a German spy.

The story: Kane Putnam proposes to Grace Culver but is refused. John Culver desires his daughter to marry Putnam and is insistent that she do so. To escape the continual admonitions of her father, Grace leaves home one night. Her chauffeur is a new man and Grace is rather skeptical as to his integrity, and during the trip he becomes rather fresh. An all night drive brings them near Syracuse, but when ordered to enter the city the chauffeur refuses. Grace tells him that he shall be discharged when they return. The chauffeur takes this order with a broad grin that works on Grace's nerves. She begins to feel sorry for having left home and decides to return. On the trip homeward, the car is stopped by strikers of her father's canneries and when they attempt to assault her, the chaffeur intervenes and is knocked unconscious. The car is burned and Grace, her maid and the chauffeur are prisoners. Grace and the maid escape and overhear a plot to blow up the canneries. Arming themselves, they effect the release of the chauffeur and the maid goes for aid. Grace and the chauffeur enter the tunnel and the explosion is not effective. The guardsmen arrive, arrest the conspirators, and the chauffeur is revealed as John Courtland, a wealthy young man who is looking for adventure. Grace and her chauffeur are married and all ends happily.

Employee and employer now husband and wife.

"The Sign Ivisible"

Edgar Lewis—First National Exhibitors, Starring Mitchell Lewis. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THE same quartet that scored so popular a success in the Rex Beach story, "The Barrier," are again in the fore with a new production which should prove every bit as successful as its predecessor. "The Sign Invisible," by Anthony Kelly, is the story provided, and the characters are suitably coincident with the talents of the cast chosen. Vividly relating the story of a man who had lost his faith in God and who openly boasted of his disbelief, and then working up to a fitting conclusion, in which the man finally realizes the strength of the Great Power, it is as forceful and gripping a story as could be desired. The characters are made to live and do not at all seem the fictitious people they are; capable direction has also added to the interest of the picture. The story, itself, is tense drama but interspersed are little bits of grim humor, that are relieving and at the same time add strength to the already strong picture.

Mitchell Lewis lives up to his former standards as Lone Deer, and his great personality could not be dispensed with. Victor Sutherland is Dr. Winston and displays new depths of hidden dramatic capability. Mabel Julienne Scott plays Jeannette Mercier in her usual capable and bewitching manner. The fourth member of the quartet is Edgar Lewis, the producer, who has again brought forth a great picture, and one that embodies world-wide appeal. In all, the picture is one that should not fail to please and at the same time enlist a great army of followers.

The story: Dr. Winston, a young surgeon, suffers a mental breakdown. When operating on his mother, for whom he has lived his whole life, he commits an error, the result being the death of his mother. The very substance of his life gone, Winston renounces his faith in God and leaves the city for parts unknown. Months later he turns up at a settlement in northwest Canada and meets Jeannette Mercier, daughter of the minister. His many utterances as to his religious beliefs act as a barrier to the cementing of his friendship with the girl, and one night she finds him drunk. He turns his steps toward the church and in drunken frenzy holds off a band of men bound on destroying the church. He gets into a fight with Lone Deer, a half breed, and although the Indian beats him, the fight rather tends to form a close friendship instead of an enmity. Later, the bully of the village forces his attention upon Jeannette and Lone Deer goes to her rescue. In the fight the Indian's head crashes through the window and he is blinded. The bully pulls a gun and shoots the Indian. Winston takes part and beats up the bully, at the same time rescuing the Indian. An operation becomes necessary to extract the bullet and also to operate upon the eyes. The bullet is extracted successfully but the Indian does not see; his appeal to God to let the Indian live having been granted Winston is partly converted. When the Indian leaves with his sweetheart, Winston finally sees the light and left alone with Jeannette, realizes his great error.

"The Song of the Soul"

Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Starring Alice Joyce. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

A STRONG mother love appeal is the dominating theme of this most recent Alice Joyce vehicle and it is carried out to a startling conclusion. The story itself is not an unusual one, and has been treated very often in similar fashion as has this one. Aided and abetted by a charming star, who has gained an enviable reputation, and who is surrounded by a supporting cast of the strongest possible calibre, the picture has an exceptional human appeal that should reach the hearts of all.

The story relates the many experiences in the life of Ann Fenton, who believes she has married a man of clean character. After two years of life with Fenton, Ann learns that he is a bigamist and news reaches the ostentatious villagers of the scandal. Alone, Ann is unable to combat their advances and her child is taken from her. Seven years later she is seen as assistant to Dr. Evans, a prominent surgeon who has come to love her. He proposes, but although she reciprocates the affection, Ann tells him she could never marry him.

She returns to her old home and sees her son, now a legally adopted child of cruel parents. The boy's body shows the marks of many beatings and Ann decides to get him. Back in the city, she meets Fenton, and as a last resource begs him for money with which to procure the release of her son. Fenton refuses and Ann falls sick on the doorstep of his gambling house. Ruth, a woman established in comfortable quarters by Fenton and his partner, finds Ann and takes her to her home. There Dr. Evans finds her and insists on Ann marrying him. Ann accepts and gains her husband's consent to adopt the boy.

Fenton now has a menace to hold over Ann and threatens to disclose her past. Evans has decided to take action against the gambling institution which is operated by Fenton. Evans owns the property but had not known of the use the house had been put to. Holding this threat of disclosure, Fenton makes advances and is repulsed by Ann. He visits her at her home and there is unexpectedly captured by Evans and the police, who had been informed by Ruth of the evil designs Fenton had planned. Evans has come into full knowledge of his wife's past but forgives and forgets, happy in her now sincere love and devotion.

Alice Joyce plays Ann in her same inimitable manner and her work is fully in keeping with what she has already done. Walter McGrail is Dr. Evans, a part which he fills to complete satisfaction. Percy Standing is entrusted with Fenton and does full justice to the character. A pleasing little personality is little Stephen Carr, who plays the part of the boy, Billy. Others in the cast include Barney Randall, Edith Reeves and Bernard Seigel, all of whom do acceptable work.

Village hypocrites turn Ann out.

The film that first made motion pictures practical is easily identifiable by the words

"EASTMAN"
AND "KODAK"

on the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

"Daddy's Girl"

Baby Marie Osborne in Diando Feature Pathe Release. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

LITTLE Marie Osborne's newest play is similar to others she has appeared in and is well suited to neighborhood houses whose patrons enjoy watching the pranks of youngsters, Shetland ponies and kittens. It will entertain in theaters where children's pictures are usually well received and where Little Mary Sunshine is popular. It is a clean, humorous picture, well suited for children's matinees and similar entertainments. As a general offering adult patrons will probably decide that there isn't much to the story. It has a plot dealing with the troubles of the grown-up members of Marie's household, but it is a weak one and too often the pranks of the children are brought in simply as "padding."

However, the little star is as unaffected and entertaining as ever and there are a number of really funny episodes, especially those in which Marie's tiny negro coachman appears. As a whole, the offering may be rated as good, if your patrons like "kid" pictures. Supporting the star are Marion Warner, Louis J. Cody, Katherine McLaren and Herbert Standing.

The story: Marie's father is a dreamer rather than a worker. He is also something of a gambler. Marie's grandfather leaves his property to the little girl, naming her mother as executor. In their new home, Marie enjoys life, playing many pranks with the other children, holding an amateur circus in the barn, etc., but her father and mother are gradually becoming estranged. Her father is also spending much of her money. But in the end, when her mother becomes ill, Marie's plea to her father brings him to his senses and a new life begins for the parents.

"The Beloved Traitor"

Goldwyn Picture with Mae Marsh. Released February 24. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THE wistful and singular mannerisms of Mae Marsh are again the drawing power of her recent picture "The Beloved Traitor." The title implies a war story and its horrors, but the picture contains nothing relating to a bloody battlefield. It does, however, depict a battle of souls with the result at no time in doubt, as to who shall be the ultimate kaiser, and who shall be the triumphant Uncle Sam. The strange personality that is Mae Marsh's is given abundant cause for exercise; there is something peculiar in the way the star is able to interpret the different compassions. Any audience who sees Mae Marsh cannot help loving and admiring her simple, yet polished, manner of characterization.

The rockbound coast of New England is used as a background and the fisher-folk atmosphere is dominant throughout. The star enacts the part of Mary Drake, an orphan fisher girl, and in such a manner that the character lives and does not seem at all imaginary. The story is not confined to the coast town, but deviates to the art circles and society of New York. The change of environment is carefully maintained in the bearing of Judd Minot, the man in the case, and his entrance into the new world, after the many years in the old, is clearly and carefully depicted.

As before mentioned, the star plays Mary Drake; nothing more need be said for her work is entirely in keeping with the character. E. K. Lincoln, a long favorite with film fans, plays Judd Minot in his usually sincere manner and George Fawcet is Henry Bliss, Judd's benefactor. J. A. Furey is exceptionally effective as Father Anthony, while Hedda Hopper is acceptable as Myrna Bliss.

The story: Mary Drake is left alone when her uncle dies. Judd Minot, long friend of the girl, loves her ardently, and when he is offered an opportunity to go to New York for an extensive study of sculpture, he hesitates to leave his sweetheart. He finally consents and in the city meets Myrna Bliss, daughter of Henry Bliss, the art connoiseur. She introduces him to a fast set which soon takes its effect upon Judd's nerves. Myrna becomes jealous when she sees that all of Judd's models have Mary's head and face, and exacts a promise from him to forget her. Engrossed in his work Judd does forget, while Mary, back in the old town, waits daily for some news. Judd is awarded the prize for a statue he had made and has a party in celebration.

In the meantime Bliss has seen the harm that has come to Judd and notifies Father Anthony, who had been Judd's best friend in the days back home. Mary, yearning for word from Judd, decided to come to the city and arrives when the party is in full sway. Judd has left the room momentarily and when he returns, he finds Mary perched on a pedestal with the guests dancing around her. He realizes the sarcasm and cynicism behind the action of the people and first appreciates the goodness and faithfulness of Mary. Myrna Bliss comes in but is spurned by Judd, who is now happy in his true love.

"Nobody's Wife"

Louise Lovely in Western Play, Universal Special. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

A WESTERN melodrama played up from a slightly different angle is enacted by a Universal cast, headed by Louise Lovely, Hart Hoxie and Alfred Allen, under the direction of E. J. LeSaint. It is a good routine program offering, with nothing to make it stand out as unusual. The human element is played up, and the plot is a variation of the familiar sheriff, outlaw and girl theme. It has fully enough action and interest to hold the average uncritical audience.

The story is by R. N. Bradbury and F. H. Clark, the scenario by Charles Kenyon. The photography is good, and the outdoor scenes very pretty. The acting is satisfactory.

The story: Jack Darling (Hart Hoxie) of the North West Mounted Police, goes to find Alec Young, wanted for a murder he committed six years before. The only clue Jack has is that "Dancing Pete" (Betty Schade), a dance hall girl, is a friend of Young's. Jack blunders into the home of Hope Ross, who is taking care of a little baby. The girl sends Jack to the village for milk for the baby and there he meets "Dancing Pete" and proceeds to make love to her in an effort to learn which of the men is interested in her. Hope, who is not married and who is taking care of her sister's baby, becomes interested in Jack and jealous of his attentions to the dance hall girl. But through "Dancing Pete" Jack discovers that Sheriff Carew is the real Alec Young, and captures the man. Then he learns that Hope is as yet nobody's wife and asks her to be his.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Serial Starring William Duncan and Carol Holloway. Released March 4.

RECKLESS riding, feats of daring, and spectacular fights continue in this serial. In the last episode the fireworks were set off and mountains were toppled over. But the chief members of the cast escape without much serious injury and the pursuit of the villains is continued with unabated fervor.

Bessie Blake is in the hands of the outlaws and Blake, with the posse, gives chase. Cutting across the hills, Blake comes to a steep precipice just as the outlaws ride up with Mrs. Blake. Blake lassoos his wife to safety and they ride off together, with the outlaws in pursuit. Blake falls off the horse and his wife rides on alone. The chase drives Mrs. Blake to a steep embankment and, unhesitatingly, horse and rider plunge down. Mrs. Blake is knocked unconscious and, apparently, is again within the power of the outlaw band, but here the episode ends and we must wait for the next.

Vitagraph Companies Busy

Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, gave out the information last week that six feature companies had started work on new productions, most of which probably will be listed on the May schedule of Blue Ribbon releases.

Earle Williams and Grace Darmond under the direction of Tom Mills are working on a drama, the title of which is "Sealed Lips."

Alice Joyce, who recently completed "The Song of the Soul," has started work under direction of Tom Terriss in "The Business of Life," a screen version of the Robert W. Chambers book of the same name. This is Miss Joyce's third Chambers feature.

Harry Morey and Florence Deshon are engaged in the making of a feature to be titled "The Square Deal," under direction of Paul Scardon. This is the third picture in which Morey and Miss Deshon have worked together under the guidance of Mr. Scardon.

Corinne Griffith, who had been engaged for two months with Webster Campbell and Marc MacDermott in making "New York, or Danger Within," has started work in "The Clutch of Circumstances," under direction of John Robertson.

Gladys Leslie, tiniest of the Vitagraph stars, and Edward Earle, have been teamed by President Smith and are working under direction of William P. S. Earle in "Ann Acushla," an Irish romance.

The sixth starring team included in Mr. Smith's announcement of activities is that of Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman, who are working at the western studio under direction of William Wolbert. They are engaged in making "The Girl From Beyond" and while so doing are completing plans for starting on "The Son of Kazan," which is to be made from the famous story of James Oliver Curwood as it ran in The Red Book.

Elsie Ferguson Begins "Doll's House"

Elsie Ferguson has begun the production of "A Doll's House" for Artcraft release at the Fort Lee, N. J., studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. She will again appear in a role of emotional intensity.

The play, by Ibsen, has been recognized as a classic of the drama and has been very popular in both America and Europe. The stellar role demands an actress of exceptional ability effectively to portray the transition of the care-free woman to a harassed and desperate individual when a scoundrelly blackmailer seeks to destroy her happiness and ruin her husband.

The direction has been placed in the hands of Maurice Tourneur.

Get Small Ranch for Hart Films

Sixteen acres in the heart of Hollywood, five blocks from the William S. Hart studio, have been obtained for the use of the Thos. H. Ince star in Artcraft pictures, so that in many instances it will be possible to erect large sets without going a great distance.

Some of the scenes in "The Tiger Man" will be filmed here. A 'dobe village with many streets at right angles, so that the perspective is remarkable and the illusion of size is created to a great degree, has been built.

What Theatre Men Are Doing

NEWS OF EXHIBITORS WHO ARE SUCCEEDING—ARE YOU ONE?

This department of Motography specializes in giving to exhibitors stories of the accomplishments of successful theater managers. If you have attempted any experiments and they have succeeded or failed write Motography about it.

Here's a Novel Idea for Making Friends

Booklet Addressed to Employes of Theatre "Rings Bell" and Is Put in Hands of Public in Clever Way

"WITH REFERENCE to the Alhambra service booklet, we carelessly place a half dozen booklets in various places in the theatre, such as the telephone table, the writing desk, etc. The patron picking up the booklet naturally thinks he is obtaining information not intended for him and that the booklet must have been left there by some negligent employe. The result is the booklet is carried away and mentioned to other patrons, who inquire at the office for a copy. We then explain that the booklet is intended for employes only, but that we will be glad to present them with a copy."

This is an extract from a letter George Fischer, manager of Saxe's Alhambra at Milwaukee, has written to the editor. The booklet, one of the cleverest publicity ideas produced for some time, reads as follows:

"Foreword—Our policy will be to present a continuous entertainment from 11 a. m. until 11 p. m. that will embrace the highest products of the motion picture realm combined with a musical program of quality.

"In the construction of each program we will endeavor to offer something artistic, something novel, something instructive and something amusing—and to offer it in a spirit of unmistakably courteous hospitality. In fact, the programs offered at the Alhambra will be always worth while.

"Alhambra theatre service—

"To be polite means well-behaved, well-bred, courteous and obliging.

"It is indeed but a small task to be polite and courteous. Don't forget your good manners.

"The Alhambra theatre is operated primarily for the benefit and convenience of its patrons.

"Without patrons there could be no Alhambra theatre.

"So, then, it behooves every man and woman employed here to remember always to treat patrons as our guests, with courtesy and careful consideration. Treat them as you would a dear friend or relative.

"Any member of our staff who lacks the intelligence to interpret the feeling of good-will the Alhambra holds toward its guests cannot stay with us very long.

"New guests are just as valuable to us as old guests. Remember that, for each new guest is an old guest in the making. It is up to you to do your part toward making our guests want to come back, to bring friends, and to say a good word for the Alhambra at every opportunity.

"Radiate the 'no-trouble-to-assist-you' spirit that will impress them with the fine good fellowship of the theatre.

"Never be saucy or 'fresh'—much less insolent. The guests pay your salary as well as mine. They are our immediate benefactors.

"We cannot afford to be superior or sullen with any guest of this theatre.

"All must be made to feel that for their money we want to give them more and better entertainment and service than they ever before received at any theatre.

"No employe who helps to perpetuate this plan need ever be out of a job—nor will he long escape the notice of the man behind the scenes—the boss.

"Some ill-advised members of our staff at rare intervals disagree with a guest as to the rightness of this or that. The guest is always right.

"By this we merely mean: No employe of this theatre is allowed the privilege of arguing any point with a guest. Wrangling has no place in the scheme of things at the Alhambra.

"The Alhambra is a successful theatre. The reason is that every employe is impressed with the duty of making the guest comfortable and satisfied all the time.

"Each member of our staff is valuable to us only in proportion to his or her ability properly to serve our guests.

"What Alhambra service means—

"A theatre has just two things to sell.

"One is entertainment, the other its service.

"A theatre that sells poor entertainment with poor service is a poor theatre.

"A theatre that sells good entertainment with Paramount service is a Paramount theatre.

"It is the object of the Alhambra to sell its guests Paramount entertainment with Paramount service.

"We want all guests who enter the Alhambra theatre to do so because they believe they are buying something here better than can be bought anywhere else.

"Every employe of this theatre—cashier, doorman, chief usher and assistants, maids, nurses, footman, etc., etc.—is in a measure charged with the responsibility for seeing that our guests go away pleased—NOT DISAPPOINTED. For instance:

"If I were the footman—

"I would remove my hat and keep it off while opening the carriage door. I would courteously greet prospective guests and offer assistance whenever possible to ladies alighting from or entering conveyances. I would answer questions as though it were a pleasure, remembering always that we cannot afford to make even one dissatisfied guest.

"If I were the cashier—

"I would ever be genial and greet guests with a smile; remember to say 'please' and 'thank you,' and in general to impress—but not offensively—the purchasers of tickets or those making inquiries with my unvarying good-nature. I would do my entertaining of friends before or after hours and courteously, but firmly, discourage all attempts at entangling conversation.

A new portrait of Mary Miles Minter, American-Mutual star.

"The person calling on the telephone is probably as important as the guest at the window. I would politely ascertain the wants of all such and do everything within reason to satisfy them. If the party wanted is not in, I would courteously ask caller if he or she desired to leave a name or number so the call could be completed later, remembering always that even one dissatisfied guest of the Alhambra is just one too many.

"If I were the doorman—

"I would greet guests with a smile and a hearty 'good afternoon' or 'good evening.' I would stand always when on duty and watch for opportunities to extend small courtesies. I would steadfastly refrain from entertaining friends or allowing them by conversation or otherwise to interfere with my duties. I would cheerfully answer all questions of guests and in all other respects show a desire to be of the utmost service and thereby exonerate myself from the responsibility for even one dissatisfied guest. If, however, a guest were dissatisfied despite all I could do, I would call the manager immediately in the hope that he could smooth the troubled waters where my efforts had failed.

"If I were a check girl—

"I would go about my duties as though they were a pleasure—greet guests cheerily and let them understand by my actions that my services were a part of the policy of the house; a free gift cheerfully extended to friends, never forgetting that the theatre I serve cannot afford to incur the enmity or even the dissatisfaction of a single individual among its guests.

"If I were the chief usher—

"I would be courteous to each and every guest, conveying even unpleasant information—like the news that no seats are available on the main floor—sympathetically, yet cheerfully. A chief usher can make many friends, both for himself and for the theatre he serves, by courtesy, and by remembering always that even one dissatisfied guest is one too many to be listed among the institution's liabilities.

"If I were an usher or a maid—

"I would endeavor never to appear overworked, tired, or 'grouchy.' I would try to ascertain the guest's preferences as to seats, then politely lead the way to them. If impossible to meet the guest's desires, I would impart the fact politely and offer the best to be had, even going out of my way, in dealing with a 'fussy' patron to accommodate such to his or her complete satisfaction. I would never entertain my friends while on duty and would avoid congregating at the aisles and visiting with my fellow workers, remembering that it is my first duty to avoid cause for even one dissatisfied guest and that guests come to the Alhambra to see and hear the entertainment offered, not to listen to the conversation of house employes. In case a guest were dissatisfied and I was unable to remove the cause, I would call the manager at once.

"If I were a nurse or playroom attendant—

"I would devote myself untiringly to the welfare of the children left in my charge, do my best to preserve quiet and order, but never abuse the little ones. I would enter into their play and suggest games—particularly games that might educate while keeping the children entertained. I would be courteous to the parents and try, by relieving them of care, to make their stay at the Alhambra so enjoyable that they would want to repeat the experience often. Whether guests bringing little children to the theatre go away satisfied or dissatisfied depends much upon the care given the children while the parents are away from them, and even one dissatisfied guest is one more than the Alhambra can afford to have.

"Every item of extra courtesy contributes toward a better pleased guest, and every pleased guest contributes toward a better and bigger Alhambra.

"You can help make it so. Will you?

"GEORGE FISCHER,
"Manager."

Striking lobby display used recently by the Star Theatre at Everett, Washington. Sam P. Totten, Manager, writes that he has special settings for all big pictures and finds that it pays.

Boosts Film in Clever Way

Novel advertising methods were adopted by Manager S. P. Totten of the Star Theatre, Everett, Wash., in exploiting Mutual's seven-reel special, "The Planter," for a three-day run.

"The Planter" proved one of the big box office successes of the season in Everett, continuing its record of breaking box office records wherever it is shown.

Manager Totten arranged an unusual lobby display, using to much effect the stock three-sheet for a cut-out, carrying out the tropical idea with a palm tree scene with a Mexican plantation scene in the distance on a background drop. In the center of the lobby he used the stock lobby display.

In addition to his lobby display he arranged with a nearby cigar store for a window display. He arranged a tropical setting, using again the palm tree idea, illustrating with the lobby photos and cut-out from the three-sheet.

He found, also, that local book stores were willing to co-operate by arranging special window displays advertising the book from which the play was taken.

The Victoria theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., raised $170 for the Buffalo Evening Times Apple Fund for American Soldiers in France at two benefit shows last week. All expenses were shouldered by the Victoria.

How to Get Crowds for "The Floor Below"

Goldwyn Suggests Among Other Things the Construction of a Big Double Door with Lettering: "What Did Mabel Find?"

GOLDWYN makes the following recommendations for promoting attendance during the showing of Mabel Normand in "The Floor Below":

STAR—Miss Normand is not a forced favorite. Her name is as well known in the smallest city of Japan as it is all over the United States, England and civilized Africa. The name of Mabel Normand cannot be played too strongly.

PLAY—"The Floor Below" is as interesting as its name. It is first of all a sensational drama of mystery, love and laughter, filled with wonderful suspense and excitement and keeping the big secret till the last minute. The star is a "copy girl" in a busy newspaper office, tormenting the men with her pranks. Emphasize it as a quick-action play.

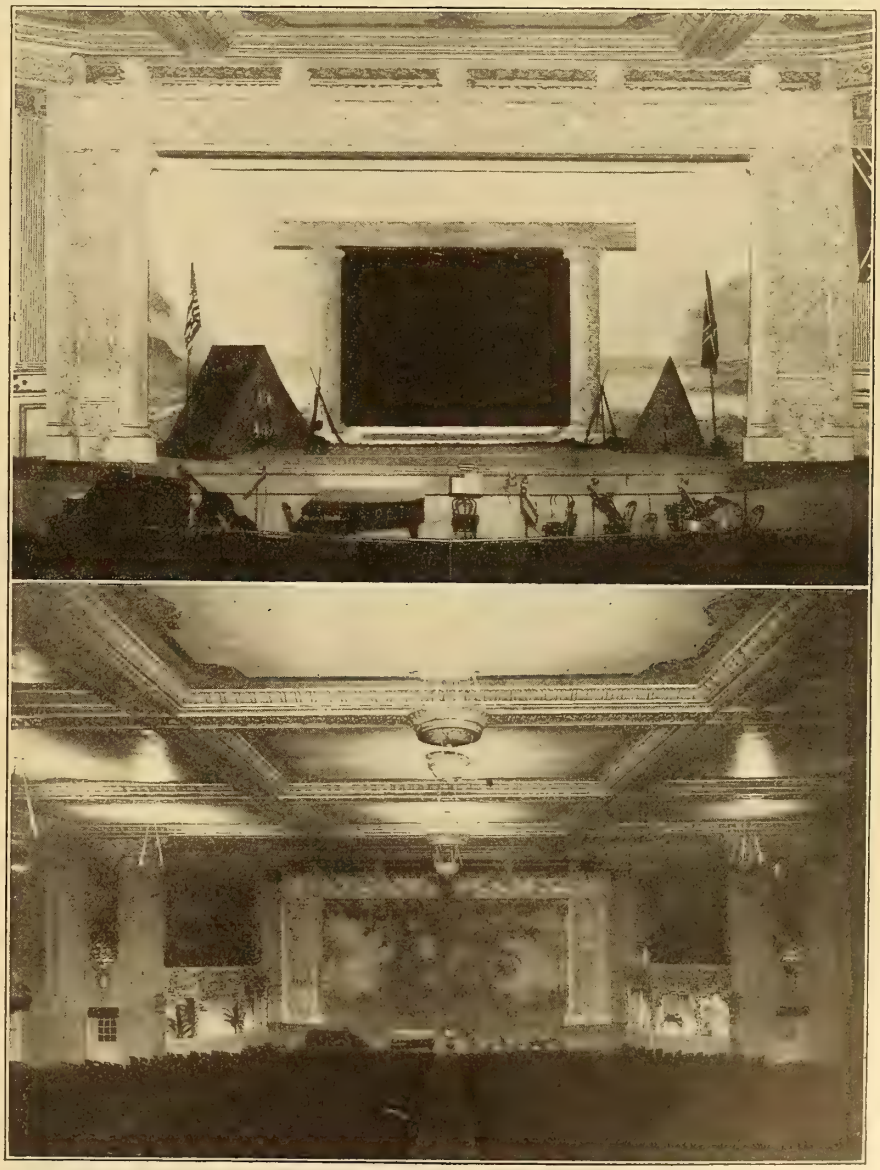
LOBBY—No more artistic and dignified lobby display can be devised than liberal use of the 22x28 photo-gelatine enlargements of the star's portraits. They are available in all branch offices. For special oilcloth signs lettered by a local signpainter, much of advertising value will be found in the ads reproduced on the press sheet.

An effective center of interest can be made of a big double door painted on canvas and tacked on a frame, to stand in the center of your lobby. For a nameplate the words, "The Floor Below" should be stenciled thereon. This cannot fail to stimulate interest, especially if liberal use is made of stills from the play, 8x10 and 11x14, in your frames. Additional curiosity might be aroused by hanging on the door a sign reading, "What Did Mabel Normand Find on the Floor Below???" Indeed, this sign might be duplicated many times and hung throughout the lobby, with or without the door.

CIRCULARIZATION—Men and women, young and the old, children and grandparents, will all be interested in this play. It contains a general appeal. Settlement workers and charity organizations should be circularized, an important element in the production being the mission conducted by a young millionaire and the work done among the poor. Private schools, both for girls and boys, should be told of the Mabel Normand play, for the star is a great favorite among youthful patrons and the story one that is wholesome. Special matinees should be suggested and for a Saturday attraction "The Floor Below" is A-1.

NEWSPAPERS—Stories of varying length and touching various angles of popular interest are found in the press sheet supplied by the branch nearest you.

CO-OPERATION—The important part played in "The Floor Below" by a lucky charm in the form of an ivory elephant will not be overlooked by the wise exhibitor. The attention of the local dealer in novelties, or the five and ten cent store, will be directed to this. His advertising matter can include the elephant charms as seen in the play at the theatre; or you can arrange to run an ad in your program calling attention to the elephants on sale at the store. They could be sold in the lobby if desired.



ACCESSORIES—The usual "current" and "coming" slides are available, together with effective poster material, which includes rotogravure and lithograph one-sheets, one three- and one six-sheet. The litho one-sheets are printed in colors from tint blocks.

Rivoli Feature Pleases

With a male chorus garbed as British East Indian troops, Greek Evans, a favorite baritone at the Rialto theatre, New York, is making his initial appearance and incidentally a personal hit at the Rivoli, singing "On the Road to Mandalay."

Free Shows for Children

Since the Strand theatre, Milwaukee, opened recently under new management, Charles C. Perry, the manager, has catered on a larger scale to children. His latest move was to give free shows on Washington's birthday and the following Saturday, when "Little Red Riding Hood" was shown.

Seating arrangement in the Strand Theater, Milwaukee, and a close up of a patriotic setting used in connection with the Paralta picture, "Madam Who?"

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Barriscale Feature Ready for Market

First Play with This Star to Be Sold on State Rights Basis Will Be Called "The Devil's Pawn"

W. H. PRODUCTIONS COMPANY announces that the first Bessie Barriscale super-feature to be distributed in the state rights market will be entitled "The Devil's Pawn." The story is based upon Francis Molnar's famous play and was produced by Thomas H. Ince.

Virtually every production of any importance usually is declared to offer an all-star cast—an expression that is admittedly most abused. In "The Devil's Pawn," however, W. H. Productions Company presents a cast qualified to be regarded as prominent figures.

Co-starring with Miss Barriscale is Edward Connelly, known for the past two decades as one of the most able artists of the speaking stage. His delicate interpretations of difficult roles in dramatic successes of two continents have earned for him the unstinted approval of critic and public alike.

Particularly enthusiastic did America become over his famous photoplay success, "Marse Covington," known as the only serious thing George Ade ever did. His most recent stage triumphs were scored in "Every Woman" and "A Good Little Devil." His recent character depiction of Rasputin in 'The Fall of the Romanoffs" created a great deal of favorable comment. Mr. Connelly's impersonation of the devil in modern clothes in "The Devil's Pawn" is one of the most powerful character drawings ever seen on the screen.

Clara Williams, the "Elsa" in this production, is a favorite with photoplay admirers, and is well known for her work in "The Bargain," "The Italian," and recently in "Carmen of the Klondike."

Rhea Mitchell, too, is acknowledged one of the country's most accomplished film stars. Her most recent work in a star capacity was done in Mr. Ince's production, "The Bandit and the Preacher," in which she shares the honors with William S. Hart and Robert Edison. J. Barney Sherry is the sixth principal character in "The Devil's Pawn."

A picturization of Dante's Inferno, in which a seething multitude of lost souls is seen vainly struggling to escape from the tortures of the damned, is one of the powerful scenes.

Grace Darmond, star of "The Crucible of Life."

Big Campaign Completed

One of the fastest selling campaigns ever made has just been completed by William Steiner, founder of the Jester Comedy Company. Mr. Steiner toured the entire United States and disposed of every territory with the exception of the District of Columbia in exactly twenty-one days, and he would have cut off two days of this time had it not been for adverse railroad conditions.

Buy "Tarzan of the Apes"

Aaron J. Jones of Chicago announces that the First National Exhibitors' Circuit has purchased American rights to the new feature, "Tarzan of the Apes." It will be marketed in this vicinity by Jones, Linick & Schaefer in the month of April.

Push Fourth Jester Comedy

The Jester Comedy Company announces the partial completion of the fourth of the series of Jester Comedies, "The Wrong Flat," featuring Twede-Dan, which is scheduled for May release.

General Film to Distribute "Shame"

Gets All Except the New York City Rights to John W. Noble's Seven-reel Drama of Life

GENERAL FILM COMPANY announces that it has taken over the distribution of "Shame," John W. Noble's seven-reel drama of life. All United States rights, with the exception of New York City, are included in this deal, and an energetic sales campaign will be launched immediately. The success scored by this production in New York City gives promise that it will be one of the notable money makers in the feature class this year.

"Shame" is a powerful story of the world's unjust condemnation of a girl whose motives were of the best. Zena Keefe is the star and Niles Welch her leading man. Miss Keefe plays the part of an innocent victim of circumstances in the prologue. Then with Miss Keefe reappearing as a girl of another generation, the picture unfolds a strikingly effective train of adventures, mirroring faithfully a graphic ordeal of tears and smiles, ending with justice. The theme involves the attitude of society toward the innocent children of no name.

"Shame" is perhaps the masterpiece of Director Noble, who produced such features as "Romeo and Juliet," "The High Road," and "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie." More than four months were spent in producing the film, editing and preparing it for presentation. New York critics have conceded it to be one of the artistic successes of the day, a fact that has been borne out by box-office receipts.

A wide range of advertising aids is available.

Gets Rights to "The Liar"

A deal was negotiated last week between General Enterprises, Inc., and the Federal Film Company of Boston, whereby the latter gets the entire New England rights to "The Liar." This is a six-part society melodrama, starring Jane Gail and Stanley Walpole, and directed by William H. Haddock.

Following closely upon this sale, Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, executives of General Enterprises, disposed of their seven-part feature, "Mother," to the Regal Films, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada.

Dramatic moments from "The Crucible of Life," starring Grace Darmond, Jack Sherrill and Frank O'Connor. This picture is being handled by General Enterprises on a state rights basis

Sterling Launches a Spring Drive

Sales Manager Starts on Tour to Place Films in Exchanges Under New System

H. R. EBENSTEIN, manager of sales for the Sterling Pictures Corporation, of which Arthur F. Beck is president, has left for a ten-weeks' trip covering all exchange centers. Mr. Ebenstein carries a trunk full of sample prints on the different features controlled by Sterling. These are to be placed with independent exchanges under the arrangement known as the "Sterling system."

The "Sterling system" combines a certain arrangement between the manufacturer and the Sterling Pictures Corporation and the independent exchange. It does not necessarily mean the sale of feature rights—neither does it mean the direct percentage arrangement that some features have been released under.

Realizing that the manufacturer needs cash, and likewise realizing that the independent exchange cannot continue laying out money to cover high production cost and big profit to the manufacturer, Sterling has stepped in as a middle factor whereby a happy medium is struck and both the manufacturer and local distributor are able to operate successfully.

It is not the intention to confine operations to the distributing of features only upon the "Sterling system." Sterling will likewise handle other features on the basis of an outright territory sale. At the present time the corporation has found a very big demand for releases under the "Star series" plan.

In addition to the Alma Hanlon series and the Jean Sothern series, consisting of six productions each, Sterling had added to its list a Star series of three features, each starring Anna Q. Nillson, and a series of four features, each starring Catherine Calvert.

Sterling has also taken over the George Loane Tucker production, "I believe," and acquired from France Films, Incorporated, "The Natural Law," featuring Marguerite Courtot.

It is the purpose of Sterling to create the same situation in the independent market that the Paramount-Artcraft Company demands in the regular program field. The plan is to build and create the value of "Sterling system" upon the commercial value of the production—not on the production cost.

"Raffles" Sold Abroad

The Arrow Film Corporation's foreign department has sold the British rights to "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," in which John Barrymore is featured, for L. Lawrence Weber. There has been a big demand for this picture in foreign countries owing to the popularity of the story and the star, and, according to W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow organization, the film brought a record price.

The Arrow corporation also announces the sale of the South American rights of the two Edward Warren productions, "Souls Redeemed" and "Weavers of Life." The Indiana rights of these two films were sold this week.

Goldwyn Continues Expansion Abroad

Arranges for the Distribution of Its Pictures in More South American Countries and Scandinavia

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION announces the signing of more contracts for foreign distribution of its films.

John Olsen & Co., of Copenhagen, the greatest cinema firm in Scandinavia, will handle the Goldwyn pictures in Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

The Co-operative Film Corporation of New York will handle distribution in Chile, Bolivia, Peru and Ecuador. This organization controls several of the leading theatres in the four South American countries.

Contracts are about to be signed with other large organizations for distribution in Italy, Spain and France.

In the preceding two weeks Goldwyn announced plans for releasing its productions in Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania, South Africa, India and Burmah, the Argentine Republic, Uruguay, Porto Rico and San Domingo.

Sells Reissues of Stars

S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., has sold the Hart, Fairbanks, Keenan and Talmadge reissues through Hiller & Wilk, Inc., to the following open market operators: Boston Photoplay Company; Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia; Quality Film Company, Pittsburgh; Central Film Company, Chicago, and the DeLuxe Film Company, Seattle. S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., retains the reissues for its own offices in Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO OBTAIN THE BEST RESULTS DESCRIBED IN DETAIL

Smith Scores "Speeding Up" of Shows

Motography Expert Says Operators Who Do This Harm Themselves as Well as Theatre Owners

By J. Wesley Smith

MY attention has been called recently to a growing evil among operators—the practice of speeding up shows. While this is not a technical question, I think it merits attention in this department, because operators are more likely to read this department than any other in the magazine.

Operators—are you giving the patrons of your shows the best projection you know how? On the part of many there is a tendency to "speed up" the show, especially the last one for the night. The people who are in the theatre have paid just as much to see the last show as the ones who were there before and are entitled to just as much, and it is up to you, Mr. Operator, to see that they get their money's worth.

Your employer is also entitled to your best, as it is his money that goes into your pocket, and if the patrons are not satisfied it will only be a short time until you will be looking for another job.

Another thing, do not think just because a projector is made out of steel and iron that it does not need attention. A few minutes spent each night after the show in going over it and seeing that everything is tight and oiled will save you a lot of time later on.

Following are questions received and their answers:

Q.—We are using an aluminum screen, but find there is too much glare. We have a 220-volt Wagner convertor set, which gives us a very good light. We have but a sixty foot throw. What kind of a screen do you think would give us the best results? We have thought of buying a gold fibre screen, but hesitated, not knowing whether it would meet our needs. From whom could we procure a gold fibre screen?

A.—Your trouble perhaps does not lie in the screen at all. It is true that many aluminum screens have a tendency to glare, but from the description of your generator set and the length of throw, I judge that your amperage is too high. Again, the size of the picture has considerable to do with your trouble.

If your pictures are viewed from a considerable angle, either a white cloth screen or a plaster screen would suit your purposes better than an aluminum one, as the first two mentioned are in a class known as "diffuse reflecting screens," and the last in the class known as "spread reflecting screens," which are more suitable for pictures when the screen is not viewed at too great an angle.

A gold fibre screen is very good indeed and will tend to make the picture more "soft" to the eye. There are quite a few gold fibre screens manufactured, but the best known are those of the Gold King Screen Co., Altus, Oklahoma, and the Minusa Cine Products Co., 2665 Morgan street, St. Louis. Before purchasing a new screen, if you will let me know the size of picture shown, the number of amperes used and the width of the theatre, I will be able to give you more definite information, and possibly save you the cost of a new screen.

Q.—I have a projector with arc lamp, but wish to remodel it so that I may use it in my house. I would like to use an incandescent lamp if possible. The throw of the picture will not exceed twenty feet, and the picture size I would like is about 4x6 feet. Will you please tell me if this is practical and if so, what will I have to do?

A.—What you want to do is very easy to accomplish and will not only give you as fine a picture as can be seen anywhere, but can be done with a minimum of expense and trouble. Procure from your electrical supply house a 500 Watt Mazda lamp, stereopticon type, Mogul base. Install this in the lamp house and fix it so that you may move it the same as the carbons. This is absolutely necessary, so that you will get an even illumination on the screen.

Remove all condensors except one. A spherical mirror placed behind the bulb will increase the brilliancy of the picture. A 4½ inch lens will give you a picture about 4½x6 feet, and a 5 inch lens will give one of 4x5⅓ feet. A plaster screen will give you excellent results, as a screen of this type reflects from 80 to 85 per cent of the light. It is well to remember that everything must be kept spotlessly clean, such as the lamp, condensors, lens and screen.

Q.—I have been informed that there is a firm in Chicago that sells the Monarch moving picture machine—and I am writing to see if you can give me the address of the firm. I want to buy a machine that is second-hand or used for demonstrating purposes. If you cannot find the address, then I wish you would give me the address of some other firm that sells second-hand machines.

A.—I have been unable to locate the firm handling the Monarch machine, but if

The Dolly Sisters in a scene in their first production, "The Millionaire Dollies," directed and produced by Leonce Perret.

I am able to locate it during the coming week I will be very glad to communicate with you. The following firms handle projectors and will probably be able to supply your wants: The Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company, 564 West Randolph street, manufacturers of the Motiograph; The Capital Merchandise Company, 525 South Dearborn street; Mid-West Theatre Supply Company, 14 West Washington street; United Theatre Equipment Company, 154 West Lake street.

Q.—On one of my machines I have had a great deal of trouble lately by the film buckling, or rather giving that appearance on the screen. What can I do to correct this? I am using two 1916 Motiograph machines.

A.—On the particular machines you are using the trouble is very easily remedied by simply tightening the small thumb screw located just below the heat plate. This screw is placed there for the purpose of loosening or tightening the tension on the film and to overcome your particular difficulty should be tightened.

Q.—I have a Powers Six A motor driven machine, 110 volt, and pulling about 45 amperes through a Bell & Howell compensator. For the first two or three reels the picture is perfectly clear, but after that a flicker develops. I though perhaps the trouble might be in a loose shutter, but after careful examination, found everything to be O. K. Can you tell me where my trouble lies?

A.—At the start the arc does not develop its greatest brilliancy, but gradually picks up and the brighter the light the greater the tendency to flicker. A great many of the producing companies have increased the speed of their cameras, which necessarily means the speed of the projector. While this will tend to reduce the flicker, it is very hard on the mechanism and means that you will have to keep the projector in the very best condition possible and be sure the shutter is tight and in time.

Q.—Have been a user of National carbons for the past two and a half years, and have found that the last lot purchased do not burn as good as the former ones. Some of the carbons will burn back for three or four inches, while others will burn out at the core.

A.—On account of war conditions, American carbon manufacturers have been greatly rushed, and even in normal times it is impossible to get perfectly uniform results. I have had the same trouble you speak of, and on taking this matter up with the National Carbon Company, the trouble was corrected as far as possible. The National even went so far as to replace the defective carbons. Would advise you to write direct to the National at Cleveland, Ohio, telling just what your trouble is.

Q.—On my 1917 Motiograph I am getting a dim shadow all around the edge of the screen. Can you tell me what the trouble is and what to do to correct this?

A.—Your trouble is caused, in all probability, by the opening in the cooling plate being too small. The manufacturers of the Motiograph make a special cooling plate with a small opening for use where exceptionally high amperage is used, and you probably have this type of cooling plate. The company from which you bought your machine will exchange the plate for you. If not, the factory will.

New Color Method Explained

A new method of making motion pictures in natural colors was shown the other day at a private exhibition in the Plaza Theatre, Camden, N. J. The inventor is Leon F. Douglass, a Californian, who has devoted more than a decade to the development of his idea, which he has now reduced to such a simple and comparatively inexpensive process that it has a decided commercial value.

In previous methods it has been necessary to utilize a color filter on the projection machine, but in the case of Mr. Douglass' invention the ability to create natural color effects exists in the film itself, which when once made by his process can be run through the ordinary projection machine of any theatre.

The method employed in this new plan is too technical to be gone into in detail, and besides, owing to pending patents, not all its secrets are divulged by the inventor.

Suffice to say the exhibition was a revelation of what is possible along these lines. Slight faults were noticeable, but they may have been due to the imperfect conditions under which the pictures were shown.

There were some wonderful effects, particularly in views taken in Yosemite Park, where rainbows were seen in all their fairylike delicacy, and at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, where the varying color aspects of this titan among chasms were reproduced with almost perfect fidelity.

A California flower carnival also showed some fine contrasts, while a posed living picture of "The Angelus" disclosed the possibilities of the new process in its adaptation to photoplay work.

Star Buys Projectoscope

Mary Miles Minter, American Film Company star, recently purchased an American Projectoscope which will screen pictures on a window blind, if no screen is handy, and she spends an hour or two every night watching scenes taken that day.

Often she will run back a few scenes or even stop the machine altogether so that she may study out some better method of doing a scene the following day.

She says she has more fun with her Projectoscope than she has with her auto.

Snapping the Snappers. Select cameramen and Director Rollin Sturgeon, with Constance Talmadge, the star, making a scene in a thicket near Hollywood, California, for "The Shuttle."

Latest News of Chicago

THE new officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League were installed last week. They are: President, Joseph Hopp; vice-president, William E. Heaney; secretary, William J. Sweeney; treasurer, Fred W. Hartmann; sergeant-at-arms, William Rohe; executive committee, George D. Hopkinson, Robert R. Levy, Alfred Hamburger, William D. Burford, John Frundt, Harry C. Miller and John Bobeng.

The league probably will remove from the Masonic Temple to the Twentieth Century building, State and Adams streets, soon. By so doing the offices will be nearer the film center, making it more convenient for the members to drop in while transacting business at the exchanges.

President Hopp was presented a solid silver chocolate service by the membership as an evidence of confidence and good will.

A committee on censorship was appointed as follows: Chairman, Sam Atkinson; Ludwig Schindler, Mrs. M. McFadden, Isaac Berksen, Rocco Navagato. The committee will be busy in the next few weeks preparing for its next encounter with the city council. An armistice has been declared pending the general election in April. When the question comes up again, however, the league will make strenuous efforts to effect a change in the censorship whereby sole power will not rest in the hands of Maj. M. L. C. Funkhouser, whose policy is severely condemned by exhibitors and the motion picture public alike.

✣ ✣ ✣

Patriotism finds the exhibitor firm of H. Schoenstadt & Sons with only one member in charge of its string of seven theatres—Herman Schoenstadt, the father—Henry and Arthur Schoenstadt, the sons, having donned the khaki. Henry Schoenstadt is in the aviation corps and will soon receive a commission. Arthur Schoenstadt has entered training at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. The head of the firm and his seven managers have absorbed the duties of the sons. The managers are: Max Schwartz, Atlantic; Harry Schoenstadt, Ashland; Lee Lazarus, Palace; Adolph Powell, Rex; Morey Rosen, Archer; Eugene D. Hobson, Boulevard, and Samuel Harris, Halfield. The Atlantic has just been opened at a cost of $300,000. Plans for further expansion are being made.

H. Schoenstadt & Sons are said to be the only pioneers in Chicago who remain signally successful. Herman Schoenstadt started in the business in 1908 with a storeroom show and today he and his sons have holdings that exceed $1,000,000. Not a cent of the capital is owned by any except the three members of the firm.

✣ ✣ ✣

Thomas Greenwood of the booking department of the Triangle exchange was entertained at dinner at the Hotel Morrison last week, in honor of his enlistment in the army. Present were C. E. Elliott, Chicago Cinema Circuit; Clayton E. Bond, manager of the Paramount short-reel department; E. H. Duffy, manager of the Mutual exchange; Fred W. Younge, salesman for Mutual; M. O. Wells, manager of the Vista Theatre; Frank E. Bock, Johns-Manville Company; William Brimmer, Paramount salesman; Dan Michelove, formerly manager of the Triangle office; R. E. Williams, Select booking department, and H. Weinold of the Chicago Cinema Circuit.

Lawrence Cuneo, owner of the De Luxe Theatre on Wilson Avenue near Broadway, Chicago, wearing khaki in Uncle Sam's service at Camp Logan, Houston, Texas.

✣ ✣ ✣

A Rothacker camera crew in charge of T. H. Miller has returned from Pennsylvania after having completed an eight-reel industrial subject illustrating from start to finish the silk industry and welfare work at the big silk mills. Another crew under the direction of Jack Byrne and assisted by W. B. Klingensmith are finishing a big industrial picture at the Hawthorne plant for the Western Electric Company. Another crew under the direction of E. O. Blackburn are producing a special industrial picture at the Chicago stock yards.

✣ ✣ ✣

Fifty students from the McCormick Theological Seminary were interested visitors at the American Film plant last Thursday. Following the showing of "Powers That Prey," the new Mary Miles Minter release, the party was taken through the plant and afforded an opportunity that was much appreciated to see every step in the development of a picture from the raw film to the finished product as thrown upon the screen.

✣ ✣ ✣

Sergt. Gibson of the United States signal corps, formerly one of the assistant superintendents at the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company plant, has been detached from regular duty and assigned to the film plant on special service. Sergt. Gibson will oversee the production of government pictures being made under the direction of Capt. O. O. Ellis of Fort Sill, Okla.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation, which has been in the limelight because of the arrest of its financial agents on the charge of violating the Blue Sky law, has issued a statement that the company is solvent and has enough money to complete its picture.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ascher Bros., proprietors of a big string of theatres, have closed with the music house of Leo Feist whereby Feist singers will appear in all the Ascher houses.

✣ ✣ ✣

Joseph Hopp, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, has been nominated for alderman on the Democratic ticket in the Twenty-fifth ward.

Mr. Hopp's nomination came at a time when he was just recovering from injuries sustained when struck by a street car.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edna Earle, accompanied by her father and her business representative, Mabel Condon, was one of Chicago's visitors during the past week. During her stay, she was guest of honor at a luncheon given to the critics of the trade press and newspapers in the English room of the Congress Hotel. The young actress, who has played leading roles for several years on the speaking stage, has just completed her work in the east in a Pathe picture featuring Bessie Love, and is on her way to the western film colony to consider an engagement for picture work, which she prefers to a stage career.

Miss Condon, who is also Motography's western representative, is returning to the coast after several months spent in New York, during which she completed arrangements whereby the Mabel Condon Exchange will have a branch office in that city to take care of western players who are seeeking connections in the east.

✣ ✣ ✣

W. L. Hill, who has charge of Paramount publicity in the Chicago district, says there isn't an open date left on "The Son of Democracy" in the middle west until the latter part of April. Mr. Hill attributes the success of the series to the demand of the public for cleaner and higher grade films.

Richard R. Nehls, general manager of the American Film Company, made an address on "Motion Pictures in the Making," which led to an animated discussion as to the relation of the minister to the exhibitor. The discussion brought out the fact that the majority of the young ministers are fans.

✣ ✣ ✣

Arthur McMillen, guardian of the interests of the American Projectoscope, put one of the machines in his suit case last week and started out for a tour of the east. Mr. McMillen will stop in Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Washington and give demonstrations.

✣ ✣ ✣

Fitzgerald & McElroy, Inc., owners of a string of theatres in Michigan and Chicago, contracted with Pat Dillon of the Allen Film Corporation last week to show "Mother," "The Warrior" and "The Garden of Allah" for thirty-three days.

✣ ✣ ✣

Frank Dempsey, who was a private in the French army for a year, is giving lectures in connection with the showing of the Pathe war picture, "France in Arms." So far he has appeared at the Kenmore, Crescent and Berwyn in Chicago and the Star in Evanston.

✣ ✣ ✣

A food conservation picture produced by the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, entitled "Food Will Win the War," is being circulated throughout the country under the personal direction of Henry and Arthur Schoenstadt of Schoenstadt & Sons, Chicago exhibitors, now in the service of their country. Henry is soon to receive a commission in the Aviation Corps, and Arthur has gone to Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., where he will probably be assigned to the cinematographic division of the signal corps.

W. T. Seibels, who is clearing through Universal exchanges.

✣ ✣ ✣

Rupert Julian, Bluebird actor and director, made a stop-over in Chicago for a few hours the other day on his way east. Mr. Julian had with him "The Iconoclast," an eight-reel feature starring Ruth Clifford and himself, which he claims is one of the biggest features ever made at Universal City. He is taking the picture on to New York to have it passed on by Carl Laemmle. E. J. Clawson, his scenario writer, who is on a vacation until activities start again at Universal City, accompanied Mr. Julian.

✣ ✣ ✣

The salesmen of Jewel Productions had better watch out for their laurels. I. L. Leserman of Chicago, general sales manager, has engaged Alice Mankus as Wisconsin representative. Although she has had no previous experience, she has sent in enough contracts with names on the dotted line to have the management seriously consider whether they hadn't better hire several more women.

✣ ✣ ✣

Lyman L. Ballard, traveling representative of the World Film Corporation for the last three years, has resigned to take a similar position with Metro. Mr. Ballard's territory will be all of Illinois. He will continue to have his headquarters here.

✣ ✣ ✣

Stephen Fox, well-known writer for the magazine and screen, stopped over at the American Film offices in Chicago last week to say "howdy." Mr. Fox was enroute to Santa Barbara to write plays for William Russell. He promises some novel stories for the star.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edward Beatty, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' League, after a short sojourn in Chicago, has left to spend the next two or three months in Los Angeles, where he expects to recuperate from a recent illness.

✣ ✣ ✣

After a four weeks' sojourn in the south, taking his first vacation in fourteen years, I. Van Ronkel, well-known film manager, has returned to Chicago. Mr. Van Ronkel was silent in regard to his plans.

✣ ✣ ✣

I. L. Leserman, general sales manager of the Universal Film exchange, reports that conditions are getting much better; in fact, he claims that never before did the company do as much business here as it did in February.

✣ ✣ ✣

Carl Lorang of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company has been called to the colors. He is wearing khaki at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill.

"Split Reel" Notes For Theatre Men

SNAPPY ITEMS OF INTEREST TO OWNERS AND MANAGERS

M. J. SULLIVAN, formerly efficiency director and more recently manager of production of the National Biscuit Company, has been appointed manager of the New York office of the Mutual Film Corporation.

Since last March Mr. Sullivan has been familiarizing himself with the far-flung outposts of Mutual, having visited all branch offices of the corporation in the United States and Canada as a special salesman.

During this period, also, Mr. Sullivan met all the leading exhibitors of the country and learned at first hand what their requirements are under the changed conditions imposed by the war.

The new chief of the New York office is well liked by the trade everywhere and is an enthusiastic believer with President Freuler in the bright future of the industry.

✣ ✣ ✣

It was announced last week by J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of Pathe exchange, that Pathe in France had extended to the United States Government the full use of one of its factories with every up-to-date appliance for the developing and printing of motion pictures and "still" photographs.

This offer should make it unnecessary for the United States to build the structures hitherto deemed necessary for the work of the cinematographic division of the signal corps.

✣ ✣ ✣

Raymond W. Pauley, who was treasurer of the Paramount Pictures Corporation during the time that W. W. Hodkinson was president, is again actively connected with Mr. Hodkinson as the treasurer of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. Mr. Pauley is one of the pioneers of the industry. Before the forming of Paramount he distributed the productions of Famous Players in the Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey territory. When Mr. Hodkinson founded Paramount he was made treasurer and held that office until Mr. Hodkinson resigned, when he went with Mr. Hodkinson to Triangle.

✣ ✣ ✣

I. Libson, manager of the Walnut Theatre, Cincinnati, reports an experience which other exhibitors may be glad to know. A theatre party for the benefit of Boy Scouts had been arranged at the Walnut when an order was received from Washington prohibiting the Boy Scouts from participating in any but war activities. Naturally, both the Scouts and the management of the theatre were considerably disappointed, but it was deemed advisable to carry out the order to the letter.

✣ ✣ ✣

The largest number of Detroit exhibitors ever gathered together for a trade showing were present at an advance presentation of the first three episodes of "The Eagle's Eye" the other day. After the showing Joe Horwitz, Foursquare manager, wired the Whartons as follows:

"Screening a great success. More than a thousand exhibitors attended. General opinion is that the serial is great. Bookings are extraordinary."

✣ ✣ ✣

Carson Bradford, manager of the Strand Theatre, Nashville, Tenn., one of the South's most popular exhibitors, has returned to work after having enjoyed a three weeks' visit at his beautiful home in Lake Weir, Fla. Mr. Bradford put in most of his time hunting and fishing, but did not fail to take in the picture shows when he got a chance. During his absence, J. H. Bradford, his father, supervised the Strand, which continued its usual high-class programs.

New home of the Essanay Distributing Corporation in Sydney, Australia.

✣ ✣ ✣

Wheeler Oakman, leading man for Edith Storey, Metro star, is now wearing khaki and undergoing training at Camp Kearney, San Diego. Mr. Oakman enlisted as a private after completing his work in "The Claim." His departure necessitated a quick change in the cast of "Treasure," Miss Storey's next picture, in which he was to have had the male lead.

✣ ✣ ✣

Miss Belle Siegel of New York, production secretary of the Rivoli-Rialto theatres' executive staff, and Joseph La Rose, production manager, are enjoying a two-week honeymoon. They slipped away after a wedding that came as the climax to a pretty romance that had flourished during the past two years while they worked side by side on the details of S. L. Rothapfel's programs.

✣ ✣ ✣

W. L. Percy, who is prominently identified with the work of the Atlanta Board of Review and a member of the National Advisory Committee of the National Board of Review, was in New York for a few days last week. Mr. Percy is a leading business man of Georgia with business interests in other parts of the South.

✣ ✣ ✣

Leo F. Levison has been chosen by the Select Pictures Corporation to become manager of the Pittsburgh exchange, succeeding Harvey B. Day, who has resigned to go into business for himself. Mr. Levison formerly was manager of the Pathe exchange.

✣ ✣ ✣

Sydney E. Abel, executive office representative of Select, has wound up a three months' tour of branches. Mr. Abel reports that conditions are not only becoming normal, but in many localities are even better than they have been for some months.

✣ ✣ ✣

M. S. Houston, superintendent of laboratories at the Triangle Culver City studios, has resigned and left for New York, where he will attend the school of military cinematography at the University of Columbia, thus adding another star to the Triangle service flag.

✣ ✣ ✣

Eduardo C. Gainsborg, manager of the San Francisco exchange of Foursquare Pictures, was called to New York recently, because of illness in his family.

The crisis passed, Mr. Cainsborg returned to his post.

✣ ✣ ✣

The employes of the Strand Theatre, New York, enjoyed a beefsteak dinner last Saturday evening after the show at "Beefsteak Charlie's," 216 West Fiftieth street. Entertainment was provided by the employes themselves.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edwin Carewe has returned to Metro's directorial staff to guide Bert Lytell, the new Metro star, in his initial All-Star Series picture under the parrot trademark. Carewe has just finished a feature starring Mary Garden.

✣ ✣ ✣

Lewis J. Selznick, president of the Select Pictures Corporation, has returned to New York after an absence of three weeks at Palm Beach. It was the first real vacation he has had since his entrance into the industry seven years ago.

✣ ✣ ✣

Select's Dallas branch, of which C. C. Ezell is manager, was burned out the other day. As a result of speedy action, however, exhibitors were not delayed a single day.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. A. Derham, comptroller for the Select Pictures Corporation, has returned to New York after a visit to several branches. "Business is picking up all along the line," says Mr. Derham.

✣ ✣ ✣

Kenneth Hodkinson, son of W. W. Hodkinson, who has been actively connected in an executive capacity with his father for several years, is recovering from a slight attack of appendicitis.

✣ ✣ ✣

Enid Bennett, Thomas H. Ince star, was married to Fred Niblo, an actor on the spoken stage, at Los Angeles last week.

✣ ✣ ✣

E. W. Dustin, manager of Select's St. Louis exchange, arrived in New York the other day for a visit at the home office.

✣ ✣ ✣

Jacob Wildberg, a capitalist and manufacturer, has become identified with Foursquare Pictures as treasurer and a large stockholder.

✣ ✣ ✣

Lewis J. Selznick, president of the Select Pictures Corporation, has inaugurated bi-weekly conferences of executives at the home office.

Elsie Ferguson Finishes "Lie"

Elsie Ferguson, who has just finished her newest Artcraft picture, "The Lie," at the New York studio, will do her next subject at the Fort Lee plant. It was announced that Maurice Tourneur, who achieved such great success in the production of Miss Ferguson's initial screen vehicle, "Barbary Sheep," "The Rise of Jennie Cushing" and "Rose of the World," will again direct her in the new film, the title of which has not been chosen. Work on the play will be commenced immediately.

A heavy emotional scene from "The Way Out,' a new World picture with Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge.

New Arbuckle Comedy Ready

Fatty Arbuckle has quit his job of hopping bells for the more noble art of hunting moonshiners. In other words, "The Bell Boy" is ready for release on the Paramount program, and the big comedian is beginning his travesty on the feuds between the moonshiners and the revenue officers in the Blue Ridge mountains.

Fatty Arbuckle and Buster Keaton are without doubt the classiest appearing revenue officers that ever stalked moonshiners. They look more like millionaire sportsmen. Al St. John is the young moonshiner and Alice Lake is his sweetheart. Charles Dudley, the man of many make-ups, is playing the father, a grizzled veteran of innumerable mountain feuds.

All other conceptions of the sweet mountain flower, whose rags have endeared her to motion picture fans, are shattered by Alice Lake's portrayal of the new character. No Broadway beauty wears more fashionable clothes than does this comedy girl. All of which goes to show the new departures from the popular form of moonshine thrillers.

"Woman and the Law" Shown

"Woman and the Law," the William Fox photodrama, written and staged by R. A. Walsh, had its first showing at the Lyric Theatre, New York, Sunday evening, March 3. It will be released to exhibitors throughout the country on March 17.

The picture is based upon the celebrated Jack De Saulles case. All the events of the affair have been followed with the utmost fidelity to detail, it is said. The woman meets the man in South America, is married to him when he meets her and her parents in Paris, and then comes with him to his home in New York. From then the picture follows the story which the newspapers spread broadcast at the time—the desertion of the wife, and the little boy who has been born, for the gay life of Broadway; the separation and the decision of the court that the boy shall be left with each parent for equal periods; the refusal of the husband to give up the boy to the mother and the tragic denouement which ensued.

Fairbanks Gets New Role

After "Headin' South," the newest Douglas Fairbanks production, comes a photoplay presenting marked contrast from the star's recent films. Acrobatic Douglas will appear in a dinner jacket in place of chaps and flannel shirt. Instead of leaping onto a swinging chandelier or bucking "bronch," he will play pretty love scenes with a charming girl.

Brief Theater News

Alabama

THE Mobile Theatre Company at Mobile has been incorporated with a capital of $2,000. Incorporators and officers are G. R. McKenzie, president; H. M. Lindsay, secretary; T. A. Yeend, treasurer, and T. P. Yeend, director.

Fire destroyed a film at the Pekin Theatre of Montgomery. Luckily little other damage was done.

Alaska

A motion picture theatre with a seating capacity of 3,000 has been opened at Seward by Charles Benson.

Arkansas

A new theatre will be opened at Lonoke by J. N. Cobb, owner of the Princess Theatre at Batesville.

California

Work has been started on the new Miller Theatre, Los Angeles, which is being erected by F. A. and R. G. Miller.

I. B. Iankershin is the owner of a new theatre being erected at 808-814 South Main street, Los Angeles, which is to cost $110,000.

A new theatre will be erected by Samuel H. Levin in the Richmond District on the southeast corner of Clement street and Ninth avenue, San Francisco.

Connecticut

Fire destroyed the Strand Theatre, East Main street, Torrington. The loss of theatre and adjoining buildings is estimated at $30,000.

Georgia

The Marietta Amusement Company at Marietta has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000. Incorporators are Will A. DuPress and Ralph W. Northcutt.

Construction on the first of thirty-two Liberty Theatres will begin shortly at Camp Wheeler, Macon.

Fesdict Commission of Washington, D. C., will erect a theatre at Camp Wheeler, Macon.

Illinois

Yadwiga T. Wrezsinski, Josef Wrezsinski and Anthony Balcerzak are the incorporators of the Premier Theatre Company of Chicago, with a capital of $500.

Alterations amounting to $55,000 were made at the one-story and balcony theatre and store of A. C. Hammond, 3143 South State street, Chicago.

The American Projecting Company of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $300,000. Incorporators are J. B. Grier, N. D. Cross and R. E. Church, all of Chicago.

Indiana

Fire destroyed the Annex Theatre, 118 South Illinois street, Indianapolis, of which Geo. G. Swain is the manager.

The Interstate Picture Corporation of South Bend has been incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000 by Geo. T. O. Hill, South Bend, and Byren S. Vail and Marshall M. Slumaker of Fort Wayne.

Kentucky

W. M. James of Columbus, Ohio, has bought the Ada Meade Theatre of Lexington from T. C. Fuller.

The Bell Amusement Company of Louisville has been incorporated with a capital of $500 by Stephen Bell, A. Gaddie and George Marshall.

Madge Evans and George MacQuarrie in the World picture, "Wanted—A Mother."

Michigan

Fire damaged the McDonaly Opera House block at Negaunee. Loss about $10,000.

Missouri

The Park Theatre of Shelbyville was recently completely destroyed by fire.

Nebraska

The new Rialto Theatre being erected at Omaha will cost $200,000.

The U. S. A. Theatre at Sydney has been purchased by H. A. Dubuque, who will take immediate possession.

W. W. Hughes has bought the Lyric Theatre of David City from Mr. McGaffen.

The Rex Theatre of Allen has been sold to Ralph Brownell and Elden Kepsford.

New York

The Efanel Film Corporation of New York City has been incorporated with a capital stock of $500 by Fred Ferguson, Joseph Linsenmeyer and E. Linsenmeyer.

The American Projecting Company of Dover, manufacturing motion picture cameras, etc., has been incorporated with a capital of $300,000.

The Olympic, one of New York City's most popular theatres, has been closed for alterations.

The Bufan Amusement Company is making alterations amounting to $30,000 for operating an open air theatre on the roof of their structure.

George Orth, Max Paskes and Louis Rosenberg are the incorporators of the Mur Film Corporation of Manhattan, with a capital of $15,000.

The Oh Look Products Company of Manhattan has been incorporated with a capital of $20,000 by Morris Ettenberg, Morris Field and Harry Garrell.

Ohio

Construction work has been started for the combination office and theatre building of the Palace Amusement Company of Cincinnati.

Oklahoma

V. V. Grant and J. D. Yearg will erect a theatre at Miami.

Pennsylvania

The Quality Film Corporation of Philadelphia has been incorporated with a capital of $50,000 by F. R. Hansell, Philadelphia, and Vernon Pimm and S. C. Seymour of Camden, N. J.

The Christial Film Society, Incorporated, of Philadelphia, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $300,000 by Arthur W. Britton, Samuel B. Howard and George V. Reilly, all of New York City.

L. W. Jones, formerly mayor of Coatsville, is going into the moving picture business.

South Carolina

The annual statement of the American Feature Film Company of Greenville shows that the capital stock, actually paid in, amounts to $125,000.

High points in the new Fox play, "The Devil's Wheel," featuring Gladys Brockwell.

Tennessee

The Du Pont Engineering Company of Wilmington, Delaware, will let a contract to Mason & Enger of Nashville to erect theatre buildings in Hadley's Bend.

The Chandler & Chandler motion picture theatre of Nashville has been sold to Wyly B. Davidson.

Texas

The Queen Amusement Company of Abilene has been incorporated with a capital of $12,000.

The Matinee Film Company of Dallas has been incorporated with a capital of $5,000 by L. C. Baxley and W. G. Underwood, both of Dallas.

The Specialty Film Company of Dallas has been incorporated with a capital of $5,000 by W. G. Underwood and L. C. Baxley, both of Dallas.

A theatre will be erected at Camp Arthur, Waco, by J. G. Love and A. Roaring, both of St. Louis, Missouri.

A new theatre will be established in the new Holland building, Orange, by Harry Kitterman. A $10,000 piano will be installed.

A curio store and theatre will be erected by E. H. Casey at Houston, to replace one recently damaged by fire. The new structure will cost $3,000.

The Queen Theatre of Goose Creek was recently destroyed by fire. Loss estimated at $20,000.

Washington

J. R. Reid and Linde, of Seattle, have secured a permit to build a motion picture theatre to cost $2,500.

Joe Lucas, manager of the Grand Theatre, Centralia, has bought the Ideal Theatre from R. V. Griner. He is also considering the purchase of the Central Theatre from M. Bloom.

The New Liberty Theatre of Northport was opened on February 7 by Melville L. Adams.

E. C. Smith, manager of the American Theatre, Dayton, has bought the Liberty Theatre of that city.

Jack Kaufmann, former manager of the Liberty Theatre, Hoquiam, has bought the Avenue Theatre at Seattle from F. L. Hawthorne.

Honor S. L. Rothapfel

A finely executed bronze bas-relief symbolizing the things S. L. Rothapfel has accomplished in the amusement world was unveiled in the lobby of his Rivoli theatre, New York, the other day in the presence of an invited audience that included the leading New York producers and exhibitors and representatives of the press.

The bronze is the work of Signor Guiseppe Moretti, the noted Italian sculptor, and was presented to Mr. Rothapfel by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. It measures 28 to 42 inches. It will remain as the central panel in the east wall of the Rivoli lobby.

The ceremonies at the unveiling consisted of a brief speech by William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, introducing Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. The latter gave way in turn to Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president, who made the presentation. Mr. Rothapfel expressed his appreciation in a few words and the guests then adjourned to Churchill's, where the recipient of the tablet entertained them at luncheon.

Quebec Boosts War Tax

Without notice or official announcement, the Canadian province of Quebec has effected a considerable increase in amusement tax revenue by abolishing the one cent tax tickets which were formerly sold with all admission tickets up to 34 cents.

Government representatives recently visited the box offices of Montreal theatres and took up all rolls of one cent tickets. Those of the two-cent variety were left in their place and the theatres could do nothing but charge the two-cent rate. Thus the tax became a twenty per cent charge on five cent tickets and a ten per cent charge on 10 cent tickets.

The schedule now stands: Two cent tax for tickets from one cent to 34 cents; three cents for tickets from 35 to 74 cents; five cents from 75 cents to $1.49, and ten cents for tickets costing from $1.50 up.

Require Permits of Children

Montreal theatres have been required to become strict in the matter of admitting children under sixteen years of age. This move is undoubtedly a result of agitation on the part of self-appointed moral uplifters, who have declared that juvenile delinquency is due to pictures.

The exhibitors are requiring children to present a note from parents that their admission is sanctioned. Reading these notes wastes much time at the box office and many children are also disappointed when refused admittance because they have no written permits.

That parents generally approve of the attendance of their children is shown by the fact that the children unvariably return with the notes required.

Use Billboards Extensively

Los Angeles exhibitors are making extensive use of billboards.

During the recent showing of "Heroic France," the eight-reel war special released by the Mutual Film Corporation, the Alhambra Theatre erected eighty twenty-four-sheet stands in all sections of the city and during the presentation of Mary Miles Minter in the American-Mutual production, "Beauty and the Rogue," the Sennett Theatre put up twenty-four-sheet stands.

The Los Angeles Theatres back up their big billboard advertising campaign with extensive newspaper advertising and make special efforts to obtain merchandising publicity.

Complete Record of Current Films

ASSEMBLED FOR USE OF THEATER MANAGERS—CORRECTED EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D	12 Episodes		1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D	The Tracking of Stingaree	2,000
D	Arrayed with the Enemy	2,000
D	An Eye for an Eye	2,000
D	A Double Deception	2,000
D	A Model Marauder	2,000
D	The Mark of Stingaree	2,000
D	An Order of the Court	2,000
D	At the Sign of the Kangaroo	2,000
D	Through Fire and Water	2,000
D	A Bushranger's Stategy	2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D	The Detective's Danger	1,000
D	The Railroad Smugglers	1,000
D	The Deserted Engine	1,000

Broadway Star Features

D	School and Schools (O. Henry Series)	2,000
D	A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series)	2,000
C-D	The Rathskeller and the Rose (O. Henry Series)	2,000
C-D	By Injunction (O. Henry Series)	2,000
C-D	The Song and the Sergeant (O. Henry Series)	2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C	Work	2,000
C	A Woman	2,000
C	The Tramp	2,000

Essanay Comedies

C	Check Your Hat, Sir	1,000
C	Wild Algy of Picadilly	1,000
C	All Stuck Up	1,000
C	The Lie That Failed	1,000
C	The Jazbo Sheriff	1,000
C	The Snakeville Fire Brigade	1,000
C	The Lunch Grabber	1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce.	A Romance of Rails and Power	1,000
	Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly	1,000

George Ade Fables

C	The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land	2,000
C	The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks	2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D	The Mystery of Room 422	1,000
D	A Deal in Bonds	1,000
D	The Sign of the Scarf	1,000
D	The Man With the Limp	1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C	Out and In (Finn & Haddie)	1,000
C	The Inspector's Wife	1,000
C	In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)	1,000
C	Anybody's Money	1,000
C	Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie	1,000
C	Marooned	1,000
C	What Will Happen Next?	1,000
C	Which Was Lucky?	1,000
C	The Unofficial Maneuver	1,000
C	What Occurred on the Beach	1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D	Thief or Angel	2,000
C-D	The Accusing Toe	2,000
C-D	Rebellion	2,000
C-D	A Boy Built City	2,000
C-D	I'm a Man	2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D	The Marvelous Maciste	6,000
D	Camille	6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc.	Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly	1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C	His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby)	1,000
C	Wedding Bells and Lunatics	1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C	On the Love Line	1,000
C	The Detective	1,000
C	Smashing the Plot	1,000
C	After the Matinee	1,000
C	Double Cross	1,000
C	The Best of a Bad Bargain	1,000

Three C Comedies

C	A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)	1,000
C	Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)	1,000
C	A Hash House Romance	1,000
C	The Hod Carrier's Million	1,000

Mutual Program

Tuesday

C	4-12	Finishing Mary (Billie Rhodes)	1,000
T	4-13	Screen Telegram ..... Mutual	1,000

Universal Program

12-15	Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)		5,000
12-24	Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey)		5,000
12-31	The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson)		5,000
1-7	The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely)		5,000
1-14	Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard)		5,000
1-21	Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)		5,000
1-28	The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey)		5,000
2-4	Painted Lips (Louise Lovely)		5,000
2-11	New Love for Old (Ella Hall)		5,000
2-16	Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58		1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly)	Cinema
Are Passions Inherited?	Warner Bros.	7,000
Alma, Where Do You Live?	Newfields Producing Co.	6,000
A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray)	Friedman	5,000
Balloonatics	Century Comedies
Below Zero	Wharton	2,000
Birth Control	Mos B. S. M. P. Corp.	6,000
Bit o' Heaven		5,000
Beware of Strangers	Selig Special	7,000
Birth	Eugenics Film	6,000
Christie Comedies	Christie Film Co.
Christus	Historic Features
Come Through	Universal Film Co.	7,000
Corruption	Popular Pictures Corp.
Cross-Eyed Submarine	Universal Film Mfg
Doing Their Bit	The A. Kay Co.	3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)		5,000
Eagle's Wing	Bluebird	5,000
Even as You and I	Universal Film Co.
Eyes of the World	Clune Film Co.	10,000
Fairy and the Waif	Educational Film Co.	5,000
Five Nights	Jacques Kopfstein Co.	6,000
Flora Finch Comedies	H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge	Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think	Creative Film Corp.	6,000
Flora Finch Comedies	H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The	Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The	Universal Film Co.
Hate	Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible	Export and Import Film Co.	6,000
Her Condoned Sin	Biograph Co.	6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know	Moss B. S. M. P. Corp.	5,000
Glory	Unity Sales Corp.	7,000
God's Law	Universal Film Corp.
God's Man	Frohman Amusement Corp.	9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary	The A. Kay Co.	8,000
Great White Trail	Wharton, Inc.	8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)	Frank Hall
Civilization	Harper	9,000
Intolerance	D. W. Griffith	9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar)	Cardinal	11,000
Madame Sherry	M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine	Bluebird Photoplays	5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn	Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues	M. H. Hoffman	5,000
Sin Woman, The	M. H. Hoffman	7,000
Slackers Heart, A	Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The	A. Kay Co
S. O. S.	American Standard Motion Picture Co.
Span of Life	Joseph F. Lee	5,000
Spoilers, The	Sherman Elliott Corp	12,000
Strife	Jaxon Film Corp.	5,000
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre	Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel	A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules	Cinema Distributing Co.	12,000
Three Musketeers, The	Liberty Film Corp.	7,000
Trip Through China, A	Supreme Feature Films	10,000
Trooper 44	E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp.	5,000
20,000 Feats Under the Sea	A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea	Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine)	Arrow	7,000
The Barrier	Rex Beach	9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin)	Charter	2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)	Corona Cinema	7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter	Enlightenment Corporation	7,000
The Woman and the Beast	Graphic	5,000
The Bar Sinister	Frank Hall	9,000
The Honor System	Honor System Booking	10,000
The Whip	Paragon Films	8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well	Selig Special	8,000
The Garden of Allah	Selig Special	10,000
The Crisis	Sherman Elliot	10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
West Is West.....Ultra Films
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 The Moral Law (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
2-17 Are Married Policemen Safe?. .....Fox-Lehrman 2,000
2-24 American Buds (Jane and Catherine Lee) 7,000
2-24 Six-Shooter Andy (Tom Mix). 5,000
3-3 The Girl with the Champagne Eyes (Jewel Carmen)..... 5,000
3-10 The Debt of Honor (Peggy Hyland) 5,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

2-27 The Beloved Traitor (Mae Marsh) 6,000
3-10 The Room Below (Mabel Normand) 6,000
3-24 Powder Nose Annie (Madge Kennedy) 6,000
4-7 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Bar Sinister (Hedda Nova..... 8,000
The Fringe of Society (Ruth Roland) 7,000
One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

Jester Comedies

Feb. The Recruit (Twede Dan)..... 1,000
Mar. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) 1,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West). 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-11 Broadway Bill (Harold Lockwood) 5,000
2-11 The Bright Lights Dimmed (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-18 A Weaver of Dreams (Viola Dana) 5,000
2-18 After Henry (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

2-18 My Wife (Ann Murdock)..... 5,000
2-25 The Midnight Trail (Wm. Russell) 5,000
3-4 Powers That Prey (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000
3-11 Ann's Finish (Margarita Fischer) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

1-1 Madam Who? (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
1-15 His Robe of Honor (Henry B. Walthall) 7,000
2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15 2,000
2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Beban) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

2-16 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 15.... 1,000
2-17 The Inner Voice (I. I. Mozukin) .....Russian Art 5,000
2-17 The Hidden Hand, No. 13... .....Pathe 2,000
2-17 The Price of Folly, No. 5.Balboa 2,000
2-17 Hit Him Again (Harry Pollard) .....Rolin 1,000
2-17 Along the Reviera — Italy (Travel) 500
2-17 Watching the Flowers Bloom (Educ.) 500
2-17 Cartoon & Educational..... .....International 1,000
2-20 Hearst Pathe News, No. 16... 1,000
2-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 17... 1,000
2-24 The Naulahka (Antonio Moreno) 6,000
2-24 The Hidden Hand, No. 14... .....Pathe 2,000
2-24 The Price of Folly, No. 6..... .....Balboa 2,000
2-24 Argus Pictorial, No. 8...Argus 1,000
2-24 A One Night Stand..... .....Rolin Comedy 2,000
2-24 Beat It (Harold Lloyd)..Rolin 1,000
2-24 Around Central Auvergne (France) 500
2-24 Clermont-Ferrand (France).... 500
2-24 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon). 500
2-24 Appleblossom Land (Educ.)... 500
2-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 18... 1,000
3-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 19... 1,000
3-3 Daddy's Girl (Comedy, Drew) .....Diando 5,000
3-3 The Hidden Hand, No. 15 "The Girl of the Prophecy" (Drama) .....Pathe 2,000
3-3 The Price of Folly, No. 7 "The Rebound" (Drama)...Balboa 2,000
3-3 The Gasoline Wedding (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-3 Our National Parks—Yellowstone Park—The Geysers (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-3 Buxton (Derbyshire, England) Col. (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-6 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-9 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-10 The Great Adventure (C-D).. .....Pathe 5,000
3-10 The House of Hate, No. 1, "The Hooded Terror" (Drama) 3,000
3-10 The Price of Folly, No. 8, "Shifting Sands" (Drama).. 2,000
3-10 Look Pleasant Please (Com.). .....Rolin 1,000
3-10 Our National Parks—Rainier Park—Mesa Verda Park (Travel) .....Pathe 1,000
3-10 Katzenjammer Kids — Spirits (Cartoon) 500
3-10 Jackie's Clothes (Educ.)..... 500
3-13 Hearst Pathe News, No. 22... 1,000
3-16 Hearst Pathe News, No. 23... 1,000

Select Pictures Corporation

OCTOBER

Magda (Clara Kimball Young)..... 5,000
The Moth (Norma Talmadge)..... 6,000
Scandal (Constance Talmadge)..... 5,000

NOVEMBER

Her Silent Sacrifice (Alice Brady).. 5,000
Secret of the Storm Country (Norma Talmadge) 6,000

DECEMBER

Shirley Kaye (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Honeymoon (Constance Talmadge) 5,000

JANUARY

The Marionettes (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
The Ghosts of Yesterday (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Studio Girl (Constance Talmadge) 5,000
Woman and Wife (Alice Brady)... 5,000

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady)..... 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)..... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 From Two to Six (Winifred Allen) 5,000
2-17 Their Undercover Capers..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 Keith of the Border (Ray Stuart) 5,000
2-17 A Full Dress Fizzle..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 His Double Life..... .....Keystone Comedy 1,000
2-24 Little Red Decides..... .....Triangle Players 5,000
2-24 A Coward's Courage..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Soul in Trust (Belle Bennett) 5,000
2-24 His Nimble Twist..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Tell Tale Shirt.....

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

2-25 Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers (Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman) 5,000
2-25 Rooms and Rumors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
2-25 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 10 2,000
2-25 Old Reliable (Norma Talmadge) 2,000
2-25 Stenographer Troubles (Clara Kimball Young) 1,000
.....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-4 The Song of the Soul (Alice Joyce) 5,000
3-4 Telephone Troubles ....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-4 Vengeance and the Woman, No. 11 2,000
3-4 An Officer and a Gentleman (Clara Kimball Young).Com. 1,000
3-11 The Desired Woman (Harry Morey) 5,000
3-11 Meddlers and Moonshiners..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 12 2,000
3-11 Their First Quarrel (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-11 Whims of Society (Ethel Clayton) 5,000
2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall..... .....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

Constance Talmadge Finishes "Up the Road with Sallie"

Constance Talmadge has completed the second Select Picture which she has been making in California, "Up the Road with Sallie," and is now ready to begin work on a new production.

"Up the Road with Sallie" is by Frances Sterrett with the scenario by Julia Crawford Ivers, and directed by William D. Taylor. It is one of those delightful stories with just enough adventure, romance and comedy, mixed with bits of pathos, to make an ideal evening's entertainment. As a story is was signally successful and there is every reason to suppose that on the screen it will prove a highly attractive offering.

Constance Talmadge is delighted with the picture, has enjoyed the work of making it, and has found in it many opportunities for the spirited action of which she is capable.

Norman Kerry supports Miss Talmadge as "Smith-Jones." He is of the type that fits admirably into a part that necessitates dressiness, and on the screen he carries an air of distinction. Kate Toncray and Thomas Persse are the other principals, while there are numerous smaller roles filled by competent players.

Shows "My Four Years in Germany"

The Knickerbocker Theatre, Broadway and Thirty-eighth street, New York, showed "My Four Years in Germany" on March 10.

The production, which is ten reels in length, has special music which was written for it by Hugo Riesenfeld of the Rialto and Rivoli theatres.

"My Four Years in Germany" was adapted from the book of the same name by former Ambassador Gerard.

Patriotic Film Finished

Work on "New York, or Danger Within," the big patriotic picture which Vitagraph made under the auspices of the New York State Defense Council, was finished last week and the assembling of it will be started at once, according to a statement from the office of Albert E. Smith, president of the company.

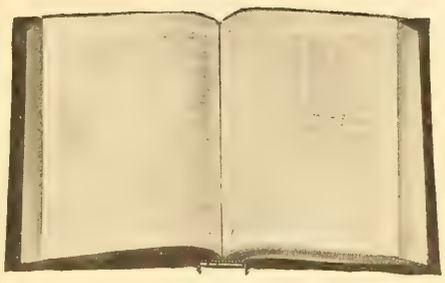
Makes Western Series

Albert Russell is directing Ethel Ritchie, Balboa star, in a new series of twelve two-reel pictures, comprising for the greater part Western drama.

Paramount Fights Censors Over "Song of Songs"

A lively row is brewing as the result of action by the Ohio board of censors in refusing to accept the Artcraft feature, "The Song of Songs," and in rejecting it in its entirety.

Arrangements are being made by the New York offices of the Famous Players-Lasky organization, as well as by their representatives in the state, to resort to legal action if necessary to press through the offering.



Al Lichtman, general manager for the company, has notified E. T. Gerrish of the Cleveland offices to take immediate steps to demand further consideration of the picture. Manager Maddox of the Majestic theatre, Columbus, who represents Paramount there, has called upon the board for a new hearing.

If this is refused Paramount will call upon the law to restrain the board from interfering.

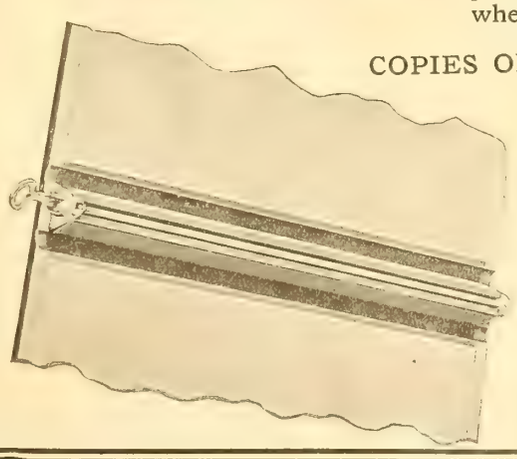
Jack Pickford Back At Work

Jack Pickford has returned to California after a brief visit to New York and is busily engaged in the production of the new Paramount picture, "Sandy" which is being directed by George Melford.

EXHIBITORS

OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference



By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.

Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT - DURABLE - ATTRACTIVE - INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

CLOSED

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

MAY 27 1918

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
Star in Artcraft Pictures

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 23, 1918 No. 12

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC

Exhibitor Cooperative Buying Is Wholesale Buying

Why buy at retail when you can secure wholesale price with

The United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.

If you have only two or three days to offer, you pay the maximum prices and are compelled to accept any terms or conditions that may be imposed. If you have a circuit of 30 or 40 days your terms are better and the prices are lower.

BUT—

When you as a member of a national cooperative organization buy nationally, you are then a part of a unit that controls 2,000, 3,000 or 4,000 booking days, and your purchasing power in the market is increased several thousand fold.

Isn't it obvious that you can cut the price of film 30 to 50 per cent, at the same time obtaining favorable terms, checking waste and extravagance, and thereby enabling the producer to make you better pictures?

That is in a nutshell the United Picture Theatres Plan. Write us for details today.

United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

TRIANGLE

These Are Pleasant Days

An air of congeniality hovers over Triangle these days.

Exhibitors come and go, talk of the Triangle pictures that have made their mark in filmdom, discuss new methods of increasing business, and meet in a spirit of mutual co-operation and helpfulness which has contributed not a little to the success of the large Triangle family.

Enthusiastic letters of commendation for Triangle's policy have been coming in. Exhibitors enjoy sitting down and writing a word of satisfaction over the fact that Triangle is dealing with them on a fair and square basis; that Triangle has borne the burden of the real tax, that the pictures are right and register so profitably at the box office.

The crowning fact of it all is that Triangle pictures and Triangle policies have been proving profitable to exhibitors.

The fallacy that a picture must have a hundred thousand dollar or a five hundred thousand dollar star has been very thoroughly exploded. Too many stories have left Triangle and proven theatre fillers of the first order to permit this false theory to stand. Exhibitors have found that it isn't necessary to pay such enormous, forbidden prices for films that there is nothing left on the profit side of the ledger.

Were Triangle a company owned by Triangle exhibitors and run co-operatively by them according to their own ideas—proven practical by the box office test—it could not meet the demands of exhibitors more perfectly, more successfully or more profitably.

Triangle business is increasing every day. Exchange managers write bright, cheery letters with great regularity, filled with the spirit of optimism and usually enclosing contracts. A quiet spirit of enthusiasm runs through the whole great Triangle organization. There is not much noise, bluster or making of great claims. But "still waters run deep."

These are pleasant days.

Do you not think it might be profitable for you to become a member of the great Triangle family?

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH, President — R. W. LYNCH, Vice-President

FRED KENT, Treasurer — Y. F. FREEMAN, General Manager

An attractive scene in "An American Live Wire," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature with Earle Williams and Grace Darmond. "An American Live Wire" is a story with both Mexican and American settings. It is adapted from a volume in the "Cabbages and Kings" series by O. Henry.

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 23, 1918 No. 12

Open Season for Hunting Waste

ANOTHER PRODUCER SCORES EXHIBITORS

THIS is the open season for ferretting out those responsible for waste. Following a period of several weeks in which producers attacked their own methods, they have now turned their guns on the exhibitors.

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, one who cried loudest against waste in the producing and distributing end of the business, is the latest to scold the theatre men.

Meanwhile prominent exhibitors come out every day or so bestowing blame first on the producers, then on the distributors and finally upon themselves.

Every one is blaming some one else. Yet close study reveals that no one is guiltless and with each side given a chance to speak its mind the way is now open for the mistakes to be rectified. The question is: "Will they be?"

Laemmle Brutally Frank

Mr. Laemmle speaks out with brutal frankness. He declares that all producers are eager to furnish 100 per cent service, but that "The exhibitors won't let them." His statement is based upon the results of a tour recently undertaken by Joe Brandt, Universal's assistant treasurer. The trip included the territories from which the loudest exhibitor complaints have been heard.

"My statement means just what it says," Mr. Laemmle declared. "The time has come when mealy-mouthed compliments and pussyfoot praise of all things and all persons connected with the industry should cease. Instead, it is up to every man who has the welfare of the trade at heart to take a vigorous smash at anything which menaces its existence.

"I should consider myself as a traitor to the men who helped make Universal—the exhibitors—unless I gave Mr. Brandt's report the widest publicity.

Tells Big Waste

"Do you know that Universal is annually compelled to shelve hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of films in excellent condition, simply because some exhibitors made a practice of retaining the advertising matter loaned them? This material is of no earthly use to them after the pictures have been shown, but it is vitally necessary to exhibitors who have still to present these subjects. Naturally, no man will book a production unless he can obtain the necessary advertising props, with the result after a comparatively limited life these films must go on our shelves.

"While on his tour, Mr. Brandt made a special trip to one theatre which was reported as being a flagrant offender in this respect. He discovered hundreds of posters lying stacked up in the cellar, while enough photos to fill a good sized packing case stood in one of the corners. Practically every prominent exchange organization was represented in the advertising.

Film Butchers Fewer

"Thanks to the pride which operators now take in their calling, the film butchers are gradually growing fewer. There are plenty of them left—and the heart-breaking abuse given so large a percentage of the films sent out from the exchanges will testify.

"Our exchange managers are constantly reporting incidents in which pins, safety pins, and even tenpenny nails were made to do the duty of film cement. Some operators apparently run their shows with their eyes shut, because we frequently find sprocket holes ripped for lengths of five and six feet. Still others believe in the value of oil baths. And, these are the men who would cry loudest if a show were to come to them unexamined. Naturally film treated to such abuse is unnecessarily short-lived and makes its final trip to the refineries weeks sooner than would otherwise be necessary.

Tells One Costly Experience

"Mr. Brandt told me of one returned show which was brought to his attention. Apparently anxious to get home in the shortest time, the operator hadn't bothered to finish winding up the film. Instead, he took thirty feet that still remained unwound and rammed it into the case, piling another reel atop of the heap. This cost us the price of an entire new scene to replace the damaged section and in addition caused us to disappoint the exhibitor who was to have run the picture next. In this particular instance, the reel bands came back—tucked away in a corner of the case.

"Not long ago, one of our New York managers told me that at a meeting of the F. I. L. M. Club every exchange man present dwelt upon the apparent impossibility of getting the average exhibitor to see that all the apparatus that goes into the shipping out of a show is returned to the exchange.

"It was the consensus of opinion that the life of a film case was about three weeks—a liberal estimate; reel bands, about two trips; film cans, one week; reels, about four weeks; trailers, about two trips; film cases, two weeks and a half; straps, one and a half trips. These all cost money and must be replaced.

Train Scarcity Factor

"With trains being taken off daily by the government, it is absolutely up to the exhibitor to make every effort to see that our shows are returned to us in good time. The missing of just one train may cause the loss which comes as the result of disappointing a customer. Too many exhibitors are in the habit of regarding this matter as one of small importance. Not until they themselves are held up because of another exhibitor's carelessness do they realize what this indifference means.

"There isn't a manufacturer in business today who wouldn't be tickled to death to give his accounts 100 per cent perfect service, but the exhibitor simply won't allow it.

"After all, the manufacturer is compelled to make a charge for the rental of his production such as will enable him to make a profit. If the cost of doing business is kited because of waste in any department, whether production or distribution, the rental price of the product must go up correspondingly.

"The exhibitor can help us effect a saving that would make even the money that leaks away via the medium of the studios appear small. He can bring this about by merely looking over his house in such a way as would bring to light the evils I have outlined. Making sure that his operator is a competent man will help. Returning his shows and advertising matter will help. Paying particular attention to the manner in which the shows are returned will help.

"Most important of all," Mr. Laemmle concluded, "it would ultimately mean that the exhibitor would be given the benefit of the tremendous saving his co-operation had made possible."

Mutual Retires Old Subjects

THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION, in execution of President John R. Freuler's policy of "perfect prints," has taken off the market all old subjects beyond a decidedly recent date.

"While there is much of the film retired which is still capable of earning rentals, we feel that it is the best policy to get it off the market in behalf of the better and newer film in our branches and in behalf of the industry in general," said President Freuler.

"It has come to my attention that some concerns are circulating old releases on a 'give-away and next to nothing' basis as a trade deal aiming at increasing the volume of business on their new pictures" said President Freuler. "This is a mistake both from the viewpoint of the theatre, the individual concern and the industry as a whole.

"One of the serious elements of the condition of over-production is the fact that it has taken some films too long to die. Money has been spent by distributors to keep pictures moving and to keep them alive which should have been sent to the refineries for junk long ago. Every time an obsolete picture goes on the screen the art suffers an injustice and the commercial possibilities of the newer and better pictures of today are invaded.

"It has been my policy since the early days when I entered the exchange business to keep every print in service in as perfect condition as possible and to junk old pictures as fast as they became seriously worn. It is time also to junk all pictures which are not up to the higher artistic standards of today.

"Every picture in Mutual exchanges is in a merchandising sense and from the exhibitor's proper point of view a new picture."

United Picture Offices Opened

C. R. SEELYE, vice-president and general manager of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., announced before starting west for a tour of the principal exchange centers that one hundred of the highest grade exchange men in the United States would be enlisted under the United banner in a few days.

A. S. Abeles, formerly New York exchange manager for Pathe, and more recently special representative, is now in charge of the New York United office, with Aaron Korn assisting. Mr. Korn leaves Paramount after two years of successful service.

H. M. Osborn has opened a United exchange in Philadelphia, Stanley Hand, after three years of World manager in Boston, will handle the New England territory for United. M. F. Tobias, who has covered the Albany, N. Y., section for years, now represents United in Northern New York. N. I. Filkins, Pathe manager in Buffalo for four years, has signed to look after the interests of the United in western New York.

D. F. O'Donnell has transferred his activities in Washington from Pathe to United.

During his tour Mr. Seelye will spend several days in Los Angeles in conference with stars who have indicated their desire to co-operate with the United.

Pathe Has Varied Program

PATHE'S program for March 17 includes a five-reel Russian art film starring Ivan Mozukin and Mme. Lesienko, the second episode of the new Pearl White serial, "The House of Hate," Toto in a two-reel comedy, Harold Lloyd in a one-reel comedy, and a split-reel educational.

"The Beggar Woman" is the title of the Russian art film. It is one of the most remarkable dramas yet released on the Russian art program and features Mme. Lesienko as a songbird, whose golden notes chime in Petrograd. The literary lion of Russia, who writes in verse of youth and love, is played by Mozukin.

"The Tiger's Eye" is the title of the second episode of "The House of Hate." The punch in this episode comes when the Hooded Terror, late at night, emerges from a secret passageway and goes to the safe. He innocently sets off a flashlight, which exposes a plate in a small camera in the head of a tiger run. Various members of the family rush in. Pearl picks up the camera, stating that in it is the picture of the man who murdered her father and tried to kill her. She calls Gresham (Antonio Moreno) and tells him that the trap worked. While she is talking, Gresham realizes some one has tapped the telephone wire and tells her to be careful, as some one is listening.

The Terror returns to Waldonclyffe to obtain the negative. Herrick, the detective, is slain by the mysterious killer and Pearl locks herself in the dark room. Gresham, who has hastened to Waldonclyffe, is prevented from entering by two guards. The Terror is about to seize Pearl, who has developed the negative, but has not been able to examine it. She shrinks back as the Terror batters in the door and steps forward to seize her.

Start Big Campaign for Sunday Shows

NEW YORK THEATRE MEN SEEK SPEEDY ACTION BY LEGISLATURE

THE allied interests of the motion picture industry have launched a vigorous campaign to amend the state penal laws of New York to permit the exhibition of pictures on Sunday.

A bill is about to be introduced into the state legislature on behalf of the Allied Motion Picture Committee of the State of New York, which was organized recently at the offices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

The committee is headed by John Manheimer, chairman; Frederick H. Elliott, executive secretary of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, secretary; W. A. Zeisler and Charles L. O'Reilly, assistant secretaries; Max Spiegel, secretary of the Mitchel H. Mark Realty Corporation, owners of the Strand Circuit of theatres, treasurer. Mr. Manheimer is president of the Motion Pictures Exhibitors' League of New York state, and Mr. O'Reilly is first vice president of the same organization.

Vice-Chairmen Named

The following vice-chairmen were named for the committee: The members of the executive committee of the Exhibitors' League of New York State, the presidents of every producing, distributing and supply and equipment company; the presidents of all trade papers and such additions as Sydney Cohen, president of the Exhibitors' League of New York State may name.

The executive committee of the Exhibitors' League of New York state has as its officers: Sydney S. Cohen of New York, president; Samuel Suckne of Albany, first vice president; Walter A. Zeisler of Schenectady, second vice president; Rudolph Sanders of Brooklyn, third vice president; L. A. Buettner of Cohoes, fourth vice president; John Wittman, the Bronx, treasurer; Samuel Berman of New York, secretary, and the members of the law legislative committee, which numbers, besides several of the officers already named, John Manheimer, chairman; Henry Cole of the Bronx, George Cohen of Poughkeepsie, M. McCarthy of the Tri-City branch and M. J. Gersen of the Queens.

Many of these men were present at the organization meeting of the allied committee. Other prominent exhibitors present were M. S. Silverman of Schenectady, Benjamin Apfel of Albany and Troy, G. J. Sheer of Cohoes and Fred Elliott of Albany.

Lining Up Exhibitors

The committee is lining up every one of the 1200 exhibitors of the state behind the bill. At the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany, an important get-together meeting will be held soon. At this time the complete organization of the state campaign will be mapped out.

Already an active newspaper campaign has been started. The allied committee is making a systematic effort to put every important newspaper in the state behind the bill.

The allied committee makes it clear that the bill, as proposed, presents the opening of Sunday theatres as a matter of local option. Specifying 2 P. M. as the opening Sunday hour, any possible confliction with religious services is eliminated. The bill, as now proposed, is substantially the same as the bill introduced last year by Assemblyman Clarence J. Welsh of Albany. This bill had the emphatic approval of the state conference of mayors.

Entire Industry Backs Bill

Another important point in the campaign is the fact that the whole industry is behind the move. The allied committee directing the campaign includes every branch of the industry.

Doris Lee, who has appeared to advantage recently in Paramount-Ince Plays.

The organization of the allied committee and the launching of the campaign follows closely upon action taken at a recent meeting held at the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry's headquarters. At this meeting the Sunday closing committee, consisting of William A. Brady, Adolph Zukor, represented by Arthur S. Friend, Walter W. Irwin and Lee A. Ochs approved of the introduction of a measure in the legislature.

The presentation of the proposed bill will have an entirely new wartime argument for its passage this year. There are 1200 picture theatres in the state and half of these are closed on Sunday. This closing means the positive loss in war taxes to the government of $500,000 a year. Aside from the item of war tax loss, the closing of theatres on Sunday means that a direct channel of communication between the government and the people is cut off.

The importance of the screen theatre in handling the Liberty Loan drives, the war saving stamp campaigns and in aiding Food Administrator Hoover has been proved. The closing of theatres on Sunday means a direct blow to government propaganda.

Every angle points to success and the allied committee is starting its campaign with unbounded enthusiasm.

Bill to be Introduced

The bill, as approved by the allied committee, follows:

"Section 1. The penal law is hereby amended by adding at the end of article one hundred and ninety-two a new section to be section twenty-one hundred and fifty-four, to read as follows:

"2154. Motion Picture Exhibitions on the First Day of the Week. Notwithstanding the provisions of this article or any other general or local act, it shall not be unlawful to exhibit motion pictures on the first day of the week after two o'clock in the afternoon, in a city or village, if an ordinance shall not have been adopted by the common council or other legislative governing body of the city or village prohibiting such exhibitions on such day and after such hour; and the adoption of such an ordinance is hereby authorized.

"This act shall take effect immediately."

"What The Picture Did For Me"

VERDICTS ON FILMS IN LANGUAGE OF EXHIBITOR

Artcraft

THE SONG OF SONGS, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"A picture everyone raved over. It was the first 'pink permit,' we have played. We did not advertise that no children were allowed, but told the patrons at the box-office if they brought the youngsters. Most people understood that it was from the stage play and not a suitable picture for children. For adults it is a fine offering."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Blue Blazes Rawden, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A different Hart picture. Satisfied the audience, especially the men. The two-reel Hart re-issues are injuring this star at the box-office. People fear that they are going to see an old picture."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

A Modern Musketeer, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Douglas Fairbank's best picture."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Rise of Jennie Cushing, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Pleased those that saw it but failed to draw much business."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

A Romance of the Redwoods, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"This is a very good picture. Beautiful scenery. Star popular."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, Ohio.

The Little Princess, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A good matinee picture for the kids, but should not have been put on the regular program. Nearly two reels of the five are a fairy tale."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Wolves of the Rail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A good picture. Will go big anywhere."—M. Pollock, Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J.

The Little American, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A regular picture, played to capacity business and everybody was satisfied."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"The star is wonderful and always plays to a full house. Some picture!"—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

The Woman God Forgot, with Geraldine Farrar

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in MOTOGRAPHY'S "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago.

(Artcraft)—"A great picture. Should get the money everywhere."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

The Devil Stone, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"Rather gruesome but still pleasing. A good box-office attraction."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Stella Maris, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Mary plays two distinct characters so well that she fools many a patron. People all liked this. The title means nothing to them. It is the star that attracts. Story is good. Six reels."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Bluebird

Face Value, with Mae Murray (Bluebird)—"A very fair picture."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

The Price of Silence, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)—"A fine picture. You can get the crowds with this."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

The Savage, with Monroe Salisbury (Bluebird)—"A good picture, but it didn't pull much. With so many of the boys gone, we have to depend more on the women patrons and the photos looked too rough."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Winged Mystery, with Franklyn Farnum (Bluebird)—"The star plays a dual role and it may be mentioned, has a fight with himself. Carrier pigeons are used in a number of scenes. Picture pleased all."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Butterfly

A Marked Man, with Harry Carey (Butterfly)—"A good western. Carey is getting to be popular."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

Fox

The Honor System, with George Walsh (Fox)—"The greatest picture ever made for story and action. Business good."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, O.

When a Man Sees Red, with William Farnum (Fox)—"Farnum at his best. Production great. Business good."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, O.

The Scarlet Pimpernel, with Dustin Farnum (Fox)—"Good picture but costume plays do not take very well here."—H. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Tex.

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"The star did some wondreful work but he had no story to work on."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"Fairbanks will have to hustle or this popular star will pass him."—H. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Tex.

Thou Shalt Not Steal, with Virginia Pearson—(Fox)—"This is excellent, good enough for anyone. Drew only a small house on account of bad roads, but pleased everyone."—John W. Baird, Crystal Theatre, Pattonsburg, Mo.—One thousand population.

Jack Spurlock, Prodigal, with George Walsh (Fox)—"A poor picture, but business was good."—M. Pollock, Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J.

Treasure Island, with the Fox kiddies (Fox)—"Pleased the children but not the grown-ups."—M. Pollock, Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J.

North of '53, with Dustin Farnum (Fox)—"Film in such poor shape we couldn't tell anything about it."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

The Spy, with Dustin Farnum (Fox)—"Book this one. My patrons stood out in the street in bad weather for two hours waiting for seats. Everyone should run this picture. It will get the money anywhere."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

Goldwyn

Dodging a Million, with Mabel Normand (Goldwyn)—"I wish Goldwyn would boil their pictures down to five reels instead of six. This is a very good picture, a good box-office attraction. The star's work was liked by all who saw it. Tom Moore is in the supporting. It was directed by George Loane Tucker."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Dodging a Million, with Mabel Normand (Goldwyn)—"O. K. in every way."—R. J. Relff, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Our Little Wife, with Madge Kennedy (Goldwyn)—"A good comedy drama. The title is catchy and it drew well. The star certainly belongs to motion pictures. The story of a newly married belle who takes all her former sweethearts on her honeymoon trip. Poor hubby!"—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Our Little Wife, with Madge Kennedy (Goldwyn)—"A very good picture which satisfied the audience very well."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Jewel

Sirens of the Sea, with Louise Lovely (Jewel)—"A drawing card in any community and will please, at advanced prices."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

The Co-respondent, with Elaine Hammerstein (Jewel)—"Just an ordinary feature. The star is good."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

Kleine

Brown of Harvard, with Tom Moore (Selig)—"Six reels. A good, familiar title. Good cast and a good interesting picture. Will not only draw well but will please those who come to see it. It will be liked by the children as well as the grown-ups."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

One Touch of Nature, (Edison)—"A fine picture with a good baseball story."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, O.

The Tell-Tale Step, with Shirley Mason (Edison)—"A fair picture to poor business. The title sounded too suggestive to draw."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Metro

Her Boy, with Effie Shannon (Metro)—"A worthy successor to Draft 258. Very patriotic but sad. Everyone should see it."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

Draft 258, with Mabel Taliaferro (Metro)—"Turned them away on the first run and also on a repeat."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

The Avenging Trail, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"A very good picture of the Northwest."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theater, Chester, S. C.

Under Suspicion, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"The recent newspaper scandal seemed to make this picture a curiosity for we did good business with it. The title has no relation to the star's domestic troubles, however, and the story is of the crook variety."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

The Adopted Son, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"A very fair picture. Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

The Slacker, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"This picture broke all records. You cannot get another picture to beat it. Boost it big."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Under Handicap, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"7,500 feet. A good print. Business fair. Had no kicks."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Broadway Bill, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"Good. Don't be afraid of it. You can face your patrons, passing out, and feel that you have given them a good picture. Wonderful snow scenes. Title seemed to attract and this star is popular in our locality."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Mutual

Peggy Leads the Way, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"A very good picture that pleased the audience and drew good business."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

The Girl From Rector's (Mutual)—"Not much of a picture. Did not please. Drew only a small crowd and I'm glad of it."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Please Help Emily, with Ann Murdock (Empire-Mutual)—"I am surprised that Mutual stars Ann Murdock for she does not attract and our patrons are disappointed in her."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

A Game of Wits, with Gail Kane (American-Mutual—"A very light plot, which could have been put into two reels. Not such a bad picture, however."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Paralta

A Man's Man, with J. Warren Kerrigan (Paralta)—"One of the best pictures I have ever shown."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

A Man's Man, with J. Warren Kerrigan (Paralta)—"Proclaimed by patrons as the best picture ever shown in Linton. Played to capacity at all shows."—Fred Wright, Dreamland Theatre, Linton, Ind.

Madam Who? with Bessie Barriscale (Paralta)—"This is some picture. Pleased a fair crowd."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Paramount

The Eternal Temptress, with Lina Cavalieri (Paramount)—"One of the best pictures. Pleased the audience very well."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"Not much of a picture."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Seven Swans, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Pleased everybody. A first-class picture. Pretty good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Jules of the Strong Heart, with George Beban (Paramount)—"A very good picture. Fair crowd."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Heart of Nora Flynn. with Marie Doro (Paramount)—"A good picture. Film in good condition."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Arms and the Girl, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"Excellent picture to fair business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Arms and the Girl, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"An unusually good picture, better than her first one. Business good."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Bab's Matinee Idol, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Another good Bab story. They have all gone over big for me."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

His Mother's Boy, with Charles Ray (Paramount) "Not as good as The Hired Man and it didn't draw so well either."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Thing We Love, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Some fine picture and did the business, too." —John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

An International Sneak (Sennett-Paramount)—"Mack Sennett is giving us really good comedies and this is one of them."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Keys of the Righteous, with Enid Bennett (Paramount)—"A fairly good picture but drew no business." —John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Oh Doctor, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Not as good as the star's early releases, but Fatty packed the theatre."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

Jack and Jill, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Drew very well and pleased."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

The Hired Man, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Not a great production but an A-1 human-interest, everyday play from life. Ray is gaining many new admirers, as his work is different from the rest. You will find that everyone from the children to the grown-ups will like it."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

The Call of the Cumberlands, with Dustin Farnum (Paramount)—"A good picture. This kind draws well." —Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Pudd'nhead Wilson, with Theodore Roberts (Paramount)—"It's a great picture. A southern story, and it draws well."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Mice and Men, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"We depend on rural trade and in spite of very bad roads, this packed them in. Everyone, going out, said it was fine, good, great. Business generally is picking up."—John W. Baird, Crystal Theatre, Pattonsburg, Mo.—1,000 population.

The Spirit of '17, with Jack Pickford (Paramount) —"Went over well. The old soldiers brought much applause."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

The Spirit of '17, with Jack Pickford (Paramount) —"Keeps the patriotic interest stirred up. Not as good as Tom Sawyer but is an entirely different kind of a picture. People are asking for the next Tom Sawyer film, which they thought was coming soon, as that picture had a trailer which called attention to more of Tom's pictures. This will draw the kids and they will like it."—Charles H. Ryan, Carfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

The Countess Charming, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Some picture, some star. Business only fair, but I think I will do better the next time I play this star."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Pleased, as a whole. Reid is better liked here in a dress suit. Good blizzard scenes in the last reel."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

The World For Sale (Blackton-Paramount)—"Paid $25 for the picture. Box office receipts $22."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

Rimrock Jones, with Wallace Reid (Paramount) —"Not suited to this star. Otherwise it is an interesting play. The title is odd. The star is becoming more widely woven. The story is woven around the gold fields of the west."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—In middle class neighborhood.

The Varmint, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Just an ordinary feature."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

Freckles, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A splendid picture but it doesn't follow the story closely. I don't know why they add to it in part and leave out important items of the story. But don't be afraid of it. It should get over anywhere."—J. F. Hickenbottom, Grand Theatre, Juliaetta, Idaho.

Miss George Washington, with Margarite Clark (Paramount)—"A fine picture. Business fair."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, Ohio.

Pathe

Round-up at Pendleton, Oregon (Pathe)—"This was a knockout with me."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Twin Kiddies, with Marie Osborne (Pathe)—"Baby Marie is a wonder. Everyone was pleased."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre. Crystal Falls, Mich.

Select

Woman and Wife, with Alice Brady (Select)—"Taken from 'Jane Eyre.' An ordinary drama, nothing to boast about. Average business. Star fair as a box-office attraction."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Woman and Wife, with Alice Brady (Select)—"A pretty good picture. Satisfied everyone and drew fairly good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Woman and Wife, with Alice Brady (Select)—"A fairly good picture. Satisfied the majority of patrons. Good business."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Triangle

The Ten of Diamonds, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"Very good. A popular star in a story suited to her."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

Sudden Jim, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Picture good, different, full of thrills. Charles Ray is a big favorite."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

The Aryan, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"A reissue and it is surely a business getter. Well worth the money."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kansas.

The Aryan, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Drew very well but failed to please. Most too slow."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Man Hater, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Absolutely no drawing power, although it is a fair production."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

One Shot Ross, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A fair production but patrons seem to like western dramas of this sort."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kansas.

Wild Sumac, with Margery Wilson (Triangle)—"A fair production that pleased everyone. Business only fair on account of bad weather."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kansas.

Keith of the Border, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A pretty fair picture but it did not draw."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

From Two to Six, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Just a fair picture."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Souls Triumphant, with Wilfred Lucas and Lillian Gish (Triangle)—"If you book this picture, you can't go wrong. If you want good pictures, book Triangle features."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Sweetheart of the Doomed, with Louise Glaum (Triangle)—"A splendid picture. Star excellent. This is Miss Glaum's very best."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

The Desert Man, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"It's a whirlwind. Book any of the Triangle Hart pictures and you can get the people into your theatre."—Loeffelholz Bros., Auditorium Theatre, Cuba City, Wis.

Little Red Decides, with Barbara Connelly (Triangle)—"The child star did not draw. Picture just fair."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

A Soul in Trust, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"A pretty good picture."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The Mother Instinct, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"Good title, good feature, and drew good business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Heiress For a Day, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"A fairly good picture."—M. J. Weil Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The Primal Lure, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"A reissue but all there. Fine from every standpoint."—Miss C. Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

For Valour, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"A good picture that could have had a much better ending. Business good."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Sudden Gentleman, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"A very good picture that played to poor business. In my opinion the unattractive paper caused small attendance."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Cassidy, with Dick Rosson (Triangle)—"A good picture. Good subject. Good business."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Devil Dodger, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A good picture which will please any kind of audience."—H. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

Ashes of Hope, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"A good picture with the stuff that is sure to please."—H. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

The Flame of the Yukon, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"This is a top-notch picture of its class, but it has too much dance hall atmosphere for some people. It is full of pep, with a real fight, and is worth the money anytime."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Flame of the Yukon, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"The greatest play of its kind. A better fight in it than in The Spoilers. Business immense."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

The Man Who Made Good, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Poor. Not well liked. Nothing to it."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

Her Excellency the Governor, with Elda Miller (Triangle)—"Tedium is the only word for this."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

Universal

John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal Special)—"A fairly good picture but not the kind my audience likes."—S. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

Bucking Broadway, with Harry Carey (Universal Special)—"A first-class western comedy drama. Full of action."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

Hell's Crater, with Grace Cunard (Universal Special)—"Would have been a good picture with another actress but Grace Cunard is not popular here."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

The Wolf and His Mate, with Louise Lovely (Universal Special)—"A good picture and Louise is one of the best actresses in the business."—B. E. Sharum, Lyric Theatre, Ripley, Okla.

The Wolf and His Mate, with Louise Lovely (Universal Special)—"A pleasing five-reeler. Not much drawing power but O. K. on an off night."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, 5531 Halsted St., Chicago.

Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—"These two-reelers are better in comedy value than the average single reel comedies but they are not up to the standard set by the best two-reel comedies."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Vitagraph

Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"Best yet. We used the S. R. O. sign for the first time since last April."—H. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

By Right of Possession, with Antonio Moreno (Vitagraph)—"Another good Vitagraph."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Transgression, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A little old but a good one."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

In the Balance, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"One of the star's best, in my estimation. Patrons were well pleased."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kansas.

The Wild Strain, with Nell Shipman (Vitagraph)—"Mighty fine. The star is a real drawing card for us."—M. Thompson, White Way Theatre, Concordia, Kan.

When Men Are Tempted, with Mary Anderson (Vitagraph)—"An extra good feature."—Charles C. Baldwin, Scenic Theatre, Keene, N. H.

When Men Are Tempted, with Mary Anderson (Vitagraph)—"A pleasing picture. Satisfied everyone."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

His Own People, with Harry Morey (Vitagraph)—"A very good picture which pleased everyone. Fair business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

Through the Wall, with Nell Shipman (Vitagraph)—"A good picture, well acted. Gave general satisfaction."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

Phantom Fortunes, with Barney Bernard (Vitagraph)—"While there is nothing exciting in this, it is a good story and pleased my audience."—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

The Blind Adventure, with Edward Earle (Vitagraph)—"Did not draw."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

For France, with Edward Earle (Vitagraph)—"Picture good. Patrons well pleased."—M. Pollock, Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J.

My Official Wife, with Clara Kimball Young (Vitagraph)—"Good picture. Star well liked. Big business."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

An Alabaster Box, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"A good production, with fair drawing power. Alice Joyce is very attractive."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

World

The Divine Sacrifice, with Kittie Gordon (World)—"A good picture to pretty good business."—M. J. Weil,, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The Divine Sacrifice, with Kittie Gordon (World)—"A fair production, but slightly suggestive. Kittie Gordon's own daughter plays with her in this."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted street, Chicago.

His Royal Highness, with Carlyle Blackwell (World)—"Something of a so-called costume play which the general public does not care for. I would call this only fair in comparing it with the average World program, which stands up pretty well. This was not a box-office attraction and fell below our average attendance."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Rasputin, the Black Monk, with Montague Love (World)—"Not what the audience expected. While the picture is good, my patrons were disappointed.—C. D. Thompson, Star Theatre, Veblen, S. D.

Gates of Gladness, with Madge Evans (World)—"A clever little star in a nice, clean story, well liked by all."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Whims of Society, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Very good from every standpoint. Ethel Clayton is always well liked."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted street, Chicago.

Whims of Society, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"Just a fair picture, with little drawing power."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Spurs of Sybil, with Alice Brady (World)—"The first World picture we've run at the Castle. A very good picture and drew good day business; not so good at night."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown House.

Husband and Wife, with Ethel Clayton (World)—"A World 'gratis' film. O. K. and clear profit. It is surely great of World to do this for exhibitors."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted street, Chicago.

The Good For Nothing, with Carlyle Blackwell (World)—"Good picture, but it did not draw. Patrons pleased."—H. C. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

The Tenth Case, with June Elvidge (World)—"A good picture and patrons were pleased. Title has no drawing power."—H. C. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

All Man, with Robert Warwick (World)—"Good picture with the exception of part of the son's confession, which I thought too suggestive for my use. I failed to see what it added to the picture. Otherwise it is a splendid production."—H. C. Johnson, Crystal Theatre, Stamford, Texas.

The Wishing Ring, with Vivian Martin (World)—"A pleasing old-time love story, with plenty of action. A good, clean picture with some good laughs and an interesting story. The star is not known here and did not draw."—J. F. Hickenbottom, Grand Theatre, Juliaetta, Idaho.

Wholesome

Little Red Riding-hood, with Chicago Children Players (Wholesome)—"Very pleasing. Went over big. Many comments on this picture. Patrons are inquiring for the next."—M. S. Ludwick, Melrose Park Theatre, Melrose Park, Ill.

State Rights and Specials

Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce Educational Scenic)—"My first Robert Bruce scenic. Fairly good, but from the write-ups I expected a much better reel."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Christie Comedies (State Rights)—"Best one-reel clean comedies on the market. Seldom a poor one."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Hubby's Holiday, with Gertrude Selby (Selburn comedies)—"The nicest two-reel comedy produced in a long time. Clean all the way through and right up to the minute."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted street, Chicago.

Serials and Series

The Lost Express, with Helen Holmes (Mutual)—"Last episode. The serial as a whole was good and a good money maker in the worst of weather."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Picture good. Attendance improving with each episode. Business good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Seven Pearls, with Mollie King (Pathe)—"Very poor. Story impossible. Business fell off with this."—S. C. Vale, Pictorium Theatre, Dennison, Ohio.

The Bull's Eye, with Eddie Polo (Universal)—"Going great."—M. Pollock, Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"A great western serial. Matinee going big. Business better with each episode."—W. B. Johnson, U-No Theatre, Crystal Falls, Mich.

The Neglected Wife, with Ruth Roland (Pathe)—"Good houses and pleased patrons."—L. Dean Sands, Sands Theatre, Warsaw, Mo.

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan Vitagraph)—"Have only shown two episodes so far but these are very good. Similar to The Fighting Trail."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted street, Chicago.

Please Sign Your Name

Exhibitors reporting to the "What the Picture Did For Me" department occasionally forget to include their names and addresses in their report, which therefore cannot be published. MOTOGRAPHY wishes to publish EVERY report. Please be sure that at least your theatre and its address is on your report.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Picture Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of MOTOGRAPHY, is published:

A

According to the Code (Kleine)—March 16.
Adopted Son (Metro)—March 23.
Adventures of Carol (World)—March 9.
Alabaster Box (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—February 23.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—March 16.
Alice in Wonderland (State Rights)—March 9.
Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—March 23.
All for a Husband (Fox)—March 2.
All Man (World)—March 23.
American Consul (Paramount)—March 16.
American Husband, Her (Triangle)—February 23.
American, That's All (Triangle)—March 16.
American Widow (Metro)—March 9, March 16.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 2, March 9.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 2, March 11.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—March 16.
Arms and the Girl (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 23.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 11, March 23.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 9.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 9.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—March 23.

B

Bab, the Fixer (Mutual)—March 2.
Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16.
Bab's Diary (Paramount)—February 23.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—March 16.
Baby Mine (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Bad Boy (Triangle)—March 9.
Barker (Kleine)—March 9.
Barrier (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—February 23, March 9.
Bedroom Blunder (Paramount)—March 9.
Betty and the Buccaneers (Mutual)—March 16.
Betty Takes a Hand (Triangle)—February 23.
Betty to the Rescue (Paramount)—March 9.
Between Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Big V Comedies (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Birth of a Nation (Griffith)—March 2.
Bit of Kindling (Mutual)—March 16.
Blind Adventure (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Blood Will Tell (Triangle)—February 23.
Blue Blazes Rawden (Artcraft)—March 16, March 23.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 9.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Bond Between (Paramount)—March 9.
Bond of Fear (Triangle)—March 2.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—March 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Broadway, Arizona (Triangle)—March 16.
Broadway Luck (Metro)—March 2.
Broken Ties (World)—March 2.
Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—March 23.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 9, March 23.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—February 23, March 23.
Burglar (World)—March 16.
By Right of Possession (Vitagraph)—March 23.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Call of the Cumberlands (Paramount)—March 23.
Call of the East (Paramount)—March 2.
Camille (Fox)—March 9.
Case at Law (Triangle)—March 16.
Cassidy (Triangle)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 16.
Cheating the Public (Fox)—February 23, March 2.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 16, March 23.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—February 23, March 2, March 16.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—February 23, March 11, March 16.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—March 11.
Come Through (Jewel)—March 11.
Common Law (Select)—March 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—February 23.
Conscience (Fox)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Cook of Canyon Camp (Paramount)—February 23.
Co-respondent (Jewel)—March 9, March 16, March 23.

Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 2, March 23.
Country's Call, Her (Mutual)—February 23.
Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—March 2.
Crooked Romance (Pathe)—February 23.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Cure (Mutual)—March 9.
Cy Whitaker's Ward (Kleine)—March 16.

D

Damaged—No Goods (Fox)—March 16.
Darling of Paris (Fox)—March 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
Daughter of Uncle Sam (General)—February 23.
Daughter of War (Mutual)—March 16.
Daybreak (Metro)—February 23.
Dazzling Miss Davison (Mutual)—March 16.
Deserter (Triangle)—March 16.
Desert Man (Triangle)—March 23.
Desire of the Moth (Bluebird)—March 2.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 2, March 23.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Devil's Prize (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Diamonds and Pearls (World)—February 23.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Dodging a Million (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Drew Comedies (Metro)—February 23.
Dummy (Paramount)—March 16.

E

Easy Money (World)—March 9.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Even Break (Triangle)—March 2.
Evidence (Triangle)—March 9.
Evil Eye (Paramount)—March 16.
Exile (Paramount)—February 23.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—March 2.

F

Face Value (Bluebird)—March 23.
Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—March 9.
Falcon Features (General)—February 23.
Fall of a Nation (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Fanatics (Triangle)—March 16.
Fatty Out West (Paramount)—March 9.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—March 2, March 9.
Fear Not (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Fifty-Fifty (Triangle)—February 23.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—March 9.
Fighting Grin (Bluebird)—March 9.
Fighting Mad (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—March 9.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Filling His Own Shoes (Kleine)—March 2.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—February 23, March 9, March 16.
Fires of Youth (Pathe)—March 9.
Flames of Chance (Triangle)—March 9.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Flying Colors (Triangle)—February 16, March 2.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
For the Freedom of the World (Goldwyn)—March 9.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Ford Educational Weekly—February 23.
Fox Comedies (Fox)—March 16.
France in Arms (Pathe)—February 23.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 2, March 23.
From Two to Six (Triangle)—March 23.
Frozen Warning (Lynch)—March 16.
Fuel of Life (Triangle)—March 16.
Further Adventures of Stingaree (General)—March 16.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—March 16, March 23.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—February 23, March 16.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 2, March 23.
General Comedies—February 23.
German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—March 2.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 2.
Gift of Gab (Kleine)—March 9.
Girl by the Roadside (Bluebird)—March 2.
Girl from Rector's (Mutual)—March 23.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—March 9.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
Glory of Yolande (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Golden Fetters (Paramount)—March 16.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—March 23.

H

Habit of Happiness (Triangle)—February 23.
Hands Down (Universal)—March 16.
Hater of Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 2, March 9.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Heart and Soul (Fox)—March 16.
Heart of Ezra Greer (Pathe)—February 23.
Heart of a Lion (Fox)—March 2.
Heart of Nora Flynn (Paramount)—March 23.
Hearts and Saddles (Fox)—March 16.
Heir of the Ages (Paramount)—March 2.
Heiress for a Day (Triangle)—March 23.
Helene of the North (Paramount)—February 23.
Hell Morgan's Girl (Bluebird)—March 16.
Hell's Crater (Universal)—March 23.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Her American Husband (Triangle)—February 23.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 9, March 23.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Her Excellency the Governor (Triangle)—March 23.
Her Right to Live (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Her Second Husband (Mutual)—March 2.
Her Silent Sacrifice (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 16.
High Play (Mutual)—February 23.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 2, March 16, March 23.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 16, March 23.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 16, March 23.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—March 9.
His Royal Highness (World)—March 23.
His Smashing Career (Fox)—March 2.
Home Run Ambrose (Universal)—March 16.
Honor System (Fox)—March 23.
Hopper (Triangle)—February 23.
Hostage (Paramount)—March 9.
Hubby's Holiday (Selburn—State Rights)—March 23.
Hungry Heart (Paramount)—March 9.
Husband and Wife (World)—March 23.

I

Immigrant (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—March 16.
International Sneak (Paramount)—March 23.
I Will Repay (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Idolators (Triangle)—March 2.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Indian Summer (General)—March 2.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16.

J

Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—March 16.
Jack and Jill (Paramount)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 2, March 23.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—March 2.
John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal)—March 23.
Judge Brown Stories (General)—February 23.
Judgment House (Paramount)—February 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Jury of Fate (Metro)—March 16.

K

Keith of the Border (Triangle)—March 23.
Keys of the Righteous (Paramount)—March 23.
Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 16.
Kiss for Susie (Paramount)—March 9.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—February 23, March 16.
Land of Long Shadows (Kleine)—March 2.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—February 23.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—February 23.
Lash of Power (Bluebird)—February 23.
Last Man (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Last of the Carnabys (Pathe)—February 23.
Less Than the Dust (Artcraft)—March 2.
Light Within (Petrova)—March 2.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—March 16.
Little Red Decides (Triangle)—March 23.
Little Red Riding Hood (Wholesome)—March 23.

This might be a huge laugh in a new comedy, but it isn't. Fatty Arbuckle is just having a little fun with Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Little Patriot (Pathe)—February 23, March 9.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 16, March 23.
Little Volunteer (World)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Lost Express (Mutual)—February 23, March 2, March 9, March 23.
Love Doctor (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Love Letters (Paramount)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—March 16.

M

Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—March 16.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—March 9.
Madame Who (Paralta)—February 23, March 23.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Man Behind the Curtain (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Man from Montana (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
Man from Painted Post (Artcraft)—March 2.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Man Trap (Bluebird)—February 23.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—February 23, March 16, March 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—February 23, March 16.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—February 23, March 2, March 16.
Man's Man (Paralta)—March 23.
Mark of Cain (Pathe)—February 23.
Marked Man (Butterfly)—March 23.
Marriage Speculation (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 2.
Marionettes (Select)—March 2, March 16.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—February 23, March 2.
Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce—State Rights)—March 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 2, March 16.
Mice and Men (Paramount)—March 23.
Milk-Fed Vamp (Fox)—February 23.
Miss George Washington (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss Jackie of the Army (Mutual)—February 23.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (Mutual)—March 2.
Miss Robinson Crusoe (Metro)—March 16.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—March 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft) — February 23, March 2, March 23.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—February 23.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother (State Rights)—February 23.
Mother Instinct (Triangle)—March 23.
Mother O' Mine (Bluebird)—March 2.
Motherhood (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Mountain Dew (Triangle)—March 2.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—March 9.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—March 9.
Mysterious Miss Terry (Paramount)—March 2.
Mysterious Mr. Tiller (Bluebird)—March 2.
Mystery Ship (Universal)—March 2.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 2, March 23.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—February 23, March 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—February 23, March 16.
North of 53 (Fox)—March 23.

O

O. Henry Pictures (General)—February 23.
Oh, Doctor (Paramount)—March 23.
Old Folks at Home (Triangle)—February 23.
One Touch of Nature (Kleine)—March 23.
On the Level (Paramount)—March 2.
On the Square Girl (Pathe)—March 2.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—February 23, March 2, March 23.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 16.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 23.
Out West (Paramount)—March 2.
Outwitted (Metro)—February 23.

P

Painted Madonna (Fox)—February 23.
Panthea (Select)—March 2.
Pants (Kleine)—March 16.
Paws of the Bear (Triangle)—March 9.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 9, March 23.
Pendleton Round-Up (Pathe)—March 2, March 23.
Periwinkle (Mutual)—March 16.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—March 16.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 2, March 16.
Planter (Mutual)—March 2.
Please Help Emily (Mutual)—March 23.
Polly Ann (Triangle)—March 2.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—February 23.
Price Mark (Paramount)—February 23, March 16.
Price of Silence (Bluebird)—March 23.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 16.
Primal Lure (Triangle)—March 23.
Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Pudd'nhead Wilson (Paramount)—March 23.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—March 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 9, March 16.
Rasputin (World)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 2, March 16.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—February 23.
Red Ace (Universal)—February 23, March 23.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—March 16.
Regenerates (Triangle)—March 16.
Reputation (Mutual)—March 2.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—March 9.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Roadside Impresario (Paramount)—March 2.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—February 23, March 23.
Roping Her Romeo (Paramount)—March 16.
Rose of the South (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—March 9.
Rough House (Paramount)—March 16.
Round-Up at Pendleton (Pathe)—March 2, March 23.

S

Sands of Sacrifice (Mutual)—February 23.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—March 16.
Savage (Bluebird)—March 23.
Scandal (Select)—March 16.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 2, March 23.
Secret Game (Paramount)—February 23, March 9.
Secret of the Storm Country (Select)—March 2.
Seven Pearls (Pathe)—March 23.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—February 23, March 23.
Shackles of Truth (Mutual)—March 9.
Shanghaied Jonah (Keystone)—March 9.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 16.
Shirley Kaye (Select)—February 23, March 2.
Shorty Hamilton Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Silent Lady (Butterfly)—February 23, March 2.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—March 23.
Slacker (Metro)—February 23, March 23.
Sleeping Memory (Metro)—March 2.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—February 23, March 16.
Snarl (Triangle)—February 23.
Snow White (Paramount)—March 16.
Society's Driftwood (Butterfly)—March 9.
Somebody's Widow (Mutual)—March 16.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Son of His Father (Paramount)—March 2.
Song of Songs (Artcraft)—March 23.
Soul in Trust (Triangle)—March 23.

Barbara Castleton, World star.

Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls Triumphant (Triangle)—March 23.
Southern Pride (Mutual)—March 9.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—March 2.
Spurs of Sybil (World)—March 23.
Spy (Fox)—February 23, March 23.
Square Deal Man (Triangle)—February 16.
Square Deceiver (Metro)—March 16.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—March 2.
Stars and Stripes in France (Pathe)—March 2.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Stolen Hours (World)—February 23.
Stormy Knight (Bluebird)—March 2.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—February 23, March 9.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 16.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—February 23, March 9.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—February 23, March 16.
Sunset Trail (Paramount)—February 23.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—March 23.

T

T Haviland Hicks (Kleine)—February 23.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tell-Tale Step (Kleine)—March 23.
Ten of Diamonds (Triangle)—March 23.
Tenderfoot (Vitagraph)—February 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Thais (Goldwyn)—February 23, March 2, March 9.
They're Off (Triangle)—March 9.
Thing We Love (Paramount)—March 23.
This Is the Life (Fox)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—March 23.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 9.
Today (Pathe)—February 23, March 2.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—February 23, March 9.
Transgression (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Treason (Bluebird)—February 23.
Treasure Island (Fox)—February 23, March 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Triumph (Bluebird)—March 2.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—March 2.
Twin Kiddies (Pathe)—March 23.
Twinkler (Mutual)—March 16.
Two-Bit Seats (Kleine)—March 2.
Two Men and a Woman (State Rights)—March 9.

U

Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 2, March 23.
Universal Current Events—March 16.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—March 9.
Unmarried Wife, My (Bluebird)—March 9.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—February 23.
Up or Down (Triangle)—March 9.
Upper Crust (Mutual)—March 16.

V

Valley of the Moon (Paramount)—February 23.
Varmint (Paramount)—March 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—March 9.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—February 23, March 16.
Voice on the Wire (Universal)—March 2.

W

Watch Your Neighbor (Paramount)—March 16.
Weaver of Dreams (Metro)—March 2.
Web of Desire (World)—March 2.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 9, March 23.
When Men Are Tempted (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Whims of Society (World)—March 2, March 9, March 16, March 23.
Who Leads the National Army (National Training Camps)—March 16.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 9, March 16
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—March 9.
Wild Strain (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Winding Trail (Metro)—March 2, March 16.
Winged Mystery (Bluebird)—March 23.
Wishing Ring (World)—March 23.
Without Honor (Triangle)—March 9.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Wolf and His Mate (Universal)—March 23.
Woman and Wife (Select)—February 23, March 9, March 23.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
World for Sale (Paramount)—March 16, March 23.

Y

Yankee Way (Fox)—February 23.

Z

Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—March 9.

Says Producers Must Accept Losses

E. H. ROTH DECRIES PASSING THEM ON TO EXHIBITORS

MOTOGRAPHY presents several more expressions of opinions by theatre men on the type of productions producers should be turning out.

Eugene H. Roth, manager of the California Theatre, San Francisco, one of the leading houses west of Chicago, writes:

"The day has passed when a producing company can manufacture five pictures, two that are good and the other three that might just get by. That producer is finding himself in difficulty today. For a long time a poor exhibitor has had to play the five pictures, and the profit he enjoyed on the two diminished when he played the three.

Questions Distribution

"Now, it may be that the method of distribution is wrong. I personally believe that the two good pictures out of the five, which had the merit, should have been put in the meritorious class, and a rental price asked that was sufficient to allow the producing company a full and reasonable profit, and that these pictures not be allowed to run in houses making seven changes a week.

"The other three pictures of the five that did not match up to the standard should have a relative rental price for those who cared to run that class of pictures and I believe that there are a great many theatres making from three to seven changes a week and that should be the house to run that kind of a picture.

"I don't believe that the condition of the war has reshaped in any way the taste of the public. Personally, I don't believe that the public wants war pictures, but I think that the tendency today is very manifest in such productions as William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks—not altogether because of the stars, but of the scenario itself—high-class melodrama, good book stories that have had a wide circulation. Great care should be taken in the selection of the cast. If an expensive star is used, then use an equally expensive cast, so that the support fits the star. Five thousand feet is sufficient to convey almost any story.

Cites Good Productions

"As I dictate this letter the suggestion comes to my mind of the high standard picture such as Elsie Ferguson in 'Barbary Sheep' and 'The Song of Songs' on the one hand, and the splendid picture production by the Vitagraph Company of 'Within the Law.' Another pleasing picture of a different type and free from the war theory is the Goldwyn picture featuring Mabel Normand in 'Dodging a Million.'

"The writer is sometimes inclined to believe that the exhibitor's interests are not uppermost in the minds of the distributing concerns, which methods are bound to reflect, directly and indirectly, to the producing concerns, who in the final analysis are the ones who suffer a financial loss. I fully realize that the producers must be encouraged, and it has been said that the producing end of the industry is a gambling end, which is indeed very true, and if this is true, then the gambler has to take his losses the same as he enjoys the profits, and not try to shift that loss to the exhibitor and make him pay for an error of judgment or the miscarriage of a good scenario.

Decries Fairy Tales

"Vast amounts have been spent by producers, because of the whim of some director, who has in mind the possibility of producing a large, great fantasy picture—some great fairy tale which never pleases the adults, and seldom pleases the children. It is a pity to put a big star in a fairy story, and unreasonable to expect that the producer can cash in, or even get back the money that they put in fairy stories, or allegoric, historic and religious productions.

Jane Novak, new leading lady for William S. Hart in "The Tiger Man," a Thomas H. Ince production for Artcraft.

"We have all had sufficient experience to fully understand the errors of the past, and the reorganizations that are to take place might be the reorganization of the executives, who are better able to direct their companies to produce the pictures that the public want, and not endeavor to force upon the public, through an exhibitor, the pictures that they, themselves, know are failures, but because of the expense must get their money out under all conditions.

"The exhibitor is willing at all times to take a certain percentage of the weaker pictures, and to assist the producer in many ways, but the producer cannot expect the support of the exhibitor if the commodity that the exhibitor is buying from the producer does not make a profit for him."

Favors Five Reels

William A. Dillon, manager of the Strand Theatre, Ithaca, N. Y., writes:

"This is the home of Cornell College with 6,000 students from all parts of the United States. They want first-class pictures; good, wholesome stories with a certain amount of melodrama mixed in; good actors, and not over five reels in a production.

"Direction has everything to do with the satisfaction of all features. The average big feature is no better than the program feature today and yet they hold up the theatre for three times the amount, thereby compelling the house to charge an extra price, which is all right on A1 productions, but not on overrated features.

"Give us better pictures in five reels and let the manufacturer save the cost of the extra reels and give the exhibitor the benefit of this saving, which will enable him to hold his patrons by proper co-operation."

Urges Plenty of Action

S. Pollack, manager of the Lyceum Theatre, Newark, N. J., writes:

"The public demand plays full of action, such as western stories, society dramas, etc.

"Business has been very good with us and we have found that we can generally keep our house pretty well filled at all times. Our capactiy is 1,200 seats.

"We are using Fox, Pathe, Triangle and Universal and find that they are in big demand."

Three scenes from "The Girl and the Judge," an Empire-Mutual star production featuring emotional Olive Tell.

New Olive Tell Feature Released

"The Girl and the Judge," with Screen Telegram and Strand Comedy Constitute Mutual Program for Week

OLIVE TELL, who is appearing in the Empire All Star productions of Frohman stage successes, is announced in a photodrama entitled "The Girl and the Judge," released by Mutual, March 18. The picture was made under the direction of John B. O'Brien. It is the third of a series in which Miss Tell has appeared for Empire-Mutual.

The action of the picture is intense in character and Miss Tell is given ample opportunity for emotional acting of a high order. Physically and temperamentally the role is a grateful one for her.

Winifred Stanton (played by Miss Tell), a girl of refinement and lovable qualities, discovers that her mother is a kleptomaniac, and uses all means in her power to prevent exposure.

When a friend of the family loses a valuable pin at their house, Winifred, believing her mother has again yielded to the mania, assumes the blame for the theft when a pawn ticket for the pin is found made out in her mother's name.

The judge before whom the case is tried has met Winifred and fallen in love with her. Unaware of the mother's mania, but firmly convinced that Winifred is shielding some one, he induces the prosecutor to go deeper into the case, and the result clears Mrs. Stanton while establishing the identity of the real culprit. There is a surprise in the climax which is strong in dramatic content.

Supporting Miss Tell is a notable cast headed by David Powell, who has had a varied and decided success with the companies of Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson, Miss Ellen Terry and other eminent actors; Charlotte Granville, Eric Mayne, Marie Reichart, Paul Stanton, Marie Burke and Thomas Curran.

The Screen Telegram and Billie Rhodes in a Strand Comedy, "His Quaker Girl," released March 19, complete the Mutual schedule for the week. Billie is playing the part of a Quakeress in a motion picture production and is wooed and won by Jack, who thinks she is a real Quaker. Jack gets mixed up with another girl the night before the wedding and when she turns up at the bridal festivities believes he's in for a hot time, but it's Billie, who has won him in both guises and he promises to be faithful to both.

Fuel Order Shuts Theatre

The Theatre Francais, Montreal, Canada, has been closed until such time as the fuel restrictions are abolished. A straight picture policy may be adopted when the house is reopened. The theatre has been presenting pictures and vaudeville both.

Hart Finishing Picture

William S. Hart is putting the finishing touches to another of his well liked pictures with the big western country as the background. He has Jane Novak for his leading actress. The title has not yet been chosen.

Lee A. Ochs Starts Tour of the Country

Head of United Picture Theatres Will Be Meeting Exhibitors in Various States Until June 1

LEE A. OCHS, president of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., addressed enthusiastic meetings of exhibitors of New York state, eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England last week and now is beginning a tour of the west and south that will not bring him back to New York until June 1.

Mr. Ochs goes to meet exhibitors and explain to them the program for cooperation in the purchase and presentation of features that has been revised by the executives of United Pictures after eight months of hard work. This week he is scheduled to visit Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, spending four days in the metropolis of the middle west.

Beginning with a day in Indianapolis, Mr. Ochs will spend next week in Cincinnati, St. Louis and Memphis, going on for the week of March 25 to Little Rock, Dallas and New Orleans. He has arranged to give three days each to the exhibitors of Texas and Louisiana before starting north the first week of April by way of Atlanta, Charlotte, N. C., and Washington.

The end of that week will find him in Pittsburgh, after which he will head west again and reach Kansas City on Monday, April 8. Oklahoma City and Hutchinson, Kans., follow and then for the week of April 14, Lincoln, Neb., Omaha, Des Moines and Minneapolis.

Butte, Mont., is the next stop and Mr. Ochs will spend April 23 and 24 there before traveling down to Boise, Ida., and on to Spokane. The last few days of April and the first week in May will find Mr. Ochs in Seattle and Portland.

From Monday, May 6, to Wednesday Mr. Ochs will meet the exhibitors of San Francisco and vicinity before going to Los Angeles for the longest stay scheduled. For ten days he will meet both producers and exhibitors, explaining to them the system under which United Pictures expects to effect a saving of millions of dollars annually.

Traveling east from Los Angeles, Mr. Ochs will be in Salt Lake City on Monday and Tuesday, May 20 and 21. Two days in Denver will follow and then he will start for New York by way of Chicago.

Many Watch Fight in Philadelphia

THEATRE MEN THERE WELL ORGANIZED

MOTION picture men the country over are awaiting with eagerness the next developments in the fight that has been begun by the exhibitors in Philadelphia against the Stanley Booking Company.

Two suits charging the company with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act have been filed in the past few weeks. One also attacks the Fox Film Corporation, while the other also attacks the Metro Picture Corporation of New York, and the Metro Feature Exchange of Pennsylvania.

One suit was filed by the Greater Philadelphia Amusement Company, representing the Nirdlinger-Freihofer interests. The other was brought by the Some Amusement Company, an independent concern.

Suits Follow Exhibitors Merger

Both actions are the outgrowth of the fight which recently led to the formation of the United Exhibitors' Association of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, which is associated with the United Exhibitors' Protective Association and the Exhibitors' League of Philadelphia.

Other suits, it is said, may follow those of the Greater Philadelphia and Some companies.

In addition to the court actions, which brought in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, complaint also has been lodged with the Federal Trade Commission, with the result that an initial hearing has been given by George McCorkle, special investigator. Several sessions were held and when the investigator left, to keep an engagement elsewhere, he announced that he would return and give the Mastbaum interests a chance to reply to the charges against them.

Specific Charges in Suits

The Stanley Booking Company, the Metro Picture Corporation and the Metro Film Exchange of Pennsylvania are accused specifically with forming an illegal combination in restraint of trade. It is charged that the Mastbaum interests own a majority of stock in the two other concerns, thus giving them an improper control of the field. Charges also are made that illegal methods and threats were used to force independent exhibitors into line.

Up to December, 1917, it is alleged, the Some company had a contract directly with Metro of New York. The local firm then was informed that the late Stanley Mastbaum had become part owner of the New York company and would in the future handle all Philadelphia bookings. Mastbaum, it is alleged, then tried to force the Some company to join his booking company.

The petition asks that the Mastbaum interests be compelled to relinquish stock in the Metro corporations and in the meantime an injunction is asked against interference with any contracts between the local firm and Metro.

Fox Manager Quoted

The suit of the Greater Philadelphia company is on almost identical lines. It sets forth that the Fox company had a contract to supply the plaintiffs with films, but that not a film was delivered, and the contract was cancelled. George Dembow, Philadelphia manager for the Fox exchange, told S. G. Nixon Nirdlinger on Dec. 13, it is alleged, that Fox was in an alliance with Mastbaum in a fight against the Freihofer interests to put them out of business.

A combination in restraint of trade is charged between the Fox and Mastbaum interests, and injunctions are asked with adequate relief, as in the foregoing case.

Similar charges are said to have been brought out at the hearings before McCorkle. All sorts of incidents, it is reported, were related in which Mastbaum aids bragged that Mastbaum was "the king" of the film business in this district and that he could drive anybody into line. Exhibitors who made contracts with producers and failed to get their films were notified by the New York offices to "see Mastbaum," it is charged, and when they saw him were told that they would have to do as he said or go out of business.

Benjamin Shindler, assistant secretary of the United Exhibitors' Association of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware nd Maryland, in a statement to the correspondent of MOTOGRAPHY, said that the situation has become so bad that exhibitors are rebelling and intend to fight to a finish.

109 in Organizaton

"Although we have been in operation only a short time," said Mr. Shindler, "we have already lined up 109 active members. Mastbaum men have been fighting us by the charge that we are a rival booking organization, but this is not the truth and the exhibitors know it.

Metro players and directors presenting George D. Baker with expressions of their good will on the eve of Baker's departure to California to become manager of productions at Metro's West Coast studios. Besides Mr. Baker, those in the picture are Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, May Allison, Henry Kolker, Joseph Kilgour, Albert Capellani, Adelle Barker, Sylvia Jacobs, Will Davis, Eddie Shulter and Dave Thompson.

Universal Organizes "Secret Service"

"Operatives" Will View Pictures and Report on Their Reception with View to Giving Public What It Wants

A "SECRET SERVICE" corps of field men whose sole duty will consist of reporting the reception accorded its various productions is being organized by Universal. This innovation is the result of recommendations made to President Carl Laemmle by Joe Brandt, assistant treasurer.

Brandt conducted an investigation along these lines while on a recent tour of the middle west. One of the complaints made by exhibitors generally was to the effect that producers seem to lack knowledge of the kind of pictures best calculated to attract business. MOTOGRAPHY has been conducting a symposium pointing out what the exhibitors want.

Frequently the public's demand for pictures changes overnight. Today it may consist of a desire to see war pictures. Tomorrow society dramas may be in demand, while the following day western dramas are wanted.

In the ordinary course of events, producers in their desire to give the public what they think it wants will flood the market with an over production of subjects of similar nature. With an organization of "secret service" men constantly in the field to keep their fingers on the public's pulse, it is Mr. Laemmle's belief that his company will be able to cater to the demand within no greater a period of time than is required to turn out the subjects desired.

The men will be called "secret service" men because they will not make themselves known to the exhibitors. Instead, they will enter the theatres as ordinary patrons and observe the effect upon the audiences of Universal and Bluebird productions. Whatever criticisms are made will be promptly reported to the home office.

After they have been brought to Mr. Laemmle's personal attention, these opinions will be forwarded to Universal City, where they will be shown to the directors, who will be able to avoid any errors they may have committed before.

Offers Bargain Sales

At last—bargain sales in pictures. H. C. Garner, manager of the K. E. S. E. office in Toronto, Canada, has adopted this plan for the marketing of thirty feature films throughout Ontario. He has arranged the features in three assortments of ten pictures each and for each combination is charging a rental of $100. No time limit is placed on the booking arrangement, but a discount of ten per cent is given for payment in advance.

"These releases are not the very latest, but they are not worn out locally," said Mr. Garner. "Exhibitors can choose any or all of the three assortments but they cannot choose one assortment from all three."

"A Dog's Life" Is New Chaplin Picture

Finishing Touches Being Put on Piece by Famous Comedian at His Studios in Hollywood

CHARLIE CHAPLIN will make his 1918 debut in the paramount achievement of his career, entitled "A Dog's Life."

The finishing touches of the comedian's latest effort are now being made at the Chaplin plant in Hollywood and according to reports from the projecting room, a continuous roar of laughter is in store for enthusiasts.

"A Dog's Life" is Chaplin's first production under his million dollar contract with the First National Exhibitors' circuit. Close to eight weeks have been required to film the story and while it is a trifle longer than the usual two-reel subject, forty thousand feet of celluloid were used in carrying out the idea. It is the star's original creation.

The same policy as has governed all of the Chaplin productions for the past two years will be employed in the instance of "A Dog's Life," in that no idea of the nature of the story will be made public until a week prior to the release date.

Chaplin has extended himself to the utmost with the result that he has produced a swift-moving vehicle filled with rapid-fire comedy situations, with added touches of pathos, creating a wholesome and human story.

Throughout the entire production Chaplin appears in his world-famous and lovable character. Edna Purviance, the comedian's beautiful leading woman, has been given generous scope in which to display her talent and the rest of the company has been provided with excellent portrayals to serve as foils to the star.

Realism with a vengeance in "The Blindness of Divorce," a William Fox picture featuring Bertha Mann and an all-star cast.

3,000 Children See Film

Manager Ben Cronk of the new Allen theatre, Toronto, Canada, on a recent Saturday conducted two special children's performances during the morning hours for presentation of "The Seven Swans" in advance of the regular run.

The performances were held under the auspices of The Daily Star. The theatre was filled to capacity each time, which means that three thousand took advantage of the opportunity.

The Allen now has an eight-page house organ which is issued weekly. It contains breezy advance notices, pictures and the program.

Care in Production Amazes Exhibitor

IMPORTANCE OF PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY IS TOLD

By James Gilosky
President, Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Northwest

UNTIL I visited the Thomas H. Ince studios recently I little realized the important part that philosophy and psychology play in the making of the better type of photo-dramas. I knew, of course, that in addition to the entertainment afforded, each had a basic idea, a moral; but that the producer, the director, the star and others vitally concerned gave such profound thought to their subject before the camera turned on the first scene was an interesting surprise to me.

For instance, Dorothy Dalton was about to begin starring in "Tyrant Fear," an Ince-Paramount production. It is the usual thing for this star and her director, as well as the other Ince stars and their directors, to consult with Mr. Ince before beginning work on a script. His advice is invaluable. Not only has he the dramatic situations in mind's eye, ready to enhance with the artistic brush born of a wonderful imagination, but he has carefully outlined the big thoughts back of the stories.

Miss Dalton, with her director, R. William Neill, met Mr. Ince on one of the stages. Without the formality of inviting them to his offices, the noted producer immediately launched into a discussion of the production from every angle. Among other things he said—and here is where the curious and interesting "philo-psycho" deductions came in:

As one exhibitor to another, James Gilosky in this article relates some vivid impressions of a trip to Los Angeles that kept him busily engaged in looking "behind the scenes" for several weeks. It deals only with the thought back of productions, but read carefully it will inspire thought and application of principles that make for success no matter what line a man may be in. Mr. Gilosky's article appears in MOTOGRAPHY alone.

James Gilosky, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Northwest, in conversation with Thomas H. Ince, just after visiting the Ince Studios.

"In the wild northern lands, where this story takes place, women were chattles. Alaine Grandet, the heroine, is sold to Jules Latour, a trapper and a brute, who has instilled the tyranny of fear in her heart. At last she is gambled to the keeper of a vile den and is there befriended by a drunken pianist who has seen better days.

"The den-keeper tries to bend her to his will, but when she shoots and wounds him her fear of him vanishes—and she becomes mistress of the situation and of herself. She goes with the pianist into the snows and there in the drift they find her brute husband dead. So Alaine goes to the arms of her lone protector, who has been changed into a man once more by her love.

"That 'Fear hath torment,' a Biblical declaration, is admittedly a true saying. Fear can dwarf the power and vigor of man or woman, while lack of it makes a lion of a mouse. Remember that the downfall of fear will result in such a transformation of thought as eventually to change one's whole habit, life and character. Fear represents the cesspool of the soul—ending in more or less complete mental and moral paralysis.

"Historians point out that the greater number of psychic infirmities are due to some form of fear. All famous men have had them. Socrates was the victim of fits; Tolstoi nearly killed himself trying to fly when a boy; Balzac had a walking mania; Schopenhauer was so frightened of a razor that he singed his beard; Schiller used to put his feet on ice and look upon rotten apples to woo an inspiration.

"There are those who affirm that Milton and Richard Wagner were crazy. Mohammed had convulsions; Mozart believed that certain persons were plotting to end his life; and even Abraham Lincoln was given to fits of melancholia.

"Have the film version of this story impress upon motion picture audiences, unconsciously, that in the family life psychic influences are unusually powerful for good or for evil. Many families have been wrecked on the rocks of domestic unhappiness, and thousands are existing in misery because the husband or wife falls victim of fear, surrenders to jealousy or allows distrust to enter the heart.

"Fear is the arch-enemy of family happiness—the destroyer of the individual peace of mind. No family can long exist where fear thought rules one or more of its members.

"The business man who is fearful is surely marked to meet with disaster and failure. The industrial world of today, with its vast and intricate financial machinery is all built upon confidence. Fear is the mother of panic—mental, moral, psychic, physical and commercial.

"Bring out in the direction and acting the thought that because of the disastrous results of fear it becomes the duty of every sane man and woman to banish it from their mind; otherwise it may fasten its tentacles to any channel of thought or practice of life and thus infect the character with its destructive influence.

"Finally, impress the viewers of this drama with this truth: That the one hope of deliverance from this perpetual bondage of fear is to surrender the mind to courage, that there shall take place a thorough mental housecleaning, after which the psychic forces shall be allied on the side of confidence, and fear shall finally and forever be rejected from its czarical throne in our thoughts and meditations."

And with this wonderful philosophy in mind, the director and star left Mr. Ince to make the picture.

Do not you share in my surprise, Mr. Exhibitor? As we look back a few short years when photo-dramas were only "movies," when stories were written just to entertain and never to convey a big message, a great truth, what wonderful strides the silent drama has made! And what still greater progress can we not visualize!

Billy West, star of King-Bee Comedies, has purchased thirty acres of ground twelve miles from Hollywood and will become a farmer.

"American Live Wire" Released March 18

Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature Is Love Story with Settings Both in U. S. and the Tropics

THERE is a treat in store for fans the week of March 18, according to an announcement by Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph. He has fixed that date for the release of "An American Live Wire," a Blue Ribbon feature made from one of O. Henry's stories, with Earle Williams as the star.

The picture, in which beautiful Grace Darmond is featured with Mr. Williams, was made at the Vitagraph western studio under the direction of Tom Mills, who directed a large percentage of the two-reel O. Henry subjects that are winning praise from exhibitors and audiences all over the country.

"An American Live Wire" is an adaptation from "The Lotus and the Bottle," one of the stories contained in the volume entitled "Cabbages and Kings." It is a tale of an active-minded American consul in a little joke republic of the tropics and shows Earle Williams in a series of exciting escapades, one of which is a long swim in the Pacific ocean.

The play is gripping from the first, dealing with the adventures of Williard Geddie (Earle Williams), who boasts of more family than fortune. He is very much in love with Ida Payne (Grace Darmond), and she with him. But Miss Payne's mother has other ambitions for her daughter and asks Geddie to forget all about Ida, declaring that it is at the girl's request. Geddie accepts his dismissal without any verification from the girl and takes a job as consul in Coralio. He undergoes an infatuation for a beautiful native girl and imagines he has forgotten all about Ida.

The quiet of his consular life is broken when a stranded American opera singer arrives, steals the heart of Miraflores, president of the republic, and induces him to steal his country's entire bank roll and elope. Geddie takes it as part of his job to apprehend the elopers and the cash, but instead captures the abscounding president of an American insurance company, who is accompanied by his daughter. The abscounder kills himself and Geddie then learns his identity.

About this time, Ida passes Coralio on her millionaire suitor's yacht and in a bottle sends a message to Geddie, who recognizes its import, but refuses to read it. He casts the message back into the sea, but immediately undergoes a change of heart and leaps into the water to recover the bottle, which is now being carried away on the tide. He is almost exhausted and is rescued without having accomplished his aim. Shortly thereafter he resigns, returns to New York and meets Ida, who tells him the bottle carried a message of love, with the result that their interrupted romance is revived.

One of the many strikingly beautiful scenes in the Artcraft picturization of Maurice Maeterlinck's, "The Blue Bird."

Newspaper Turns on Exhibitor Friend

A PROBLEM IN BUSINESS CONDUCT

L. M. RUBENS, general manager of the Princess Theatre at Joliet, Ill., is angry over what he considers rank injustice at the hands of the Joliet Evening Herald-News. Mr. Rubens is a large and consistent advertiser in the Herald-News, using daily more space, he says, than any other house in town, and in addition doing what no other theatre is doing, using a full page once every week. His advertising bill, consequently, is quite high.

Despite the fact that he favors the Herald-News with much business, the paper came out recently with an editorial two columns wide and of nearly a column depth in which it was said that only two great photoplays ever have been produced—"The Passion Play" and "The Birth of a Nation."

Paper Scores Programs

"Not since the latter was produced by the master mind of photoplay, David Wark Griffith, has one added spark of lustre been given to the drama," the editorial read. "Take the programs of twenty theatres today. What do we find? Urbane sex problems, so old they are decrepit, yet serve as the fleshing pot for the tired public; woolly western portrayals as true to life as we can believe because our imagination connects the west with 'hootch' dance hall women, gambling and shooting irons.

"We have the society play; the selfsame lurid and morbid sketch of the unreal aristocracy that lives only in the creative brain of the capacious movie directors. We have gowns, oodles of them; women by the hundreds; custard pies galore, until we wonder why Hoover stands for such waste in wheatless days and slap-stick vulgar comedies that sicken and nauseate far more than they amuse.

Not Condemning Picture

"Condemning the photoplay? Not for a minute.

"Its invention marks one of the brightest steps in our progress, its prostitution one of the crimes of modernism.

"It came upon us as a new toy and we have experimented with it until we have proven to our satisfaction that it works. It charms. It does everything that we expect it to do except give us something great. Turn to any other branch of art and you will find masterpieces. Where and to whom must we turn for the madonna of the screen? Upon whose shoulders will it rest to produce us the cinema 'Music Master'? Who could you honestly say has done for the photoplay what Booth, Jefferson, Mansfield, Mantell, Barrymore, Drew, Belasco, Frohman, Warfield or Cohan have done for the legitimate drama?

Judged from a standpoint of news value this story is not worth more than a few lines, if that, but as a mirror to human nature and the psychology of pictures it is worth every line it takes up. Read it and see if you do not agree. You'll find it interesting, we'll warrant.

Prostitute Senses Now

"Can't we ever get them all together in one great play, one great production that will live forever as the greatest piece of cinema art the world knows or must we always go along prostituting our finer senses to a sleek and contented acquiescence with the banal and frivolous scenarios we now accept as our standard for all that is worthy of the great American silent drama?

"Now trot along and see tonight's offering because we must encourage that which we have, to get that which we want—the cinema masterpiece."

Rubens Writes Protest

Admitting to himself the justice of deserved criticism and conceding that a publication cannot be controlled by its business office, Mr. Rubens still failed to see the editorial otherwise than as an unfair slap at the industry and wrote to the paper as follows:

"I consider the tone of your editorial a grave mistake.

Great Stars All in Films

"The spirit of unfairness is manifest when you exalt Belasco, Frohman and Cohan in connection with the legitimate drama and fail to inform your readers that these men have been actively connected with the photoplay for many months and through the photoplay, as is the case with the Divine Sarah and others, their likeness will be preserved throughout posterity.

"I cannot quite state the character of the photoplays the writer of your editorial has been attending, but from his own statement that his imagination connects the west with 'hootch,' dance hall women, gambling and shooting irons, I will wager he was not at our showing of the immortal Mark Twain's 'Tom Sawyer,' for he would have given mention to the fact that his pulse quickened and a tear came to his eye as eight hundred kiddies exclaimed as one: 'There's Huckleberry Finn!'

Cites "Snow White"

"He could not have been thinking of Marguerite Clark's presentation of 'Snow White' or 'Still Waters'; he could not have known that nearly all of his readers had seen and loved little Mary Pickford in 'Tess of the Storm Country,' 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm' and 'The Poor Little Rich Girl.' He did not know that many of Joliet's best lawyers, doctors, business men and educators personally expressed their appreciation of William Farnum, one of the most masterful artists of the legitimate stage, starring in 'The Tale of Two Cities.'

"Patrons of the photoplay know that the writer of the editorial was not informed of the above facts or he could never have consciously made this statement. . . . Must we always go along prostituting our finer senses to . . . the banal and frivolous scenarios we now accept as our standard for all that is worthy of the great American silent drama?

"It would be an insult to the intelligence of the photoplay patron for him to pretend to be competent to discuss an industry of such magnitude without giving them facts such as are visualized in the photoplay and can be understood by persons who cannot read a line of printed type."

Olive Thomas, who is achieving fame under the Triangle banner.

Roy Stewart Takes "Impossible" Role

Athletic Triangle Star to Appear in New Picture as an Eastern Crook with the "T. B."—Has Regular Part Also

DURING the week just past two new subjects have been commenced at the Triangle Culver City studio, and a soicety drama, "The Veil," has been completed under the direction of Thomas N. Heffron. Six other subjects are in various stages of production.

A third story by John A. Moroso, author of "The Shoes That Danced" and "In the Spring," has been started with Heffron at the megaphone. "The Lonely Woman" is the working title, and although it does not deal with the New York underworld of the former stories, it does maintain the same human interest qualities that are characteristic of this well-known writer. Belle Bennett, whose last vehicle was "A Soul in Trust," will have the feature role, supported by Anna Dodge, Alberta Lee, Nellie Anderson, Lee Hill, Percy Challenger and John Lince.

Mrs. Kate Corbaley, author of the $1,000 story in the recent Triangle contest, has written a new two-reel comedy, "Mr. Briggs Closes the House," which is being produced under the direction of William Beaudine. The picture deals with the comedies and errors of domestic life and includes in the supporting cast Edwin Brady, Myrtle Rishell, Anna Dodge, Fred Mack and Frank Caffrey.

Director Cliff Smith is now well under way on the latest Triangle western subject featuring the cowboy star, Roy Stewart. Josie Sedgwick will again be seen as Stewart's leading woman. Stewart is called upon to essay a dual role. It is hard for the cowboy giant to make up as an eastern crook who is the victim of the "white plague," but Stewart has accomplished the apparently impossible and picture fans will scarcely recognize the young giant of the plains as the invalid crook. Others in the supporting cast are five-year-old Dixie Doll, William Ellingford, Walter Perkins, William Dyer, Arthur Millett and Harry Yammamoto, who has a comedy role as a Chinese cook.

"The Siren in the House," in which Jack Dillon is directing Olive Thomas and a cast including Wallace MacDonald, William V. Mong, Claire McDowell, Ray Griffith, Lee Phelps and William V. Mong, is well under way.

A fashion show will be one of the features of the latest Triangle release with William Desmond in the title role, the working title of which is "The Honorable Billy." Frank Borzage is directing this drama, which features Gloria Swanson as leading lady, following her first dramatic appearance in "Smoke." Several startling costumes, including what is said to be a most unusual kimona, will be seen in an episode of the picture, when Miss Swanson is shown as a mannikin before inheriting a fortune and determining to break into London's best society. Many gowns, designed especially for the picture by Peggy Hamilton, will be worn by attractive models.

One of the largest court room sets ever constructed at the Culver City studios was used by Director Raymond Wells in the filming of his latest Triangle subject, "In the Spring," a detective story by John A. Moroso, in which the underworld life of New York is depicted. Margery Wilson and Joe King have the leading roles in this production. The set was almost an exact reproduction of a trial chamber in the Court of General Sessions. J. Barney Sherry was on the bench and like several of the New York judges who have well formed ideas of what constitutes real democracy he refused to wear judicial robes.

Returned Soldiers Open House

Returned soldiers have opened the Veteran theatre in Edmonton, the capital of Alberta, Canada. The manager is Sergeant F. H. Clarke. The fact that the house is controlled by former fighting men is being featured in all the advertising.

New Pasadena House Planned

A new theatre is planned in Pasadena by interests represented by B. A. Kendall, head of a firm of bankers and brokers of that name. It will be located at Holly street and Raymond avenue on the site of the old Pasadena theatre, which was partially destroyed by fire. A new theatre is said to be needed greatly in Pasadena as all houses are filled to capacity each night.

New $300,000 Atlantic theatre of H. Schoenstadt & Sons, 3590 West Twenty-sixth street, Chicago, which was opened a week ago Saturday night.

How George J. Schade, owner of the Schade Theatre at Sandusky, Ohio, put over "The Remaking of a Nation," a picture showing life at Camp Sherman.

Makes Remarkable Record on War Film

George J. Schade, of Sandusky, O., Gets More Than Half of 20,000 Town in His Theatre in Just Three Days

GEORGE J. SCHADE, proprietor of the Schade Theatre at Sandusky, Ohio, has hung up a new record for attendance and box office receipts that compels nation-wide attention.

With "The Remaking of a Nation," a film depicting army life at Camp Sherman, Mr. Schade got 11,000 men, women and children into his 700-seat house in just three days. As the population of Sandusky is only 20,000, this means that more than half of the town saw the picture in the Schade Theatre.

That so many persons were accommodated in such a short time was due to the fact that shows were given in the morning as well as in the afternoon and evening. The first show started at 8:30 and the last was over about eleven.

One reason for the crowd was the fact that Johnnie Kilbane, featherweight champion boxer of the world, appeared in person and told how he is giving the soldiers instructions in the fistic art.

Litutenant Frank X. Cull of Cleveland, Ohio, also was responsible for some of the drawing power. Lieutenant Cull talked in connection with the pictures.

Mr. Schade at first tried to sell tickets through a committee. Three thousand were disposed of in this way, but this did not satisfy the theatre owner and he hired a band of 20 musicians which gave concerts every evening in front of the house. Boy Scouts and cadets from St. Mary's school drilled at the same time.

As a result of the band, the drills, the personal appearance of Kilbane and Lieutenant Cull, there were crowds on the sidewalk waiting for tickets at every show. Throughout the three days four policemen; four firemen, three soldiers and several theatre employes had to devote their entire time to keeping the patrons in line.

"This is the first picture with a war flavor that we ever put over here," writes Mr. Schade. "It beat 'The Birth of a Nation' two to one—some record."

Play Awaits Enid Bennett

As soon as she is through honeymooning, Enid Bennett, Thomas H. Ince's Paramount star, will commence work on a new play entitled "Desert Mating." It is by J. G. Hawks of the Ince staff.

World Announces Program for April

"The Cross Bearer," "The Witch Woman," "The Trap," "Devil's Dice" and "The Leap to Fame" Are Titles

WORLD PICTURES announces an extraordinary list of photoplays for the month of April, in which big stars appear in fast-moving plays of exceptional box office value.

Montagu Love comes first on the list with "The Cross Bearer," in which he impersonates Cardinal Mercier of Belgium. "The Cross Bearer's" release date was advanced two weeks to bring it to Easter Monday. Tremendous interest has been aroused in this feature because of the strength of the story, the timeliness of the subject, the massive staging and predictions that Mr. Love's characterization will prove one of the most memorable roles ever seen on the screen.

Ethel Clayton, Alice Brady and Kitty Gordon follow in delightful plays and on April 29 comes the final release, Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley in "The Leap to Fame," a production with a fascinating mystery.

To give details of these plays, "The Cross Bearer" is based on the reports of the German invasion in the Belgian White Book, the James Bryce report, the Brand Whitlock reports, the Hugh Gibson diary and the reports of Herbert C. Hoover, who was in charge of Belgian relief. A charming love story is unfolded amid the woes of the stricken land.

The Ethel Clayton picture is entitled "The Witch Woman." It is packed with thrills and surprises.

The Alice Brady picture is entitled "The Trap." It tells the story of the daughter of a fanatical fisherman, who is cast from her home for supposed wrongdoing. The production has been staged on a wild seashore in a primitive fishing hamlet. The scenic effects alone would make the picture a success, according to the director, George Archainbaud.

The Kitty Gordon picture is entitled "Devil's Dice." It was largely taken in the dead of winter in the Adirondack mountains. The snow scenes are superb and the whole production is remarkable for its scenic splendor. The story is gripping.

The Blackwell-Greeley picture, "The Leap to Fame," is the story of a young man who made a leap to fame and happiness both through an astonishing series of circumstances. Mr. Blackwell himself directed the picture.

New Minter Play Announced

"The Church Window Angel" is the title of the subject on which Mary Miles Minter is now at work. Jeanne Judson wrote the story and Karl Coolidge arranged it. Edward Sloman will direct, which assures dramatic quality.

Miss Minter plays the role of Florence Hope, who has been reared in ignorance of the fact that she is an heiress. Alan Forrest, as Jack Andrews, the devil-may-care son of a New York lawyer, and George Periolat, famous character actor, will have important roles.

S. ROYAL TUPPER
General Manager

DON R. EGBERT, Managing Editor

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday.

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - - Per year $4.00
Foreign - - Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - - .15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 23, 1918 Number 12

Curing the Blue Law Disease

SO-CALLED "blue laws" are peculiar in the fact that of all the statutes that classify as morality laws, they alone invariably are obnoxious to a majority of those forced to observe them. Laws on gambling, the social evil, liquor, all the factors of life that are amenable to statutory regulations of personal conduct, are always favored by the majority even though there be a theoretical resentment against official intrusion into "personal" affairs. The violation of liquor and gambling laws is not a crime against society, but only a crime by the individual against himself. Nevertheless, the violator is conscious of a sense of wrong-doing that forces his acquiescence in the passage of such laws.

No such sense is present in the violation of "blue laws." Sunday closing laws for picture theatres, for example, are obeyed only because of the autocratic "verboten" written across them, and never because the people approve of them. If the question of Sunday closing could be put to a national referendum, the communities which would vote for it would be few and insignificant.

Sunday blue laws exist, in more or less innocuous desuetude, upon the books of more states than most of us imagine. They are there, of course, simply because they have never been repealed. In this static condition they are always potential of trouble, because a single perniciously active reformer can often set them in motion again.

Alabama has been enjoying just such an experience for some time. In some towns even drug stores and newsstands were not permitted to open. Exhibitors in the city of Birmingham have been making a strenuous fight for their rights, and that has stirred the hyper-puritanical element to greater efforts in other cities. Our correspondent reports that the exhibitors of Birmingham were visited a few weeks ago by a deputy sheriff, who was occupied in the pleasant task of writing down the names of those who remained open on Sunday. So far, however, nothing has come of it, and blue law enforcement is slacking up. Those whose oath of duty calls upon them to enforce Sunday closing laws are seldom—almost never—personally in favor of such restrictions.

It is charged by our correspondent that the Pastors' Union of Decatur, Alabama, is responsible for the resurrection of the obsolete statutes. Evidently the clergy of Alabama need cultivating by the exhibitors, that they may learn the harmlessness and the virtue of the picture; for with the masses, says our reporter, "the blue laws are unpopular in the extreme." That is the customary report.

In New York State, some six hundred theatres are closed every Sunday—half of the state's total. Naturally the penal laws of the comonwealth are to blame. The allied interests of the industry, with a well organized committee, have jumped into the discussion with figures to show that the federal government loses a half million in taxes from this cause alone, and is deprived as well of its most effective aid, on the most effective day of leisure, for its drives on Liberty Loan, War Stamps, Food Administration and other national campaigns. Unquestionably government propaganda loses by theatre closing.

This, of course, is in addition to the obvious and permanent array of good and sufficient reasons for Sunday opening. That there are any reasonable counter arguments we have yet to discover. The whole blue law question, indeed, is a matter of improper use of obsolete legislation, whose unchallenged existence on the books of the state gives advantage to the few, against the wishes of the many.

The legislative side is the one chosen for attack by the New York committee. With characteristic thoroughness it has obtained the support of a great many newspapers and has prepared a new bill for introduction in the state legislature. It has taken care of the church interests by naming a specific opening hour and making the whole question of Sunday opening a matter of local option—of which no exhibitor need be afraid.

So intelligent, aggressive and well organized a campaign seems pre-ordained to success. The report of the committee's formation and activities, and the text of the bill, will be found on another page, and we recommend their study to exhibitors in other states similarly afflicted.

* * *

News Features and Department Stories

BECAUSE news in our department called "What Theatre Men Are Doing" is of too great importance to be segregated, the department is abandoned with this issue and the matter is run as straight news, which it really is; in fact the news of the exhibitor goes hand in hand with news of the pictures, and hereafter it will occupy its legitimate place.

One thing that led to abandonment of the department was the fact that "What Theatre Men Are Doing" was getting beyond the limits of a department. In an endeavor to give the subject better treatment so much good material was developed that the fact was brought out forcefully that this, along with news of the pictures, is what the theatre men want most. So we will handle the news in a different manner, continuing our efforts to get more of it.

Trade magazines and newspapers are frequent sufferers from "departmentitis." The department craze has spread to such a point that editors are classifying nearly everything. Departments, however, when not overdone, undoubtedly have their value, and for the present we contemplate no change except to make news stories of "What Theatre Men Are Doing." Even this action will not cut down the number of departments, for it becomes necessary to start a new one on Publicity, in which clever ideas on advertising will be told.

In this connection MOTOGRAPHY wishes to assure its readers that their suggestions are welcome, and will be adopted whenever practicable.

* * *

A Little More Originality

PUBLICITY writers and title makers for one of the producing companies are likely to be hard put to it for words for a few weeks, until they find their bearings. Their president has issued a manifesto debarring forever, from public use in the company's products, the popular and erstwhile reliable terms "camouflage," "intensive," "psychology," "efficiency expert," "somewhere in France," "cinematographer," "greatest on earth" and "hit of the season."

This merely means that title and publicity writers, not being required to consider physical dimensions like the designer of a newspaper eight-column strip, are expected to show some originality and latitude and perhaps even ingenuity. And the use of the interdicted phrases is taken to prove utter lack of these qualities.

Be that as it may (we are a little dubious on the subject, for some of those words we used rather frequently ourselves) we are sure that, speaking in a large and general way, the industry could use more ingenuity to advantage.

Take, for example, the matter of theatre names. There is a hard and fast list of a dozen or so of generally meaningless names, and one or more of them may be found on a theatre front in every city in the country. Not that it matters particularly; but somehow we expect more of an exhibitor who has originated, instead of copied, a name for his house.

Theatre advertising is another big opportunity for originality, of which it seldom takes advantage. Advertisers of soap and beer and jewelry often get up remarkable advertisements, and people talk about them. The theatre man seldom accomplishes that.

Ingenuity is the key to success in the show business. The difficulty is finding the key to ingenuity.

Comedy and drama in the new Triangle play, "Faith Endurin'."

Star Has Spy Role in "An Alien Enemy"

Louise Glaum's First Paralta Play Based on War, But Is Developed Along New Lines.

WORK on the photo-drama, "An Alien Enemy," in which Louise Glaum will make her debut as a Paralta star, is nearing completion at Los Angeles. This is the film that was first called "The Iron Beast," then "An Alien Enemy." The picture is from the pen of Monte M. Katterjohn and deals with the war from a new angle.

Miss Glaum plays the complex part of a girl reared in Germany and educated in the stringent confines of Wilhelmstrasse. She has been placed in the intelligence department of the Central Powers and sent to America to obtain information which will tend to wreck this country. In America she is surprised that her feelings, which should be governed by her disciplinary training in Germany, allow her to feel sympathy for the United States and to be injured to a certain extent at the outrages perpetrated by "the fatherland."

In this situation, spying for the intelligence department of the Central Powers, but feeling no enthusiasm in her work and her heart and sympathy really with the nation she is seeking to destroy, Miss Glaum enters into many thrilling and complicated incidents which comprise a gripping drama.

There is none of the vampire element to Miss Glaum's new role. Full scope has been given to her dramatic ability and the versatility which has been forced to remain dormant by the fact that before she became head of her own company to make Paralta plays her field was limited to seductress parts.

Thurston Hall will appear opposite Miss Glaum.

Following "An Alien Enemy" Miss Glaum will appear in a story of the underworld entitled, "Snapdragon," which is an adaptation from the story by Horace Hazeltine which ran so successfully as a serial in the Cavalier Magazine. She will commence work on this as soon as the other play is completed.

Buys Meriden Theatre

The Lewis-Brown Theatrical Company, which owns theatres in Rockville, Danielson, Bristol and other Connecticut towns, has bought the Star theatre in Meriden from Richard T. Halliwell.

Mr. Lewis says that the company may remodel the house, adding a balcony and lowering the floors level with the street, thus enlarging the seating capacity to perhaps 800 or 1,000.

Katterjohn Predicts New Technique

Declares Every Rule of Construction Known Today Will Be Transgressed Within the Next Few Years

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN, who is said to be the originator of "direct action continuity," predicts that many more developments will be made in the technique of the screen and that with the coming years the changes in the style of picturized narration will keep progress with the upward trend of the new art.

"The technique of tomorrow," says Mr. Katterjohn, "will transgress every rule of construction as we know it today, just as Griffith violated all accepted rules when he was beginning to make his influence felt.

"The mistake lies in accepting any rule as a permanent one, or in considering any method of construction as not subject to the most radical changes. For the last year there has been a dearth of constructive effort on the part of directors and with few exceptions the men in direct charge of our productions have succeeded only in standing still.

"But the keen minds of a few directors are constantly studying the screen with a new viewpoint, and the next twelve months should record the progress which will come with their ideas. In the same way, the majority of the scenario writers have proved excellent copyists, but entirely lacking in that studious quality of analyzing plot construction which will entirely revolutionize the technique of the future.

"With all due modesty I may mention the new method of photoplay plotting which I originated two years ago and which I have constantly been developing toward a state of perfection since that time. This system entirely eliminates the cut-back and is so arranged that each successive scene, flash and title constitutes a step in the unfolding of the story, with a conspicuous absence of iris-outs, fade-outs or any of the other photographic transgressions.

"Whereas, the ordinary story consists of from twenty to thirty distinct episodes, I have gradually cut down the number with a consequent quickening of the plot action. Thus, 'Within the Cup' is told in eight episodes, 'Carmen of the Klondike, which followed it, in seven, and "An Alien Enemy," now under production, with Louise Glaum as the star, requires only six. I am confident that this method of screen narration is destined to have an important influence on the photoplay construction of the future."

George M. Cohan to Re-enter Pictures

Will Take Leading Role in "Hit the Trail Holliday," an Adaptation of His Own Play of the Same Name

IT is announced by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation that George M. Cohan will shortly resume his activities before the camera. Mr. Cohan's next vehicle will be an adaptation from his own play, "Hit the Trail Holliday," to be released under the Artcraft trademark. This will be Cohan's third Artcraft, his former releases being "Broadway Jones" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

"Hit the Trail Holliday" is a farce in which Cohan has dramatized Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, and called him Holliday. It was produced in September, 1915, at the Astor Theatre, New York, and created a furore. The novelty of the offering was refreshing to the jaded theatre-goers of that city. The play remained at the Astor, enjoying turn-away business, until March of the following year, when it was transferred to the Cohan & Harris Theatre, continuing its record-breaking run until July, after which it went on tour. It was intended to reopen for another New York showing next fall, but this plan has been abandoned, owing to the decision to produce the play in picture form. During the entire New York engagement Fred Niblo played the title role.

The importance of the subject and the fact that Mr. Cohan himself will interpret the part of Holliday has led the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation into unusual preparation for the production and its best producing genius has been assigned to the task. The photoplay will be made in the eastern studios from a scenario which is being written by Anita Loos and John Emerson.

Marshall Neilan, who has had charge of the production of Mary Pickford's recent pictures, and whose last picture, "Stella Maris," has been universally acclaimed a masterpiece, will come to New York to undertake the direction. Mr. Neilan has just finished Miss Pickford's latest picture, "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley."

"Hit the Trail Holliday" shows the process by which a New York barkeeper is transformed into a temperance orator and turns the little town of Johnsburg, somewhere in New England, from a Sleepy Hollow into a bustling community, himself marrying the daughter of the rector of the Johnsburg church as a climax to a chain of circumstances of a highly paradoxical character.

It offers opportunity for local color and the introduction of sundry local characters familiar in smaller communities, such as the chief of police, obsessed with the dignity of his office; the expressman, whose calling affords an excellent channel for the discovery of family skeletons; the bullying type of the rich man's son, who is looked upon with awed deference until the conceit is taken out of him; the harmless old hotel-keeper, who is the sworn foe of Demon Rum and refuses to tolerate a bar room on his premises; the quiet but resourceful reader of character graduated from one of the first-class bars of a Broadway hotel; the rector, the barber, the society temperance woman and the hotel manicure girl, who, unlike her sisters in the big cities, is the daughter of the rector and in this case is the heroine of the piece.

The Man on the Cover

A DISTINCT character in the photoplay world, Douglas Fairbanks is one of the most popular stars of the screen. The smiling face of this athletic exponent of Americanism has gladdened the hearts of people in many parts of the globe.

Fairbanks was born in Denver in May, 1883 and it was the ambition of his father to make of him a mining engineer. Douglas turned his thoughts to the footlights, however, and soon won prominence on the stage. As a comedy star he won success in such plays as "Hawthorne, U. S. A.," "A Gentleman of Leisure," "Officer 666," "He Comes Up Smiling," and "Henrietta." His last appearance was in "A Regular Business Man," in which he attracted wide attention in 1915.

Fairbanks became a screen favorite overnight in his first picture, "The Lamb." About a year ago he headed his own company to release his pictures under the Artcraft trademark and has contributed some notable productions, including "In Again—Out Again," "Wild and Woolly," "Down to Earth," "The Man from Painted Post," "Reaching for the Moon" and "A Modern Musketeer." His latest picture, "Headin' South," was released February 25.

George Creel says of Douglas Fairbanks: "He is what every American might be, ought to be, and frequently is not. More than any other that comes to mind, he is possessed of the indomitable optimism that gives purpose, 'punch' and color to any life, no matter what the odds."

Fairbanks has proved a stone wall to imitators, owing to his extraordinary strength and athletic prowess and his absolute disregard of danger and he is always looking for new and difficult "stunts" to do in his pictures.

Resent Unfair Methods

Owing to the condition of the trade in the past two months, many Cincinnati exhibitors found it necessary to make readjustments in their bookings. The majority of the film companies have been fair in this regard, but one or two are said to have used unfair methods which made many of the theatre owners indignant. Some are cancelling their bookings as a result, for there are plenty of state rights features and no trouble is experienced in getting good pictures.

Ruling Favors Sunday Shows

A ruling has been given in court at Cadillac, Mich., which permits theatres to operate on Sunday. The court holds that a city ordinance against Sunday shows is invalid. The attorney general of the state, however, declared that Sunday shows are in violation of the state constitution.

A new picture of Alice Brady, Select star.

Berst Quits as Pathe General Manager

Paul Brunet, Comptroller and Veteran with Company, Is Chosen as His Successor

J. A. BERST has resigned as vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Mr. Berst is recognized as one of the ablest men in the industry. His long experience in this country, dating back to 1904, combined with remarkable executive ability and foresight, has given him mastery of all phases of the trade.

J. A. Berst, who has resigned as Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe.

Mr. Berst was born in Paris, France, and began his business career as a boy with Charles Pathe, then just starting in the business with which his name is identified all over the world. Mr. Berst was called upon to do everything from manufacturing to selling, for up to 1896 he was Mr. Pathe's only employe.

In 1904 he was sent by Mr. Pathe to the United States to develop the American market. The stock of films he brought with him was small and some of them were only about fifteen feet in length. He rented offices on Twenty-third street, New York, and sold his stock himself. His business prospered—so much so that he engaged a cashier and an office boy.

Finally, in 1908, it was decided to install a factory equipment at Bound Brook, N. J., where the main Pathe American factory has ever since been located. The year following the big studio in Jersey City was built and production of American pictures on a large scale begun.

In December of 1913, Mr. Berst resigned and became treasurer of the General Film Co. Early in 1915 he accepted the vice-presidency and general managership of the Selig Company. Then he became the president of General Film, which office he resigned early in 1916 to become vice-president and general manager of Pathe.

Paul Brunet, comptroller of Pathe, who has been with the organization for the last three years and a half, is Mr. Berst's successor.

Title First Russell Play

The first picture to be made by William Russell Productions at the American Film Company studios in Santa Barbara will be "Hearts or Diamonds," written from the William Hamilton Osborne story of "Adrian Gascoyne."

Charlotte Burton will be Russell's leading lady and Henry King, who has directed many of the American successes in the last year, will direct. William Parker, who has recently been added to the Russell staff, will write the continuity.

Hart to Appear Soon as a Sea Captain

Picture with Star in Vastly Different Role Will Follow "Selfish Yates," on Which He Is Now Working

C. GARDNER SULLIVAN is writing a scenario for William S. Hart, in which the famous Ince star will appear in an Artcraft picture as a radically different character from anything he has ever appeared in—captain of a sailing vessel.

Hart will be the master of a ship ploughing the stormy waters to Alaska—a rough, rugged, almost brutal character, whose real manhood is revealed in a series of extraordinary incidents. It will hardly require much imagination to picture Hart in this virile role, ruling a motley crew of brawny seamen with an iron hand, a character as romantic and picturesque as the western types he has made famous, but with the refreshing innovation of entirely new settings and environment.

The ship pictures will be taken off the coast of San Francisco and Seattle.

Hart is working now on an Artcraft picture to follow "The Tiger Man," which has also been written by C. Gardner Sullivan. It is entitled "Selfish Yates." The sin of selfishness is exposed in all its nakedness.

To portray an entirely selfish individual is a difficult task for a man who is noted for his generosity, but it is simply another tribute to his art, for Hart completely submerges his own self and in the beginning is so egotistical that he seems almost inhuman. A woman then enters his life and the transition takes place.

A powerful cast supports Hart, including beautiful Jane Novak, who plays the leading feminine role in "The Tiger Man." The settings are said to be exceptional. One of the features is a fight in which Hart performs some thrilling feats.

The story calls for many rain scenes and Hart continuously appears with his clothes drenched. "Selfish Yates" is being staged under the star's personal direction.

Pick New Nazimova Plays

A co-operative program has been arranged between Arthur Hopkins, the theatrical manager, and Metro Pictures Corporation in regard to the plans of the Russian star, Mme. Nazimova, in the same way that Metro has already co-operated with the Charles Frohman estate in regard to Ethel Barrymore, and Oliver Morosco in regard to Emily Stevens.

When Mme. Nazimova opens at the Plymouth Theatre, New York, March 11, in Ibsen's, "The Wild Duck," three Metro stars will be playing Broadway engagements simultaneously.

At the studio, the star's respite from screen work will be utilized in the selection of a new list of photodramas, work upon which will be begun as soon as she finishes her stage engagement.

A new portrait of William S. Hart.

Theatre Gets Out Clever House Organ

Grand at Keokuk, Ia., Prints Program Along With Special Messages and News Notes

M. F. BAKER, manager of the Grand Theatre at Keokuk, Ia., is the author of a very interesting program publicity idea in the shape of a house organ, called the Grand News, which is published weekly and distributed to his patrons. The first copy is illustrated herewith. It starts off under the caption, "We Make Our Bow," by saying:

"Just because we want to get in closer touch with you, the men, women and children of Keokuk, we are going to publish this bulletin every week. It is certain that if you knew more about the pictures shown at the Grand—the why and wherefore of this and that—than we can tell you by slide or newspaper announcements, you would better enjoy the pictures themselves.

"The Grand News isn't very big. You will be able to read through it in very little time, but we are going to make it as interesting and as valuable to you as we can. We hope you will enjoy it.

"Copies of the first issue will be distributed—some through the mails and some of them handed to our patrons. After the first issue The Grand News will be distributed by mail or only at the theatre. At your request it will give us great pleasure to mail you a copy each week. Just fill out the blank that is enclosed in the copies sent by mail or leave your name and address at the box office."

Following, in a box, the week's program appears. Below it are little notes of human interest.

Mr. Baker has received congratulations on this feature from many of his patrons and from his business rivals as well.

The

GRAND NEWS

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE ALL-THE FAMILY THEATRE -- THE THEATRE THAT GIVES YOU THE VERY BEST IN AMUSEMENT, NOT OCCASIONALLY, BUT EVERY DAY

No. 1 THE GRAND, KEOKUK, IOWA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1918 Vol. 1

WE MAKE OUR BOW

JUST because we want to get in closer touch with you, the men, women and children of Keokuk, are we going to publish this bulletin every week. It is certain that if you knew more about the pictures shown at the Grand—the why and wherefore of this and that—than we can tell you by slide or newspaper announcements, you would better enjoy the pictures themselves.

The Grand News isn't very big, you will be able to read it through in very little time, but we are going to make it as interesting and as valuable to you as we can. We hope you will enjoy it.

Copies of this first issue will be distributed—some through the mails and some of them handed to our patrons. After the first issue The Grand News will be distributed by mail, or only at the theater. At your request it will give us great pleasure to mail you a copy each week. Just fill out the blank that is enclosed in the copies sent by mail, or leave your name and address at the box office.

THE WEEK AT THE GRAND

Regular Hours of Shows—Matinees, 2:30 and 4:05 (after school); Nights, 7, 8 and 9:15; Saturday and Sunday Evenings start at 6:45.
Regular Prices—Afternoons, Balcony 5c, Main Floor 10c; Nights, Balcony 10c, Main Floor 15c; Children 5c. Prices include War Tax.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—

Chas. Ray in "His Mother's Boy"

Keokuk's author, Rupert Hughes, wrote "When Life is Marked Down," from which "His Mother's Boy" is picturized. It is a Paramount picture, directed personally by Thos. H. Ince, a dandy story that perfectly suits the popular star. It is about Matthew Denton, a strictly brought up New England boy whose father wrongly invests some money for his neighbors and dies, leaving the boy to redeem the family honor. How he goes out west to the mine, discovers the fraud and tricks which had been played upon his father and neighbors, and wins back all the money, together with a very pretty bride for himself, makes a charming and very original story. He's a mother's boy at the start, but he turns out a real man at the finish.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY—

Marguerite Clark in "The Seven Swans"

Here is the last and greatest of all triumphs for this tiny, exquisite star. It exceeds in delightful action and story even the praise given everywhere to "Snow White" and the "Bab" plays. It is founded on a fairy story, but happily "The Seven Swans" is a picture for all ages.

Mae Tinee says: "Marguerite Clark is adorable. In fact, everything about the picture is lovely." The cast is composed of photoplay notables.

"The Seven Swans" has been given a gorgeous production by Paramount pictures and is one of the notable film plays of the year. Regular prices of admission will be in effect.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY—

"The Crisis"

Winston Churchill's famed book makes a fine photoplay. It is a special, booked at large expense, but offered at only slightly advanced prices. The cast includes Bessie Eyton, Georgs Fawcett, Thos. Santchi, Marshall Neilan and others of note. It is principally the cast of "The Spoilers," and has the same director.

The well known story of the North and South, enacted in and around the border city of St. Louis, Mo., gives it special interest to Keokuk people. "The Crisis" is America's greatest American story.

There will be one matinee, at 2 P. M., remember, each day, except an extra showing Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, for teachers, school students and others. Children will be admitted all 10 cents. Evening shows at 7 and 9 o'clock. Special orchestra music.

Matinees, 10c and 15c; nights, 15c and 25c; war tax included.

SATURDAY—

Wm. S. Hart in "The Silent Man"

AND A NEW

Lonesome Luke Comedy

This play of "Bill" Hart's is so chock-full of vim and adventure that you'll be glad of a chance to see it again, if you were one of those who enjoyed it at the Grand in January last. Vola Vale and Robert McKim are among the cast.

A different kind of a love story is interwoven in "The Silent Man." Miss Vola Vale, an exceptionally beautiful and talented girl, plays the role of Betty Bryce, who nearly falls into the clutches of the bad man. Her rescue by Hart, who later wins her love, is the basis of some thrilling situations.

"The Silent Man," while keeping the Hart standard for virility, action and sensation, abounds in tender human touches, and it will please everyone, from the children to grown-ups.

NOTES OF INTEREST

—Since the production of "The Crisis," two of its actors have died. Sam D. Drane, who gave such a wonderful impersonation of Lincoln, and Matt B. Snyder, who is the old Colonel. Both men were enthusiastic over the parts, considering them the best of their career. Drane was never permitted to see himself in the role on the screen.

—"Well, what do you do?" the tough guy asked the mother's boy (Chas. Ray), as they sat in a poker game. "You know well enough I work with you," answered the boy, and then complained because four of his five cards were all queens. You may surmise that this was his first poker game.

—Lent isn't keeping many people away from picture shows, and the crowds at the Grand are increasing in size, as the people are realizing more than ever that at the Grand they find the best in pictures, every day.

—Three big Artcraft stars have the best pictures in their career in the latest subjects, Mary Pickford in "Stella Maris," in which she plays a double role, "Doug" Fairbanks in "A Modern Musketeer," and "Bill" Hart in "Wolves of the Rail," a western story in which railroads and an express robbery figure, besides the mountains and hard-riding horsemen.

—For all children, from 7 to 77 years of age, is "The Seven Swans." Seven is a lucky number. You want to be here with the other 7,777 Keokuk people who will enjoy Marguerite Clark in her latest and best, her 7th Paramount-Artcraft picture. Night shows start at 7 o'clock.

—A young lady entertained her friends at a Grand movie party the other evening. She telephoned during the day and had Mgr. Dodge reserve seats for her guests. They assembled at the theatre, and afterward went to her home for refreshments.

House organ issued by M. F. Baker of the Grand theatre at Keokuk, Iowa, which he distributes to his patrons each week. A story describing the house organ will be found on this page.

Snow Scenes Taken for Ray

Charles Ray, Thomas H. Ince's popular young luminary, with twenty members of his company, treked to Truckee, Cal., last week to film several hundred feet of "snow stuff" for "The Law of the North."

"The Law of the North" has to do with the great northwest country and "the beautiful" is an essential background for several of the more important scenes and snow in Southern California was simply out of the question, it seemed, this year, even old reliable Mt. Baldy, Mount Wilson, the famous Bear Valley and other snow districts having failed to do their climatic duty.

It was originally intended that the Ray company should journey to Missoula, Mont., to photograph the snow scenes, but the night before the departure word came from Truckee that snow had just fallen to the extent of eighteen inches and the schedule of the screen folk was accordingly changed, thus effecting a saving of more than $1,000 to the organization through the kindness of the California weather man.

Had the trip been postponed forty-eight hours, an additional $800 would have been saved, for Southern California was visited by the heaviest rain storm of recent years and altitudinous spots had more snow than during the past ten years.

Ned Finley Films Ready Soon

The first of the Ned Finley films, "The Return of O'Garry," will shortly be ready, according to General Film Company. This is a romantic adventure story of the great Northwest. The leading roles are played by Mr. Finley and Marion Henry.

Twelve of these three-reel stories probably will be produced in the studios at Bat Cave, near Esmeralda, North Carolina, which abounds in scenery typical of the northwest country.

The O'Garry stories will be released once a month.

Begin Work on "Breaking Into Eden"

Bushman and Bayne Have Kenneth L. Roberts Story for Next Vehicle—Contains Many Surprises

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and Beverly Bayne have begun the production of "Breaking Into Eden," a new Metro All-Star Series picture, under the direction of Will S. Davis, who guided the stars in "Under Suspicion," a recent release, and "The Brass Check," just completed.

"Breaking Into Eden" is a screen version of "With Neatness and Dispatch," a story by Kenneth L. Roberts, published in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post. June Mathis and Luther Reed of the Metro Eastern scenario staff prepared the continuity from Roberts' original story. This is the second of this author's stories to be picturized by Metro, the first being "Good Will and Almond Shells," which will be released under the title "The Shell Game," with Emmy Wehlen as the star.

Francis X. Bushman plays Paul Donaldson, nephew of Police Commissioner Burgess, a virile American who is mistaken by a girl for "Slim" Keegan, a crook. Beverly Bayne has the role of Geraldine Ames, the girl.

This new vehicle for Bushman and Bayne is a stirring romance replete with mystery, surprise and adventure. Geraldine Ames and her sister Mary live with their aunt, Felicia Judson, a strict and exacting person, who is convinced that all men of the present generation are devoid of morals. Because of her views the girls are never allowed to associate with men.

As the story opens, Geraldine is found confering with Police Commissioner Burgess in regard to engaging a first class crook to "do a little job." Burgess, an old friend of Geraldine's father, is willing to do practically anything for the family, so he agrees to aid her. At the suggestion of Inspector Corcoran, they decide to employ "Slim" Keegan, on whom the inspector "has a line."

Geraldine and Corcoran go in an automobile to locate the crook. The Inspector "spots" the man and leaves the car, so that Geraldine may pick him up. Following her orders, Burns, the chauffeur, drives slowly along the curb. She tells Burns to call the man to the car. "Slim" is reluctant to undertake the job of binding and gagging an old lady, which is the mission Geraldine wants to employ him for. But he agrees when he learns that his gagging of Aunt Felicia will help Mary to elope with John Pierce.

Everything is carried out according to plans and the couple escape. While "Slim" has been binding and gagging Aunt Felicia, Burns, the supposed chauffeur, has gathered up the family silverware. When "Slim" catches him at work, Burns threatens to cast the guilt on "Slim" as the "bulls" know that he is at the Judson home, but Burns is persuaded to quit.

When "Slim" unbinds Aunt Felicia he upbraids her for her treatment of the girls. Before the close of the story many surprises are revealed, the greatest of which is the fact that Geraldine had spotted the wrong man. Not "Slim" Keegan, but Paul Donaldson, nephew of Commissioner Burgess, is the man whom she has employed to "do the job with neatness and dispatch." Of course love interest has developed and Geraldine and Paul receive Aunt Felicia's blessing.

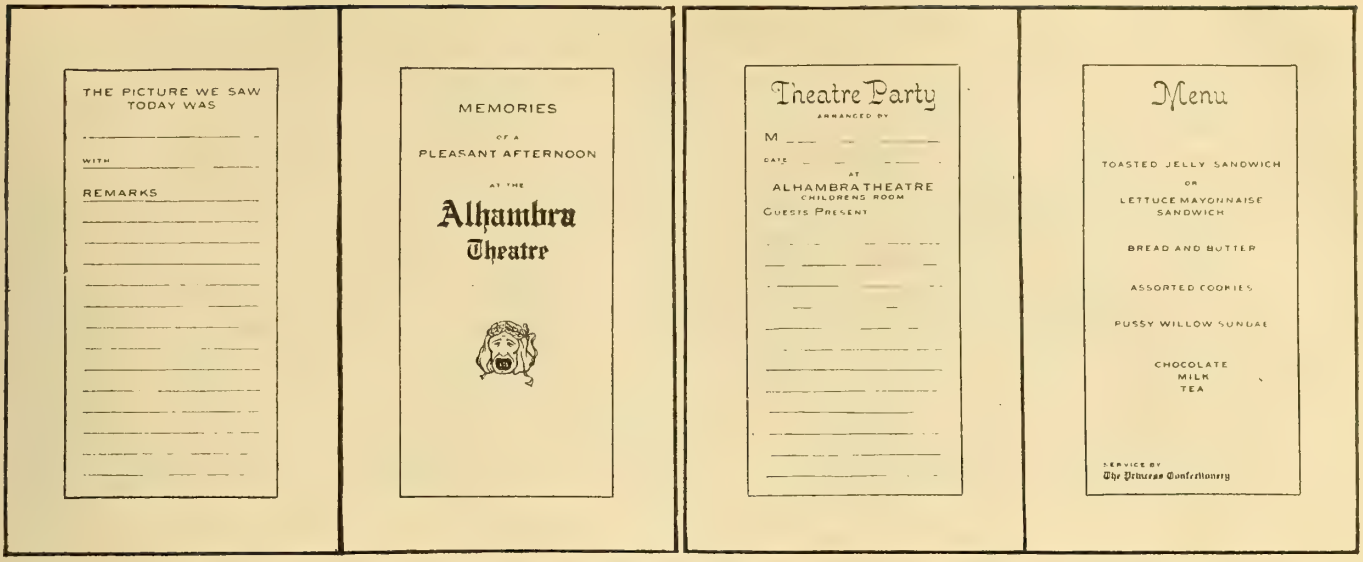
Bewitching Mae Marsh as she appears in her new Goldwyn picture, "The Beloved Traitor."

Mary Pickford Writes a Story of Her Life

For several months Mary Pickford has been quietly engaged in writing the history of her career.

"Mary Pickford's Own Story," as it will be called, will go to the world probably in serial form and will then be printed in book form. Arrangements are being made to have the work translated in all foreign languages, for Mary's popularity is by no means limited to this or English speaking lands.

Rising from a humble position to the topmost place in stardom, Mary Pickford has won all by her sweetness, her even temperament, her excellent talent and womanliness. Romance has entered her life side by side with her portrayal of it on the screen. She has brought to her art much that is distinctly her own; she has evidenced the possession of personality, magnetism and charm and has borne her great honors with becoming modesty. Her friends will bear witness that she is the same sweet character today that she was when merely an obscure player in an almost untried, and certainly unproved, medium.



Full details of the story will be announced later.

"Breakers Ahead" Finished

Quaint New England types abound in "Breakers Ahead," Viola Dana's newest screen vehicle in the Metro program. The picture, in five reels, has been completed at Metro's western studios. It was directed by Charles Brabin, who collaborated with H. P. Keeler in the composition of the original story.

"Breakers Ahead" is said to give Miss Dana many opportunities for characterization and the display of girlish charm that lent such appeal to her work in "Blue Jeans" and other of her Metro successes.

Clifford Bruce plays opposite the star. He has the role of Eric Pixley, a rugged young mariner; Russell Simpson has a virile character part as Cap'n Scudd. Others in the cast are Eugene Pallette, Sydney Deane, Mabel Van Buren, T. H. Gowland, Lorena Foster and Helen Jerome Eddy (loaned by Lasky).

Cover and inside pages of souvenir given by Saxe's Alhambra theatre at Milwaukee to members of children's theatre parties.

Gives Clever Children's Theatre Parties

George Fischer, Manager of Saxe's Alhambra at Milwaukee, Boosts Juvenile Patronage in New Way

GEORGE FISCHER, manager of Saxe's Alhambra Theatre at Milwaukee, is the author of a very good idea for increasing juvenile patronage.

He has inaugurated children's theatre parties. Following the show the children are served with a light luncheon and are given attractive souvenirs in the shape of a booklet entitled "Memories of a Pleasant Afternoon at the Alhambra." Illustrations of the booklet will be found in connection herewith.

Mr. Fischer writes to MOTOGRAPHY as follows:

"I will endeavor to give you a brief outline of the plan.

"For illustration: If you had a little daughter or a little son, you could come to me and arrange for a party to be given on any afternoon you preferred. The child, of course, would invite as many of her little playmates as she desired.

"Upon their arrival at the theatre they would be received at the door by one of the maids and their wraps removed. Then a second maid would escort them to the box reserved for this particular event.

"After the performance the little ones are escorted to the play-room, where a miniature table with miniature chairs is ready for their reception. After partaking of a light luncheon they are again taken in charge by the first maid, who assists them with their wraps.

"Each child receives a menu card as a souvenir, which is also a reminder of the pleasant time spent at the theatre and of the little playmate who arranged the party.

"We always report these parties to the society editors of all the newspapers and thus obtain much valuable publicity."

Attention—All

When you start on a trip that includes Chicago and you are doubtful as to where to receive your mail here, leave instructions for it to be sent in the care of MOTOGRAPHY. We will put it aside for you and you may have it by calling. The offices are 1253-1260 Monadnock building, Dearborn street and Jackson boulevard.

U. S. Starts 15 Theatres

Within a few weeks the United States government will be operating a circuit of thirty-one theatres at national army cantonments, construction of fifteen more having just been ordered by the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. Sixteen theatres are already in operation.

Construction on the fifteen new houses is proceeding with remarkable speed. One in fact has been completed within eight working days. It is the house at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Georgia. The others are located at the following places:

Camps Greene, Charlotte, N.C.; Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C.; Hancock, Augusta, Ga.; Beauregard, Alexandria, La.; Logan, Houston, Tex.; MacArthur, Waco, Tex.; Bowie, Fort Worth, Tex.; Doniphan, Fort Sill, Okla.; Cody, Deming, N. Mex.; Fremont, Palo Alto, Cal.; Kearney, Linda Vista, Cal.; Johnston, Quartermasters' Training Camp, Jacksonville, Fla.; Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex. and Humphrey, Belvoir, Va.

Liberty Theatres at Camps Sevier, Greenville, S. C.; Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss.; Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala.; McClelland, Anniston, Ala., and Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., are not planned for the immediate future because of existing theatre and auditorium facilities. In some cases the commission has made concessions to private operators to erect theatres within these camps.

Each new theatre has a lobby, ticket office, dressing rooms, full lighting equipment, curtains and scenery stocks. Living quarters for the manager are provided within the building. In cold weather each building will be heated.

Star Completes "Prunella"

Marguerite Clark has completed the production of "Prunella," which has been made on a lavish scale for Paramount release by Director Maurice Tourneur, at Fort Lee, N. J. This is the picture in which the famous director has introduced striking novelties in the way of stage settings and lighting effects to harmonize with the subject, which presents fanciful characters.

Miss Clark was particularly anxious to make "Prunella" an extraordinary photoplay for sentimental reasons, as it was her last starring vehicle on the stage, in which she scored a tremendous success, attracting the attention of Adolph Zukor to her exceptional talents and leading to her appearance in pictures.

After a few days of rest Miss Clark will begin a new picture under the direction of J. Searle Dawley at the Fifty-sixth street studio, New York.

Four Fox Standards Await Release

Pictures Are "Rough and Ready," "The Blindness of Divorce," "The Soul of Buddha" and "Queen of the Sea"

FOLLOWING the release of "Woman and the Law" as a Standard production with its premier at the Lyric theatre in New York, four other Standard productions shortly will be distributed by William Fox.

Scheduled for release on March 24 is the William Farnum de luxe production "Rough and Ready." Many of the scenes were "shot" in the Adriondacks during the frigid wave that gripped the country and when "coalless Mondays" were the fashion. There is a powerful love story which will show Farnum in one of his best roles.

"The Blindness of Divorce" is set for release April 7. This has been termed a propaganda picture and one that will be a strong preachment on the evils of the divorce system. The story is built around a neglected wife. Her husband goes to the club, leaving her alone. Coming home unexpectedly he surprises her with an old suitor. The wife is guiltless, but circumstances condemn her. She is guilty in the eyes of the law. She becomes a society outcast.

"The Soul of Buddha," a Theda Bara super production, is scheduled for release April 21. This is the play Miss Bara wrote herself on a train coming from the west. It is based on the death of Mata Hari, the French spy.

The tentative release for "Queen of the Sea," with Annette Kellermann, has been set for May 5. In magnificence of setting, beautiful photographic effects and dramatic interest, "Queen of the Sea" is said to excel "A Daughter of the Gods." Many of the scenes were made at Bar Harbor, Me., last summer and society people took the liveliest interest in the activities of the stars. Those in the cast frequently were the guests of the society colony.

"The Debt of Honor," in which Peggy Hyland makes her debut as a William Fox star; "A Camouflage Kiss," a comedy with June Caprice, and "A Daughter of France," a stirring drama in which Virginia Pearson has stellar honors, have just been completed in the east.

A picture in which Jane and Katherine Lee are starred will soon be ready for the cutting room. The company, under the direction of Kenean Buel, returned last week from a three-weeks' stay in Georgia, where Mr. Buel was busy "shooting" exterior scenes. The vehicle provides the juvenile stars with exceptional opportunities to indulge in pranks of all kinds. Their mirthful acts are framed in a setting of dramatic interest. No title has yet been selected for the play.

Peggy Hyland's initial production was released as a Special Feature March 10.

George Walsh has begun work on a new production. The athletic Fox star has been convalescing for several weeks after returning home from Polyclinic Hospital, where it was necessary to take him for treatment of broken ribs. Walsh says he is feeling fine now and is anxious to climb the Woolworth tower. The accident that forced him to forsake the camera for more than a month was the result of an "off-stage" fall a few days after the completion of "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal."

Peggy Hyland in "The Debt of Honor," her first picture for William Fox.

Manitoba Censors Hit

No comedies were shown in any of the thirty picture theatres of Winnipeg nor in any picture theatre in Manitoba outside of Winnipeg starting Monday, March 4, as a result of the clash between the film interests of the province and the censor board.

All comedies were called in March 2, and future bookings cancelled by the exchanges.

This was the first organized protest of the Film Exchange Managers' Association against ruthless censoring. The next step may be to close the exchanges altogether if some relief is not obtained.

The Broken Billboard

By Marguerite McPake

While passing down the street one day,
A billboard caught my eye;
The advertisement on that sign
Would make you laugh and cry.
It looked as if the rain had washed
Just half that sign away,
The other half remaining there,
Which made that billboard say:

Smoke a Coco-Cola,
Tomato Catsup cigarette,
See Lillian Russell wrestle
With a box of Cascarets;
And for that tired feeling,
Buy on installment plan
And let the Gold Dust Twins
Do your work.
For that's the Ham What Am.

Teeth extracted without pain
By an old Virginia Cheroot;
All vote for Buffalo Bill
And wear a Navy Tobacco Suit;
John Drew and Pete Daily
Guarantee no Pain, no Cure,
And Carter's Little Liver Pills
Will play Ping-Pong to-day.

Dr. Munyon's Barber Shop;
Three cents a mile for silk;
Grape-Nuts are good for freckles,
Also are Malted Milk;
Omega Oil Makes Vaudeville;
Anheuser-Busch and Schlitz
Will dance on a bar of Ivory Soap
And do Red Raven Splits.

Stirring action scenes in the new Triangle play "Faith Endurin'," Featuring Roy Stewart.

"Faith Endurin'" Has Queer Climax

Sheriff Friend of Slayer Suspect Shoots Away Evidence That Might Convict Man Despite His Innocence

SHOULD a man be convicted on circumstantial evidence?

"Faith Endurin'" the first picture on the Triangle March 17 program, answers "no."

"Faith Endurin'" which appeared in a recent issue of The Saturday Evening Post, is the second story by Kenneth B. Clarke which Triangle has dramatized. The first was "The Sea Panther," just released.

"Faith Endurin'" is a western thriller, laid near Grindstone, N. M., where a bitter hatred springs up between the cattle barons and copper kings. After the copper dust of the smelters has ruined the fortunes of the ranchers, Jeff Flagg and Jim Lee, partners and cattlemen, start a feud with Edward Crane, general manager of the copper company.

When Crane makes advances toward his stenographer, Helen Dryer, he is shot by her brother Vic, who flees. A chain of evidence points to Flagg, who was in the vicinity, as the murderer. It is believed that revenge is the motive of the crime, and a vigorous hunt is started for the missing man, who may be identified by a scar on his arm.

The climax comes when Flagg, in a distant town, meets his old friend Vic, now sheriff. The suspicion of the community is centered on Flagg, who is inveigled into a poker game and agrees to bare his arm if the cards are against him. He loses and at the crucial moment the sheriff shoots away the evidence.

Roy Stewart is cast in the role of Jeff Flagg. W. A. Jeffries is cast as Jim Lee. Fritzie Ridgeway is Helen Dryer. Walter Perkins is the sheriff.

Cliff Smith, who directed the picture, is said to have obtained excellent western atmosphere. A rodeo is one of the features.

Socialism, a doctrine which is challenging the attention of the world, is the theme of "The Answer," the other special picture on the program. This play, written by E. Magnus Ingleton, author of "Her American Husband," tells how a girl of the east side pretends to share the ideals of a socialist whom she marries, but turns out to be a social butterfly when she comes into the possession of millions he inherits.

Joe King is cast as John Warfield, rabid socialist, whose inherited doctrine of hatred for the upper classes is changed into a desire to aid suffering humanity. Alma Rubens, whose last vehicle was "I Love You," is a daughter of the rich who dedicates her life to social service. As Goldie Shepard, Claire Anderson, former Keystone comedienne, makes her first appearance in a Triangle feature production.

Love, get-rich-quick madness, perspicuity and cunning run riot in the new Keystone comedy, "Mud" scheduled for March 17 release. It is a tale of two penniless, nerve laden promotors, who step out from a box car to stir up a money-sprouting village. Ray Griffith is the optimistic promotor who sees a silver lining to every cloud. Max Asher is his lanquid, pessimistic partner who "Gloomy Gusses" through life with a long face and a short pocketbook. Bewitching Peggy Pearce upsets their plans while cavorting in overalls. And the path of the get-rich-quicks is strewn with pitchforks.

Metro Expands Its Activities in the West

The departure for the Pacific coast of two Metro stars, with their entire companies, and of a new manager of productions, marks a new era of expansion at Metro's West coast studio.

Harold Lockwood and Bert Lytell are the stars and George D. Baker, long a member of Metro's directing staff at the New York studio, is the manager of productions. Mr. Baker is accompanied by his assistant director, Charles Hunt, who has been associated with him ever since his first Metro picture. They will be followed in about a month by William S. Davis, who expects to leave as soon as "Breaking into Eden," the picture starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne which he is now directing, is completed.

Joseph W. Engel, Metro's treasurer, is now in the West superintending arrangements.

Canada Calls Off Holidays

Exhibitors of Montreal and other places in Quebec and Ontario anticipated that their final heatless holiday would be observed on Monday, March 4, and in this they were not mistaken. They were officially notified on Friday, March 8, by Fuel Controller Magrath that the fuel regulations affecting the operation of theatres had been repealed and that all houses could play full time until further notice.

Get Up Sunday Show Petition

Petitions asking the Birmingham, Ala. city commission to allow Sunday shows were circulated last week and more than 1,000 names of business and professional men were obtained. Only 1,500 are required to submit the question to a vote.

Wears Pearls Worth $175,000 in Film

Mary Garden Scorns Sham in "The Splendid Sinner," Using Her Own Valuable Collection of Gems

IN MOTION PICTURES, even more than on the stage, nothing is more easily imitated than jewels, especially pearls. From time immemorial a string of white beads, probably from the ten cent store, has been the lure that draws the daring crook to the millionaire's home.

The sophisticated spectator always passes this detail by in the films, hoping that some day producers will resort to an expedient that will make the pearls seem at least synthetic, if not real.

As might be expected from the foregoing, this has been done, and instead of being synthetic the pearls are real. It is accomplished by newcomers in the field, a new company and a new star. Goldwyn is the sponsor of the innovation and the star is Mary Garden.

Pearls play an important part in her second vehicle, "The Splendid Sinner." Bereft of the trappings of "Thais," Miss Garden appears in habiliments scarcely less unusual, though the part she essays is that of a brilliant woman of the half-world of today.

Miss Garden's own pearls are famous, two strings in particular having been presented to her by a European sovereign in recognition of the impetus given Greek art when she made her sensational appearance as "Aphrodite" at the Paris Opera. These lovely ornaments she supplements with many others—rings, bracelets and a splendid pear-shaped pearl. She also wears two superb bracelets, each containing seven hundred and eighty brilliants, rings without number, bar pins, buckles and brooches.

In one scene Miss Garden goes to a gambling establishment she used to frequent and to raise money for her husband she offers a portion of her jewels; not some of her rings or one of the bracelets, but a string of pearls. It has been done before and probably will be repeated by other stars. Probably never, however, will jewels representing so much money be used, unless Mary Garden herself plays the part, for the gems are valued at $175,000.

A highly dramatic moment in "The Splendid Sinner," Goldwyn's second picture with Mary Garden.

Adopts Reserve Seat Policy

The Gaiety theatre, Winnipeg, Canada, has enjoyed such success in its presentation of special features that the management has decided to sell a portion of tickets for each performance in advance. According to the plan seats may be reserved one week ahead if desired. The Gaiety charges 15 and 25 cents in the afternoon, 25 and 35 cents at night. The house has less than eight hundred seats and is not on the main street.

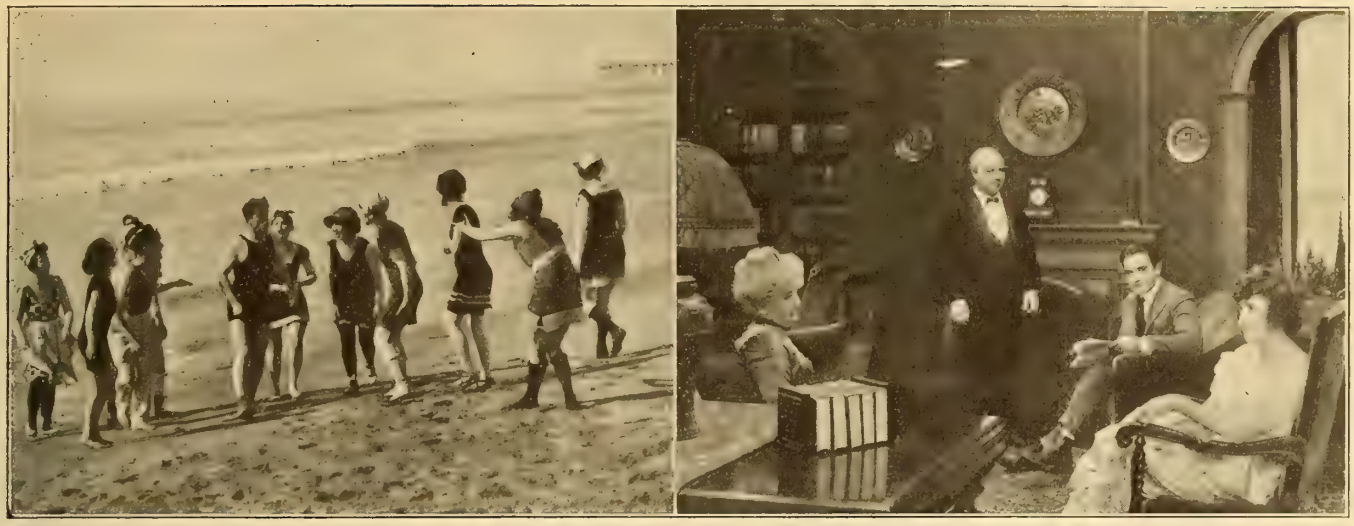
Drew Reissues Start

The week of March 11 marked the return of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew to the Vitagraph program. Drew reissues announced short time ago starting then. Henceforth these one-reel comedies will be issued weekly.

Reid Finishes "The House of Silence"

Activities at Lasky Studio in Hollywood Proceed Uninterrupted Despite Torrential Rains

THE long-expected rain, which at last has descended in torrents upon Hollywood, had no effect upon the production at the Lasky studio, where preparations had been made for handling practically all of the work under the gigantic glass and steel covered stage erected for just this purpose last summer.



Wallace Reid's newest Paramount vehicle, which was started in New York, "The House of Silence," has just been finished. Ann Little again supports the popular young actor in this film, which was staged under the direction of Donald Crisp. It is a mystery picture and promises to be the most exciting screen offering in which Reid has appeared. All lovers of detective stories will find it to their liking. In addition, there is a charming romance.

Donald Crisp will also direct Reid's next film and is already at work on the picture, which it is stated, will be an adaptation of "Believe Me, Xantippe." The star will begin work after a short rest.

The big outside scene of the week was that in which Jack Holt and Sessue Hayakawa fought in a dugout in the San Gabriel river. This was for a picture in which the oriental actor will star and which is being directed by James Young. Its title is "The White Man's Law."

The two men in their respective roles of villain and hero were required to take an unexpected plunge into the river, which was icy in temperature. As a result, they came up chattering; but the director insists that it was one of the most convincing fights he has ever staged. Hayakawa did some of his best acting in the subsequent scenes, wherein, supposedly suffering from a dagger wound, he crawls half dead upon a bank. The picture is nearly finished and will be a Paramount release following "The Honor of His House."

The scenario for "Missing," J. Stuart Blackton's next Paramount picture following "Wild Youth," was finished last week and actual production will be begun as soon as the initial sets are ready, which will be within a few days. The story deals with the ordeal through which the women of England have gone.

Widely different scenes in "The Marriage Bubble," the new Triangle play featuring William Desmond.

Pauline Frederick Starts "Fedora"

Piece Is That From the Pen of Victorien Sardou Made Immortal by Bernhardt and Fanny Davenport

PAULINE FREDERICK has begun the production of a screen version of "Fedora," another Bernhardt role, to follow "The Resurrection," at the Fifty-sixth street studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in New York.

"Fedora" is one of the best known plays in the history of the drama, being written by Victorien Sardou and made immortal by the interpretations of the "Divine Sarah" and Fanny Davenport.

"Fedora" runs the whole gamut of the passions and offers to the actress who assumes the role unparalleled opportunities for the display of emotional powers. It is considered an ideal vehicle for Pauline Frederick.

Marguerite Clark is working on interiors for "Rich Man, Poor Man," from the George Broadhurst play which was adapted from the novel by Maximilian Foster. It is a very human play, as Broadhurst productions usually are, and Director J. Searle Dawley is making the picture a dramatic offering, though there are many natural situations that will call forth smiles.

Billie Burke has finished "Let's Get a Divorce," under the direction of Charles Giblyn, from the story by Anita Loos and John Emerson. Aside from the beauty and talent of Miss Burke, "Let's Get a Divorce" is expected to arouse admiration by reason of the Florida exteriors, the beautiful interiors, the artistic appointments and handsome costumes.

The atmosphere of the studio at Fort Lee, where the new Elsie Ferguson production for Artcraft release, "A Doll's House," is being produced by Maurice Tourneur, is surcharged with temperament. Tula Belle, aged eight, staggering under the laurels won in "The Blue Bird," the big Maeterlinck spectacle about to be released, appears in "A Doll's House," but the homage she would otherwise command is being shared by Ivy Ward, whose three and one-half years rest lightly upon her curly head. Tula is laboring under a disadvantage in the course of the rivalry, for her mature years require a degree of dignity which little Ivy totally disregards, and Tula endures in haughty silence the sight of Ivy serenely telling all who will listen that SHE is the star of the picture and that Elsie Ferguson and Tula Belle are extras and that she pays them five dollars a week.

Studio Manager Albert Loewe, who passes Ivy's home on his way to Fort Lee, has made it a practice to pick up the little girl in his car and this has added fuel to the flames. However, the children sometimes forget their artistic ambitions when they meet in Miss Ferguson's dressing room, where the good natured star provides them with candy or a glass of milk, or tucks them in for a nap on her couch.

Denver Exhibitor Boosts Price

For several years Denver has occupied a unique place in the motion picture world. The trade as a whole has been at a loss to explain why one of the most prosperous cities of the country, with a population of two hundred and forty-five thousand, should have lower admission prices than other western cities. For years the standard admission charge in Denver was five cents and only a few years ago was raised to ten cents, long after ten cents had been adopted by nearly all cities and towns in the country.

The ever-increasing overhead expenses and the precedents which other cities have offered failed to budge the Denver exhibitors from their "stand pat" policy of a ten-cent admission fee. Competition has proven stronger than the desire for co-operation and the individual exhibitor has considered the innovation hazardous.

Finally, however, the Paris theatre, situated in the vicinity of several thriving houses, raised its evening admission price from ten to fifteen cents.

With the announcement of this change came the news that the Paris would run Triangle pictures exclusively.

Star Gets "De Luxe Annie"

"De Luxe Annie," the drama which was presented by Arthur Hammerstein early in the present season at the Booth Theatre, New York, has been obtained by Norma Talmadge for Select production.

"De Luxe Annie" was written by Scammon Lockwood and first appeared as a two part serial in the Saturday Evening Post. As a picture it appears during the first scenes to be an ordinary crook story. But this conception quickly changes, with the unfolding of several surprising incidents, and before the spectator realizes it he finds his interest captured and held by an unusual psychological study.

Plan Carnival in Seattle

The Northwest Film Board of Trade and the Washington Theater Managers' Association are planning a movie carnival to be held in Seattle. The men responsible for the idea promise that the carnival will be one of the biggest affairs of its kind ever held on the Pacific coast.

Bessie Barriscale Picture Completed

"Maid o' the Storm," Paralta Offering, Presents Star in a Striking Transformation of Character

IN "Maid o' the Storm," which has just been completed at the Paralta studios in California, the star, Bessie Barriscale undergoes a transformation in costume and character. The story opens with her as a castaway on the coast of Scotland and at the climax she is the premiere danseuse of the London Opera Company. The production gives Miss Barriscale an opportunity to display a wardrobe that is varying and beautiful.

Miss Barriscale will start at once on her next picture. The story was written by R. D. Kidd and Jane Holly and was prepared in scenario form by Julian Louis Lamothe of the Paralta staff. In this production, also, Miss Barriscale portrays the role of a Scotch girl, but the characterization and plot are vastly different from those of "Maid o' the Storm." As Patricia Haldine, a girl with patriotic sympathies, she is found in a situation which deals strikingly with love and war. She gives over her home, Haldine Manor, as a hospital for convalescent soldiers.

Charles Gunn, well known to admirers of the screen, who has recently been made a member of the Paralta organization, will support Miss Barriscale. The direction will be taken care of by Raymond B. West.

The final scene will be the first to be taken. It consists of the marching of a regiment of American soldiers through a village of Great Britain and in the ranks is the young American hero, who, having wooed and won the heroine through a series of thrilling scenes, joins the contingent and starts to the front.

"Let's Get a Divorce" Full of Comedy

New Billie Burke Picture Nears Completion in New York After Taking of Exteriors in Florida

"LET'S GET A DIVORCE," Billie Burke's latest picture for Paramount, is to be released soon.

In this story Miss Burke is reared in a convent. The scenes were filmed in the big convent at St. Augustine, Fla.

The company was favored by excellent weather, which was freakish at times, however. Several days it rained heavily near the locations, while at the spots where the scenes were being taken the sun shone brightly.

If this photoplay proves as amusing to the public as it has to the studio employes and those who have witnessed some of the scenes, it will cause a sensation. Miss Burke herself is enthusiastic over the picture and told her husband, Flo Ziegfeld, so much about the delightful comedy situations that the impresario was induced to join the company on its trip to Florida and greatly enjoyed watching the production.

While the company was in the south the interior settings were being constructed at the Fifty-sixth street studio, and upon Miss Burke's return she was able to continue the work without loss of time.

"Let's Get a Divorce" was written for Miss Burke by John Emerson and Anita Loos and is being directed by Charles Giblyn, assisted by Joseph Boyle. It is a satire on the ease of sundering the marital knot and is considered a good vehicle for Miss Burke in that it has a clear-cut plot, with a logical story and provides a series of amusing situations adapted to Miss Burke's vivacious style of acting.

David Higgins as he appears in "Rough and Ready,' the new de luxe production which William Farnum is making for William Fox. Mr. Higgins raised his beard especially for the picture, and caused much comment. Many took him for Andrew Carnegie. When he had a cigar in his mouth he was the living image of General Grant.

Dorothy Dalton is going to have a new role. In a story called "The Triple Cross," by Octavus Roy Cohen, she will appear as an employe of the United States' secret service. She will have a lot of energetic work to do frustrating German spies.

Stanley V. Mastbaum Dead

Stanley V. Mastbaum, producer, exhibitor and head of the Stanley Booking Company of Philadelphia, is dead from septic poisoning, which developed following tonsilitis.

Mr. Mastbaum began a study of the motion picture business seven years ago and mastered every phase of it. At the time of his death he was part owner of seven big houses in Philadelphia, two in New York, and a score or more in other cities.

The Philadelphia theatres in which he was interested are the Stanley, the Palace, the Globe, the Arcadia, the Alhambra, the Rialto and the Broadway. He was also owner of the Stanley

Stanley Mastbaum, head of the Stanley Booking Company, who has succumbed to illness at his home in Philadelphia.

Theatre, New York, and managing director and part owner of the Broadway Theatre, New York.

Mr. Mastbaum was in his thirty-eighth year. He was a member of several clubs and was a friend of the most influential men in the business. At his funeral honorary pall-bearers included Samuel Goldfish, Lewis J. Selznick, Joseph M. Schenck, Hiram Abrams, Adolph Zukor, William Fox, Carl Laemmle, Walter E. Greene, Richard A. Rowland, George H. Earle, Lawrence D. Beggs, Col. Samuel D. Lit, Marcus Leow, Joseph B. Rogers, Milton Herold, Horace Stern, Senator Clarence Wolf, Abe Sablosky, John McGuirk, Lew Sabiosky, Felix Isman, William E. Smith, Albert M. Greenfield, Oscar Meyers, Roy Heymann, Dr. Joseph Potsdamer, Harry Fisher and Frank Weiner.

Letters from Readers to the Editor

PRESENTED EXACTLY AS RECEIVED

EDITOR, Motography: Extra! Extra!! Extra!!! Please print this on your page entitled "Laugh and the World Laughs With you." However, we implore you to head this story "Laugh and the World Laughs At You," or "He Who Laughs Last Offtimes Irritates." Here's the reason:

If you have never heard of it, let me tell you that in New York is printed a sheet named "Exhibitor's Trade Review." If by chance you do not know the nature of its mission, it is supposed to be a sheet which "serves" the motion picture industry.

The character and the quality of what it serves may be judged by a short series of articles which began in their edition of March 2, wherein one George T. Pardy, writing under the heading, "Fired at Random" appeared to josh himself considerably by throwing a lot of words together and filling up half a column discussing the title and subtitle used in connection with Motography's reviews.

At the time of publication of this issue, we were not sure whether Mr. Pardy seriously meant what he wrote or, as is inferred by the title on his page, was "Firing at Random."

March 9, Mr. Pardy again expressed his inconsolable grief relative to the intensive training our reviewers undergo before they finally qualify for permanent berths on Motography's reviewing staff.

We note in the March 16 issue of the Trade Review enough to convince us that Mr. Pardy was only kidding himself and truly "Firing at Random." Here's why. At the head of "Screen Reports for the Box-Office" appearing in his paper, is the name Helen Rockwell, whom we presume from this is an accepted, fully qualified reviewer for the Trade Review. Evidently, the Exhibitor's Trade Review seriously recognizes the value of Motography's intensive training for reviewers as can be judged from the fact that without consulting Motography as to whether it was ready to admit that the reviewer was successfully trained, they accept an ex-Motography reviewer purely on the strength of one of these stray ex-reviewers, mentioning the fact that they had taken Motography's training.

But here's the gist of this communication. In the March 16 edition of the Exhibitor's Trade Review on page 1232 there appears a review of "Carmen of the Klondike," signed with the initials H. R.—(Helen Rockwell). As the writer remembers this picture it ended with two men putting up one of the most thrilling physical battles it would be possible to imagine. The unique appeal of the fight was made from the point that it took place in Alaska during one of the most torrential rain storms which has ever been filmed.

But read what H. R., the ex-Motography reviewer, who unfortunately did not complete Motography's intensive training for reviewers, has to say about this realistic scrap. "It will depend upon one's squeamish propensities [whatever they are] whether it will be enjoyed or otherwise, for it is far from being a pretty sight, two huge bulks of men wallowing around in the mud and rain until they are hardly discernible so covered are they with slime. As they fight in the mud to their knees with the moonlight streaming upon them they resemble two bronze statues."

Dear Mr. Editor, will you please consult all of the encyclopedias you may have in your library and see if you can explain to me how it is possible for the moonlight to be streaming when the clouds are so torrentially teeming.

Please forward your answer with haste as I am nightly losing sleep trying to figure how two men can wallow around in mud and rain until they are hardly discernible; yet at the same time resemble two bronze statues, due to the glare from streaming moonlight.

Note—Webster quotes "Random"—"Or without settled direction, aim or purpose; left to chance; a random guess."

THEATRE OWNER.

Margarita Fischer, American-Mutual star, as she appears in "Ann's Finish."

✣ ✣ ✣

Editor, Motography: On Feb. 19 and Feb. 26 a form letter addressed to the various exhibitors throughout the United States left our studios, calling attention to our two late releases, "A Pair of Sixes" and "Ruggles of Red Gap," one of these letters over the signature of Mr. George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company; the other over the signature of W. Fay Lynch, manager of sales and distribution.

Owing to an error in our mailing department, the Stanley Booking Company's name was left on our list of exhibitors. Like the rest of the exhibitors, the Stanley Booking Company received a copy of these letters.

I am informed by our Philadelphia office that the Stanley company have shown these letters and discussed them with several exhibitors in Philadelphia, and pointed out to them the fact that Essanay was still recognizing the Stanley Booking Company and wished to continue to do business with them.

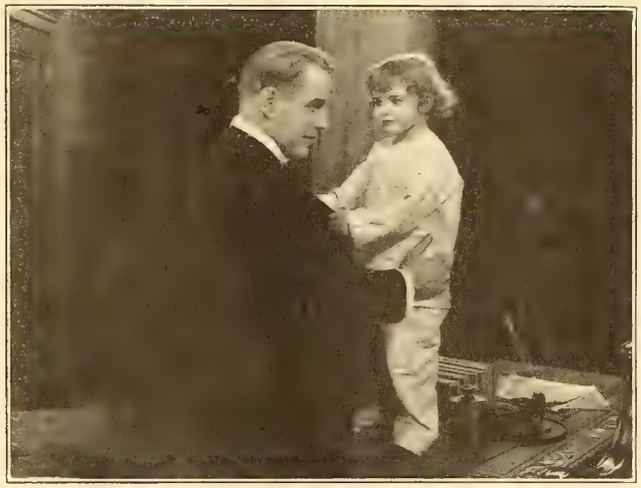
I trust your paper will give us the courtesy of again explaining our attitude in respect to booking organizations and to point out to the different exhibitors that this was a form letter and not a personal appeal to the Stanley Booking Corporation.

GEORGE K. SPOOR.

✣ ✣ ✣

Editor, Motography: I don't like to make disparaging remarks about a picture, and if in your opinion I have censured all manufacturers too much, don't publish it. The objection was in the picturization of "The Son's Confession," when his father demanded to know what kind of a mess he got into. The scene was in a dining room with men and women having a hilarious time, when in comes a woman dressed in tights (I presume) with a flap of some sort hanging down in front. The representation of a half or more than half nude woman was so plainly carried out I made serious objections to the company, for which they canceled my service. Really I don't see how such pictures can get past national censorship. Aside from this one small act it was one of the best pictures I have ever had.

AN EXHIBITOR.



Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY CRITICS

"The Desired Woman"

Vitagraph Picture Starring Harry Morey. Released March 11. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THERE is a distinct human appeal throughout this most recent Blue Ribbon release, which should reach the hearts of those who enjoy a good, light drama. A father's devotion to his child, and the unfaithfulness of a supercilious wife, furnish the necessary details for the breaking up of an unhappy home. Because of the heart interest, and the clever manner in which the central idea of the plot is unfolded, the picture should satisfy and be a pleasing attraction.

"Where is mother, daddy?"

The financial district of New York is again used as a background, and the many intricate operations of financiers formulate the action of the plot. Whereas in many pictures the crooked speculator is made to suffer for his misdeeds in various manners, which usually allow the speculator to return and continue his fleecings, this subject ends with the complete restitution of the man, who repays many of his victims and then starts out into the world penniless, but with a clear conscience and a pure heart.

The story is told in a forceful manner, and the characters interpreted by a cast fully in keeping with their allotted parts. Harry Morey is convincing as Dick Mostyn and enacts the role in his usually capable manner. Florence Deshon is his unfaithful wife and Jean Paige is Dolly Drake, the desired woman. Little Aida Morton is the medium for injecting some pretty childish moments into the picture, and as Mostyn junior is delightfully pleasing to the eye. Charles Hutchison, Julia Swayne Gordon, and Eulalie Jenson are others prominent in the cast. Paul Scardon directed, and has turned out a very satisfactory screen version of the story by Will N. Harbon. The photography and general staging are of sterling nature and add to the already interesting picture.

The story: Richard Mostyn, a power in Wall Street, suffers a mental breakdown after completing a big deal. He leaves his partner, Saunders, to run the business while he takes a trip to the hills to recuperate. In the mountains Mostyn meets and woos Dolly Drake, a country school-m'am. He is recalled to the city on business, but promises to return for Dolly. Again in the power of the magnetic metropolis, Mostyn forgets Dolly, and his lust for money brings about his marriage to Irene Mitchell, whose father is a man of untold wealth. Five years of unhappiness go by and Mostyn's only joy is his son. Engrossed in his work of swinging big deals and accumulating wealth, he neglects his frivolous wife, who soon gains notoriety because of her escapades with another man. The child becomes ill and the mother leaves her husband. The child dies and Mostyn, broken in spirit and in mind, decides to give up his wealth-craving life. He makes amends for his many misdealings and returns to the hills. He realizes that Dolly had always loved Saunders, and leaves the two in happiness, while he goes forth to cleanse his soul.

"Amarilly of Clothesline Alley"

Artcraft-Paramount Picture Starring Mary Pickford. Released March 11. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

EXHIBITORS throughout the country have been decrying the fact that few really good pictures have been given to the public. Comes the sweetheart of the country, Mary Pickford, in a picture, which should fill the hearts of her legion of lovers with most profound happiness. If the greatly abused public does not take to this picture, then it really must be said that there is no hope for the film industry. "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley," by Belle K. Maniates and scenarioized by Frances Marion, is one of the best comedy-dramas we have seen in some time.

Mary Pickford realizes that the public has about tired of seeing her in pretty clothes, and has undertaken to portray the class of characters for which she is particularly suited. "Stella Maris" revealed her as a make-up artist undoubtedly unsurpassed. "Amarilly" lives up to the reputation and, it might be said, improves upon the star's work. These are the kind of pictures the public wants and they should be continued.

Amarilly is the only daughter, with five brothers, of a hard working Irish washer woman. In the course of her daily life, Amarilly meets with many adventures culminating in an affair in society. She realizes that her own home and its environments were made for her and that she was not meant for exclusive society. The story is unfolded in a very simple but appreciable manner. The many exceptionally humorous titles are an asset which could not be dispensed with, and the direction of Marshall Neilan should elicit much favorable comment. The photography, settings, and general staging are on a lavish scale, but fully in keeping with the story. Mary Pickford is Amarilly. That should suffice. Wm. Scott is Terry, her lover. Norman Kerry, Kate Price, and Ida Waterman have prominent roles.

The story: Amarilly lives in Clothesline Alley, in a typical tenement house of the lower class. She loves Terry McGowan, pride of the Alley and bartender in the saloon. When Amarilly loses her job as scrub-lady in the theatre she takes a position as cigarette girl in the saloon. In time she meets Gordon Phillips, a young society man of artistic temperament. A fight is started and Phillips is beaten. Amarilly takes him to her home and dresses his wounds. This excites the jealousy of Terry and a quarrel with Amarilly results. Amarilly gets work as scrub-lady in chief of Phillips' studio, and when scarlet fever breaks out in the Alley, Phillips is instrumental in having her placed in his aunt's home.

Out of work, but happy.

After the quarantine is lifted, the aunt pompously entertains Amarilly's mother. The meeting, being a mixture of the tenements and the palace, is productive of many humorous incidents. It proves to Amarilly that the Alley folks have no business mixing with society, and when Phillips proposes, she refuses. Terry, in the meantime, has been accidentally shot and is near death. Amarilly then appreciates the great love of the man and goes to him. Terry recovers and marries Amarilly, while Phillips finds his mate among his own set.

"Wanted—A Mother"

World Picture with Madge Evans. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

LITTLE MADGE EVANS is one of the few child actresses who is able to take hold of any role and make it a convincing and forceful part. Witness her work in the latest World picture. The story is the old one of a motherless child in search of happiness, because the father is too busy to give her the proper parental attention. It has been told in many ways, and with various twists and turns of the plot, but in this production, with Madge at the head of the cast, there is a new and more definable significance to the actions of the principals in the cast.

Then again, one cannot belittle the clever manipulation of the plot by director Harley Knoles. As is customary with many photoplays, there is a certain amount of padding necessary to fill out the full five reels. Here again the far-sightedness of the director stands him in good need, and just the right incidents are interpolated without disastrous effects to the main plot. Clear photography and well maintained observance of the general trend of the action help to solidify the foundation of a weakly constructed plot.

Madge Evans as Eileen Homer is all that could be desired. Her work is too well known to criticise minor deficiencies, and is fully up to her established precedent. George MacQuarrie, as Dr. Homer, is equally as acceptable in his part. Gerda Holmes is Thelma Winters, who in the end proves to be the mother advertised for. Lionel Belmore, Alec Francis and Tom Evans are included in the cast.

The story: Dr. Homer is too busy to give much time to his motherless daughter, Eileen. His mind is in his work at the hospital, where he is studying a new means of operation known as trephining. Guiseppe, a poor Italian laborer, brings his little boy to the hospital and Homer operates. The boy dies, and the grief-stricken father believes the doctor killed the boy. That night, Eileen walks in her sleep and is found by Guiseppe, roaming aimlessly around in his sorrow. The Italian takes the sleeping child to his humble home and decides to keep her in place of his dead son.

Next morning, Eileen awakes and finds herself in strange quarters. She cries for her breakfast and Guiseppe goes out to get some food for her, taking care to lock the door lest the girl make an attempt to escape. Eileen dresses herself in boy's clothes and climbs down the fire escape. She falls and is seriously injured. An ambulance takes her to the hospital where her frantic father, his nerves shattered by a strenuous search for her, decides an operation is necessary. Unable to perform the operation, he enlists the aid of Dr. Thelma Winters, a woman associate. The operation proves successful and the child finds in the woman the mother she wanted. Incidentally, Homer takes unto himself a second wife.

A new daddy for Eileen.

"American Buds"

Fox Film with Jane and Katherine Lee. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THE Fox trouble-makers, Jane and Katherine Lee, are again featured in a picture that should prove fully as acceptable as anything they have previously done. These talented youngsters are blessed with the powers to turn tense drama into the lightest of comedy, and in this picture especially, do they exhibit their singular accomplishments. In those communities which prefer the juvenile stars to the grown-ups, this picture ought to prove a good drawing card.

Kenean Buel wrote and directed the picture, and has furnished a military background and war-like atmosphere to provide the necessary intrigue and plot. As is customary, a spy plot is interpolated and through the efforts of the children, the spy is taken into custody. But an unusual conclusion is furnished that is both novel and entertaining. Throughout are titles which bubble over with innocent merriment; while some of them are undoubtedly beyond the reaches of the stars' vocabulary, they are injected with the probable intent of coinciding with the inimitable actions of Jane and Katherine.

Little Jane's daring must be commented upon. In one scene she is a witness to a balloon flight and manages to slip onto the field. When the balloon makes another ascension, Jane hangs on to one of the ballast bags and as the balloon rises into the air, the little devil holds on for dear life. The aviator performs a perilous task of rescuing Jane and then jumping and landing safely with the aid of a giant parachute. Once more on firm ground, little Jane begins to relate her experiences with an equanimity that is really astounding.

Albert Gran as Col. Harding; Regina Quinn as his daughter Cecille; Leslie Austin as Bob Dutton, and H. D. Southard as Capt. Duncan, provide that romantic and elder element with pleasing results.

The story: Jane and Katherine are orphans and are put into the orphan asylum. Jane's pranks get her in "dutch" with the matron, and to escape punishment the child takes refuge in the neighboring army cantonment. She is discovered by the colonel in charge, who takes a distinct liking to her. But Jane returns to the asylum and tells Sister Katherine of her experiences.

The post commander, Col. Harding, lives with his daughter, Cecille, and his spinster sister, Emily. Cecille loves Bob Dutton, a young officer, but the spinster prefers her niece to turn her affections to Capt. Duncan, secretly an enemy spy. Through a chain of circumstances, the spinster finds evidence that Jane and Katherine are Dutton's children. This naturally turns Cecille's heart from Bob, who takes the children into his home. In the course of a party given for the children, Duncan attempts to steal a report of great value to the country's experimental department. Jane discovers him at work and he is shot. Duncan reveals himself as the father of the children and Dutton is exonerated. Later, it is learned that Duncan's wife was a second daughter of Col. Harding who had married against her father's wishes. Jane and Katherine are taken into their new home and welcomed as Col. Harding's grandchildren.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Vitagraph Serial Episode 13, "Sands of Doom." Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

BESSIE BLAKE, who had plunged over a steep embankment on her horse in the closing scene of the last episode, is seen again as a captive of the outlaws in this episode. She is taken to a nearby cabin, the home of one of the men on the sheriff's posse. Blake is carried, unconscious, by the men to the same cabin. The outlaws threaten to kill the child if the mother reveals her presence. Blake is made captive and carried to a steep embankment. He is tied to a stake and dynamite is exploded near him. In the upheavel that follows the explosion, Blake is buried alive but manages to dig himself loose. He runs into a bed of quicksand and sinks to his neck, while the outlaws laugh in derision.

Dynamite again plays an important part in this episode, but with less disastrous effects than in the preceding chapters. A new form of torture is introduced and it remains to be seen how Blake escapes from the quicksand.

"Hungry Eyes"

Monroe Salisbury Stars in a Western Bluebird Drama. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

MONROE SALISBURY and Ruth Clifford are the leads in this picture, which is a western drama, similar in many respects to another Bluebird play sent out sometime ago, "The Desire of the Moth." That is, Salisbury plays the same sort of role, a southerner who comes west, bringing a cheerful disposition, a winning personality and a bad reputation.

The offering, except for the inappropriate title, is a pleasing one. The characters are attractive and interesting, and the story holds the interest and is beautifully photographed. There are some phases of it which do not seem very logical, but as a whole it will please the average photoplay audience. It is a clean, pretty picture, which gets away, in many respects, from the ordinary western drama.

Rupert Julian directed, and he also plays a clever character role in the story. Elliott J. Clawson wrote the story.

The story: Dale Revenal is the foreman of the ranch owned by Mary Jane Appleton's father. Mary Jane falls in love with him but because he has been convicted of horse-stealing, Dale believes he is not worthy of her and tells her he has a wife in Arizona. Mary Jane's father wishes her to marry the owner of the adjoining ranch, Jack Nelda, a man much older than Mary Jane and whom she almost dislikes. Nelda becomes angry with Dale and hires one of his men to kill him, but the plot is foiled, although Dale is wounded. John Silver, Dale's friend, arrives in time to show up Nelda's baseness and to clear up somewhat Dale's reputation. He also tells Mary Jane that Dale is not married and had believed himself unworthy of her love.

"Sunshine Nan"

Ann Pennington in Lasky-Paramount Picture. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THE diminutive Ann Pennington is again featured in a Paramount picture, this time appearing as the heroine of Alice Hegan Rice's "Calvary Alley," one of her most popular works. Miss Pennington may not be a wonderful actress but we like her in this part. It suits her personality and is the type she likes to portray. As the little "Alley Rat" who led the boys in their fights with the Calvary Choir boys, the little dancer gives an altogether comprehensible interpretation of her role.

Johnny Hines' conception of the vagabond, Dan Lewis, could not be greatly improved upon. And one thing that we are grateful for is this: John is usually a lover but does not always win the girl. He comes over with a vengeance in this picture and not only wins a bride, but starts on toward wealth and happiness.

Nan does not believe she is lucky when she is sent to the reformatory for instigating a fight between the alley vagabonds and the cathedral boys. But she emerges after her sentence a competent stenographer, and fills a responsible position in the office of the Clark Shoe Company. Her presence is instrumental in saving a newly discovered dye, concocted by Dan Lewis, her fiance, and when MacPherson Clark, son of the factory owner, attempts to take the secret as his own, Nan enters and spills his pot of beans. Dan gets his due reward and he and Nan proceed to clean up Calvary Alley to the best of their ability. And when Christmas rolls around, Nan wears a plain gold band on her finger, along with the sparkling jewel which had been the lone decoration.

Nan of the Alley and her friends.

The picture was directed by Charles Giblyn and his clever handling of the many complex situations elicit nought but favorable comment. The photography is clear-cut and effective. The alley scenes are entirely in keeping with the rest of the story and the general staging of the picture is all that could be desired.

Richard Barthelmess, who has jumped to the fore rather rapidly, is prominent in the supporting cast, being entrusted with the part of MacPherson Clark, ne'er-do-well son of the shoe manufacturer. He fits the part suitably and does some effective work. As before mentioned John Hines is Dan Lewis, and a better selection for the part could probably not have been found. Miss Pennington strengthens her movie reputation as Nan Molloy. She has a charming personality and uses it to good effect throughout. Helen Tracy and Charles Eldridge complete the cast of principals.

"Empty Pockets"

Brenon-First National Production with Bert Lytell. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

RUPERT HUGHES' popular novel of New York life is visualized on the screen by the master director, Herbert Brenon. "Empty Pockets" is classed as a mystery and the vein of doubt is maintained throughout as only could be done by so capable a hand as Brenon's. There is no reason to believe that this feature could prove anything but a good drawing attraction.

A quartette of copper-haired beauties are the central figures of the story, and around them is woven a net, which in short time has them all within its grasp. A wisp of copper-colored hair had been found clutched in the hand of a murdered man. The four women had played prominent parts in the career of the dead man; each one had substantial cause for avending herself upon this despoiler of her happiness. It is this which provides the intrigue of the story, and the disclosure of the guilty one comes unexpectedly shocking.

The master mind and hand of Herbert Brenon have taken the plot, and so manoeuvered as to bring out every minor detail of the case to a point of easy recognition. There is but one slip-up and that a minor one. It is not clearly emphasized that the Pasinsky girl was to be deported. Later in the story a sub-title informs us that the President had granted Muriel Schuyler's request to cancel the order of deportation. This one error, while slight, is detectible; a sub-title could very simply have made this point clear.

Then again, to offset what few slip-ups have been made, we are again admiring the pleasing personality of Bert Lytell, the far-famed "Lone Wolf." Lytell is seen as Dr. Worthing, a young surgeon attached to one of the prominent hospitals. There is no need to say that his is an altogether acceptable performance. That is taken for granted. Barbara Castleton is an attractive Muriel Schuyler and registers well. Peggy Betts gets in some good moments as Pet Bettany. Ketty Galantha and Susan Willa as Maryla and Red Ida, respectively, do good work in their parts. Malcolm Williams is exceptionally pleasing as the debonair Perry Merrithew. Others in the cast include Ben Graham, Germaine Bourville, Master Cyril Brenon, Henry Leone, and G. A. Rush. George E. Hall prepared the scenario and J. Roy Hunt and Charles Ritchie may be held responsible for the photography, which by the way, is effective.

The story: Perry Merrithew, millionaire man-about-town, is found dead on the roof of an east side tenement. Dr. Worthing, called on the case, finds a strand of hair in the man's hand. Hallard, despatched from police headquarters, manages to obtain a sample of the hair. A queerly shaped hatpin furnishes another clue. We are now taken back for a period of about two years, to show events leading up to the present crisis.

Muriel Schuyler, returning from a motor trip, is riding through the crowded tenement district; her car runs down Happy Brannigan, a little cripple. An ambulance rolls up in charge of Dr. Worthing. Happy is taken to his home and given adequate medical attention. Muriel invites Worthing to her home. Later, Muriel is instrumental in securing a position for Maryla Sokalski, a sweatshop worker, and also in saving Maryla's cousin from being deported. From here on runs a chain of circumstances which culminate in the death of Merrithew. Muriel, Maryla, Pet Bettany, a society parasite, and Red Ida, a cabaret singer, all are brought under suspicion. All four women had at some time previous been familiar with Merrithew. Muriel, now in love with Worthing, tells him that she had killed Merrithew. Detective Mallard had, however, arrested Maryla, who later is released after a coroner's investigation had proven that Merrithew had died from apoplexy and had not been killed.

"The Hard Rock Breed"

Triangle Picture Starring Margery Wilson. Released March 10. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

ONE of those pictures, which is betwixt and between being an acceptable feature, is this recent Triangle release, with Margery Wilson in the principal role. Lovers of stories, which have for their main action, struggles between men of great physical strength, should delight in this picture. It is one filled with action but with the love theme a secondary consideration. The men, rough and ready, and toilers of the earth, dominate the entire production. The female of the species have only two representatives, they being the leading lady and another, who portrays a boarding house owner. The two women seem entirely out of place among all the men, but they must be in evidence. It certainly would be strange to witness a production without a single female in it; it may come to pass.

A good scrap while it lasted.

As a whole the picture should please. It is the time-worn story of the well-bred and wealthy city youth who undertakes the management of a construction camp. In the course of his work, he acquires both friends and enemies, and finally works his way into the good favor of the men. Of course, he wins the girl in the case and every thing ends in the usual way.

Being a tale of the great outdoors, it is essential that suitable exteriors be chosen. A great quarrie furnishes the nesessary atmosphere in this case, and proves to be both an acceptable, and at the same time an educational choice. There are many scenes showing rock drilling and blasting. The types chosen for the rock workers are exceptionally well suitable and add to the interest of the picture. Margery Wilson plays Sheila Dolan and is assisted by what might be termed an all-star cast. Prominent among others are Barney Sherry, Jack Curtis, Jack Livingston, and Lee Phelps.

The story: Donald Naughton is sent by his father to take charge of a construction gang. The younger Naughton has been brought up amid wealth and luxury, and considers the laboring class hoboes. He is cured of this after getting into several quarrels with men of the gang, and is accepted as one of the "boys." Don meets Sheila Dolan, daughter of the boss of one of the many gangs, but she spurns him on learning his tendencies. Carney, formerly an employe, plans trouble for Don and invokes the aid of anarchists, who resort to dynamiting as revenge. The plot is frustrated. Dolan gets drunk and to save him from imbibing more liquor, Don beats him up and takes him home. Sheila despises Don more than ever for this, but in the end she realizes the goodness in Don, and accepts him when he proposes.

"The Girl and the Judge"

Olive Tell in Empire-Mutual Star Production of March 17. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

OLIVE TELL and David Powell do much to keep this picture up to standard. The production is satisfactory, and though the story is not as good as some others of the Empire Mutual series, it will hold the attention of the average audience. The theme is kleptomania, the mother of the heroine being addicted to stealing. This serves to bring about misunderstandings between the girl and the hero, who is a judge. There is a slight flavor of mystery in the plot, which adds to the interest, and there is a surprise ending.

As a whole, the picture is satisfactory but not remarkable. It is a good average program feature, with attractive players and pretty settings.

The story: Winifred Stanton is saddened by the estrangement between her parents, which she cannot understand. Later, she learns that her mother is a kleptomaniac. At the same time, her father fails in business and the family go to a small town to live. There Winifred meets George Chartris, the young judge.

Winifred's mother continues to steal whenever she has a chance, and her father leaves the family and goes to another town. Mrs. Chartris and George call on Winifred and her mother, and afterwards Mrs. Stanton pawns a pin which Winifred believes she stole from Mrs. Chartris. The pin is discovered in the pawn-shop and Winifred, to shield her mother, says that she, herself, stole it. The case is tried before Judge Chartris, who does not believe in Winifred's guilt. Then Mrs. Stanton's housekeeper makes a confession which clears both the girl and her mother of blame, and everything is straightened out happily.

"A Pair of Sixes"

Taylor Holmes in George K. Spoor Ultra Feature, Kleine Release. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS adaptation of Edward Peple's stage success is one of the cleverest screen comedy-dramas ever made. It is delightful from the first scene to the last. It is bright and humorous, clean, thoroughly enjoyable. To say that it is the best picture Taylor Holmes has appeared in will tell, perhaps, all that is necessary, for he had set a high standard in his previous plays, and they have proved generally enjoyable.

It is hard to imagine an audience which can fail to like this feature. It is one of those rare offerings which will delight a high-class, fastidious clientele, a theatreful of patrons who just want a hilarious comedy, and all the grades in between, including the youngsters. For they will like this picture, as well as the grown-ups, and there is nothing in its fun that the most careful parent can intelligently object to.

L. C. Windom, the director, deserves a good share of the credit for the picture. And Taylor Holmes, as T. Boggs Johns, is at his very best in a role which gives him plenty of opportunity as a comedian and character actor. The rest of the cast is a group of thoroughly capable, well chosen players, including Robert Conness, as the other of the quarreling partners, Alice Mann, who as Boggs' sweetheart, fits her part well; Edna Phillips Holmes, attractive as the sympathetic wife of Boggs' partner, and Maude Eburne, who as Coddles adds much to the fun of the situations and will win a triumph of her own wherever the picture is shown. Then there are Cecil Owen, C. E. Ashley, John Cossar, Byron Aldenn, Virginia Bowker, and little Tommy Carey, all up to standard. The photography and settings are good. The action is even, the plot cleverly presented.

The story: T. Boggs Johns and Nettleton, proprietors of The Digestive Pill Mfg. Co., become so quarrelsome that they finally agree to a unique method of solving the trouble.

They will play a hand of poker. The loser shall become the servant to the winner for the period of one year and the winner shall have full control of the business for the same period. If either member of the agreement reveals the circumstances of the pact he shall pay a fine of $5,000.

The hand is played and Boggs loses, and is delegated to serve as butler in the Nettleton home. Boggs attempts to take his luck lightly but Coddles, a house maid, makes life more unendurable. She becomes hysterically fond of Boggs and dogs his foot-steps wherever he goes.

Florence, Boggs' sweetheart, comes to the Nettleton home as a guest. She tries without luck to learn what has brought about the change in Boggs' social status. Boggs cannot tell on a penalty of $5,000. And the same hazards are faced by the Nettletons.

Vanderholt, an attorney and close friend of the two men, is also in love with Florence and asks her to marry him. But she tells him that she could not think of marrying him with the cloud of Boggs' mystery overshadowing her happiness. Vanderholt tells her the story, not neglecting to add that he drew up the contract himself. Whereupon the girl denounces him as a brute and declares she never will marry him.

Florence goes to Boggs who is just on the point of telling her all when she informs him that she knows. They plan revenge on Nettleton and for a way out of the situation, Boggs begins his campaign by arousing the jealousy of Nettleton, arranging intimate tableaux with his wife so that the husband may see them. Then he sprinkles perfume on Nettleton's shoulder and arouses the wife's suspicion. Marital sublimity is in a sorry muddle when Nettleton, suspicious, seeks to dissolve the pact and get Boggs out of the house. But Boggs says he wants to renew the agreement. Then Nettleton determines to make Boggs the loser, financially, but Florence steps in and declares that the pact was not binding as it was based on a game of poker, which is illegal.

"The Curse of Iku"

Tsuru Aoki in Essanay Oriental Melodrama, Kleine Release. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS picture is decidedly out of the ordinary. It is a melodrama, a bit gruesome in part but very interesting and exciting. Most of its scenes are laid in Japan, first the Japan of fifty years ago, then of the present time. Tsuru Aoki, who is the wife of the well-known Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa, is the featured player. She has not a large part, as far as the number of scenes is concerned, but her work is so stamped with artistic merit that she dominates the picture.

As the young girl, she is dainty and attractive, and her acting and her make-up in the later scenes, as the old woman, are nothing less than wonderful. She proves herself an artist to the finger tips, and this characterization alone entitles her to a place in the foremost ranks of real actresses.

Frank Borzage has a prominent role, and several Japanese actors do good work. The settings give the proper Japanese illusion. The photography and tinting is especially good. The play is about seven reels in length. As a whole it is a very interesting, well produced picture.

The story: In the prologue to the present-day story, events fifty years ago are shown. No foreigners, except Dutch sailors, were allowed in Japan, but when Allan Carroll, a ship-wrecked American, is washed ashore, he is protected by a kind-hearted prince, a rival of Prince Iku. Iku discovers this and endeavors to entrap the foreigner into an affair with his sister, O Mio San. This sister has been married to a Dutch sailor, but she loves Carroll. Iku has Carroll and his benefactor sentenced to death, but Carroll escapes by killing Iku.

Fifty years later, the grandson of Prince Iku arrives in America to learn western customs and is a servant in the home of Allen Carroll, Third. Remembering the fate of his grandfather, Iku hates Carroll. He falls in love with the girl Carroll is to marry and kidnaps her and takes her to Japan. Carroll learns of the plot and follows, but is unable to find the girl until he meets O Mio San, now a very old woman. She sees in him a resemblance to the man she had loved and aids him in his search. He rescues the girl and kills Iku. O Mio San is also slain in the struggle.

"Beauty in Chains"

Ella Hall Starred in Mexican Story, Universal Special. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS is a Mexican story, with pretty and unusual settings. Ella Hall, Ruby Lafayette, who will be remembered in the title role of the Bluebird success "Mother o' Mine," and Emory Johnson, have the leading roles, supported by such well-known Universalites as Winter Hall, Harry Holden, George McDaniel and Gretchen Lederer. The acting is good, but the story is far from being clear, which is the chief defect of the offering. Just why, with good material, good players, pretty settings, such a poorly constructed, amateurist production was turned out, is hard to understand. It will have to depend for its entertainment value upon the popularity of the leading players and the beauty of its settings and photography, but it might have been a really charming story, with different handling.

The young people had been betrothed since childhood.

The story: Donna Perfecta (Ruby Lafayette) is a wealthy old woman, beloved by the inhabitants of the little town of Orbajosa. She guarded closely her granddaughter, Rosarita (Ella Hall), who had been betrothed since childhood to Pepe Rey, a young man she had never seen since she grew up. Jacinto, son of Donna Perfecta's friend and legal advisor, loved Rosarita, but when Pepe Rey came to claim the girl, she fell in love with him and was willing to marry him. The young man, however, offends Donna Perfecta by a slighting remark about her town, and she becomes his enemy and tries to break up the love affair. She puts numberless obstacles in the course of true love, and favors Jacinto, but in the end her malice is revealed and Rosarita elopes with the man she loves.

"The Sea Panther"

Triangle Picture Starring William Desmond. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

YE lovers of pirate stories have a treat in store for ye. The bold, bad man, of the western plain, is a tame person in comparison to the buccaneers who roamed the seas in the seventeenth century. The picture is one out of the usual run of drama and should prove a pleasing attraction.

The duel.

The chivalry of bygone days; the plundering of galleons; the many duels provoked by the mere mentioning of a woman's name, in a manner which chafed the sensitiveness of the gentleman; the pomp and grandeur of the buccaneers who knew no fear; all are brought back and in a manner so interesting, that the picture is a delightful relief from the many modern problem plays we are seeing. Also another established precedent is wrecked. We have accustomed ourselves to seeing the final iris-out, with the hero and heroine embracing each other, as token of the necessary happy ending. But in this there is a definite non-observance of the regulation ending. The hero is rescued by the heroine and escapes from his floating prison. In the eyes of the girl there is a look of sincere devotion, while the man is thankful that he was able to escape the gallows. This may not meet with the approval of many people, but it is an innovation to be greatly appreciated because of its different character.

William Desmond makes a dashing and handsome Paul le Marsan, the pirate. Pretty Mary Warren is bewitching as Molly Tarpley, and although she has nothing much to do but let William be chivalrous in her presence, she does that very nicely. Jack Richardson is Will Kip, the pirate chief's lieutenant, and works in his usually capable manner. Arthur Millet, Lillian Langdon, and Lee Mill complete the cast of principals. The direction is consistent and the general atmosphere of piratical days is maintained throughout. The costumes are excellently and appropriately selected, and while costume plays do not usually please, this one should.

The story deals with the adventures of Paul le Marsan, a notorious buccaneer known as the Sea Panther, who possessed not only daring but chivalry.

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

"The Crucible of Life" A Strong Story

Highly Melodramatic, but with Beautiful Romance of War, Feature Is Expected to Be Big Success

PERSONS who have seen "The Crucible of Life" predict that the feature will be a big box-office success. The picture is a seven-part melodrama of society and the war, featuring Grace Darmond. It was produced for the Authors Film Company by Capt. Harry Lambart and is being distributed by General Enterprises, Inc. The story follows:

Following a sad matrimonial experience with James Marigold, Gladys Dale, an orphan, obtains a position as the companion of Diana, daughter of Mrs. Dorset, prominent society woman. At the Dorset country home her natural refinement and charm quickly win for her a permanent affection. Robert, ne'er-do-well son of Mrs. Dorset, makes advances to the girl, but she repulses him with a keen contempt.

A younger brother of Gladys' employer, Edwin Fairfax, arrives with his motherless child, Virgie, for a visit. A strong friendship springs up between Fairfax and Gladys, rapidly developing into love. Sometime later he receives a commission in the Army and decides to leave Virgie in the care of his sweetheart.

The reckless young Robert has become acquainted with Fritz von Hoffbert, leader of a band of society thieves and secretly in the employ of the German government as a spy. Playing upon Robert's weakness of character and his usual lack of funds, von Hoffbert implicates the boy in several robberies. His mother at last cuts him off from any further allowance and in desperation he steals her necklace, casting suspicion on Gladys.

Through a curious coincidence, she learns that the son has robbed his own mother, but to spare Mrs. Dorset the blow, leaves for New York under the suspicion of having taken the gems.

She enlists as a Red Cross nurse and at her personal request is placed with the first contingent to cross to France. On her arrival, Gladys finds herself assigned to the same command of which Fairfax is an officer, but of this fact they are both unaware. Due to the raid of a German aeroplane, which attacks one of the hospital tents, Gladys is seriously wounded and carried to one of the dressing stations in the rear.

Meanwhile von Hoffbert is summoned to Europe to promote his notorious calling and in his role as German spy becomes a member of the company commanded by Fairfax. The young officer, suspicious of von Hoffbert, watches him closely, finally detecting him in the act of signalling the German trenches. There follows an exciting chase and thrilling hand to hand fight in which Fairfax overpowers von Hoffbert, but is seriously wounded.

By a coincidence he is carried to the same base hospital in which lies Gladys. A happy reunion is the natural result. Back in New York, the ne'er-do-well Robert has been caught while robbing the home of a society woman and in the confession which follows Gladys is cleared of the suspicion of having stolen the necklace.

Mrs. Dorset immediately dispatches a letter to France begging that Fairfax return as soon as his wound heals and bring Gladys with him. The sweethearts are granted a furlough and both return to America, where they are married.

Niles Welch, who is being co-starred by Harry McRae Webster in "Reclaimed," an American-Mexican drama which will be released on a state rights basis immediately upon its completion.

Gets Right to Pathes

NEW ENGLAND rights to the two Pathe pictures, "Today," featuring Florence Reed, and "The Mad Lover," in which Robert Warwick and Elaine Hammerstein are starred, have been bought by Herman Rifkin of the Eastern Feature Film Company of Boston. The deal was made through the Arrow Film Corporation.

Mr. Rifkin in a talk about conditions said exhibitors were becoming tired of program pictures and were rapidly discovering that the independent field offered them better opportunities.

"We in New England want good stories," he added; "wholesome stories with a punch to them. If the producer will turn out good stuff and not ask too large a share of the profits that is all we can ask of him. But when the producer boosts his prices sky high it hurts business all down the line."

Magnet Gets More Films

The Magnet Film Exchange, which recently acquired the New York rights to W. H. Productions Company's feature, William S. Hart as "The Two-Gun Man" in "The Bargain," also has obtained the rights to William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher" and "The Hell Hound of Alaska" and the twenty-eight Mack Sennett Keystone Comedies.

World Rights to Pyramid Comedies Sold

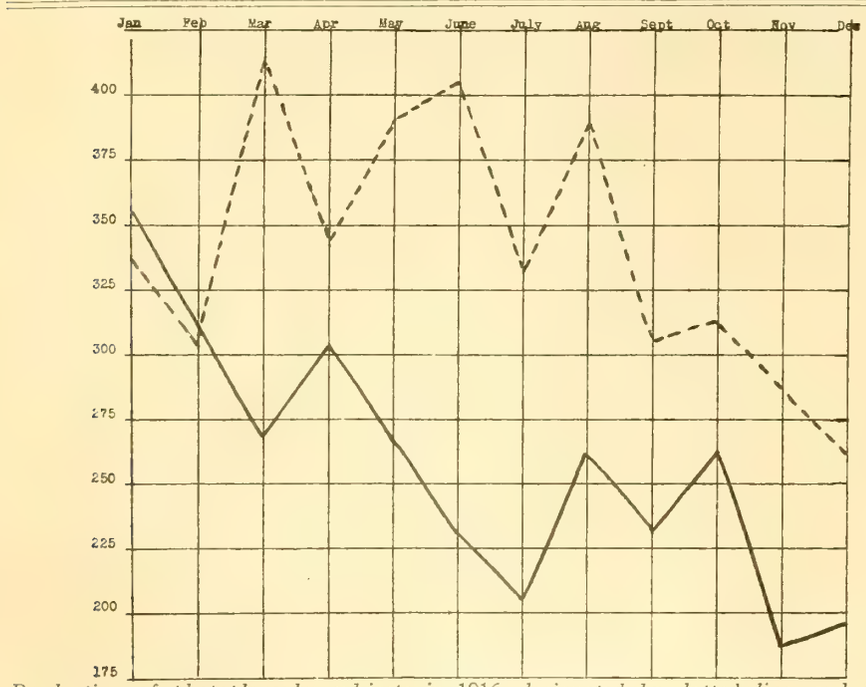
Anglo Film Agencies, Ltd., of London Gets Entire Output for Foreign Countries for Next Five Years

ACCORDING to an announcement from President Arthur M. Werner of the Pyramid Comedies, Inc., world rights for Pyramid Comedies have been purchased by the Anglo Film Agencies, Ltd., of London, through its American representative, John Wild, who has offices at 347 Fifth avenue, New York. The contract extends for a period of five years and covers the entire output of twenty-four pictures a year.

"The circumstances leading to the closing of this contract have been the source of considerable gratification to myself and associates," says Mr. Warner, "for it has confirmed our ideas in regard to the production of these pictures, which led to the organization of the company and shaped our policy.

"In view of war conditions we believed that light comedy, with snap and life and lots of pretty girls would be an appropriate offering and we entered into a contract with Ray Hughes, a well known comedian on the vaudeville stage, to play the leading parts.

"Four pictures had been completed when negotiations were opened with the Angle Film Agencies, Ltd., for the rights to England, and mutually satisfactory terms were agreed upon. These pictures were exhibited in London theatres and proved so popular that a cable was sent to Mr. Wild to endeavor to obtain the world's rights, exclusive of the United States and Canada.



"The disposition of all foreign rights has an important bearing on our future production, of course, which will be carried out on a pretentious scale. We have not yet settled our method of distribution in the United States and Canada, as we have been considering tentative propositions submitted, but we will probably dispose of the output here on the basis of territorial franchises.

"We have leased a studio in Yonkers, where the fifth picture is now being made, entitled 'The Masked Ball.' The titles of the first four subjects are 'Beach Birds,' 'Beauties and Bombs,' 'In and Out' and 'Love and Lunch.' In all of the subjects Ray Hughes is featured in eccentric comedy, under the direction of William A. Seiter, who will continue in charge of the production work.

"The fact that these pictures can go to England, unheralded, and immediately gain popularity has demonstrated to us that they should meet with equal approval, at least, in the United States. Despite the rapid action and the eccentric type of Mr. Hughes' work, each story carries a sustained plot throughout. All subjects are in two reels.

"We have the scenarios all ready for production of the next ten pictures and are in the market for stories to follow. They must be clean and devoid of suggestiveness."

A special industrial picture is being produced at the Rothacker studios under the direction of C. P. Tobin. The picture has to do with office efficiency and will be in one reel.

Production of photoplays by subjects in 1916, designated by dotted line, and in 1917 designated by continuous line. Chart prepared by National Board of Review.

Film "The Sunset Princess"

Marjorie Daw, late of Lasky, Fox and recently leading lady for Douglas Fairbanks, is to star in a photoplay now being prepared for release to be known as "The Sunset Princess."

The picture will be offered on the state rights plan late in March. It is an adaptation of Wallace Coburn's story, "Yellowstone Pete's Only Daughter" as published in his "Rhymes of a Round-up Camp."

It was filmed in the Rocky Mountains and on the Circle C. Ranch in Montana, and is said to contain some beautiful settings and backgrounds. "Tricks," a wild horse and pride of the Circle C. Ranch is listed as one of the "principals."

The picture is being edited and titled by Tom Bret, whose work in "Lest We Forget" has won him a wide reputation.

The world rights were recently purchased by the Big Productions Film Corporation, whose executive offices are at 220 West Forty-second street, New York.

Picture Makes a Hit

Something unprecedented in the history of motion pictures was achieved last week by the Selexart production, "Carmen of the Klondike," which is being offered by the State-Rights Distributors, Inc.

When it was shown to the trade, it was booked by the Strand theatre of New York for its first run. However, so great was its success that it was shown an entire week at the Strand and the last three days of the week at Loew's New York theatre.

The Strand and the New York are two of the biggest picture houses on Broadway.

Bid for Rights on "Zongar"

The New York office of Physical Culture Photo Plays is a busy place between negotiations for "Zongar" state rights and preparations for a new series of Bernarr MacFadden's Screen Magazine dealing with outdoor sports and athletic events.

John E. Dunne of the Grandun Film Corporation, Boston, has made an offer for the New England rights of "Zongar" which is being seriously considered. Active bidders for the Eastern New York and New Jersey territory are Kramer & Lewis of New York.

Song Dedicated to Star

Daniels & Wilson, Inc., music publishers, are putting out a composition entitled "Mickey," dedicated to Mabel Normand. The song is based on the Mack Sennett photoplay, "Mickey," which will be released shortly.

Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO GET THE BEST RESULTS TOLD IN DETAIL

Projection "Makes" or "Breaks" Picture

Motography Expert Emphasizes This in Answering Question About Difference in Speed of Two Machines

By J. Wesley Smith

QUITE often I wonder if exhibitors realize how important the projection of a picture is. This question came to me again while I was writing the answer to a question about the use of two machines. The question was this:

"I am using one 1917 Motiograph and one 1916 Simplex and while the motor on each is marked 1750 R. P. M., I cannot get the desired speed out of the Simplex and have to make up all the time on the Motiograph. Can you tell me if there is any way to increase the speed of the Simplex and still get as good a picture as from the Motiograph?"

And here is the ansyer that I wrote:

"From the description of the trouble you are having it is evident that the fibre disc is not engaging between the two steel discs in such a way as to eliminate slipping. Tighten the tension springs on the two discs, also tighten your belt, wiping the entire mechanism free from oil. After you have done this, run a reel on the Motiograph, carefully noting the time it takes to run through the machine, and then run it on the Simplex.

"If it is impossible to make both machines run evenly, slow down your Motiograph to the speed of the Simplex, as otherwise you cannot give the patrons of the house a good projection, and practically the future of the entire industry depends upon the proper projection of a picture.

"What is the use of a producer spending thousands of dollars to make a fine picture and then having it projected poorly? You certainly cannot give a good picture by running one machine fast and the other one slow. I will add further that you must not expect as much from a friction device as from a direct belt drive, even though it is highly recommended for many kinds of work."

I am not singling this case out for my criticism. It merely brought the facts to mind.

I cannot state too strongly that the art will gain its greatest impetus through good projection.

Other questions and answers will be found below:

Q.—I am using a Powers 6A motor drive projector and do not get the results from it I did when it was new, which is only eight months ago. When I tighten the springs that hold the disc on the small leather pulley, the noise can be heard all over the house, and when I loosen it the disc does not turn enough to run the machine. In looking it over, I found that there are wooden bearings used. Is this correct? I cannot understand why they should use wood for such an important bushing.

A.—Your trouble is evidently due to the leather pulley being worn unevenly or in other words, flat places worn on it, caused, no doubt, by permitting your motor to run, and stopping the machine by operating the lever only. In regard to the wooden bushings, will say that the manufacturers of the machine use this type of bushing because it gives the best results. If you will write to the manufacturers, the Nicholas Powers Company, 90 Gold street, New York City, they will be able to give you all the information about the wooden bearings you want.

Q.—I have not had a great deal of experience in this business and am using a 1915 Simplex. An operator was telling me that there is a special bushing I can buy for my machine to prevent bending the intermittent sprocket shaft. I have done this several times and believed it was done simply by closing the gate too hard or by heavy patches passing between the sprocket and tension shoes. Can you help me or tell me the manufacturer of such a special bushing.

A.—Although the special bushing you mention would no doubt better conditions a great deal, I believe the operator to whom you were speaking gave you a "bum lead," believing that you would see the value of it without figuring the impossibility of making the sprocket shaft more substantial than it is now. However, it will pay you to write to the manufacturers, the Precision Machine Company, 319 East Thirty-fourth street, New York.

A big laugh in the new Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, "Sheriff Nell's Tusstle."

Notes of the Industry In General

BRIEF NEWS OF NEW YORK IN PARTICULAR

MORE than a thousand men, well known in the theatre, the moving picture world and in other activities, gathered in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York, at a dinner organized by a committee of his friends, as a tribute to William Fox. The achievements of Mr. Fox which were celebrated were his contributions to the motion picture industry and his success in the recent drive to get new members for the Federation of Jewish Philanthropic societies. Mr. Fox was "Colonel" of the team which enrolled the greatest number.

A gold tablet was presented to Mr. Fox by Justice Victor J. Dowling, a picture of which appears on another page.

* * *

Julius Stern, President of the L-KO Komedy Kompany, has just returned to New York after a stay of six months at the West Coast studios. Mr. Stern's return has brought to light a radical change in the policy of his company, insofar as the type of comedies which are to be released in the future are concerned. The new L-KO releases will feature girls—lots of them—rather than just one or two players. A questionaire sent out to representative exhibitors is said to be responsible for the change. The first of these comedies will be "Cooks and Crooks."

* * *

Max Linder, the famous French comedian who was compelled to terminate his Essanay contract on account of a physical breakdown after only three of his scheduled twelve productions were made, has so recovered his health that he will return to the United States in April or May, and surrounded by a capable comedy company will make a new series of pictures, which probably will be written for him by Tom Bret. T. E. Letendre, New York, is Linder's American representative.

* * *

Work has just been completed upon the offices of the First National Exchange, Inc., 509 Fifth avenue, New York, and the entire force from R. H. Clark, treasurer, and Carey Wilson, manager, down to the assistant office boy, are now located in permanent quarters, where the product of the First National can be handled to the best advantage. Wilson's staff includes H. Kram, I. Hanover, David Rosengarten and Ben Levine.

* * *

The beautiful new exchange building erected by World Pictures to house its Boston branch was dedicated the other day. Carlyle Blackwell, World star, was present along with the leading executives from the home office. Blackwell was met at the station by a delegation of fans and exhibitors, who presented him with a big floral offering. He was escorted to the building by the orchestra of the Park theatre and at the exchange held an informal reception.

* * *

Louis Burstein, President of the King-Bee Films Corporation, will stop off at Washington on his way back to Hollywood to apply for a patent on a new device he has invented on an automobile hood. Previous to entering the film industry, Mr. Burstein was in the automobile business and is considered an authority on motor mechanism.

* * *

Nora Bayes, star of the Cohan Review, and one of the best known comediennes on the stage, has arranged with Ed. Rosenbaum, Jr., New York, to handle her film business. Mr. Rosenbaum says Miss Bayes has one of the most original stories ever written ready to "shoot" as soon as he has closed with a producer.

* * *

Edward Dillon, who directed Madge Kennedy in Goldwyn's "Our Little Wife," started his second production, "The Danger Game," with the same star,

A new Paramount triumvirate—Allan Lorimore, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in Australia, and four newly appointed executive directors, all of whom have been added as a result of rapidly growing business. Mr. Lorimore appears in the center. The others are C. H. Gilbert and William R. Hoggan, at top, and F. W. Wynne-Jones and D. Lotherington, at bottom.

hoping to excel himself, when he slipped on an icy pavement and broke his ankle. Unable to waive the demand for more Madge Kennedy plays, Goldwyn entrusted the production to another director, Harry Pollard, and the play is to be released on time.

* * *

Nat H. Spitzer, sales manager of the King-Bee Billy West comedies, announces that last Sunday seventy-eight prints of the King-Bee comedies were played in Greater New York.

A re-adjustment has just been made of the territory served by Select's Boston and New York exchanges. Hereafter the western Connecticut territory, embracing the district lying west of the Connecticut River, will be served from the New York exchange.

* * *

Chandos Brenon, brother of Herbert Brenon, paid a hurried visit to New York last week, where he consulted with the committee of the Producers & Exhibitors Affiliated, submitting a proposition for marketing productions in Canada on the same plan that the Producers & Exhibitors Affiliated are working on in the United States. Herbert Brenon is now on his way to England to make his next picture.

* * *

Select Pictures Corporation has appointed H. G. Till manager of its newly established New Orleans branch. Mr. Till, who is one of the youngest managers in the business, has had one of the most remarkable rises in the industry. As late as 1910, Till was still a college undergraduate in Louisville.

* * *

There are rumors that a merger of several Canadian exchange companies will shortly be completed. If the deal goes through there will be three large film renting companies in the Dominion, Regal Films, Ltd., Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., and the new combination.

* * *

Rupert Julian, long identified with Bluebird and Universal productions, made his bow as an independent producer at the Broadway Theatre, New York, recently, where his seven-reel production, "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," opened for an indefinite run.

* * *

Mrs. Maravene Thompson, the famous novelist, has shelved work on a stage play to write a production for World Pictures featuring Madge Evans and Johnny Hines.

* * *

Joseph Van Meter has been appointed manager of the Diando Film Corporation plant at Glendale, succeeding Norman Manning, who has been placed with Louis Gasnier as west coast representative.

* * *

Johnny Hines, the clever young comedian who made such a hit with Marie Dressler in "Tillie Wakes Up," has signed a long term contract with World Pictures and will shortly be co-starred in a new production with Madge Evans.

* * *

Lewis J. Selznick has resumed his series of short trips to cities in which exchanges are maintained by the Select Pictures Corporation, of which he is president.

"Woman and the Law" having been completed, R. A. Walsh, who wrote and staged the production for William Fox, has gone away for a rest, the Fox Corporation announces.

* * *

Manager Edel of the Strand theatre, New York, has made arrangements to entertain twenty-five visiting French sailors at the Wednesday matinee every week.

* * *

W. E. Greene has resigned as publicity manager of Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

* * *

H. E. Stonge has resigned as manager of the new Oakwood theatre in Toronto, Canada.

Testimonial given to William Fox by friends recently at a banquet in the Hotel Astor, New York.

Vitagraph Will Produce "The Girl in His House"

The next Blue Ribbon feature for Earle Williams and Grace Darmond will be "The Girl in His House," from the story by Harold McGrath, acording to an announcement by Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph.

Mr. Williams and Miss Darmond are now engaged on the Pacific coast in the production of "Sealed Lips."

"The Girl in His House" ran in the Ladies' Home Journal as a serial and is known to thousands of readers as one of the most delightful stories which have come from the pen of MacGrath. It is now in the hands of Mr. MacGrath's publishers and will be issued in book form about June 1.

Moss to Build New Theatre

Permission has been granted by the New York building department to B. S. Moss, head of the Moss Theatrical Enterprises, to erect a playhouse at Broadway and One Hundred and Eighty-first street.

The erection of a theatre in that locality has been in litigation for about two years. In August, 1916, the so-called building zone regulation was passed which prohibited the erection of theatres in residential locations unless special permission was obtained. On two occasions the Moss interests sought permission, but without success. Finally plans were submitted which satisfied the property owners and met with the approval of the board.

Latest News of Chicago

OF INTEREST TO ALL THE TRADE

F. C. QUIMBY, sales manager of Pathe, is spending several days in Chicago in connection with a tour of the Middle West. Mr. Quimbey is optimistic over the future. He says that already business has picked up, and that exhibitors in the cities he visited have done more business in the last thirty days than in any like period for a year.

Increased business, Mr. Quimby believes, is the result of restored confidence of the public. With the first shock of the war over, the people again are seeking diversion, he says, and are flocking back to the theatres rapidly. Mr. Quimby thinks the slump last winter was due entirely to a lack of public confidence, the war having drugged them into gloom. He thus takes issue with those who have blamed the slump to lack of exhibitor confidence and poor showman methods.

He declares that the United States has experienced exactly the same transformation as Canada, citing conditions in Canada in the first year or two of the war and conditions at present, Canada now being the greatest exhibition field of its size in the world. A banner year is in store for exhibitors, Mr. Quimby predicts.

The Pathe sales manager hinted at some big things in his own organization, among them a deal involving the expenditure of more than $1,000,000.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Fox Films Corporation has won the right to exhibit "The Spy" after litigation with the city for several months. "The Spy" was cut by Major M. L. C. Funkhauser, the censor, on account of torture scenes. Judges Baker, Evans and Kohlsaat, of the United States District Court of Appeals, have ruled, however, that the censor has no authority in this regard. As a result "The Spy" can be shown in its original form.

✣ ✣ ✣

W. H. Jenner, for the last four years manager of the George Kleine exchange, has left to take control of the William Fox office. He takes with him the same genial smile which made the Kleine offices so popular with the trade.

Mr. Jenner says his policy will be efficiency and fair dealing, as always. He is willing to go more than half way to rectify mistakes, he declares. His long service with one exchange, a record in this rapidly shifting business, has proved the value of his methods. He is particularly well able to see the exhibitor's side of the question, because he himself was an exhibitor for five years, managing several successful Chicago theatres.

He knows conditions under which pictures must be shown, therefore, from actual experience, and is able not only to sell a theatre man a production, but to give him valuable advice about advertising and playing it.

Mr. Jenner's friends all wish him good luck.

✣ ✣ ✣

David G. Rodgers, organizer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, is spending a week in Chicago. He has just completed a trip through Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Washington, Oregon, California and Texas, which consumed several months. He says there has been an improvement in business since January, but the trade is not in nearly the flourishing condition it should be, with the exception of cities close to army camps. At these points, Mr. Rodgers says, the theatre owners are coining money. For instance, in San Antonio they are standing 'em up every night. Mr. Rodgers will have a conference with President Lee A. Ochs when Mr. Ochs arrives in connection with the organization of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., of which he is the head.

W. H. Jenner, who has resigned as manager of the local Kleine office to become Chicago manager for William Fox.

✣ ✣ ✣

Giles P. Cory, head of a brokerage firm of the same name, pleaded guilty to violation of the Illinois Blue Sky law in connection with financing the Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation, and was fined $1,000 in the Municipal Court presided over by Judge Hosea Wells. The statute provides that brokers cannot deal in unlisted stocks unless they are approved by the secretary of state. Cory contended that the stock was listed, but rather than go through a long court fight, decided to plead guilty and pay the fine.

✣ ✣ ✣

The United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., has opened a branch office at 1306 Consumers' Building, where members are rapidly being enrolled. C. S. Bunn, formerly manager of Pathe's Chicago office, is in charge. Under him are S. C. Bestar, T. G. Meyers and Milton Simon. Mr. Bestar and Mr. Meyers come from the Pathe office and Mr. Simon comes from Fox. The new office will take care of the northern half of Illinois. Mr. Bunn says exhibitors are welcome at all times, no matter whether they come to transact business or to visit.

✣ ✣ ✣

Carl Devall, who has charge of the music at the Palace theatre in Racine, Wis., has written a song called "Come Back, Little Bluebird," inspired by Maeterlinck's famous play, "The Bluebird," which has just been produced for Artcraft release under the direction of Maurice Tourneur. Announcement of the song was made by W. L. Hill, who has charge of publicity at the local Paramount office. Mr. Devall has a reputation as an artist, having toured the country as a concert violinist.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The House of Hate," the new Pathe serial, has attracted $2,000 more business in advance bookings than any previous Pathe serial, it is announced by Manager Proctor of the local exchange. Myer Marks, of the firm of Marks & Goodman, owner of the Orpheus, the Marshfield and the Illington theatres, says of this picture: "I can only guarantee my profits for one day each week, the day on which I run a Pathe serial, but at least they are assured for one day each week for fifteen weeks." Marks & Goodman have booked the serial in all four of their theatres.

Newly installed officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Illinois. Top row, William E. Heaney, vice president; William Rohe, sergeant at arms; Fred W. Hartman, treasurer; William J. Sweeney, secretary. Center, Robert R. Levy, executive committee; Joseph Hopp, president; William D. Burford, executive committee. Bottom row, Alfred Hamburger, John Frundt, John Bobeng and Harry C. Miller, executive committee.

* * *

Harry C. Miller, owner of the Boston, Alcazar and Rose theatres, loop houses, has purchased the LeGrand at 5214 North Clark street, which has been closed for some time, and reopened it with strong programs and vaudeville. The LeGrand has 700 seats.

* * *

The Hoyburn Theatre of Evanston, through Sam Atkinson, manager, has signed a contract with Ben Beadell, assistant manager, and Julius Alcock, North Side representative of the local Select exchange, whereby he will show Select pictures for a year. There has been a spirited fight among the local exchanges to obtain the Hoyburn contract and the Select office is elated as a result of turning the deal.

* * *

The Dandy Theatre, 813 West Taylor street, played "The Warrior" for two days in February and has rebooked it for three in March. The Dandy is in an Italian neighborhood, and the work of Maciste, the giant Italian star, consequently was a big drawing card.

* * *

Rita Jolivet, star in the Metro production, "Lest We Forget," visited Chicago last week to appear in person in connection with the showing of the feature. On her first day here she went to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in company with C. E. Smith, manager of the local exchange, and following the exhibition of the film, addressed the sailors. She received a warm welcome. On another day she appeared in Alfred Hamburger's Michigan avenue house, the Ziegfeld, at a matinee and evening performance.

* * *

E. C. Jensen, Western divisional manager of World Pictures, visited the local office en route to New York. Mr. Jensen's headquarters are in San Francisco.

* * *

Carl Pierce, special representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is in Chicago this week, with an advance print of "The Blue Bird," which is being shown to exhibitors and reviewers.

PATENT FOR SALE—The only moving picture machine suited for farm homes—endorsed by big producers—$5,000. Address MHS, Motography

Complete Record of Current Films

BROUGHT UP TO DATE EACH WEEK

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D	12 Episodes	1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D	The Tracking of Stingaree	2,000
D	Arrayed with the Enemy	2,000
D	An Eye for an Eye	2,000
D	A Double Deception	2,000
D	A Model Marauder	2,000
D	The Mark of Stingaree	2,000
D	An Order of the Court	2,000
D	At the Sign of the Kangaroo	2,000
D	Through Fire and Water	2,000
D	A Bushranger's Stategy	2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D	The Detective's Danger	1,000
D	The Railroad Smugglers	1,000
D	The Deserted Engine	1,000

Broadway Star Features

D	School and Schools (O. Henry Series)	2,000
D	A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series)	2,000
D	The Rathskeller and the Rose (O. Henry Series)	2,000
C-D	By Injunction (O. Henry Series)	2,000
D	The Song and the Sergeant (O. Henry Series)	2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C	Work	2,000
C	A Woman	2,000
C	The Tramp	2,000
C	His New Job	2,000

Essanay Comedies

C	Check Your Hat, Sir	1,000
C	Wild Algy of Picadilly	1,000
C	All Stuck Up	1,000
C	The Lie That Failed	1,000
C	The Jazbo Sheriff	1,000
C	The Snakeville Fire Brigade	1,000
C	Snakeville's Sleuth	1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce.	A Romance of Rails and Power	1,000
	Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly	1,000

George Ade Fables

C	The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land	2,000
C	The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks	2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D	The Mystery of Room 422	1,000
D	A Deal in Bonds	1,000
D	The Sign of the Scarf	1,000
D	The Man With the Limp	1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C	Out and In (Finn & Haddie)	1,000
C	The Inspector's Wife	1,000
C	In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)	1,000
C	Anybody's Money	1,000
C	Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie	1,000
C	Marooned	1,000
C	Sherman Was Right	1,000
C	What Will Happen Next	1,000
C	Which Was Lucky	1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D	Thief or Angel	2,000
C-D	The Accusing Toe	2,000
C-D	Rebellion	2,000
C-D	A Boy-Built City	2,000
C-D	I'm a Man	2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D	The Marvelous Maciste	6,000
D	Camille	6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc.	Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly	1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C	His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby)	1,000
C	Wedding Bells and Lunatics	1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C	On the Love Line	1,000
C	The Detective	1,000
C	Smashing the Plot	1,000
C	After the Matinee	1,000
C	Double Cross	1,000
C	The Best of a Bad Bargain	1,000

Three C Comedies

C	A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)	1,000
C	Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)	1,000
C	A Hash House Romance	1,000
C	The Hod Carrier's Million	1,000

Mutual Program

Sunday

T	3-17 Screen Telegram	1,000

Tuesday

C	3-19 His Quaker Girl (Billie Rhodes)	1,000

Wednesday

T	3-20 Screen Telegram	1,000

Universal Program

12-15	Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)	5,000
12-24	Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey)	5,000
12-31	The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson)	5,000
1-7	The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely)	5,000
1-14	Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard)	5,000
1-21	Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)	5,000
1-28	The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey)	5,000
2-4	Painted Lips (Louise Lovely)	5,000
2-11	New Love for Old (Ella Hall)	5,000
2-16	Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58	1,000

State Rights Productions

	American War News (Serial Weekly) ....Cinema
	Are Passions Inherited?..Warner Bros.	7,000
	Alma, Where Do You Live?.... ....Newfields Producing Co.	6,000
	A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray).... .... Friedman	5,000
	Balloonatics .....Century Comedies
	Below Zero .....Wharton	2,000
	Birth Control..Moss B. S. M. P. Corp.	6,000
	Bit o' Heaven	5,000
	Beware of Strangers.....Selig Special	7,000
	Birth .....Eugenics Film	6,000
	Christie Comedies.... .....Christie Film Co.
	Christus.....Historic Features
	Come Through...Universal Film Co.	7,000
	Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
	Cross-Eyed Submarine.... .....Universal Film Mfg.
	Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co.	3,000
	Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)	5,000
	Eagle's Wing .....Bluebird	5,000
	Even as You and I.... .....Universal Film Co.
	Eyes of the World....Clune Film Co.	10,000
	Fairy and the Waif.... .....Educational Film Co.	5,000
	Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co.	6,000
	Flora Finch Comedies.... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
	Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
	Girl Who Didn't Think.... .....Creative Film Corp.	6,000
	Flora Finch Comedies.... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
	Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
	Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
	Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
	Ivan the Terrible.... .....Export and Import Film Co.	6,000
	Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co.	6,000
	Girl Who Doesn't Know.... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp.	5,000
	Glory.....Unity Sales Corp.	7,000
	God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
	God's Man .....Frohman Amusement Corp.	9,000
	Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co.	8,000
	Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc.	8,000
	Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).... .....Frank Hall
	Civilization .....Harper	9,000
	Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith	9,000
	Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal	11,000
	Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
	Mother O' Mine..Bluebird Photoplays	5,000
	Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn.... .....Ultra Film Co.
	Seven Cardinal Virtues.... .....M. H. Hoffman	5,000
	Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman...	7,000
	Slackers Heart, A.... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
	Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
	S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co.
	Span of Life.....Joseph F. Lee	5,000
	Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp	12,000
	Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp.	5,000
	Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
	Terry Human Interest Reel.... .....A. Kay Co.
	Thirteenth Labor of Hercules.... .....Cinema Distributing Co.	12,000
	Three Musketeers, The.... .....Liberty Film Corp.	7,000
	Trip Through China, A.... .....Supreme Feature Films	10,000
	Trooper 44.... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp.	5,000
	20,000 Feats Under the Sea.... .....A. Kay Co.
	Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Universal Film Co.
	The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow	7,000
	The Barrier.....Rex Beach	9,000
	The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter	2,000
	The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema	7,000
	Enlighten Thy Daughter.... .....Enlightenment Corporation	7,000
	The Woman and the Beast...Graphic	5,000
	The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall	9,000
	The Honor System.... .....Honor System Booking	10,000
	The Whip.....Paragon Films	8,000
	The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special	8,000
	The Garden of Allah....Selig Special	10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life,Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

2-24 Six-Shooter Andy (Tom Mix). 5,000
3-3 The Girl with the Champagne Eyes (Jewel Carmen)..... 5,000
3-10 The Debt of Honor (Peggy Hyland) 5,000
3-17 Woman and the Law..... 7,000
3-17 The Devil's Wheel (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

2-24 The Beloved Traitor (Mae Marsh) 6,000
3-10 The Floor Below (Com-Dram). 6,000
3-24 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000
4-7 The Danger Game (Madge Kennedy) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

Jester Comedies

Feb. The Recruit (Twede Dan)..... 1,000
Mar. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) 1,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West).. 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-18 A Weaver of Dreams (Viola Dana) 5,000
2-18 After Henry (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
3-4 The Shell Game (Emmy Wehlen) 5,000
3-4 Before and After Taking (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-11 The Brass Check (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne) 5,000
3-11 His Strength of Mind (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000
3-18 The Claim (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
3-18 Special Today (Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

2-25 The Midnight Trail (Wm. Russell) 5,000
3-4 Powers That Prey (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000
3-11 Ann's Finish (Margarita Fischer) 5,000
3-18 The Girl and the Judge (Olive Tell) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

1-15 His Robe of Honor (Henry B. Walthall) 7,000
2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

1-1 Madam Who? (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15 2,000
2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Beban) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

2-20 Hearst Pathe News, No. 16... 1,000
2-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 17... 1,000
2-24 The Naulahka (Antonio Moreno) 6,000
2-24 The Hidden Hand, No. 14... .....Pathe 2,000
2-24 The Price of Folly, No. 6..... .....Balboa 2,000
2-24 Argus Pictorial, No. 8...Argus 1,000
2-24 A One Night Stand..... .....Rolin Comedy 2,000
2-24 Beat It (Harold Lloyd)..Rolin 1,000
2-24 Around Central Auvergne (France) 500
2-24 Clermont-Ferrand (France).... 500
2-24 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon). 500
2-24 Appleblossom Land (Educ.)... 500
2-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 18... 1,000
3-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 19... 1,000
3-3 Daddy's Girl (Comedy, Drew) .....Diando 5,000
3-3 The Hidden Hand, No. 15 "The Girl of the Prophecy" (Drama) .....Pathe 2,000
3-3 The Price of Folly, No. 7 "The Rebound" (Drama)...Balboa 2,000
3-3 The Gasoline Wedding (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-3 Our National Parks—Yellowstone Park—The Geysers (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-3 Buxton (Derbyshire, England) Col. (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-6 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-9 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-10 The Great Adventure (C-D).. .....Pathe 5,000
3-10 The House of Hate, No. 1, "The Hooded Terror" (Drama) 3,000
3-10 The Price of Folly, No. 8, "Shifting Sands" (Drama).. 2,000
3-10 Look Pleasant Please (Com.). .....Rolin 1,000
3-10 Our National Parks—Rainier Park—Mesa Verda Park (Travel) .....Pathe 1,000
3-10 Katzenjammer Kids — Spirits (Cartoon) 500
3-10 Jackie's Clothes (Educ.)..... 500
3-13 Hearst Pathe News, No. 22... 1,000
3-16 Hearst Pathe News, No. 23... 1,000
3-17 The Beggar Woman (Russian Art Films).....Drama 5,000
3-17 The House of Hate, No. 2, "The Tiger's Eye" .....Drama 2,000
3-17 Fare, Please (Comedy)....Rolin 2,000
3-17 Here Come the Girls (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-17 Picturesque France—The Cauterets (Colored) .....Travel 500
3-17 Children's Dances (Colored) .....Educational 500
3-20 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 24.... 1,000
3-23 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 25.... 1,000

Select Pictures Corporation

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady)..... 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway).... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

2-17 From Two to Six (Winifred Allen) 5,000
2-17 Their Undercover Capers..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 Keith of the Border (Roy Stuart) 5,000
2-17 A Full Dress Fizzle..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-17 His Double Life..... .....Keystone Comedy 1,000
2-24 Little Red Decides..... .....Triangle Players 5,000
2-24 A Coward's Courage..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Soul in Trust (Belle Bennett) 5,000
2-24 His Nimble Twist..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Tell Tale Shirt..... 2,000
3-3 Heiress for a Day (Olive Thomas) 5,000
3-3 A Discord in a Flat..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) 5,000
3-3 His Hidden Shame..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 A Lady Killer's Doom..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-10 The Hard Rock Breed..... ..... Margery Wilson 5,000
3-10 Wives and Worries..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-10 The Sea Panther (Wm. Desmond) 5,000
3-10 Did She Do Wrong?..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-17 Faith Endurin' (Roy Stuart)... 5,000
3-17 A Social Shock Absorber..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 The Answer (Alma Rubens)... 7,000
3-17 Caught With the Goods..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 Mud .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

2-25 Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers (Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman) 5,000
2-25 Rooms and Rumors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
2-25 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 10 2,000
2-25 Stenographer Troubles (Clara Kimball Young) 1,000
3-4 An Officer and a Gentleman (Clara Kimball Young).Com. 1,000
3-4 Jumping Jacks and Jailbirds.... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 The Desired Woman (Harry Morey) 5,000
3-11 Meddlers and Moonshiners..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 12 2,000
3-11 Their First Quarrel (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-4 Unlucky Louis (Sydney Drew). 1,000
3-18 An American Live Wire (Earl Williams) 5,000
3-18 Tramps and Traitors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 13 2,000
3-18 A Telegraphic Tangle (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall..... .....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

GEORGE K. SPOOR presents

TAYLOR HOLMES

in

"A Pair of Sixes"

This is the greatest picture in which the famous comedian, Taylor Holmes, has appeared. He is supported by an all star cast, including Maude Eburne and Alice Mann. Critics call it the best farce comedy ever screened. It's a SHOW.

Arrange your booking dates now

Essanay

Distributed by

George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

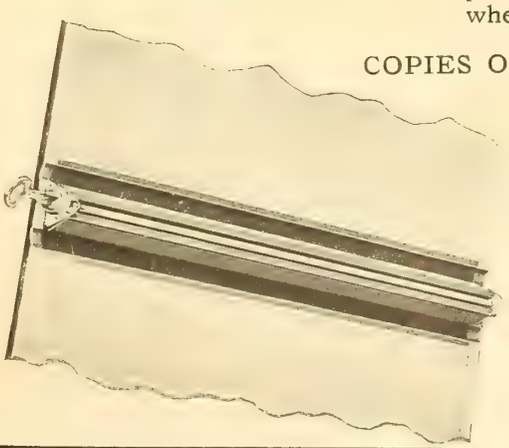
EXHIBITORS

OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference

By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.



Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT - DURABLE - ATTRACTIVE - INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

CLOSED

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

BILLIE BURKE
Star in Paramount Pictures

MAR 25 18

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 30, 1918 No. 13

Goldwyn Pictures

PICTURE a beautiful, daring and courageous woman defending a helpless husband as a tigress defends her cub.

Depict her facing poverty for the man she loves and spurning jewels, untold luxuries and power in the world's capitals from the hands of a man she despises.

When you have conceived in your own mind a thrilling emotional drama that sends a woman to her death for the protection of her honor, you still will not have guessed half of the second remarkable story that Goldwyn again offers you with

Mary Garden

in The SPLENDID SINNER

by Kate Jordan — Directed by Edwin Carewe.

As we have told you: It is greater than "Thais" which broke box-office records all over the nation. It is heroic, wonderful, thrilling with few parallels for production beauties. It goes to all Goldwyn contract customers at their regular rental—a remarkable special production at no advance in prices. Released everywhere March 24.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President

16 East 42*nd* Street New York City

TRIANGLE

Think It Over

Have you heard the latest scheme for the salvation of exhibitors? There seems to be a new plan announced every day.

Various producers are coming forward with some new form of "camouflage" and are endeavoring to show exhibitors that their particular plan is the only one that will save the day and enable exhibitors to make money. But the funny part of it all is that these producers have only recently become wise to a situation which has existed for some time and which was bound to become critical sooner or later.

Triangle decided nearly a year ago that the production and distribution of motion pictures must be made a real business—must be run on business principles, straightforward and clean; that economies must be practised and that exhibitors must be given the utmost consideration.

Here are a few of the things that Triangle HAS done for exhibitors:

1—Cut the cost of producing pictures by placing its studios on a scientifically operated basis—no hundred thousand dollar stars—no money wasted or time lost. No possible combination of studios would enable Triangle to make quality pictures at lower costs than at present.

2—Paid the reel tax without transferring it to exhibitors.

3—Reduced the cost of service to exhibitors for high quality pictures. Triangle exhibitors need not spend money for memberships in any association in order to procure a square deal.

4—Co-operated with exhibitors by only charging them rental prices which would assure them of profits—reducing the cost of service and in some instances giving free service. Free service is nothing new with Triangle.

Think it over! Is there any company that has done more for exhibitors in the last year than Triangle? Do you realize that by using Triangle pictures you help to enlarge the co-operative service of an organization which has led the way in reducing the cost of pictures to exhibitors and in establishing the policy of an absolute fair and square deal every time?

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH, President — R. W. LYNCH, Vice-President — FRED KENT, Treasurer — Y. F. FREEMAN, General Manager

One of the principal scenes in the new Fox picture, "The Kid Is Clever," starring George Walsh.

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 30, 1918 No. 13

Essanay Takes Far-Reaching Step

QUITS PROGRAM FIELD FOR SPECIAL PRODUCTIONS

THE beginning of a new era in production, an era made necessary to meet the problems of new conditions and to remedy the evils of over-production and inferior pictures, is foreshadowed in an announcement this week by George K. Spoor of the future plans of the Essanay company, of which he is the president.

Mr. Spoor states that the Essanay studios will no longer follow a program of feature releases, which means that a picture must be finished by a certain date. Instead of turning out a required number of features, which must reach the market, whether they are good or bad, Essanay will endeavor to make a picture that is good entertainment, whether the time needed is one month or three.

In other words, the value of the production is to be the goal, not the filling of a program date, and not the featuring of a star.

War a Factor in Change

According to Mr. Spoor, the present stage of the industry's transition, as well as the abnormal conditions due to the war have made it necessary that pictures contain unusual entertainment value. There is no longer a place for "just a picture."

In order to make photodramas of the standard required to rise above the average, Mr. Spoor believes that they must be produced more on the line of theatrical productions. That is, the manufacturer must seek first a story of exceptional merit, then find the best players, not necessarily stars, but first-class actors, for the various roles.

Spoor Outlines Plan

"Essanay now is working on this plan," says Mr. Spoor. It has obtained the rights to several large productions and is now preparing them for release in the near future. The company will not attempt to adhere to a strict release date for program houses, except in its shorter subjects. Its features will be released from time to time as completed.

"I believe that under this system Essanay will be enabled to produce still greater pictures, giving the most careful attention to detail required by a finished production. The company now is preparing to make additions to its staff to carry out this plan, which has been laid out for months ahead."

The new system of production is one which will be watched with interest. It is a step forward in the "better picture" campaign and toward the goal of fewer and more entertaining pictures, and therefore longer runs.

The money and the time which would be expended in producing two or more inferior plays can better be devoted, according to Mr. Spoor, to the making of one really fine picture which an exhibitor will handle in a showman-like manner and which people will talk about and send their friends to see.

Plan Lessens Waste

There are several elements of the new plan which exhibitors will commend. Not the least is the fashion in which waste will be lessened. If a company makes one good picture which draws and entertains as many people as two poor ones, there is a saving of raw stock as well as a saving in producers' efforts, advertising, etc.

Mr. Spoor's idea that the story is to be the first consideration, that it must be one worthy of the best efforts of its producers, as a legitimate play is, and his plan to engage players especially suited for each role, also promise good results. Many good stories have been spoiled by faulty casting and therefore poor acting because the producer must use the people already on the pay roll of the company. And likewise, some very good acting has been wasted on inferior stories.

Unlimited Time a Factor

The unlimited time allowed and the freedom from program restrictions are other factors which aid in the production of worth-while entertainments.

That conditions have influenced the Essanay Company to seek this solution of its problems is noteworthy. Essanay has for many years supplied program features regularly. Its president knows the picture business almost from its start.

That he feels that the time has come when pictures are worthy the dignity of a production similar to stage offerings is significant. Instead of declining, he believes the business is worthy of still greater efforts, but he believes that the day of the ordinary picture is past. Only the thoughtfully selected, carefully produced picture is worth handling, he has found.

Whether other companies will follow Essanay's example of course remains to be seen. But the working out of the Essanay plan is certain to be watched with interest by all in the picture world. It marks a new phase in the progress of production.

New York Fight Is Begun in Earnest

BILL FOR SUNDAY SHOWS NOW BEFORE LEGISLATURE

WITH the introduction of the Motion Picture Option bill in the New York legislature, the fight for Sunday shows in the Empire state has begun in earnest.

Frederick H. Elliott, secretary of the New York State Allied Motion Picture Committee, which organization has charge of the campaign, is in Albany with a delegation to pave the way for favorable consideration.

Good Prospect for Success

Mr. Elliott reports the prospects for enactment of the measure to be good. He and his colleagues have talked with many members of both houses and already overcome much opposition.

Among those with him are Sidney Cohen, New York, president of the state association of exhibitors; Rudolph Sanders, Brooklyn; Samuel Berman, Brooklyn; Henry Cole, Bronx; J. Robert Rubin, New York; Louis L. Levine, Brooklyn; Charles O'Reilly and John Mannheimer, New York.

Plan Mapped Out in Gotham

The arrival of the exhibitor delegation was preceded by a meeting at New York the latter part of last week, when plans were discussed in detail. Arrangements were made for the establishment of fifty-one units of the organization, which is the same number as the senatorial districts of the state, and the assigning of a prominent exhibitor of each district to visit his senator and lay the arguments of the committee before him.

This exhibitor in turn was empowered to select three additional exhibitors from his district to meet the assemblyman and perform a like office for the committee.

Leading Exhibitors Present

Among the exhibitors present were William Brandt, Brooklyn; Benjamin Appel, Troy; Louis Levine, Brooklyn; John Whittman, Bronx; Henry Cole, Bronx; Louis Buettner, Cohoes; John L. Mynderse, Schenectady; Rudolph Sanders, Brooklyn; George Roberts, Albany; Frank Shay, Schenectady; M. S. Silverman, Schenectady; Frank N. Barhydt, Troy; Walter Powers, Albany; Charles McCarthy, Hoosick Falls; F. Frayne, Schenectady; Allen Beckett, Saratoga Springs; John Mannheimer, New York; John J. Walker, Schenectady; Sidney Cohen, New York; G. E. Manserch, Schenectady; S. Suckno, Albany; Charles O'Reilly, New York; S. J. Berman, Brooklyn; W. A. Zeiser, Schenectady; W. H. Gray, Schenectady; William Fait, Jr., Utica; W. H. Linton, Little Falls, and Frederick H. Elliott, Albany.

Brooklyn Backs Bill

The Associated Civic Associations of Brooklyn have placed themselves on record as most heartily favoring Sunday shows, endorsing and upholding the bill.

The endorsement was voted at a meeting that was one of the most enthusiastic ever held by the organization. Three hundred members were present. The action is particularly significant, since it expresses the public opinion of Brooklyn.

Resolution Is Adopted

The endorsement was contained in the following resolution:

"Whereas:

"We, the Associated Civic Associations of Brooklyn, composed of fifty civic tax payers' organizations, representing over 100,000 taxpayers, consider the motion picture theatres an important and necessary part of our civic and home life,

"Therefore, be it resolved:

"That the Associated Civic Associations of Brooklyn go on record most heartily in favor of motion picture shows on Sunday and endorse and uphold any proposed bill to the legislature of the state of New York to effectuate same; and

"Be it further resolved:

"That Louis L. Levine and Dr. Edward J. Megarr be appointed a committee of two to represent this association in furtherance of this resolution."

Leaders in Organization

Andrew D. Baird, president of the Williamsburgh Savings Bank, is honorary president of the Associated Civic Associations, Herbert L. Carpenter is president; L. V. B. Cameron is first vice-president; John D. Rosenbrock is second vice-president; Dr. E. J. Megarr is third vice-president; Philip S. Clarke is treasurer; John B. Fickling is financial secretary and Arthur Hoffman is recording secretary.

The affiliated associations are the Taxpayers' Protective Association of Brooklyn, the Fulton Street Board of Trade, the East Brooklyn Citizens' Association, Bedford and Hill Taxpayers' Association, Utica Heights Board of Trade, Bedford and Park Avenue Board of Trade, Classon Avenue Sewer Assessment Protest Association, Brevoort Taxpayers' Association, Union Street Improvement Association, Atlantic Avenue and Brooklyn Improvement Association, Twenty-fourth Ward Board of Trade, the Sterling Protective Association, United Property Owners' Association, Bedford Heights Board of Trade, Fulton Street Protective League, Central Citizens' League, Washington Avenue Association, Nineteenth Ward Improvement Association, Franklin Board of Trade, Gravesend Beach Board of Trade, and others.

Max Linder, noted French comedian, who is about to return to the United States to appear in pictures again.

Sylvia Breamer, who has been cast as leading lady by J. Stuart Blackton in his next production for Paramount release, "Missing."

Vitagraph Now Twenty-One Years Old

OFFICIALS CELEBRATE BY SCREENING "OVER THE TOP"

VITAGRAPH is now at the voting age, St. Patrick's Day marking the twenty-first anniversary of the company's birth.

The beginning actually dates from a time more than twenty years ago, but the actual formation of the company dates from St. Patrick's Day, 1897, when Albert E. Smith, president of the company since its origin, and J. Stuart Blackton started it under the name of the American Vitagraph Company.

The history of Vitagraph is largely the history of the motion picture industry, for the organization has never lost its place in the front rank of producers.

Screen "Over the Top"

To celebrate its anniversary President Smith and other officials gathered at the studio in Brooklyn for the first private screening of "Over the Top," the big patriotic picture in which Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey appears as the star and which is deemed by the Vitagraph officials the greatest feature ever made.

St. Patrick's Day has had a peculiar relation to the history and development of the Vitagraph Company, for many of the company's forward steps have occurred on that day.

St. Patrick's Day Record

A search of the company's records reveals some very interesting facts in this connection, as witness:

1896—Albert E. Smith perfected his setting device for keeping motion pictures in frame, this being one of the most important inventions in the history of the screen and one that helped to popularize them, thus laying the foundation for their present strong position.

1897—Original Vitagraph company formed, with Albert E. Smith as president and J. Stuart Blackton as vice-president and secretary.

1898—Company reincorporated as the American Vitagraph Company of America, with William T. Rock, as an equal partner of the founders and commercial production of motion pictures inaugurated.

1904—European branches of the company opened in Paris, London, St. Petersburg and other cities.

1905—Studios opened in California. First 1,000 foot subject produced.

1908—Company's output increased to 3,000 negative feet weekly.

1909—Completed the first five-reel picture made in America,—"The Life of Moses."

1918—Celebrated twenty-first anniversary by screening "Over the Top."

Albert E. Smith and J. Stuart Blackton are considered by many as the real pioneers of the firm industry in America. They were two of the first to use Thomas A. Edison's original projection machines, they were the first to find the cure for the flickering film and they were the first to make picture production a dignified commercial enterprise.

The pictures made by the Vitagraph company of actual fighting in Cuba during the Spanish-American war; of the Galveston flood, of Roosevelt's inauguration, of Admiral Dewey's reception upon his return from Manilla Bay, of the Jeffries-Sharkey fight and of many other subjects served to attract the attention of the press and public to them in such striking manner that the prestige created in those long-ago days continues as the keystone of the business today.

Officers Had Many Roles

The enterprises of Mr. Smith and his associates in the early days, when they appeared as actors, cameramen, developers, exhibitors and everything else connected with their business, would make a story in itself, for their courage and determination in the face of great obstacles kept the motion business from perishing in its infancy.

One of the striking features in the life of Vitagraph is the fact that its product has ever been clean—free from suggestiveness. Of the thousands of pictures produced by the company, there never has been brought against it the charge of overstepping the bounds of propriety, and this Mr. Smith regards as one of the finest memories of his business career. Mr. Smith has been a stickler for clean stories and never has permitted any other kind to be produced.

Has Made Many Stars

Another monument in Vitagraph's collection for which the entire industry is indebted is the training of screen stars. More men and women now famous in the art of screen acting received their start at the Vitagraph studio than any other company in existence, it is claimed, among these being Anita Stewart, Clara Kimball Young, Edith Storey, Norma and Constance Talmadge, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Earle Williams, Harry Morey and the late John Bunny.

To tell the complete story of Vitagraph and its part in the making of the film industry would require a volume, but on the occasion of its anniversary it is fit that the trade should be reminded of the great debt that is due the company and its founders.

Mme. Markova Leaves Fox

Mme. Sonia Markova, who made "The Painted Madonna" and "A Heart's Revenge" has retired as a William Fox star.

One of the thrilling moments in the Vitagraph picturization of Sgt. Arthur Guy Empey's book, "Over the Top."

"What The Picture Did For Me"

VERDICTS ON FILMS IN LANGUAGE OF EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. Every criticism received is published and the words are the exhibitor's own. If the picture you wish to know about is not included in the following list, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form herewith, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D., Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

Headin' South, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"A sure money-getter. Douglas performs some great stunts in this, but the local censor board cut it somewhat, I'm sorry to say."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Stella Maris, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A very good picture, Mary's best. Exceptionally good business, and everyone was satisfied."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

Seven Keys to Baldpate, with George M. Cohan (Artcraft)—"A good picture to poor business. Neither star nor story was known here."—J. R. Baxter, Jr., Lyceum Theatre, Spring City, Utah.

Down to Earth, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"A good picture but not as good as A Modern Musketeer or Wild and Woolly. Always good business with Fairbanks."—J. R. Baxter, Jr., Lyceum Theatre, Spring City, Utah.

Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Best Pickford picture yet. Did good business."—John T. Cliff, Elite Theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A wonderful picture. Star, directing and all details perfect. Let us have more like it. Business big."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Blue Blazes Rawden, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg.,Chicago.

—"An excellent production and big business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Silent Man, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Drew well and some called it his best so far."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Reaching for the Moon, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Poorest picture Doug. was ever in. Not very good business."—John T. Cliff, Elite Theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Star well liked. Played to capacity business for two days."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Bluebird

Mother O' Mine, with Ruby Lafayette (Bluebird)—"I put this on as a Sunday offering. A heart interest story that brought tears and laughter. Play it and you will make good."—S. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

Mother O' Mine, with Ruby Lafavette (Bluebird)—"One of those 100 per cent pictures. You cannot boost it too strong."—Mrs. Flo B. Grubbs, Mystic Theatre, Harrison, Ohio.

Treason, with Lois Wilson (Bluebird)—"Fine. Patrons well pleased. Prints in good condition. Bluebird always pleases here."—C. F. Nolte, Wonderland Theatre, Buckeye, O.

Southern Justice, with Myrtle Gonzales (Bluebird)—"Very good. Prints were a little poor. One reel had no title or leader."—C. F. Nolte, Wonderland Theatre, Buckeye, O.

Fox

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A great picture. Pleased everyone. The reels were in fine condition."—Martin and Robertson, Gem Theatre, Grant City, Mo.

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A remarkable picture. All patrons were pleased."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A wonderful picture. Farnum is still our biggest drawing card. Great business."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

When a Man Sees Red, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A very good money-getter."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Honor System, with Milton Sills (Fox)—"This has everything that makes a big picture."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Painted Madonna, with Sonia Markova (Fox)—"Star drew well for a first appearance in town. We look for capacity houses on her next appearance."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Painted Madonna, with Sonia Markova (Fox)—"A new star in an average play. Star is not known here and my people didn't seem to like her."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Pride of New York, with George Walsh (Fox)—"Great. This pleased well. Walsh is well liked here."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

This is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"Best Walsh picture we've had so far. Business great. Walsh always draws a big crowd."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The House of Terrible Scandals (Fox comedy)—"Kept them laughing all the time. It's great."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Kingdom of Love, with Jewel Carmen (Fox)—"Small crowd but those who saw it said it was great."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

A Bath-house Tangle (Fox comedy)—"Poor. Not as good as the last one."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Cupid's Round-up, with Tom Mix (Fox)—"My people went wild about this picture and say give us some more just like it."—John T. Cliff, Elite Theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

Shadows of Her Pest (Fox comedy)—"A good two-reel comedy with many laughs. Up to the standard of the Fox comedies."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

General

The Defeat of the City (O. Henry story)—"A delightful O. Henry story that brought applause at the finish. We want more real pictures like this. Went big here. Personally I was delighted with it."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

Blind Man's Holiday (O. Henry story)—"A clean, wholesome play that appeals to the better class of patrons. There are in four reels and excell many five-reelers."—B. C. Brown, Viroqua, Wis.

Goldwyn

The Manx-man (Goldwyn)—"Packed houses for two nights in opposition to a free entertainment."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Goldwyn pictures always draw packed houses for me. Film in good condition."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Spreading Dawn, with Jane Cowl (Goldwyn)—"A fine picture. Plenty of action."—Mrs. Flo B. Grubbs, Mystic Theatre, Harrison, Ohio.

Polly of the Circus, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Nothing but praise were the comments as people left the show. Played at advanced prices."—Mrs. Flo B Grubbs, Mystic Theatre, Harrison, Ohio.

Kleine

Men of the Desert, with Jack Gardner (Essanay)—"A tip-top western picture. Surely pleased. Kleine service is always good."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

Sadie Goes To Heaven, with Mary McAlister (Essanay)—"The star is the greatest child actress today. All her features are immense."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Dream Doll, (Essanay-Perfection)—"Not much to it. Pleased the kids. Business fair."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Metro

Daybreak, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"A picture that went over fine. This star never fails to register at all points."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Slacker, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"A very good picture, but I was given a very bad copy, with altogether too much cutting. Just fair business in a storm."—J. R. Baxter, Jr., Lyceum Theatre, Spring City, Utah.

Blue Jeans, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A good picture but scarcely worth the high rentals asked."—J. R. Baxter, Jr., Spring City, Utah.

The Weaver of Dreams, with Viola Dana (Metro) good drawing card and box-office picture. Has a sad ending, but will be satisfactory to those who like good love stories."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Mutual

The Girl Angle, with Anita King (Mutual)—"A very good picture that pleased all who saw it. Business well above the average. Film in poor condition."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Runaway, with Julia Sanderson (Mutual)—"Bright and snappy. A good story, well acted and seasoned with a little comedy."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

Outcast, with Ann Murdock (Empire-Mutual)—"Not a desirable picture for a small town. Roles are well acted but the story paints immorality in too happy a vein."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Calendar Girl, with Juliette Day (American-Mutual)—"Film in fair condition. A good picture to very good business."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Paramount

His Father's Son, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Packed houses afternoon and night with strong opposition."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Ghost House, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Star always draws packed houses and is well liked by young people."—Wm. T. Doyle, Lyric Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Jules of the Strong Heart, with George Beban—(Paramount)—"A good picture and Beban is a clever character star. Business fair."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Jules of the Strong Heart, with George Beban (Paramount)—"A great character actor in a fine picture, but my people didn't like him."—Georoge H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A fine story, although not new. Wallace Reid has a good role. Business good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

A Country Hero, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"All I have to do is to advertise the night and Arbuckle fills the empty seats."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

David Garrick, with Dustin Farnum (Paramount)—"People remarked favorably on this."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

The Seven Swans, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Wonderful for the kids and very entertaining for the grown-ups. Business good."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Spirit of '17, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A fair picture. Pleased some and not others."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"A good picture to fair business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Hidden Pearls, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"A good picture which brought good business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Thing We Love, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Drew well and was liked by all."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Out West, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"About the best Arbuckle comedy to date. Business big. Many stayed for the second show."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

Eve's Daughter, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"A very pleasing picture, Billie Burke's best. Satisfies everyone."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown House.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A very pleasing picture which played to a pretty fair audience."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The World For Sale, (Blackton-Paramount)—"A good picture but it didn't draw."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

The Hired Man, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"A very good picture. Star very popular. Exceptionally good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Pathe

The Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—"A big money-getter."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

Luke, the Mechanic, with Harold Lloyd (Pathe comedy)—"Luke is always good, but this is one of those especially good ones."—Mrs. Flo B. Grubbs, Mystic Theatre, Harrison, Ohio.

Innocent, with Fanny Ward (Pathe)—"As good a picture as this star has made, with the exception of The Cheat. Story is interesting and keeps you guessing. The star wears an attractive wardrobe."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Select

The Marionettes, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"A pretty good picture which pleased those who saw it, but did not draw very well."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Marionettes, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"A good picture, well directed and with rich settings. As a box-office attraction it is not so good. Many did not understand the title till they had seen the picture."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Over There, with Charles Richman (Select)—"Went big on a repeat run, due to boosting it. Mention in your billing that this is a picturization of George M. Cohan's 'Over There' song. Also, if you are a Chicago exhibitor, Leo Feist Co., of 119 North Clark street, will furnish you with a singer, gratis and an illustrated reel of the song. It is non-taxable. Advertise and bill the singer in your program."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Triangle

Back of the Man, with Charles Ray and Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"Good; pleased everyone."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

The Americano, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"One that is hard to beat. I consider it equal to any other Fairbanks picture."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatare, Viroqua, Wis.

Time Locks and Diamonds, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"Has been a good picture but the film is in bad condition now."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

A Strange Transgressor, with Louise Glaum (Triangle)—"Poor theme and a highly improbable story. Morbid."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Sawdust Ring, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"A great picture. I have been requested to repeat it. Harold Goodwin should share honors with Bessie."—Mrs. Flo B. Grubbs, Mystic Theatre, Harrison, Ohio.

The Medicine Man, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"Film in good condition. Business extra good. Try giving out some complimentary tickets on this picture to admirers of W. S. Hart. See them come again and bring their friends."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Larnin' of Jim Benton, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A very good western and gave us good business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Flirting with Fate, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Second time we played this and we doubled our receipts over the first time."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Girl Glory, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"The star was new here but seemed to please."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Sawdust Ring, with Bessie Love (Triangle)—"A good picture, but the film was in bad condition."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Mother Instinct, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"If your patrons enjoy woodcraft pictures, this one is O. K."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Ship of Doom, with Claire McDowell (Triangle)—"Opened to a good house, but did not please.—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Fanatics, with J. Barney Sherry (Triangle)—"A poor offering."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Universal

On To Victory (Universal)—"One reel picture showing the Tuscania leaving port. Mostly patriotic stuff made from weekly news, but it drew good business."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

Vitagraph

The Woman Between Friends, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"A very good picture. Business good. Alice Joyce has a very suitable role."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Within the Law, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"Exceptionally good. A big box-office attraction."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Wild Strain, with Nell Shipman (Vitagraph)—"A pretty good picture. Satisfied everyone."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

World

His Royal Highness, with Carlyle Blackwell (World)—"A good picture which drew good business and satisfied everyone."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—In high class neighborhood.

Betsy Ross, with Alice Brady (World)—"A good production but not a puller."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

Her Hour, with Kitty Gordan (World)—"A good picture but very suggestive. Star too old for the part."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Her Maternal Right, with Kitty Gordon (World)—"Picture very good. Photography poor. Star and business average."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Spurs of Sybil, with Alice Brady (World)—"Average attraction. Title did not help it to draw. We had expected to do big with it."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Serials and Series

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—Absolutely the best of its kind I ever played. Punch and action is its middle name."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"I held off on playing any serial as attendance had fallen off in the past, but this seems to hold the patronage."—B. C. Brown, Star Theatre, Viroqua, Wis.

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Some serial. Picking up every week."—John T. Cliff, Elite Theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Episode 10. Best serial I ever ran. It surely gets them coming our way. Prints always A-1."—C. F. Nolte, Wanderland Theatre, Buckeye, O.

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Good and getting better. They always come to see the next episode. Capacity business."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Price of Folly, with Ruth Roland (Pathe series, No. one)—"This first number is a good dramatic story, well and truthfully told."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

State Rights and Specials

The City of Purple Dreams, with Thomas Santschi (Selig)—"Six reels. Action needs a little speeding up. Not a big feature, but an average program picture. Scene of the story laid in Chicago. Good cast. Title poor."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Redemption, with Evelyn Nesbit (State Rights)—"Has a very good moral. A big money-getter."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

War Pictures, controlled by C. W. Schnieder—"This is poor. He advertises 5,000 feet of real action and all he has is about one reel of rear guard maneuvers. My patrons left before the show was over."—C. F. Nolte, Wonderland Theatre, Buckeye, O.

The Deemster, with Derwent Hall Caine (State Rights)—"A very good picture, but has no pulling power. The public doesn't seem to appreciate pictures of this sort. Personally I think they are immense."—D. E. Knott, Pergola Theatre, Allentown, Pa.

The Deemster, with Derwent Hall Caine (State Right)—"No drawing power. Business very poor."—John F. Cliff, Elite Theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah.

The Public Defender, with Frank Keenan (State Rights)—"Six reels. Supporting cast includes Robert Edeson and Alma Hanlon. A good picture. As a box-office attraction, it is fairly good. Rental reasonable."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

The Mad Lover, with Robert Warwick (State Rights)—"A good box-office title. Story ends as a dream. An average program picture at regular admission prices. Elaine Hammerstein is in the supporting cast. Renting reasonable for a week-day showing."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison street, Chicago.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Pictures Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of Motography, is published:

A

According to the Code (Kleine)—March 16.
Adopted Son (Metro)—March 23.
Adventures of Carol (World)—March 9.
Alabaster Box (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—March 16.
Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—March 23.
Alice in Wonderland (State Rights)—March 9.
All for a Husband (Fox)—March 2.
All Man (World)—March 23.
American Consul (Paramount)—March 16.
American Husband, Her (Triangle—
American, That's All (Triangle)—March 16.
American Widow (Metro)—March 9, March 16.
Americano (Triangle)—March 30.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 2, March 9.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 2, March 11.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—March 16.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—March 2, March 11, March 23.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 9.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 9.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—March 23.

B

Bab the Fixer (Mutual)—March 2.
Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—March 16.
Back of the Man (Triangle)—March 30.
Bad Boy (Triangle)—March 9.
Barker (Kleine)—March 9.
Bathhouse Tangle (Fox)—March 30.
Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—March 9.
Bedroom Blunder (Paramount)—March 9.
Betsy Ross (World)—March 30.
Betty and the Buccaneers (Mutual)—March 16.
Betty to the Rescue (Paramount)—March 9.
Between Ben (Triangle)—March 16.
Birth of a Nation (Griffith)—March 2.
Bit of Kindling (Mutual)—March 16.
Blind Adventure (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Blind Man's Holiday (General)—March 30.
Blue Blazes Rawden (Artcraft)—March 16, March 23, March 30.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 9, March 30.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Bond Between (Paramount)—March 9.
Bond of Fear (Triangle)—March 2.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—March 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Broadway, Arizona (Triangle)—March 16.
Broadway Luck (Metro)—March 2.
Broken Ties (World)—March 2.
Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—March 23.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 9, March 23.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—March 23.
Burglar (World)—March 16.
By Right of Possession (Vitagraph)—March 23.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—March 9, March 30.
Call of the Cumberlands (Paramount)—March 23.
Call of the East (Paramount)—March 2.
Camille (Fox)—March 9.
Case at Law (Triangle)—March 16.
Cassidy (Triangle)—March 9, March 23.
Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 16.
Cheating the Public (Fox)—March 2.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 16, March 23.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—March 2.
City of Purple Dreams (Selig)—March 30.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—March 11, March 16.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—March 11.
Come Through (Jewel)—March 11.
Common Law (Select)—March 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—March 30.
Conscience (Fox)—March 2, March 9.
Co-respondent (Jewel)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Country Hero (Paramount)—March 30.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 2, March 23.
Crimson Stain Mystery (Metro)—March 2.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Cupid's Round-up (Fox)—March 30.
Cure (Mutual)—March 9.
Cy Whitaker's Ward (Kleine)—March 16.

D

Damaged—No Goods (Fox)—March 16.
Darling of Paris (Fox)—March 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
Daughter of War (Mutual)—March 16.
David Garrick (Paramount)—March 30.
Daybreak (Metro)—March 30.

Dazzling Miss Davison (Mutual)—March 16.
Defeat of the City (General)—March 30.
Deemster (State Rights)—March 30.
Deserter (Triangle)—March 16.
Desert Man (Triangle)—March 23.
Desire of the Moth (Bluebird)—March 2.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 2, March 23.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Devil's Prize (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Dodging a Million (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 30.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Dream Doll (Kleine)—March 30.
Dummy (Paramount)—March 16.

E

Easy Money (World)—March 9.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Even Break (Triangle)—March 2.
Eve's Daughter (Paramount)—March 30.
Evidence (Triangle)—March 9.
Evil Eye (Paramount)—March 16.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—March 2.

F

Face Value (Bluebird)—March 23.
Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—March 9.
Fanatics (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—March 2, March 9.
Fatty Out West (Paramount)—March 9.
Fear Not (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 9, March 30.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—March 9.
Fighting Grin (Bluebird)—March 9.
Fighting Mad (Butterfly)—March 2.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—March 9.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
Filling His Own Shoes (Kleine)—March 2.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Fires of Youth (Pathe)—March 9.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Flames of Chance (Triangle)—March 9.
Flirting with Fate (Triangle)—March 30.
Flying Colors (Triangle)—March 2.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
For the Freedom of the World (Goldwyn)—March 9.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Fox Comedies (Fox)—March 16.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 2, March 23.
From Two to Six (Triangle)—March 23.
Frozen Warning (Lynch)—March 16.
Fuel of Life (Triangle)—March 16.
Further Adventures of Stingaree (General)—March 16.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—March 16, March 23.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—March 16.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 2, March 23.
German Curse in Russia (Pathe)—March 2.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 2, March 30.
Gift of Gab (Kleine)—March 9.
Girl Angle (Mutual)—March 30.
Girl by the Roadside (Bluebird)—March 2.
Girl from Rector's (Mutual)—March 23.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—March 9, March 30.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
Glory of Yolande (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Golden Fetters (Paramount)—March 16.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—March 23.

H

Hands Down (Universal)—March 16.
Hater of Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 2, March 9.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Heart and Soul (Fox)—March 16.
Heart of a Lion (Fox)—March 2.
Heart of Nora Flynn (Paramount)—March 23.
Hearts and Saddles (Fox)—March 16.
Heir of the Ages (Paramount)—March 2.
Heiress for a Day (Triangle)—March 23.
Hell Morgan's Girl (Bluebird)—March 16.
Hell's Crater (Universal)—March 23.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—February 16, March 9.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 9, March 23.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—March 9.
Her Excellency the Governor (Triangle)—March 23.
Her Hour (World)—March 30.
Her Maternal Right (World)—March 30.
Her Right to Live (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Her Second Husband (Mutual)—March 2.
Her Silent Sacrifice (Select)—March 2.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 16, March 30.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 2, March 16, March 23, March 30.
His Father's Son (Paramount)—March 30.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 16, March 23.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—March 9.
His Royal Highness (World)—March 23, March 30.
His Smashing Career (Fox)—March 2.
Home Run Ambrose (Universal)—March 16.
Honor System (Fox)—March 23, March 30.
Hostage (Paramount)—March 9.
House of Terrible Scandals (Fox)—March 30.
Hubby's Holiday (Selburn—State Rights)—March 23.
Hungry Heart (Paramount)—March 9.
Husband and Wife (World)—March 23.

I

Immigrant (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—March 16.
International Sneak (Paramount)—March 23.
Idolators (Triangle)—March 2.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
Indian Summer (General)—March 2.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—March 2, March 9, March 16.
Innocent (Pathe)—March 30.

J

Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—March 16.
Jack and Jill (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 2, March 23.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—March 2.
John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal)—March 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 2, March 9, March 23, March 30.
Jury of Fate (Metro)—March 16.

K

Keith of the Border (Triangle)—March 23.
Keys of the Righteous (Paramount)—March 23.
Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Kiss for Susie (Paramount)—March 9.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—March 16.
Land of Long Shadows (Kleine)—March 2.
Lavnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—March 30.
Last Man (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Less Than the Dust (Artcraft)—March 2.
Light Within (Petrova)—March 2.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—March 16.
Little Red Decides (Triangle)—March 23.
Little Red Riding Hood (Wholesome)—March 23.
Little Patriot (Pathe)—March 9.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 16, March 23.
Little Volunteer (World)—March 2, March 9.
Lost Express (Mutual)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Love Doctor (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Love Letters (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—March 16.
Luke the Mechanic (Pathe)—March 30.

M

Mad Lover (State Rights)—March 30.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—March 9.
Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—March 16.
Madame Who (Paralta)—March 23.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Man Behind the Curtain (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Man from Montana (Butterfly)—March 2, March 9.
Man from Painted Post (Artcraft)—March 2.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—March 16.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—March 2, March 16.
Man's Man (Paralta)—March 23.
Manx Man (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Marked Man (Butterfly)—March 23.
Marriage Speculation (Vitagraph)—March 2.
Marionettes (Select)—March 2, March 16, March 30.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—March 2.
Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce—State Rights)—March 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 2, March 16, March 30.
Men of the Desert (Kleine)—March 30.
Mice and Men (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss George Washington (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss Jackie of the Navy (Mutual)—March 2.
Miss Robinson Crusoe (Metro)—March 16.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—March 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—March 2, March 23.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother Instinct (Triangle)—March 23, March 30.
Mother o' Mine (Bluebird)—March 2, March 30.
Motherhood (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Mountain Dew (Triangle)—March 2.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—March 9.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—March 9.
Mysterious Miss Terry (Paramount)—March 2.
Mysterious Mr. Tiller (Bluebird)—March 2.
Mystery Ship (Universal)—March 2.

An interesting scene in "Love Me," a Thomas H. Ince production for Paramount release, starring Dorothy Dalton.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 2, March 23, March 30.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 23, March 30.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—March 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—March 16.
North of 53 (Fox)—March 23.

O

Oh, Doctor (Paramount)—March 23.
One Touch of Nature (Kleine)—March 23.
On to Victory (Universal)—March 30.
On the Level (Paramount)—March 2.
On the Square Girl (Pathe)—March 2.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—March 2, March 23.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 16.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 23.
Outcast (Mutual)—March 30.
Over There (Select)—March 30.
Out West (Paramount)—March 2, March 30.

P

Painted Madonna (Fox)—March 30.
Panthea (Select)—March 2.
Pants (Kleine)—March 16.
Paws of the Bear (Triangle)—March 9.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 9, March 23.
Pendleton Round-up (Pathe)—March 2, March 23.
Periwinkle (Mutual)—March 16.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—March 16.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 2, March 16.
Planter (Mutual)—March 2.
Please Help Emily (Mutual)—March 23.
Polly Ann (Triangle)—March 2.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Price of Folly (Pathe)—March 30.
Price Mark (Paramount)—February 23, March 16.
Price of Silence (Bluebird)—March 23.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Primal Lure (Triangle)—March 23.
Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Pudd'nhead Wilson (Paramount)—March 23.
Public Defender (State Rights)—March 30.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—March 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 9, March 16.
Rasputin (World)—March 9, March 23.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 2, March 16, March 30.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—March 30.
Red Ace (Universal)—March 23, March 30.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—March 16.
Redemption (State Rights)—March 30.
Regenerates (Triangle)—March 16.
Reputation (Mutual)—March 2.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—March 9.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Roadside Impresario (Paramount)—March 2.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—February 23, March 23.
Roping Her Romeo (Paramount)—March 16.
Rose of the South (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—March 9.
Rough House (Paramount)—March 16.
Round-up at Pendleton (Pathe)—March 2, March 23.
Runaway (Mutual)—March 30.

S

Sadie Goes to Heaven (Kleine)—March 30.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Savage (Bluebird)—March 23.
Scandal (Select)—March 16.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 2, March 23.
Secret Game (Paramount)—March 9.
Secret of the Storm Country (Select)—March 2.
Seven Keys to Baldpate (Artcraft)—March 30.
Seven Pearls (Pathe)—March 23.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
Shackles of Truth (Mutual)—March 9.
Shadows of Her Pest (Fox)—March 30.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—March 30.
Southern Justice (Bluebird)—March 30.
Shanghaied Jonah (Keystone)—March 9.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Shirley Kaye (Select)—March 2.
Shorty Hamilton Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Silent Lady (Butterfly)—March 2.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—March 23.
Slacker (Metro)—March 23, March 30.
Sleeping Memory (Metro)—March 2.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—March 16.
Snow White (Paramount)—March 16.
Society's Driftwood (Butterfly)—March 9.
Somebody's Widow (Mutual)—March 16.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 2, March 16.
Son of His Father (Paramount)—March 2.
Song of Songs (Artcraft)—March 23.
Soul in Trust (Triangle)—March 23.
Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls Triumphant (Triangle)—March 23.
Southern Pride (Mutual)—March 9.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—March 2.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Spurs of Sybil (World)—March 23, March 30.
Spy (Fox)—March 23.
Square Deceiver (Metro)—March 16.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—March 2.
Stars and Stripes in France (Pathe)—March 2.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Stormy Knight (Bluebird)—March 2.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—March 16.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—March 23.

T

Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—March 30.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tell-Tale Step (Kleine)—March 23.
Ten of Diamonds (Triangle)—March 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Thais (Goldwyn)—March 2, March 9.
They're Off (Triangle)—March 9.
Thing We Love (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
This Is the Life (Fox)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—March 23.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 9, March 30.
Today (Pathe)—March 2.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—March 9.
Transgression (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Treason (Bluebird)—March 30.
Treasure Island (Fox)—March 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Triumph (Bluebird)—March 2.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—March 2.
Twin Kiddies (Pathe)—March 23.
Twinkler (Mutual)—March 16.
Two-Bit Seats (Kleine)—March 2.
Two Men and a Woman (State Rights)—March 9.

U

Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 2, March 23.
Universal Current Events—March 16.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—March 9.
Unmarried Wife, My (Bluebird)—March 9.
Up or Down (Triangle)—March 9.
Upper Crust (Mutual)—March 16.

V

Varmint (Paramount)—March 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 2, March 9, March 23.
Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—March 9.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—February 23, March 16.
Voice on the Wire (Universal)—March 2

W

War Pictures (Schneider)—March 30.
Watch Your Neighbor (Paramount)—March 16.
Weaver of Dreams (Metro)—March 2.
Web of Desire (World)—March 2.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
When Men Are Tempted (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Whims of Society (World)—March 2, March 9, March 16, March 23.
Who Leads the National Army (National Training Camps)—March 16.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—March 9.
Wild Strain (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Winding Trail (Metro)—March 2, March 16.
Winged Mystery (Bluebird)—March 23.
Wishing Ring (World)—March 23.
Without Honor (Triangle)—March 9.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Wolf and His Mate (Universal)—March 23.
Woman and Wife (Select)—March 9, March 23.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
World for Sale (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, March 30.

Z

Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—March 9.

Enid Bennett in "Naughty, Naughty!" a Paramount picture presented by Thos. H. Ince.

Buy Legitimate House

The McCarthy Brothers, prominent as exhibitors throughout North and South Dakota, have extended their activities to include the management of a legitimate theatre with the purchase of the Grand at Grand Forks, N. D., one of the most beautiful playhouses in that state.

The McCarthys, six in number, including five brothers and the son of one, recently incorporated their theatrical enterprises for $100,000, preliminary to the buying of the new house. Their picture theatres include the Rialto and the Lyric in Aberdeen, S. D., and the Lyric in Watertown.

Warehouses and "Hospitals" Planned

AIM IS TO IMPROVE DISTRIBUTION OF FILMS

TO MEET new distribution needs that have sprung up as a result of the railroad situation, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation will soon build warehouses and film "hospitals" in central districts, which will assure first-class prints and all accessories on short notice.

Announcement of the corporation's plans was made in New York by Al Lichtman, general manager of the distribution department, on the eve of his departure for a tour of the exchanges to determine definitely what must be done.

Lichtman Tells Plans

"Railroad conditions brought about by the war have demanded special attention at the hands of the film distributor if he would maintain a high-class service," said Mr. Lichtman. "It is not the intention of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation merely to maintain such a service, but rather to improve upon it constantly, despite any and all situations that might arise. To do this we must primarily enhance the service of the New York headquarters to the branch offices and that is the purpose of my present tour.

"From the data which I have received and the problems placed before me, it is evident that we will have to introduce radical ideas to overcome present conditions. Along these lines we have already commenced work on plans that will result in establishing warehouses in central districts, which will assure a service heretofore unknown to the film industry. Exhibitors will always be able to obtain on short notice prints that are in first-class conditions, paper and accessories of exploitation.

"We will also have film hospitals, the activities of which will be supervised by experts. The matter of delayed prints and accessories so common throughout the entire industry will be definitely overcome.

Will Emphasize Service

"In addition to this, it is my present purpose to emphasize among our exchanges more than ever the importance of even greater service than has been evidenced. In other words I am preaching service commensurate with the quality of our pictures. The foremost objectives of our organization are 'best pictures,' 'service commensurate with quality' and 'best theatres for the best pictures.'

"Possibly in no other industry will the entire business so readily and positively concede such a superiority of one product over the rest of the field as in the case of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. With such a high quality of product our service must be equally superior.

"Every member of our organization must be thoroughly imbued with the service idea. They must love motion pictures for their own sake and for the value of the pictures in lightening the burdens of every-day life. That our pictures may be properly appreciated by the public we must teach and encourage and produce revenue for the exhibitor.

Exceptional Service Necessary

"Exceptional and direct service to the exhibitor are an absolute necessity. We must go far out of our way to make the exhibitor succeed, to make his theatre a higher class institution and to enhance his presentation of our product. Better presentation of our pictures means greater success for these pictures. Theatres such as the Rivoli, Strand and Rialto are direct assets to our organization. The exploitation of our pictures in such theatres means a better appreciation of their value among the public.

It is, therefore, our direct business to see that everything possible is done to enhance the showing of our films. Although it is known as service to exhibitors, our position in this matter represents more than service; it is our plain business duty and means dollars and cents to us as well as the exhibitor.

"With the installation of our warehouses, exchange offices will no longer carry on hand a large quantity of old material, taking up floor space that should be occupied by matter for current productions arranged in a systematic and easily accessible manner.

"I expect to complete my present trip in a few weeks, when we will begin to put into operation the various distribution ideas now being mapped out."

Shows Film in Hospital

Howard S. Clemmer, manager of the Clemmer Theatre, Spokane, Wash., gave an unusual presentation of the Geraldine Farrar picture, "The Devil Stone," recently. The exhibition took place not at the theatre, but at the Sacred Heart hospital, where Mrs. Clemmer is convalescent.

When his wife expressed the regret that she would miss seeing Miss Farrar's latest play, then running at the Clemmer Theatre, Mr. Clemmer decided to take the play to her. He first obtained permission of the hospital authorities, then went to a motion picture supply house and obtained a portable De Vere projection machine.

Mrs. Clemmer's room became a temporary theatre. The machine was attached to an ordinary electric socket and the white wall used for a screen. The audience consisted of Mrs. Clemmer, eight nurses, another patient, one of the sisters and the manager and his assistant.

Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah. John B. Ashton, the manager, is a frequent contributor to "What the Picture Did for Me."

Two scenes from the Triangle play, "The Answer," featuring Joe King and Claire Anderson.

Triangle's April List Well Balanced

Program Includes Western Narratives, Society Dramas and Mystery Stories by Prominent Authors

WESTERN narratives, society dramas and mystery stories are listed on the Triangle April schedule, which, the Triangle Distributing Corporation announces, will include eight five-reel features. In accordance with the policy of the company, magazine and novel material has been utilized to a marked degree.

Heading the list on April 7 is "The Love Brokers," with Alma Rubens in the stellar role, this story being a screen adaptation of "Another Foolish Virgin," by W. Carey Wonderley, author of the recent Triangle feaure, "The Marriage Bubble." The Beaux Arts section of New York provides the locale of the story, which portrays the adventures of Alma Rubens, a song writer, who finds herself in the power of the dissipated parasites who constitute the pseudo art circles, and is subsequently trapped into marriage with a millionaire. Texas Guinan, who last appeared in "The Gun Woman," is an adventuress. E. Mason Hopper directed the picture.

"The Boss of the Lazy Y," the second release of the same week, is a screen adaptation of Charles Alden Seltzer's novel of the same name, and features Roy Stewart. The story deals with an ancient feud between two families and the struggle of the two sons of the respective factions for the love of one girl. Cliff Smith, who has directed Stewart in "Faith Endurin'" and many other western thrillers, handled the megaphone. Alvin J. Neitz, western expert in the scenario department, who did the continuity, declares it is the best play yet selected for the cowboy star, affording him something entirely new.

"The Law of the Great Northwest," by Ralph Westfall, for many years one of the daring officers of the Northwest Mounted Police, is released the first part of the week of April 14. This is the first of a series by this writer and offers Margery Wilson in the principal role. To assure realism in every detail, the author collaborated with Director Raymond Wells. A trading post, such as maintained throughout the Canadian forests was erected on property recently added to the Triangle tract at Culver City. Many real Indians were used.

"Who Killed Walton?" which follows "The Law of the Great Northwest," was adapted from Norman Sherbrooke's magazine story, "The Veil," a mystery story of New York political circles. J. Barney Sherry, who was cast as the senator in "A Soul in Trust," appears as the typical ward politician of the "Old Guard." The picture serves as a vehicle to introduce a new leading lady, Mary Mersch, who portrays an attractive young novelist caught in the web of a ruthless artist's trap, and is saved from disgrace by a ward politician after her reformer finance has abandoned her. A typical New York roof garden, covering an entire glass stage, was reproduced for this play. Scores of guests and a negro jazz band add to the realism.

A story of the New York underworld, "The Finger Print" heads the April 21 schedule. This is an adaptation of the Collier's Weekly story, "In the Spring," by John A. Moroso. "The Finger Print" deals with the Italian underworld and shows the inner workings of the police system in the days before the Rosenthal murder. Joe King, who has supported Pauline Starke in "Until They Get Me," Olive Thomas in "Heiress for a Day," and Mary Warren in "The Vortex," plays opposite Margery Wilson. Miss Wilson takes the part of a reformed crook and Mr. King the part of a police inspector.

William Desmond has the featured role in the second release of the week, an English society drama entitled, "Society for Sale" (the working title of which was "The Honorable Billy"). This is a romantic play of life in the exclusive circles of London, with Desmond as a young aristocrat, who suddenly finds that he has squandered his fortune and must work for a living. Gloria Swanson, who poses as a young woman of wealth, helps him solve his financial difficulties. This is the first appearance of this former Keystone comedienne in a romantic role, although a forthcoming Norman Sherbrooke story entitled "Smoke" also features her.

Another Moroso play, "The Lonely Woman," is scheduled as the opening feature for the week of April 28, with Belle Bennett in the title role. This play digresses from the theme of the two former productions by this author, "The Shoes That Danced" and "The Finger Print," and does not deal with the New York underworld, but is described as an emotional drama offering an unusual theme.

Roy Stewart has a dual role in the concluding picture for April, which is entitled, "Paying His Debt," an adaptation of "The Derelict."

Big Feature Nears Completion

The Triangle Film Corporation announces that the big special feature entitled, "The Servant in the House," is now nearing completion. It is one of the most ambitious productions that has ever been attempted under the new regime.

Shelton Back in Nashville

Roy C. Shelton, formerly manager of the Strand Theater in Nashville, Tenn., has returned to the city after having been a director in the north and later in the real estate business in Miami, Fla. He may re-enter the picture business.

Doubt, happiness and embarrassment as registered by William Desmond in his new Triangle picture, "The Marriage Bubble."

Many Triangle Players Behind Bars

But They're There Only to Film New Picture, "The Finger Print"—Feature Company Gets Extras Free

ACCOMPANIED by Francis McDonald, Joe King, Margery Wilson and a score of other Triangle players, Director Raymond Wells spent several days last week at the Los Angeles county jail, doing location work for "The Finger Print," a screen adaptation of John A. Moroso's Collier's Weekly story, "In the Spring," a romance of the New York police force, showing life on the fringe of the Italian underworld.

McDonald is supposed to be held a prisoner for murder and Joe King is shown as a detective. After the cameraman had finished shooting, McDonald was released from his cell, much to his satisfaction, and the entire company made a tour of the jail, getting "close-ups" on all of the notorious characters there.

The feature companies at Culver City have been dodging the showers. With a week of delightful weather they were well ahead on location work and the return of the rains found them once more under glass shooting interiors.

Two comedies, both two-reelers, and one five-reel feature picture have been completed during the week past, and are now in the editing department, awaiting shipment. One comedy is "Mr. Briggs Closes the House." The other is "First Aid." "Society for Sale," an English society romance, is the feature picture referred to. William Desmond has the leading role.

Desmond is making a new picture called "An Honest Man." Director Frank Borzage, who directed him in "Society for Sale," is supervising the production. Desmond is seen as a sort of modern Robin Hood who believes in taking from the rich and giving to the poor. He is an English lord reduced to the ranks. Mary Warren, who played opposite Desmond in "The Sea Panther," will again be seen as his leading woman.

Director Harry Edwards has started work on a new subject, a two-reel comedy entitled, "Their Neighbor's Baby." A series of extremely humorous complications develop over the baby and players well-known on the Keystone lot —Ray Griffith, Rae Godfrey and Charles Dorian—are included in the cast. Fritzie Ridgeway was conscripted from the dramatic forces to be a comedienne pro tem.

Director Cliff Smith and his western company, headed by Roy Stewart, are working on one of the glass stages for the final scenes of their latest picture, the title of which has been changed from "The Derelict" to "Paying His Debt."

Director Thomas N. Heffron and company have been working in the little village of Norwalk, Cal., for several days doing location work for "The Lonely Woman," a new Moroso play, with Belle Bennett in the title role. Through the curiosity of the villagers, Heffron was enabled to dispense with "atmosphere" almost entirely. Whenever the company appeared on the streets a crowd was attracted and all were glad to be "actors free of charge," so the director used them to advantage for what they were—a curious throng of villagers. The picture deals with the release of an innocent man from Sing Sing.

Nashville to Get New House

Plans are being drawn by the Crescent Amusement Company for the erection of a handsome vaudeville and moving picture theatre in Nashville, Tenn.

The building will be of steel and concrete, and will contain, in addition to the orchestra floor, two balconies and a mezzanine floor, which will be equipped with loggias and private boxes. Its entire seating capacity is placed at 2,500, being by far the largest in the city.

The stage will be of greater dimensions than any now in Nashville. There will be a fireproof drop made of sheet steel, so arranged that it will separate the stage from the audience immediately in an emergency.

The structure will be heated by huge fans operating in concrete ducts and during warm weather a refrigerating plant will keep the building cool. There will be ladies' waiting rooms with maids in attendance and men's smoking rooms.

The interior decorations will be of the Adam design, finished in ivory and gold, and the lighting system will be operated with concealed reflectors. The exterior will be of tapestry brick and cream glazed terra-cotta, with a marquise across the entire width of the front.

The new house will cost $100,000. Prices will be 10 and 20 cents.

The theatre will be located on Fifth avenue in the heart of the film district.

Miss Dalton Gets New Vehicle

Dorothy Dalton, Thomas H. Ince star, has completed a picture which will follow "Tyrant Fear" on the Paramount list and is to begin work shortly on another new production in which Jack Holt will be cast as leading man. The star's newest vehicle will deal with a new invention and a German plot.

Two scenes from "Innocent's Progress," a new Triangle play featur ing Pauline Starke.

Exhibitor Acquires Four Big Houses

I. Libson, Manager of Three Cincinnati Theatres, Gets Others in Dayton, Columbus, Louisville and Indianapolis

SEVERAL important deals, involving big theatres and large investments, have been completed within the last few weeks, which center widespread interests in Cincinnati and result in that city becoming a booking and managerial point for at least half a dozen of the leading screen theatres in nearby cities.

I. Libson, manager of the Walnut, Family and Strand theatres in Cincinnati, and a prominent member of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, has figured as a leader in the organization of an imposing syndicate, including houses in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

Within the last few months, Mr. Libson has taken over the Strand of Dayton, the Colonial of Columbus, the Strand of Louisville, the Strand of Indianapolis, and negotiations are on, it is said, for several others. By obtaining these houses the Cincinnati exhibitor becomes one of the leading picture men of the Middle West.

"The formation of circuits is the logical evolution of the business," said Mr. Libson.

"In this way alone can the exhibitor meet the increasing costs of operation without increasing his prices or reducing the quality of his programs.

"By centralizing bookings for several theatres, we are able to reduce to a surprising degree the cost of running our houses; this fact, as much as any other, has kept down admissions in Cincinnati, for by the co-operation of our theatres we could refuse to increase our prices when under other circumstances it might have been necessary."

Petrova to Star in Picture Based on Famous Novel

Following the completion of "The Great Star," Mme. Olga Petrova is to commence work on a screen visualization of the famous novel, "Patience Sparhawk and Her Times," from the pen of Gertrude Atherton.

Aside from the popularity of the book itself, the fifth special starring vehicle in which the famous Polish artist will appear, is marked by an extraordinarily brilliant combination in regard to author, director, scenario writer and star.

Gertrude Atherton, the author, is conceded to be one of the leading American writers. Her stories have appeared in many magazines and she has to her credit many of the best sellers of the last ten years, among which have been "Towers of Ivory," "The White Morning," "The Conqueror" and "The Aristocrats." "Patience Sparhawk" is considered Miss Atherton's greatest effort and it was only after considerable negotiation on the part of the officials of the Petrova Picture Company that the screen rights to this work were obtained.

Ralph Ince, who has been selected to direct Mme. Petrova in her latest vehicle, following his production of "The Great Star," is one of the most important figures in the directorial field. He introduced Anita Stewart to the screen, has directed many other prominent players and is a brother of Thomas H. Ince, the Paramount producer. Mr. Ince is a pioneer of the pictures, being one of the original directors of the Vitagraph forces.

The scenario writer who has been selected to adapt Miss Atherton's novel is Mary Murillo, one of the foremost continuity authors in the business, and a young woman who has been responsible for several of the big picture successes of the last twelve months. Miss Murillo wrote "Cheating the Public," which enjoyed an extended run at the Lyric Theatre, New York, and was also instrumental in bringing to the screen the delightful Fox fairy tales of "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Babes in the Woods" and others. She has written original vehicles for Clara Kimball Young, Theda Bara, Madame Petrova, William Farnum and other stars.

As to the star, Mme. Petrova is so well known her career requires no review.

Remainder of Lincoln Pictures to Be Released in April

The three concluding chapters of the Paramount-Benjamin Chapin series of "The Son of Democracy" will be released during April, including "Down the River," issued April 1, an exciting story of Abraham Lincoln's life as a young man when he starts down the Mississippi on a flat boat and becomes involved with northern slave stealers; "The Slave Auction," released April 8, showing Lincoln's first glimpse of the slave market and his efforts to combat the sort of slave traders who were despised nowhere more than among Southerners themselves, and "Under the Stars," a powerful drama of patriotism with intimate scenes of Abraham Lincoln amid crisis similar to those now confronting the United States, released April 15.

Celebrates Second Anniversary

The Regent Theatre, Montreal, known as "the house palatial," staged a special bill the other day, to celebrate its second anniversary. Tickets were sold in advance.

William S. Hart as he appears in his new Artcraft picture, "The Tiger Man."

"Look at Vaudeville" Says Exhibitor

Variety Houses Playing Comedy Almost Entirely and Standing Them Up, E. J. Myrick Significantly Remarks

REPLIES continue to come in to a letter sent out by MOTOGRAPHY recently asking exhibitors what they thought producers should be turning out in view of the changing taste of the public.

E. J. Myrick, managing director of the Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore., writes:

"If the manufacturer would endeavor to give the exhibitor stories that have a light vein of comedy at this particular time these would be of more value to the exhibitor than any they could produce; in other words, pictures that are exceedingly light, but are well constructed at this time of general depression of the entire nation, are much better than being burdened with heavy drama, for the people are seeking to be amused, consequently the high standard which we are trying to maintain in the presentation of photoplays is lost and in the meantime the vaudeville houses profit by our mistakes.

"As you are probably aware, all vaudeville houses are running practically entirely comedy bills, and are doing a great business."

John T. Cliff, manager of the Elite theatre, Mt. Pleasant, Utah, writes:

"I have been interested in the views of the exhibitors in MOTOGRAPHY and agree with them in saying that the good clean comedy dramas are what the people like. They also like pictures that are modern, true and full of life with no dragging and slow parts in.

"A good wild animal picture once in a while will pull big. Western and Northern plays are also good drawing cards if they would only leave out the dance hall scenes with the low, degrading effects, and I think this could be done.

"I hope that the producers will soon get to the end of the costume plays, as they are spending money in vain. There are also too many war pictures produced at the present time. People come to picture shows to be amused and not to be made sad. The world is now sad enough, so let us bring into the world more happiness."

"Landloper" Nearly Finished

After spending a week in Palm Beach, Fla., where several scenes were photographed for "The Landloper," a coming Metro release based on Holman Day's novel of the same name, Harold Lockwood and members of his company have returned to Jacksonville. A few additional scenes are still to be made in Jacksonville and with their completion "The Landloper" will be ready for the laboratory.

The story of the "Landloper" opens in a Palm Beach setting. Wealthy members of the fashionable colony are disporting themselves when a tramp makes his appearance and solicits alms from a group in which Thornton Bristol (Harold Lockwood) is the chief figure. When the tramp departs a discussion over his mode of life arises and Bristol says he believes it is as easy for the tramp to find happiness as it is for a member of their own wealthy set.

His companions disagree with him and Bristol offers to wager a year's allowance against a similar amount that he can assume the role of a knight of the highway for three months and like it. The wager is accepted and Bristol becomes a character from which he gets the title of the landloper. The situations which arise before Bristol wins his wager make up the story itself.

Wins Red Cross Co-operation

A fortunate coincidence causes M. Wilchins of the Lubin theater, Cincinnati, to look forward to an unusually good week of business. After Mr. Wilchins booked the Select production "Over There," he learned that the local Red Cross Committee was planning a campaign to get 200 tons of worn clothing the same week he had booked the picture. Some quick action resulted in the Lubin theater being designated as a receiving station and inasmuch as "Over There" is replete with Red Cross scenes, this seemed appropriate.

Mr. Wilchins has arranged an elaborate lobby display of the allies' flags and he is planning to have some women from the Red Cross headquarters see the picture and knit at the same time. He announces a reward of merit to the woman who has done the greatest amount of knitting during the week.

Enid Bennett Has Comedy Role

Enid Bennett's new Paramount starring vehicle "Naughty, Naughty!" presents the popular Ince star in a comedy role. The picture is released March 25.

As a small town girl, she visits a big city and returns with metropolitan ideas that startle her community. One of the features is a dance, "The Spirit of Spring," which causes considerable excitement among the natives.

The gorgeous gowns in which the little star appears are expected to create much discussion among women spectators.

"Laugh and the World Laughs with You"

A THREE COLUMN CURE FOR THE BLUES

AIDA HORTON, Vitagraph's tiny star, having been a movie actress for almost a year and consequently having encountered considerable director-temperament, has grown quite blase at "holler-downs," as she terms outbursts of directorial wrath.

Recently Director Paul Scardon was rehearsing a tense scene in "A Bachelor's Children," a forthcoming Harry Morey-Florence Deshon picture in which Aida plays a prominent part. The rehearsal was progressing satisfactorily when suddenly the players burst into laughter.

"What's the joke?" bellowed Scardon, who couldn't see anything funny in having a perfectly good rehearsal spoiled. He turned to investigate and found that a member of the company was afflicted with nervousness and blinked her eyes continuously, much to Aida's interest. Aida had asked the woman if she blinked her eyes when the picture was being filmed, to which the girl replied:

"No, I do what Mr. Scardon tells me so he doesn't scold."

Aida thought a moment, then assuringly replied, "Oh, thass all right, he might give you a holler-down, but he won't spank you."

And then Scardon laughed.

✣ ✣ ✣

Something had gone wrong with the lights in the Fox eastern studio and the company was due for an enforced rest of a couple of hours. So when the doorman sent up word that a peculiar appearing Thespian would like to see R. A. Walsh, the director sent word for him to come right up. He came, a threadbare individual with saw-edged cuffs, a celluloid collar and other signs of sartorial decrepitude.

"Just the man I want," Mr. Walsh greeted him; "I have a nice part for you. How are you off for clothes?"

The applicant looked dubious.

"What clothes will I need?" he asked.

"Oh, not so many," said the director. "You will need a riding suit, some evening clothes, a walking suit, something suitable for a hotel at Palm Beach, two or three business suits—we must have variety you know—and—

"Say!" interrupted the seedy one, "who wrote this play—the Retail Clothiers' Association?"

✣ ✣ ✣

William Desmond, who has the title role in Triangle's pirate play, "The Sea Panther," has a Newfoundland dog of which he is very fond. A dog show was recently held in Los Angeles and "Handsome Bill" entered his pet for the ribbons. During the exhibition he stepped out into the street with Jack Richardson, the dashing villain in "The Sea Panther." The two watched the steady stream of dog lovers who poured into the exhibition building in great numbers.

"Well," said the villainous Jack, "it looks like a very successful show, Bill."

Bill drew a long-drawn sigh all the way up from his toes and murmured in heartbroken accents:

"Appearances are deceiving, Jack. All the world is going to the dogs."

✣ ✣ ✣

Alma Rubens, who is cast in the leading role of the Triangle feature, "Another Foolish Virgin," is very fond of children and spends a great deal of her spare time with them. A little girl who lives next door to Miss Rubens is a special pet. The other day the Triangle favorite was showing the child some pictures and they came across one of Elijah about to start his historic journey in the fiery chariot. The child noticed the halo around Elijah's head.

"Why is he taking a spare tire with him?" she asked.

✣ ✣ ✣

Myrtle Lind, former Keystone favorite, who has the title role in Triangle's photoplay satire, "Nancy Comes Home," is very apt at repartee. Recently she was discussing the drafting of a young man in the Triangle forces with Director Jack Dillon. Mr. Dillon informed Miss Lind that the young man did not appear to be over-anxious to go to France.

Peggy Pearce, Triangle-Keystone beauty.

"Well, what does he intend to do for his country?" asked Myrtle.

"I think," said Dillon, "that he wants to join the California State Militia."

"Was he ever in the lodging house business?" asked Myrtle.

"Why, no. Why?" asked the director, baffled by her question.

"Because he might want to set up in business on the Rio Grande and collect his rent from the Mexican Boarder," Myrtle replied.

✣ ✣ ✣

During the filming of "The Accusing Toe," one of the Judge Brown Stories which are being made at Bay City, California, Dale Faith, the lad who owns the accusing toe, was somewhat hazy as to the regulations which apply in the making of pictures. He rashly had his hair cut, to the extreme disgust of Director King. The director immediately impressed upon all the boys that they should not make any change in their clothes or in any other way.

The lesson must have been well absorbed, for several days later Mr. King received a plaintive note from the mother of one of the boys asking: "Would you kindly let me know when the pictures are finished, as I am very anxious to have Ned put on clean underwear. Ned insists that he durst not change until the picture is finished."

✣ ✣ ✣

It was at the William Fox studio where Virginia Pearson's newest photodrama, "A Daughter of France," was in process of construction.

Miss Pearson refused to dine with a dozen German officers. Hugh Thompson, in the role of a Boche colonel, then said:

"Perhaps, Madame, you care for grapes?"

And, therewith, he shot from the hand of a statue a bunch of grapes. The scene was over. Miss Pearson looked at the smoking revolver. It was a .44 calibre, of the kind usually called a "horse pistol."

"If that's what you use for grapes, I'm glad you didn't say grapefruit. You probably would have used a cannon," she declared.

Louise Glaum as she appears in her first Paralta picture, "An Alien Enemy."

Rain Fails to Halt Paralta Schedule

Bessie Barriscale Starts Sixth Feature, While Walthall and Kerrigan Await Scenarios

DESPITE the fact that the film colony in and about Los Angeles has undergone more than a full week of almost continual rain, production activities at the Paralta Studios have kept pace with the schedule of work laid out by director of productions, Robert Brunton, before the rainy season set in.

There are a large number of plays in the course of manufacture for the three organizations making pictures at the Paralta plant. Paralta Plays, Inc., Selexart and Pathe. During the heavy rainfall practically all of the companies kept busy within the studio and the number of interior sets which was erected at the same time occupied practically all the available space under the enclosed stage.

Having recently completed "Maid O' the Storm," Bessie Barriscale, who has been the most active star at the Paralta studios from the point of productions completed, started the filming of her sixth feature under the title of "Patriotism."

The story was written by R. B. Kidd and Jane Holly and the screen version was prepared by Julian Louis Lamothe. Miss Barriscale is again being directed by Raymond B. West, who has staged the majority of her Paralta productions. In "Patriotism," Miss Barriscale will be supported by Charles Gunn, who has just been engaged as Paralta leading man.

Louise Glaum has completed her first production, "An Alien Enemy," a detailed story of the star and the play will be found elsewhere.

Henry B. Walthall and J. Warren Kerrigan, the other Paralta stars, although not actively at work upon new productions, are ready to begin as soon as their stories are completed by the scenario department.

Mr. Walthall eluded the rainy spell by a hurried trip to his ranch, which is located at Scottsdale, Ariz. Mr. Brunton, the manager of productions, and N. William Aronson, Mr. Walthall's representative, are considering several stories with a view to purchasing them for future releases.

J. Warren Kerrigan, who due to injury has not been able to work since the completion of "The Turn of a Card," will return to the studio soon. The success of "The Turn of a Card" has made Mr. Kerrigan enthusiastic, as reports from every section prove that it is being received even better than his first picture, "A Man's Man."

It is likely that the scenes will be taken this week for the first Mastercraft production which is to be staged by Reginald Barker from the novel "The One Woman" by Thomas Dixon. The screen version was written by Harry Chandlee, who promises to make the first Mastercraft set a high standard for the company to follow.

Star Completes First Paralta Play

Louise Glaum Filmed in "An Alien Enemy" in Twenty-six Days—Picture Marks Appearance in New Role

LOUISE GLAUM'S first production since her connection with Paralta Plays, Inc., has just been completed at the Los Angeles studios. Only twenty-six working days were engaged in the filming.

There are many features of interest attached to Miss Glaum's first Paralta production, the most important one being that it will place her in a new field of drama which has for its scope straight dramatic acting and which releases her from the cramped confines of seductress characterizations.

The title is "An Alien Enemy." The play was written by the Paralta staff author, Monte M. Katterjohn. The theme is one of timely appeal, dealing with international intrigue and the world's powerful and little known military intelligence system whose giant arms are ever reaching secretly to every branch of human endeavor.

Thrilling scenes ranging from intense emotional portrayal, in which Miss Glaum holds the center of interest, to big ensemble scenes where United States troops are seen marching through the streets of a French village, feature the production.

While having a background of the great war, "An Alien Enemy" is distinctly not a war play, but one in which human emotion is the main element.

Miss Glaum will be supported by Thurston Hall as leading man and Arthur Allardt in the heavy role. The remainder of the cast includes such well-known actors as Joseph J. Dowling, Charles Hammond, J. Morley, Roy Laidlaw and Clifford Alexander.

The production was staged under the direction of Wallace Worsley, assisted by Elliot Howe. Credit for unusual interior effects is due to R. Holmes Paul and Robert Brunton, manager of productions.

Mary Miles Minter in the American-Mutual production, "A Bit of Jade."

Four Stars in April Mutual Release

Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fischer, William Russell and Ann Murdock Are Featured Players

MUTUAL'S schedule of April feature releases includes productions from the studios of the American Film Company, Inc., William Russell Productions, Inc., and the Empire All Star Corporation, starring Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fischer, William Russell and Ann Murdock.

They have been produced under Mutual's policy of close adherance to the public demand, Mr. Russell's first production from his own studios having been started after a trip on which the star personally interviewed exhibitors, salesmen and exchange managers to ascertain the popular taste.

Mary Miles Minter will be seen in "A Bit of Jade," released April 1. This is an exotic mystery story built around the disappearance of a rare Hindu necklace which is said to possess a potent charm.

The play, which was scenarioized by Karl Coolidge from a widely-read story of Mildred Carl Graham, is replete with tense and dramatic situations, and is said to be a grateful vehicle for the beautiful little star.

Margarita Fischer in "Primitive Woman," released April 8, will be seen in a character different from anything she has recently done. Elementary woman in a twentieth century setting is the theme, and the play is reported to possess the elements of strength and originality.

Ann Murdock, the popular Broadway ingenue, who has been appearing in photo-dramas of Charles Frohman stage successes, has completed "The Richest Girl," released April 15. David Powell, the noted young actor who has supported Miss Murdock in "The Impostor," "Outcast," "Please Help Emily" and other screen successes, will again play the lead.

William Russell is putting the finishing touches on his first production, "Hearts or Diamonds," and it will be released April 22.

Mr. Russell is enthusiastic over the results of his initial effort and believes it will surpass "The Midnight Trail," "In Bad," "New York Luck" and "Snap Judgment."

The play is an adaptation of the famous novel, "Adrienne Gascoyne," by William Hamilton Osborne. The story concerns the operations of a gang of international diamond thieves with whom Adrienne Grascoyne, a beautiful young woman, becomes involved.

Charlotte Burton, who has appeared in several Russell successes, will play the feminine lead. The cast includes Carl Stockdale, John Gough and Robert Klein. The picture was produced under the direction of Henry King.

Pathe Grinds Fast in West

Reports from Pathe's west coast plant disclose important developments. Scenes for Fannie Ward's rendition of Sir William Young's "A Japanese Nightingale" are progressing rapidly under direction of George Fitzmaurice. Bryant Washburn has finished George Randolph Chester's story, "Twenty-One," and is already well under way on a new play. Frank Keenan is working in Sir Henry Irving's great success, "The Bells," and is already laying plans for another production. Robert Thornby is directing Bessie Love in "A Little Sister of Everybody" by William Addison Lathrop and the next picture on which she will start has been scenarioized from a book by Rose Endicott.

"Yellow Ticket" to Be Filmed

One of the most distinguished casts ever seen in a motion picture production surrounds Fannie Ward in the forthcoming Pathe play, "The Yellow Ticket," adapted from the celebrated A. H. Woods stage success of the same name.

In addition to Miss Ward, who scored such a triumph in her first Pathe play, "Innocent," are Milton Sills, Warner Oland, Armand Kalisz (who played Doucet in "Innocent"), J. H. Gilmour, Helene Chadwick, Leon Bary, Anna Lehr, Edward Elkus, Charlie Jackson and Richard Thornton.

Open New Pueblo House Soon

The Moore & Graves Amusement Company is about to open a new theatre, called "the Rialto," in Pueblo, Colo. The theatre will cost nearly $40,000.

The Rialto is of modern construction. It has ventilating and vacuum cleaning systems and indirect lighting is used throughout.

Interior decorations are in old ivory, old rose and French grey. Large panels in the walls on the main floor are done in the new Tiffany blend. The soft colors, old ivory, old rose and French grey are used in the lobby and foyer. The floors are tile and the main floor will be carpeted in blue velvet brussels. A huge blue silk plush curtain will cover the screen.

The theatre has a seating capacity of 1,225. All seats will be reserved. The same price will be charged for the balcony and main floor. Projection will be done with a Simplex machine.

High lights in the new Mary Pickford Artcraft feature "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley."

Mary Pickford Makes Two Films at Once

Artcraft Star Hurries Production to Spend a Month Away From the Camera in War Work for Uncle Sam

FOR the first time since the old days of the two-reel thrillers, Mary Pickford started on a new picture the other day before completing her current production. For several days she worked with William D. Taylor, her new director, on "How Could You, Jean?" while completing the final scenes of "M'liss" under Marshall Neilan's direction.

It was a novel experience for Miss Pickford but was made necessary by a message which she received from a member of President Wilson's cabinet. Although the affair is maintained a secret, it is understood that it means a trip to Washington upon completion of the new picture and probably a month's retirement from camera work while she works for Uncle Sam.

"How Could You, Jean?" is expected to be a record production in time consumed on its filming. It will show Mary Pickford in a new characterization. The photoplay is an adaptation by Frances Marion from the novel by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd, just published. It will be the first production in which the Artcraft star is directed by Mr. Taylor.

When Director Taylor began casting for "How Could You, Jean?" he discovered that the famine in juveniles was never more keenly evident than at present. Upon seeking assistance in New York he received word that all the desirable juveniles were either unavailable because of present employment or in the army. The California studios were again combed to find some one for the leading male role, but without success. As a consequence the production was started without a leading man and at this writing none has as yet been obtained.

"Love Me" Is Released

"Love Me," a Thomas H. Ince production for Paramount release, starring Dorothy Dalton, which was released March 18, presents Miss Dalton as Maida Madison, a Western girl who receives the cold shoulder from her husband's family, members of the exclusive New York set. She does a great service for the family and when asked how they can reward her she says: "Love Me."

This is a "dressy" picture and is staged in elaborate settings, depicting the wealth and luxuries of the "smart set." Miss Dalton herself appears to good advantage in new evening gowns that promise to set many an envious young girl's heart aflutter.

At the head of the supporting cast appears Jack Holt, who played with Mary Pickford in "The Little American." Others in the cast are William Conklin, as the "heavy," Robert McKim, Dorcas Mathews, Melbourne MacDowell and Elinor Hancock.

Oakland House Springs Many Surprises

Kinema Stages "The Planter," Mutual Special, with Original Publicity Stunts and Strong Advertising Campaign

PRESENTATION of "The Planter," the seven-reel Mutual special, was made the occasion of a public celebration at Oakland, Cal., the home of Herman Whitaker, author of the novel from which the spectacle was produced.

The owners of the Kinema Theatre played the picture for a week to capacity audiences. Publicity stunts and an aggressive advertising campaign they instituted stirred the interest of the entire community. The campaign began two weeks before presentation of the picture and continued until the last night of the booking.

Two weeks before "The Planter" was presented the theatre carried off first honors at the masque ball of the Advertising club of Oakland. Ten papier mache cutouts, each representing a book and each bearing a letter, were shown. Inside of each there was a man. The ten walked into the ball room and went through a series of evolutions. On one side the letters spelled out "T-h-e P-l-a-n-t-e-r" and on the other "A-t t-h-e K-i-n-e-m-a."

The next stunt was a special preview attended by the mayor, the chief of police, the president of the Advertising club, the editors of the daily newspapers, the president of the University of California and other local celebrities.

The first night was Civic Night, at which the presidents of local civic organizations were guests of honor. Writers' Club Night followed. An Ad Club Night and a University of California Night were promoted and carried out successfully.

As part of the advertising campaign, the Kinema had printed and widely distributed handsome four-page booklets made up to represent the novel, the inside pages being devoted to scenes from the play and brief mention of Mr. Whitakers' Oakland connections. With each booklet was enclosed a picture of Mr. Whitaker, 2¾ by 1¾ inches, autographed by the author. The booklet was done in dark green on light green stock.

The advertising campaign also included big newspaper display copy done in two colors, black and dark green.

A novel plan was used in the presentation of the picture. There is a scene showing Andrea, beautiful daughter of the tropics, reclining on a couch, strumming a guitar and singing to the young northern hero. This scene was cut out and a loop of it made so that when the picture reached this scene, the machine carrying nothing but the loop was turned on and the scene remained while a soprano, stationed behind the screen, sang "La Golondrina." The effect brought thunderous applause.

New Shipman-Whitman Feature

Another Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature starring Nell Shipman with Alfred Whitman is announced for release the week of March 25 by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph company. It is "The Home Trail," produced at the Vitagraph Hollywood studio under direction of William Wolbert, and is from the pen of George H. Plympton, a member of the Vitagraph scenario staff.

This is the third feature in which Miss Shipman and Alfred Whitman have appeared together, the others being "The Wild Strain" and "Cavanaugh of the Forest Rangers," and the statement is made that they will be continued in combination for an indefinite period.

"The Home Trail" has a western setting. The big moments occur in the desert. To get the actual scenery, Director Wolbert took his company into the Mojave desert, remaining there for more than two weeks. This is one of the few occasions when motion pictures have actually been made in this region, owing to the fact that water and food supplies for the entire stay have to be carried along.

"The Home Trail" presents the story of a strong man who seeks love and happiness along a trail blazed by an enemy.

New Vitagraph Program

Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph company, announces the following program of releases for the week beginning March 25:

"The Home Trail," a Blue Ribbon feature, starring Nell Shipman with Alfred Whitman, produced under direction of William Wolbert.

"The Hand of Fate," fourteenth episode of "Vengeance—and the Woman" serial, starring William Duncan with Carol Holloway. Produced under direction of William Duncan.

"His Wife Knew About It," one reel comedy with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

"Stripes and Stumbles," a "Big V." Comedy with Lawrence Semon as the star, written and directed by Lawrence Semon.

Mr. Smith announces that the regular Vitagraph program, which now includes four units or nine reels weekly, will be given to exhibitors at least a week in advance of release date so that they may make their booking arrangements accordingly.

New Picture for Ray

"Playing the Game," is the title of a new play for Charles Ray, Paramount star.

Scenes from "The Home Trail," a new Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature with Nell Shipman and Alfred Whitman.

Scenes from Marguerite Clark's new starring vehicle, "Prunella." Miss Clark's work in this play on the speaking stage is what brought about her appearance in pictures. Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, was so attracted by her work that he hired her on the spot.

Lowly Dog May Delay Chaplin Picture

"Co-Star" Needed for Forgotten Scenes No Longer Adaptable and Charlie Seeks Another, but So Far in Vain

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is up against it. The king of comedians has struck an obstacle that may result in laying aside what was to have been his initial production for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit and starting all over again on a new story. For the first time in his career the famous artist is stuck and all on account of a dog. Not a high-class blue-ribbon canine, but a common everyday "mutt," at that.

When Charlie started to produce his first picture he was inspired by a little dog. It was a tiny, hungry, skinny, stray pup, with shivering body and tail curled up between its legs in true cur style. Its eyes were so pathetic and its whine so human that Charlie was attracted and he befriended the mongrel.

Not long after, the comedian announced that he would produce "A Dog's Life," and his chief support was to be the stray dog. The dog was christened "Mutt" and at once began his duties at the Chaplin plant as co-star.

This week the comedian discovered that there were a number of scenes which should have been taken five weeks ago, but which had been forgotten. He called for a "set" and "Mutt" and was about to photograph the missing scenes. Then Charlie turned a sickly white. No longer was the mongrel the pathetic and inspiring "Mutt" of weeks ago, but a big, over-fed, lazy, repulsive hound.

The distress call has gone out from the Chaplin studios in an effort to get a "double" for "Mutt." The pound has been fine-combed and every dog emporium in Los Angeles searched, but not a pup that looks anything like the one-time inspiration has been found. In desperation, Charlie has appealed to the public and must wait for a new dog before he can finish "A Dog's Life."

"The Blue Bird" Better as Film Than Stage Piece

The speaking stage has never been able to present Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" in accordance with the wishes of the author, according to Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

"But the production of this famous play, by Maurice Tourneur, which will be released under the Artcraft banner, carries out the ideas of Maeterlinck even to minute details," says Mr. Lasky, "which is a remarkable accomplishment. When the play was produced on the stage the unusual effects demanded were so difficult to work out that had it not been for the great name of the author it is questionable if a producer would have undertaken the task.

"In writing 'The Blue Bird,' Materlinck merely indicated the most intricate and difficult stage requirements, many of which necessitated days of study to gain the desired effect. He simply made a note of what he wanted and let the stage manager wrestle with the problem and the designers of the properties, mechanical and electrical effects and the scenery were greatly perplexed.

"Some of the many instructions that the dramatist gave were impossible of accomplishment on the stage, but when the screen production was made the directions were carried out to a remarkable degree. The effects obtained by dissolving scenes, multiple exposures, etc., should prove wonderfully mystifying to the public, and it can hardly be doubted that this photoplay will create a far stronger impression than the stage piece did."

American Buys "A Square Deal"

The American Film Company, pursuant to its policy of selecting only strong stories by well known writers, has just purchased "A Square Deal," by Albert Payson Terhune. It tells a strong story of the choice of a modern young woman who made a quick decision for home happiness when she sees her husband turning to another woman because of her exploits on a higher thought plane.

Margarita Fischer, who will play the leading role, likes the new script and has entered into the rehearsals with much spirit.

Push Drew Re-issues

Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization, announces that the same extensive publicity given Blue Ribbon features and other program releases will be accorded the re-issued Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew comedies. A special press service has been inaugurated and a full line of posters, carrying latest portraits of the comedians and striking scenes from individual comedies are being put out.

The comedies now are in their third week and it is announced by Vitagraph that they are proving even more popular than when originally released.

S. ROYAL TUPPER
General Manager

DON R. EGBERT, Managing Editor

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada	- -	Per year $4.00
Foreign	- -	Per year 5.00
Single copy	- - - -	.15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, MARCH 30, 1918 Number 13

Setting the Sun Back An Hour

WHEN Joshua—we believe it was he—commanded the sun to stand still until he had accomplished his purpose, and it obeyed, the net result of his achievement was identical with the passage of An Act to Save Daylight by our legislature. There are those, indeed, who make bold to doubt the Joshuan influence on the solar routine, and believe the Old Testament warrior surreptitiously shifted the sun dial.

Be that as it may, as the chroniclers put it, our lawmakers have managed very effectively to set the orb of day back one hour. Hereafter (until further notice) he will rise and set an hour later than heretofore. On June 21st, when he always makes his longest visit, he will get up at 5:24 and retire at 8:40. Last year, of course, the figures were 4:24 and 7:40.

That, in a nutshell, is what the daylight saving bill accomplishes—and all it accomplishes directly. So far as our use of the clock is concerned, it will make absolutely no difference in the time we arise in the morning or go to bed at night, or in the opening of offices or the running of trains, or eating lunch, or any other human activity—except, possibly, for the farmer, with whom we are not concerned in this discussion. The things we are accustomed to do at certain hours we will continue to do at those same hours by the clock. The only difference will be that the sun will give us light an hour later in the morning, when we do not need it, and continue to give us light an hour later in the evening, when we do need it.

On that longest day of the year the average theatre manager switches on his front lights a little before eight o'clock in the evening, and keeps them on until a little before eleven—three hours of electricity. This year he will not have to turn them on until a little before nine o'clock, and will still turn them off at eleven. He uses his ornamental and advertising lights two hours an evening instead of three—fourteen hours a week instead of twenty-one. The cost of running those lamps for seven hours a week he saves.

The saving, we must admit, is not much. But it is something, anyway, and cost nothing to secure. Therefore, let us be thankful.

There is another advantage in the extension of daylight, however, besides the saving on the electric light bills. Timorous women who cannot provide themselves with an escort, yet whose enjoyment of the pictures is just as great and whose dimes are just as good, will be able to get to the "first show" after supper and actually get home again before the sun sets, even after a day of employment of the customary hours. That should mean a little more business for the neighborhood theatre. It almost makes a matinee out of the first evening show, and gives all the workers matinee freedom to enjoy it.

There is still another possibility, if not probability, of increasing trade, at least for the first month or two. Young people who can afford to lose an hour of sleep may not immediately accustom themselves to a retiring hour so soon after sunset. Some of them, while the novelty lasts, will probably postpone their curfew for an hour—make it eleven instead of ten, or twelve instead of eleven—in spite of early rising hours. That may mean one more evening show for the exhibitor. As this is contradictory to the purpose of the order, however, only an experiment would show whether it worked or not.

The new order of time is full of interesting possibilities, in spite of its simple aspect. Its best feature is that the motion picture houses cannot possibly lose anything, and may gain considerably. For elementally it means a longer continuous period of leisure every day for the workers; and we know that they will spend some of that additional leisure in the theatres.

The Law and the Censor

AS law-abiding citizens, voluntarily giving our representatives power to establish the rules and regulations of our conduct, we are morally bound to give full recognition to the contents of our statute books. Thus, however ridiculous or obsolete a law may be, the proper theoretical attitude must accept the enforcement of that law until its repeal. It has been said, indeed, that the quickest way to accomplish the repeal of an obnoxious law is rigidly to enforce it.

The censorship laws with which certain states and municipalities are afflicted are unquestionably obnoxious, obsolete and ridiculous. The theory of social organization calls upon us to observe them, however, until we are ready to change them. The motion picture interests are doing just that. They have shown no disposition to evade the law, which their enemies accuse them of trying to do. They are anxious to have censor laws repealed, naturally—but they do not want to break them while they are on the books. The thing they resent—and resent with considerable success, it may be said—is that the authorities sworn to enforce censorship laws are the ones who break them. Improper consideration for Chicago's censorship ordinance was laid by Judge Baker of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals not at the door of the film interests, but upon Major Funkhouser of the Chicago Censor Board. This part of the court's opinion is vital:

> The only misappresention we find in the case is that of the city's administrator with respect to the discretion committed to him by the ordinance. Section 1627 sets up a standard, but allows no discretion. If a photoplay conforms to that standard, "it shall be his duty to grant such permit." If it does not, he must refuse the permit. In deciding the question of fact the trier [censor] must of course take the viewpoint of old and young, wise and foolish, learned and ignorant; but a picture either is or is not obscene, including all the public.

In so many words, most of the trouble, friction and bitterness in the film man's relations with censor boards arises from the censor's habitual exaggeration of his duties and his assumption of an arbitrary power which the statutes or ordinances do not give him. The censor who is content, like any good officer, to enforce the law as it lies upon the books will make little trouble either for himself or for reputable film producers. The censor who takes it upon himself to amend and extend the law to cover his own peculiar conception of propriety is bound to get into difficulties.

We are ready to grant sincerity to the censors who have become notorious by their activities. The protection of the undeveloped part of society undoubtedly weighs upon their minds. As police officers or social students, their contact with the subnormal mental stratum is more frequent and their appreciation of its weaknesses more keen. They are prone to forget that its presence in the social organization must not be allowed to hamper the development of the normal mind nor deprive it of any advantages. The Chicago "Tribune" says:

"Judge Baker, however, makes the suggestion that censorship must consider all the elements of the community, not merely the young and foolish; it must relate its decision to the average conscience and intelligence rather than to abnormal states of mentality. Most of the criticism of censorship in Chicago has arisen because of disregard for these very considerations. Our censors have been more solicitous of the one straying sheep than the ninety and nine that are safe in the fold."

The fact that a virtual censorship can exist without morbidity has been demonstrated for years by the National Board of Review. There is evidence that censorship itself might not be objectionable if it could be fitted with the right mentalities—men who would not be fearful that they would be looked upon as superfluous because of the scarcity of their condemnations. That seems to be the one reason why the volunteer, unpaid censor is a saner mortal than the professional.

P. H. W.

Contrasting scenes from J. Stuart Blackton's production of "Wild Youth," which will soon be released under the Paramount brand.

Pathe Program Strong in Mystery

Irene Castle Stars in Original Play and Pearl White Appears in New "House of Hate" Episode

PATHE'S program for the week of March 24 contains pictures starring Irene Castle, Pearl White and Antonio Moreno in strong mysteries and an unusually good comedy.

Irene Castle is starred in "The Hillcrest Mystery," an original photoplay written by Ouida Bergere, directed by George Fitzmaurice and produced by Astra, with a cast including J. H. Gilmour, Ralph Kellard and Wyndham Standing. The story teems with action, suspense and intrigue, with a touch of color from the great war, in which the star's aviator husband, Vernon Castle, lost his life.

When the government realizes the need for a vast number of ships, Thomas Sterling (J. H. Gilmour), decides to donate his immense shipbuilding plant to the country for the duration of the war. He announces his decision to his associates on the birthday of his pretty daughter, Marion, during a gay party at Hillcrest, the Sterling estate.

Marion proudly wears a necklace, the gift of her father, and a solitaire from his young and handsome partner, Hugo Smith (Wyndham Standing), who is favored as a prospective son-in-law by Mr. Sterling, though Marion reserves independence of action and thinks a good deal of Gordon Brett (Ralph Kellard).

In a swift succession of events Sterling is strangely murdered and Brett, suspected of the crime, eludes the police with Marion's aid. Then, even more mysteriously than before, another tragedy occurs when the family lawyer is killed as he is reading Sterling's will in the presence of the beneficiaries.

Brett is captured by Smith and the detective who apparently is aiding him, but the end of the picture brings a number of surprise twists, including the discovery of a diabolical scheme of Smith to advise enemy submarines of the movements of American transports.

Pearl White and Moreno appear in the third episode of "The House of Hate" serial under the title of "A Woman's Perfidy.

This episode will make everyone ask how Pearl White lives through the "stunts" she performs. In it she is thrown from a window to the roof of a porch many feet below while pursuing the Hooded Terror. The Terror evades her, but she finds a figure in a black robe lying on the ground; the man rises and is—who?

The comedy on the program is "Let's Go," a one-reeler featuring Harry Pollard and Bebe Daniels.

A Pathe colored educational, a travel split-reel and Hearst-Pathe News No. 26 and No. 27 round up the offering.

Fairbanks Eager to Take Stump

Douglas Fairbanks is working day and night on his latest Artcraft picture, to finish it in time to start his trans-continental Liberty loan tour.

His new picture is practically all laid indoors, which makes possible working after dark. The Fairbanks studio is well equipped with photographing lights, and rain or darkness cannot interfere with his work.

The Liberty loan tour will require about three weeks of his time.

Film Players Appear on Stage

An original and highly effective means of introducing a picture was employed at Grauman's theatre in Los Angeles last week when "'Flare Up' Sal," the Thomas H. Ince picture starring Dorothy Dalton and released by Paramount, was the attraction.

Twenty members of the "'Flare Up' Sal" company appeared in a prologue in an appropriate setting. There was hearty applause by the spectators. Owing to the fact that Miss Dalton was in San Francisco, she did not appear until later.

Brother Takes Over Interests of Late Stanley V. Mastbaum

Jules E. Mastbaum, brother of the late Stanley V. Mastbaum, has succeeded to the presidency of the Stanley Company in Philadelphia. As head of the company he will supervise all the producer, distributor, booking and exhibitor interests of the dead magnate.

Himself a man of strong personality and indominitable energy, he was closely connected with his brother, and made a careful study of the motion picture field. As a result he is fully equipped to take up the work which Stanley Mastbaum's death interrupted.

Mr. Mastbaum is well known, particularly in connection with efforts to find a remedy for infantile paralysis. He expended large sums in fitting up a research laboratory. The scientists in charge of the work made discoveries which are believed to go a long way towards establishing a cure.

New House Added to Circuit

The Strand theatre, Seattle, has been added to the circuit of the Greater Theatres Company, which already operates three houses in Seattle, two in Portland, and one in Butte. The Strand for the last two years has been under the management of W. H. Smythe, who will continue in the picture business as an exploiter of state rights features.

Gets Russian War Film

Seventy-five reels of Russian war film have just been brought to the United States by Lieut. Norton C. Travis, news cameraman. The lieutenant passed many days in the trenches, some of them with the famous Battalion of Death, the women who took up arms.

Five Metro All Star Pictures in April

Harold Lockwood, May Allison, Bushman and Bayne, Edith Storey and Bert Lytell Are Players

METRO will release five All-Star Series pictures in April with Harold Lockwood, May Allison, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Edith Storey and Bert Lytell as the stellar players in the order named.

The releasing of the productions introducing May Allison and Bert Lytell as Metro stars in their own right will furnish two important incidents.

Harold Lockwood heads the list with "The Landloper," which will be offered the first week. This picture was directed by George Irving and is a screen version of Holman Day's romantic story of the same name. Fred J. Balshofer made the adaptation. "The Landloper" presents Lockwood as a young man of great wealth who holds the theory that anyone can extract the full measure of joy out of life no matter what his station. To prove it he makes a wager with another of his set that, starting penniless, he can assume the role of a knight of the highway and return at the end of three months none the worse for his experience.

May Allison makes her debut in "Social Hypocrites," which will be released April 8. This is a screen version of Alicia Ramsey's stage play "Bridge." It was directed by Albert Capellani, who also wrote the scenario in collaboration with June Mathis.

Miss Allison takes the part of Leonore Fielding, the daughter of Col. Francis Fielding of the Coldstream Guards, falsely accused of being a card-cheat. As her mother died at her birth, Lenore and her father struggle together to make ends meet. Even though his luck is usually of the worst, the old man frequents gambling resorts in the sublime faith that it will change.

At Monte Carlo Fielding and Lenore meet Monsieur Royle, in reality Lord Royle Fitzmaurice, nephew of the Duchess St. Keverne, Fielding's old love. Royle knows Fielding's story and befriends him. Leonore is attracted to Royle, but he is already secretly married to Lady Norton, a notorious divorcee. Lady Norton realizes that Royle no longer cares for her, but has no intention of losing any claim to possible fortune. She publicly disgraces Leonore, accusing her of being her father's own daughter and cheating at bridge. Vindication and happiness come in a dramatic way.

"With Neatness and Dispatch," starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, is released April 15. This picture is a screen version of Kenneth L. Roberts' story of the same name, published in the Saturday Evening Post. June Mathis and Luther Reed prepared the scenario and Will S. Davis directed the picture.

Mr. Bushman plays Paul Donaldson, a virile American youth who is mistaken by Beverly Bayne, who plays Geraldine Ames, for "Slim" Keegan, a crook.

Edith Storey in "Treasure," is the release of April 22. Leighton Osmun is the author of the story and he and Albert Shelby Le Vino prepared the scenario. Frank Reicher, who guided the star in "The Claim," also directed "Treasure." Miss Storey has the role of Margaret Elkins, daughter of Thomas Elkins, a Westernor, who upon losing his money has moved East. Elkins believes that James Hardwick is to blame for his losses. In reality, Henry Ames, Elkins' lawyer is responsible.

Margaret is a loyal daughter and hates Hardwick. She urges her father to return West and they occupy Ame's bungalow on the Pacific Coast. It happens that Hardwick is camping nearby and he and Margaret meet. When she learns his identity the spirit of revenge is aroused. Interesting situations develop and after many scenes of adventure in which Margaret and Hardwick play at cross-purposes they learn each other's true worth.

Bert Lytell makes his Metro debut in "The Trail to Yesterday," which is scheduled for release April 29. It is a western drama adapted by June Mathis from Charles Alden Seltzer's novel of the same name. Edwin Carewe directed.

Players in Metro's new feature, "The Social Hypocrite." In the center is May Allison, who makes her first appearance as a Metro star in her own right. At the top are Henry Kolker and Stella Hammerstein. At the bottom are Marie Wainwright and Joseph Kilgour. The story is the photo version of Alicia Ramsay's big Broadway play, "Bridge." Albert Capallani is the director.

Scenes from "Stolen Orders" with Carlyle Blackwell, Montague Love, Kitty Gordon and June Elvidge. This is the first production sponsored by William A. Brady since he quit active direction of World.

Prominent Cast in "Stolen Orders

Includes Kitty Gordon, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Carlyle Blackwell, Madge Evans and George McQuarrie

IN William A. Brady's photoplay, "Stolen Orders," based on the famous Drury Lane melodrama, "Sealed Orders," is a real all-star cast.

Six names which have long proved potent in box-office power—names which were as familiar in Petrograd as in Paris, in Rio de Janeiro as in New York, are to be found in the company interpreting this story—Kitty Gordon, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Carlyle Blackwell, Madge Evans and George McQuarrie.

"Stolen Orders," which will be the first of the big feature productions sponsored by Mr. Brady since he quit the active direction of World Pictures, is said to abound in scenes and situations that fill the eye and quicken the pulse. In point of magnitude it is said to rival the biggest productions so far seen and to possess a universal appeal through a succession of intensely dramatic episodes interspersed by scenes as unusual as they are spectacular.

The story is laid in London, Paris and America—America at the outbreak of the great war. Kitty Gordon is the wife of an admiral of the American navy. Playing opposite her as a sinister figure whose every action is directed and dominated by Wilhelmstrasse is Montagu Love. June Elvidge appears as the daughter of the spy, as does little Madge Evans. Carlyle Blackwell as a a young American naval officer has a romantic role. George McQuarrie is cast as the American admiral.

The picture is being directed by Harley Knoles and Mr. Brady himself.

Finley Film Awaits Release

"The Return of O'Garry," the vehicle in which Ned Finley makes his re-appearance upon the screen as a star in his favorite sort of roles, will shortly be ready for release, according to an announcement by General Film Company, the distributors. Finley plays a northwest mounted police hero made famous by him in a series of Vitagraph releases. Marion Henry is the leading woman.

Soldiers See "An Alien Enemy"

A private pre-view of Monte M. Katterjohn's latest Paralta play, "An Alien Enemy," the first Paralta production starring Louise Glaum, was given at the studio last week, with each member of the audience taxed 25 cents for the benefit of the Red Cross, in accordance with the usual custom.

As the entire strength of the California "Bears," together with the Fort McArthur military band furnished the military background for many of the scenes in this production, the officers, including Maj. Harry A. Wishard, commanding, Lieut. Green and others attended as guests of the company.

Miss Glaum and Mr. Katterjohn, as well as Wallace Worsley, who directed the picture, were congratulated.

New Paralta Leading Man

Charles Gunn, famous both on the stage and the screen, has just been engaged as a member of the Paralta company to appear regularly as leading man and for his first picture he has been assigned to the support of Miss Bessie Barriscale in the production which she has just commenced, entitled "Patriotism."

His role is that of "John Hamilton," a wounded American soldier who is being cared for on the Scotch estate of "Sir Angus Cameron," where Miss Barriscale, as "Robin Cameron," is turning over her home as a hospital.

New Kansas City House

The Garden Theatre, Kansas City, Mo., has been reopened under the management of W. P. Cullen. Mr. Cullen announces that it will be his policy to offer super pictures, and while the prices will not be extravagant, admission will be high enough to assure only first-class attractions.

"I believe," said Mr. Cullen, "that there is a demand in Kansas City for strictly first-class attractions and that is the only kind we shall offer. We expect to keep the house going until the warm weather forces us to take a vacation."

Griffith Spectacle Shown at Clune's Auditorium

Three thousand persons witnessed the opening of David Wark Griffith's latest film spectacle, "Hearts of the World," at Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles recently. To say that the audience was thrilled would be putting it mildly. They stood up and cheered at the end of the picture until Griffith appeared on the stage and spoke a few words of thanks.

Many Sign for Sunday Shows

A petition for Sunday shows signed by 4,000 voters is ready to present to the city commission of Birmingham, Ala. Never before in the history of the city has there been such a large number of signatures to a petition.

The petition will not be presented until it is decided whether newly-made voters have the right to sign it. If it is proved that they have the petition will be filed at once.

Seattle House Sold

D. Geddes, owner and manager of Ye College Playhouse in the University district of Seattle, has just sold the Greenlake Theatre, which he bought several months ago, to Lackaye & McFall.

Varying emotions portrayed by Elsie Ferguson in her new Artcraft picture, "The Lie."

Fourth Petrova Production Completed

"The Great Star" to Be Released in April—Contains Cast of Well Known Men and Women Players

IT is announced by the Petrova Picture Company that "The Great Star," Madame Petrova's fourth production, is finished and ready for assembling.

This picture was written expressly for the star by George Middleton, author of the Broadway success, "Polly with a Past," now crowding the Belasco theatre nightly. The production was made under the direction of Ralph Ince and photographed by Harry Harris.

It embraces a cast of well known performers. The leading role of Lucille Caruthers is interpreted by Mme. Petrova, of course. Opposite her appears Thomas Holding in the person of Richard Sheldon, who has been seen as the leading male character of the three former Petrova productions, "Daughter of Destiny," "The Light Within" and "The Life Mask."

The "heavy" role of "The Great Star" is held down by J. Herbert Frank, well known to screen fans for his appearances in support of Clara Kimball Young, Marguerite Clark, Theda Bara and other leading players. E. J. Radcliffe, who has to his credit forty years of experience on the legitimate stage, makes his screen debut with Madame Petrova. A touch of sentiment is loaned to the production by the appearance of William T. Carlton, famous for many years as manager of the Carlton Opera Company and well known as a singer of tenor roles. This is Mr. Carlton's first time in pictures.

The feminine contingent, excluding the star, is represented by Edith Hinckle, Mrs. Helen Walton and Matilda Brundage.

"The Great Star" is scheduled for release through the First National Exhibitors Circuit during the latter part of April, following "The Life Mask."

Rothapfel Resigns as Head of National Exhibitors

S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rivoli and Rialto theatres in New York, has resigned as president of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit because of a pressure of other business.

His recent appointment as chairman of the motion picture and film industry division of the Liberty Loan publicity campaign in New York, together with the task of presenting new programs at two theatres each week, made it imperative for him to give up some of his responsibilities.

Build Theatre at Camp

Cassady and McKee, Tacoma exhibitors, are building a theatre in the newly established amusement zone at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash. Pending its completion they are using the Liberty Theatre when the Liberty is not being used for road shows.

Picturesque western scene and high light in the comedy afforded by "Western Blood," a new Fox picture featuring Tom Mix.

Fox Stars Busy Both in East and West

George Walsh, June Caprice, Peggy Hyland, Gladys Brockwell and William Farnum Start New Plays

WITH most of the stars in the eastern studios of William Fox completing their latest productions last week, preliminary work was started on several new plays.

George Walsh began work at the Kalem studios, Cliffside, N. J., on a production called "440 at Fort Penn."

June Caprice, who has been enjoying a rest after making "A Camouflage Kiss," started work on a new play called "Blue Eyed Mary."

After finishing "The Debt of Honor," her first production for William Fox, Peggy Hyland began on exterior scenes of a new play which has "Peg of the Pirates" as a working title. In the story Peggy is carried off by pirates and is rescued by her lover, Terry, who is a poet; also a fine lad. As a reward for his bravery Sir Martyn, Peggy's wealthy uncle, gives Peggy to him in marriage. O. A. C. Lund is directing.

Richard Stanton has finished cutting "Rough and Ready," the William Farnum de luxe production. Many of the exterior scenes were made in the Adirondack mountains and the snow scenes are said to be fine specimens of photography.

R. A. Walsh, after a brief vacation following completion of "Women and the Law," is working on a script for a new play.

Jane and Katherine Lee, the "Baby Grands," after their return from Georgia, where they made exteriors, resumed work at the Biograph studios. In the cast are Sarah McVicker, Henry Clive, William Pike, Edward Sturgis and Tammany Young.

In the west coast studios Gladys Brockwell has started work on a new play with the tentative title of "Miss Past, Miss Present." "The Honeymooners" is the working title of a new picture which Jewel Carmen is making. Miss Carmen takes the part of a bride. William Farnum has begun work on a new de luxe production under the direction of Frank Lloyd.

New Play Starring Tom Mix Replete with Humor

Cowboys in dress suits figure largely in "Western Blood," a new play of the Wild West which Tom Mix has finished in the west coast studios of William Fox.

Tex, which is the character played by Mix, sends to a clothing house and gets dress suits for all his cow punchers. He has just returned to his New Mexico ranch from Los Angeles, where he has noticed that dress suits go with fashionable affairs.

The colonel who has charge of the remounting bureau of the army visits Tex, bringing his interesting daughter along, and the ranch owner is determined to have things right.

It is an awful ordeal for the cowboys. They struggle and perspire and almost weep tears at the horrors of the "soup and fish," as they call their dress suits.

However, once the clothes are on, they develop something very much akin to conceit. They look at Tex, and then down at themselves and decide that the range ought to be proud of them. They had just one rule for getting along and that was to do just what Tex did. They follow his every gesture.

"This is one of the funniest plays Mix has ever made," is the announcement from the Fox offices. "The cowboys squirm and do all sorts of impossible things in their dress suits."

"Western Blood" was directed by Lynn Reynolds. It will be one of the late April releases.

Sennett Pushes Comedies

Work is progressing rapidly on "Friend Husband," an April release of the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedies. In this film Charlie Murray, Wayland Trask and Mary Thurman are featured. Walter Wright is the director. Following "Friend Husband" will be "Saucy Madeline" with Ben Turpin, Charlie Lynn and Polly Moran. "Sheriff Nell's Tussle" is the release for the first part of March. "Those Athletic Girls" is the release for the latter part.

Mutt and Jeff Have New Role

William Fox announces that his first release of Bud Fisher's animated cartoons will be "The Decoy." The comedy deals with the activities of Mutt and Jeff as big game hunters. They alternate in the roles of decoy and hunter and have some very unexpected experiences.

Change Title of World Picture

World-Pictures announces a change in the title of the production to be released April 23 in which Kitty Gordon is the star. During the working period this picture has been known as "Devil's Dice," but the title has now been changed to "The Purple Lily."

Jewel Carmen Starts New Play

After finishing "The Bride of Fear" in the west coast studios of William Fox, Jewel Carmen began work on a new production under the direction of Edward J. Le Saint. "The Bride of Fear" is a mid-April release.

Fox to Present Theda Bara in "Salome"

Spectacle Filmed Secretly and Announcement Is Not Made Until After Private Showing in New York

WILLIAM FOX is to present Theda Bara in "Salome." Work on the production has been completed in the west, it is just revealed, the negative has been shipped to New York and a private showing has been given by Mr. Fox.

The gorgeous splendor of the East, the pomp and power of a mighty military kingdom, sacred scenes from the Bible, intrigues of a lavish court, ambition, love, jealousy, and over everything, the purifying influence of a noble sacrifice for a great cause—all these have been woven into this spectacular super-production, which is more massive and more costly than even "Cleopatra."

The accuracy and artistry of ancient Judea, which was built anew for this film, are amazing. The settings and the costumes are as exact and as faithful to the period they represent as the most persistent and persevering research could make them.

The picturesque times of the Herodian dynasty offer wonderful opportunities for Miss Bara. In "Romeo and Juliet" she rose to supreme dramatic heights in her expression of passionate love. In "Cleopatra" she portrayed, as none had done before, the barbaric lure of "the Siren of the Nile." In "Under Two Flags" she thrilled her audiences with the spirit of high romance. In "Du Barry" she won king and courtier by her charms of mind and her coquetry. But in "Salome" she does all of these things.

And Mr. Fox spared nothing to give her an opportunity to put into this film every dramatic and spectacular effect that is known to the scenic art. He, too, has outstripped all these other productions in the massiveness, gorgeousness and costliness of the picture.

While emphasis was laid on pageantry, action and tense episodes, Director J. Gordon Edwards insisted on strictest historical accuracy. His scenario was based on the works of Josephus, the most famous historian of antiquity.

It was decided not to adopt Oscar Wilde's version centering around Salome's dance and the delivering of John the Baptist's head because it was not suited to accurate presentation on the screen.

The result of following historical lines is a colossal spectacle-drama that not only will appeal to students of the Bible, but will thrill and inspire every man or woman who is moved by great events in human life.

Theda Bara as she will appear in the William Fox picturization of "Salome."

Announce New Sunshine Comedy

The latest Sunshine comedy release by William Fox is "A Self-Made Lady." It is about a "she crook" who was sentenced to seven days in prison, but through a slight error was behind the bars for seven years. When the "she crook" gets out she wants to go straight but circumstances won't let her.

The Lehrman police romp through the picture in characteristic style, automobiles dash recklessly over cliffs and a swimming tank is utilized to speed up the fun. Dot Farley, Bobby Vernon and Ed Kennedy keep the mirth at high pitch from start to finish.

"Her Husband's Wife" is another recent Sunshine comedy release. In this picture also the fun is fast and furious.

King and Queen of Spain See "Daughter of the Gods"

"A Daughter of the Gods," the Fox phantasy with Annette Kellermann, is being greeted with the same enthusiasm abroad that has characterized its exhibition throughout the United States, according to an announcement from the William Fox offices.

The "picture beautiful" has had extended engagements in Europe, Japan, China and Australia, and is now running in Spain. King Alfonso and Queen Victoria were present at a private showing in Madrid and praised it highly.

Title Play for Jewel Carmen

The new picture Jewel Carmen has made for William Fox in the west coast studios has been titled "The Bride of Fear." The heroine marries a thief who has saved her from suicide. Later, believing her husband dead, she marries the profiigate son of wealthy parents. From this point the plot unfolds rapidly,

Animals Portray Human Weaknesses

Goldwyn Introduces Startling Allegorical Effects in "The Splendid Sinner," New Picture with Mary Garden

WHEN it was decided to present Mary Garden in Kate Jordan's "The Splendid Sinner," every resource of modern cinema production was marshaled into service. Just as Miss Garden's art is distinctly modern, so Goldwyn resolved that the production should be a perfect example of the picture craft.

The story is up to the minute in its timeliness and is developed with the skill for which Kate Jordan is noted. Hugo Ballin, Goldwyn's art director, distinguishes himself in the splendor and originality of a banquet, not to mention a score of other settings.

The cast surrounding Miss Garden includes Hamilton Revelle and Anders Randolph, the well-known "heavy." Mr. Revelle plays again in a Mary Garden production because of his capital work as the monk in "Thais." Direction is in the hands of Edwin Carewe.

The production opens with a banquet at which sit Rudolph Von Zorn and his favorite, Dolores Fargis (Mary Garden), surrounded by satellites who fawn upon him and envy the beauty and success of his mistress.

Each of these persons is brought to the attention of the spectator and their characteristics presented in a telling manner. To do this it was necessary to introduce into the studio an assortment of animals, birds and reptiles, for it was decided that the traits of the sheep, the pig, the parrot, the snake and the ape would more quickly classify the individuals seated at Von Zorn's table than the most cleverly devised titles.

Accordingly, as the camera picks out the guests, one by one, the human fades out and the beast chosen to typify the person dissolves in. Then the animal disappears and the audience sees once more the conventional man or woman at the table. But so surely is this accomplished that the spectator has no doubt as to the motives controlling the person whose counterpart he has seen among the animals.

In passing it may be said that the animal chosen to typify Von Zorn—"the Teuton at his worst," sensualist and trafficker in women, who later casts his lot with the German army—is an orang-outang.

"The Splendid Sinner" is a love story. Love comes to the heroine out of a morass of lies, deceit, intrigue and passion and like all tremendous psychological conflicts there is a high price to pay.

With the half-world at her feet as the mistress of Von Zorn, Dolores Fargis is made miserable by her conscience. She despises the man whose chattel she is and when finally she breaks with him she seeks solace in the quiet of the country.

In the most natural manner, Hugh Maxwell, a young physician, meets her and falls under her spell. They are married and not until Von Zorn confronts his former mistress does Maxwell know what manner of a woman she is. He leaves her then in anger and bitterness.

Serving humbly and tirelessly, Dolores is next seen in a French hospital under German guard. A wounded soldier entrusts her with dispatches. In a burst of feeling husband and wife recognize each other. But they are not to be happy, for both are arrested for conspiracy. By a great sacrifice, however, Dolores enables her husband to escape.

A dramatic moment in "The Splendid Sinner," the second Goldwyn picture starring Mary Garden.

Stages "Comedy Night"

The Tivoli Theatre, Montreal, staged a "Comedy Night" recently, when six reels of comedy were screened in addition to the regular show. Laugh-seekers thronged the theatre, children turning out in large numbers. The event will be repeated regularly.

The Star on the Cover

BILLIE BURKE, idol of the theatre and of screen, was born at Washington, D. C., but went to France at an early age and it was principally in the convents of that country that she received her early education. Her father was an actor, well known as "Billie" Burke, and it was this fact which prompted the daughter to assume this name for her own professional career.

Concluding her studies, she decided to become an actress, and being a fluent linguist sang in the principal music halls of France, Russia and other European countries, after which she appeared on the English stage. She made her debut in New York with John Drew in "My Wife," and was elevated to stardom in the role of Jacqueline in "Love Watches." Since that time she has appeared in a number of notable productions and has won a commanding position.

Billie Burke is famous for her extravagance in clothes, and is alike the envy and despair of her co-actresses. She is petite, being in all about five feet four inches in height. She is a daring horsewoman, an expert tennis player, an accomplished skater and a golf enthusiast.

Miss Burke's winsome personality, her piquant face and delightful mannerisms have gained great popularity in Paramount pictures. Her recent pictures were "The Land of Promise" and "Eve's Daughter." "Let's Get a Divorce," produced from a scenario written by Anita Loos and John Emerson, is the April release.

Pauline Frederick, famous Paramount star, in "La Tosca."

Goldwyn Gets Three Selexart Films

"Blue Blood," "Social Ambition" and "Honor's Cross" New Pictures — All Feature Well Known Players

GOLDWYN announces the closing of a deal whereby exhibitors are to be offered three big productions from the studios of Selexart Pictures, Inc.

Though release dates have not been announced, it is probable that the first production, "Blue Blood," starring Howard Hickman, will be ready for a trade showing within a fortnight. "Blue Blood" is from the story by J. Grubb Alexander and Fred Myton and was directed by Elliot Howe.

Howard Hickman needs no introduction to American audiences. Originally an actor of the spoken stage, he began his career in a Bernhardt company and then played in repertoire with Melbourne McDowell. His first screen work was with Universal, from which he went to Lasky, where he appeared in "The Sin Ye Do" and "The Female of the Species." For Triangle-Ince he did among others "The Snarl." Of late he has been a Paralta player.

Hickman is co-starred with Rhea Mitchell in the second of the Selexart productions, "Social Ambition." This is from the story by W. H. Wing and directed by Wallace Worsley. Miss Mitchell, too, began her career on the legitimate stage. She played in stock at the Alcazar, San Francisco, and later was seen throughout the country on the Orpheum Circuit. She has appeared on the screen for the New York Motion Picture Company in "Three Musketeers" and for the American in "Sealed Lips," "The Great Stanley Secret," "Gilded Youth," and "Whither Thou Goest." In recent months she has been a Paralta player.

Miss Mitchell is starred alone in "Honor's Cross," the last of the group. The picture, directed by Mr. Worsley, is from the story by H. B. Daniel.

The Selexart productions will be booked entirely apart from Goldwyn Pictures, though Goldwyn customers will be given the preference.

Goldwyn Studios Busy

With the return to Fort Lee of Madge Kennedy, the completion by Mae Marsh of a new production and the impending return from Florida of Mabel Normand, activities at the Goldwyn studios took on an added aspect of bustle last week.

Madge Kennedy, star of "The Danger Game," by Roy Somerville, scheduled for release April 7, came back to the studio after an illness of a week. Her absence did not materially affect the progress of the production, for Director Harry Pollard found himself able to photograph a series of short scenes in which the star has no part.

"The Face in the Dark," to be released April 21, is the picture Miss Marsh is completing. When it is done she will begin work in a new production, which has not yet been given a title, from a story by Edith Barnard Delano entitled "When Carey Came to Town." It will be directed by Hobart Henley.

Mabel Normand, who had been in Florida with George Loane Tucker and several players making revisions in "Joan of Plattsburg" to conform with a government request that certain military material be eliminated, returned on Wednesday, refreshed and eager to start her next production, which is to be made from a famous Broadway stage success.

A few more interior scenes for "Joan of Plattsburg" remain to be made and the picture has been tentatively scheduled for release May 6. "Joan of Plattsburg" was to have been the star's first picture under the Goldwyn banner. Despite the delay and changes it has not suffered. If anything it has been improved.

Plan New House

J. H. and Sidney McAden will open a new theatre at Charlotte, N. C., not later than June 1. It will be located at 28 East Trade street and will be called the Strand. Edward G. Gidley will be the manager. Mr. Gidley formerly was manager of the Piedmont at Charlotte. Vaudeville will be staged at the Strand in addition to pictures.

Want National Censorship

The Moving Picture Exhibitors' Association of Ontario, Canada, and tht Toronto Exchange Managers' Association, are anxious for national censorship. At a recent conference, both organizations chose committees which will proceed to Ottawa in the near future to discuss details with federal officials.

Pauline Welch in Screen Debut

Pauline Welch, formerly the wife of "Bud" Fisher, the cartoonist, and well known as a headliner in vaudeville, will make her screen debut in the Metro All-Star Series production, "Social Hypocrites," starring May Allison. Miss Welch plays the Duchess of St. Keverne as a girl, later portrayed by Marie Wainwright.

Mae Marsh Plays Role of Detective

Confronted by Robbery in Which Fiance Is Suspected, She Clears Mystery, Though Father Is Guilty Man

MAE MARSH'S newest starring vehicle, made from Irvin S. Cobb's story, "The Web," retitled for picture purposes "The Face in the Dark," affords her a new role. She is the girl who knows things—the girl who has the gift of solving mysteries.

How and why she could always reach at the heart of a mystery, Jane Ridgeway (Miss Marsh) never knew, but from childhood she was able to trace down step by step, with the skill of a great detective, those guilty of wrong-doing. Then came the biggest test of her life—a discovery that gripped her heart and filled her brain with fear. In her quest for a master criminal she came face to face with her own father. Was he guilty? "The Face in the Dark" has the answer.

Her father, unknown to her, is in league with a band of bank robbers. Early in life Jane had often expressed a wish to become a detector of criminals and on numerous occasions astounded her father with her views on angles the police should have used in this or that robbery or murder to ferret out the criminals.

Fearful lest she discover his connection with crime, he sends her to a boarding school. But the detective instinct still clings. Shortly after her arrival one of her sister students, a daughter of wealth, reports the loss or theft of a jewel. Suspicion narrows down to a janitor. Certain of his innocence, Jane comes to his rescue and finds the jewel in the cuff of his trousers, where it had fallen unknown to him. Her feat makes her the institution's heroine.

While at a party given by the girl whose jewel she had found, Jane meets a young bank clerk and their friendship develops into love. Some time later her father visits her at the school and she accompanies him to the bank to see her sweetheart. Not long afterward the bank is robbed of $100,000 and Jane's sweetheart, the last person to handle the money before its disappearance, is arrested and charged with the crime.

Here, then, is a double duty for Jane—to save the man she loves and to fulfill a life-long ambition to solve big crime. As clues she finds a gray thread caught in the lock of the safe, marks of rubber heels on the damp floor and cigar ashes on a chair. With these slender bits of evidence she arrives at an analysis which frees her fiance and restores the money to the bank. Happily Jane is spared the pain of knowing that her father was chief figure in the robbery.

Dalton Play Completed

Dorothy Dalton has completed her latest Thomas H. Ince-Paramount photoplay, "The Mating of Marcella."

Alice Brady as a Russian bride and Frank Morgan as Count Nicho in the new Select production, "At the Mercy of Men."

Norma Talmadge Covers Country in Fast Time

Events move rapidly in the life of Norma Talmadge, Select Pictures star. Arriving in New York from a protracted stay in Palm Beach, Miss Talmadge packed away her tropical finery, brought to light the stunning array of furs in which she has been pictured in magazines, and took the train for Saranac Lake.

At Saranac she was joined by Roland West, who will probably direct her new Select production, "De Luxe Annie." Cameraman Ed Wynard and Eugene O'Brien, who has been Miss Talmadge's leading man in all of her recent successes and who will again play opposite her in the next picture.

The action in "De Luxe Annie," it may be recalled, passes from New York City, where the play opens, to the Adirondacks. There is much moving around in deep snow and in hard winter weather—and there is a big and thrilling escape-over-the-ice scene. It was to get this material that Miss Talmadge and the others went to Saranac.

Miss Talmadge had allowed just one day for the taking of the scenes, so quick work was in order. By dint of hard labor it was all accomplished and at the expiration of the twenty-four hours Miss Talmadge returned to New York.

Once more the furs were laid away and the summer finery was brought out, as Miss Talmadge was determined to make a quick trip to California. Within a few hours from the time that she arrived in New York her trunks were on the way to the station and she had boarded a train for the west, where she will make a brief visit at several points

Fox Praises "Rough and Ready"

"Rough and Ready," the current William Farnum de luxe production for William Fox, is declared by the producer to be a "hundred per cent box office attraction."

"All the world loves a lover," said Mr. Fox, "especially a fighting lover, and it is in this role that Mr. Farnum appears.

"I think the exhibitor will agree with me that 'Rough and Ready' is really a hundred per cent attraction. The star, Mr. Farnum, is certainly one of the most distinguished and most gifted of screen players. The director, Richard Stanton, has a talent for powerful thought and striking scenes.

"The story is thrilling. The film treats of the 'eternal triangle,' but in a new and masterful way. Just where the picture-goer expects the story will follow a time-honored course, it turns suddenly and goes forward in a different manner."

Myrtle Lind in the Triangle play, "Nancy Comes Home."

Miss Young Prepares to Produce in West

Speeds Up "The Reason Why" Preparatory to Departure For Los Angeles, Where She Has Leased Big Estate

BETWEEN pushing completion of "The Reason Why," her next Select production, and preparing for her departure to Los Angeles, Clara Kimball Young is a busy person these days.

"The Reason Why" is being filmed under the direction of Robert G. Vignola. The story, as provided by Elinor Glyn, lends itself to careful and artistic treatment and Mr. Vignola and Miss Young are taking every advantage of the opportunities.

But preparations for the trip to California are more hectic affairs. For this is a real uprooting of the star's establishment in the east for a lengthy stay in the west.

Miss Young will be accompanied by her entire staff and several relatives and friends. A special compartment Pullman has been chartered to take the company from Chicago to California and no detail is being omitted which will make the trip comfortable.

Miss Young has leased the $700,000 estate of Thomas Thorkildsen, the manganese king, near Hollywood. This estate consists of twenty-four acres and contains every accessory the heart of the most fastidious director could desire when looking for the ideal "location." At this place and in a studio in Hollywood which she has rented, Miss Young will produce "The Claw," by Cynthia Stockley, which has been adapted for her use by Charles E. Whitake, and "The Savage Woman," the adaptation of which was made by Katherine Stuart from the French novel "La Fille Sauvage," by Francis Curel.

The star's party on the trip west includes Miss Young's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Kimball; Miss Grace Aylesworth, her aunt; Miss Lenna Mills, her confidential secretary; Harry I. Garson, her business manager; Mr. Garson's mother and sister, Mrs. Caroline Sacks; Robert G. Vignola, director; William J. Scully, assistant; Louis J. Physioc, camera man; Jack Voshnell, technical director; Teddy Butcher, studio manager; Jack Boland, assistant studio manager; Milton Sills, who is playing the lead opposite the star in "The Reason Why," and who will be her leading man in her next production; Norma Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mortimer and Arthur Edeson.

Mme. Petrova Takes Vacation at Palm Beach

Following completion of "The Great Star," her fourth special release for 1918, Mme. Olga Petrova departed for Palm Beach, Fla., to take a rest before starting her fifth picture, which will be founded on the well-known novel, "Patience Sparhawk," by Gertrude Atherton.

Mme. Petrova can spend her vacation with a clear mind and the satisfaction of work well done. Her first picture, "Daughter of Destiny," was a great success, playing to the largest weekly receipts—almost $18,000—of any picture at the Rialto Theatre in New York this season. On top of this, the star's second picture, "The Light Within," broke other box office records at its first New York showing in the same house.

The First National Exhibitors' Circuit, which has the distribution of the Petrova productions, praised "The Light Within" as a picture greater than the first in interest, carefulness as to detail and beauty of photography.

At private showings of the two other pictures, "The Life Mask" and "The Great Star," franchise holders in the First National expressed complete satisfaction and there is little doubt that these features, when released, will meet with the same success which is greeting the first two.

Madame Petrova is said to be the only star heading her own organization embodied with authority to pass upon all of the various matters which enter into the making of her pictures. In addition to her regular duties she finds time to contribute many special articles to magazines and newspapers, supervise the management of her beautiful estate at Great Neck, L. I., and to make educational records for talking machine companies.

Film Two Plays at Once

Following their recently adopted policy for conservation and the elimination of all possible wastage, World officials last week established a new record by sending Director Harley Knoles to Bat Cave, N. C., where scenes for two important productions will be filmed at the same time. The plays are "The Echo Girl," from the story by C. Hobart Doty, and "Without Paying the Price," by Romaine Rue. One will be released within two weeks and the other is not scheduled for release for two months.

Bargains in Electric Pianos

25 Empress Electric Pianos having had use as demonstrators, etc., will be closed out this month. Splendid values. Former $600 instrument $385, and many others. Write at once for List. Sold on easy monthly payments.

Lyon & Healy, 50-72 Jackson Blvd. Chicago

PATENT FOR SALE—The only moving picture machine suited for farm homes—endorsed by big producers—$5,000. Address MHS, Motography.

Letters from Readers to the Editor

PRESENTED EXACTLY AS RECEIVED

EDITOR, MOTOGRAPHY: The exhibitor that had his boot working on the distributors in last week's issue and wanted to know if there were any honest ones among them should know that he has just entered the ranks of the real fakers. I'm betting the distributors are working their heads off trying to keep us pikers going. He should know that this show business is a big fake from start to finish.

I once thought myself a very good business man, but I went "through the top" and find myself a past grand master of the faker tribe, but the faker should be proud of his position as the people just love the faker. They are crazy about him. How long would the picture business last if the knock-him-down-and-throw-him-out were real?—the love making, etc.? We would be out of business in a very short time if the stories were to end the true way—they must have the happy ending.

The author of "a sucker born every minute" was right, and I always thought Lincoln was wrong when he said you can't fool all the people all the time. But he was right also, as we have them with us a short time after they are dead, and nobody was ever known to fool a "dead one." I am still in the class of the live ones, as I have a few deposits paid and rents paid to date.

My advice is don't try to Barnumize or you will soon be suckerized, and to Lincolnize—well, we've got that. We can all Hooverize—and don't forget that Sherman wasn't the only one that said it, but we're going to have a happy ending.

So we must peck away like the woodpecker, pecking wood in the wood. There must be something in it. And I would like to add—I'd like to crack the nut that patches out of frame, and oh, the mutt the biggest faker, that makes a patch and doesn't scrap'er.

Now I want to tell one.

A friend of mine, in the clothing business, came to me one morning and said:

He—Villie, I heard you hat a fine show last night. I vod like to seen it.

Me (speechless)—I had one of those variety short reel stuff, throw-it-in-and-ship-it-out kind, those that go through after the last run.

He—Vi don't you advertise—let the peoples know vat you got. Vi in the cities they advertise mit dose painted things vat look like on the back chees cloth a vay up tree or four stories.

Me—Well, you see my building is only two stories high.

He—Oh, I see ———

And I wonder if he did.

A SMALL TOWN PIKER.

* * *

Wish to say that MOTOGRAPHY is a great help to me in the picture business.

I would like to use the Ford Weekly. Can you inform me where to write to secure this reel?

ELMER W. RICE,
Memorial Hall, Westport, N. Y.

[You can arrange for exhibition of the Ford Weekly by writing the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, Mich.]

Editor, MOTOGRAPHY: Mr. Schaefer (Charles J. Schaefer, head of Charles J. Schaefer Theatrical Enterprises, Chicago) has just sent in his check for a new year's subscription and also a binder. We have received acknowledgment of same and will look for binder in the future.

I saw from the very start that "What the Picture Did for Me" was going to be a success, and have sent my contributions every week since it has started. Even if exhibitors do have to run the program pictures, it lets him know which way to boost in faith to his patrons, and also there are a great many independent features on the market that an exhibitor needs to know about as most all theatres have an open date once in a while in which they pick their features.

Yours very truly,

CHAS. H. RYAN,
Garfield Theatre, Chicago.

Fatty Arbuckle catching a crook in "The Bell Boy," his latest picture for Paramount distribution.

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY CRITICS

"Wild Youth"

Paramount-Blackton Film with Louise Huff. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

SIR GILBERT PARKER'S novel of love and youth has been adapted for the screen, and produced under the supervision of J. Stuart Blackton. In screen form it makes an exceptionally strong appeal, and the very essence of the book version has been carefully maintained.

The doctor and his patient

"Wild Youth" is the story of two young hearts that longed for each other, but were opposed by age and hatred of youth. The younger generation, as delineated by the characters of Louise Mazarine and Orlando Guise, presents as strong a sermon for the mating of youth with youth as could be desired. The story relates the many heartburns which enter the life of Louise Drummond after she marries Joel Mazarine, a man old enough to be her grandfather. The old fellow is revealed as a jailer instead of being a husband. The many cruelties he subjects his youthful wife to, arouse the ire of the genial populace, which is entirely out of sympathy for old Mazarine. Therefore, when the old man is found dead and his youthful rival is charged with his death, the sentiment of the people is strongly against prosecuting the suspect. A startling climax reveals the guilty party and youth is free to marry youth.

The plot is unfolded in consistent fashion, which speaks volumes for the able direction of George Melford, who worked under the supervision of Mr. Blackton. The cast is practically without a flaw. Louise Huff enacts the part of the young bride, Louise Mazarine, with sincere emotion and is effective in the role. Her young lover, Orlando, is cleverly portrayed by Jack Mulhall, while an exceptional bit of characterization is done by James Cruze, who is seen as the Chinese man-of-all work, Li Choo. Theodore Roberts has the rather ungrateful role of Joel, which character he interprets in convincing fashion. The sets, photography, and general staging are all in capable hands, and afford adequate atmosphere.

The story: Joel Mazarine, patriarchal inhabitant of a lively western town, creates a furore when he returns from a business trip with his youthful bride. The girl, Louise, earns the pity of the neighbors, and when Joel harshly treats her with contempt, she falls ill. She makes a faithful friend in Li Choo, the Chinese servant, whose hatred for old Mazarine is doubled when he receives a severe beating. Time passes and Louise meets Orlando Guise, a young and handsome neighboring rancher. A strong friendship springs up between the two, which is resented by Madarine. Louise decides to leave her unhappy home and mounts her horse, intending to go to the home of a friendly neighbor. She is thrown from her horse and later found by Orlando. Mazarine learns of his wife's departure and follows in pursuit; he learns of her being with Orlando and decides on revenge. He finds Louise alone and is about to strike her, when the faithful Li Choo comes up and strangles old Mazarine. Li Choo disappears and Louise is found unconscious by Orlando. She remembers nothing of what happened, and in the natural course of procedure, Orlando is charged with killing the old man. But matters are cleared up when Li Choo confesses his sin, and the two youthful lovers are free.

"Thieves' Gold"

Harry Carey in Typical Western Play, Universal Special. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THERE are many realistic touches in this latest western melodrama starring Harry Carey. There is all the thrill and action patrons demand in this sort of picture. The production is handled in a skilled fashion, and the offering as a whole is a good one of its sort, one of Harry Carey's best. It should go over well in neighborhoods where western pictures are liked. It will be appreciated especially by the youngsters.

Molly Malone plays opposite Carey. Vesta Pegg is the villain. John Cook, L. M. Wells, Helen Ware, Henry Tenbrooke and Martha Mattox complete the cast. Jack Ford directed the picture from a scenario by George Hively based on Frederick R. Bechdolt's magazine story of the same title.

The story: Curt Simons, escaping from Mexico, arrives at the ranch where "Cheyenne" Harry is living alone, in charge of his employer's cattle. Curt urges Harry to leave this quiet life and come with him. They go to a border town where Harry, in a quarrel, kills a man. Curt helps him to escape and now has him in his power. He forces him to take part in the hold-up of a shipment of gold being smuggled over the border. While escaping from their pursuers, Harry rescues a girl from a runaway. Later Hary meets the girl, Alice, again upon his return to the ranch. He falls in love with her but the shadow of his crime haunts him. Afterwards Curt's real character is shown to Harry and it is proved that the cowboy was a tool in the hands of a criminal. The law frees him and he returns to Alice.

"A Bit of Jade"

Mary Miles Minter's Latest American-Mutual Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

MARY MILES MINTER has a straight ingenue role in this story. She is as attractive as ever and the picture is nicely produced. The plot contains a slight mystery element, which is well handled. The story is interesting and has sufficient action, and the characters are all well acted. Photography and settings are up to the American standard. The picture is a good offering for any theatre. It hasn't as much humor as some of the preceding Minter features, but this is counterbalanced by the fact that the plot is more elaborate than usual.

Alan Forrest plays opposite the star. David Howard plays her brother. John Gough, Marie Howard and other well known American players complete the cast.

The picture is ready for release March 24.

The story: Phyllis lends her rings to her brother, who wishes to pawn them to pay a gambling debt. He tells his sister he will return them soon, with a present in addition. Some time later, she and a group of friends dress up for a lark in boys' clothes. In the pocket of her brother's coat, Phyllis finds a jade necklace and believing it is the promised gift, wears it. She and her friends decide to borrow their neighbor's motor boat, not knowing that the cottage has been rented to someone else. Phyllis is caught by the new neighbor, but runs away. In the struggle she loses the necklace. The next day in an old paper she notices an advertisement of the loss of a jade necklace like hers, and when the servant of the new neighbor tells her his master has found the necklace and is going to punish whoever had taken it, she decides that her brother stole it and that the man is a detective. She makes several attempts to get the necklace back, intending to return it to its owner and save her brother. Thus a web of misunderstanding is woven, for the man believes her a thief. At last, when he has decided to hand her over to the police, the mystery is straightened out by the discovery that Phyllis' brother and the man had sometime before in a restaurant, exchanged overcoats by mistake and in this way the necklace began its travels. After all misunderstandings are cleared up a real friendship begins between Phyllis and the new neighbor.

"An American Live Wire"

Earle Williams in O. Henry Story. Released by Vitagraph. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

O. HENRY stories are, as a rule, short and sweet, and when made into pictures have proven delightfully pleasing entertainment. Two or three reels of O. Henry subjects have always satisfied; therefore, it remains to be seen if five reels of the quietly, human character of his stories will be as popular as the shorter subjects. "An American Live Wire" is acceptable, but it must be remarked that the film version is rather prolongated.

Nevertheless it is an altogether acceptable release and retains every atom of the popular author's simplicity of plot and direct human appeal. A peculiar mix-up in identity furnishes the chief source of action. Two couples are the principals, and, strangely enough, each couple is guilty of stealing money to which they have no right. The American consul of a fictitious South American republic is instrumental in bringing about the restitution of the American absconder in a rather startling fashion; but an agency detective from the States bungles up the mission he had set out to accomplish. This is how it happens.

Geddie had been in love with Ida Payne but her mother had objected to the match. Whereupon Geddie accepted the consularship of Coralia in South America and departed these shores. The quietude of his diplomatic life was broken, after a year's silence, by the appearance of an American primma donna, who had been stranded. Miraflores, president of the little republic, had fallen a victim to the wiles of the actress and decided to use the funds in the republic's treasury for honeymoon expenses. Geddie learned of the affair and considered he had some interest in the matter. At the same time O'Day, a private detective, arrived at the consulate seeking one Warfield and his daughter. Warfield had taken a large sum of money from a big insurance company, which was desirous of retrieving its loss. Geddie promised O'Day his assistance. O'Day captures Miraflores and the prima donna, thinking them Warfield and his daughter, and escorts the couple to the States. In the meantime, Geddie had caught Warfield, who commits suicide on facing exposure. To avert a revolution, Geddie informs the populace that their president had died and Warfield is buried under that supposition. Geddie returns to New York and reports to the insurance company, who had heard of the case of Miraflores and his mistaken identity. Then follows a reunion, with Ida and Geddie the principals; the usually happy conclusion follows.

Earle Williams is delightful as Geddie and does well in a not altogether "live wire" part. Grace D'Armond has not much to do but does it prettyly. Others prominent in the cast include Hal Clements, Orral Humphries, Margaret Bennett and Malcolm Blevins. Tom Mills directed.

Geddie accepts the consularship

"The Lion's Claw"

Marie Walcamp in Universal Adventure Serial. First Episodes Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

WILD animals play a prominent and thrilling part in this latest Universal serial, which stars the adventurous Marie Walcamp. It is some little time since a real wild animal picture has been offered and this style of play comes back as something of a novelty. Added to that is the fact that the adventures, at least those in the first two spisodes, are unusually well managed, and show wonderful daring on the part of the star. The story, which is laid at a British army post in the heart of Africa, begins in a very interesting fashion. The first two chapters certainly leave one with a desire to see what will happen next. The plot is not too overdrawn and impossible, as in the average serial, but is really interesting.

The attack of the lions upon the heroine is the high light, perhaps, among the thrills of the opening installment. Her capture by the natives and attempted escape on the back of a huge elephant occurs in the second chapter. The plot of chapters one and two follows.

Chapter one: Miss Walcamp appears as Beth Johnson, daughter of a captain (Thomas Lingham), stationed at an army post in Africa. Lady Mary Leighton (Gertrude Astor), wife of the colonel, is the victim of a blackmailer. She confides in Captain Johnson, who offers to deal with her annoyer. Accidentally Captain Johnson kills the man. He refuses to bring Lady Mary's name into the affair by explaining, and is held prisoner. In the meantime Beth, wandering away from the camp, is attacked by a lion. The beast is driven away by a mysterious party of natives, who kidnap Beth.

Chapter two: A message reaches the post that a messenger from Egypt has set out to arouse the natives to a holy war. Captain Johnson is thought the best man to lead in putting down the threatened insurrection but is still held prisoner. So another man is appointed. Beth is still being carried away by the mysterious party and tries to make her escape. A faithful servant is sent by Lady Mary to find the girl. He brings word of her capture to the camp.

"The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin"

Universal Seven Reel War Picture, Directed by Rupert Julian. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

UNDER the above title, Universal offers an excellent production, made by Rupert Julian who also plays the title role. The picture is an unusually clear and emphatic setting forth of the main events in the world war, the Kaiser with his insane arrogance and ambition being the moving spirit. It is one of the most clean cut, direct to the point, expositions of world affairs as America sees them that has ever been put forth on screen or printed page.

The impression the picture gives is that its director had so clear an understanding of the situation that out of the great mass of material he was able to weave a story simple enough to be understood by a child, yet, perhaps because of this very simplicity, dramatic enough to hold the most critical. He has achieved this goal partly because of a singleness of viewpoint, as the title suggests, showing the sinister influence of one man reaching out and bringing terror throughout the entire world.

Not less excellent than the direction is the acting of Mr. Julian as the Kaiser. Both make-up and character portrayal is vivid, convincing, without being at all overdrawn. Mr. Julian at once takes a long step ahead in the ranks both of directors and of character actors. His is a double honor.

The entire cast is very good. In fact every detail of the production is good. The leading men in world affairs are cleverly represented. Significant incidents taken from court memoirs are presented. One of these is the episode of the young German officer who struck the kaiser when the latter insulted him before his men. That the blow may have deranged the kaiser's reason is hinted. Another dramatic bit is the story of the man who sank the Lusitania and then, haunted by the thought of the little children he had murdered, went insane.

The fate of Belgium is made more poignant by winning our sympathy for one family in particular, whose happy life before the war is shown. The entrance of the United States into the war is dramatically handled, a number of impressive troop scenes being shown. The picture carries the story into the future and shows the overthrow of the Hohenzollerns and the fate of the kaiser, who with poetic justice, is put at the mercy of Belgium and made a prisoner of King Albert.

While the production, from the exhibitor's standpoint, suffers the handicap of being a war picture, it is one of the very best of its kind, and is made with a direct appeal to patriotic feeling. There are many points in the play which cannot help bringing forth enthusiastic applause. It is an unusually fitting subject for a theatre who wishes to show a picture for the Red Cross or other patriotic cause, for, while vivid and impressive, it is not too horrible to show an audience of women and children. It is a picture which can be easily supplied with a program of patriotic music which will arouse any audience. If you want a patriotic picture, you will not be disappointed in this.

"The Way Out"

Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge in World Film. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

WORLD Films continue in their policy of presenting tense drama and announce the release of this most recent feature, which smacks of international affairs. The story, by

Robert decides to follow Alice

Jack O'Mara, relates the many experiences occuring in the lives of two people.

The action moves along in a steady fashion and very little time is wasted in getting to the climax. An ambitious mother causes her daughter to doubt the love of her fiance, which results in the daughter marrying some other man. The "other girl" is revealed as half sister and all ends happily when a way out of the difficulties is seen. The brief outline given here is not seemingly that of a worthy story and picture, but in detail form it makes an excellent drama and provides adequate entertainment.

The world war is again brought into use and the picture comes to a fitting conclusion, with the hero making a rescue but being wounded for his efforts. The few battle scenes are realistic.

Blackwell enacts the part of Robert Barr, a young American lawyer, in his usually capable manner. June Elvidge is Alice Thornton and is concinving in the part. John Bowers makes a very debonair French Count de Jonville while Muriel Ostriche is effective as Marcelle Pinet. Kate Lester and Jack Drumier complete the cast of principals.

The story: Robert Barr proposes to Alice Thornton and is accepted, but both are put on probation by Mrs. Thornton, who, while not approving of the marriage, does not openly show her objection. Mrs. Thornton receives a letter from France informing her that Marcelle, daughter of her husband by a bigamous marriage, is on her way to America. When the girl arrives Mrs. Thornton takes her to Barr, who is instrumental in getting the girl a position in his office. Alice does not know of the girl and when Mrs. Thornton, planning to break the engagement, tells of Barr's intimacy with Marcelle, Alice becomes jealous and breaks the engagement. She goes to France with her mother and there meets, and later marries, Count de Jonville, a young philanthropist. Barr has followed the Thorntons and reads of the marriage. He visits Alice and realizes that she still loves him. De Jonville enters and, seeing a stranger with his wife, demands satisfaction. Barr refuses to fight and explains to the Count of his past relations with Alice. War breaks out and the count joins his regiment while Barr enlists in the American hospital unit. The count is seriously wounded and Barr goes to his aid. Barr falls wounded and both are taken to the rear. The count dies but Barr recovers, and when explanations are made Barr and Alice marry.

"My Four Years in Germany"

Has Triumphant Opening. Reviewed by John G. Payne

THE picturized version of "My Four Years in Germany," adapted from the book of the same name by former Ambassador James W. Gerard, was shown last evening for the first time on the screen at the Knickerbocker Theatre to an audience that tested the capacity of the spacious house. It was estimated that fully a thousand people were turned away at the opening performance who were unable to even obtain standing room.

Closely following the printed revelations made by Mr. Gerard, the photo-drama is intensely impressive and clear cut. The audience sat literally on the edge of their chairs absorbed in the unfolding of this diplomatic drama. The writer has seen many premiers of plays and photo-dramas but never in the history of the New York stage has such genuine and continued enthusiasm been shown by an audience in its entirely as was demonstrated last night from almost the beginning of the picture which is in ten reels without an intermission. Pictures of German court life, in the opening scenes, showed the Kaiser, Crown Prince and various war lords. The events leading up to the break between this country and Germany and Ambassador Gerard's request for passports, made thrilling material. In the end, the answer was given to Germany's taunt: "America won't fight," by showing scenes of the new American army and navy in action. Adherence to the rule, "fact, not fiction," made the task of producer, adapter and actors most difficult. Director William Nigh accomplished a seemingly impossible task in weaving a series of incidents into a complete and compelling story without its being episodic. This film should place Mr. Nigh among the very front rank of master producers for he has shown the unquestioned skill of a thorough artist in the handling of this massive production. Mr. Charles Logue made the screen adaptation. The entire cast of principles were exceedingly well chosen and were the counterparts of the original characters whom they impersonated. Mr. Halbert Brown contributed a very striking impersonation of Ambassador Gerard. His make-up was excellent and he acted with quiet dignity and repose at all times. Earl Schenk was also excellent as the Crown Prince, while George Riddell as Von Hindenberg, Fred. Hern as Von Jagow, Karl Dane as Von Bethman Hollweg and Wm. Bittner as Von Tirpitz, all contributed largely to the tremendous success of the picture.

Another star, or at least one who is entitled to stardom, was born last evening in the person of Louis Dean, who impersonated the Kaiser. Mr. Dean's performance of this difficult character was a masterful piece of work and stamps him as an artist of the highest degree, whose work will scarcely go unnoticed by the big producers. At all times dominant, powerful, masterful, full of dignity and repose, never at any time resorting to melo-dramatic tricks of acting as so many actors would have been prone to do, his performance was thoroughly natural and stood out like a cameo.

We will hope to see this actor's name emblazoned in electric lights in the near future.

Mr. Gerard himself was present and spoke briefly from his box at the conclusion of the picture.

Among those present were Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. Julian M. Gerard, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. Howard G. Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Manners, Mr. William Fox, Mr. Marc Klaw, Mr. Chas. C. Bailey, Consul General of Great Britain, Messrs. Stephane Lauzanne and Marcel Knecht, of the French mission, Mr. Gaston Liebert, French Consul General, Mr. Pierre Mali, Consul General of Belgium, Cardinal Farley, Archbishop Ryan and many other notables.

"The Bell Boy"

Fatty Arbuckle in Paramount Comedy. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THERE'S no use talking; Fatty Arbuckle knows how to get the laughs. His latest comedy, "The Bell Boy," gives substance to this statement. The community of Ouch Gosh, Pennsyltucky, have for their convenience, a hostelry known as the Elkhead Inn. The head of the animal is, strange to say, in evidence; usually we have numerous other soubriquets, to which is attached no significance whatever, other than that the proprietor selects a name which sounds more enticing. And this elk head is a rather intelligent portion of the animal's anatomy. When pretty Alice Lake is deposited upon the horns and exhibits, unconsciously, perhaps, her dainty ankle and what usually goes with it, the sensitiveness of the animal is manifest and he modestly shuts his eyes, but quickly opens them lest he miss something.

Al gets the gate

This is only one of the many humorous touches which have been interpolated into the main line of action. Buster Keaton and Al St. John are again very much in evidence and continue in their acrobatical contortions. Al is hotel clerk, conductor and motorman of the horse car, waiter, elevator operator, engineer, and almost everything else of the town. He finds time to attend to his numerous duties. Buster is second assistant bellboy, Fatty being the head bellboy and first assistant to himself. Alice Lake is the city manicurist, who is won by Fatty after eliminating the other fifteen people of the town.

Briefly, the plot of the story concerns the efforts of Fatty to win Alice. Al and Buster are his chief competitors but he beats them out. Then to make himself a hero in the eyes of the girl, Fatty plans with his confederates to rob the bank and capture the supposed crooks. Al and Buster are to be the crooks. But a quartet of the genuine article have arrived first and when Fatty arrives he gets more than he expected. But all ends well.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Fourteenth Episode of Vitagraph Serial. "The Hand of Fate." Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

AFTER thirteen episodes of almost constant reckless riding and falling off cliffs, being buried alive, and numerous other escapades, this stirring serial finally settles down, and we see the domestic side of the lives of Blake and his wife. Action, however, is still manifest, and devoid of the aforesaid means of excitement, this episode is fully as interesting as any which have preceded it.

Blake is rescued from the quicksand and is reunited with his wife. The outlaw band is surrounded, but they plunge into a swirling whirlpool. One of the band is lost, while another decides to live a quieter life. The leader is left alone and he decides on revenge. Months have passed and Blake has been nominated for governor. His wife has given birth to a little son and the future looms bright for Blake, wife and child. While away from the house on a speechmaking tour, Blake receives a message that his home is afire. Black Jack, the outlaw leader, has entered the house and rescues the child. Blake returns and discovers the disappearance of his child. Searching parties are immediately formed. Black Jack sends a message to Blake that the child is safe, at the same time demanding a pardon and reward.

Now we must wait for the concluding episode, in which all will be settled. It should be a fitting conclusion to this serial, which throughout has vibrated with action.

The film that first made motion pictures practical is easily identifiable by the words

"EASTMAN"
AND "KODAK"

on the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

"Pair of Sixes" Shown to Trade

"A PAIR OF SIXES," the latest George K. Spoor production, is being shown to the trade. It will be released April 1.

The picture is taken from the stage production of Edward Peple, and features the Essanay comedian, Taylor Holmes. It is in seven parts. Critics declare it is the best play in which Taylor Holmes has appeared and one of the best farce comedies screened. Holmes is supported by Maude Eburne, Robert Conness and Alice Mann, all well known on both the stage and screen.

In this production Mr. Spoor is adhering to his policy of a national bill board advertising campaign on each feature subject and 24 sheet posters are to be seen now in all the large cities of the country.

Other Essanay releases for March include the Broncho Billy one-reel western dramas, which began March 1, to be released one a week for ten weeks.

Two Chaplin comedies also are being put out, "The Tramp" and "His New Job." New prints and new paper have been made up on these releases.

Short subjects being released through General Film include "Wild Algy of Piccadilly," "All Stuck Up," "The Lie that Failed" and "The Jazbo Sheriff." These are all comedy releases. "The Lie that Failed" features Virginia Valli and Robert Conness. Don Barclay, the famous comedian of the Ziegfeld Follies, takes the leading role in "All Stuck Up."

On March 23 Essanay will begin the issuance of new prints on many of its famous Snakeville comedies. In these appear the well-known comedians, Victor Potel, Margaret Joslyn, Harry Todd and others. They will be released through General Film.

Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO GET THE BEST RESULTS TOLD IN DETAIL

Don't Be Too Quick with the Oil Can

Motography Expert Tells of Visit to Booth Where Valuable Film Received Abusive Treatment

By J. Wesley Smith

A FEW EVENINGS ago I stopped in to see an operator of a well-known theatre and while in the booth noticed a few things which not only could have improved the projection greatly, but at the same time materially lengthened the life of the film.

Both of the projectors were in fine shape and all the bright pieces of metal were shined up, which showed me that the operator took pride in his equipment. So much for the equipment, and if every operator would give only half as much attention to their equipment there would be considerable less "kicks" to the manufacturers of projectors.

The picture being run that evening was a widely advertised eight-reel feature and one that had cost the producers thousands and thousands of dollars to produce. The laboratory work was of the highest possible class, and all in all, was a film that deserved the most capable handling.

I do not mean by this that all films should not receive as careful handling and attention as possible, because they should, but it was the way this particular film was abused that brings this out.

There had been two reels run and the third was just starting when three or four scratches began to show on the screen. Did Mr. Operator stop for a few seconds and see if he could locate where they were coming from? No. Instead he took an oil can and squirted oil on the idlers and gate and of course all over the film. This stopped the scratching all right, but did Mr. Operator consider for a moment the amount of damage being done the balance of the film by allowing it to become oil soaked?

How much better it would have been for him to cleanse his gate thoroughly before threading up while the other machine was in operation. I have seen reel after reel of film ruined by this practice, as the oil tends to pick up every little particle of dirt and it is only a matter of a short time before the film is so badly scrached that it is absolutely worthless as regards showing in a first class house, and if it is not fit to show in a first class house, it isn't fit to show at all.

On the rewinding of the reels the speed was so great that one of them broke twice. The amount of time lost in patching, to say nothing of the additional patches and jumps caused thereby, would have been saved by more careful and less speedy rewinding.

This speedy rewinding is a fault found in a large percentage of the booths, and if Mr. Operator will figure out for himself the trouble and time lost in patching, he will, I am sure, be more careful. Some of the other things I noticed will be given next week. Below are questions from readers and their answers:

Q.—Am using a Simplex projector with a Bell & Howell compensator, supply being 110 volt, 60 cycle. The picture is 14 feet. My trouble is this: There is a slight blur on all the objects, more easily seen in the corners of the screen, while the center of the screen is fairly sharp, but not as much as it should be. The fuzzy condition does not appear at all times, as I have been able to project as fine a picture as possible for perhaps five or six minutes and then all of a sudden the above mentioned fault will appear. I am sure the shutter is in time and am at a loss to account for my trouble.

A.—From your describtion, the trouble can only be one of two things, namely, that your lens combinations are loose, or that the lens is loose in the barrel, allowing it to tilt, caused by the vibration of the machine. Take the lens out and shake it well, listening for a rattle which will denote loose combinations.

Even though you may not hear any noise, take your lens apart and clean out the threads carefully, making sure that there is no dirt or lint left in the mount. Clean the lenses well with alcohol before putting back, and do not get your fingers on the surfaces.

Now put the combinations back in their proper places and see that everything is tight. You will probably get a good sharp picture now, and should this trouble occur again, you had better send your lens to the manufacturer to be repaired.

Q.—Have been an operator but a short time and am writing you to see if you can help me out of my trouble. Am having a lot of trouble with jumpy pictures and also side motion. Can you tell me how to correct this?

A.—You neglected to state what kind of a machine you are using, so I can only answer your question in a general way. First, be sure that the intermittent sprocket is perfectly clean, as any dirt on it tends to make a jump. Second, see that the sprocket is running perfectly true. Perhaps the sprocket shaft is sprung slightly. As regards the side motion, see that the guide rollers at the top of the gate fit the film snugly, but not so tight as to cause buckling. Also see that there is no side play in the intermittent sprocket.

A girly-girly scene in the new Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, "Those Athletic Girls."

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Twelve Big Productions Announced

Jesse J. Goldburg Contracts to Release One Subject Monthly—All Are Adaptations From Plays and Books

JESSE J. GOLDBURG, state rights distributor, has signed a contract to release one production of five or more parts a month for twelve months, the first release to be issued April 1.

The contract constitutes Mr. Goldburg the exclusive sales and exploitation representative and franchises are now being awarded through Mr. Goldburg to state right buyers in the United States and Canada.

The productions will be known as "Rialto-De Luxe Productions" and each of them will be an adaptation from dramatic and literary successes. The first three are completed and the fourth is in process of manufacture.

The first release is an adaptation from a popular novel, the second and third productions are screen versions of two of the most popular dramatic productions that have appeared on Broadway within the last five years, and the fourth is a sensational drama that has had its vogue on the legitimate stage in London and New York.

Although no public announcement has heretofore been made of the issuance of these releases, yet through correspondence a little more than one-third of the United States has already been closed.

The franchises contain provisions obligating the producer to expend a certain amount of money in trade paper advertising, for the issuance of certain advertising matter, and a further provision guaranteeing the high order and character of the productions.

"The manufacturer with whom I have contracted to furnish these twelve productions is the only producing concern that I know of where every dollar expended sees its value to 100 per cent on the screen and which seems to exercise a commendable intelligence in the choice of its subjects, the designation of its stars and the naming of its casts," said Mr. Goldburg.

"Without egotism, I might say that if I do not close out the country within a few weeks, it will mean that under no conditions will the state rights distribution of productions again prevail."

Harris P. Wolfberg of the Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions of Pittsburgh has bought the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia rights to W. H. Clune's big feature productions, "The Eyes of the World" and "Ramona" through the Arrow Film Corporation.

Charles Ray and Frank Keenan in "The Coward," which is being released by S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., through open market exchanges.

Thanhouser Studios to Be Used for State Rights Plays

W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, has been elected treasurer of The Thanhouser Film Corporation and will take over active managership of the studios at New Rochelle, following the departure of the Clara Kimball Young company for the west. It is understood Mr. Shallenberger will use the studios to film several big state rights features.

In addition to the election of Mr. Shallenberger, other officers have been chosen for Thanhouser as follows: President, Crawford Livingston; vice-president, Wilbert Shallenberger; secretary, A. E. Jones; board of directors, Felix Kahn, Crawford Livingston, Wilbert Shallenberger, A. E. Jones, Gerald Livingston, W. E. Shallenberger and Jessie Bishop.

The Arrow organization recently expanded its distribution field, especially in South America and Europe, and it is said that pictures especially for export will be made at the Thanhouser plant in addition to the state rights features.

Announcement that W. E. Shallenberger would control the Thanhouser studios set at rest much speculation over Thanhouser's future. The Thanhouser company has not produced any pictures for some time and it is not likely now that it will do so again, for the present, at least.

New Company Announced

Organization of the Sunset Film Corporation of California is announced. The new company has bought the list of Hart, Fairbanks, Keenan and Talmadge re-issues which S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., are selling through Hiller & Wilk, Inc. In addition to the re-issues, the Sunset company has obtained the California rights to the Evelyn Nesbit Thaw picture, "Redemption." Julius L. Lazerus is the president of the company. Mr. Lazerus formerly was identified with eastern ventures.

Sell More Rights to "Raffles"

Hiller & Wilk, Inc., selling agents for L. Lawrence Weber Photo Dramas, Inc., announce the sale of the Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin rights to "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman" to the Supreme Feature Film Company of Minneapolis, Minn.

All Gaumonts to Be Sold on Open Market

Decision to Quit Distribution Through Own Exchanges Affects Fifty Branches in Various Countries

AFTER giving the matter serious consideration for the last year, the Gaumont Company announces that in future it will release all its productions through independent exchanges. The decision affects more than fifty branches throughout the world.

As soon as it was learned that the news service of the Gaumont Company was to be withdrawn from program booking and released semi-weekly, letters and telegrams from independent exchanges demanding this service began to pour into the Flushing office.

The news service will be released twice a week beginning March 26, the Gaumont News every Tuesday and the Gaumont Graphic every Friday. The news reels will be edited by Pell Mitchell, who made the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly so successful. Mr. Mitchell is an old newspaper man who has surrounded himself with a staff of cameramen who also served an apprenticeship on the daily papers, as he believes that is the best training for gatherers of real news.

The entire staff of cameramen who have served the Gaumont Company for so many years has been retained.

Announcement of other Gaumont productions will be made soon.

New Comedies Announced

The Scrantonia Photoplay Corporation announces a program of two one-reel comedies a month commencing April 1.

Jesse J. Goldburg will act as exclusive sales and exploitation agent, disposing of the releases on the state rights basis.

The first six comedies are entitled: "The Chinese Musketeer," "Feet and Defeat," "Cheerful Liars," "Hate and Fortune," "Parson Pepp," "The Ring and the Ringer."

Charles Fang, said to be the only Chinese comedian appearing in American-made productions, is featured.

Charles R. De Barge is the producing and managing director of the corporation.

"Hidden Hand" to Circle Globe

Through arrangements concluded by the export and trading department of the Pathe organization, "The Hidden Hand" serial starring Doris Kenyon, Sheldon Lewis, Arline Pretty and Mahlon Hamilton will be shown throughout the world.

Gets New York Rights

The Pioneer Film Corporation, with offices at 130 West Forty-sixth street, New York, will be distributors through the New York territory for the productions of State-Right Distributors, Inc., which recently announced the Selexart picture, "Carmen of the Klondike" as its initial offering.

With the finishing of "The Wrong Flat," the fourth of the Jester Comedies, featuring Twede-Dan, work was immediatetly commenced on four more. They will consist of the June, July, August and September releases.

Select Dustin Farnum Play

Announcement is made by Harry A. Sherman, president of Sherman Productions, Inc., a corporation recently organized to produce western pictures starring Dustin Farnum, that "The Light of Western Stars," one of the best known stories by Zane Grey, has been selected as the first vehicle for Mr. Farnum.

Public Sees "The Eagle's Eye"

"The Eagle's Eye," the twenty-episode serial story of the German government's spies and plots in America, by William J. Flynn, recently retired chief of the United States Secret Service, was released in the New York, Boston and Chicago territories for the first runs last week.

Reports from exhibitors and the managers of the Foursquare exchanges received by The Whartons, producers of the picture, indicate that it "went over great" and houses were "packed."

Buys Michigan Rights

Royce Shallenberger, who recently left New York to join forces with C. C. Hite in the distribution of pictures in the middle west, has bought the Michigan rights to the Edward Warren production, "Souls Redeemed," and reports business unusually good.

W. H. Productions Sales

W. H. Productions Company announces the following sales in the past week:

To Nathan Gordon, president of the Globe Feature Film Company, Boston, the rights for New England to William S. Hart as "The Two-Gun Man" in "The Bargain," William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher," William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska" and the series of twenty-eight two-reel Mack Sennett Keystone comedies.

To Electric Theatre Supply Company, Philadelphia, the rights to eastern Pennsylvania for the twenty-eight two-reel comedies.

Douglas Fairbanks and Tom Wilson in "The Americano," which is being released by S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., through open market exchanges.

Notes of the Industry In General

BRIEF NEWS OF NEW YORK IN PARTICULAR

"Biographies of Prominent Photo-Play Players," is the title of a twenty-eight-page booklet published by the New Theatre, Fort Smith, Ark., of which C. A. Lick is the manager. There is nothing pretentious about its dull-coated buff paper and clean typography, but it is attractive, nevertheless. Arranged in alphabetical order are short biographies of sixteen prominent Triangle and Paramount favorites, including Olive Thomas, Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Alma Rubens and William Desmond, each with a quarter-page cut of the subject. The last four pages are given over to an interesting talk on the philosophy of the exhibitor, who entitles it "New Theatre Service Codes."

✣ ✣ ✣

Dissension between California towns and film companies promises to culminate in an ordinance by the Los Angeles city council which will segregate all plants. The committee which has this matter in charge advises that an ordinance be enacted creating five general zones within which all picture plants hereafter erected shall be located and the creation of minor zones for the studios outside of the limits of the proposed main zones.

The studios have been immensely beneficial to the business of the districts in which they are located. On the other hand, certain of the residents consider them noisy and complained that the temporary sets which they erected are unsightly.

✣ ✣ ✣

Following a conference between Bud Fisher, originator of the Mutt and Jeff animated cartoons, and William Fox, who is to release these productions hereafter, Mr. Fox announced his intention of having all his directors see the pictures with a view to obtaining suggestions on developing and sustaining action. The conference between Mr. Fisher and Mr. Fox probably was the last they will hold prior to the cartoonist's departure for the European battle front, where he will serve as a captain of artillery in the British army.

✣ ✣ ✣

"Mother," the seven-part George Loane Tucker production controlled by Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, has commenced its initial New York engagement through the medium of the Marcus Loew circuit.

✣ ✣ ✣

Due to the sudden death of a relative, Herbert Lubin was obliged to cut short the trip upon which he and Arthur H. Sawyer started two weeks ago for a survey of the state rights field. Mr. Lubin returned to New York last Monday. Mr. Sawyer, however, will continue the tour.

A group of Florida exhibitors visiting Harold Lockwood during their recent convention in Jacksonville. The exhibitors saw the Metro star make several scenes for "The Landloper," his forthcoming release.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Franklin, Metro director, is a living example of the old saying that "blessings never come singly." He was recently married to Mrs. Mildred Dean, widow of W. J. Dean, of the Belasco forces and now has become a full-fledged member of Metro's directing staff, having been promoted to the position from that of associate director. Mr. Franklin will begin work at once on a new production starring May Allison, a five-act photodrama written for her by May Tully and prepared for the screen by June Mathis and Katharine Kavanaugh.

✣ ✣ ✣

John Barton Browne, assistant director at the Lasky studio, may be ordered to France just when his first important scenario, written in collaboration with Marion Fairfax, has been filmed with Sessue Hayakawa in the stellar role. The picture is called "The White Man's Law." Mr. Browne received an appointment from the war department last September and has been awaiting orders ever since. He will be connected with the ambulance service of Base Hospital No. 35. This will be his second term of service.

✣ ✣ ✣

George T. Ames, one of the best-known exchange managers in the business, has been appointed to the Pathe Philadelphia office, H. M. Osborn, the former manager, having been placed in charge of the Pathe Washington office. Mr. Ames comes to Pathe from Goldwyn, for which company he has been Philadelphia manager during the past year.

✣ ✣ ✣

The sincerity of Commodore J. Stuart Blackton in his praise of California and his desire to remain in the Golden State is evidenced by the fact that his family joined him last week. Mrs. Blackton and the two children, Charles and Violet, arrived with a truck load of luggage and various pets and were greeted by the commodore and an impromptu reception committee of film people.

✣ ✣ ✣

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle enjoys the honor of becoming the first god-father of a company of Uncle Sam's fighters through the invitation of Company C, 159th infantry, stationed at Camp Kearney, Cal.

✣ ✣ ✣

Manager Edel of the Strand Theatre,

New York, will introduce special features during Holy week and Easter week. Commencing Palm Sunday, pictures of Christ's entry into Jerusalem will be shown, during the vocal rendition of Faure's "The Palms." On Good Friday, pictures of "The Crucifixion" will be shown. During Easter week "Christ's Ascension" will be pictured. The pictures are taken from the original "Passion Play."

✣ ✣ ✣

Moe Mark, Max Spiegel and Walter Hays of the Mitchel H. Mark Realty Corporation, owners of the Strand Theatre, New York, accompanied by Thomas Lamb, architect, left New York the other day on a tour of inspection of new theatres.

The Strand owners are preparing to build the largest theatre in the country at Fulton street and Rockville place, Brooklyn. The house will seat 4,500.

It is the hope of the Strand men to benefit from the experience of other prominent theatre owners.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Chandlee, who for several months has been in charge of the eastern scenario department of Paralta Plays, Inc., has been promoted to the head of the scenario department at the Paralta studios in Los Angeles. This promotion will place Mr. Chandlee in charge of both the eastern and western divisions of this department.

✣ ✣ ✣

Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; Marguerite Clark, Paramount star; Cora Clark, the star's sister, and John C. Flinn, director of advertising and publicity, attended the reopening of Harry Davis' $1,000,000 Grand Theatre in Pittsburgh. Both Mr. Zukor and the star made dedicatory speeches. Mayor Babcock also spoke.

✣ ✣ ✣

What is said to be a new record for serial bookings has been established in Baltimore by "A Daughter of Uncle Sam," the Jaxon spy serial released by General Film. With the halfway mark reached in the release of the twelve chapters, thirty-nine theatres have already contracted to show the serial, while new bookings are being received every day.

✣ ✣ ✣

Douglas Fairbanks climbed the entrance to Grauman's new theatre at Los Angeles, walked across the top on his hands and slid down a rain chute as part of a stunt in celebration of the presentation of the initial release of the Screen Telegram, the new news weekly issued by the Mutual Film Corporation.

✣ ✣ ✣

A special house warming was given the other day upon completion of the enlargement of William Steiner's studio in Cliffside, N. J., where Jester comedies and his other pictures are made. Covers were spread for two hundred guests and a great jollification was held, followed by dancing.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harley Knoles, who directed Alice Brady in "Bought and Paid For," Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley in "The Burglar" and Madge Evans in all of her recent successes, has renewed his contract with World-Pictures for a long term of years.

✣ ✣ ✣

William Steiner, founder of the Jester Comedy Company, has returned to New York after a flying trip through Syracuse, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis and will leave again in a few days on a trip that will carry him straight through to the coast.

✣ ✣ ✣

Monte M. Katterjohn, Paralta staff author, was examined by the draft board in Santa Monica last week, but will still remain at the studio to produce big stories. Mr. Katterjohn was listed in Class A-1, but was rejected on account of physical disability.

✣ ✣ ✣

L. E. Ouimet, president of the Specialty Film Import, Ltd., Montreal, Canadian Pathe representatives, has just made arrangements for the exclusive distribution in Canada of the weekly film budget released by the British war office in London.

✣ ✣ ✣

Theda Bara, noted William Fox star, has taken a lease on the beautiful home of Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner in Los Angeles, obtaining the property with all its sumptuous furnishings for an indefinite period. The owners are now in San Francisco.

✣ ✣ ✣

It is announced at Toronto that Manager Thomas of the Strand Theatre, Omaha, will not take charge of a chain of Canadian houses, as contemplated, Mr. Thomas and the theatre interests having failed to come to terms.

✣ ✣ ✣

Clyde Felts, formerly manager and chief operator of the Crescent Theatre, Nashville, is now doing his bit toward kicking the kaiser on the shins. Felts recently enlisted in the forestry service and is stationed in Vancouver, Wash.

✣ ✣ ✣

Cecil B. DeMille, Famous Players-Lasky director, has been chosen to aid in recruiting technical experts and scenic artists for camouflage work in France.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Albany, N. Y., office of General Film Company has been placed in charge of F. Flarity, formerly branch manager for the company at Pittsburgh.

✣ ✣ ✣

George D. Baker, Metro director, has arrived in Los Angeles and assumed the post of director general at the west coast studios.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Princess Theatre, Ottawa, Canada, formerly under the management of J. Kauffman, is now controlled by A. Schugerman.

Virginia Pearson as she appears in a scene in the new William Fox play, "A Daughter of France."

Latest News of Chicago

OF INTEREST TO ALL THE TRADE

MORE than one hundred exhibitors attended a meeting at the Hotel Sherman last week and heard Lee A. Ochs, president of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., explain the United plan. Mr. Ochs' position as president of the National Motion Picture Exhibitors' League brought out many exhibitors who might not have attended otherwise.

Mr. Ochs came to Chicago in company with J. E. Barry, organizer of the United Picture Theatres. He was followed the next day by C. R. Seelye, vice-president and general manager, who took up the work where Mr. Ochs and Mr. Barry left off.

Louis Jacobson, an attorney who frequently represents exhibitor interests, also addressed the meeting, emphasizing the value of co-operation.

Among the exhibitors who attended Mr. Ochs' meeting were the following:

J. H. Frundt, Claremont Theatre; William Rohe, Ideal and Liberty theatres; Charles Bugg, Bugg Theatre; William E. Heaney, Madison Square, Crawford and Virginia; H. E. Newell, Plaisir; Robert R. Levy, Revelry; Fred W. Hartmann, Aristo; Charles Fecher, Lexington and Drexel; James E. Coston, Harvard; Mrs. M. McFadden, Lincoln; John Bobeng, Crown and Armitage; A. Karzas, Woodlawn; Clyde R. Bates, Jefferson; Verne R. Langdon, Hub; Thomas A. Murray, Thalia; John Bodkin, Evanston, Strand, Star, Triangle, and Chicago; J. Trinz, Covent Garden; R. M. Power, Irving Park; H. A. Gundling, Bryn Mawr and Regent; F. L. Dittmar, Model; W. P. Clement, Jackson Park; Morris Reingolt, Vision; A. Gordon Francis, Hyde Park; August Zilligan, Rosewood and Drake; H. E. McDorman, Francis; M. Wells, Vista; L. Siegel, Vernon; F. C. Pearl, Triangle; M. Dreifuss, Grove; Sol. Fitchenberg, Gem; P. J. Schaefer, Orpheum; Tony J. Arado, New Era; Jacob Cooper, Twentieth Century; George M. Lang, Cosmopolitan; M. Krska, Robey; C. Abrams, Acme; Louis Frank, Halsted; H. Lutz, Wallace; representative of the Buckingham, Rainbow, Shakespeare, Annetta, Marshfield and Avon; Alfred Hamburger, Hamburger Theatrical Enterprises; Joseph Hopp, Majestic, Rock Island; Louis Zehler, Karlov, Howard, World and Princess, Peoria; W. D. Burford, Aurora Theatres Company; Joseph Schuertzleve, United, Minneapolis; William J. Sweeney, secretary of Motion Picture Exhibitors' League; D. G. Rodgers, national organizer; H. T. Loper; C. S. Hordhe; R. E. Elliott; L. C. Hillock; Lewis F. Jacobson; C. W. Bunn, manager of the local United office; T. G. Meyer, Milton Simon and S. C. Bestar, United salesmen.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Weiss, manager of the Central Film Company, is just back from another swing through the central states. He reports that the public is hungry for news pictures of the war. Mothers, especially, he says, want to see these pictures in the hope that they may pick out their sons.

Mr. Weiss said business is picking up rapidly and predicts a banner year. He says the business will be of a solid character, and not spasmodic. The United States, he declares, is experiencing exactly the reaction that was experienced in Canada. Eager to relieve their minds of the strain of war, the people are flocking back to the theatres. Pictures of a lighter nature fill the big want, Mr. Weiss says, the only desire for war pictures being of the news variety.

Although a manager, Mr. Weiss is on the road most of the time, keeping in close touch with the business. He is a firm believer in this practice, asserting that it is one of the chief reasons why Central Film is so successful.

"When more managers go out and listen to the exhibitors' troubles in person then more exchanges will be making money," he said.

Catherine Calvert, who will appear in Frank A. Keeny's screen production of "A Romance of the Underworld," adapted from the play by that name written by the late Paul Armstrong, to whom Miss Calvert was married.

C. C. Whelan of the Kleine office has been promoted from salesman to manager, succeeding W. H. Jenner, manager for four years, who resigned to take the same position here with Fox.

Mr. Whelan assumed his new position with thirty years' theatrical experience behind him. For twenty years he was an actor on the speaking stage and for ten years he was in the picture business as an exhibitor and salesman.

He entered the picture business by taking the Washington Theatre on Cottage Grove avenue, near Forty-third street, and building it up to a profitable business. He remained in charge of the Washington for five years, then was appointed receiver of the Jefferson Theatre, Fifty-fifth street and Lake Park avenue. He had a $15 bank account to start with, but he built the house up until it was soon making money. After a year the landlord obtained the theatre through ouster proceedings and Mr. Whelan joined the Kleine sales force.

Meanwhile he had helped organize the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League and played a large part in the success of various expositions and in obtaining favorable legislation.

Mr. Whelan is now receiving the congratulations of many friends.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. M. Schwartz of the Goldwyn office and W. M. Weiss of the Central Film Company, both traveling representatives, have been called to the colors. Louis Jaffe, shipping clerk of the Celebrated Players Film Company, expects to be called soon. Thomas Greenwood, booker at the Triangle office, who was ordered to Camp Grant recently, is back at his desk, having been rejected upon further examination. J. H. Duffy, manager of the Mutual office, has been put in Class 5.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The Fall of the Romanoffs," the Herbert Brenon star feature, has been booked by Ascher Brothers and Lubliner & Trintz through the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. Harry C. Miller of the Rose Theatre will show the Brenon spectacle for seven days and George Moore, manager of the Orpheum, will show it for four days. Both the Rose and the Orpheum are loop houses. Nate Erber, owner of the Lincoln Square Theatre at Decatur, will show the picture four days.

✣ ✣ ✣

Alfred Hamburger, owner of the Ziegfeld, Michigan avenue's only picture theatre, has booked "The Birth of Democracy" through the Unity Photoplays Company for a week's showing. "The Birth of Democracy" was made by the Franco-American Film Company and stars Lyda Borelli, who was featured in Kleine's "Quo Vadis." The picture will not be released for a week or so yet. The Unity Photoplays Company has the rights for Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

✣ ✣ ✣

E. C. Davies has joined the Triangle forces and has been assigned to promotion work. He comes from Milwaukee, where he was in the booking business for himself. Mr. Davies formerly was with Ralph E. Bradford, local manager of Triangle, when Mr. Bradford was manager of the Chicago Mutual exchange and manager of the Triangle and Goldwyn exchanges in Minneapolis.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ralph O. Proctor, manager of the Pathe office, announces the following changes in his organization:

A. G. Spencer, former assistant manager of Paramount, will be Pathe's Southwest Side representative.

F. B. Rodgers, formerly manager of the Standard Film Company, will be Pathe's assistant manager. W. W. Anderson, who has been assistant manager, will have charge of the north shore territory.

✣ ✣ ✣

W. H. Jenner, new manager for William Fox, is the possessor of a gold mounted pen engraved with his name, the farewell gift of the employes in the Kleine exchange. He was manager of the Kleine office four years. Mr. Jenner also received a token of esteem upon assuming charge at the Fox office. He found his desk covered with flowers, the gift of exhibitor friends.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. E. Swartzbine of the Boston Pathe office, known in film circles of that city as "Square Deal" Schwartzbine, spent several days in Chicago last week en route to Minneapolis to take charge of the office there for the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc. Mr. Schwartzbine expects to open his office in the Film Exchange building next Monday.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Kleine office is eagerly awaiting the release of the big Edison war feature, "The Unbeliever," starring Marguerite Courtot. The picture already is being shown at Detroit by the Majestic Theatre. Nine thousand persons saw it on the opening day. The Majestic has a six weeks' option on the picture.

✣ ✣ ✣

Fred Linick has resumed his former position as sales manager of the Unity Photoplays company after an absence of several months, during which he was advertising manager of the Chicago Telegraph, a theatrical paper. Henry W. Peters, who was the Unity sales manager while Mr. Linick was away, has joined the Jewel forces.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harold Bolster, vice-president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, spent several days in Chicago last week in connection with a tour of the middle west. He is engaged in opening up small towns. He promises films that are not older than six months. So far, Mr. Bolster says, he has met with much success.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Band Box, a down-town theatre on Madison street, has booked "Ruggles of Red Gap," the George K. Spoor feature starring Taylor Holmes, for a week. The Orpheum, a down-town house on State street, will show it on Thursday of the same week.

✣ ✣ ✣

H. J. Aldous, secretary and treasurer of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, recently spent a day at the Eastman Kodak Company plant at Rochester and a day at the studios of the Wharton Releasing Corporation at Ithaca, N. Y.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Vitagraph office expects the first prints of "Over the Top," the picturization of Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey's book of the same name, by April 1, which indicates that the film will be released early in April.

✣ ✣ ✣

Watterson R. Rothacker has returned from New York City, where he went to confer with officials of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit and Harry Reichenbach in regard to the technical work on "Tarzan of the Apes," which will be printed at the Rothacker laboratory. Mr. Rothacker stopped off en route home at Ithaca to view "The Eagle's Eye."

Ann Little, Paramount Star.

✣ ✣ ✣

Many Chicago exhibitors on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week attended a pre-release showing of the first three episodes of the new Vitagraph serial, "The Woman in the Web."

✣ ✣ ✣

H. D. Charness and R. H. Fox have been added to the sales force of the Central Film Company. Mr. Charness comes from the offices of Griever and Herz and Mr. Fox from Kleine.

✣ ✣ ✣

Mary Robert Rhinehart's celebrated story "K," which the Jewel people filmed and rechristened "The Doctor and the Woman," has been signed up to play for a week's run at the Ziegfeld Theatre.

✣ ✣ ✣

Malcolm Willians has been appointed traveling representative in northern Illinois by Vitagraph. He comes from the Sherman-Elliott Company of Minneapolis, distributors of state rights features.

✣ ✣ ✣

Tom Norman, manager of the Rex Theatre, Racine, Wis., wired in to the local Jewel office that "The Price of a Good Time," which he ran for three days, has broken all records.

✣ ✣ ✣

Nathan Ascher, treasurer of Ascher Brothers, has returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where he spent three weeks taking the baths.

✣ ✣ ✣

H. J. Perry has taken a position with the World office as traveling representative. His territory will be the state of Illinois.

✣ ✣ ✣

C. W. Mott of the New York Pathe office will have the Indiana territory, following the transfer of J. W. Brickhouse to the central Illinois territory.

✣ ✣ ✣

H. D. Naugel, western district manager of Vitagraph, with headquarters at Los Angeles, spent a day in the city last week en route to New York on business.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ed Blackburn of the sales department of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company is on a special business tour covering Illinois and Iowa.

✣ ✣ ✣

E. A. Bertram, formerly of the advertising department of Burke & James, has joined the Rothacker organization as assistant to John Hahn, assistant secretary.

Brief Theater News of the Entire Country

A SUMMARY OF HAPPENINGS BY STATES

Alabama

THE Mobile Theatre Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $2,000. G. R. McKenzie is the president and H. M. Lindsey is the secretary.

Arkansas

H. E. Lynch of Clarendon is erecting a new theatre to replace one recently destroyed by fire.

C. H. McCroskey has opened a theatre at Dermott.

California

The McDonough Theatre of Oakland will be remodeled into a modern vaudeville house.

A new theatre is planned for Pasadena by B. O. Kendall. It will be located at Holly street and Raymond avenue.

The Propaganda Film Company has been incorporated at Los Angeles. The incorporators are Andrew Switzer, Orrin W. Smith and Anna H. Friedman. The capital stock is $100,000.

Delaware

Success-Bound Film Corp. of Wilmington has been incorporated to produce motion pictures of all kinds with a capital of $100,000. Incorporators are Frank B. Coigne, Herman Ross and others of Wilmington.

Georgia

The Quitman opera house, owned by the city, is to be remodeled, the entire front to be rebuilt and the interior to be changed entirely. The work is to cost between $4,000 and $5,000.

The old Rawlins Theatre, at the corner of Broad and Jackson streets, Albany, which was damaged by fire recently, will be remodeled.

Illinois

Illington Amusement Company of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $10,000. Incorporators are R. I. Davis, L. Goldstein and T. Behr.

Marshall Square Theatre Company of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $15,000. Incorporators are R. I. Davis, L. Goldstein and T. Behr.

The capital stock of the Marshfield Amusement Company of Chicago has been increased from $5,000 to $25,000.

The Illington Amusement Company has been incorporated at Chicago with a capital of $10,000 by R. I. Davis and L. Goldstein.

Allied Booking Association of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $100,000 to manufacture and rent motion picture machines and films. S. G. Hutchinson, J. P. Grier, N. D. Cross, Chicago, Ill., are the incorporators.

T. M. Rochelle Theatres Company of Rochelle has been incorporated with a capital of $2,000. Incorporators are Joseph A. Lisy, Diehl Mers, John H. H. Dales.

Henderson Films of Chicago has been incorporated with a capital of $10,000. Incorporators are T. S. Henderson, W. R. Hyde, W. J. Cummings.

Indiana

The Washington motion picture theatre of Richmond has been purchased by Frank G. Heller.

W. H. Miller, of Flora, was elected president of the Capital Film Company, a newly organized concern which was incorporated recently with a capital stock of $2,500,000 at a meeting of the directors in Indianapolis. Other officers elected are: L. E. Barnes of Crown Point, Ind., vice-president; C. J. Daugherty, of Crown Point, secretary, and Edward A. Spray, of Frankfort, Ind., treasurer. The directors, in addition to the officers, are Samuel Werner, of St. Louis, Mo.; O. W. Moore and Ben Ringold, of Indianapolis.

The Empire Theatre Amusement Company, Milan, has been incorporated with a capital of $5,000. Directors are Thos. H. Thompson, John R. Pate and John H. Bergdoll.

The Capital Film Company has been incorporated at Indianapolis with capital stock of $2,500,000 by O. W. Moore, 129½ West Washington street; Edward A. Spray, banker of Frankfort, and Wm. H. Miller, grain dealer of Flora.

Bert J. Vought, who for the last two years has been engaged in the movie show business in Columbia City, recently took over the management of the Star Theatre in South Whitley. Mr. Vought will operate both the Columbia City and South Whitley playhouses, which are very lucrative businesses.

Iowa

Charles Champlin, who sold his picture show business at Marshalltown a few years ago, has again bought the business and held his opening show recently. The business had changed hands several times since he sold out.

Kansas

The Caldwell opera house was destroyed by fire with loss of $15,000.

Massachusetts

Manager Edward P. McCarthy of the New Nickel motion picture house, Springfield, is considering plans to enlarge the theatre. The present seating capacity of the house is about 625 and the addition to the building would make the capacity fully 1,200.

Michigan

Frank B. Berry is the owner of the new $100,000 theatre to be built on West Main street, Battle Creek.

The Amuse Theatre, one of the first theatres of Muskegon, has been closed.

Howard Smith, formerly county treasurer at Grand Rapids, has taken a position with the Artcraft Film Company and will leave for Hollywood, California, shortly.

J. P. Allen of Holly will soon begin erection of a theatre on Martha and Broad streets.

The new Liberty Theatre at Negaunee, seating 450, will open on or about April 1. The theatre is owned by Otis Rule and will be under the management of Sid Butler. It will run vaudeville in addition to pictures.

Arrangements have been completed for the construction of a fire-proof building at Charlevoix to be occupied by the movie and vaudeville shows of Stoddard & Wallace.

Minnesota

The Brunswick Amusement Co. of Duluth is planning to spend over $1,000 in making alterations and improvements to the Rex Theatre, Second avenue.

Missouri

The Dunnegan Opera House has been destroyed by fire.

The Chippewa Theatre, Broadway and Chippewa streets, St. Louis, has been purchased by Clyde Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Saunders, who have been managing the New Janus Theatre of Shelbina, have concluded a deal to take over a Chillicothe picture show.

Mabel Normand in her new Goldwyn picture, "The Floor Below."

The Empire Theatre, Chillicothe, was reopened March 1 under the management of Seares & Jones, managers of the De Graw opera house at Brookfield, Missouri.

New York

The H. W. Vischer Moving Picture Company of Phoenix has been incorporated by P. Eckel, B. E. Cornell and H. W. Vischer, with a capital of $5,000.

The Freel Trust Company is the owner of a new theatre to be erected at the corner of Fulton street and Rockwell place, Brooklyn. Cost is estimated at $225,000.

New York Mutual Film Corporation, capital $50,000, has been incorporated by John C. Turnbull, New York City, and John F. Freuler, president of the parent organization.

Koreno Theatre Corporation of New York, with a capital of $50,000, has been incorporated by Koren Frank, Raffala Acierno, Maria A. Acierno, New York City.

Corona Film Corp., capital $25,000, of Manhattan, has been incorporated by Ernest H. Mayer and Abram P. Loesberg, New York City.

Maytrix Photoplays, Inc., of Manhattan, capital $10,000, has been incorporated by Wm. Lewis, Samuel Kramer and Wm. Grossman, New York City.

Film Renewing Co., Inc., of Manhattan, capital $5,000, has been incorporated by Martin A. G. Thelander, New York City, and James F. Dalton, Yonkers, N. Y.

Francis Joseph Belcher, who was a pioneer in the small motion picture theatres in New York, but retired several years ago, died recently at the Polyclinic Hospital.

Domenick W. Bonelli and Philip M. Losito have filed petitions in bankruptcy, individually and as members of the Rosegraph Film Company, No. 145 West Forty-fifth street, New York. The firm's liabilities are $5,587, assets $445.

Manager Young has had installed at the Opera House of Ilion one of the latest improved moving picture machines, in addition to the one now in use. With the new machine, pictures can be shown without any wait between reels and will give more satisfaction to the patrons.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state by the following companies during the past week:

Producers and Exhibitors Affiliated, New York City. Capital, $10,000. Directors: William L. Sherrill, Harry Rapf and Lester Park, Times building, New York City.

The Masks, Incorporated, New York City. Capital, $10,000. Directors: Sigmund Milau, Lillian Kornfeld and Joseph B. Slensby, Richmond Hill, New York.

Photo Products Export Company, New York City. Capital, $1,000. Directors: Harry S. Stone, Edward Casey and Robert B. Olsen, 561 West One Hundred and Seventy-fourth street, New York City.

Meyer Cohen Music Publishing Company, New York City. Capital, $20,000. Directors: Meyer Cohen, Mark L. Stone and Lewis Michaels, 245 West Fifty-first street, New York City.

The Virginia Holding Company, New York City. Capital, $1,000. Directors: J. G. Lowenthal, August Dreyer and A. Perkoff, 116 West Forty-fifth street, New York City.

Touraine Realty Company, Brooklyn, N. Y. Capital $60,000. Directors: John Azziomenti, Charles J. Campbell and A. S. Chetzinoff, 40 Union Square, New York City.

A tense moment in the World picture, "Rasputin, the Black Monk."

North Carolina

War Department, Washington, D. C., will erect a Liberty Theatre at Camp Greene.

Ohio

Flahaven & Palmer have sold to the Milo Theatre Company the Milo picture theatre, East One Hundredth street and Miles avenue, Cleveland, for a consideration reported to be about $7,500. Officers of the Milo Theatre Company, just incorporated, are: S. W. Manheim, president; A. Tucker, vice-president; Bert Todd, secretary; J. V. Wolcott, treasurer. George Fiske will manage the theatre.

Work has started on the New Hippodrome Theatre at Marietta, to be erected by the C. & M. Amusement Company, of which O. J. Sybert of that city is manager.

Plans have been completed for office building and theatre of the Palace Amusement Company, Sixth street, east of Vine street, Cincinnati.

Oklahoma

War Department, Washington, D. C., will erect Liberty Theatre at Camp Doniphan.

Pennsylvania

Capitalists of Lansford and a Philadelphia theatrical man are contemplating the erection of a large theatre and assembly hall on Ridge street.

B. F. Sechrist, proprietor and owner of the Palace Theatre, Middleburg, will soon begin work on addition to his playhouse.

The Old Fidelity Market House at 1524 to 1536 South street, Philadelphia, which was bought by Abraham Wax of Camden, New Jersey, will be demolished and a large movie theatre erected.

Texas

The Brookston Airdome Theatre of Denison was destroyed by fire causing damage of $12,000.

Fire damaged the building occupied by the Excelsior Picture Company and the Standard Film Company, Inc., at 1918 Main street, Dallas, causing loss estimated at $25,000.

Fire damaged the Kyle Theatre at Beaumont, causing damage estimated at about $80,000.

The theatre owned by N. F. Wertheimer, at 1919 Main street, Dallas, and which was destroyed by fire will be rebuilt.

Washington

A new theatre building is being erected at Washougal.

Rialto Theatre Company, Seattle, has been incorporated with a capital of $15,000 by J. L. Gottstein and J. G. von Herberg.

A $50,000 theatre is being erected by the F. & S. Improvement Company at corner of Tower avenue and Central streets, Centralia.

The New Truxton Theatre Company has been incorporated at Olympia with a capital stock of $10,000 to conduct places of amusement of all kinds, by W. J. Dow, J. I. Sassear and A. I. Stearns.

Wisconsin

The Mermac Theatre of West Bend is now under the management of C. Davis and his son of Miles, Iowa. Otto Weber, the proprietor, has given the gentlemen a 60-day lease on the show house.

Complete Record of Current Films

BROUGHT UP TO DATE EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D The Tracking of Stingaree..... 2,000
D Arrayed with the Enemy..... 2,000
D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000
D Through Fire and Water..... 2,000
D A Bushranger's Stategy..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Broadway Star Features

D School and Schools (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D The Rathskeller and the Rose (O. Henry Series) 2,000
C-D By Injunction (O. Henry Series)... 2,000
D The Song and the Sergeant (O. Henry Series) 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2,000
C A Woman 2,000
C The Tramp 2,000
C His New Job..... 2,000

Essanay Comedies

C Check Your Hat, Sir..... 1,000
C Wild Algy of Picadilly..... 1,000
C All Stuck Up..... 1,000
C The Lie That Failed..... 1,000
C The Jazbo Sheriff..... 1,000
C The Snakeville Fire Brigade..... 1,000
C Snakeville's Sleuth 1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C Out and In (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1,000
C Marooned 1,000
C Sherman Was Right..... 1,000
C What Will Happen Next?..... 1,000
C Which Was Lucky?..... 1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D Thief or Angel..... 2,000
C-D The Accusing Toe 2,000
C-D Rebellion 2,000
C-D A Boy-Built City 2,000
C-D I'm a Man..... 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000
C A Hash House Romance..... 1,000
C The Hod Carrier's Million..... 1,000

Mutual Program

Sunday

T 3-24 Screen Telegram 1,000

Tuesday

C 3-26 Up She Goes (Billie Rhodes).. 1,000

Wednesday

T 3-27 Screen Telegram.....

Universal Program

12-15 Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)... 5,000
12-24 Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey) 5,000
12-31 The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson) 5,000
1-7 The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely) 5,000
1-14 Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard).. 5,000
1-21 Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)... 5,000
1-28 The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey) 5,000
2-4 Painted Lips (Louise Lovely).. 5,000
2-11 New Love for Old (Ella Hall) 5,000
2-16 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58 1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Are Passions Inherited?.Warner Bros. 7,000
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,000
A Mormon Maid (Mae Murray)..... ..... Friedman 5,000
Balloonatics .....Century Comedies
Below Zero .....Wharton 2,000
Birth Control.Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 6,000
Bit o' Heaven..... 5,000
Beware of Strangers.....Selig Special 7,000
Birth .....Eugenics Film 6,000
Christie Comedies..... .....Christie Film Co.
Christus.....Historic Features
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,000
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Cross-Eyed Submarine..... .....Universal Film Mfg.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Eagle's Wing .....Bluebird 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Eyes of the World....Clune Film Co. 10,000
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,000
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine. Bluebird Photoplays 5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,000
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co..... .....Joseph F. Lee 5,000
Span of Life.....
Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp 12,000
Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp. 5,000
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,000
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,000
Trip Through China, A..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,000
Trooper 44..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,000
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow 7,000
The Barrier.....Rex Beach 9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter 2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
The Woman and the Beast...Graphic 5,000
The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall 9,000
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co.
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special
The Black Stork...Sherriott Pictures 5,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

3-3 The Girl with the Champagne Eyes (Jewel Carmen)..... 5,000
3-10 The Debt of Honor (Peggy Hyland) 5,000
3-17 Woman and the Law..... 7,000
3-17 The Devil's Wheel (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
3-24 A Daughter of France (Virginia Pearson) 5,000
3-24 A Self-Made Lady (Sunshine Com.) 2,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

3-10 The Floor Below (Com-Dram). 6,000
3-24 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000
4-7 The Danger Game (Madge Kennedy) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

One Hour (Zeena Keefe)..... 6,000
The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell) 5,000

Jester Comedies

Feb. The Recruit (Twede Dan)..... 1,000
Mar. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) 1,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West).. 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

2-25 Revenge (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
2-25 His Generosity (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew) 1,000
3-4 The Shell Game (Emmy Wehlen) 5,000
3-4 Before and After Taking (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-11 The Brass Check (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne) 5,000
3-11 His Strength of Mind (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000
3-18 The Claim (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
3-18 Special Today - (Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-25 Breakers Ahead (Viola Dana).. 5,000
3-25 When a Man's Married (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew).... 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

2-25 The Midnight Trail (Wm. Russell) 5,000
3-4 Powers That Prey (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000
3-11 Ann's Finish (Margarita Fischer) 5,000
3-18 The Girl and the Judge (Olive Tell) 5,000
3-25 A Bit of Jade (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

1-15 His Robe of Honor (Henry B. Walthall) 7,000
2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

2-4 Petticoat Pilot (Vivian Martin) 5,000
2-4 Who is "Number One?" Episode 15 2,000
2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Beban) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

2-24 Clermont-Ferrand (France).... 500
2-24 Katzenjammer Kids (Cartoon). 500
2-24 Appleblossom Land (Educ.)... 500
2-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 18... 1,000
3-2 Hearst Pathe News, No. 19... 1,000
3-3 Daddy's Girl (Comedy, Drew) .....Diando 5,000
3-3 The Hidden Hand, No. 15 "The Girl of the Prophecy" (Drama) .....Pathe 2,000
3-3 The Price of Folly, No. 7 "The Rebound" (Drama)...Balboa 2,000
3-3 The Gasoline Wedding (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-3 Our National Parks—Yellowstone Park—The Geysers (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-3 Buxton (Derbyshire, England) Col. (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-6 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-9 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-10 The Great Adventure (C-D).. .....Pathe 5,000
3-10 The House of Hate, No. 1, "The Hooded Terror" (Drama) 3,000
3-10 The Price of Folly, No. 8, "Shifting Sands" (Drama).. 2,000
3-10 Look Pleasant Please (Com.). .....Rolin 1,000
3-10 Our National Parks—Rainier Park—Mesa Verda Park (Travel) .....Pathe 1,000
3-10 Katzenjammer Kids — Spirits (Cartoon) 500
3-10 Jackie's Clothes (Educ.)..... 500
3-13 Hearst Pathe News, No. 22... 1,000
3-16 Hearst Pathe News, No. 23... 1,000
3-17 The Beggar Woman (Russian Art Films).....Drama 5,000
3-17 The House of Hate, No. 2, "The Tiger's Eye" .....Drama 2,000
3-17 Fare, Please (Comedy)....Rolin 2,000
3-17 Here Come the Girls (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-17 Picturesque France—The Cauterets (Colored) .....Travel 500
3-17 Children's Dances (Colored) .....Educational 500
3-20 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 24... 1,000
3-23 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 25.... 1,000
3-25 The Hillcrest Mystery (Drama) .....Astra 5,000
3-24 The House of Hate, No. 3—A Woman's Perfidy (Drama) .....Astra 2,000
3-24 Let's Go (Comedy).....Rolin 1,000
3-24 Pests of Our Fruit Trees (Educ.) 500
3-24 Picturesque France (Colored) (Travel) 500
3-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 26... 1,000
3-30 Hearst Pathe News, No. 27... 1,000
.....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Select Pictures Corporation

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady) 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)..... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

.....Keystone Comedy 1,000
2-24 Little Red Decides..... .....Triangle Players 5,000
2-24 A Coward's Courage..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Soul in Trust (Belle Bennett) 5,000
2-24 His Nimble Twist..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
2-24 A Tell Tale Shirt..... 2,000
3-3 Heiress for a Day (Olive Thomas) 5,000
3-3 A Discord in a Flat..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) 5,000
3-3 His Hidden Shame .... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 A Lady Killer's Doom..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-10 The Hard Rock Breed..... ..... Margery Wilson 5,000
3-10 Wives and Worries..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-10 The Sea Panther (Wm. Desmond) 5,000
3-10 Did She Do Wrong?..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-17 Faith Endurin' (Roy Stuart)... 5,000
3-17 A Social Shock Absorber..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 The Answer (Alma Rubens)... 7,000
3-17 Caught With the Goods..... ..... Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 Mud .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-17 Nancy Comes Home (Myrtle Lind) 5,000
3-17 Fork Over ...Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 Innocent's Progress (Pauline Starke) 5,000
3-17 A Janitor's Fall..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 A Safe Danger..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

3-4 An Officer and a Gentleman (Clara Kimball Young).Com. 1,000
3-4 Jumping Jacks and Jailbirds.... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 The Desired Woman (Harry Morey) 5,000
3-11 Meddlers and Moonshiners..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 12 2,000
3-11 Their First Quarrel (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-4 Unlucky Louis (Sydney Drew). 1,000
3-18 An American Live Wire (Earl Williams) 5,000
3-18 Tramps and Traitors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 13 2,000
3-18 A Telegraphic Tangle (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000
3-25 The Home Trail (Nell Shipman) 5,000
3-25 Stripes and Stumbles..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-25 Vengeance—And the Woman, No. 15 2,000
3-25 His Wife Knew About It (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)... 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall..... .....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

GEORGE K. SPOOR presents

TAYLOR HOLMES

in

"A Pair of Sixes"

By Edward Peple

Screen Opinions says:

"'A Pair of Sixes' is the best thing, by all odds, that Taylor Holmes has done. Those who see it, if there is a drop of humor in their blood, will chuckle continuously—and every now and then the chuckles will be interrupted by a good, big, roaring laugh. Nothing has been skimped to make it a rattling good play—and it shows it."

Essanay

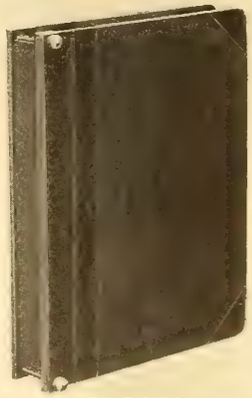
George Kleine System
Distributors

Perfection Pictures

EXHIBITORS

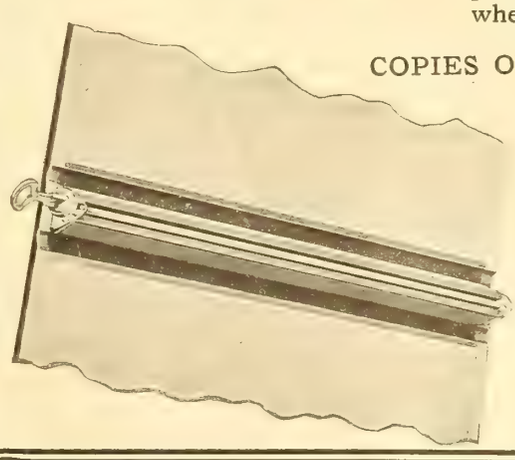
OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference



By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.



Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT · DURABLE · ATTRACTIVE · INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

CLOSED

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

ELSIE FERGUSON
Star in Artcraft Pictures

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 6, 1918 No. 14

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES OF AMERICA INC

Questions and Answers

Taking up and answering one by one the Moving Picture World's objections to co-operative plans and its doubt as to the organization and personnel of

United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.

QUESTION. Is the United Picture Theatres of America working unselfishly for the exhibitors' interest?

ANSWER. It is, because it is a mutual co-operative organization, legally under the control of its exhibitor membership, designed to reduce film rentals to its members from 30 to 50 per cent and improve quality.

Q. Will United Picture Theatres engage in the making and marketing of film.

A. It will not. The plan is to buy film, not to manufacture or peddle it.

Q. Is our plan a reversion from open bookings to programme?

A. Emphatically no! We shall book by the "star series" system and such acceptable productions as the market affords.

Q. How do we expect to get the exhibitors to stick?

A. By making every member an actual benefiting partner. Twenty-two thousand druggists stick together. Why not a few thousand exhibitors?

Q. How can we please both producers and exhibitors?

A. The producers, by giving them cash and a guaranteed profit besides, for their negatives. The exhibitors, by giving them pictures that their membership prefers and by eliminating film waste of all kinds.

Write today for Booklet to Department X.

United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

(To be continued.)

TRIANGLE

Still More Proof

We have told you from week to week of the new Triangle policy—better pictures, better service, fair and square business methods, every possible effort to help the exhibitor make money.

Whether or not this new Triangle policy has been a success can best be judged by what exhibitors have to say. The following are excerpts from just a few of the letters that we have recently received. Read them over.

"The pictures have always been good and far above the standard of anything I could have bought of any other company." Ideal Theatre, Centralia, Wash.

"I think Triangle is the only distributing concern that is backing the exhibitor with REAL assistance instead of hot air and high-sounding phrases. I am boosting Triangle and it brings results. You have the best program service on the market today." W. C. Sellmer, Bandon, Ore.

"You seem to be one of the very few film companies who act as though there might be an honest exhibitor once in a great while. You are to be congratulated on your stand on the war tax and the exhibitors over the country should long remember you." J. R. Thompson, The Sequoyah Theatre, Tahlequah, Okla.

"I must say that the last two months have been good for me. I have had a remarkable success with the Triangle. My Sunday business has doubled what it used to be." M. Nielson, Colonial Theatre, Eureka, Calif.

"I am a new Triangler and proud to be. Program is the real sure thing, and certainly does help when you do not have to pay the war tax." John Shirk, Pictureland Theatre, Kokomo, Ind.

"We have been using your program two a week for the last five months with great success, and our treatment by your Philadelphia branch during that time has been very satisfactory." W. V. Massey, Masonic Theatre, Beverley, N. J.

"It is a pleasure to recommend Triangle pictures as well as your service." A. B. Cook, Majestic Theatre, Jackson, Miss.

"We are running Triangle features five nights a week and also all your comedies. I have nothing but praise for the all-round square deal treatment that Triangle is giving us." Edward Walz, Majestic Theatre, Easthampton, Mass.

"I have fooled away a lot of money trying to get something better, but the truth is that Triangle is the one that brings in profit and pleases our people." W. S. Patterson, Swetland Opera House, Mayville, N. Y.

"I wish to add that I cannot see how any exhibitor can possibly get on these hard times without Triangles and Keystones on his program." J. D. Snively, Mgr. Gem Theatre, Oilton, Okla.

"Have been showing Triangle current releases and Hart and Fairbanks reissues exclusive seven days' service for several months, with tremendous success. Triangle program made it possible for us to raise the regular prices. Excellent service—fine lobbies." Dreamland Theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla.

"For consistency and general all-round excellence, Triangle has been our one best bet. Triangle productions are steadily increasing in quality and trade-mark strength, and the story values are such to offset the drawing powers of any particular star." Majestic Theatre, Tulsa, Okla.

"I find that Triangle film is one of the cheapest in the long run and best all-round pictures that I have ever used since taking over the management of the Majestic Theatre. Your seven-reel super-features that you issue every month on the regular program cannot be beaten." Majestic Theatre, Wellington, Kans.

"We have always found the Triangle pictures a drawing card and our patrons have always been highly pleased with all your films as well as your treatment of us as exhibitors." Orpheum Theatre, Wimbledon, N. D.

"While business was very dull about six months ago, your company graciously made me a reduction in the film rentals; and for this reason I raised the film rentals voluntarily because I am now making good money." Xydias Theatres Co., Hattiesburg, Miss.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH
President

R. W. LYNCH
Vice-President

FRED KENT
Treasurer

Y. F. FREEMAN
General Manager

A scene that goes down deep from "Little Miss No-Account," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature starring Gladys Leslie, which has just been released.

MAY 20 1918

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 6, 1918 No. 14

Big Labor Fight Starts in Chicago

AMUSEMENT INTERESTS RAISE $60,000 FUND

WHAT promises to be one of the biggest labor fights in the history of the industry started this week in Chicago. Stung to the quick by what they declare "unfair aggressions and unwarranted exactions" on the part of the officials of Motion Picture Operators' Union No. 110, the exhibitors, exchanges and legitimate and vaudeville houses have banded together and are raising a fund of $60,000 to finance a war to the knife. It is feared before the trouble is settled that physical violence and damage to property may result.

The controversy primarily is due to recent events, but in reality it is the outcome of a long and bitter feud in which the exhibitors have suffered. Already incensed because they believed the management of their theatres was being infringed upon by the operators, the theatre men rose in arms when the operators made the new demands.

Demands of Operators

These demands, according to reports, are as follows:

That the profits of all slide advertising and commercial films be divided with the operators.

That all such films bear a union label and that operators will be instructed not to run them unless they do.

That metal shipping cans not only bear the union label, but that they be made by one factory and that a man selected by the union officials supervise the manufacture, the same rule to apply to the making of slides and commercial films.

That no slides for political candidates be run in any theatre unless the candidates first come to union headquarters and arrange to have the slides made through the union, consenting to have the union label placed on them.

That the union receive a compensation of $3 a week from each exchange for the inspection of machines by a union inspector whose inspection, it is represented, would prevent the ruining of films. Any machine that the inspector ordered repaired would have to be repaired, or the operator would not use it, it is claimed. For this purpose a repair room would be established at union headquarters.

Exhibitors Show Power

The exhibitors began to mobilize their forces a week ago. The first step was a meeting in the Masonic Temple which was attended by more than 200 men, either owners or managers of theatres or exchange men. The meeting was called by the Chicago Film Exchange Managers' Association, the Chicago Theatre Owners' Association, and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson presided. Former Chief of Detectives Nicholas Hunt of the Shippy, Hunt, Dorman Detective Agency, which has been retained by the film men, was present.

According to the exhibitors, it was made clear that the meeting was not called to combat organized labor. It was said that there was no objection to collective bargaining, nor to bettering the conditions of the operators. It was said emphatically, however, that the exhibitors "are opposed to threats of physical violence, and acquiescence in things that would be confiscatory of the property of the proprietors, and to dealing with people who have police records."

All Amusement Forces Join

Representatives of vaudeville houses and manufacturers of slides asked to co-operate and as a result these branches of the business were invited to become part of the organization, the name of which, it was decided, would be the Allied Amusement Association.

Another meeting was held a few days later and was attended by more than 300 men. It was said to have been the largest local meeting of its kind ever held in the United States. The president of the Chicago Theatrical Managers' Association was present and promised the support of his organization. This organization includes all the legitimate and vaudeville houses down town. An executive committee was appointed representative of each amusement division.

10-Cents-a-Seat Assessment Made

An assessment was made against all the theatres, which is said to have been ten cents a seat, and those present immediately contributed in excess of $17,000.

It was announced that a mutual agreement had been arranged with the exchanges which would assure a united front and a fight to the finish.

Another meeting was scheduled to be held this week.

The fight particularly is aimed at John E. Shafrank, who is head of the National Film Advertising Company. Shafrank has desk room at union headquarters. Shafrank's activities are said to have been the beginning of the trouble. The exhibitors say he began notifying them recently that certain commercial films they were running under contract would have to be paid for in future at his office, where the profits would be divided with the operators, this rule to be applied to all commercial films or slide advertising, from which the theatre derived financial returns.

The exhibitors say that the union label question arose at the same time, declaring Shafrank and the union officials decided that all slides and commercial films must bear the union label or the operators would not run them. The exhibitors say this order originally included government slides being used by four-minute men. The exhibitors oppose the union label principally on the ground that the rule might eventually be extended to cover all films, thus causing constant strife.

Would Make Candidates Pay

In connection with the dispute over the slides of political candidates, it is said in exhibitor circles that one candidate for alderman was asked to pay $100 for the privilege of having his slide run in the theatres of his ward, the slide to be made through the union, and to bear the union label. For $75 additional, it was said, the candidate's slide would be shown to the exclusion of his rival's.

Further opposition of the exhibitors has arisen over the organization of what is known as the Theatre Janitors' Union. The principal officers, Con Shea and Steve Kelliher, are said to have police records. The exhibitors say that as far as they know, Shea and Kelliher are the only active members of the union, but that they get financial returns by asking $1 a month from each theatre for the "privilege" of having their janitors in the union membership, leaving membership cards to be filled in by the managers.

Fuel was added to the flame when, it is alleged, Fred Havill, an official of the operators' union, sent a letter to the film exchanges saying that for $3 a week from each exchange he would inspect projection machines, thereby preventing the ruining of films. Any machine that he ordered repaired, however, would have to be repaired or the operator would not run it, the exhibitors say. For this purpose a machine repair room would be established at union headquarters.

Operators Misunderstood, They Say

The operators are taking the position of being put in a wrong light. They insist they want to be friendly and that the exhibitors alone will be to blame for any untoward developments.

J. P. Armstrong, president of the union, gave the operators' side as follows:

"The operators are absolutely in accord with the exhibitors' league, the theatre managers' association and the film exchanges. Having signed a wage scale for the next five years we do not ask one cent to be paid further to our operators than the scale requires.

"A man named John E. Shafrank requested desk room in our headquarters under the name of The National Film Advertising Company. If this gentleman has attempted to enforce by strike or otherwise any of the things alleged he has overstepped his bounds, the operators having no desire other than to agree with the managers on the slide proposition.

"Government slides and slides of political candidates were ordered to be run by our operators at all times. We have no desire to run the theatres of Chicago; merely the projection machines for which we are employed.

"On the slide proposition, from union headquarters we requested that the union label be placed on them and offered any manager the use of our emblem. We have not accepted compensation from any source alleged by the exhibitors, except what we are getting under contract.

"Regarding Fred Havill, we suggested that a union man inspect machines at various houses, and from letters received from exchanges, the exchange men seemed to be in accord with our view.

Talks of Janitors' Union

"Relative to the janitors' union, to the best of my knowledge, a charter from the American Federation of Labor bearing the seal and indorsement of the officials of the American Federation of Labor was issued, No. 15481, to the officials who now hold it, and any attack upon the honesty and integrity of these officials seems to me unwarranted and uncalled for.

"However, we are not attempting to force managers, by strike or otherwise, to make their employes join an organization that does not bear the executive seal of the American Federation of Labor, and exhibitors would favor our office if they would notify us of any attempt at violence by delegates, as we do not approve of such methods.

"The action of strangers, advertising solicitors or others attempting to disparage the integrity of this organization is resented, and it is our desire to establish mutual co-operation and friendship between the exhibitors and the operators."

Sends Out Another Statement

Mr. Armstrong has sent out a statement to the managers which says further:

"We hereby declare we are satisfied with the scale of wages and do not ask any increase in accordance with contract for five years. We do not call strikes for so-called affiliated bodies who say they are allied with us, but are not. We do not ask the exhibitor to pay our operators for running slides and advertising films, but expect the commercial solicitor to pay our operators, not you.

"We do not wish you to admit Mr. Shafrank or any other solicitor for advertising into our booths unless you so desire. The National Advertising Company has desk room only in our office with us and has to use our officers' names to enforce anything.

"We desire to co-operate with the Allied Amusement Association on any matter they desire to take up with us. No threats or acts of violence will be permitted by this union by any of its members.

Run Government Slides Free

"All government slides must be run free by our operators. Four-minute men and National Council of Defense slides must be run gratis.

"All films manufactured by any exchange must be run by our operators free at the request of the manager. Nobody has authority to take or place slides in your theatre without your consent. Theatres not running advertising slides or films are not forced by this local union to change their policy.

"Operators of this union must work in harmony with the managers of theatres. If not they can be removed at the request of the managers by complaint to this office. All exchanges desiring our co-operation to further their interest, we heartily welcome same. Please call up Harrison 3332 when you consider it necessary and we shall be glad to receive any complaint on film damage, etc. Your interests are our interests. Let us think to further our interests."

S. R. O. Again Rules in East and West

TRAVELER REPORTS RESULTS OF OBSERVATION

EXHIBITORS all over the country are smiling again. No better proof is needed that the industry has fully recovered from the recent slump, which for a time threatened dire things.

Whether because of the war tax or a depression in business, first-class theatres which in normal times boast capacity business played to so many empty seats for four or five months that an exhibitor without a complaint was a rarity.

But things are vastly different now. According to a Goldwyn publicity representative, recently returned from a tour that brought him into close contact with showmen in every section of the east and northwest and a part of the southwest, business has returned to normal and in many cities is better than normal.

Boston Leads Boom

Boston, he found, was the first big eastern city to outlive the slump.

"We're not coming back, we're back," replied Jacob Lourie, the big Goldwyn exhibitor in the Hub, to a query of the publicity man.

Similar conditions were noted at Providence, Lowell, Springfield and Brackton. Lynn and Portland are just convalescing, their full recovery being retarded by labor troubles.

Buffalo is at its theatrical best, the new Curtiss plant and several other new war plants bringing thousands of young men and young women to the upstate metropolis.

"Business was never better," said Michael Shea of Shea's Hippodrome, where Mabel Normand in "Dodging a Million" did a record business recently.

Boom At Height In Northwest

It was in the Northwest that the Goldwyn representative found the greatest wave of motion picture prosperity, conditions in Minneapolis making some of the large exhibitors forget there ever was depression. There, as in many other large cities, the slump was not without its compensations. It drove a lot of fly-by-night exhibitors out of business and removed their cheap store shows which had long been eyesores.

Finkelstein & Rubin, owners of a chain of theatres in the Twin Cities, reported prosperity for all their houses. Their statement was borne out in part at their New Garrick theatre, St. Paul, where "The Auction Block" played to tremendous business the week the Goldwyn man spent in the Twin Cities.

A trip to Rochester, Minn., revealed that prosperity did not pass up the smaller places in its sweep. Mary Garden in "Thais" drew capacity audiences to the Lawler theatre, despite the big business done by a Broadway stage production all during the run of the picture.

Wisconsin On Upgrade

Of all northwestern states, Wisconsin had the hardest time in wresting itself from the grasp of the slump. It was not until the middle of February that the picture boom made its appearance there. La Crosse and Oshkosh, which suffered most, were the first cities in Wisconsin to note a change for the better. The Goldwyn exhibitors there reported excellent business with Mae Marsh in "The Beloved Traitor" and on other productions.

Theatres in St. Louis had worn an air of prosperity weeks before the Goldwyn man put in an appearance. Here, too, a number of padlocked store shows revealed where the slump had put in its good work. Further evidence of the cinema boom the Mound City is enjoying is the recent decision of the management of the New Grand Central theatre, the Goldwyn first-run house, to run continuously instead of giving four shows a day, as heretofore.

Ohio Conditions Fine

A week's sojourn in Ohio helped to prove that picture prosperity was general all over the country. Cleveland felt the boom soonest, just as it had felt the slump first four months before. Eighteen of the twenty-one big exhibitors in the Forest City reported exceptionally good business. Joseph Grossman, manager of the Standard theatre, bemoaned the fact that he had to turn hundreds away nightly during his showing of Mabel Normand in "Dodging a Million."

Cincinnati is doing well. Many of the big exhibitors there say the slump never touched them. MacMahon and Jackson, owners of Gift's theatre, report that while trade journals announced depression everywhere, there was no noticeable falling off at their house. In proof of this, they say that Mary Garden in "Thais" broke all house records at a time when every large city in the country reported depression.

Slump Never Hit Pittsburgh

There was a peculiar situation in Pittsburg. Apparently only the smaller houses felt the slump there. Complaints from the higher-priced houses were few and far between. Harry Davis, head of the Davis circuit of theatres, said he had experienced no falling off worth being concerned about and that his spacious Lyric theatre had done remarkably well since last summer.

Despite what Cincinnati and Pittsburgh think about it, there was a marked depression elsewhere.

An amazing scene in the new Goldwyn production, "The Splendid Sinner," featuring Mary Garden.

"What The Picture Did For Me"

VERDICTS ON FILMS IN LANGUAGE OF EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. If the picture you wish to know about is not included, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form below, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

Amarilly of Clothesline Alley, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"One of Mary's best pictures. She does some wonderful work. It drew many chuckles. Give us more pictures like this. We know they will please the public. Business only fair because of Lent."—M. J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Amarilly of Clothesline Alley, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Broke house record."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

The Song of Songs, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Excellent picture and more befitting Miss Ferguson than some of her previous pictures. Business good. Star will draw better in time."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Little American, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"A real star in a real picture. The sinking of the ship is a little too real, however. Drew the biggest crowd I ever had. Film in excellent condition."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Wolves of the Rail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A very good Hart picture. Satisfied all who saw it and drew good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Rose of the World, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Best intense drama of the year. Business good. The star is a comer, sure."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Woman God Forgot, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"A great production. I do not see how it

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title ..... Title .....

Star ..... Producer..... Star ..... Producer.....

Remarks ..... Remarks .....

....

....

Title ..... Title .....

Star ..... Producer..... Star ..... Producer.....

Remarks ..... Remarks .....

....

....

Address ..... City and State.....

Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg. Chicago.

could be improved."—Louis J. Butts, Davison Theatre, Waupun, Wis.

Joan the Woman, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"A sublime picture. Costly and massive in production. Raise your prices and boost the limit."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

Reaching for the Moon, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Can be classed with his good ones. Action enough to suit all."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"This was the star's first appearance in over a year but he packed the house."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Silent Man, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A good Hart picture. Hart knows how to stage the west, which accounts for his success."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

A Modern Musketeer, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Star and story great, business excellent."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La. —High class suburban patronage.

Bluebird

Treason, with Allen Holubar (Bluebird)—"A great picture of its kind. Everyone well pleased. No criticism."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

Polly Redhead, with Ella Hall (Bluebird)—"A charming story. My Saturday audience liked it, and it drew exceptionally well."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

My Unmarried Wife, with Carmel Myers (Bluebird)—"Star a comer. Good picture to good business." —Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Broadway Love, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird) "Excellent picture; business good."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Mother O' Mine, with Rupert Julian (Bluebird)—"A good picture but not to be considered a special. Business fair."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

The Spotted Lily, with Ella Hall (Bluebird)—"This picture is not well done, and the ending is poor. This sort hurts business."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

A Jewel in Pawn, with Ella Hall (Bluebird)—"A little draggy at the start but the audience came out well pleased."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Fires of Rebellion, with Dorothy Phillips (Bluebird)—"Just an ordinary picture. Dorothy Phillips did not have a chance to show her ability." Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

The Savage, with Monroe Salisbury (Bluebird)—"A picture out of the ordinary with lots of punch. Salisbury is great."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Fox

When a Man Sees Red, with William Farnum (Fox)—"Farnum gets the money for me. This picture, like his others, played to capacity business. I wish I could play this star once a week. Picture very good. Photography good."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

Heart's Revenge, with Sonia Markova (Fox)—"One of those deep-dyed villain kind of the melodrama type. Good settings and careful direction puts it over so it will please."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Cupid's Round-up, with Tom Mix (Fox)—"The star is given a chance to show what he can do. This is a fine picture, with good action and story and the star is a comer."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Vixen, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"Poor production and film in poor condition."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

Camille, with Theda Bara (Fox)—"Good production. Good business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp, with Fox Kiddies (Fox)—"Lavish production and great kid acting, but business was only fair."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Honor System, with Milton Sills (Fox)—"Remarkable production, though a trifle gruesome in spots. Business fair."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Jack and the Beanstalk, with the Fox kiddies (Fox)—"Drew a large crowd. The kids went wild over it and it pleased the grown-ups."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Spy, with Dustin Farnum (Fox)—"Great. Wonderfully impressive. Excellent business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

All for a Husband, with Virginia Pearson (Fox)—"Avoid this if you can. Poor."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

A Branded Soul, with Gladys Brockwell (Fox)—"This star is always good but the picture did not please. No story; too religious. Business good."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"This is the kind of picture that will please any audience. Walsh is a winner."—S. L. Carter, Lyric Theatre, Gainsville, Fla.

Goldwyn

The Floor Below, with Mabel Normand (Goldwyn)—"A very good picture which drew a good audience and satisfied everybody. The public seems glad to have this star back."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Cinderella Man, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"A fine production, which went over big."—Louis J. Butts, Davison Theatre, Waupun, Wis.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"A fine production of its type but not a popular subject for the times, too sad and depressing."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Iowa.

Nearly Married, with Madge Kennedy (Goldwyn)—"A very pleasing picture. Business fair."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

Jewel

Sirens of the Sea, with Louise Lovely (Jewel)—"A beautiful picture. Capacity business at increased prices. Pleased all."—S. L. Carter, Lyric Theatre, Gainsville, Fla.

Sirens of the Sea, with Louise Lovely (Jewel)—"The most beautiful picture I ever saw. Drew the best house of the season and was liked by all."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Kleine

Ruggles of Red Gap, with Taylor Holmes (Essanay)—"Just smiles, laughs and chuckles from start to finish."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

One Touch of Nature, with John Drew Bennett (Edison)—"The best baseball picture I have ever seen. For a comedy-drama it has even The Pinch-Hitter beaten. The title is a drawback but don't be afraid to boost it big.—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Men Who Have Made Love to Me, with Mary MacLane (Essanay)—"Failed to please. Seven reels showing several love affairs of the star in her younger days."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Little Shoes, with Henry Walthall (Essanay)—"A splendid screen story and very appealing. Drew a much better crowd than we expected."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Brown of Harvard, with Hazel Daly and Tom Moore (Selig)—"Clever in every way and one of the biggest hits in months."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Metro

Broadway Bill, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"Unusually fine picture. Wonderful snow scenes. Bound to please any audience."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

The End of the Tour, with Lionel Barrymore (Metro)—"Rather a thin story but the last reel puts it over. Splendid business."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Wheel of the Law, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"A good picture but too heavy for Saturday night. Drew well for us in bad weather."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Winding Trail, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A new star for me but she went over fine. Story good."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Avenging Trail, with Harold Lockwood—(Metro)—"Nothing extra, just a consistent program release."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Red, White and Blue Blood, with Francis Bushman (Metro)—"Two rescues in every reel, but the author didn't show any new ways that the hero could save the girl. This kind doesn't please here."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Daybreak, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"Good picture to fair business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Under Suspicion, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"A good picture to good business. Bushman is coming back."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Eyes of Mystery, with Edith Story (Metro)—"Fair production to fair business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Legion of Death, with Edith Storey (Metro)—"A wonderful production, the best Metro ever made. Book it and double your dates. It's a winner. Capacity business."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

An American Widow, with Ethel Barrymore (Metro)—"A pleasing picture, better than usual. The best with this star since The White Raven."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

The Eternal Question, with Mme. Petrova (Metro)—"A fairly good picture but did not give the star a chance to show what she could do."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Mutual

The Mate of the Sally Ann, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"Picture very good. Star one of the best. Business capacity."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

A Daughter of Maryland, with Edna Goodrich (Mutual)—"Picture good, subject good, star good, business very good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Rink, with Charlie Chaplin (Mutual)—"This replaced a new Chaplin that was lost in transit. Brought good business."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Melissa of the Hills, with Mary Miles Minter (American-Mutual)—"A good story with a good star. Good crowd, although the star is not well known here. Film in good shape."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Paramount

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"A fair picture. Patrons like the star better in this than in western pictures."—S. L. Carter, Lyric Theatre, Gainsville, Fla.

The Bond Between, with George Beban (Paramount)—"A good picture to fair crowd. Beban's work is good but his Italian characterizations are far ahead of his other characters."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Butcher Boy, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"A fine comedy. Fatty fills the house for everyone knows a good laugh is in store."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Spirit of Romance, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"Just a fair picture. Poor photography. Star draws only fair. Film in fair condition."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Selfish Woman, with Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgely (Paramount)—"Just a fair picture which was helped by the stars."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

The Jaguar's Claws, with Sessue Hayakawa (Paramount)—"An extra good picture. Plenty of punch and will please almost any kind of audience."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Huck and Tom, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"The second Tom Sawyer picture and proving just as good as the first. Good comedy drama. Jack Pickford is a typical youth. Business good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Price Mark, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"This picture did not appeal to my patrons."—Louis J. Butts, Davison Theatre, Waupun, Wis.

The Clever Mrs. Carfax, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"Better than this star's first."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Land of Promise, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"A good picture that pleased but pulled the lightest of any Burke picture yet."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Land of Promise, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"A disappointment. Billie seems to be losing her popularity. Do not raise your admission prices."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Trouble Buster, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"Story too light, but it will please as it is staged well and the acting is good."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Molly Entangled, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"We ran this on St. Patrick's Day and it went over O. K. For another date it is rather weak."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Hostage, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A good star in a good story which went over big. Good business."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

His Mother's Boy, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Picture great entertainment. Star getting more popular daily. Good business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Keys of the Righteous, with Enid Bennett (Paramount)—"Good, but it did not draw a very big crowd. Miss Bennett is new yet."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Madame Jealousy, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"Drew well and pleased. This is the kind of picture that the people like the star in."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Seven Swans, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"A very cute picture to a large crowd."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Nan of Music Mountain, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Fair picture to fair business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Fair Barbarian, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"One of the sweetest pictures of the year. Paramount should keep this star dressed up and not always in a ragged role."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"Well produced. Good business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Tom Sawyer, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Good, wholesome story. Business great."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Jack and Jill, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Patrons like the star and his style."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Dane's Defense, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"A very good picture which satisfied a very good audience."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Spirit of '17, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A very good picture. Drew all the children in the neighborhood. Very good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Pathe

Pathe News (Pathe)—"Each of these now contains official war news that is very interesting. I play two each week and wish I could play more."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—"I was late in running this subject, thinking my patrons wouldn't care for war subjects. However, we turned them away at advanced prices. Picture pleased all."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Innocent, with Fannie Ward (Pathe)—"This star is not a favorite here. The picture is O. K. but marred by dark photography."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

The Other Woman, with Peggy Hyland (Pathe)—"A good program picture."—A. Robogliatti, Martin Theatre, Globe, Ariz.

Select

The Honeymoon, with Constance Talmadge (Select)—"My patrons all agreed that this was a good one. Constance Talmadge is a coming star."—Louis J. Butts, Davison Theatre, Waupun, Wis.

The Studio Girl, with Constance Talmadge (Select)—"A pleasing picture which satisfied very well and drew good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Triangle

The Maternal Spark, with Irene Hunt (Triangle)—"A more human vampire story which will please and not disgust with over-done acting."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Larnin' of Jim Benton, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"Fair picture. Story improbable and did not go well here."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Larnin' of Jim Benton, with Roy Stewart (Triangle)—"A good picture to good business. Triangle should be complimented on eliminating the dance hall scenes."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Because of a Woman, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"A fair picture to good business."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

Because of a Woman, with Belle Bennett (Triangle)—"Will please the majority as a good story is coupled with good acting, settings and lighting."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Until They Get Me, with Pauline Stark (Triangle)—"A good picture, well acted and handled. Canadian pictures take well here, as there is usually a human interest story and good outdoor scenes."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Until They Get Me, with Pauline Stark (Triangle)—"Good picture. A sweet star but not popular. Business fair."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

I Love You, with Alma Rubens (Triangle)—"A sweet picture and star. Business fair."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.

Seeking Happiness, with Enid Bennett (Triangle)—"A very sweet picture. Star well liked here. A more than pleasing picture."—Flossie A. Jones, Auditorium Theatre, Waukesha, Wis.

A Case at Law, with Dick Rosson (Triangle)—"Picture good, star good, subject good, business capacity. The only time you get a picture that is better than the average Triangle is when you get a special like this one."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Flame of the Yukon, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"Went over big for us and it is a good picture."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Primal Lure, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"The poorest Hart picture we have had. It lacked forceful direction and did not look like Ince's directing. Drew good business, however."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Clodhopper, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Great. The 'Clodhopper Glide' is a scream and everyone will surely like it."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Good Bad Man, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Good, though my people thought he did not show off enough."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Fighting Back, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"This did not please."—T. L. Little, Majestic Theatre, Camden, S. C.

Indiscreet Corinne, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"Olive Thomas always draws here. This picture was too long and should have been cut. The story is good but the Salome dance spoiled it somewhat."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Man Hater, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"A light comedy drama which entertained a good crowd. The two children pleased especially."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Back of the Man, with Dorothy Dalton and Charles Ray (Triangle)—"A good picture but a little slow during the first half."—Harold Daspit, Atherton, Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Wild Winship's Widow, with Dorothy Dalton (Triangle)—"A good average feature that will please a mixed audience."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

His Picture in the Papers, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"A repeat to poor business. Poor print."—E. R. Prigmore, Idle Hour Theatre, Charleston, Miss.

The Primal Lure, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Although Hart always fills the house, this drew better than the other re-issues. A fine picture with fine photography and action."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Up or Down, with George Hernandez (Triangle)—"Just an ordinary program picture. Drew a fair crowd. Owing to a storm I missed this picture but Triangle promptly rebooked it. I find Triangle service means real service."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Vitagraph

A Mother's Sin, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A very good picture, which pleased all. Star popular here."—S. L. Carter, Lyric Theatre, Gainsville, Fla.

A Mother's Sin, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A fine picture, well produced. Earle Williams has always been a favorite here and brings good business. He is good in this picture."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Thou Art the Man, with Virginia Pearson (Vitagraph)—"Beautiful photography but otherwise one of the poorest pictures I've run."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

The Message of the Mouse, with Anita Stewart (Vitagraph)—"A good picture although long, six reels. Show the possibility of the fight for the riches of the United States after the war. Film in good condition."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Menace, with Corinne Griffith (Vitagraph)—"A pretty good picture. Pleased everyone. Although the star is not well known, we had fairly good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.

World

The Divine Sacrifice, with Kitty Gordon (World)—"Star is not popular here; so business was poor."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

Gates of Gladness, with Madge Evans (World)—"All right for very small children. As a general attraction poor. Business small."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Deep Purple, with Clara Kimball Young (World)—"The poorest picture this star has acted in. She did the best she could, but the story and the rest of the cast were below standard."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

Serials and Series

The Fighting Trail, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"The best serial I have ever seen. Played to 100 per cent more business on the last chapter than the first. Book it if you need more business."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Chapter ten. Capacity business."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Price of Folly, with Ruth Roland (Pathe)—"This series is really worth while, wonderfully acted and directed."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

State Rights and Specials

The Submarine Eye (First National Exhibitors')—"A novel production but amateurish in directing and acting and leaves a bad taste. Drew good business."—Sid Guggenheimer, Fine Arts Theatre, New Orleans, La.—High class suburban patronage.

The Crisis (Selig-State Rights)—"A good picture which, if properly handled with good music, makes a program that will please."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Chain Gang and Acute Spring Fever—(Robert Bruce Scenics)—"Very good subjects."—R. J. Relf, Star Theatre, Decorah, Ia.

Alimony (First National Exhibitors' Circuit)—"Drew a packed house at advanced prices. One of the best pictures I ever ran."—Harold Daspit, Atherton Theatre, Kentwood, La.

The Melting Pot, with Walker Whiteside (State Rights)—"This old picture drew well for me. The film was in good shape."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Bargain, with W. S. Hart (Standard)—"One of Hart's best pictures. As 'The Two-Gun Man,' he has always proved best and drawn best."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Pictures Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of MOTOGRAPHY, is published:

A

According to the Code (Kleine)—March 16.
Adopted Son (Metro)—March 23.
Adventures of Carol (World)—March 9.
Alabaster Box (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—April 6.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—March 16.
Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—March 23.
Alice in Wonderland (State Rights)—March 9.
All for a Husband (Fox)—April 6.
All Man (World)—March 23.
Amarilly of Clothesline Alley (Artcraft)—April 6.
American Consul (Paramount)—March 16.
American, That's All (Triangle)—March 16.
American Widow (Metro)—March 9, March 16, April 6.
Americano (Triangle)—March 30.
Antics of Ann (Paramount)—March 9.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 11.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—March 16.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—March 11, March 23.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 9.
Auction Block (Goldwyn)—March 9.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—March 23, April 6.

B

Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—March 16.
Back of the Man (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Bad Boy (Triangle)—March 9.
Bargain (Standard)—April 6.
Barker (Kleine)—March 9.
Bathhouse Tangle (Fox)—March 30.
Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (World)—March 9.
Because of a Woman (Triangle)—April 6.
Bedroom Blunder (Paramount)—March 9.
Betsy Ross (World)—March 30.
Betty and the Buccaneers (Mutual)—March 16.
Betty to the Rescue (Paramount)—March 9.
Between Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Bit of Kindling (Mutual)—March 16.
Blind Adventure (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Blind Man's Holiday (General)—March 30.
Blue Blazes Rawden (Artcraft)—March 16, March 23, March 30.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 9, March 30.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Bond Between (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—March 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Branded Soul (Fox)—April 6.
Broadway, Arizona (Triangle)—March 16.
Broadway Bill (Metro)—April 6.

Broadway Love (Bluebird)—April 6.
Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 9, March 23.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—March 23.
Burglar (World)—March 16.
Butcher Boy (Paramount)—April 6.
By Right of Possession (Vitagraph)—March 23.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—March 9, March 30.
Call of the Cumberlands (Paramount)—March 23.
Camille (Fox)—March 9, April 6.
Case at Law (Triangle)—March 16, April 6.
Cassidy (Triangle)—March 9, March 23.
Chain Gang (Bruce Scenic)—April 6.
Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 16.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 16, March 23.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—April 6.
City of Purple Dreams (Selig)—March 30.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—March 16, April 6.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—March 11, March 16, April 6.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—March 11, April 6.
Come Through (Jewel)—March 11.
Common Law (Select)—March 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—March 30.
Conscience (Fox)—March 9.
Co-respondent (Jewel)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Country Hero (Paramount)—March 30.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 23.
Crisis (Selig)—April 6.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Cupid's Round-up (Fox)—March 30, April 6.
Cure (Mutual)—March 9.
Cy Whitaker's Ward (Kleine)—March 16.

D

Damaged—No Goods (Fox)—March 16.
Darling of Paris (Fox)—March 16
Daughter of Maryland (Mutual)—April 6.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 9, March 16.
Daughter of War (Mutual)—March 16.
David Garrick (Paramount)—March 30.
Daybreak (Metro)—March 30, April 6.
Dazzling Miss Davison (Mutual)—March 16.
Defeat of the City (General)—March 30.
Deemster (State Rights)—March 30.
Deep Purple (World)—April 6.
Deserter (Triangle)—March 16.
Desert Man (Triangle)—March 23.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 23.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Devil's Prize (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 9, March 23, April 6.
Dodging a Million (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 9, March 30.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 9, March 23.
Dream Doll (Kleine)—March 30.
Dummy (Paramount)—March 16.

E

Easy Money (World)—March 9.
End of the Tour (Metro)—April 6.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Eternal Question (Metro)—April 6.
Eve's Daughter (Paramount)—March 30.
Evidence (Triangle)—March 9.
Evil Eye (Paramount)—March 16.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—April 6.

F

Face Value (Bluebird)—March 23.
Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
Fanatics (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Fatal Ring (Pathe)—March 9.
Fatty Out West (Paramount)—March 9.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—March 9, March 30, April 6.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—March 9, April 6.
Fighting Grin (Bluebird)—March 9.
Fighting Odds (Goldwyn)—March 9.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Fires of Rebellion (Bluebird)—April 6.
Fires of Youth (Pathe)—March 9.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
Flames of Chance (Triangle)—March 9.
Flirting with Fate (Triangle)—March 30.
Floor Below (Goldwyn)—April 6.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
For the Freedom of the World (Goldwyn)—March 9.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Fox Comedies (Fox)—March 16.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 23.
From Two to Six (Triangle)—March 23.
Frozen Warning (Lynch)—March 16.
Fuel of Life (Triangle)—March 16.
Further Adventures of Stingaree (General)—March 16.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—March 16, March 23.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—March 16.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 23, April 6.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 30.
Gift of Gab (Kleine)—March 9.
Girl Angle (Mutual)—March 30.
Girl from Rector's (Mutual)—March 23.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—March 9, March 30.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
Golden Fetters (Paramount)—March 16.
Good Bad Man (Triangle)—April 6.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—March 23.

H

Hands Down (Universal)—March 16.
Hater of Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Haunted House (Triangle)—March 9.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Heart and Soul (Fox)—March 16.
Heart of Nora Flynn (Paramount)—March 23.
Hearts and Saddles (Fox)—March 16.
Heart's Revenge (Fox)—April 6.
Heiress for a Day (Triangle)—March 23.
Hell Morgan's Girl (Bluebird)—March 16.
Hell's Crater (Universal)—March 23.
Hell's Hinges (Triangle)—March 9.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 9, March 23.
Her Country's Call (Mutual)—March 9.
Her Excellency the Governor (Triangle)—March 23.
Her Hour (World)—March 30.
Her Maternal Right (World)—March 30.
Her Right to Live (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 16, March 30.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, March 30.
His Father's Son (Paramount)—March 30.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—March 9, April 6.
His Royal Highness (World)—March 23, March 30.
Home Run Ambrose (Universal)—March 16.
Honeymoon (Select)—April 6.
Honor System (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Hostage (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
House of Terrible Scandals (Fox)—March 30.
Hubby's Holiday (Selburn—State Rights)—March 23.
Huck and Tom (Paramount)—April 6.
Hungry Heart (Paramount)—March 9.
Husband and Wife (World)—March 23.

I

I Love You (Triangle)—April 6.
Immigrant (Mutual)—March 9, March 16.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—March 16.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—March 9, March 16, April 6.
Innocent (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
International Sneak (Paramount)—March 23.

J

Jack and Jill (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, April 6.
Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—March 16, April 6.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 23.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—April 6.
Jewel in Pawn (Bluebird)—April 6.
Joan the Woman (Artcraft)—April 6.
John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal)—March 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, March 30.
Jury of Fate (Metro)—March 16.

K

Keith of the Border (Triangle)—March 23.
Keys of the Righteous (Paramount)—March 23, April 6.
Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Kiss for Susie (Paramount)—March 9.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—March 16.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—April 6.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Last Man (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Legion of Death (Metro)—April 6.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23, April 6.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—March 16.
Little Patriot (Pathe)—March 9.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Little Red Decides (Triangle)—March 23.
Little Red Ridinghood (Wholesome)—March 23.
Little Shoes (Kleine)—April 6.
Little Volunteer (World)—March 9.
Lost Express (Mutual)—March 9, March 23.
Love Doctor (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Love Letters (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—March 16.
Luke the Mechanic (Pathe)—March 30.

M

Mad Lover (State Rights)—March 30.
Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—March 16.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
Madame Who (Paralta)—March 23.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 9, March 16.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Man Behind the Curtain (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Man from Montana (Butterfly)—March 9.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—March 16.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—March 16.
Man's Man (Paralta)—March 23.
Manx Man (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Marked Man (Butterfly)—March 23.

One of a number of strikingly beautiful battleship scenes in "Stolen Orders," William A. Brady's first picture since giving up the actual direction of World.

Marionettes (Select)—March 16, March 30.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—April 6.
Maternal Spark (Triangle)—April 6.
Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce—State Rights)—March 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Melissa of the Hills (Mutual)—April 6.
Melting Pot (State Rights)—April 6.
Men of the Desert (Kleine)—March 30.
Menace (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Men Who Made Love to Me (Kleine)—April 6.
Message of the Mouse (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Mice and Men (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss George Washington (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss Robinson Crusoe (Metro)—March 16.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—March 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—April 6.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother Instinct (Triangle)—March 23, March 30.
Mother o' Mine (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Motherhood (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—March 9, April 6.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—March 9, April 6.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—April 6.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—March 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—March 16.
North of 53 (Fox)—March 23.

O

Oh, Doctor (Paramount)—March 23.
On to Victory (Universal)—March 30.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—March 23.
One Touch of Nature (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 23.
Other Woman (Pathe)—April 6.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Outcast (Mutual)—March 30.
Over There (Select)—March 30.
Out West (Paramount)—March 30.

P

Painted Madonna (Fox)—March 30.
Pants (Kleine)—March 16.
Pathe News Weekly (Pathe)—April 6.
Paws of the Bear (Triangle)—March 9.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 9, March 23.
Pendleton Round-up (Pathe)—March 23.
Periwinkle (Mutual)—March 16.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—March 16.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 16.
Please Help Emily (Mutual)—March 23.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)March 30.
Polly Redhead (Bluebird)—April 6.
Price Mark (Paramount)—March 16, April 6.
Price of Folly (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Price of Silence (Bluebird)—March 23.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Primal Lure (Triangle)—March 23, April 6.
Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 16.
Pudd'nhead Wilson (Paramount)—March 23.
Public Defender (State Rights)—March 30.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—March 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 9, March 16.
Rasputin (World)—March 9, March 23.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 16, March 30, April 6.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—March 30.
Red Ace (Universal)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—March 16, April 6.
Redemption (State Rights)—March 30.
Regenerates (Triangle)—March 16.
Rich Man's Plaything (Fox)—March 9.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Rink (Mutual)—April 6.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—March 23.
Roping Her Romeo (Paramount)—March 16.
Rose of the South (Vitagraph)—March 16, April 6.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—March 9.
Rough House (Paramount)—March 16.
Round-up at Pendleton (Pathe)—March 23.
Ruggles of Red Gap (Kleine)—April 6.
Runaway (Mutual)—March 30.

S

Sadie Goes to Heaven (Kleine)—March 30.
Savage (Bluebird)—March 23, April 6.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Scandal (Select)—March 16.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 23.
Secret Game (Paramount)—March 9.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—April 6.
Selfish Woman (Paramount)—April 6.
Seven Keys to Baldpate (Artcraft)—March 30.
Seven Pearls (Pathe)—March 23.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Shackles of Truth (Mutual)—March 9.
Shadows of Her Pest (Fox)—March 30.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—March 30.
Southern Justice (Bluebird)—March 30.
Shanghaied Jonah (Keystone)—March 9.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Shorty Hamilton Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—April 6.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—March 23, April 6.
Slacker (Metro)—March 23, March 30.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—March 16.
Snow White (Paramount)—March 16.
Society's Driftwood (Butterfly)—March 9.
Somebody's Widow (Mutual)—March 16.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 16.
Song of Songs (Artcraft)—March 23.
Soul in Trust (Triangle)—March 23.
Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls Triumphant (Triangle)—March 23.
Southern Pride (Mutual)—March 9.
Spirit of Romance (Paramount)—April 6.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—April 6.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Spurs of Sybil (World)—March 23, March 30.
Spy (Fox)—March 23, April 6.
Square Deceiver (Metro)—March 16.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23.
Strand Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Strong Way (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Studio Girl (Select)—April 6.
Submarine Eye (First National Exhibitors)—April 6.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 9, March 23.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—March 16.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—March 23.

T

Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tell-Tale Step (Kleine)—March 23.
Ten of Diamonds (Triangle)—March 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 9, March 23.
Thais (Goldwyn)—March 9.
They're Off (Triangle)—March 9.
Thing We Love (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
This Is the Life (Fox)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
Thou Art the Man (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—March 23.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 9, March 30.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—March 9, April 6.
Transgression (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Treason (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Treasure Island (Fox)—March 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—April 6.
Twin Kiddies (Pathe)—March 23.
Twinkler (Mutual)—March 16.
Two Men and a Woman (State Rights)—March 9.

U

Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 23, April 6.
Universal Current Events—March 16.
Universal Screen Magazine (Universal)—March 9.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—April 6.
Up or Down (Triangle)—March 9, April 6.
Upper Crust (Mutual)—March 16.

V

Varmint (Paramount)—March 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
Victor Moore Comedies (Paramount)—March 9.
Vixen (Fox)—April 6.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—March 16.

W

War Pictures (Schneider)—March 30.
Watch Your Neighbor (Paramount)—March 16.
Wheel of the Law (Metro)—April 6.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 9, March 23, March 30, April 6.
When Men Are Tempted (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Whims of Society (World)—March 9, March 16, March 23.
Who Leads the National Army (National Training Camps)—March 16.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 9, March 16.
Wild and Woolly (Artcraft)—March 9.
Wild Strain (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Wild Winship's Widow (Triangle)—April 6.
Winding Trail (Metro)—March 16, April 6.
Winged Mystery (Bluebird)—March 23.
Wishing Ring (World)—March 23.
Without Honor (Triangle)—March 9.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23, April 6.
Wolf and His Mate (Universal)—March 23.
Woman and Wife (Select)—March 9, March 23.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—March 9, March 23, April 6.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 9, March 23.
World for Sale (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, March 30.

Z

Zeppelin's Last Raid (State Rights)—March 9.

Allan Dwan, directing Douglas Fairbanks in his newest Artcraft picture, "Mr. Fix It."

Detroit Manager Has Great Success

Packs House and Compels Attention of Entire City in Connection with Edison War Drama, "The Unbeliever"

DETROIT and Michigan exhibitors have been given an example of expert showmanship during the past week when "The Unbeliever" started off on a run at the Majestic theatre. The film is a seven reel feature made by the Edison studios and distributed by the Kleine organization with two popular stars, Raymond McKee and Marguerite Courtot.

It was the linking up of the Marine Corps with the picture that gave H. W. McGee, manager of the Majestic, his opportunity. Mr. McGee saw that the two would work together in fine shape and if the picture was advertised properly would bring great returns. He immediately got in touch with the local officers of the corps.

A public screening was arranged and at the Majestic a week or so later more than 200 people, representative of Detroit's leading elements in church, city, educational and business life, were on hand. The regular house orchestra provided an accompaniment and the picture was run off in bang-up fashion. Most of the guests were invited by officers of the corps, including the newspaper editors, while the theatre and the producers had friends in for the occasion. There also was a sprinkling of city and state exhibitors.

The screening created such comment that the newspapers gave it extended attention and a large number of those present gave written endorsements. Some criticized a few aspects and suggested minor changes and in most instances these changes, which had to do with the wording of the titles or the insertion of new titles, were made.

When the picture was in readiness a date was set, and then came the advertising campaign. It was decided to use large space in the newspapers, and to extend the usual billboard advertising. A special herald was issued and distributed in 50,000 homes. Billboards in adjoining towns were posted and there was a fine assortment of window cards while the street cars also were employed.

A preliminary opening was advertised for Sunday to the usual crowds, but the crowning stroke of the campaign came Monday night when most of the theatre was reserved in advance, only a few seats being left in the rear for the public. It was advertised as a military night, the guests including 350 members of the state troops, under command of their officers, who marched to the theatre; city and state officials, representatives of the Marine, navy and army members of the state and county war boards.

There was but one performance, and so delighted was everyone that the word of mouth advertising, together with the regular and preliminary advertising, kept the interest at white heat.

Manager McGee went a step further than has ever been done in Detroit before. Not even "The Birth of a Nation" was given such a send-off. And, in passing, it is noteworthy that the only picture which "The Unbeliever" is compared with is the same Griffith spectacle.

In staging the picture Mr. McGee decided it was the psychological effect which would be principally important in winning success. Hence he decided to "tune up" his audiences to the play. Marjorie Kay, a Detroit society girl, who saw hospital service in France, was engaged to sing together with Billy Priest. Songs were chosen to accord with the subject.

First there were the usual preliminary films, educational and news. Then came a comedy, short and to the point. The lights went up and an orchestra of 28 pieces was seen. Miss Kay and Mr. Priest sang a song and as they retired the orchestra struck up a military march. A curtain, meant to represent an awning arose and there was disclosed a military transport with a line of marching soldiers trudging across the stage.

Several hundred apparently appeared going aboard the ship. When the boat was loaded and the upper deck filled, Miss Kay sang "Throw Me a Kiss from Over the Sea." Mr. Priest, in uniform, responded from the upper deck and, just at the close, the ship started to move off, disclosing a view of the Statue of Liberty. Then the curtain dropped and a moment later was raised with the screen in position.

The crowds were so great during the first week the picture was held over for a second and third week and may be held even longer.

"Sprig Has Cub." Witness Roxana McGowan of the Mack Sennett Paramount comedies in her new 1918 bathing suit

Hart to Tour for Liberty Loan

A personal request from Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has been received by William S. Hart, Artcraft star, to aid the third Liberty Loan drive, which starts April 6. Mr. Hart has gladly promised to devote a portion of his time about April 15 to this patriotic duty.

By the middle of April the star will have completed the Artcraft film upon which he is now engaged and be able to devote probably two weeks to an intensive tour of western cities and in each deliver a brief but stirring talk.

He will first appear at Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, then Salt Lake and a number of other cities. At smaller towns where a protracted stop would be impossible, the train will be held up for twenty minutes or more while Hart speaks from the observation platform.

Won't Legalize Sunday Shows

By a vote of 36 to 56, the Kentucky house of representatives has killed a bill seeking to legalize Sunday shows.

It developed after the bill was defeated that fight really is one between Louisville theatre owners and labor organizations. A representative of the operators' union who attended the session declared that closing of all Louisville theatres might be expected "at any time, unless an agreement is reached."

The bill proposed amendment to Section 1371 of the Kentucky Statutes, an old blue law which, while ignored in Louisville and certain sections of the state, nevertheless would uphold officials who might seek to close the theatres.

Whaddye Make of This, Watson?

Whether or not it is due to a sense of the eternal fitness of things in the mind of Constance Talmadge one cannot say, but the cold fact is that having put on "A Pair of Silk Stockings," the Select star next proposes to put on "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots." In both of these pieces she will be presented by Lewis J. Selznick through Select Pictures.

Liberty Loan Plans Are Announced

SPECIAL FILM TO BE SENT TO EVERY HOUSE IN COUNTRY

ADOLPH ZUKOR, chairman of the committee appointed by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to co-operate with the treasury department, at his office in the Famous Players-Lasky headquarters last week, announced the details in connection with the third Liberty Loan drive.

"In the third Liberty Loan campaign," said Mr. Zukor, "the motion picture industry will play a more important part than it has evidenced in previous drives. Careful preparation of plans in collaboration with Secreary of the Treasury McAdoo has made this possible. Every theatre in the country regardless of size or locality is involved.

Many Trailers Ready

"Seventeen thousand five hundred trailers have been prepared. These films will be sent to every theatre throughout the land. The trailer runs fifty feet and opens with the new Liberty Loan flag followed by a view of Secretary McAdoo at his desk writing a message to the people. Next comes a close-up of the message followed by a close-up of the Liberty Loan button, which concludes the film. The message reads:

"'We must support our gallant sailors and soldiers. We must make them swift victors in their fight with the Kaiser. We can do it if we at home do our duty with the same quality of patriotism that animates our men in the trenches. The least duty we can perform—and we should be eager and happy to perform it—is to lend our money, every available dollar we have and can save, to our government in order that our gallant sons may be supplied with all they need to save America. No true patriot will fail to buy United States Liberty Bonds.

'Wm. G. McAdoo.'

Many Posters Ready, Too

"With this film there will be distributed 100,000 posters, five to each theatre and twenty to each exchange. These posters have been prepared under the supervision of our committee in collaboration with the government and present striking illustrations of great patriotic appeal. They are the creations of such artists as Howard Chandler Christy, Louis J. Dresser, Franklin Booth, H. H. Green and Harry S. Bressler.

"In making this announcement, I personally wish to urge exhibitors everywhere to put this material to the best possible use, running the film at every show, not merely as a trailer, but separate and apart from any other film, thus giving it added distinction. These films are presented to exhibitors gratis. They are not to be returned, but may be kept by those who receive them. Both film and paper will be mailed direct to the theatre by the government and it is urged should be used throughout the entire duration of the forthcoming campaign.

Power of Screen to Be Shown

"As a result of this concerted action on the part of exhibitors everywhere, the power of the screen will be evidenced in one gigantic thrust. 'The Big Push' on the other side is now under way and it is up to every person at home to put his shoulder to the 'Big Push' which starts here on April 6 and which will mean new muscle behind that wallop which must lay the Kaiser low.

"The industry is fortunate in having such a wide scope in which to help Uncle Sam and every person connected with it should realize the particular opportunity afforded us further to prove the importance of the screen in assisting the government in its great work."

The Star on the Cover

CONCEDED by many to be the most beautiful woman of the speaking stage, Elsie Ferguson is one of the last among the famous artists of the drama to become associated with the motion picture art. Miss Ferguson is truly representative of the high-class American drama and her popularity is entirely in keeping with her histrionic talent.

Her belief that in order to give her best efforts to the silent drama it would be best to wait until it had developed to a higher artistic plane resulted in her refusal of all film propositions until she was approached by Adolph Zukor with a suggestion that she appear in Artcraft pictures.

Her initial motion picture vehicle was "Barbary Sheep," followed by "The Rise of Jennie Cushing," "Rose of the World," and "The Song of Songs." "The Lie" is released in April, after which will follow "A Doll's House."

Miss Ferguson's career has demanded much of her in the way of hard work and persistent effort, but her great ambition to accomplish bigger things, no matter how successful the last one may have been, has resulted in her present enviable prestige.

Miss Ferguson's most recent triumphs on the speaking stage were "Shirley Kay," "Arizona," "Rosedale," "Primrose" and "The Outcast." Her initial appearance abroad was with Lawrence D'Orsay as Ella Seaford in "The Earl of Pawtucket" at the Playhouse, London.

Mitchel H. Mark Dies

Mitchel H. Mark, president of the Strand Theatre Corporation of New York, died in Buffalo the other day, after a brief illness.

Mr. Mark was one of the best known men in the business. He was a pioneer exhibitor, having given the first public motion picture presentation in the country in a little theatre which he opened in Ellicott Square, Buffalo. The theatre had less than one hundred seats in it. He was also the originator of penny arcades.

Mr. Mark was born in Greenville, S. C., in 1862. As a youth of 15 he came to New York and procured a position with Young Brothers, hatters, with which concern he stayed for some time. Later he opened a hat store of his own in Buffalo, and it was there that he became interested in the presentation of motion pictures.

He built numerous theatres in the United States and Canada, the Strand Theatre in New York being the largest. Shortly before his death, Mr. Mark had closed negotiations and made all arrangements for the new Strand Theatre, which is to be built in Brooklyn at the corner of Fulton street and Rockwell place.

Mr. Mark is survived by a widow, two daughters, Miss Winifred Mark and Mrs. Max Spiegel, a brother, Moe Mark, and a sister, Mrs. W. Rosenthal.

Lobby Display Crowds House

During a recent showing of "The Whip" at the Elite Theatre in Nashville, much interest was aroused through the lobby display. An automobile was placed in the lobby, with tires and other parts strewn about, spokes smashed, and a general wrecked appearance given the entire exhibit. It represented the automobile wreck scene in the play and drew a good share of the crowd inside.

United Picture Theatres Forges Ahead

First Five Hundred of Desired Two Thousand Days in Sight, with Three-Quarters of Country to Be Canvassed

THE visits of President Ochs and Vice-President Seelye to middle western cities have resulted in large accessions to the membership of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc. Branch Manager C. W. Bunn signed up more than fifty Chicago theatres in mid-March following the Ochs visit and the latter's addresses to the exhibitors of Chicago territory.

"The Chicago office," writes Mr. Ochs, "will have one hundred days inside of four weeks. Indeed, I should not be surprised if the Chicago territory gave our plan no less than two hundred days."

The announced plan of United Picture Theatres is to start wholesale cooperative buying of films for its members after two thousand booking days have been obtained. For Chicago alone to take from 5 to 10 per cent of this aggregate would indicate that the plan is in fair way of realization.

General interest in the plan is shown by the fact that applications for fifteen days had to be rejected because they happened to be opposition houses to those that had already signed. Each member is to be carefully protected in his drawing territory and there will be no cutting down of receipts by permitting two houses to appeal to the same neighborhood patrons with the same films.

From Chicago Mr. Ochs paid flying visits to Cincinnati and St. Louis and then visited the Southwest with stops at Memphis, Little Rock, Dallas and New Orleans. C. R. Seelye is organizing branch offices in these same cities, putting men in charge who are thoroughly acquainted with the needs of Southwestern exhibitors.

The keynotes of the organization are economy and efficiency. The proper handling of distribution is being carefully studied with the view of cutting out unnecessary expense, assuring rapid shipments and doing away with "positive waste," i. e., the idle days resulting from the ordering of superfluous prints.

In New York the efforts of Arthur S. Abeles, eastern representative, and Aaron Corn, city sales manager, are lining up additional metropolitan houses every day. The home offices of United Theatres at 1600 Broadway have become the rallying point of eastern exhibitors. There are always a dozen to twenty managers visiting headquarters to discuss the new plans and figure out the particular requirements of their houses.

Another live Eastern center is Boston with Stanley Hand in active charge. N. I. Filkins in Buffalo, Joseph Schwartzbine in Minneapolis, C. S. Edwards in Kansas City and Gilbert Heyfron in Montana likewise report great activity, the general friendliness of exhibitors and the actual lining up of new members daily.

Conservatively it may be stated that the first five hundred of the desired two thousand booking days are in sight, though as yet only seven branch offices have been started and three-quarters of the country remains to be covered.

Beautiful cover of a program now being used by the Strand theatre, Milwaukee.

Film Ranks Split in Censor War

The fight of Winnipeg exchange managers against the Manitoba Board of Censors, which started on March 4 with the promise that no more comedies would be brought to Winnipeg on account of the censors' strictness, is apparently not working very well.

The manager of the Dominion Theatre has just announced that the comedy lid is off so far as his theatre is concerned and simultaneously the Dominion started the presentation of the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, "It Pays to Exercise."

Star's Disguise Fools All

Francis X. Bushman, who with Beverly Bayne, is starred in the forthcoming Metro production, "With Neatness and Dispatch," a story which was written by Kenneth L. Roberts and published in the Saturday Evening Post, has a bizarre tramp make-up to wear in some of the scenes. So realistically does he dress the part that on several occasions employes of the studio have mistaken him for an intruder.

New York Campaign Gathers Strength

LEGISLATURE EXPECTED TO APPROVE SUNDAY SHOWS

WITH their extensive machine well organized, motion picture interests in the State of New York have forged ahead in their fight for Sunday shows until it begins to appear as if victory would be theirs before many more weeks.

The bill has been introduced in the Senate by Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara, and in the Assembly by Assemblyman Clarence F. Welsh of Albany and will have a hearing before the joint codes committee of the Senate and Assembly April 3.

The measure, as it now stands, has been approved by the State Council of Mayors, the New York State Federation of Labor, the People's Institute and the Association of Civic Organizations in Brooklyn.

Confer in Albany

Following the introduction of the bill, the leaders in the fight assembled at the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany for a conference with the exhibitor-captains appointed at the previous Albany session.

There is an exhibtor captain in each of the 51 senatorial districts. Each exhibitor captain has three aids.

These exhibitor-captains were appointed to sound out the sentiment of their districts, get in touch with the big men of their communities, see and talk with their legislators; in fact, to do everything in their power to organize public opinion behind the bill.

Lillian Walker, who recently formed her own company and has just joined the Producers and Exhibitors' Affiliated, to release through that organization.

This, in reality, was going to the bottom of the ladder and starting the real fight there. Thus the campaign was organized in exactly the way the state and national political parties conduct their work.

Report on Various Districts

The exhibitor-captains presented detailed reports of the work accomplished. The reports indicate a general change in the sentiment on Sunday shows since the subject was agitated at the legislative session a year ago.

Exhibitor-captains who failed to respond were immediately succeeded by live wires, so that at the present moment the motion picture people have an active and aggressive fighter for their interests in every state district.

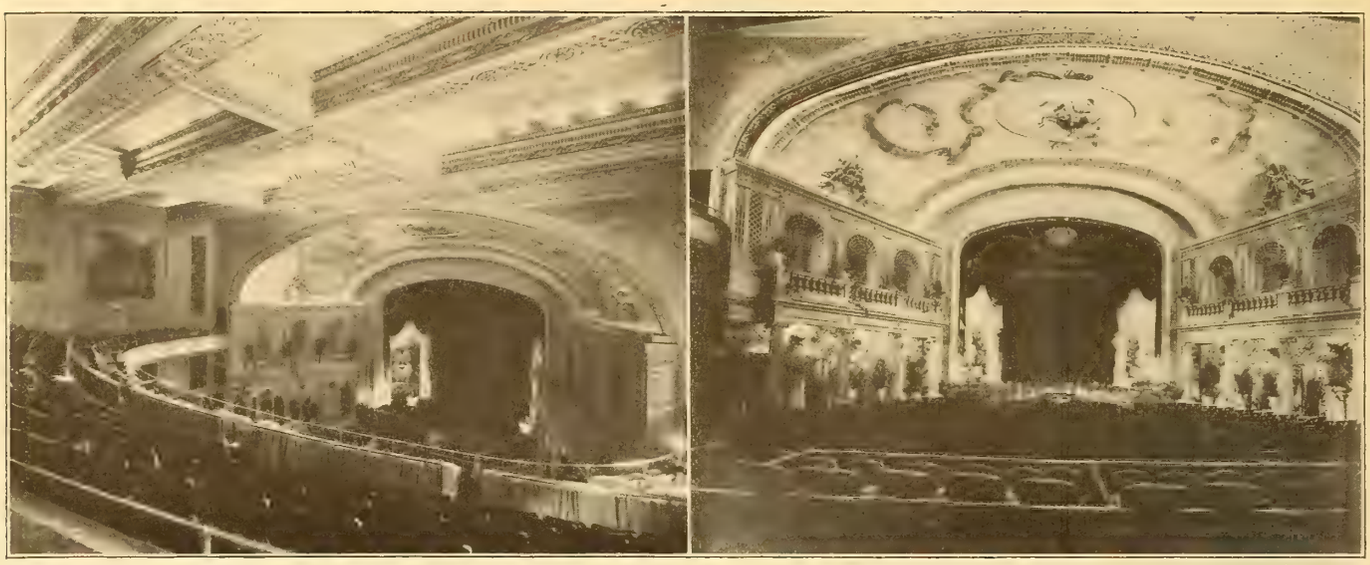
The fruits of the campaign are already manifesting themselves. In Buffalo, for instance, an exhibitors' committee for Sunday opening is conducting a strenuous campaign. In the past week this organization has obtained the unanimous support of all Buffalo daily and Sunday newspapers. These publications are running big news articles and half-column editorials backing the campaign.

Exhibitors Pool Advertising

In Schenectady the exhibitors have organized and are pooling their advertising, buying half pages to tell the public their reasons for wanting Sunday pictures. Exhibitors in other cities are doing this also, following out a campaign carefully mapped out at the Albany meetings.

Meetings are being held in various cities and towns, at which exhibitors are organized for their individual district campiagns.

List of Exhibitor Captains



The revised list of exhibitor-captains follows: 1, Mrs. Jennie Reitmeyer, Freeport, L. I.; 2, William Bigall, Brooklyn; 3, Rudolph Sanders, Brooklyn; 4, William Brandt, Brooklyn; 6, William Hilkemeyer, Brooklyn; 7, Morris Goodman, Brooklyn; 8, Charles Granides, Brooklyn; 9, Louis L. Levine, Brooklyn; 10, H. Rachmil, Brooklyn; 11, David Weinstock, Manhattan; 12, Charles Steiner, Manhattan; 13, A. Fanchi, Manhattan; 14, John Manheimer, Manhattan; 15, Max Spiegel, Manhattan; 16, Charles L. O'Reilly, Manhattan; 17, Charles L. O'Reilly, Manhattan; 18, A. J. Wolf, Manhattan; 19, Sydney S. Cohen, Manhattan; 20, Sidney Ascher, Manhattan; 21, John Wittman, Bronx; 22, Henry Cole, Bronx; 23, Charles Moses, Stapleton, S. I.; 24, B. L. Feinblatt, Port Chester; 25, George Cohen, Newburgh; 26, Robert A. Jennings, Jurdy's; 27, Sidney A. Huffman, Saugerties; 28, Samuel Suckno, Albany; 29, Frank Barhudt, Troy; 30, Allan Beckett, Saratoga Springs; 31, W. A. Zeiser and Charles G. McDonald, Schenectady; 32, W. H. Linton, Little Falls; 33, L. A. Buettner, Cohoes; 34, A. S. Hardy, Malone; 35, Fred Gilroy, Ogdensburg; 36, Charles Fait, Jr., Utica; 38, Emmett Cornell, Syracuse; 39, David Cohen, Binghampton; 40, J. Schwartzwaleer, Auburn; 41, William Dillon, Ithaca; 42, Julius Greenstone, Rochester; 43, Julius Greenstone, Rochester; 44 Arthur Smith, Hornell; 45, W. C. Hubbard, Rochester; 46, W. C. Hubbard, Rochester; 47, Charles Hayman, Niagara Falls; 48, H. B. Franklin, Buffalo; 49, H. B. Franklin, Buffalo; 50, H. B. Franklin, Buffalo; 51, Woods & Peterson, Jamestown.

Theatre Draws on Another Town

The Beaver theatre, Toronto, Canada, has been conducting an interesting advertising campaign in The Guide and Enterprise, the newspaper of Weston, Canada, a town a few miles from Toronto. By this means, the theatre has attracted many new patrons. In addition the newspaper, with the co-operation of the theatre, offered a limited double pass to the house for every five new subscriptions.

Dustin Farnum, soon to star in pictures for Sherman Productions, Inc.

Two interior views of the beautiful Liberty theatre at Portland, Ore., of which E. J. Myrick is the managing director. The first picture shows the lighting and seating arrangement. Five different circuits of lighting are used—green, red, violet, blue and amber. The second picture shows the seating arrangement on the main floor, the boxes, the proscenium arch and the stage. More pictures of this handsome house will appear in subsequent issues.

Writes of Beautiful Western House

E. J. Myrick, Managing Director of The Liberty at Portland, Ore., Describes Theatre for Motography in Detail

ONE of the most beautiful theatres in the country is the Liberty of Portland, Ore., owned by Jensen and von Herberg, of which E. J. Myrick is the managing director.

Motography has obtained from Mr. Myrick several interior and exterior views of the Liberty and all will be reproduced soon. Two pictures of the interior are presented in this issue.

From the entrance to the rear door the Liberty is representative of the best ideals of theatre construction. It is rich and restful, a combination often desired, but seldom attained. Mr. Myrick writes a description of the theatre as follows:

"As we enter the theatre, we see a fine reproduction of a celebrated bit of sculpture—a fountain, representing the Boy and the Goose, by the artist Verraccio. From here we proceed up the ramp, a comfortable incline to the mezzanine floor, where we enter the main reception room, furnished in the Adam's style of architecture of the Georgian period.

"The color effect is warm grey walls, reflecting the warmth of a rose carpet and the curtains a beautiful printed linen on a background on which is printed charming baskets of flowers in colors to harmonize with the general coloring of the carpet and furnishings.

"From this room we see the trellised balconies with beautiful flower boxes and hanging baskets with large mirrors reflecting an arbor and producing a vista effect displaying the rich coloring of the furniture, including writing desks, comfortable chairs and lamps, giving a soft, radiant glow of color throughout the room.

"From the reception room we enter the ladies' retiring room where every comfort for the guests can be found from reclining couches to dressing tables with all accessories. The curtains are of Adam's designed chintz. The men's smoking room is practical and comfortable, the color effect being deep old gold, with smoker stands and easy, comfortable chairs.

"The auditorium and stage are marvels of beauty. As your eyes rest naturally and easily on the stage, you are sure to feel that whatever program is rendered here is bound to be produced under an environment that will bring out the best there is in it.

"On either side of the screen and an integral part of it are miniature waterfalls—replicas of the famed Multnomah and Bridal Veil cascading in a brilliance of color from 'back stage' through settings absolutely true to nature; all this blending gradually and naturally with the Italian pergolas and garden scheme which serve as a most graceful foreground for a giant Wurlitzer Hope-Jones Unit Orchestra.

"The effect—charming, subtle—brings the audience intimately in touch with the performance—makes one feel that personal enjoyment that comes from a sense of participation.

"Above the stage is a valance decorated with lotus flowers, crowned with a huge cornice in which is represented the emblem of Life, being thoroughly Egyptian in feeling. Underneath this massive valance hangs the large stage curtains, in which over two hundred yards of specially made velvet were used. The color is burnt orange, relieved with specially woven braids and deep fringes of burnt orange and black. As the center curtain falls, the two side curtains rise. The curtains are controlled by a special motor.

"The walls on either side of the arch are decorated with two magnificent canvas reproductions of the famous paintings by the noted artist Fraganard, the original paintings of which were presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art by the late J. Pierpont Morgan. One represents Recollections, the other the Crowning of Love.

"The lighting features of the theatre are wonderful and have been given special attention in producing a soft, harmonious effect on all colorings used. There is no glare or disturbing features. The light produces a pleasing, restful effect, enhancing the richness of colors used in the paintings and furnishings.

"The idea of the entire decorating and furnishing of the Liberty was to avoid any theatrical effect and to produce an atmosphere of art associated with a feeling of refinement and culture."

Real Negro Comedy Launched

Starting April 2, General Film Company begins the distribution of a series of one-reel comedies produced by the Ebony Film Corporation of Chicago, to be known as Ebony Comedies. These subjects, which feature a company of negro players, will be issued weekly for an indefinite period, the first half dozen negatives being already finished.

Urges United Drive on Censorship

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN ISSUES HOT STATEMENT

CENSORSHIP is scathingly attacked in a statement just issued by Monte Katterjohn, author of "Within the Cup," "Carmen of the Klondike," "An Alien Enemy," and many other successes.

Stirred to action by the unwelcome attention which has been paid to his latest Paralta production, "Within the Cup," by censorship boards in various parts of the country, Mr. Katterjohn calls upon all branches of the industry to present a united front against this constant menace and points out the danger of temporizing with the enemies of the motion picture.

Calls Arbitration a Fallacy

"Recent events within the industry," says Mr. Katterjohn, "have served to illustrate the fallacy of attempting to arbitrate the question of censorship on any basis whatever, or of deviating in the slightest degree from an uncompromising stand against any form or prejudgment.

"The slightest indication of concurrence with the views of those who advocate censorship is immediately seized upon as a sign of weakness, and a practical admission that the industry should be placed at the mercy of a band of meddlesome reformers who insist on regulating by purely theological standards one of the greatest industries and one of the greatest arts in existence.

"In the first place, a person who seriously looks upon himself as capable of deciding what his fellow citizens shall be allowed to see is possessed of a peculiar quality of mind which promises little from the standpoint of cold common sense.

Wrong Persons To Rule

"To give to individuals of this calibre the power to control absolutely the output of film—to determine whether a given production shall return a profit or shall prove a total loss to the manufacturer—is to court destruction.

"There are laws prohibiting the showing of immoral pictures. With a rigid enforcement of the statutes already in existence any exhibitor who violates them can be dealt with in a manner befitting his transgression, but the industry must come to a realization of the fact that the whole system of previous restraint must be done away with.

"There is absolutely no limit to the ridiculous decisions made by these censorship boards. Thus we have one board putting forth the remarkable ruling that all comedies must be animated by a serious purpose; another rejects a harmless screen fable because it 'ridicules the temperance movement'; while another condemns a dramatic production because it 'might prove offensive to organized labor.'

"In one of my own stories a perverted character was killed by a stroke of lightning and the scene depicting his destruction was preceded by a subtitle which indicated that he was struck down by the hand of God. The censors demanded that this subtitle be eliminated, contending that such vengeance was never visited upon mortals—numerous passages in the Bible to the contrary notwithstanding.

Only Industry Facing Problem

"We are working under conditions which no other art or industry is even expected to endure. Our fame and fortune are absolutely in the control of those who have no interest in the business. We are confronted with the spectacle of the best thought, of the master mind of literature and drama being revamped to suit the narrow views of a handful of people who at best are of no more than ordinary intelligence.

"We are delivered into the hands of a band of professional reformers and political job-holders who would rather be safe than sane, and who will inevitably throttle the motion picture industry into a state of innocuous stupidity if their activities are permitted to spread.

Urges Renewed Opposition

"And how are we to overcome this menace?" continues Mr. Katterjohn, and answers:

"There is no course but to fight the evil of censorship to the last ditch. D. W. Griffith has furnished a shining example of the only method which can be pursued with any benefit to the industry. He has consistently waged war on censorship as an institution and on those who administer it, with the result that he has won the right to show his productions in every state in the Union.

"And any person within the industry who kneels abjectly before a board of censors in an attempt to curry favor is contributing to the undermining of the very foundation on which the motion picture stands."

A beautiful bit of fantasy in "Queen of the Sea," the new Annette Kellerman picture soon to be released by William Fox. Beth Ivins appears here in the part of "Ariella, the Fairy Princess."

Scenes from the new Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, "Little Miss No Account," starring Gladys Leslie. This picture was released April 1.

"Little, Miss No-Account" a Charming Tale

Gladys Leslie Takes Part of Ragged Heiress, Who Through Friends, Gains Property in Spite of Scheming Relatives

"LITTLE MISS NO-ACCOUNT," with Gladys Leslie as the star, is the Blue Ribbon feature release for the week of April 1. It marks the third appearance of Miss Leslie on the Vitagraph program and will prove her best vehicle to date, according to a Vitagraph announcement.

The play is from "The Reflection of Scarlet," a story by Edward P. Smaney, and was produced under the direction of William P. S. Earle. As in the other productions featuring Miss Leslie, the little star has the role of a young girl, this time a ragged heiress whose fortune is sought by scheming relatives.

Since Miss Leslie joined the Vitagraph company a few months ago she has added to her already extensive popularity, this being due in some measure to the fact that President Albert E. Smith has selected stories well adapted to the star.

In her first release, "His Own People," in which she appeared opposite Harry Morey, she had the role of an Irish lass, and in her next subject, "The Wooing of Princess Pat," in which J. Frank Glendon appeared with her, she portrayed a witching little princess.

In both of these there was a mixture of comedy and strong drama and Miss Leslie, by her work in the lighter moments of the plays, demonstrated that she is one of the most ingratiating delineators of juvenile roles on the screen.

Miss Leslie is now at work on "Ann Acushla," in which Edward Earle will be co-starred with her, while other plays in prospect for her are "The Jam Girl," by Frances Sterrett, "The Rebel," by Douglas Bronston, and "The Soap Girl," by Lewis Allen Browne, author of "Little Miss George Washington" and other successes.

"Little Miss No-Account" is described as the story of Patty Baring, heiress to a fortune, whose foster parents seek to rob her of her property. Patty is virtually a prisoner in her own home, held by her foster father, who plans with his sister to force the girl on her eighteenth birthday to sign certain papers conveying to them her large estate. She has only one friend, a negro servant of her own father, who does his best to help her and gives her an inkling of the fortune which is hers.

Rebelling at last against the oppression of her guardians, Patty runs away on her birthday and a ragged newsboy whom she had befriended takes her to his uncle, who runs a little store, and who adopts her for the time being. Here she meets two men, a young gambler and an assistant district attorney, both of whom are impressed by her beauty and interested in the mystery of her past. Both pay her attentions and the young prosecutor falls in love with her.

There is a gambling house near where she is staying and to this place she is lured by the gambler at the instance of her step-father when he learns of her whereabouts and who still hopes to get her property. The house is raided and she is locked up along with other habitues. The young gambler, hoping to discredit her with the prosecutor, tells him of her arrest and also that she owns the property occupied by the gamblers. His charges only act as a boomerang. The gambler and the girl's plotting relatives are all rounded up, Patty is taken under the wing of the prosecutor's mother, and her property all restored to her.

Theatres in Bitter Fight

Theatres in Montreal are competing so keenly that several have begun offering double bills. The theatres concerned include the St. Denis, Regent, Moulin Rouge and Tivoli.

One week the St. Denis offered Mabel Normand in "The Floor Below," Douglas Fairbanks in "Double Trouble," a two-reel picture of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle and a one-reel war picture. The Regent offered Jane and Katherine Lee in "Troublemakers" and Jack Pickford in "The Spirit of '17." The Moulin Rouge offered "The Beloved Traitor" and "Loaded Dice." The Tivoli offered "The Awakening," "Story of the Willow Plate," "Builders of Castles," "The Golden Idiot" and "Troublemakers." On Wednesday night an extra comedy program was presented when the show was increased by the addition of six reels of comedies.

Film Serial in Islands

Under the direction of Paul Hurst and David Smith, the complete cast for "The Woman in the Web," the Vitagraph serial featuring Hedda Nova, will leave soon for the Santa Cruz islands, where exterior settings will be filmed. Forty persons will be taken, as well as many horses and several automobiles. The company will live in tents as the islands have no hotel accommodations, and provisions will be brought from Santa Barbara. The company will be gone ten days.

Film World Hails Chicago Decision

Ruling Which Permits Unrestricted Showing of "Within the Law" Believed to Set Precedent Regarding Censorship

FILM CIRCLES generally and the Vitagraph Company particularly are elated over the Chicago decision which permits the unrestricted showing of Vitagraph's big drama, "Within the Law."

The decision, handed down by the Appellate court, is one of the most important ever given and may stand permanently as a precedent.

The victory comes at the end of a contest which has lasted almost a year, the controversy having started when the company was refused a permit to exhibit the picture last May. The Chicago censor board had insisted upon certain cuts but these in the judgment of Walter W. Irwin, general manager of the Vitagraph distributing organization, were so radical that the production would have been weakened almost to the point of worthlessness.

Mr. Irwin personally took charge of the situation and made several trips to Chicago in an effort to show the police authorities that in attempting to eliminate several of the most important features they were not only spoiling the picture as an entertainment, but also were denying the public the right to see the play as produced on the stage.

Failing to make the authorities see the logic of his contentions, Mr. Irwin then agreed to let the leading citizens of Chicago sit as a jury on the picture, and a special showing was held in the Studebaker theatre.

The audience, which numbered more than 1,000 persons, included judges of the state and federal courts, officials of the police department, various other city officials, members of the Women's City Club and Women's Trade Union League, the faculty of the University of Chicago and Northwestern University, social workers, church functionaries, members of the Salvation Army and Volunteers of America, settlement workers, parole law advocates, editors and others. To all of these were put the following questions:

"Is this picture in your opinion immoral, obscene, or does it portray any riotous, disorderly, or any other unlawful scene, or has it a tendency to disturb the public peace, or anything which would create contempt or hatred for any class of law-abiding citizens?"

"Does the picture tend toward creating a harmful impression on the minds of children?"

The verdict, expressed in writing, was unanimously in favor of the picture.

Following this public indorsement, Mr. Irwin caused another formal application for a permit to be made, but the police authorities still insisted on fifteen eliminations, which Mr. Irwin refused to accede to. The permit was again refused and Mr. Irwin then decided to seek redress in the courts. He took personal charge of the legal contest, which was conducted before the courts by Lewis F. Jacobson.

Just as soon as Vitagraph was upheld, there was a stampede of exhibitors to show the picture. Ascher Brothers, Jones, Linick & Schaefer and other leading exhibitors booked it solid in their chains of theatres and the demand generally was so great that numerous extra prints had to be rushed to the Chicago office.

Mr. Irwin, discussing the decision, said:

"Vitagraph never knowingly has released a picture to which objection could be raised on the ground of immorality or crime-suggestion. 'Within the Law,' as produced by this company, is a faithful reproduction of the stage play, which proved by its popularity that it was the greatest modern melodrama the stage has ever seen.

"The play took in approximately $3,000,000 on the stage and was shown in practically every city of importance in the civilized world. It has been endorsed by the leading thinkers of this country, including President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and others.

"The decision naturally is very gratifying to us, but we are further pleased by the knowledge that we have caused to be set a precedent which will benefit the whole industry."

Parrot Has Role in Comedy

Following the vogue for Western pictures, Montgomery and Rock are producing under the direction of J. A. Howe, a Big V comedy for Vitagraph with all the stunts of the West incorporated. The bucking broncho brought up to date is furnished by a motorcycle on which the two comedians with a tent camouflage tour the West where they have recently arrived from the East. A parrot, a wallet of money and a stage hold-up get them into laughable difficulties, which are brought to a merry finish by the same bird.

Many Broncho Billies Booked

The Broncho Billy dramas, which the Essanay company placed on the market through the George Kleine exchanges March 1, are reported to be doing a big business. Already there has been a call for more prints.

Essanay is releasing these one-reel subjects in blocks of ten and several hundred exhibitors have arranged to take the entire number, running one each week as they are released.

Tom Terriss directing Alice Joyce in her now Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, "The Business of Life," which is taken from a novel by the well-known author, Robert W. Chambers.

Empey Explains Tangle Over Lectures

Will Return to Platform if Profits Go to War Charities—"Over There" for Service Under U. S. Flag Then

THE admirable stand which Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey has taken on the side of Americanism should redound to the benefit of every exhibitor in the United States and Canada who books "Over the Top," the big Vitagraph special in which Empey himself will appear as the hero.

Not long ago it became known that Empey had been the object of German threats and efforts at bribery because of his vigorous work on the lecture platform, and recently from various sections of the country there have come, supposedly from pro-German sources, highly colored attacks on the little American who faced Hun guns for eighteen months on the battle line in France and who, for a year, has been devoting himself to patriotic work on this side of the Atlantic.

The attacks on Empey have led to a severance of relations between him and his lecture manager, because Empey wished to prove a total absence of mercenary motive on his part and he has now come forth with a statement in which he offers to fill all lecture engagements for which he was booked, provided the net proceeds are turned over to the Red Cross, the Liberty Loan drive, the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus War Fund, Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund or any other war charity.

Empey's statement reveals that even while the attacks were being directed against him an offer of special service had been accepted by the War Department and he expected to go across and again take his chances against the Hun.

"I have not quit the lecture platform and do not intend to do so," the statement says. "My reason for canceling present lecture dates is because I have insisted that the entire proceeds go to one of the following: The third Liberty Loan drive, the American Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund, the New York Sun Tobacco Fund or any other war charity.

"My lecture manager has refused to comply with this demand as far as donating his share is concerned. That is his business. I have refused to fulfill further dates under him. That is my business. He is suing me in the courts for breach of contract.

"I wish to announce that I am willing to donate my services, even defraying my traveling expenses, to any one of the above mentioned worthy causes under the following conditions:

"The hall or theatre where I speak must be donated and there must be no overhead expenses attached to my lectures, excepting what are absolutely necessary, such as printing, pay of ushers and advertising. In this way, the entire proceeds will go to war charity. I can be reached at 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, N. J.

"I have constantly been threatened by pro-Germans and anti-English that if I did not cease my attacks against them they would 'get me.' Well, here I am. Let them 'get me' if they can, but I will 'get' a few of them first.

"From now on it is my intention to take the platform solely against the pro-Germans and anti-English, our most dangerous enemies because they work in the dark and under the guise of friendship stab our country and allies in the back.

"In no way am I connected with the British government. Everything I say for England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and Canada comes from me alone. I am an American and as an American I wish to state that England is our blood relation and ally; one to be proud of and a mighty fighter. Anyone who is anti-English in this crisis is a pro-German in disguise. A word or act against England, our ally, is a word or act directed against Uncle Sam. England, God bless you for your noble work in this war!

"As for Canada, she is our first cousin and has made a record in this war which can never be surpassed by any nation in any war to come. Our American boys will equal this record, but even they cannot surpass it. Canada, God bless you. You are an ally to be proud of!

"Americans, watch for the pro-German propaganda against Japan. It is due to appear. If Americans would only realize that we are at war with Germany, the German people and everything connected with Germany the war would soon be over, thousands of lives, millions of dollars and years of suffering would be saved.

"In a very few months many of our boys, your father, your son, your brother, your husband, your sweetheart, your friend, will be coming back disabled for life, arms gone, legs gone or blinded. Remember Germany did this. Remember they went 'over there' to fight for their country, their flag, their homes, and to fight for you. When they return, think of the gloating of the pro-Germans here in the United States.

"Are these boys going to be insulted by hearing the German language spoken in the country they fought for? Are they going to see German language newspapers all about them? Are you going to allow these things? Now, think of the thousands who never will return, the thousands resting under little wooden crosses somewhere in France. They are never coming home to this God's country of ours and theirs, and they are calling across thousands of miles of water for you to support the boys who are still fighting. Will you support them? You are an American—that means 'yes.' If you cannot fight for Uncle Sam 'over there,' fight for him 'over here.'

"God bless America. God bless England. God bless France. If that com-

Alfred Whitman, formerly known as Alfred Vosburgh, who is being featured in Vitagraph productions.

Corinne Griffith, Vitagraph star, who has just renewed her contract.

Scenes from Taylor Holmes Essanay successes, "A Pair of Sixes," and "Ruggles of Red Gap."

bination can't lick the Germans, then nothing can.

"I have just received a letter from the acting secretary of war accepting my services for the United States government. After I have told the pro-Germans and the anti-English in the United States what I think of them from the lecture platform and that will not take long, then, God permitting, I am going 'over there' with our boys, as I have already passed the army physical examination at Camp Wheeler, Ga. If I 'click it' and go 'west,' well—the best o' luck to me. You only have to die once.

"Now, watch all the pro-Germans and anti-English start hammering me. Make a list of the papers doing this, save it, and I prophesy that before this war is over, ninety per cent of them will be either suppressed or their editors put where they belong—in an internment camp—or lined up against a brick wall and shot."

Metro Star Working Hard

Production of "The Night Riders," Viola Dana's newest vehicle, is well along at the Metro west coast studios. The tiny star of "Blue Jeans," "The Winding Trail," "Weaver of Dreams" and other successes is so delighted with the stellar role of Sally Castleton, a daughter of the old South, that she fairly revels in the hard work that it entails.

"The Night Riders" is a simple but deeply moving story of Kentucky, with its quaint folk and their primitive loves and hates. It possesses the novelty, however, of being a tale of the blue grass without the semblance of a feud basis. The theme, instead, is the struggle of the rude mountaineers to overthrow the tollgates and win free roads from the unscrupulous and avaricious owner of the monopoly.

Brunet Tells What He Will Do for Pathe

Four Serials in Addition to "The House of Hate" Will Be Released in 1918—Quality to Be Watchword

PATHE policies under the administration of Paul Brunet, vice president and general manager, include comprehensive plans for the world wide distribution of quality productions through the international organization of Pathe Freres.

The outstanding feature is the announcement that four serials in addition to "The House of Hate," the current serial release, will be issued in 1918. Under the direction of Charles Pathe, a new standard has been set for serial productions and Pathe's photoplays of the future will be of a quality never before attempted by this organization.

Pathe production is under the control of F. Zecca, director general of productions, under the new administration.

"The policies of Pathe in America," said Mr. Brunet, "are based upon the fact that we are part of the general Pathe organization that has thrown open the markets of the civilized world. This fact gives us important fundamental advantages, the greatest of which is that from the complete control of our output in all of the markets of the world we are able to realize greater returns on each picture. There is a corresponding increase in the returns to the producer, encouraging him to better the quality of his pictures.

"It is our idea to have the name of Pathe associated with quality productions only. In other words, when a picture is released under the trademark of Pathe, we want the exhibitor to know it is a good picture.

"Pathe is primarily a distributing organization with a world wide system of exchanges that keeps us in constant touch with theatres of every civilized country. We are in many ways like a book publisher who handles the work of the greatest authors, finding the greatest market for their output and realizing for them the greatest returns. Instead of books, we publish films. These films, like books, are translated into all languages.

"Charles Pathe was the first to realize the opportunities of world wide distribution. Under his policy, the cost of the negative is divided among the exhibitors of all countries instead of being charged, through high rentals, against a proportionately few of those who show the picture. Wherever there is a motion picture theatre, a Pathe representative can be found.

"Production is actively under way on a new serial to follow 'The House of Hate.' It is understood this is a new type of western story, written by Gilson Willets, author of 'The Double Cross,' produced under the supervision of the Astra Film Corporation, which produced 'The Iron Claw' and 'The Fatal Ring' as well as 'The House of Hate.' A cast of unusual strength has been engaged for the new production."

Urges Municipal Theatres

During an address before the Men's Own Brotherhood of Earlscourt Methodist Church, Toronto, Canada, J. J. Kelso, provincial secretary of the Children's Aid Society, advocated that the city take over places of amusement such as moving picture theatres and operate them under municipal censorship. He thought that shows would then be of a high standard and of an educational value.

DON R. EGBERT,
Managing Editor

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - - Per year $4.00
Foreign - - Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - - .15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS— The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 6, 1918 Number 14

How the Screen Can Defeat the Enemy

EXCEPT with the censors (who are the embodiment of exception to all rules) possession of power means responsibility. Wealthy men have come to recognize that they owe a duty to society through the potential power for good of their money. The editors of really great newspapers are daily using for the cause of right the enormous influence they wield—frequently at a cost to their publishers. When we contemplate the harm they might do, we must perforce credit them with conscience.

Almost unconsciously the motion picture exhibitor holds the greatest public power of all. His screen is greater than the press, for the simplest of reasons: Not one newspaper subscriber in a thousand reads all of his paper; but practically every picture theatre patron sees all that is on the screen.

The pen is mightier than the sword; but the lens is mightier than the pen.

Our nation has come upon a crisis without realizing it. As this is written, we (the pronoun fits, today, all the host we have sworn to uphold) are being driven back upon an incredible battlefield, which only by the grace of God is in France and not in New York or Illinois or California.

At the tomb of America's historic friend, our own General Pershing delivered his immortal five-word speech:

"Well, Lafayette, we are here!"

Yes, but are we? Is America's hundred million over there in spirit and usefulness and power, or are we content to send one per cent of ourselves across, to represent us in a world crisis, and then say with smug satisfaction, "We of America have done our bit"?

Your patrons, Exhibitors, have loaned to their government some five billions of dollars—loaned it at an advantage to themselves they would grasp eagerly in the softest of peace times. There is little credit in that. When the five billions have become fifty billions, when our Red Cross has more than it needs, when our allies can ask us to stop shipping wheat and meat and sugar and powder—then only will we have done in equivalent what our enemy has done and is doing.

It is up to you, Exhibitor, and to the newspapers, to bring that home to the people. Perhaps in an ideal state the press and the screen would not wield their influence, and the people would know by intuition when duty called. But as our lives are ordered now, you are the messengers. You cannot escape your obligation. Because you have the power, you carry the responsibility. See, then, that you give over your screen some part of every day for the work of the great common purpose.

We say "work," but so far as the exhibitor is concerned there is no work about it. All the co-operation with public speakers and the running of special films and slides that the most enthusiastic of theatre men can contribute costs him nothing—not even trouble.

Every motion picture theatre in the country will find a welcome and easy opportunity to use its influence for good in the third Liberty Loan campaign. The United States Treasury

Department and a committee of the National Association, working together, have prepared seventeen thousand five hundred trailers. These films will be sent to every motion picture theatre throughout the land. The trailer runs fifty feet and opens with the new Liberty Loan flag followed by a view of Secretary McAdoo at his desk writing a message to the people on the new loan. Next comes a close-up of the message followed by a close-up of the Liberty Loan button, which concludes the film. The message which will be flashed on the screens by this film reads:

> We must support our gallant sailors and soldiers. We must make them swift victors in their fight with the Kaiser. We can do it if we at home do our duty with the same quality of patriotism that animates our men in the trenches. The least duty we can perform—and we should be eager and happy to perform it—is to lend our money, every available dollar we have and can save, to our government in order that our gallant sons may be supplied with all they need to save America. No true patriot will fail to buy United States Liberty Bonds.—Wm. G. McAdoo.

With this film there will be distributed 100,000 posters, five to each theatre and twenty to each exchange. These posters have been prepared under the supervision of the committee in collaboration with the Government and present illustrations of great patriotic appeal. They are the creations of such artists as Howard Chandler Christy, Louis J. Dresser, Franklin Booth, H. H. Green and Harry S. Bressler.

The committee is urging exhibitors everywhere to put this material to the best possible use, running the film at every show, not merely as a trailer, but separate and apart from any other film, thus giving it added distinction. These films are presented to exhibitors gratis. They are not to be returned but may be kept by those who receive them. Both film and paper will be mailed direct to the theatre by the Government; and, it is urged, should be used throughout the entire duration of the forthcoming campaign.

The Film Division of the Committee on Public Information has opened New York offices, the better to assist the picture industry in realizing its opportunities to help. The Government itself is continuously producing films conveying the vast accumulation of information in the hands of the committee. These pictures showing all the complex activities of the war will be available to exhibitors under a plan soon to be announced. It goes without saying that their exhibition will be a patriotic duty with a flavor that the word "duty" does not always carry—the satisfaction brought by pleased audiences.

The theatre men are turning over to the Government every month huge sums in war taxes collected from the people. They are buying Liberty Bonds out of their own funds, they are contributing to the Red Cross and donating to it the use of their theatres for its benefit performances. For all these things they are duly honored; yet their greatest usefulness lies beyond the personal equation, in their tremendous influence upon people who, perhaps, are not so easily moved as they.

There should be a Liberty Bond button on the lapel of every exhibitor. And in his audience there should be a thousand Liberty Bond buttons on a thousand lapels, put there at least indirectly by the power of his screen. That is what the Government is counting on, and that is the opportunity to serve that will be welcomed by one hundred per cent of the picture theatre men.

* * *

Bookkeeping

TO those who know little of accounting, it sounds rather fantastic to say that the difference between profit and loss is often a matter of bookkeeping. Yet many an exhibitor, because he ignores certain items of expense, does not really know whether he is making or losing money.

There are three items in particular which often confuse the records of the small theatre owner—his own salary; interest on the whole investment, and depreciation on the property. The exhibitor who pays himself no fixed salary, but merely pockets what he calls the "profits," may be actually making less money than he could get elsewhere as an employee. On the other hand, the exhibitor who pays himself a larger salary than he could reasonably expect from another employer is robbing the real profits of his business, and may imagine his theatre is losing money when it actually is making money.

There are equal chances for error in the accounting, or lack of accounting, for interest and depreciation. These subjects we will discuss later. P. H. W.

Scenes from "The Unfaithful," a Triangle picture featuring Dorothy Dalton, Robert McKim and Charles Gunn, just about to be released.

Two Marriage Dramas on Triangle Bill

"The Unfaithful," "The Marriage Bubble" and "The Vortex" Are Feature Releases for Week of March 31

TWO marriage dramas are listed on the Triangle March 31 card, "The Unfaithful," a two-reeler featuring Dorothy Dalton, which deals constructively with domestic problems without offending good taste, and "The Marriage Bubble," an amusing play of matrimonial scheming and woman's wit, with William Desmond in a hurricane of dual personalities. A Wall Street story, "The Vortex," featuring Mary Warren and Joe King, is the concluding release of the week.

"The Unfaithful," by Lambert Hillyer, presents the situation of a neglected wife who professes infidelity in order to assist her husband to experience the emotions essential to the success of a book he is writing.

When John Karge (Robert McKim) wanted a write a tremendous situation of domestic infidelity he found himself utterly unable to do so, because he had known only happy married life. His loyal but neglected wife, Evelyn (Dorothy Dalton) discovers the dilemma and schemes with his private secretary to assist him, causing him to believe that she is guilty of infidelity with his friend (Charles Gunn). At the suggestion of his secretary, Karge accuses her in jest and is astounded to hear her admit her guilt. A gun-shot wound brings him to his senses and a realization of his wife's sacrifice.

Dorothy Dalton's sixteen Triangle plays, beginning with "The Disciple," in which she co-starred with William S. Hart, and running through a notable list to "The Ten of Diamonds," placed this actress among the popular players.

Woman does the proposing, according to "The Marriage Bubble," W. Carey Wonderley's story, which affords William Desmond a dual role in which he plays both drinker and gentleman through a maze of amusing complications which finally clear the road for a romantic love affair. A comedy fire scene is a feature.

The story deals with the socially prominent Trenholms, who, on their last financial legs, place their hopes in an alliance with wealthy Lucille Spinney. The only obstacle is Pete's propensity for liquor. His sister Alice invites Miss Spinney to Seaview as a guest, but Peter is confined to his room after a terrific jamboree. Alice chances across Marty, a stranger, who is Peter's double and who agrees to impersonate Peter until he is sober. But Marty's proverbial good luck which had made him a millionaire did not desert him, and it is Alice, not Peter, who saves the family prestige.

In the dual role of lover and brother, William Desmond makes his second appearance on the March program, having played the title role in "The Sea Panther." Anna Luther, who appeared in Keystone comedies before going into dramatic work, is cast as Alice. Florence Dagmar is Lucille Spinney. Walter Edwards directed the piece.

Jealousy is the theme of "The Vortex," a story of love and intrigue by Norman Sherbrook. The story deals with the bitterly fought romance of Van Cleefe, powerful Wall Street millionaire and woman hater, who falls in love with Joan Meredith, the daughter of his business rival. But she finds him in a compromising situation with a married woman and turned on him bitterly, engaging herself to an impoverished clubman as a matter of pique. Then Van Cleefe sees Joan in compromising circumstances and likewise misconstrues matters. He starts a battle to ruin her father, with direful results. A jealous husband tries to kill Van Cleefe and the latter is saved by the quick wit of the woman he loves.

Mary Warren, who had her initial role as leading woman with William Desmond in "The Sea Panther," is Joan Meredith. Joe King is Van Cleefe. He last played opposite Pauline Starke in "Until They Get Me" and Olive Thomas in "Heiress for a Day." George Hernandez, who appears as Lew Herford, was recently seen in "The Hopper."

The Busch Gardens at Pasadena, one of California's greatest show places, were used by Director Gilbert P. Hamilton in filming many of the scenes. These gardens, which were owned by and beautified under the personal direction of the late Adolphus Busch, millionaire brewer of St. Louis, were pictured to represent the grounds surrounding the home of society leaders.

Much of the action in Herman Raymaker's new comedy, "A Playwright's Wrong," takes place within a motion picture theatre. A specially constructed theatre was built. Throughout the filming there were few moments when Raymaker's troupe was not playing to a big audience composed of directors and performers who were off duty.

Essanay Plans New Picture

Essanay is now working on the script of a new play which it will announce shortly. Director Berthelet is in readiness to rush the play through as soon as everything is prepared. There will be an all star cast.

Uses Music in Making Films

Strongly convinced that music has a profound psychological effect on the director and the players while a photoplay is in the process of making, Jack Conway, Triangle director, has presented a new musical angle for consideration.

"We know that it is distinctly beneficial," he said, "to have the tempo of the melody match the tempo of the scene being photographed. But I believe in going still further and having that quality in my music that must be in every successful photoplay — that something that is generally known as 'pep.'

"I work out all my scenes in rehearsal to give them speed, though to an inexperienced eye some of them may look as if they were slow-making. For, by the very nature of the make-up of the photoplay, the story must move forward with lightning-like rapidity—although as I say, the movement of the actors themselves may seem slow.

"Now, getting down to the music end of it, every melody that I have played during the taking of my scenes has that element of quickness in it—music pressure, you may call it; that which, without seeming to, urges and hastens. All so-called 'jazz' music has that element in it, but it is not often possible to use that during the taking of a scene. It frequently would throw a scene off-color.

"You can imagine what results I would get if I played a death-scene before the camera to the strains of 'Alexander's Ragtime Band,' or 'They Go Wild Over Me.' But even some hymns, particularly those of the Church of England, have that pressure-element that I contend is necessary. All of Puccini's music has it."

Big Boom in Nashville

With the coming of new capital and thousands of new citizens to Nashville, as a result of the government's huge munitions plant now being constructed at Hadley's Bend, a suburb, amusement men are flocking to that section with all kinds of plans looking to the erection of motion picture and vaudeville houses.

The plans of the government, originally calling for an expenditure of $60,000,000, have been broadened to such an extent that more than $200,000,000 will be expended.

In addition to the Crescent Amusement Company's $100,000 house to be erected on Fifth avenue, north, there are reports of Marcus Loew having obtained options on the old Parthenon Theatre property on Church street, plans as outlined calling for the erection of a motion picture house.

Loew has been active in this territory for more than a year, having erected houses in Memphis, Chattanooga, Birmingham, Atlanta and other nearby cities, and it seems but natural that he should enter Nashville at a time when so much prosperity is at hand.

Further reports have it that a prominent theatre owner has arranged to purchase the Orpheum, a legitimate house, and remodel it to such an extent that pictures can be shown at popular prices. The Orpheum is one of the largest houses in the city and would make an excellent motion picture theatre.

Three scenes from the new Triangle play, "The Vortex," featuring Mary Warren.

Sunday Shows Barred

Exhibitors of Quebec, Canada, have failed in their attempt to conduct Sunday shows. After being open a few Sundays, following a decision of the Court of Appeals that a local Sunday observance act was not legal, the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance instituted proceedings against the exhibitors on the ground that they were violating a Federal blue law which was enacted many years ago.

The theatre men promised to oppose the self-appointed moral uplifters, but when the opportunity came only one man, Arthur Drapeau, who is the manager of three houses, ventured to respond.

It was his determined purpose to fight the case, but when he saw that he was alone on the job he balked at the heavy expense. As a consequence all theatres in Quebec will be compelled to close on Sundays in future.

It is a significant fact that in other cities of the province many theatres are regularly operated on Sundays. Naturally, these houses come under the jurisdiction of the same law. The Dominion Lord's Day Alliance is helpless, however, because the exhibitors of these cities have opposed it strongly.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" Pleases

Reports from exhibitors show that Taylor Holmes' last release, "Ruggles of Red Gap," is making a bigger hit than any of his pictures. "A Pair of Sixes," written by Edward Peple, which was released April 1, as a George K. Spoor Special, is declared by critics to be even a stronger production. Many critics declare it is the greatest farce comedy ever screened. It has an unusually strong cast, including besides Holmes, Maude Eburne, Robert Conness, Alice Mann and Edna Phillips Holmes, all well known both on the screen and stage.

Diversity Marks New Triangle Films

Three New Pictures Started and Five Other Companies Are Busy on Their Productions at Culver City

DIVERSITY OF THEME and "atmosphere" characterize the forthcoming Triangle productions now in the making at Culver City. The keynote of variety which has been a fundamental of the Triangle schedule has been struck in all the new plays, which include, in addition to society dramas and western subjects, a modern play with an oriental setting with Alma Rubens as a seeress, and several "crook" plays by the well-known romancer of the New York underworld, John A. Moroso.

During the last week three new pictures have been started and five companies worked steadily on their various productions. Director William Beaudine has been awaiting a new subject, which will be supplied within the current week.

Following her recent appearance in "The Love Brokers," Miss Rubens was cast for the title role of a new romantic drama entitled "Judith," which Gilbert P. Hamilton is directing. Little Pauline Starke, who has recently been featured in "The Shoes That Danced" and "Innocent's Progress," will have a leading role. A recent acquisition to the Triangle forces, Edward Peil, will support Miss Rubens, and Peggy Pearce of the Triangle Keystone beauties has been given her first dramatic role in this production.

Miss Rubens is cast as a fisherman's daughter, who through the power of her personality and charm becomes a seeress, the rage of New York society. Judith takes everything and gives nothing in return until love comes and the close of the story shows her about to make atonement for her selfishness. Miss Rubens will wear elaborate costumes.

"Her Decision" is the working title announced for Director Jack Conway's latest drama, the second picture which has been put into production during the last week. This marks the third dramatic appearance of the former Keystone comedienne, Gloria Swanson. "Smoke" and "Society For Sale," her others, are scheduled for early Triangle release. J. Barney Sherry, who recently completed work in "Who Killed Walton?" has a featured role in "Her Decision" and Darrell Foss and Ann Kroman are included in the supporting cast.

The plot is based on a girl's sacrifice to save her sister, who has been betrayed. To obtain the necessary money, she gives up Foss, her boy sweetheart, to marry an older man of wealth, at the time believing that her action is justified.

Director Raymond Wells, who has just completed a John A. Moroso story, "In the Spring," which has been retitled, "The Finger Print," has started work on "Mlle. Paulette," a comedy-drama in which an attractive actress and a scion of wealth play the leading roles. A summer camp in the mountains, in the vicinity of New York, provides the locale, and a wedding "with police supervision" comes as a climax. In the closing shots of the story the gates of a penitentiary were necessary and here the huge iron gates which guard the entrance to the Culver City studios were used to advantage.

Claire Anderson is seen in the title role. Wallace McDonald, whose last role was "The Harmony Lad" in "The Shoes That Danced," is Miss Anderson's leading man.

The filming of "An Honest Man," William Desmond's latest Triangle vehicle, which is being directed by Frank Borzage, is furnishing much amusement for the players at the Culver City studio. Desmond is seen as a knight of the road who is something of a sleight of hand performer. For the part it has been necessary for him to master several card tricks before any impromptu audience he can gather. Mary Warren is again seen as Desmond's leading woman, following her first appearance with him in the March release, "The Sea Panther." Miss Warren also had the leading role with Joe King in "The Vortex."

Director Harry Edwards is putting the finishing touches to a two-reel comedy which has been temporarily titled "Their Neighbor's Baby." In the cast are Rae Godfrey, Ray Griffith and Charles Dorian.

With another week of good weather, Director Cliff Smith expects to have the latest Roy Stewart western subject completed and in the editing department. When first put in production this was titled "The Derelict." Later it was changed to "The Alibi Man" and now it has been branded "Paying His Debt," which will be the release title. Stewart essays a dual role for the first time since joining Triangle nearly a year ago. Smith's company has completed the interior shots and is now working at the big Triangle ranch studio where the real western atmosphere will be added. Josie Sedgwick will again be seen as Stewart's leading woman.

Triangle Director Thomas N. Heffron expects to finish the filming of his latest subject this week. Two dogs, not much on beauty, but possessed of more art than is usually found among "extras," have been playing important parts in this production, the working title of which is "The Lonely Woman."

"The Lonely Woman" is the story of a tragedy which lay buried in the heart of a woman in a little hamlet close to the walls of Sing Sing. Belle Bennett is seen in the featured role and is supported by a strong cast.

Charlie Chaplin as he appears in a five-part comedy compiled by Essanay from several of the funniest Essanay-Chaplin comedies.

Fox Assembles Negative for "Salome"

Theda Bara Super-Production, It Is Announced, Follows Bible Story Closely with Much Regard for Detail

THE problem of cutting the enormous amount of film used to screen the pageantry and dramatic scenes of "Salome" is now being taken up by William Fox. The picture is a Theda Bara super-production made under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, who had charge of "Cleopatra."

Mr. Fox announces that the cinema version follows closely the Bible story told by Josephus in his book, "The Antiquities of the Jews and the History of the Jewish Wars." It illustrates, with spectacular vividness, the various steps in the thrilling historical drama.

The story is this:

Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee and Paraea, has contracted an illegal marriage with Herodias, wife of his brother Philip. Still strong in arms, but the real power of his dominion undermined by injustice and trickery, he is more interested in voluptuous entertainment than in the welfare of his people. He is falling deeper and deeper into moral degradation.

Then comes John the Baptist, preaching the coming of a new kingdom, warning the sinful to repent, lashing Herod, Herodias and their unholy union with words of fire. He is hailed by the masses as a "second Elijah." The people follow him, rejoicing in his scornful denunciations of their hated rulers. But Herodias, incensed at his rebukes, plans John's destruction, using Salome and her wiles in an attempt to bring about his downfall. John, unmoved by Salome's enticements, fans the flames of hatred.

One night, Herod, in the midst of a debauch, calls upon the beautiful Salome to dance before his throne. She comes in response to his call and dances in wild abandon.

Deep in wine and blinded by her sensuous appeal, Herod rashly offers her a reward, "even unto the half of my kingdom." Salome thereupon makes her request for the head of John the Baptist "in a charger."

Her wish is granted, and with its consummation ends one of the most moving tragedies that the world has ever known.

Theda Bara as she appears in "Salome," a forthcoming William Fox release.

Wilson Praises Theatres

PRAISE and appreciation of the nation-wide co-operation of the motion picture theatres in war publicity service is expressed by President Wilson in the following letter addressed to William McCormick Blair of Chicago, director of the Four Minute Men:

"The motion picture theatres of the country are rendering so substantial a service in aiding the Four Minute Men as spokesmen of the national cause that I would not willingly fail to acknowledge the debt the country owes to these managers. Their response to requests has been hearty, and their co-operation is most helpful.

"Will you please convey to them my appreciation of their aid in giving this exclusive privilege to your speakers?

"Woodrow Wilson."

The letter was read by 25,000 Four Minute Men during this week in motion picture theatres everywhere in the United States, Panama, Alaska, and Hawaii.

Two New Sunshine Comedies

"A Self Made Lady" and "The Waiter's Wasted Life" are the titles of two new Sunshine Comedies which Henry Lehrman has made for William Fox.

An announcement from the Fox offices says that "A Self Made Lady" is uproariously funny and replete with mirthful stunts. There are thrills, ridiculous situations and clean wholesome fun. There is nothing coarse or vulgar.

The story hinges on a "she-crook" who was sent to prison for seven days. A mistake is made by the jailer and she is kept behind the bars for seven years. When she is finally freed she wants to reform. She meets a male crook who refuses to permit her to travel the straight and narrow path.

Like all of the Sunshine comedies, it is a two reeler. A swimming tank is used to speed up the fun.

Artcraft Wins Triangle Suit Over Hart

Federal Court of Appeals Upholds Former's Contention That Actor's Contract with Latter Is No Longer Binding

A FINAL DECISION favoring Artcraft Pictures Corporation in the suit brought against that organization by the Triangle Film Corporation in the William S. Hart case was handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit last week. This is the third defeat of Triangle in this case.

The initial decision was given out by Judge Martin T. Manton in the United States District Court at New York last August when the application of Triangle for a preliminary injunction restraining the defendant from making or distributing pictures featuring Mr. Hart was refused.

Mr. Hart's contract with Triangle called for Thomas H. Ince's supervision of productions in which the star appeared and when Mr. Ince severed his connections with Triangle, the star's contract was no longer binding, Artcraft held, which contention is upheld by the Court of Appeals decision.

In the early part of December, Artcraft again won out when Supreme Court Judge Goff handed down a decision which denied the application of the New York Motion Picture Company for an injunction pendente lite, restraining the defendant from distributing the first William S. Hart production entitled, "The Narrow Trail," and vacated a temporary stay granted pending the argument of the injunction. This second suit was a local action and temporarily held up the showing of "The Narrow Trail" at the Rialto theatre.

The final appeal was brought before Circuit Judges Rogers and Hough and District Judge Learned Hand. Elek John Ludvigh represented Artcraft and Alfred S. Barnard, Triangle.

Hayakawa Writes to Exhibitors

Sessue Hayakawa, announcing the pictures which he will make at the head of his own company, is sending to exhibitors a letter written in Japanese telling of his aims.

In order that no exhibitor may miss the point through his inability to read the language, a translation into English accompanies it. In this the star states that he hopes to surpass his previous work and that his new pictures will be released through the newly formed Haworth Pictures Corporation.

William Fox Deals Hard Blow to Huns

Orders New Prints of Two War Films Following Threats of Germans Against Producers of Such Pictures

A SPECIAL dispatch to the New York Herald, dated London, quotes from the Frankfurter Zeitung a tirade against Americans, who are accused of organizing "hatred for Germany." The Frankfort newspaper, speaking for its particular part of the Central Empires, threatens the United States with revenge after the war and more particularly promises exclusion from that territory of American motion picture makers who have produced films antagonistic to the Teuton cause.

One of the pioneer and, except with pro-Germans, most popular of these anti-Teuton propaganda pictures is the William Fox production of "The Spy," with Dustin Farnum in the title role. Mr. Fox recently ordered new prints of this film to be sent to all the Fox exchanges in the country for immediate showing in all sections where it has not been seen and in response to numerous demands for "repeats" in territory where it has inspired patriotic enthusiasm and awakened anaemic Americans to the danger of German spies.

Colonel Fox not only "stands pat" on this picture as originally produced, for the purpose of exposing the sneaking servants of Prussian Imperialism who plied their trade in unsuspicious America during the trying days when President Wilson was doing his best to preserve peace with Germany, but he "comes right back" with another thrilling feature film which shows with wonderful realism the adventures of "The Pride of New York" in the first of the conflicts "Over There" in which American aviators figured.

As the typical New York boy who graduates from sky-scrapers to aeroplanes, via the American training camps, George Walsh commits "lese majeste" by knocking down a double of the German Crown Prince for insulting an American girl who is acting as Red Cross nurse in a captured French town. And, to add point to his defiance of Teuton threats, Colonel Fox has also ordered that new prints of this picture also be distributed to all his exchanges.

A big moment in "The Spy," a William Fox picture featuring Dustin Farnum.

Star Praises Katterjohn

Louise Glaum, who recently became a Paralta star at the head of her own company, is anxiously awaiting the release of her first play, "An Alien Enemy." The story of the play was written by Monte M. Katterjohn.

"I consider myself particularly fortunate in having been provided a story by Mr. Katterjohn for my first Paralta play," said the star, "and I am pleased to know that I am to receive other stories from him for future production. After all, the story is the foundation of a picture, and in the light of Mr. Katterjohn's numerous successes, a story from his typewriter is a practical guarantee of success."

New Chaplin Picture An April Release

Production May Run Over Two Thousand Feet, But Will Be Distributed in Standard Two-Reel Manner

"A DOG'S LIFE," the initial subject in the series of eight $1,000,000 laughmakers that Charlie Chaplin is making for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, has been completed and will be ready for release early in April.

With this picture, Chaplin inaugurates production under his own management. The film was selected by a process of elimination after half a dozen scripts had been rehearsed and found wanting for one reason or another.

Finally Charlie himself hit upon the idea of utilizing as his chief support a homeless, unkempt white mongrel that had sought refuge in the studio. The shivering, neglected cur furnished the novel note of pathos that the comedian believes essential to the type of screen humor that he has made all his own, so a story was built about the pair—Charlie as a tender-hearted vagrant and the dog as his only friend.

To prevent imitators from stealing a march upon him the complete narrative of the adventures that befall this knight of the road and his dog will be kept secret until the picture is released. Exhibitors can be assured, however, that the scenes show Chaplin under circumstances that oblige him to display all his versatility.

From the moment at the opening of the story when he is aroused from profound slumber in a fence-corner by the aroma from the wares of a passing "hot dog" vendor until his final triumph over a gang of cabaret crooks in a resort to which he and the dog have wandered on the trail of a beautiful, innocent-eyed young singer, there is no occasion when the action does not make full demands upon Charlie's powers of expression.

The supporting cast is headed, as usual, by Edna Purviance in the role of the cabaret singer.

Harry Lauder is said to have suggested the actual title of the comedy to Chaplin during his recent visit to California by remarking in his dry Scotch manner that Charlie was now "leadin' a dog's life" in his palatial new studio.

The production will probably run well over two thousand feet, but will be distributed in the standard two reel manner.

New Fox Play Full of Laughs

George Walsh is the star in the special feature release of William Fox for the week of March 31. There is a novel beginning and an unusual climax in this picture, says an announcement from the Fox offices.

Walsh arrives at a moving picture studio at eight in the morning to find that his director has not shown up for work. He is told by the man who employs him that he must get a director at once; that the picture must be started that day. He is in an awful mess when he learns that all the available directors have either been drafted or are under contract. While wondering where he will pick up a director, Monsieur Jules De Hoe Beaux, the great French cinema director, appears in the studio and applies for a job.

At the end of a month George Walsh, the star, is ready to view the finished picture in a projection room. The picture has to do with a South American revolution and there is a love story with George Walsh rescuing a pretty girl.

While the picture is being shown upon the screen in the projection room there are many side splitting humorous situations as Walsh criticises his director for having taken certain scenes that he does not like. The director always has an alibi ready. Finally George gets in a terrible rage and asks his camera man what he thinks of the picture. He replies that it is awful. The two grab the director and throw him out of the studio.

Gladys Brockwell in a scene from "The Devil's Wheel," a new William Fox picture, wherein she becomes the "wild cat" of Paris Apaches after having been reared in the quiet cloisters of a convent.

We're Both Surprised

MOTOGRAPHY recently sent out a letter to thirty or forty exhibitors asking them what type of pictures they thought producers should be turning out in view of the changing taste of the public. Both large and small cities were canvassed to obtain a representative view.

One of the answers, just received, is from C. N. Jenkins, Cedar Rapids, Ia., who turns out to be secretary of the Farmers Insurance Company instead of an exhibitor.

"It is evident that you have me listed as an exhibitor," Mr. Jenkins writes, "but that is wrong. I am merely one of the unnumbered multitude contributing a frequent admission price and am a subscriber to your excellent magazine, as it helps to educate my wife and myself as to what is worth seeing."

U. S. Opens New Film Office

The film division of the Committee on Public Information, of which Charles S. Hart is director of distribution, has just opened offices in New York at 110 West Fortieth street. The committee has a rich fund of information relating to the war and its numberless activities that can be conveyed to the public by means of the motion picture. The films picturizing this information are being made by the government and most of them can be had through no other source. Therefore the industry, and especially the exhibitors, are vitally interested in the announcement of this new office.

"The Reason Why" Gorgeous in Settings

Exact Replica of St. George's Chapel in London Used in Filming Heroine's Marriage to Scion of Blue Blood

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG'S production of "The Reason Why" for Select Pictures is marked throughout by a gorgeousness of scenic and sartorial investituture which make it especially noteworthy. It is fitting, therefore, that the wedding scene of the story, in which Miss Young as Zara marries Lord Tancre, a scion of the bluest blood in Britain, should be staged in a set whose lavishness stands out in even this production.

In Miss Young's studio there was erected an exact replica of St. George's Chapel in Hanover Square, London, internationally famous as Hymen's rendezvous for Mayfair, the scene of the smartest weddings of England's proudest nobility.

Elinor Glyn, the author of the novel, "The Reason Why," is herself a member of the Mayfair set, and has been a guest at many of the elaborate functions held at St. George's. Her description of it embodies, therefore, the very spirit as well as the physical characteristics of the chapel.

Not trusting her own memory of the chapel, Miss Young insisted on a faithful adherence to this word-picture, as well as to numerous authentic photographs.

Several friends of Miss Young, who have recently seen the original St. George's in London, visited the studio and remarked on the fidelity of the replica, and were even more taken with the spirit pervading the action.

It was for "The Reason Why" that Lucile, world-renowned dressmaker, created nineteen masterpieces to be worn by the beautiful star, giving an added personal attention to them because she is Mrs. Glyn's sister.

Miss Young's leading man is Milton B. Sills. Other members of her cast are Florence B. Billings, Frank Losee, John Sunderland, Kate Lester and little Eldean Stewart.

The direction was in the hands of Robert G. Vignola. "The Reason Why" is the star's latest production.

Clara Kimball Young as she appears in "The Reason Why," a forthcoming production for Select.

Miss Young in Los Angeles

Clara Kimball Young wore her Easter bonnet in Los Angeles, having picked up bag and baggage and hied herself westward with her entire company.

Miss Young will make her next two pictures at Hollywood; the first, "The Claw," from the well-known novel by Cynthia Stockley, and the second, "The Savage Woman," by Francois Curel.

Miss Young has leased for her temporary home a magnificent estate. The estate comprises twenty-four acres of cultivated lands, with sunken gardens, fountains, flower beds and swimming pools, and the house contains forty rooms and a conservatory with five hundred birds.

Motion Painting Used in New Metro Film

Invention of Ferdinand Earle Lends Great Charm to Second Production of Mme. Nazimova

MME. NAZIMOVA'S second screen play to be presented by Metro Pictures Corporation will be dignified by the most artistic treatment known to the film world, Metro announced.

The aid of motion painting, the discovery of Ferdinand Earle, has been invoked. Mr. Earle, who has studied long with such artists as Whistler and Bouguereau, is an artist-pioneer who believes that the same results can be attained on the screen that are obtained in the sister arts by Edmond Dulac, Bakst and Urban.

Maxwell Karger, himself an artist and always interested in new art-forms, has given Mr. Earle an opportunity to develop his ideas at the Metro studio and the new Nazimova picture will profit as a result.

As a sort of pictorial interlude, Mr. Earle will show the development of a celebrated resort of wealth and fashion from earliest times. Its splendid tropical solitude, before the arrival of man, is first pictured. The scene changes as if by magic throughout the succeeding stages of evolution, giving full value to the natural beauties of the place, up to the fulfillment of its destiny as a garden-spot of earth. Nazimova herself figures in the closing views.

Art-titles have also been made by Mr. Earle for the entire production, paintings in harmony with the accompanying scenes having been made for the purpose.

Mr. Earle has been obliged to turn inventor at various times since he began his researches in the new art. Among other things he has invented a dual exposure camera, which takes two separate exposures simultaneously on one film. Technical details are many in connection with the work, but to those who view the finished result on the screen the final effect is the principal thing.

The effect is whatever the artist wants it to be, either exterior or interior, and it changes as rapidly and as often as he wants it to. The whole process sounds like magic, and the effect is indeed like magic, for the artist is able to give the appearance of stars shooting in space, of Father Time unveiling the varying seasons in succession, or of order coming out of chaos in a representation of the world's beginning.

These have the actual appearance of reality, but are nothing more nor less than an unusual and extremely clever use of paintings. The artist has been obliged to experiment with different pigments, oils and surfaces in order to obtain something that will photograph in the way he wishes. The intricacy of the process protects him, because he might explain practically every detail of the proceeding and still run no risk of having his work duplicated.

Jewel Carmen during a tense moment in her new Fox picture, "The Bride of Fear."

Goldwyn's Spring Drive in Full Swing

Mabel Normand and Mae Marsh Start New Productions as Mary Garden Play Enters Distribution

GOLDWYN'S spring drive is in full operation at the Fort Lee studios and the big glass top shelters a host of busy workers.

With Mary Garden's "The Splendid Sinner" in distribution, workers in every department are breathing easier. Exhibitors and public alike are evincing more eagerness to see "The Splendid Sinner" than "Thais." They are curious to see the star as she is known to her friends, and clad in creations of her favorite modistes.

No small part of Goldwyn's activities are attributable to Mabel Normand. Hardly had she become acclimated to the chill of Fort Lee after her sojourn in Tampa than she plunged into another production. George Loane Tucker directed the scenes made in Florida to replace those eliminated from "Joan of Plattsburg" at the request of the government. The reconstructed picture will be released early in May.

Miss Normand's new production, the title of which has not yet been announced, affords unusual scope for her maturing abilities as an actress who is equally herself in moments of pathos or tears. Clarence G. Badger is directing the play, an adaptation of a Broadway success by a famous playwright.

Mae Marsh, not to be daunted by Mabel Normand's work-filled life, saw to it long before she finished Irvin S. Cobb's "The Face in the Dark" that there would be no cessation in her labors once the last scene was taken of the secret service drama in which she has a distinctly different, yet very congenial, role.

Accordingly, she began the first scene of the new production on the afternoon of the day she finished "The Face in The Dark." Whimsical charm and exciting conditions are woven into the new production, directed, as was "The Face in the Dark," by Hobart Henley. The story is by Edith Barnard Delano.

In the whirl of studio life Madge Kennedy is thoroughly at home, for she is responsible for much of Goldwyn's spring rush. Hailed as "the find of the season," Miss Kennedy discovers that she must live up to her screen name by letting exhibitors see as much of her as possible.

She is reaching the close of "The Danger Game," under the direction of Harry Pollard, and is more enthusiastic over it than any production yet made for her.

Extras Work for $2.50 a Day

As a drug on the money market, the Mexican peso has nothing on the Russian ruble, judging by the eagerness evinced by the Mexican to get his hands on the American dollar and what he will do to earn it.

Proof of that is found in the expense report of Frank Powell, director of "Heart of the Sunset," Rex Beach's greatest production, to be distributed through Goldwyn.

Mr. Powell, who recently returned from Southwestern Texas, where many scenes in the picture were taken, brings back word that all he paid 300 extras was $1.50 a day and $1 daily for living expenses. That he could have had 3,000 Mexican men and women at that price had he needed them was evidenced, he says, by the number that flocked around the makeshift studio he had erected near Eagle Pass when word that extras were wanted was passed around.

"So eager were these Mexicans to get into the picture that some of them offered to bring their families for the same $1.50," Mr. Powell said. "Most of them do a whole lot better than many on the coast who get five times as much."

A thrilling scene in Rex Beach's production, "Heart of the Sunset," produced for Goldwyn.

Goldwyn Actor Mistaken for Spy

So imbued with the thought of war and enemy aliens and spies is the average American nowadays that many amusing instances of extreme precaution come to light on all sides. In the making of motion pictures this is constantly noticed.

Quite the most pronounced evidence of this attitude occurred during the filming by Goldwyn of Mary Garden's "The Splendid Sinner." Hamilton Revelle, in one episode, plays a Canadian soldier entrusted with dispatches which he conceals in the heel of his boot. As a matter of course, Revelle sent the boot to a cobbler with instructions to remove the heel and hollow it out before replacing.

That detail attended to, the leading man went on with his work. But when he called for the boot on his way to the studio he found that the Italian had not touched it. Furthermore, the man was surly and suspicious, expressing a curt refusal to have anything to do with the job.

Puzzled, Revelle addressed him in Italian and the mystery cleared itself. The man suspected the actor of nefarious schemes to hoodwink the government, the hollow boot-heel meaning but one thing—what, in fact, it was to be used for in "The Splendid Sinner." Once Revelle made clear his legitimate purpose the cobbler quickly did the work.

"Snakevilles" All New Film

Intensive treatment has been given the ten Snakeville comedies issued by Essanay through General Film with the expectation that they will duplicate their former popularity. New film, new titles, new tints and careful editing has made these single reel subjects with Western settings most acceptable as program adjuncts in any sort of theatre.

First Goldwyn-Selexart Is "Blue Blood"

Tells Powerful Story, Showing How an Old Name Does Not Always Imply That a Man Is Superior

THE production chosen by Goldwyn for its first Selexart release is "Blue Blood," a powerful drama starring Howard Hickman. As the initial production of a group of three, Goldwyn offers it with confidence that "Blue Blood" embodies all that exhibitors and public want.

It is a story of the desires, ambitions and ultimate end of thousands of Americans today. Effectively produced, with a wealth of fine photography and clever titles, it offers to the accomplished players chosen for its interpretation every opportunity a good actor needs in order to drive home a strong lesson.

Howard Hickman, in the role of Spencer Wellington, scion of an old family, portrays the depravity which often curses the owner of blue blood in a way that leaves nothing to the imagination. The young man with incipient paresis, which later causes him to indulge in all the excesses of a diseased brain, is a screen portrait which will not soon be forgotten.

With startling fidelity to life, "Blue Blood" proves that ownership of an old name does not necessarily imply that its possessors are either strong in character or in distinguished ancestry. Hickman as Wellington is shown to be descended from the scum of London's slums, yet he is looked upon as a true scion of distinguished ancestry until the audience is shown what manner of men were his forefathers.

The old conflict of money and love, of social ambition and genuine worth, becomes the pivotal struggle. The mother who forces her daughter into a supposedly advantageous marriage, only to discover that the child has been sold into slavery worse than death—this is a situation as old as civilization itself. Yet in "Blue Blood" it is depicted with such relentless realism that the spectator forgets that it is a screen drama and believes that it is life itself.

Magnificent settings fade to show the life of pirates as it was lived centuries ago when an ancestor of Wellington, by right of cunning and daring, pillaged and burned his way to wealth and a refuge in America.

Equally startling are the scenes showing the depths of degradation to which Wellington descends in his mad revels. A gorgeous pleasure palace erected on the grounds of his estate conceals from the eyes of the world and his insane wife the limit of debauchery which this owner of blue blood calls entertainment and pleasure. Surrounded by a bevy of girls, he whiles away his nights, forgetful of duty to his wife and child, until a terrible accident brings both to him at the moment when his own brain gives away and he falls to the floor dead.

The circumstances which unite the wife, her own reason happily restored, with the man she should have married, bring about the ending of a play which Goldwyn knows will be of wide appeal.

A real laugh in the new Madge Kennedy Goldwyn picture, "The Danger Game."

Attention—All

WHEN you start on a trip that includes Chicago and you are doubtful as to where to receive your mail here, leave instructions for it to be sent in the care of Motography. We will put it aside for you and you may have it by calling. The offices are 1253-1260 Monadnock building, Dearborn street and Jackson boulevard.

Baby Supports Star

The youngest actress in motion picture comedy plays the latter half of the title role in "Bill's Baby," a Capitol comedy starring "Smiling Bill" Parsons, soon to be released by Goldwyn as the first of a batch of twenty-six two-reel laughmakers to be produced by the National Film Corporation with Parsons as the chief "funster."

Unfortunately, the identity of the little actress, whose pictures place her age at about three, is forever lost through the negligence of a director who didn't realize when he engaged her that he was dealing with an important figure in the play. So she's just Baby—but she's some baby!

Baby is the daughter of a janitress and an Italian fruit peddler. Bill, engaged to wed a beautiful young lady, is assigned by the city editor of his paper (he's a reporter) to write a story about the Baby Show. On his way he encounters Baby and in a spirit of fun picks her up, carries her off and enters her in the show as his own.

Quite naturally, Baby wins a reward of merit. Meanwhile her distracted mother, having traced the child to the show, is being soothed by Bill with a handful of money, when a photographer on Bill's paper, a disgruntled suitor for the hand of the reporter's fiancee, happens along with his camera and snaps Baby and her proud mother and "father."

The complications this causes when the picture gets into the paper may be imagined. Bill all but loses his lady love, to say nothing of his life, which appears worth about thirty cents, when the enraged peddler takes after him with a banana knife. However, it all comes out right, as things always do in comedies.

World Picture Re-Titled

World Pictures announce a change in the title of the film to be released April 22 in which Kitty Gordon is the star. The working title was "Devil's Dice," but the picture will be presented as "The Purple Lily."

Mary Miles Minter Tops Mutual Program

Tenth and Eleventh Issues of Screen Telegram and Billie Rhodes in Strand Comedy Complete Bill

MARY MILES MINTER in "A Bit of Jade" heads the Mutual schedule of releases for the week of April 1. The production was made under the direction of Edward Sloman and is based on a story by Mildred Carl Graham, scenarioized by Karl Coolidge.

A rare and valuable necklace which had been stolen from an idol in an Indian temple and had been acquired by a young American collector of antiques comes by accident into the hands of Phyllis King (Miss Minter), who believes it to be a present from her brother. A wily Hindu is on the trail of the necklace and Phyllis becomes the unconscious storm center of plot and intrigue which lead her into exciting and mystifying situations.

There is a legend attached to the "bit of jade" that it will win for its owner the heart of the maiden who wears it and Phyllis sustains the truth of the legend when, after saving the life of the young gem collector in a murderous attack by the crafty Hindu, she wears the necklace and the owner claims her heart.

There is a striking scene of the interior of a Hindu temple, some beautiful views of mountain scenery and night scenes of a midnight lark of college girls in boys clothes. Miss Minter's charms are displayed in a fetching way, and she makes a charming picture dressed in her brother's best sport suit.

The tenth and eleventh issues of Screen Telegram are released April 3 and 7. The demonstration in Chicago for the cause of Polish freedom, in which 35,000 Poles took part, headed by the famous pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, was a feature of the issue of March 13. The release of March 18 contained official war pictures from France showing impressive ceremonies over the bodies of the first Americans killed in action. The release of March 20 contained some more remarkable pictures from the front. One of these showed the ruins of the beautiful cathedral of Saint Andrew, in France.

Billie Rhodes appears in a Strand comedy, "She Couldn't Grow Up," released April 2. Mary is always stealing her older sister's sweethearts, so she receives orders to keep in the background. She is compelled to dress as a child to give "Sis" a chance. But on the night of the big dance she locks her sister and mother in the room and captures big sister's best beau. When "Sis" escapes she finds her beau's wife has shown up and Mary is forgiven.

Two scenes from Mary Miles Minter's latest American-Mutual production, "A Bit of Jade," the one at the top being the interior of a Hindoo temple.

Edna Goodrich Gets the Money

Edna Goodrich, the beautiful Broadway favorite, seems to have struck a responsive chord in "American Maid," reports from Mutual indicating that it is one of the best box-office values released by that company within the last six months.

Eugene Sanders of the Palace theatre, Harvard, Ill., writes:

"Edna Goodrich in 'American Maid,' is some picture and made a great hit here with our patrons. If we keep this quality of pictures up I guess we will keep running alright."

Reports on other recent Goodrich productions, "Who Loved Him Best?" and "Her Second Husband," show that this popular star is growing steadily in favor.

American Needs 200 Extras

Spring demands at the American Film Company studios with William Russell Productions, Inc., at work and the Minter and Fischer companies busy, have almost overwhelmed the tailors and modistes in Santa Barbara.

A call for two hundred well-dressed men and women went out from the studios last week. Promise of a steady job was given for those who could qualify, which means that a lot of extras are going to be used in the coming Minter, Fischer and Russell pictures.

Paralta Head Returns from the Coast

Tells What He Accomplished by Construction of New Studios and Predicts Better Pictures Than Ever

CARL ANDERSON, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., returned from Los Angeles to New York last week. He has been spending several months there supervising the construction of the new Paralta studios.

Mr. Anderson left for the coast last October and during his stay was responsible for many important developments in the Paralta organization. Louise Glaum was engaged as a star in Paralta Plays and her first production, "An Alien Enemy," was completed under the direction of Wallace Worsley. The employment of Miss Glaum as a Paralta star is a big step in the development of a galaxy of the foremost stars of the silent drama and exhibitors throughout the country are anxiously awaiting the release of her initial production.

Carl Anderson, president of Paralta.

In speaking of the development of the Paralta studios and the western organization, Mr. Anderson said:

"It is indeed very gratifying to watch the phenomenal development of this organization, which is still less than a year old. We started with Bessie Barriscale and J. Warren Kerrigan as our only stars. All of the productions which these two favorites have made have proved of exceptional worth and those which have been released have received the unstinted plaudits of the exhibitors and public.

"Since the consummation of the contracts with Henry B. Walthall a few months ago, we have made three productions in which he will be seen as the star and which promise to be great box-office attractions.

"In obtaining Louise Glaum, I believe we have added to the large galaxy of players one of the most popular artists in the world of the silent drama. It is our intention to take Miss Glaum out of vampire roles and to place her in dramatic productions which will win for her the sympathy of the audience instead of having the feeling of distaste which roles of a vampire nature are bound to create.

"When I arrived at the coast our new studios had been just started. These studios are now nearing completion and will be without exception the most complete in every detail that are in existence today. They cover one of the largest tracts of ground which is being used by any producing organization in the country and consist of an administration building, a large scenario building, five enormous glass-enclosed stages, property buildings, dressing-room buildings and separate buildings for a stock department, plaster and carving departments, scene painting docks, wardrobe department, electrical and power building and a large restaurant which will be run by the organization.

"In addition to the glass-enclosed stages, there are also a number of open stages together with French and Italian gardens. With this equipment, together with the exceptionally competent personnel which we have on the coast, I predict that Paralta will produce in the future photoplays which will eclipse those splendid productions which we have already completed."

Before leaving for the coast, Mr. Anderson engaged Jesse Hampton, brother of Ben Hampton, as business manager of the western organization. Mr. Hampton took up his duties as one of the western executives before Mr. Anderson returned east. The remainder of the western personnel will be as it was before, with the exception of Robert Kane, vice-president of the organization, who is now serving as an officer in the American army.

Five Paralta-Barriscale Films Made

Star Now Working on Sixth, a Stirring Drama with War Background Which Will Be Called "Patriotism"

BESSIE BARRISCALE heads the list of Paralta stars from the standpoint of quantity of production. Already Miss Barriscale has completed five seven reel features and is working on a sixth. Two of these, "Madam Who" and "Within the Cup," have already been released and are doing excellent business all over the country.

Miss Barriscale's productions which are awaiting release are "Blindfolded," "Maid o' the Storm" and "Rose o' Paradise."

"Blindfolded" is an unusual story of the underworld and stands out as an example of excellent direction. There is a series of interior scenes taken in absolute darkness with only flashes of light to reveal the action, which build up a suspense more tense and thrilling than in any screen play ever made by Paralta. The picture was directed by Raymond B. West from the story by E. Richard Schayer.

Mr. West is also responsible for the direction of "Maid o' the Storm," which is a story laid in Scotland and in which Miss Barriscale's impersonation commences as a fishergirl waif and changes to a prima donna in London Opera. The story was written by J. Grubb Alexander and Fred Myton.

"Rose o' Paradise" is an elaborate version of the novel by Grace Miller White and was staged under the direction of James Young.

Miss Barriscale is now engaged in the filming of a sensational patriotic drama to be entitled "Patriotism."

Olive Thomas, who is achieving fame under the Triangle banner.

Varying scenes from the new Artcraft picture, "The Whispering Chorus," produced by Cecil B. DeMille.

Eight Stars in April Paramount Program

Marguerite Clark, Billie Burke, Dorothy Dalton, Vivian Martin, Hayakawa, Reid, Ray, and Jack Pickford Are Players

WALTER E. GREENE, managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of the distribution department, last week announced the April releases to be offered under the Paramount trade-mark.

For the fourth month of the year, this organization presents an exceptional array of high-class drawing cards, disclosing the latest screen accomplishments of eight of the famous Paramount stars Male and female luminaries share equal honors, there being four stars of each sex on the release chart, Marguerite Clark, Billie Burke, Dorothy Dalton and Vivian Martin, and Sessue Hayakawa, Wallace Reid, Jack Pickford and Charles Ray.

Six of the productions come from the studios in the East and West and two from the Thomas H. Ince plant.

"The initial Paramount release," says Mr. Greene, "is a Sessue Hayakawa vehicle, 'The Honor of His House.' Staged under the direction of William C. DeMille and written by Marion Fairfax, the eternal triangle receives a twist that completely transforms it and alters the idea that has been used in many productions so that it is all but unrecognizable.

"Two men are portrayed—representative types of different races—with a woman that is half vixen, half saint and who in the end redeems herself by sincere love. Florence Vidor supports Hayakawa. The release date is April 1.

"April 8 will mark the release of two pictures starring Jack Pickford and Wallace Reid. Jack's new photoplay is an adaptation from the popular story by Harry Leon Wilson, 'His Majesty, Bunker Bean.' Julia Crawford Ivers has caught the full spirit of the story, treating the subject for the screen, and William D. Taylor scores another big triumph in staging it before the camera. Louise Huff, in the part of 'the Flapper' appears opposite Jack.

"Wallace Reid's appearance will be in 'The House of Silence,' by Margaret Turnbull, and offers a thrilling drama in which a wealthy clubman is called into a mysterious house where a murder has been committed. Abounding with mystery and startling situations, the photoplay gives a striking picturization of the popular book 'Marcel Levignet,' by Elwyn Barron. Staged under the direction of Donald Crisp by arrangement with Duffield & Company, this film again discloses clever Ann Little in the supporting cast, together with Adele Farrington, Winter Hall, Ernest Joy, and H. A. Barrows.

"Marguerite Clark and Vivian Martin are the stars to appear on April 15. Miss Clark's vehicle is 'Rich Man, Poor Man.' This subject, by Maximilian Foster, has had wide publicity, having appeared in serial form in The Saturday Evening Post, in book form and on the stage, where it was adapted by George Broadhurst. J. Searle Dawley staged it.

"Vivian Martin's picture is 'Unclaimed Goods,' by Johnston McCulley, scenarioized by Gardner Hunting. The little star appears as a Western girl, the daughter of a sheriff, who passes through the remarkable experience of being shipped as an express package to a mining town. Rollin S. Sturgeon, has added another big accomplishment to his long list of successes in staging this picture.

"'Playing the Game,' Charles Ray's newest photoplay, directed by Victor L. Schertzinger under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, is marked for April 22 release. This subject discloses the popular young star in a character quite unlike anything he has heretofore attempted. The story, by Julien Josephson, has to do with a young Easterner who as a result of rioutous living is compelled to fly to the Western plains, where romance and many exciting events await him. Doris Lee appears opposite Mr. Ray.

"Last, but by no means least, the final releases of the month on April 29, are Billie Burke in 'Let's Get a Divorce' and Dorothy Dalton in 'Tyrant Fear,' an Ince production.

"Miss Burke's play, the scenario of which was written by John Emerson and Anita Loos, offers a satire on the ease of sundering the marital knot and is expected to prove the star's best screen vehicle. Charles Giblyn is the director, and was assisted by Joseph Boyle.

"Dorothy Dalton in 'Tyrant Fear' is expected to prove one of Mr. Ince's best film offerings of its kind. A photodrama of the Canadian wilds, the story is filled with unusually strong dramatic situations in which a girl, obsessed by fear of men and things, regains her soul to become at last after many trials a courageous woman who has not only won a fierce battle, but is ready to face with unexampled bravery aught that may confront her. R. William Neill directed this film under Mr. Ince's supervision. The story is by Cecil Smith."

Miss Glaum Awaits New Play

Louise Glaum, the new Paralta star, who has just completed "An Alien Enemy," her initial production since joining that company, and which takes her from the narrow scope of vampire roles for the first time in years, will soon start work on her next production.

Exhibitors and Producers to Meet

On advice of the directors of the American Exhibitors' Association, a general conference will be held at the Hotel Astor in New York beginning April 8, to obtain the best thoughts on closer co-operation between exhibitors and producers through some plan of co-operative distribution or booking agreement, or both. Exhibitors and producers are invited to attend without regard to their affiliations. Any plan for better protection and closer affiliation will be welcomed for consideration.

Great Talent in New World Picture

"Masks and Faces" to Be Presented with Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and All Star Cast

IT has not been recorded in the history of the spoken drama, let alone that of the screen, where such a brilliant array of talent has been shown as is presented in "Masks and Faces," according to the producers, The World Film Corporation. The film will be released May 6.

The flower of the English speaking stage has been culled in casting this feature, which is a play round which has been written more golden pages of stage history than any other production, World says.

If it were not for the fact that the entire stage is earnest in the desire to do something worthy of the profession in alleviating the distress growing out of the world war, "Masks and Faces," with its marvellous cast would not become the property of the patrons of the moving picture theatres.

George Bernard Shaw, Sir Arthur Pinero and Sir John Hare, representing a committee of the Academy of Dramatic Art of England, decided in the furtherance of this charity to present a play on the screen that offered an opportunity to employ the largest number of stars.

After several conferences it was decided that "Masks and Faces," a drama of Charles Reade and Tom Taylor, was an ideal play for the purpose.

Reade afterwards wrote a novel based upon the play, and called it "Peg Woffington." The novel is the richer of the two in incident, and has accordingly been made the ground-work of the picture.

The story, which tells of the loves and the humanity of Peg Woffington, a beautiful and vivacious actress from the Emerald Isle, who, from a humble orange girl grew to be the darling of the theatre, is too well known to need elaboration here.

It is just a human tale of the simple emotions and pitfalls of life, but a tale pervaded by the charm of sincerity and typical to the last word of the homely British drama.

As such it has attracted to itself many of the most eminent players, but rarely, if ever, has quite such an array of artists performed in it as appears in the picture version, or has its story been interpreted with more naturalness and truth.

The role of Triplet was assigned to Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson; that of Peg Woffington to Irene Vanbrugh; Ernest Vane to Dennis Neilson Terry; Kitty Clive to Lillah McCarty; Colly Gibber to Dion Boucicault; Mabel Vane to Gladys Cooper; Sir Charles Pomander to Ben Webster; Donald Calthrop and Gerald Du Maurier are cast for Lovell and Hunsdon, Pomander's servants; Mrs. Triplet is played by Winifred Emery; Colander by H. B. Irving; Loyall Swete, who recently staged "Chu Chin Chow" in New York, plays Soaper; Viola Tree, who was last seen in America in support of her father, Sir Beerbohm Tree; Stella Campbell, the daughter of Mrs. Pat Campbell; Gertrude Elliott, the wife of Forbes-Robertson and sister of Maxine Elliott, were cast as members of Rich's Company; the three most famous child actors of England, Fabia Draka, Joan Buckmaster and George Rowson are seen as Triplet's children. Nigel Playfair portrays Rich's theatrical manager. Others in the cast are Henry Vibart, J. Fisher White, Helen Haye, Mabel Russell, Weedon Grossmith, Gerald Ames, Mary Brough, Phyllis Hart, Lottie Venne and Renee Mayer.

The introduction discloses George Bernard Shaw, Sir Arthur Pinero, Squire Bancroft, Sir George Alexander, Sir James Barrie and other notables, who make the English stage illustrious.

Funny Lloyd V. Hamilton, better known as "Ham," who is being featured by William Fox in Sunshine Comedies.

World Adopts New Rules for Casting

Executives Will Choose Players in Conference Instead of Directors Alone and All Will Be Tried Out First

RIGID new rules for the casting of World-Pictures have recently been laid down by the management in the interest of increased efficiency and the making of bigger and better pictures.

Hereafter no directors will do the casting for any World-Pictures. All casting will be done in this manner:

When a story is accepted by the scenario department and the continuity has been written and approved, a conference will be held by the production department managers, scenario editor and general manager as to which star shall be assigned to the principal role. When this point is determined the work of casting the remainder of the players will be given to the casting director, whose selections will be approved in another conference.

Absolutely every part in a picture will be filled on proven merit only. The past record of every candidate for a position will be looked up, screen tests will be made and the candidate will be given a trial rehearsal in several scenes before a final decision is reached. In this way it will be thoroughly determined in advance, whether or not all the players are entirely suited to their roles.

The beauty of this arrangement is primarily that it assures perfect casts. World-Pictures realizes that balanced casts where every actor is an artist in his particular role go far toward making a picture and so in this end of production as well as in the selection of stories, World-Pictures is doing everything possible to give exhibitors the greatest box offie value for the money they put into the films.

Margarita Fischer, American-Mutual star.

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY CRITICS

"The Whispering Chorus"

Paramount-Artcraft Production by Cecil B. DeMille. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

CECIL B. DEMILLE has long been recognized as one of the leading directors of the industry, and has sponsored many films which have created more than ordinary interest. Added to his long list of remarkable successes, is his latest effort, "The Whispering Chorus," adapted from the story of the same name by Jeanie MacPherson.

The prodigal returns.

The picture is gruesome throughout, but because of that seeming unredeeming feature, it is exceptionally interesting. Despite the fact that the production is in seven reels, interest never lags, but instead accumulates added momentum with each successive scene. We see John Tremble in the happy stages of his early married life, and then are taken with him along the path to ruin and death. We even are permitted to see him enter the death chair of the prison, and although we do not actually see the execution, several touches, such as the straps being placed around his wrists, and then a flower dropping out of his hands after the current has been turned on and off, serve their purpose. This, and numerous other similarly gruesome scenes, may not meet with the approval of the general public, but they could not very well be dispensed with without detracting the exceptional features, which make this an extraordinary release.

To Raymond Hatton must go the laurels. His work as the derelict John Tremble is, without a doubt, the crowning achievement of his career. His make-up is exceptionally effective and the horrible appearance he presents, after having gone through the very gates of Hades, is one never to be forgotten. Edythe Chapman, as his mother, presents an appealing characterization and is pleasing in the part. Kathlyn Williams is Jane, his wife, and Elliot Dexter is Coggeswell, the man who in a way was the cause of Tremble's downfall. Each is convincing in his or her respective role and does admirable work.

The photography is excellent, many of the lightings being exceptionally effective. The general staging of the production is upon the usual high standard of DeMille perfection. All in all, this is one of the finest productions released under the dual banner of Artcraft-Paramount in quite some time.

The story: John Tremble, struggling to keep his wife and mother in comfortable circumstances, falsifies his accounts and makes away with a considerable sum of his firm's money. He lives the life of a hermit on a nearby island. One day he finds a dead body and to cover his tracks, he changes clothes and leaves evidence to show that the body is that of John Tremble. His wife believes him dead, and secures employment in the office of Coggeswell, a prominent lawyer.

Years pass and Tremble, now known as Edgar Smith, is seen as a crippled stevedore, his face emaciated by the hardships of his strenuous life and his body but a mass of bones. He returns to his home, to have his mother die in his arms. He is arrested as the murderer of Tremble and is found guilty of having killed himself, which, indeed, is a strange predicament. His wife, now the wife of Coggeswell, the governor of the state, recognizes him, and attempts to secure his pardon. Tremble realizes the happiness that should rightfully belong to her and goes to his death.

"Love Me"

Paramount Picture with Dorothy Dalton. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THOS. H. INCE, C. Gardner Sullivan, and Dorothy Dalton, compose a trio which have always turned out excellent pictures. The latest result of their efforts is a pleasing production, under the caption, "Love Me." The title implies the nature of the story, concerning the efforts of a breezy western girl to win the affection and admiration of her husband's aristocratic family.

The situations which arise are not mere happenings, but the results of what leads up to each. The complexities are of the usual Sullivan calibre, which, in itself, is enough to guarantee an absorbing story. Then again, the charm and beauty of so popular a star as Dorothy Dalton, enhanced by the co-operation of Thos H. Ince in the direction, makes this an altogether acceptable release.

The interior settings are of regal splendor and entirely in keeping with the nature of the story. The few exteriors, which are shown in the first reel, are coincident with the required atmosphere. The photography is of the best seen in some time; the direction is in the capable hands of Wm. Neill, who worked under the supervision of Mr. Ince. The cast might be termed an all star gathering, as several of the popular Paramount stars have prominent parts. Dorothy Dalton is Maida Madison, and her bewitching smile materially augments her usually flawless work. Jack Holt is Gordon Appleby, a part for which he is particularly well suited. Robert McKim is Gordon's brother, Mortimer, and fills the role in his usually capable manner. William Conklin, Dorcas Mathews, Elinor Hancock, and Melbourne MacDowell, complete the cast of principals, all of whom are acceptable in their respective roles.

The story: Gordon Appleby, a young engineer of wealthy and aristocratic forbears, meets Maida Madison, and after a brief courtship takes her East as his wife. Her breezy nature and irresponsible familiarity create false impressions in the minds of the senior Applebys and their other children, Eunice, whose husband is on active service with the Atlantic fleet; and Mortimer, whose sole purpose seems to be to uphold the name and dignity of the family. Gordon alone is of different nature than the others, not being so conscious of the family's social prestige. As time passes Maida recognizes her position in the home, and tries to destroy the impression that she is but an interloper. She later becomes the unwilling witness to a love scene, with Eunice and Fenton, a friend of the family, the guilty ones. Maida overhears their plan to elope and to save the family name, she decides to act. She goes to Fenton's apartment and there induces Eunice to return to her home. Mortimer, always ready to believe her unworthy of his brother, finds Maida in Fenton's apartment. Maida is, therefore, revealed as the guilty party. But Eunice comes to the realization of Maida's sacrifice and in due time explanations are made.

The first meeting augured promise.

"Within the Cup"

Paralta Production Starring Bessie Barriscale. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN has provided a very excellent vehicle for Bessie Barriscale, and her latest production, "Within the Cup," reveals that popular favorite at her best. The Latin quarter of Paris and New York's Greenwich village furnish an exceedingly attractive locale, from the artistic viewpoint. Seldom have such scenes of gaiety and wild revelry been delineated upon the screen, and the masterful manner in which these big scenes were handled speaks well for Raymond B. West, who directed.

It is a story of a pure and clear-minded girl, who made a living by writing of the Bohemian life in which she lived. Thisbe Lorraine is her name and she was quietly popular among the habitues of the Latin quarter. She meets Ernest Faber and in time realizes she loves him, but because of the gulf between their extremely different natures, lives with him only as his morganatic wife. Later, when she discovers him deceiving a sister habitue of the quarter, she realizes she has sacrificed her ideals in vain. Several years later, Thisbe is recognized as the leading playwright of New York's Greenwich village. At a masque ball she meets Le Saint Hammond, a young artist who had experienced much difficulty in securing a model for his "Psyche." Thisbe consents to be his model, but when she discloses the fact that she had been the Psyche at the masque ball, Hammond, who had believed her to be the personification of purity and chastity, orders her away. He turns to a life of dissipation and reckless living, until Thisbe finds him some time later, and is able to save him from absolute ruin. Their souls reunited, both start on the new road to happiness.

Bessie Barriscale is exceptionally effective in the character of Thisbe and probably does her best work in some time. Her dominating personality is ever in evidence and she carries each scene in convincing fashion. Edward Coxen appears as Faber, and while he is seen only in the early scenes, he gets in some good moments. George Fisher is Hammond, a part in which he shows to good advantage. Aggie Herring, as "Tea-cup Ann," offers an exceptionally realistic characterization. The photography is excellent; the lightings adequately show off the spacious settings, and the general staging of the production is on a lavish scale. Paralta plays are surely living up to the predictions made by their sponsors.

"The Girl Who Wouldn't Quit"

Louise Lovely Feature, Universal Special. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

A WESTERN production with a mystery plot is the current Universal special offering. Many pretty locations were chosen, and the photography does them justice. It is a pretty picture, interesting enough for a good average entertainment. There is sufficient action and plot complication for the five reels, and while there is nothing unusual about the picture, it is acceptable, especially for theatres whose patrons like western plays.

Edgar Jones directed the production, which is adapted by Doris Schroeder from a story by James Oliver Curwood. Supporting the star are H. A. Barrows, Marc Fenton, Charles H. Mailes, Gertrude Astor, William Chester and Philo McCullough.

The story: When Joan's father, a mine superintendent, was sentenced to life imprisonment on circumstantial evidence of a terrible murder and robbery, his little daughter Joan made it her life's work to secure his release. Very few believed that Tracy was guilty, but the evidence was overwhelming. Joan, in her extremity, turned to Robert Carter and his wife. Carter had been the superintendent of the mine and was about to be deposed. He asked to lead a posse, and it was due to this that the conclusive evidence was discovered. He was now a rich man, and Joan accepted the invitation of his wife to stay with them in the city. She was no sooner there than she received a mysterious message, saying that a certain chest in a storage room contained a confession which would interest her father. Joan was wild to set out for the storage room; Carter was covertly trying to delay her, so that he could get the box. In the meantime, it went at auction to Jim Younger, a rich youth who bought the mysterious box out of curiosity. Then began a chase of the box. Joan reached Jim's bungalow before the box was opened. Just as she started to open it, the place was held up by a dozen sailors. While they were locating and making off with the box, Joan telephoned to Jim Younger's sailors and thus intercepted the party as it was boarding the boat. Their leader was unmasked as Robert Carter. The box, when finally opened, disclosed the fact that he and the telegraph operator, who left the box in the storage room, had planned the murder and also the evidence that convicted Tracy.

"The Cross Bearer"

World Film Special Starring Montague Love. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

WE HAVE seen Montague Love in "heavy" parts so often, that it is with keen delight we hail his appearance as Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, in the World picture, "The Cross Bearer." The religious theme dominates throughout, and the many scenes depicting the Cathedral of Louvain and the Cardinal's protection of the holy altar, have been reproduced exceptionally well. A reproduction of the interior of the Louvain Cathedral is seen, and the religious ceremonies which follow are particularly effective.

Interwoven is the usual romantic theme and it proves a very interesting romance. The Cardinal's ward, Liane de Merode, an inmate of the nearby convent, is loved by Maurice Lambeaux, a lieutenant in the Belgian army, and the clever manner in which their experiences are unfolded provides excellent entertainment. German army heads play prominent parts, and the harsh treatment, which the people of the invaded country undergo at the hands of the invaders, is shown very realistically.

Montague Love earns new laurels as Cardinal Mercier and his work is far ahead of anything he has heretofore done. Usually an active man of the world, the restraint and composure of the Cardinal is carried by Mr. Love in a very delightful manner. His work is truly that of the polished artist. Demure Jeanne Eagles presents a pleasing appearance as Liane, and she carries her part in an entirely satisfactory manner. Anthony Merlo makes a very pleasing Maurice Lambeaux and is acceptable in his role. George Morgan, Alec Francis, Edward Elkas, Charles Brandt, and Albert Hart are prominent in the supporting cast. The lavishness of the production gives substance to the statement that no expense has been spared to make this a truly big picture. George Archainbaud directed and has turned out a very satisfactory production.

Liane leaves for the convent.

The story: Cardinal Mercier is the spiritual advisor of Belgium, and when the German hordes invaded the peaceful country, the Belgians looked to the Cardinal for guidance. His wit and far-sightedness stood him in good need. Liane de Merode, the Cardinal's ward, is in love with Maurice Lambeaux of the Belgian army; naturally when Gaston Van Leys, a supposed compatriot, proposes, Liane repulses him. Baron von Spiegelman, commandant of the invading forces, sees Liane and is attracted by her beauty. Van Leys sees an opportunity for revenge and plans for the baron to meet the girl. Maurice, in disguise, returns and secretly weds Liane and prepares to leave with her. Liane falls into the hands of the baron and Maurice is captured. Through the aid of the Cardinal both manage to escape and leave Louvain, while the Cardinal remains to be near his people.

"The Wine Girl"

Carmel Myers Plays Italian Role in Bluebird Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

CARMEL MYERS and Kenneth Harlan have the leading roles in this Bluebird feature, supported by E. A. Warren and Rex Rosselli in well played character roles. Miss Myers again plays an Italian girl, and looks the part. The feature is a pleasing story of the California wine producing country and has many fine outdoor scenes. The story has action and a fair amount of suspense, also some humor. It is one of those romances between an uneducated but pretty country girl and a millionaire. But it is worked out with variations and is, as a whole, entertaining. It is light, without being a comedy drama, and is melodramatic without being unpleasant.

Harvey Gates wrote the story. Stuart Paton directed. The release date is March 25.

The story: Bona (Carmel Myers) is the niece of a wealthy but niggardly Italian vineyard owner of California. Frank Harris (Kenneth Harlan), an American millionaire, makes a bet that he can hold a job as a worker in the vineyard for a certain time. Chico, another Italian, in love with Bona, is jealous of Frank, but the American is more interested in the girl's cooking than in her beauty. He offers to take her to his mother's home as cook. She goes. There she has several encounters with American ways which make her decide to go back to her uncle's home. But Frank, who has fallen in love with her, tries to persuade her to stay. Then comes the news that her uncle has died and that she is an heiress. Chico complicates matters by trying to kidnap her. Later Chico is suspected of her uncle's murder. Then there is a surprise ending, when the uncle returns, after a trip to Italy to evade a blackhand gang, led by Chico. Chico is put in jail, and Bona is not an heiress at all. But Frank decides to marry her.

"The Answer"

Seven Part Triangle Play with Alma Rubens. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

SOCIALISM and socialists have their inning, and "The Answer," a recent Triangle release, shows them both at work and play. While this tremendous topic has heretofore been treated with various alleviations, past performances have generally missed the big message that was intended to be carried out. It is not muffed in this production, however, with the natural result that the picture is exceedingly interesting throughout. The action of the first two reels just rambles around before things finally settle down, after which action comes fast and results begin to be manifest.

The plot of the story concerns the rejuvenation of a woman, who has lived all her life in hatred of the idle rich, and who, when possessed of wealth herself, refuses to return to her former and simpler mode of living. The end comes with a shocking unexpectedness that greatly enhances the strength of the plot.

The direction is consistent and the cast works sincerely. Alma Rubens is the featured player, but her part is of secondary consideration. The role of Lorraine Van Allan offers few opportunities to the star, but she takes advantage of whatever presents itself. Chief honors should be divided between Joe King, as John Warfield, and Clair Anderson, as Goldie Shepard. These two players are the main characters, and the entire action of the plot evolves upon incidents in the lives of these two. Each gives a creditable performance and interprets their respective characters with sincere and appreciable emotion. Close upon their heels comes Francis MacDonald who, as Guido Garcia, Warfield's colleague, has an excellent make-up and entirely looks the part of the radical he represents. The photography is clear-cut and the lightings effectively show off the many interior settings. The beautiful exteriors are assets which could hardly be dispensed with.

The story: John Warfield, upon the leath of his father, receives as his only heritage a letter, telling him to carry on the work against the luxurious and wealthy classes which his father had started. Warfield meets Garcia Guido, an Italian radical, and together they continue the work. Goldie Shepard, a girl whose father had been killed by the automobile of Lorraine Van Allan, a society girl, joins the men in their work. Lorraine is anxious to do something to help the home for down-and-outers, established by Warfield and Guido, and when Warfield is summoned to England as heir to his mother's fortune, Lorraine is left in charge. Established in England, Warfield sends for Goldie and makes her his wife. She enters upon a life of luxury and ease, much to the hatred of Guido who has followed both, although unknown by them. When Warfield tells Goldie that she must give up the luxury she enjoys and return to her work, she rebels, and Warfield returns home alone. On board ship he gets a message, saying that his wife had been killed by Guido, who later had committed suicide. Arriving at the home he had founded, Warfield enters his work with a new fervor, assisted by Lorraine, whose value he now first appreciates.

"By Right of Purchase"

Select Picture Starring Norma Talmadge. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

NORMA TALMADGE, vivacious and captivating as before, makes her re-appearance on the screen in a modern drama which provides a suitable vehicle for her. "By Right of Purchase" is not new in its fundamentals of plot, being a story of the eternal triangle, with husband, wife, and lover struggling among themselves. But events are revealed in exceptional fashion. The entire production revels in lavishness and regal interior settings.

A reproduction of the recent Heroland benefit was called for, and the gaiety which prevailed during the festivities at the genuine affair, has been convincingly transferred to the screen with no loss of reality. There are several scenes taken aboard an ocean going yacht, which are rather effective, and the storm scene on the water strongly coincides with the rest of the production.

The story tells of the pact made by Margot Hughes, a butterfly of New York's society, and Chadwick Himes, a young millionaire. His wealth having purchased everything he had ever desired, Chadwick decides that he will get himself a wife by similar means. Margot having been the object of his desires for some time, an agreement is reached by both, whereby, after a period of two years Chadwick is to give Margot her freedom and a substantial fortune, should she fail to respond to his love. Dick Derwent, a ne'er do well society hanger-on, has long been a friend of Margot, and he sees in the marriage a chance for him to meet his own desires. As time passes, and his love having brought no response from his wife, Chadwick decides it is hopeless to expect the reciprocation of his affection. But when Margot imprudently finances a business project of Derment's, Chadwick comes to the decision that his wife shall respect his name. When confronted with evidence of her imprudence, Margot realizes her love for her husband but is given no opportunity to show it. Chadwick tells her he shall leave the house to her, and leave on a yachting trip. Margot at first decides to leave her home but on second thought goes to the boat, getting there ahead of her husband. Chadwick, returning home, discovers the farewell note left by his wife and realizes he has lost her. But on entering his stateroom on the boat, he finds her there and both rejoice in their new-found love.

Sunshine before the storm.

Miss Talmadge has long been recognized as a star of the first water, and she continues to live up to her enviable reputation. She is afforded many opportunities to wear an exceptional assortment of gowns and wraps which greatly enhance her type of beauty. Eugene O'Brien again plays opposite her, in the part of Chadwick Himes, which character suits him admirably. William Courtleigh, Jr., is seen as Dick Derwent, a role of few opportunities. Charles Wellesley, Ida Darling, and Florence Billings complete the cast of principals, under the direction of Charles Miller.

"The Hillcrest Mystery"

Latest Irene Castle-Pathe Picture Another Detective Story. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

OF A STYLE somewhat similar to others Mrs. Castle has played in, this offering is a detective story entertaining enough for the average audience. The heroine is not herself a detective, but she is instrumental in solving the mystery of her father's murder, a crime of which her lover is suspected.

Settings, photography and acting are up to the standard of the series. The story, written by Ouida Bergere and directed by George Fitzmaurice, is well worked out. It is not as full of opportunity for the star as some of the previous vehicles and for that reason will perhaps not please her followers so much as the others in which her dancing ability and her wardrobe of striking clothes were more in evidence.

In the supporting cast are J. H. Gilmour, Ralph Kellard and Wyndham Standing. Astra studios produced the picture.

The story: Marion Sterling, daughter of a wealthy shipbuilder, is in love with her father's secretary, Gordon Brett, but her father wishes her to marry Hugo Smith, his partner. The night after Marion's birthday party, her father is found murdered. Circumstances seem to prove Gordon guilty and he is placed under arrest. Later the family lawyer is killed as he is reading Sterling's will. Marion discovers her father's partner and several companions in the trunk room of her home. There they have a signal station and send messages to German ships. They are proved to be spies, and Gordon is really in the secret service.

"La Tosca"

Lasky-Paramount Production Starring Pauline Frederick. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

VICTORIEN SARDOU'S immortal "La Tosca" has been visualized upon the screen by Pauline Frederick, and it must be hailed as a truly artistic production. As pictures go this should prove no ordinary attraction for the many who witnessed the stage version, with Mme. Bernhardt in the stellar role, the film version should excite exceptional interest.

Tracing the career of the opera singer, Floria Tosca, from her first meeting with Mario, the young mural painter, we see them in the power of the tyrant police chief of Rome, Scarpia, and finally their death after having been betrayed by Scarpia. Each incident follows its predecessor in consistent fashion and the action moves along without a halt. There is no lack of suspense and as the tense situations arise and disappear, new complexities come forward to take their places.

Costume plays, as a rule, have proven more of a detriment to the industry than an asset. Exception must be made in this case for the entire production—staging, interiors and exteriors, costumes, etc.—has been so carefully supervised that what minor deficiencies may be found must be overlooked. The direction of Edward Jose is exceptionally consistent and no fault can be found with his interpretation of the plot. Pauline Frederick rightfully earns new laurels as La Tosca and rises to heights of dramatic capability probably unsurpassed. There can be no gainsaying the fact that La Tosca is one of her best characterizations. Frank Losee presents a forceful appearance as the tyrant Scarpia, and Jules Raucourt enacts the role of Mario, Tosca's lover, in equally acceptable fashion. Henry Hebert and W. M. Forestelle complete the cast of principals.

The story: Mario, beloved of La Tosca, favorite opera singer of Rome, assists his friend Angelotti to escape from prison. Mario exacts a vow from Tosca to keep secret what she knows.

Scarpia, chief of police of Rome, suspects Mario and arrests him. Mario refuses to reveal the hiding place of his friend and is subjected to torture. Unable to bear the cries of her lover Tosca reveals the hiding place and Mario is taken to prison. Scarpia, planning revenge, orders Mario to be executed but Tosca beguiles him into an alleviation of the order. The firing squad are ordered to put only powder into the guns and Mario is informed that the execution is but a fake. Tosca makes the best of an opportunity and kills Scarpia, but when she enters the yard and finds the dead body of her lover, she realizes Scarpia's treachery and plunges to her death on the rocks below the prison walls.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

Final Episode of Vitagraph Serial. "The Reckoning." Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

AT LAST this great serial, which has kept many an audience literally on pins and needles throughout each episode, comes to a fitting conclusion. It is unnecessary to say that Black Jack, the villain, meets his death, but before he departs this life, the authors have seen fit to have him do something really human.

In the previous episode, Black Jack is seen with Blake's little child, having rescued the baby from its burning home. In the cabin which had served as a refuge for the outlaw, a mountain lion finds the child. Jack enters and engages in a fight with the best. The battle ends with the beast the possessor of a chunk of Jack's shoulder. Weak from loss of blood, Jack foresees his end, and takes the child back to the Blake home. Mrs. Blake finds the child and hurries to the prison, in time to halt the lynching of two former pals of the outlaw, who had been accused of kidnapping the child. Black Jack comes up and confesses his crime, and his two pals are released. Blake is grateful, at least for the saving of his child, and offers his hand. Jack refuses to shake but only asks to be allowed to say his goodby to the child. After which the outlaw departs the mortal world, and Blake and his wife return to their home, free from future harm at Black Jack's hands. Finis.

Writes Book on Pictures

"Motion Picture Education," the latest book on the subject of motion pictures, written by Ernest A. Dench, treats of every phase of their actual and possible educational value.

Beginning with a chapter which answers the question, "Do motion pictures interfere with the education of the child?" the author shows how pictures may aid in developing the child's mind, not only by opening up new fields of experience, but also in teaching him the common school subjects of reading and writing and 'rithmatic.

Mr. Dench then points out the value of pictures in the higher education, bringing history, great literature, opera stories, sermons, even the Bible, to the great mass of people. He shows how medical science may be aided by motion pictures, how social hygiene is taught—mentioning the "Better Babies" picture campaign and the "Fighting Infantile Paralysis" film—and how agriculture and other industries may be studied.

Other interesting chapters deal with the technical side of taking pictures, trick photography, etc. The book is written in a readable fashion and is not too detailed or weighty to be entertaining.

The book is published by The Standard Publishing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio. Its price is $2.00.

World Gets Director Adolfi

John G. Adolfi, the director whose most recent big picture is "Queen of the Sea," which he wrote and directed for the Fox Film Corporation with Annette Kellermann as the star, has signed a contract with World-Pictures and will shortly begin the direction of a production for World in which Barbara Castleton will be starred.

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Foursquare and Superfeatures Join Hands

Latter Will Have Exclusive Distribution of Former's Product in Canada Hereafter, Metro Contract Having Been Dissolved

FOURSQUARE PICTURES and Superfeatures, Ltd., of Canada, have joined forces in a campaign which bears every evidence of having an important bearing upon the motion picture situation north of the border.

By the terms of a contract drawn a few days ago, in which M. H. Hoffman of Foursquare Pictures and Messrs. Williams and Stevens of Superfeatures were the participants, the entire Foursquare product is to be handled in the dominion by Superfeatures.

The contract which has existed between Foursquare and the Metro Film Service of Canada has been dissolved and in the future it will be Foursquare and Superfeatures.

"I regard the arrangement as one of distinct advantage," said Mr. Hoffman.

"Superfeatures believes, as does our company, that it is the exhibitor and the public who should have first consideration; that only by providing superior photoplays and booking them at reasonable prices can a business be constructed which has for its foundation the element of permanency."

Mr. Stevens, who is general manager of Superfeatures, said:

"Our concern is young, but it is the leader of the independents in the field. Its policy is the consideration—first and at all times—for the rights of the exhibitor. I have known Mr. Hoffman for many years and his methods of getting fine photoplays and distributing them according to methods which are essentially business-like are those which I approve and endeavor to practice."

Poster used in Japan for the Universal serial, "The Voice on the Wire."

Gets Rights to Selig Melodrama

A deal has just been consummated between William H. Selig and Nathan Hirsh of the Pioneer Film Corporation whereby the Pioneer obtains the negative for "The Still Alarm," which was produced by the Selig Polyscope Company.

It has long been a question in film circles as to who would buy the film rights to this melodrama, which ran for over a year at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, in which Harry Lacy played the star part. Producers have all agreed that the play was particularly suited for the screen and it remained for Selig, producer of many big productions, to obtain the rights.

All foreign territory has already been sold and the entire United States and Canada, with the exception of New York state and northern New Jersey, will be sold on a state rights basis. The latter territory will be retained by the Pioneer, which will exploit it in addition to their other features, "Cold Deck," with William S. Hart; "To-day," with Florence Reed; "The Mad Lover," with Robert Warwick; "Redemption," featuring Evelyn Nesbit; "The Submarine Eye," with Barbara Tennant; "The Garden of Allah," with Helen Ware, and "The City of Purple Dreams."

In speaking of the distribution of "The Still Alarm" in his territory, Mr. Hirsh said he had many novel ideas. Chief among these is the idea of donating 10 per cent of the receipts to the Firemen's Benevolent Fund in the towns in which the production plays. It will be seen that this will be an incentive to have the entire fire department work for the exhibitor who books the production.

Gerard Play Goes Well

The success of the Gerard photoplay, "My Four Years in Germany," at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York, has exceeded all anticipation and seats are stated to be available eight weeks ahead.

Big Deals Are Made in Foreign Rights

Copenhagen Film Gets Scandinavian Control of All Select, Goldwyn and Balboa Pictures

HARRY G. KOSCH, advisory counsel for Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin of General Enterprises, Inc., announces that he has been appointed New York representative for a co-operative body of foreign buyers recently organized for the purpose of dealing in world rights.

Kosch reports an unusual state of activity in this branch of the industry. On behalf of John Olson & Company of Copenhagen, Denmark, the General Enterprises, Inc., attorney has negotiated a contract whereby this firm acquires the Scandinavian rights to the entire Select output.

Mr. Kosch also acted in a similar capacity for Olson & Company in closing contracts for all of the productions made by Goldwyn for the same territory. In addition to these contracts, negotiations were consummated between Mr. Kosch and Nick Holde, acting for the Balboa Company, whereby a complete series of Balboa pictures will be distributed in Scandinavia by the organization which Mr. Kosch represents.

Another important deal involving the countries in Scandinavia, Finland and Holland has been consummated between Kosch and the Trans-Russian Film Company which gives the latter firm the right to distribute ten special pictures of the Frohman Amusement Company. These pictures are "Body and Soul," "The Woman in 47," "Then I'll Come Back," "What Happened in 22," "The Witching Hour," "God's Man," "The Rainbow," "The Accomplice," "The Song of Six Pence" and "The Conquest of Cannan."

In addition to these activities the General Enterprises, Inc., attorney is also handling the foreign sales for Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin's various state rights productions, among which are "The Warrior," "Mother," "The Liar" and "The Crucible of Life."

"Frozen Warning" Sells Fast

H. A. Spanuth, president of the Commonwealth Pictures Corporation, who is touring the south, reports business good. He has sold his picture, "The Frozen Warning," featuring the great skater, Charlotte, to the first man in each territory to whom he has shown it.

He has closed the following states: Ohio, McMahon & Jackson, Cincinnati; Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida, the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Richmond; Louisiana and Mississippi, E. V. Richards, Jr.

Mr. Spanuth is now in Dallas, Tex., to sell the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. This leaves but five territories unsold and that is because Mr. Spanuth has been unable to cover the ground any sooner.

Mr. Spanuth is anxious to clean up all the territory so as to devote all of his time to another project.

Two New Films Announced

Harry Rapf, the independent producer, anounces the release of "The Struggle Everlasting" April 1, and the forthcoming release of "The Accidental Honeymoon," April 10. Both pictures are state rights productions.

"The Struggle Everlasting" stars Florence Reed. Miss Reed is supported by a typical Broadway cast, including Milton Sills and Irving Cummings. This picture was originally shown at the Forty-fourth street theatre, New York.

"The Accidental Honeymoon" is Robert Warwick's last production prior to his enlistment in the army. It was written and directed by Leonce Perret, and offers Elaine Hammerstein as support for Captain Warwick.

When the captain notified Mr. Rapf, who is president of the Robert Warwick Film Corporation, of his intention to serve his country, arrangements were made for the dissolution of the company, with which Warwick had a certified contract calling for $1,200 weekly, with 65 weeks longer to run. As the star was also under contract with A. H. Woods to appear in a stage play, it is estimated that he left a salary aggregating $60,000 a year to serve his country for $22 a week.

"Zongar" a Post-Easter Release

"Zongar," Bernarr Macfadden's athletic melodrama in five reels, will not be generally shown to the motion picture public till after Easter.

Greater New York and New England rights of the thriller have already been disposed of, but negotiations as to the Chicago rights and those in the Northwest are still in progress.

Mr. Macfadden, by the way, is a Western man, and for years conducted an athletic academy in Chicago as well as a physical culture sanatorium in Battle Creek. After removing to New York he established the Physical Culture Magazine, attaining a circulation of 150,000 copies monthly, a large proportion of them in the Middle West.

Macfadden has kept up to the times not only by his "Zongar" feature, but by starting the Physical Culture Screen Magazine, a monthly review of outdoor sports and athletic events picturized in films.

Foursquare to Pay Bonuses

Executives of Foursquare Pictures, distributors of "The Eagle's Eye" and other features, have decided to establish a system of bonuses for the benefit of their exchange managers and salesmen.

Peggy Shanor, new competitor for honors in the film world, has an important role in "The House of Hate."

Reproduction of half-page mat to be used in exploiting "The Blue Bird." Mats are furnished free to both exhibitors and newspapers by the producing company, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Solution of Projection Problems

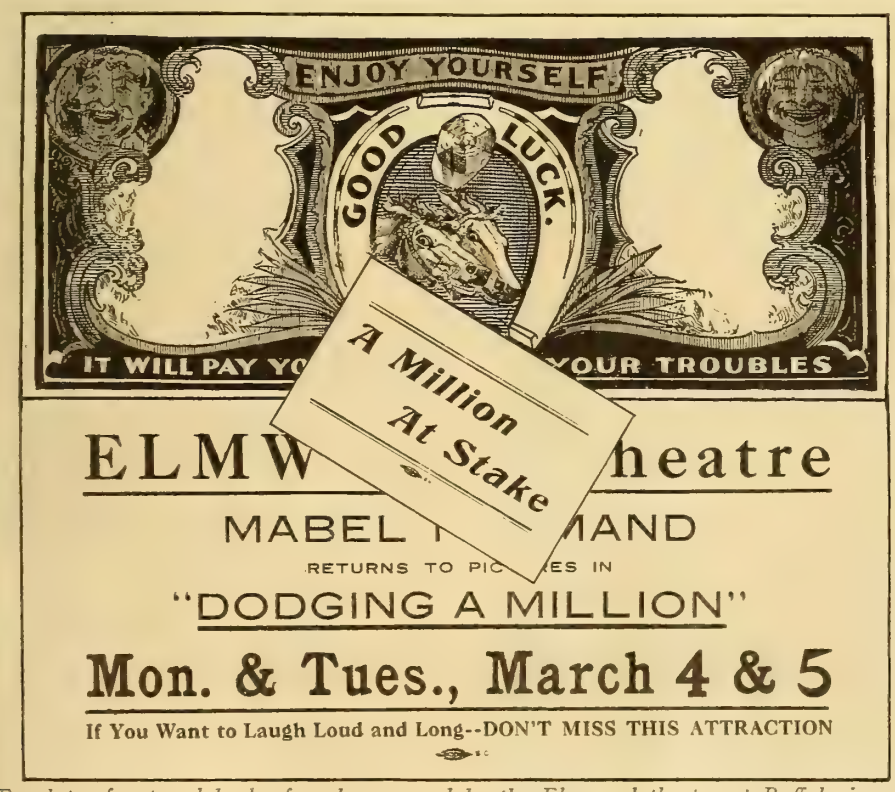
HOW TO GET THE BEST RESULTS TOLD IN DETAIL

Treat Films As Own Property, Says Smith

MOTOGRAPHY Writer Relates Experiences Showing the Importance of a Keener Realization of This Fact

By J. Wesley Smith

THE last showing of the evening was well under way when I looked out at the screen. The picture did not seem to me to have the brilliancy of the previous running and at first I was at a loss to account for this, as on looking at the arc it was burning as fine as could be.



Soon the second machine took up the picture and while machine Number 1 was still, I went over to see if I could locate the trouble. The lens was perfectly clean and carbons trimmed correctly. Then upon looking at the condensors, I found them to be covered with a fine white powder.

I asked Mr. Operator about this and he said he always cleaned them perfectly before starting for the evening. How much better it would be if after a reel had been run and the machine rethreaded that the condensors be wiped off. By doing this the last reel of the evening would be just as good as the first.

The picture had come for a three days' showing and this was the last night. The machines were equipped with 2,000 foot magazines, while the film had been received in 1,000 foot reels. I happened to know that on each and every reel there had been a five foot leader at the start reading, "Part One," "Part Two," etc., and at the end of each reel another leader reading, "End of Part One," "End of Part Two," etc.

The only reason why these had been put on was to help the operators and of course in using 2,000 foot reels some of these had to be cut off in patching the reels together. A couple of these leaders had become misplaced. I do not like to say thrown away or lost, and there was no identification left for the next operator who received them, except the writing on the black leader.

Mr. Operator, you received the film in the best possible condition, and so fixed that it was easy for you to run. Why not return it in the same condition as received? If you own an automobile and rent it to some one for a few days, and it is returned to you with the radiator missing, or the spare tires on the rear gone, you would certainly expect to be paid for them, would't you? I can sum up the above in just a few words. Treat any and all films received as if they were your own property.

Envelope, front and back of enclosure used by the Elmwood theatre at Buffalo in connection with the exhibition of "Dodging a Million."

Petrova Swamped with Mail

The item of correspondence is a large one in the daily life of Mme. Olga Petrova, whose working hours are more than filled already with the details of supervising the productions in which she appears as the star. The Polish actress receives at her studios each day on an average of three hundred letters, which does not take into account the numerous communications directed to her which are received at the offices of the Petrova Picture Company.

There are innumerable requests for photographs, autographed letters, inquiries as to how one may "break into moving pictures," offers of scenarios and letters seeking advice and assistance on matters both business and personal. The star has made it a rule to answer every letter personally and for this purpose maintains two secretaries.

"Life Mask" Gets Premiere

Following the custom established with the release of the initial Petrova production, "Daughter of Destiny," a special private premiere was given the third picture, "The Life Mask," last week in New York and followed by a luncheon tendered to members of the trade press.

"The Life Mask" was directed by Frank Crane, producer of Goldwyn's masterpiece, "Thais," with Mary Garden, and was written by the anonymous author of the famous mystery story, "To M. L. G."

The picture is an engrossing melodrama and an entirely new type of vehicle for the display of the Polish star's talents. The production was made at the Petrova Studios in New York and at Miami, Florida.

Pastor Adopts Pictures

The Presbyterian Church of Carlinville, Ill., approves of moving pictures so much that it has made them a regular part of the Sunday services. Rev. Osborn, the pastor, says: "Our aim is to reach more effectively a greater number of people with worthwhile messages."

Notes of the Industry In General

BRIEF NEWS OF NEW YORK IN PARTICULAR

THE Metropolitan Opera House, New York, will be a picture house this summer. The board of trustees has yielded to the silent drama, and beginning the first week in May and continuing until the first day of October, S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rialto and Rivoli theatres, will conduct screen entertainment in the theatre whose name is emblematic of all that is sacred in the world of music.

Arrangements were concluded between Mr. Rothapfel and the Metropolitan trustees following several weeks of negotiations. The fact that thousands of dollars will accrue to the government through war taxes and the probability that Mr. Rothapfel will stage one of the greatest patriotic motion pictures ever shown on the screen were important considerations that induced the trustees to throw open their doors.

✣ ✣ ✣

Friends of the late Stanley V. Mastbaum among exhibitors and exchange men in Philadelphia and New York decided at a meeting the other day to raise funds for a memorial.

The following committee was named: Lawrence D. Beggs, chairman and treasurer; Abe L. Einstein, secretary; Albert Greenfield, Abe Sablosky, Charles Segal, John McGuirk, J. D. Cunningham and George R. Meeker.

The late Mr. Mastbaum evinced the deepest interest in affairs at the Eagleville sanitarium at Philadelphia and his purse was always open to aid those unfortunate enough to be compelled to go there, consequently the committee felt, after considering many suggestions for a memorial, that the erection of a small building there would be just what he would approve of if anyone had suggested, for instance, honoring him on his birthday. The memorial will take this form as a result.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Strand Theatre, New York, was the scene of activities of an unusual nature one night last week. Instead of a theatre in which pictures are exhibited, it was used for the making of a picture, several scenes of a new photoplay being filmed after the midnight audience had been dismissed.

There were evening clad supers enough to fill the entire lower floor and boxes. The Strand symphony orchestra of fifty pieces and the entire uniformed staff, as well as a few of the executives, were retained to play the parts they enact every day.

Even Harold Edel, the managing director, played his role, which, in this instance, consisted of meeting a star in his office, making a speech to the audience introducing her and helping her to her automobile. Mr. Edel says it is much easier to be a regular manager than to make believe that you are one on the screen.

✣ ✣ ✣

Quick to respond in behalf of every worthy charity, stars of the stage and screen in New York contributed no less than $6,000 to the Catholic campaign for war funds the other day. This fact was announced through William Fox.

Among those who responded to the call were Roscoe Arbuckle, Madge Kennedy, Norma Talmadge, Harry Willarde, Alice Joyce, Richard Stanton, Arthur L. Selig, Hobart Henley, Travers Vale, June Caprice, Florence Deshon and several girls of the choruses of musical shows.

Mr. Fox has received a telegram from Douglas Fairbanks in which the star offers to bring his entire Wild West show from Los Angeles to New York in behalf of the campaign.

Mr. Fox immediately wired acceptance of the offer and the Fairbanks aggregation will arrive here to make good its pledge as soon as the Liberty Loan drive is brought to a close.

✣ ✣ ✣

William Fox, the producer, and Virginia Pearson, the star, were the guests of honor at a meeting of the New York Theatre Club in the Hotel Astor last week. Mr. Fox was the principal speaker. Jane and Katherine Lee, the Fox "Baby Grands," presented an original skit.

✣ ✣ ✣

This is the story of an actress with three names. She started off as Greta Ahrbin because that was her real name. Little Greta first saw the light in Chicago and became a child actress. The manager of the Bush Temple stock company said Greta Ahrbin was "too odd" and suggested the name of Gretchen Hartman.

As Gretchen Hartman she joined Biograph. William Fox then starred her as Gretchen Hartman, but one of Mr. Fox's advisers considered the name "too German" and lo! a new Russian actress was born overnight—Sonia Markova.

Now Sonia Markova has put her pretty foot down and decided that her own name is the prettiest and that never more shall producers or managers change it. So—in future she will be known as Greta Ahrbin.

A big moment in the third special vehicle starring Madam Olga Petrova, "The Life Mask," showing one of the many elaborate sets which are a feature of the production.

✣ ✣ ✣

John R. McIlheran of Dallas, Texas, for eight years prominently identified with exchange interests of the southwest, has been appointed manager of General Film's Dallas exchange. For several years he has been in the employ of the Consolidated Film & Supply Company of Dallas as manager of its New Orleans and El Paso exchanges and more lately as manager of the Bluebird feature department of the Dallas office. For more than a year he was assistant manager in the Mutual Dallas exchange.

✣ ✣ ✣

Manager Ben Cronk of the Allen Theatre, Toronto, has been issuing small pocket calendars which bear the names of the attractions for the current and next months. The calendars possess the appearance of a "date guide" with the addition of names of the productions in red ink across the spaces for each week. On the reverse side of the card are pictures of Elsie Ferguson, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Marguerite Clark, together with several descriptive sentences about the theatre.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Toronto Daily News sprung a neat surprise on film fans recently when it came out with a "Photoplay Calendar" as a regular feature of its dramatic section. This calendar contained thumbnail announcements for each day of the following week for twenty-seven of the leading theatres. The names and addresses of the theatres appeared in one tabulated column and the announcements were made under the days of the week in six other columns.

✣ ✣ ✣

F. Flarity, whose appointment as manager of the Albany General Film exchange was announced recently, has been transferred to Buffalo to succeed E. J. Hayes, resigned. He has been succeeded at Albany by C. R. Osborne, another well known exchange man, who resigned as manager of the First National Exhibitors' exchange at Boston to return to General Film. Previously he had been employed as a salesman out of the General Film Boston and Wilkes-Barre exchanges.

✣ ✣ ✣

Among General Film's recent additions to the sales department is that of James B. Kelly, known for years to exhibitors of the southwest. Mr. Kelly becomes special representative in Texas, with Dallas as his headquarters. Mr. Kelly formerly was sales manager for the Consolidated Film and Supply Company in Atlanta, in which city he was active during the last seven years. Before that he was with General Film in the New Orleans territory.

✣ ✣ ✣

Oscar Spirescu, conductor of the Strand symphony orchestra, is rejoicing over having heard news by cable from Europe that his four children are safe. This is the first Mr. Spirescu has heard regarding his children for more than two years in spite of earnest efforts to obtain word from them. The cable, which was sent from Paris, does not state where the children are. When Mr. Spirescu last heard they were in Roumania, the home of their parents.

✣ ✣ ✣

Later developments in the resignation of S. L. Rothapfel as head of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit show that the Rialto and Rivoli manager has entirely severed his connection with the distributing concern, and has also given up his New York franchise on the new series of Chaplin comedies. The franchise was sold to the Mark Realty Corporation, which owns the Strand theatre, and the first of the new Chaplins was shown at the Strand on March 31.

✣ ✣ ✣

Charles Berman of Montreal, formerly in control of the World franchise in Canada, announces that he is the Canadian representative of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.

✣ ✣ ✣

George Moran, a well known vaudeville man of Canada, has been appointed special representative of Superfeatures, Ltd., Montreal and Toronto, distributors of Foursquare and other pictures.

Title of Petrova Play Changed to "Tempered Steel"

From the offices of the Petrova Picture Company it was announced last week that the title of the fourth special production in which Madame Olga Petrova is to appear has been changed. Up to the present time this picture has been known as "The Great Star." This, however, was but a working title. The caption under which the feature is to be published is "Tempered Steel." This is the Polish actress' own choice and was decided upon only after two weeks' consideration by herself of various titles submitted by the different members of her organization.

"Tempered Steel" fits exactly the character of the production, inasmuch as the play deals with the terrific nerve strain and suspense which the leading character of Lucille Caruthers, portrayed by the star, undergoes in her struggle to work out her own destiny in the face of strong parental opposition.

The story is from the pen of George Middleton and was written exclusively for Mme. Petrova. Mr. Middleton is the author of "Polly With a Past," now playing to capacity audiences at the Belasco Theatre, New York.

The production has been directed by Ralph Ince. It contains a notable cast of screen players, prominent among whom are Thomas Holding, J. Herbert Frank, E. J. Radcliffe, Matilda Brundage and Edith Hinckle.

PATENT FOR SALE—The only moving picture machine suited for farm homes—endorsed by big producers—$5,000. Address MHS, Motography.

Jack Pickford in "His Majesty, Bunker Bean," his forthcoming Paramount production.

Latest News of Chicago

OF INTEREST TO ALL THE TRADE

WALTER L. HILL, publicity manager at the Famous Players-Lasky office, announces that the company has leased Orchestra Hall, the big Michigan Avenue house, for the summer, during which time Paramount and Artcraft releases will be given their premiere showing with all the embellishments necessary to put the pictures over in an impressive manner. A feature will be a large orchestra. Each picture probably will get a week's run. The first picture is expected to be "The Blue Bird."

✣ ✣ ✣

The Central Film Company was visited last week by several well known men from out of town. Among them were George H. Hines of the Auditorium theatre, South Bend, Ind., Carl Mueller of the Spencer theatre at Rock Island, Ill., Aaron Hoffman of the Lawrence Weber Photoplay Company, author of "Friendly Enemies," now playing at the new A. H. Woods theatre, and Tom Gilliam of the Centennial theatre at Warsaw, Ind.

✣ ✣ ✣

William J. Flynn, former chief of the secret service, arrived in Chicago last week on the first part of a journey which will take him to the west coast. From Chicago Chief Flynn went to Kansas City.

He will visit the leading cities to learn of the reception "The Eagle's Eye," the patriotic serial which he supervised, is receiving and the effect it is having. The chief will not appear at theatres, but will visit the exchanges handling this Wharton production. In Chicago he conferred with E. J. Flaherty of the Hoffman-Foursquare exchange.

Chief Flynn had just received word that the United States Government Committee on Foreign Information and the British Consulate in Mexico have asked for the use of the serial to combat German propaganda in Mexico. Many patriotic and educational societies in this country are aiding the production in its work of showing the methods used to ferret out and check German plots.

✣ ✣ ✣

"Ruggles of Red Gap," "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," with Mary MacLane, and other subjects founded on books meet with success, especially in the higher class neighborhoods, reports Phil H. Solomon, salesman at the George Kleine exchange. A reading public likes to see what it has read interpreted on the screen in the experience of exhibitors Mr. Solomon deals with.

✣ ✣ ✣

Manager Shaver of the Dearborn theatre, Division street and Dearborn avenue, publishes in his programs the entire cast of characters for each picture. This is a convenience for those patrons who like to remember who played the minor roles in support of the star. It also serves to give credit to any actor who does good work even in a small part as well as the leading players.

✣ ✣ ✣

E. H. Duffy, manager of the Chicago branch of the Mutual Film Corporation, was severely injured in an automobile collision last week. Mr. Duffy was riding in a taxicab when another taxi crashed into it. He was taken to the Ravenswood hospital where it was found that his collar bone had been broken and his hip badly lacerated. He may not be back to the office for several weeks.

✣ ✣ ✣

Joseph Skirboll, district manager of Metro, has resigned to take charge of the First National Exhibitors' office at Pittsburgh and to manage the string of Rowland and Clark theatres there. Mr. Skirboll has been district manager of Metro at Chicago, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Des Moines and St. Louis in the last three years.

✣ ✣

The Allen Film Corporation will combine its general and Cook County offices in the City Hall Square Building, where the general offices are located, closing the Cook County offices in the Consumers building. It is reported that a deal is in progress whereby Kleine will take over the Allen Company's pictures.

Bessie Barriscale in a scene from her third Paralta play, "Blindfolded."

✣ ✣ ✣

"The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," the Jewel feature produced by Rupert Julian, which began its Chicago run at the Zeigfelt theatre March 23, was screened at the annual banquet of the Chicago Association of Commerce and was received with unusual enthusiasm.

✣ ✣ ✣

C. W. Bunn, Chicago manager of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., announces that nearly one-third of his quota of booking days has been obtained. About 100 days have been contracted for by the exhibitors of Chicago and Northern Illinois.

✣ ✣ ✣

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, Inc., will soon leave for his customary trip of inspection at the studios in Santa Barbara.

✣ ✣ ✣

A. E. Rousseau, secretary of Pathe Exchange, Inc., passed through Chicago the other day with Harold Lloyd, Pathe comedian. Mr. Rousseau is on a tour of inspection. Mr. Lloyd is going to Los Angeles to resume work at the west coast studios.

✣ ✣ ✣

Aaron J. Jones of Jones, Linick & Schaefer is spending his vacation at French Lick Springs, Indiana, in company with Marcus Loew, the New York theatrical magnate, and Judge Joseph Sabath of Chicago.

✣ ✣ ✣

Ralph T. Kettering, general representative of Jones, Linick and Schaefer, has returned to his work after a vacation at West Baden Springs, Ind.

✣ ✣ ✣

C. R. Seelye, vice president and general manager of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., spent the week-end in Chicago on business.

✣ ✣ ✣

C. W. Mott of the New York office of Pathe, has been transferred to the Chicago office. He will cover the Indiana territory.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edward Mordue has been appointed manager of the Standard Film Company, succeeding F. B. Rodgers, who has gone to Pathe.

✣ ✣ ✣

R. O. Proctor, manager of the Pathe office, has returned from New York, where he discussed the Pathe policy with Paul Brunet, the new vice president and general manager, and other executives.

Walter L. Hill, local publicity manager for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, announces that Walter E. Greene, managing director in charge of distribution, has written to Cal Devoll, conductor of the orchestra at the Palace theatre in Racine, Wis., asking him to send a copy of his new song "Come Back Little Blue Bird." Mr. Greene contemplates using it in connection with the Artcraft picturization of Maeterlincks's famous allegorical play.

✣ ✣ ✣

Watterson R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, has returned from New York where he went to see "Tarzan of the Apes" for the purpose of deciding upon appropriate methods of bringing out the striking and exotic scenic features through effective color printing. Mr. Rothacker's initial order for supplying the First National Exhibitors' Circuit with positives of "Tarzan" exceeds by fully 25 prints any order that has been placed heretofore on a first-run feature.

✣ ✣ ✣

John Bav, formerly in the technical department of the American Film Company, Inc., has joined the colors and will be assigned to the cinematographic division.

✣ ✣ ✣

Max Goldstein, manager of the Famous Players-Lasky office, has gone to New York for a conference with his superiors.

✣ ✣ ✣

M. F. Baker, proprietor of the Grand theatre at Keokuk, Ia., was a visitor at the Paramount office last week. He reported that business was picking up.

✣ ✣ ✣

Braco Grenelle, formerly of the Rothacker camera department and now in the cinematographic division of the army, visited friends at the plant the other day while en route to New York on a special assignment.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edward W. Johnson has joined the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., as a salesman. He formerly was with Pathe.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Rosewood Theatre, owned by A. Zillinger, has installed a Simplex Type S projection machine, purchased from the Exhibitors' Supply Company.

Louise Glaum as she appears in her first Paralta play, "An Alien Enemy."

Complete Record of Current Films

BROUGHT UP TO DATE EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000
D Through Fire and Water..... 2,000
D A Bushranger's Stategy..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Broadway Star Features

D School and Schools (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D The Rathskeller and the Rose (O. Henry Series) 2,000
C-D By Injunction (O. Henry Series)... 2,000
D The Song and the Sergeant (O. Henry Series) 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2,000
C A Woman 2,000
C The Tramp 2,000
C His New Job..... 2,000

Essanay Comedies

C Slippery Slim and the Fortune Teller. 1,000
C Slippery Slim and the Green-Eyed Monster 1,000
C When Macbeth Came to Snakeville.. 1,000
C Slippery Slim and His Tombstone... 1,000
C Slippery Slim and the Impersonator.. 1,000
C When Slippery Slim Met the Champion 1,000
C Snakeville's New Waitress..... 1,000
C Slippery Slim's Dilemma..... 1,000
C-D The Rebellion 2,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1,000
C Marooned 1,000
C Sherman Was Right..... 1,000
C What Will Happen Next?..... 1,000
C Which Was Lucky?..... 1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D Thief or Angel..... 2,000
C-D Rebellion 2,000
C-D A Boy-Built City 2,000
C-D I'm a Man..... 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000
C A Hash House Romance..... 1,000
C The Hod Carrier's Million..... 1,000

Blue Ridge Dramas (Ned Finley)

D The Return of O'Garry..... 2,000
D Mountain Law 2,000
D The Raiders of Sunset Gap..... 2,000

Ebony Comedies

C A Black Sherlock Holmes..... 1,000
C Spying the Spy..... 1,000
C The Porters 1,000
C A Milk Fed Hero..... 1,000
C Busted Romance 1,000
C Spooks 1,000

Clover Comedies

C The Wooing of Coffee Cake Kate.... 1,000
C Rip Roaring Rivals..... 1,000

Export and Import Film Co. (Inc.)

D "Why—The Bolsheviki" 5,000

Mutual Program

Sunday

3-31 Screen Telegram 1,000

Tuesday

4-2 She Couldn't Grow Up (Billie Rhodes) 1,000

Wednesday

4-3 Screen Telegram 1,000

Universal Program

12-15 Beloved Jim (Priscilla Dean)... 5,000
12-24 Bucking Broadway (Harry Carey) 5,000
12-31 The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson) 5,000
1-7 The Wolf and His Mate (Louise Lovely) 5,000
1-14 Hell's Crater (Grace Cunard).. 5,000
1-21 Madame Spy (Jack Mulhall)... 5,000
1-28 The Phantom Riders (Harry Carey) 5,000
2-4 Painted Lips (Louise Lovely).. 5,000
2-11 New Love for Old (Ella Hall) 5,000
2-16 Universal Screen Magazine, No. 58 1,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,000
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,000
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,000
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon-Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine..Bluebird Photoplays 5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,000
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co..... 5,000
Span of Life.....Joseph F. Lee 12,000
Spoilers, The..Sherman Elliott Corp 5,000
Strife.....Jaxon Film Corp.
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....Pathe Exchange
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....A. Kay Co.
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,000
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,000
Trip Through China, A..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,000
Trooper 44..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,000
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....A. Kay Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea .....Universal Film Co.
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Arrow 7,000
The Barrier.....Rex Beach 9,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Charter 2,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Corona Cinema 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
The Woman and the Beast...Graphic 5,000
The Bar Sinister.....Frank Hall 9,000
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000

The Submarine Eye..Submarine Film
The Spirit of '76.....Goldstein 12,000
Should She Obey?.....Arizona
Uncle Sam Awake...Rubel Lawrence 5,000
War As It Really Is.....
.....Donald C. Thompson 7,000
Warning, The.....Photo Drama Co
Warrior, The.....General Enterprises 7,000
What of Your Boy?.....
.....Cameragraph Film Co.
Whither Thou Goest.....
.....Klotz & Streimer, Inc.
Who Knows?.....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Who's Your Neighbor?.....
.....Overland Film Corp.
Witching Hour, The.....
.....Frohman Amusement Co. 7,000
Woman Who Dared, The.....
.....Ultra Pictures Corp. 7,000
Who Shall Take My Life.Selig Special

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-18 Blue Blazes Rawden (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000
2-25 Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks) 5,000
4-1 The Tiger Man (Wm. S. Hart) 5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

2-18 Hands Down (Ruth Clifford).. 5,000
2-25 The Rough Lover (Franklyn Farnum) 5,000
3-4 The Girl in the Dark (Carmel Myers) 5,000

Fox Film Corporation

Released Week of

3-10 The Debt of Honor (Peggy Hyland) 5,000
3-17 Woman and the Law..... 7,000
3-17 The Devil's Wheel (Gladys Brockwell) 5,000
3-24 A Daughter of France (Virginia Pearson) 5,000
3-24 A Self-Made Lady (Sunshine Com.) 2,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

3-10 The Floor Below (Com-Dram). 6,000
3-24 The Splendid Sinner (Mary Garden) 6,000
4-7 The Danger Game (Madge Kennedy) 6,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf..... 7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs..... 8,000
Empty Pockets 7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Silent Witness (Gertrude McCoy) 6,000
The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick).... 7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy).. 5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures) 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey).. 6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson).... 6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell). 5,000

Jester Comedies

Feb. The Recruit (Twede Dan)..... 1,000
Mar. His Golden Romance (Twede Dan) 1,000
Apr. All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)... 1,000

King Bee Comedies

12-1 The Bandmaster (Billy West).. 1,000
12-15 The Slave (Billy West)..... 1,000
1-1 The Stranger (Billy West).... 1,000

Metro Pictures

Released Week of

3-4 The Shell Game (Emmy Wehlen) 5,000
3-4 Before and After Taking (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-11 The Brass Check (Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne) 5,000
3-11 His Strength of Mind (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000
3-18 The Claim (Edith Storey)..... 5,000
3-18 Special Today (Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-25 Breakers Ahead (Viola Dana).. 5,000
3-25 When a Man's Married (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew).... 1,000
4-1 The Landloper (Harold Lockwood) 5,000
4-1 Gas Logic (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew) 1,000

Mutual Star Productions

Released Week of

3-4 Powers That Prey (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000
3-11 Ann's Finish (Margarita Fischer) 5,000
3-18 The Girl and the Judge (Olive Tell) 5,000
4-1 A Bit of Jade (Mary Miles Minter) 5,000

Perfection Pictures

Released Week of

3-18 Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes) 7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

2-15 The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan) 7,000
3-1 Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale) 7,000
3-15 Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall) 6,000

Paramount Features

Released Week of

2-11 The Thing We Love (Wallace Reid) 5,000
2-18 Keys of the Righteous (Enid Bennett) 5,000
2-18 Hidden Pearls (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000
2-25 One More American (George Behan) 5,000
4-1 Honor of His House (Sessue Hayakawa) 5,000

Pathe

Released Week of

3-3 Our National Parks—Yellowstone Park—The Geysers (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-3 Buxton (Derbyshire, England) Col. (Travel) .....Pathe 500
3-6 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-9 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 20.... 1,000
3-10 The Great Adventure (C-D).. .....Pathe 5,000
3-10 The House of Hate, No. 1, "The Hooded Terror" (Drama) 3,000
3-10 The Price of Folly, No. 8, "Shifting Sands" (Drama).. 2,000
3-10 Look Pleasant Please (Com.). .....Rolin 1,000
3-10 Our National Parks—Rainier Park—Mesa Verda Park (Travel) .....Pathe 1,000
3-10 Katzenjammer Kids — Spirits (Cartoon) 500
3-10 Jackie's Clothes (Educ.)..... 500
3-13 Hearst Pathe News, No. 22... 1,000
3-16 Hearst Pathe News, No. 23... 1,000
3-17 The Beggar Woman (Russian Art Films).....Drama 5,000
3-17 The House of Hate, No. 2, "The Tiger's Eye" .....Drama 2,000
3-17 Fare, Please (Comedy)....Rolin 2,000
3-17 Here Come the Girls (Comedy) .....Rolin 1,000
3-17 Picturesque France—The Cauterets (Colored) .....Travel 500
3-17 Children's Dances (Colored) .....Educational 500
3-20 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 24.... 1,000
3-23 Hearst-Pathe News, No. 25.... 1,000
3-25 The Hillcrest Mystery (Drama) .....Astra 5,000
3-24 The House of Hate, No. 3—A Woman's Perfidy (Drama) .....Astra 2,000
3-24 Let's Go (Comedy).....Rolin 1,000
3-24 Pests of Our Fruit Trees (Educ.) 500
3-24 Picturesque France (Colored) (Travel) 500
3-27 Hearst Pathe News, No. 26... 1,000
3-30 Hearst Pathe News, No. 27... 1,000
.....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-31 Mrs. Slacker (Drama)...Astra 5,000
3-31 The House of Hate, No. 4, The Man from Java (Drama).... .....Vestra 2,000
3-31 On the Jump (Comedy)..Rolin 1,000
3-31 The Valley of the Dordogne (France), Colored (Travel). 500
3-31 The Horse in Action, Part 2, Colored (Travel)..... 500
4-3 Hearst Pathe News, No. 28... 1,000
4-6 Hearst Pathe News, No. 29... 1,000

Petrova Picture Company

12-23 The Daughter of Destiny (Madame Petrova) 7,000
2-1 The Light Within (Madame Petrova) 7,000
3-18 The Life Mask (Madame Petrova) 7,000

Select Pictures Corporation

MARCH

The House of Glass (Clara Kimball Young) 5,000
By Right of Purchase (Norma Talmadge) 6,000
The Shuttle (Constance Talmadge). 5,000
The Knife (Alice Brady)..... 5,000

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson) 6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn) 7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production 7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)..... 5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

3-3 Shoes That Danced (Pauline Starke) 5,000
3-3 His Hidden Shame ....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-3 A Lady Killer's Doom..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-10 The Hard Rock Breed..... .....Margery Wilson 5,000
3-10 Wives and Worries..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-10 The Sea Panther (Wm. Desmond) 5,000
3-10 Did She Do Wrong?..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-17 Faith Endurin' (Roy Stuart)... 5,000
3-17 A Social Shock Absorber..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 The Answer (Alma Rubens)... 7,000
3-17 Caught With the Goods..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 Mud .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-24 Nancy Comes Home (Myrtle Lind) 5,000
3-24 Fork Over ...Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-17 Innocent's Progress (Pauline Starke) 5,000
3-24 A Janitor's Fall..... .....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-24 A Safe Danger..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000
3-31 Unfaithful (Dorothy Dalton).. 2,000
3-31 The Marriage Bubble (Wm. Desmond) 3,000
3-31 A Good Elk..Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-31 Another Foolish Virgin (Margery Wilson) 5,000
3-31 Her Bohemian Party ....Triangle Komedy 1,000
3-31 A Playwright's Wrong..... .....Keystone Comedy 2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

Released Week of

3-11 The Desired Woman (Harry Morey) 5,000
3-11 Meddlers and Moonshiners..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-11 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 12 2,000
3-11 Their First Quarrel (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000
3-18 An American Live Wire (Earl Williams) 5,000
3-18 Tramps and Traitors..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-18 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 13 2,000
3-18 A Telegraphic Tangle (Mr. and Mrs Sydney Drew) 1,000
3-25 The Home Trail (Nell Shipman) 5,000
3-25 Stripes and Stumbles..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
3-25 Vengeance—And the Woman, No 14 2,000
3-25 His Wife Knew About It (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)... 1,000
4-1 Little Miss No-Account (Gladys Leslie) 5,000
4-1 Sleuths & Slickers..... .....Big V Comedy 1,000
4-1 Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 15 2,000
4-1 Following the Scent (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)..... 1,000

World Features

Released Week of

2-18 Broken Ties (June Elvidge).... 5,000
2-25 His Royal Highness (Carlyle Blackwell) 5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

His Awful Downfall..... .....Rex-Adams Comedy 1,000
Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile) 4,000

ESSANAY

Presents

A CHAPLIN JINGLE

"Chase Me Charlie"

A British version of Charlie Chaplin's funniest films—taken from the famous Essanay-Chaplin comedies. Screen time one hour.

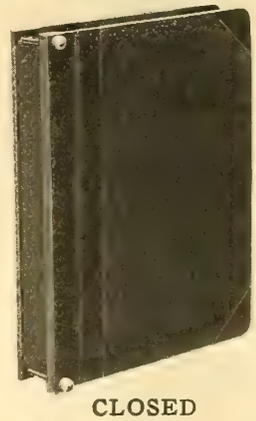
Distributed by George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

EXHIBITORS

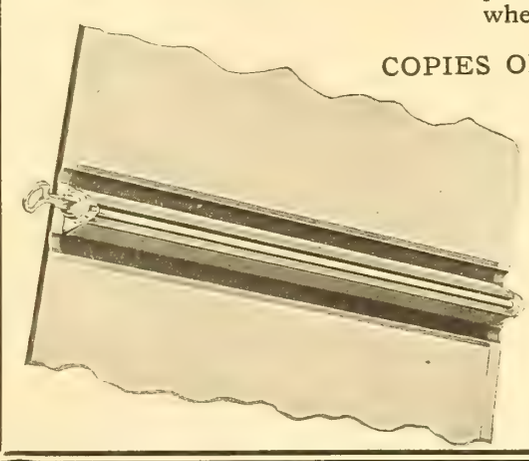
OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference



By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.



Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT · DURABLE · ATTRACTIVE · INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

CLOSED

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

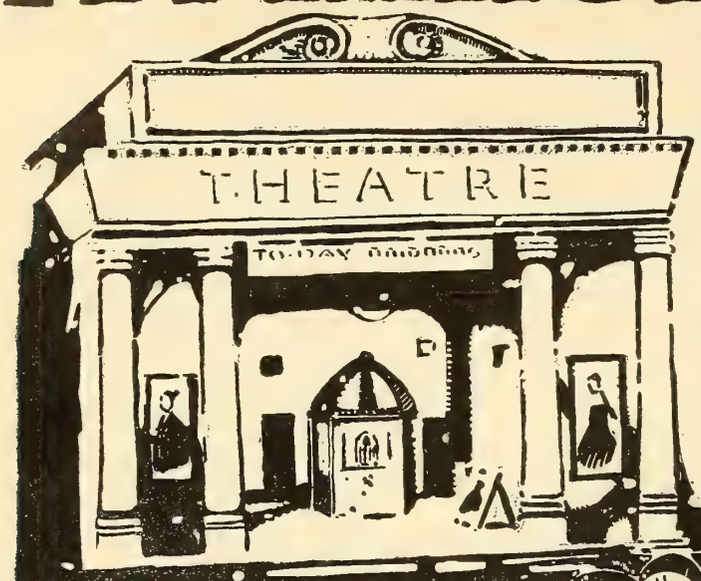
SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

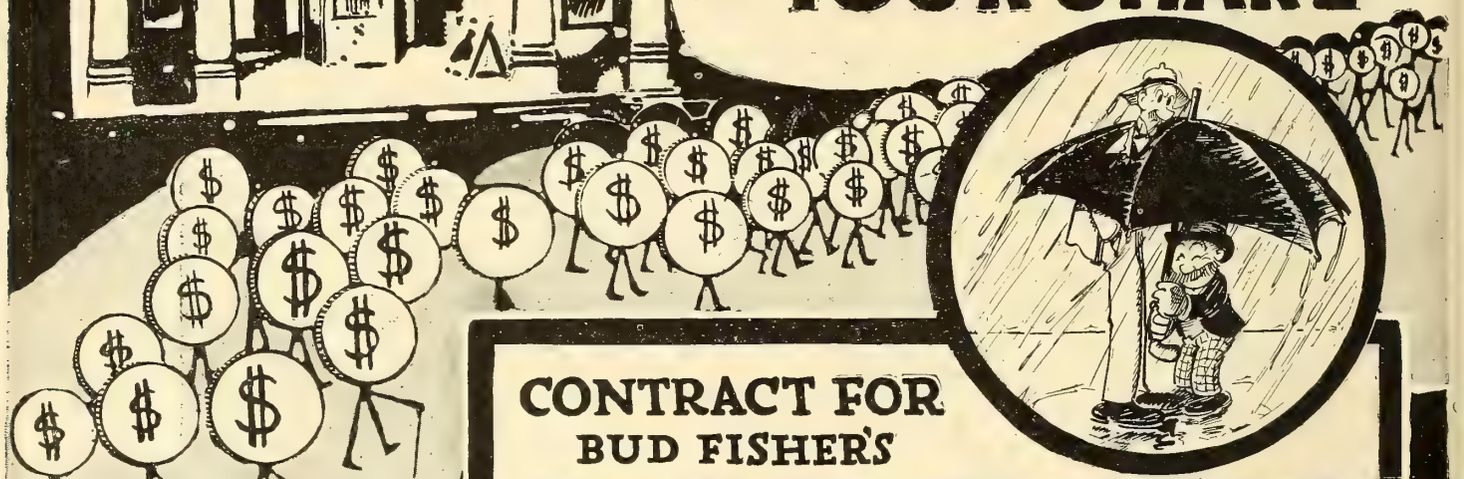
PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL



WALLACE REID
Star in Paramount Pictures



Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 13, 1918 No. 15

A Million Dollars

pass your theatre every day

HOW TO GET YOUR SHARE

CONTRACT FOR BUD FISHER'S

MUTT
AND JEFF

Weekly release

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Now ready-

"THE DECOY" — "THE LEAK"
"BACK TO THE BALKANS"
"THE FREIGHT INVESTIGATION"

FOX FILM
CORPORATION

TRIANGLE

A Far Flung Battle Line

TRIANGLE'S far-flung line reaches from Maine to California.

Thousands of TRAINGLE exhibitors stand shoulder to shoulder in the great battle for prosperity and profits.

An impressive exhibition of the success of a Policy.

A policy of frankness, of square methods, of economy, of quality pictures; a policy designed first and last to insure the permanent success and welfare of the exhibitor.

Consider the advantages of TRIANGLE exhibitors—the "men at the front."

TRIANGLE has relieved the exhibitor of the war tax.

TRIANGLE has placed the price of pictures on such a fair and moderate basis that any exhibitor can make money on TRIANGLE pictures.

This price advantage is in part due to the elimination of the enormously burdensome "star" salary extortions:

to the destruction of waste in production and distribution;
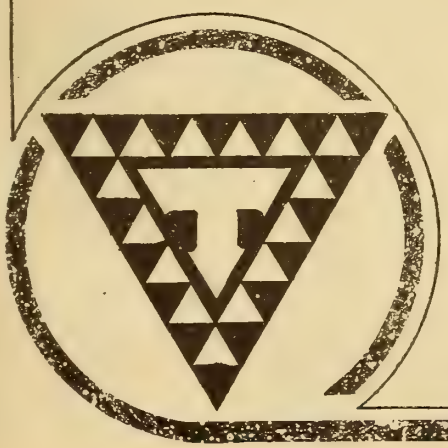
to the elimination of cut-throat competition;
to the TRIANGLE policy of endeavoring to make each and every TRIANGLE exhibitor a success.

The gambling element in the picture business is a thing of the past on the TRIANGLE battle line.



How about "picture quality"?

The TRIANGLE studios are turning out productions of the highest quality and pictures that show PROFITS to exhibitors. Ask any TRIANGLE exhibitor what these late pictures have done for him: "Until They Get Me," "Indiscreet Corinne," "Real Folks," "Limousine Life," "Keith of the Border," "The Shoes that Danced," "Little Red Decides," and "The Sea Panther."

TRIANGLE exhibitors are successful. The ranks are solid and unshakeable. The battle for prosperity and PROFITS goes merrily on with new territory constantly being added. There are no pessimists, knockers, gloom-chasers, or woe-wrestlers in TRIANGLE forces.

Go to the nearest TRIANGLE recruiting exchange—or write.

ENLIST!

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH
President

R. W. LYNCH
Vice-President

FRED KENT
Treasurer

Y. F. FREEMAN
General Manager

One of the many striking scenes from the new Triangle production, "The Love Brokers," featuring Alma Rubens and Joe Bennett. Texas Guinan is the central figure in this particular scene.

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 13, 1918 No. 15

Chicago Fight Believed to Be Won

ARBITRATION GRANTED AT REQUEST OF OPERATORS

AN overwhelming victory is believed to have been won by the motion picture and theatrical interests of Chicago in their fight with the Operators' Union.

Amazed by the mobilization of men and money on the side of the theatres and convinced that the amusement interests mean business and would conduct a war to the knife if necessary, the operators now are said to be trying to back out gracefully from their demands.

Question to Be Arbitrated

They have asked for a conference when the issues can be arbitrated and the amusement interests have granted their request. Committees will be selected by each side immediately and the conference probably will be held before the expiration of the week.

Not willing to cry "Victory," until it has been definitely assured, however, the amusement interests are going ahead with their plans as if the expected clash really would come, so should arbitration fail and the operators seek war they will be prepared to undertake the offensive instead of being compelled to assume the defense.

Theatre Men Want Permanent Peace

Determination to win is so strong with the amusement interests because of a belief that they have temporized for so long that the union thinks it has control of the industry and can dictate any demands.

Now is the time to dispel any such an idea if ever, the theatre men say, and they back up their statements with signed checks. In this connection it is stated that more than $30,000 of the proposed $60,000 "war fund" actually has been subscribed.

Satisfied With Their Progress

The theatre men are elated over their success and are predicting freely that the alleged domination of the union will be shattered effectively when peace has been declared. If it is, they declare, no effort made has been too great.

The fight had hardly started until it was apparent that the operators had lost some of their old-time confidence. Pioneer exhibitors who have preached co-operation for a long time saw vindication and cried for renewed effort. It was given universally.

Fight Carried to Court

One of the first moves was to take the fight into court. Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing the Allied Amusement Association, filed a bill in the circuit court to enjoin the operators from refusing to handle advertising slides not bearing the union label. Exhibition of union slides only is the chief demand of the operators.

The principal defendants named in the bill were Joseph P. Armstrong, president of the local union, and John G. Shafrank, said to be associated with Armstrong in the National Advertising Film company. This company, it is alleged, was organized for the sole purpose of controlling film advertising in Chicago. All the officers of the company were made defendants also.

Union Control Called Absolute

It was alleged in the bill that the control of theatres by the union had become so absolute that the theatre owners no longer had any choice in the hiring and discharging of employes—in fact, nothing to do with the management except to pay the employes.

Even the Four Minute Men who have been making patriotic speeches in the theatres have been notified that they could not illustrate their addresses unless their slides carried the union label, it is alleged, and all slides and advertisements not bearing the union's stamp were "ordered" out of use.

"Shake-down" Is Alleged

It was charged that the owner of the Chopin theatre disobeyed the edicts of the union officials and that he had to pay a fine of $1,200 to "get in right again."

The bill asked for the immediate issuance of a temporary injunction restraining the defendants from boycotting, interfering with, or doing anything to hinder the successful operation of the theatres. It was also asked that they be prohibited from calling strikes.

The injunction was granted. So far no move has been made by the operators to attack it.

Canadian Province Boosts Tax

The province of Alberta in Canada has decided to increase the special tax on patrons of theatres, at the same time increasing the scope of the Amusement Tax act by making it applicable to all places where sports, dances, circuses, carnivals and similar features are staged.

An unusual detail of the new law is that the amusement tax schedule does not provide for a tax on tickets valued at less than ten cents. From ten to twenty cents inclusive, the tax is one cent; from twenty to seventy-five, two and one-half cents; from seventy-five to $1, five cents, and when the price of admission is more than $1, ten cents.

Sunday Show Bill Scores Success

VOTED OUT OF ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE 54 TO 40

EXHIBITORS of New York state who are combined in a great campaign for the enactment of a law by the legislature which will permit Sunday shows, continue to forge on successfully.

The assembly codes committee has voted the measure out of committee and it is now on the calendar for action, which probably will come some time this week. Its passage in the assembly is believed certain.

Sponsor of Bill Optimistic

Assemblyman Clarence Welsh, author of the bill, says:

"I have no fear but that the bill will receive the support of the assembly and will be passed, and also that the senate will favor this legislation.

"There can be no reasonable objections to my bill as it now reads from the fact that the entire question of Sunday films is put up to the various cities and towns, and it rests with them whether or not they will pass ordinances to prohibit the Sunday shows. This is a home rule or local option proposition and will be the means of solving a much discussed subject.

"Furthermore, the placing of this proposed law on the statute books will establish a specific law on the subject of motion pictures as the courts have been divided in their decisions."

Favored by 54 to 40 Vote

The measure was voted out of the committee 54 to 40. When it was called up for consideration Assemblyman Richard A. Prangen of Steuben declared he opposed the bill for the reason that it will legalize Sunday performances and did not believe that New York state should go on record as favoring Sunday shows of any kind.

Assemblyman Welsh said that Mr. Pranger apparently did not understand the purposes of the proposed law and that it is not intended to sanction Sunday performances, but simply to provide a statute that will permit the various localities to decide the question. They may permit or prohibit just as they may see fit.

Of the fifty-four voting in favor of the bill twenty-five were Republicans, nineteen Democrats and ten Socialists.

How Exhibitors Are Working

In every city of the state the exhibitors are working effectively. What is being done by Buffalo is typical of all. The Buffalo committee issues the following bulletin for the benefit of the rest of the exhibitors and exchange men:

"Good progress is being made. The situation grows brighter every day. The whole state has awakened to the need for passing our bill and everybody is working to that end. New York, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo are working together. Everything possible is being done by the Buffalo committee. Meetings are being held every day from 1 to 3 o'clock. We keep in touch by telegraph and telephone with other parts of the state.

"Our representative in Albany is doing good work. He reports that certain members of the legislature in both houses are still doubtful. A few of them are directly opposed to the bill. We are working with other cities to overcome this opposition and conditions are much more favorable than they were a week ago. But everybody must keep on working hard until the bill is out of danger.

Use Newspaper Editorials

"Copies of strong editorials in every daily paper in Buffalo are being sent you. Out-of-town exhibitors should take these copies to their local papers and get them to print similar editorials if possible and send same to their representatives in the legislature.

"Copies of the Buffalo editorials have been sent to every member of the Legislature.

"EXHIBITORS' COMMITTEE FOR SUNDAY OPENING.

"REMEMBER: If this bill is not passed you cannot keep open on Sundays. Your interests are vitally affected."

Anticipating success in the lower house, the exhibitors already are working feverishly to obtain adoption of the bill in the Senate and hope before long to obtain final victory.

The Star on the Cover

WALLACE REID, the Paramount star, is the son of Hal Reid, the noted writer of melodramatic plays. Wallace was born in St. Louis twenty-five years ago and made his first appearance on the stage at the age of four.

He has had a varied experience and for some time worked on a ranch in Wyoming and later became a newspaper reporter in New York. He drifted into motion picture work and finally came under the direction of D. W. Griffith, after which he joined the Lasky forces, and it is in Paramount pictures that he has attained his greatest popularity.

He has starred with Cleo Ridgely, Anita King, Myrtle Stedman and Geraldine Farrar. His most notable work was done in "Joan the Woman," "The Woman God Forgot" and "The Devil Stone," the latter two being Artcraft pictures in which he played opposite Miss Farrar.

Wallace Reid's attractive bungalow in Hollywood, Cal., is one of the most popular places in that sociable little community where reside most of the Famous Players-Lasky stars, for among his other accomplishments young Reid is an expert cook and an accomplished musician.

Rush Acquires Studios

George A. Rush, who has been production manager of Herbert Brenon Productions, has taken over the complete managership of the studios and adjoining property in New York, which were formerly occupied by the Brenon company.

At the present time the Edward Warren productions are being made at the studios, but in a short time Sydney A. Goldin will begin producing a series of features.

The studios, called "The Ideal," are truly ideal in every respect. They are exceptionally well located, overlooking the Hudson River just opposite Ninety-Sixth street and are completely equipped with every modern convenience for producing.

Mr. Rush has been closely affiliated with the film industry for several years. He has been identified with many big features, including "The Fall of the Romanoffs," "Empty Pockets," "War Brides," "The Lone Wolf" and "The Auction Block."

Reconstruct Dayton House

Reconstruction of the Auditorium Theatre at Dayton, O., which was destroyed by fire last fall, has been begun. It will require five months to complete the structure. Manager Gill Burrowes will supervise the work to see that all his plans are carried out. When completed the Auditorium will cost probably $150,000.

Vitagraph Wins Anita Stewart Suit

DECISION IS VICTORY FOR ENTIRE INDUSTRY

ALBERT E. SMITH, president of the Vitagraph Company, announces a final and complete victory for his company in the suit which was instituted last September to restrain Anita Stewart, whom he was paying $127,000 a year, from leaving the company and working for Louis Mayer of Boston.

Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of the Supreme Court of New York, before whom the action was tried, has handed down a decision making permanent the preliminary injunction which had been granted by Justice Whitaker.

The immediate effect is to prevent Miss Stewart from working for any one other than Vitagraph for a period of 29 weeks, but its general effect will be for the protection of manufacturers' investments in stars in the future.

Of Interest to Entire Industry

The Vitagraph action, begun on orders from President Smith, has attracted the attention of the entire industry because it was early recognized that the question of a producer's rights was the real issue.

When Justice Whitaker granted Vitagraph's preliminary injunction Miss Stewart's attorneys took it up to the Appellate division of the court, but here again Vitagraph was victorious and the temporary injunction was continued, pending the trial of the suit. The case went to trial on January 22 and took up three days, Miss Stewart appearing as a witness in her own defense.

Vitagraph rested its case almost entirely on the provisions of its contract, backing it up with many exhibits of advertising which had been obtained in behalf of Miss Stewart.

Rules Contentions Are Facts

Justice Cohalan, in announcing his decision, reviewed the history of the case and then wrote:

"The burden of proving right to injunctive relief rests upon the shoulders of the plaintiff herein and in my opinion it has sustained that burden and has established the following facts: (Here he enumerated the points made by Vitagraph.)

1. That the 1917 contract requires Miss Stewart to work exclusively for Vitagraph.

2. That on June 8, 1917, she notified the company that she had severed her connection with it.

3. That thereafter she contracted with Mayer, thus agreeing to render her services to him.

4. That Mayer knew at the time that Miss Stewart was under contract to Vitagraph.

5. That Miss Stewart's services are of a special and extraordinary character and cannot be duplicated.

6. That Vitagraph has expended large sums of money in advertising Miss Stewart and that if she were allowed to set aside her contract, Mayer or whoever else's employ she entered would receive the benefit of the money thus expended and of the publicity thus created.

7. That Vitagraph is under contract with exhibitors throughout the country to deliver to them pictures in which Miss Stewart appears and her leaving meant great loss to the company.

8. That if Miss Stewart were allowed to accept the Mayer offer, irreparable damage, to measure which is impossible, would result to the company, which would have no adequate remedy at law.

9. That Vitagraph paid to Miss Stewart the salary of $1,000 each week called for by the 1917 contract for the period from January 1 to May 26, 1917, and tendered her on August 27, 1917, accrued salary and royalty checks covering the period after her formal resignation.

10. That after the receipt of Miss Stewart's letter of resignation, Vitagraph made three efforts in writing to induce her to carry out the terms of her contract, those letters being dated June 29, August 7 and December 27, 1917.

Ray Griffith, Triangle player.

Reviews Case of Star

Continuing, Justice Cohalan said:

"These facts clearly establish the cause of action of the plaintiff and leave for further consideration only the question of whether or not the defendants have shown any act or acts upon the part of the plaintiff which would justify Miss Stewart in leaving its employ."

The justice then summarized Miss Stewart's contentions as follows:

A—That Vitagraph failed to render to her certified monthly statements of account.

He found that the contract made no provision for such statements and that Miss Stewart, while free to examine the books, at no time exercised her right.

B—That Vitagraph failed to pay to her the account of royalties due her.

He found that at the time indicated, March 31 to June 8, there were no royalties due her on "The Girl Philippa" or "The More Excellent Way."

C—That Vitagraph broke the contract by entering into an agreement with the Star Company with reference to "The Girl Philippa."

This related to a big advertising campaign for the picture and Justice Cohalan in denying Miss Stewart's contention, said:

"The cost of advertising must be regarded as a necessary item of expense and the fact that such cost was met by a share in the gross profits rather than in payment of cash is immaterial, especially in view of the undisputed evidence that the existence of the Star Company's contract was explained to Miss Stewart before the execution of the 1917 contract."

New Pueblo House Opened

The Rialto Theatre at Pueblo, Colo., has been completed and was thrown open to the public the other day. The house was packed at every show. Manager W. G. Robertson sent out many engraved invitations and all the recipients were guests of the house. J. Warren Kerrigan in the Paralta production, "A Man's Man," was the initial feature.

The Rialto has a seating capacity of 1,225. All the seats are upholstered with leather.

Prices are ten cents for children and twenty cents for adults, including the war tax.

"What The Picture Did For Me"

VERDICTS ON FILMS IN LANGUAGE OF EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. If the picture you wish to know about is not included, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form below, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

BLUE BLAZES RAWDEN, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Hart as a lumberjack. Plenty of action in the first two reels but then it slows down to heart interest stuff in the last three. You will find it will be liked by all Hart fans."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

The Little American, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Another war picture that is very good."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Wonderful photography in the first half. Play represents Hart as a little too sentimental to suit the character."—Chaplin J. F. Chenoweth, Amusement Officer, Liberty Theatre, Fort Slocum, N. Y.—Theatre for soldiers.

Fox

This Is the Life, with George Walsh (Fox)—"The only fault with this was that it made every other picture of the week seem poor in comparison."—Ralph W. Crocker, Star Theatre, Elgin, Ill.

For Liberty, with Gladys Brockwell (Fox)—"Very good but we have had too much war stuff and the people don't like it."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A great picture, epic in character. Fine characterizations."—Chaplin J. F. Chenoweth, Amusement Officer, Liberty Theatre, Fort Slocum, N. Y.—Theatre for soldiers.

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago.

Daughter of the Gods, with Annette Kellerman (Fox)—"Very high class, artistic production. Good business."—I. W. McMahan, Gift's Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Son of a Gun, with Billy Ritchie (Fox comedy)—"Mexican characters and atmosphere make up this comedy, which is not quite up to the standard set by earlier Fox-Sunshine comedies."—Charles H. Ryan, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Goldwyn

The Beloved Traitor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Six reels.. A well directed and well acted human interest drama. As a drawing card it was not up to The Cinderella Man. The title is a little against it as a box-office attraction."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Fields of Honor, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Action representing events 'over here' too slow. Didn't take with our audience."—Chaplain J. F. Chenoweth, Liberty Theatre, Fort Slocum, N. Y.—Theatre for soldiers.

Polly of the Circus, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"Our first Goldwyn and if all are as good we shall be pleased."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Jewel

The Price of a Good Time, with Mildred Harris (Jewel)—"Broke house record for three weeks' run."—Thomas H. Reidy, Colonial Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Metro

Revenge, with Edith Storey (Metro)—"The star wears western riding togs and the story contains western atmosphere and settings. Lots of action and plot is interesting. The star plays her part well. Average business on this day."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Lest We Forget, with Rita Jolivet (Metro)—"Fine photography, wonderful tinting in sky effects. Spectacular and very effective in action."—Chaplain J. F. Chenoweth, Amusement Officer, Liberty Theatre, Fort Slocum, N. Y.—Theatre for soldiers.

The Brass Check, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"Very good picture, full of comedy on the Fairbanks style. Did fair business only."—George E. Schmidt, Alamo Theatre, No. 2, Atlanta, Ga.

The Shell Game, with Emmy Wehlen (Metro)—"A good picture but the star is third class as far as drawing power is concerned here. However, all liked this."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood..

Mutual

Molly Go Get 'Em, with Margarita Fisher (American-Mutual)—"Star one of the best. Subject good, picture good, business good. Give this picture one-half the advertising you give the high-priced star productions and you will have as large an attendance and better satisfied people with far greater profit to yourself."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Sea Master, with William Russell (American-Mutual)—"Star good, picture good. Subject good. Business to standing room only. For star productions, this picture is hard to beat."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Girl Angle, with Anita King (Mutual)—"Eighteen carat. Ought to please anywhere."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

Paralta

Madame Who, with Bessie Barriscale (Paralta)—"Seven reels. A bit too long. A civil war story. A good picture of its class but the majority of our people do not care for pictures of the hoop-skirt days. Give us modern pictures of life as it is today. The star is well liked."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Paramount

The Petticoat Pilot, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"Nothing to brag about but it is a nice everyday story. It will please the children. Title is poor. The star is only fair as a box-office attraction for us."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Flare-Up Sal, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"A western dance hall picture with an unwanted 'sky pilot.' Good picture and if your audience likes this sort, it would go well."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Flare-Up Sal, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"Very good. A regular Dalton picture. Star is gaining in popularity."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The World for Sale (Blackton-Paramount)—"This is something different from the average. Drew a large crowd and pleased them all."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Traveling Salesman, with Frank McIntire (Paramount)—"A good comedy drama. Paramount reels which we get are always in fine shape and the subjects O. K."—George J. Eberwine, Auditorium Theatre, Marblehead, Ohio.

Huck and Tom, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Excellent picture. Big business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Keys of the Righteous, with Enid Bennett (Paramount)—"Some reviewers did not like this picture but I asked several of our patrons how they liked it and they all said it was very good. A good storm scene. A fair box-office picture."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Rimrock Jones, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"A very good picture. Satisfied everyone and drew good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Widow's Might, with Julian Eltinge (Paramount)—"A good picture. Satisfied everyone and drew pretty good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Seven Sisters, with Marguerite Clark (Paramount)—"Full of pep and good comedy. One of the best I ever ran. Print new. It is a dandy."—George J. Eberwine, Auditorium Theatre, Marblehead, Ohio.

The Foundling, with Mary Pickford (Paramount)—"This is a good one. Such pictures as this will build up any run-down business."—George J. Eberwine, Auditorium Theatre, Marblehead, Ohio.

Seventeen, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Fine, like nearly Paramount pictures. They please most any or all audiences."—George J. Eberwine, Auditorium Theatre, Marblehead, Ohio.—Town of 1,100 population.

Freckles, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A Good offering. My patrons were pleased."—George J. Eberwine, Auditorium Theatre, Marblehead, Ohio.

Madame Jealousy, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"An odd picture of the allegorical type. You will find many who will not like it, while those who appreciate art and acting will be satisfied."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

That Night, with Charles Murray (Sennett-Paramount)—"A real comedy with a plot. Has a good cast. Murray is good and the comedy helped put life in our show."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Pathe

The Other Woman, with Peggy Hyland (Pathe)—"One of the few pictures that please your entire audience. This picture will stand a three-day run anywhere."—Ralph W. Crocker, Star Theatre, Elgin, Ill.

Vengeance Is Mine, with Mrs. Vernon Castle (Pathe)—"Excellent picture. Pleased patrons very much. Very good business."—George E. Schmidt, Alamo Theatre, No. 2, Atlanta, Ga.

The Naulahka, with Doraldina (Pathe)—"Mostly a costume play. Scenes laid in India. Six reels. Good of its kind but our people did not seem to care for it. As a box-office picture it is only fair. Doraldina does good work."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.—Middle class neighborhood.

Select

The Studio Girl, with Constance Talmadge (Select)—"Did not draw very well but it is a pleasing comedy-drama and was well liked by all who saw it. Johnnie Hines plays his character part well. A story of narrow, small town life. The star will take a little while longer to become popular."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Over There, with Charles Richmond (Select)—"A very good picture which satisfied everyone but did not draw as well as we expected."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

The Knife, with Alice Brady (Select)—"A pretty good picture which satisfied the audience and drew fairly good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.

Triangle

For Valour, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"Picture good, subject good, business very good. This picture is a little different from the average Triangle and illustrates why all Triangle pictures are good. Every actor in the picture is a star in the part he takes. Film in fine condition."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Regenerates, with Walt Whitman and Alma Rubens (Triangle)—"Players all good. Picture very good, subject good, business good. The following question was asked at the box office: Regular patron, 'Why don't you show those Triangle pictures every day?' Cashier, 'Because you would not come to see the same picture for three days.' R. P., 'No, but why don't you show a new one each day?' C., 'We would be more than pleased to accommodate you but we are now showing all the pictures that Triangle makes.'"—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Sudden Jim, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Has been a good picture, but like most Triangle pictures that we get in this territory, it is spoiled by the poor condition of the film."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

In Slumberland, with Thelma Salter (Triangle)—"A really first-class picture that you can play up high. Don't let the title fool you."—House and Justice, Grand Theatre, Marion, N. C.

The Apostle of Vengeance, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Second run to good business."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

Reggie Mixes In, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Fairbanks' best. Excellent business. Star's popularity unlimited."—George E. Schmidt, Alamo, Theatre, No. 2, Atlanta, Ga.

Limousine Life, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"A very good picture which played to a pretty fair audience."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Vitagraph

His Own People, with Harry Morey (Vitagraph)—"A sweet, clean production of the sort that an exhibitor begs more of. It went great."—Ralph W. Croker, Star Theatre, Elgin, Ill.

A Mother's Sin, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"A pleasing picture which satisfied everyone. The star has pretty good drawing power."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

World

The Wasp, with Kittie Gordon (World)—"Star is not liked so well in this locality. The story is fair but slow and hasn't much action. It will get over."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

The Wasp, with Kittie Gordon (World)—"A very picture to fairly good business."—M. J. Weil, Lake Shore Theatre, Chicago.—High class neighborhood.

Wanted, a Mother, with Madge Evans (World)—"Did not please all. Little Madge does not draw as well as some of the other World stars. Picture will get over."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

State Rights and Specials

The Orderly, with Billy West (King Bee)—"Our patrons like Billy West and we are not missing the Chaplin comedies since we have started these. This one gets many laughs."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

The Cold Deck, with W. S. Hart (State Rights)—"Good, except that the photography is dark. Star is well liked and will get the money for all who book him."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

War Brides, with Alla Nazimova (State Rights)—"A good picture but very cruel."—John B. Ashton, Columbia Theatre, Provo, Utah.

The Bargain, with W. S. Hart (Unity)—"Picture made by Ince four years ago but never before shown in Chicago because it was rejected by the censors. Finally a permit was granted. The play has some very good thrills and seems to please our audiences."—M J. Weil, Castle Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Cast-off, with Bessie Barriscale (U. S. Exhibitors)—"Six reels. No action. Dry. Business below average. Picture does not draw in proportion to the sum asked for it."—Charles H. Ryan, Garfield Theatre, 2844 Madison St., Chicago.

Serials and Series

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Episode 11 to standing room only."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Pictures Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of MOTOGRAPHY, is published:

A

According to the Code (Kleine)—March 16.
Adopted Son (Metro)—March 23.
Alabaster Box (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—April 6.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—March 16.
Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—March 23.
All for a Husband (Fox)—April 6.
All Man (World)—March 23.
Amarilly of Clothesline Alley (Artcraft)—April 6.
American Consul (Paramount)—March 16.
American, That's All (Triangle)—March 16.
American Widow (Metro)—March 16, April 6.
Anything Once (Bluebird)—March 11.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—March 16.
Apostle of Vengeance (Triangle)—April 13.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—March 11, March 23.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—March 9.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—March 23, April 6.

B

Bab's Burglar (Paramount)—March 16.
Babes in the Woods (Fox)—March 16.
Back of the Man (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—March 23.
Bargain (Standard)—April 6, April 13.
Bathhouse Tangle (Fox)—March 30.
Because of a Woman (Triangle)—April 6.
Beloved Traitor (Goldwyn)—April 13.
Betsy Ross (World)—March 30.
Betty and the Buccaneers (Mutual)—March 16.
Between Men (Triangle)—March 16.
Bit of Kindling (Mutual)—March 16.
Blind Adventure (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Blind Man's Holiday (General)—March 30.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 30.
Bobby Connelly Series (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Bond Between (Paramount)—April 6.
Borrowed Plumage (Triangle)—March 16.
Brand of Cowardice (Metro)—March 11.
Branded Soul (Fox)—April 6.
Broadway, Arizona (Triangle)—March 16.
Broadway Bill (Metro)—April 6.
Broadway Love (Bluebird)—April 6.
Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Brass Check (Metro)—April 13.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 23.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—March 23.
Burglar (World)—March 16.
Butcher Boy (Paramount)—April 6.
By Right of Possession (Vitagraph)—March 23.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—March 30.
Call of the Cumberlands (Paramount)—March 23.
Case at Law (Triangle)—March 16, April 6.
Camille (Fox)—April 6.
Cassidy (Triangle)—March 23.
Cast-off (U. S. Exhibitors)—April 13.
Chain Gang (Bruce Scenic)—April 6.
Chaplin Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Chattel (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cheerful Givers (Triangle)—March 16.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 16, March 23.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—April 6.
City of Purple Dreams (Selig)—March 30.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—March 16, April 6.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—March 16, April 6.
Clover's Rebellion (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—April 13.
Common Law (Select)—March 16.
Conqueror (Fox)—March 30, April 13.
Correspondent (Jewel)—March 16, March 23.
Country Hero (Paramount)—March 30.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 23.
Crisis (Selig)—April 6.
Cub Comedies (Mutual)—March 9.
Cupid's Round-up (Fox)—March 30, April 6.
Cure (Mutual)—March 9.
Cy Whitaker's Ward (Kleine)—March 16.

D

Damaged—No Goods (Fox)—March 16.
Darling of Paris (Fox)—March 16.
Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—March 16, April 13.
Daughter of Maryland (Mutual)—April 6.
Daughter of War (Mutual)—March 16.
David Garrick (Paramount)—March 30.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—March 23.
Daybreak (Metro)—March 30, April 6.
Dazzling Miss Davison (Mutual)—March 16.
Defeat of the City (General)—March 30.
Deemster (State Rights)—March 30.
Deep Purple (World)—April 6.
Deserter (Triangle)—March 16.
Desert Man (Triangle)—March 23.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 23.
Devil's Prize (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 23, April 6.
Dodging a Million (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Dollars and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Double Crossed (Paramount)—March 16.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 30.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 23.
Dream Doll (Kleine)—March 30.
Dummy (Paramount)—March 16.

E

End of the Tour (Metro)—April 6.
Eternal Question (Metro)—April 6.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 23.
Eve's Daughter (Paramount)—March 30.
Evil Eye (Paramount)—March 16.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—April 6.

F

Face Value (Bluebird)—March 23.
Fanatics (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—April 6.
Fires of Rebellion (Bluebird)—April 6.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—March 30, April 6, April 13.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—April 6.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
Flare-up Sal (Paramount)—April 13.
Flirting with Fate (Triangle)—March 30.
Floor Below (Goldwyn)—April 6.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 23.
For Liberty (Fox)—April 13.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 13.
Foundling (Paramount)—April 13.
Fox Comedies (Fox)—March 16.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 23, April 13.
Firefly of Tough Luck (Triangle)—March 16.
From Two to Six (Triangle)—March 23.
Frozen Warning (Lynch)—March 16.
Fuel of Life (Triangle)—March 16.
Further Adventures of Stingaree (General)—March 16.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—March 16, March 23.
Garden of Allah (Selig)—March 16.
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 23, April 6.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 30.
Girl Angle (Mutual)—March 30, April 13.
Girl from Rector's (Mutual)—March 23.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—March 30.
Girl Who Wouldn't Grow Up (Mutual)—March 16.
Golden Fetters (Paramount)—March 16.
Good Bad Man (Triangle)—April 6.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—March 23.

H

Haunted House (Triangle)—March 9.
Hawk (Vitagraph)—March 9.
Heart and Soul (Fox)—March 16.
Heart of Nora Flynn (Paramount)—March 23.
Hearts and Saddles (Fox)—March 16.
Heart's Revenge (Fox)—April 6.
Heiress for a Day (Triangle)—March 23.
Hell Morgan's Girl (Bluebird)—March 16.
Hell's Crater (Universal)—March 23.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 23.
Her Excellency the Governor (Triangle)—March 23.
Her Hour (World)—March 30.
Her Maternal Right (World)—March 30.
Her Right to Live (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 16, March 30.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, March 30.
His Father's Son (Paramount)—March 30.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23, April 13.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—April 6.
His Royal Highness (World)—March 23, March 30.
Home Run Ambrose (Universal)—March 16.
Honeymoon (Select)—April 6.
Honor System (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Hostage (Paramount)—April 6.
House of Terrible Scandals (Fox)—March 30.
Hubby's Holiday (Selburn—State Rights)—March 23.
Huck and Tom (Paramount)—April 6, April 13.
Husband and Wife (World)—March 23.

I

I Love You (Triangle)—April 6.
Immigrant (Mutual)—March 16.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—March 16.
In Slumberland (Triangle)—April 13.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—March 16, April 6.
Innocent (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
International Sneak (Paramount)—March 23.

J

Jack and Jill (Paramount)—March 23, April 6.
Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—March 16, April 6.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 23.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—April 6.
Jewel in Pawn (Bluebird)—April 6.
Joan the Woman (Artcraft)—April 6.
John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal)—March 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
Jury of Fate (Metro)—March 16.

K

Keith of the Border (Triangle)—March 23.
Keys of the Righteous (Paramount)—March 23, April 6, April 13.
Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Knife (Select)—April 13.

L

Lamb (Triangle)—March 16.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—April 6.
Larnin' of Jim Benton (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Last Man (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Legion of Death (Metro)—April 6.
Lest We Forget (Metro)—April 13.
Limousine Life (Triangle)—April 13.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6, April 13.
Little Miss Optimist (Paramount)—March 16.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—March 16, March 23.
Little Red Decides (Triangle)—March 23.
Little Red Ridinghood (Wholesome)—March 23.
Little Shoes (Kleine)—April 6.
Lost Express (Mutual)—March 23.
Love Letters (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Love or Justice (Triangle)—March 16.
Luke the Mechanic (Pathe)—March 30.

M

Mad Lover (State Rights)—March 30.
Madame Bopeep (Triangle)—March 16.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—April 6, April 13.
Madame Who (Paralta)—March 23, April 13.
Madcap Madge (Triangle)—March 16.
Man Behind the Curtain (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Man Who Was Afraid (Kleine)—March 16.
Man Without a Country (Jewel)—March 16.
Man's Man (Paralta)—March 23.
Manx Man (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Marked Man (Butterfly)—March 23.
Marionettes (Select)—March 16, March 30.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—April 6.
Maternal Spark (Triangle)—April 6.
Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce—State Rights)—March 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Melissa of the Hills (Mutual)—April 6.
Melting Pot (State Rights)—April 6.
Men of the Desert (Kleine)—March 30.
Menace (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Men Who Made Love to Me (Kleine)—April 6.
Message of the Mouse (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Mice and Men (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss George Washington (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss Robinson Crusoe (Metro)—March 16.
Miss U. S. A. (Fox)—March 16.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—April 6.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—March 16, April 13.
Mother Instinct (Triangle)—March 23, March 30.
Mother o' Mine (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Motherhood (Mutual)—March 16.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—April 6, April 13.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—April 6.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—April 6.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13.
Naulahka (Pathe)—April 13.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—April 6.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—March 23.
New York Luck (Mutual)—March 16.
North of 53 (Fox)—March 23.

O

Oh, Doctor (Paramount)—March 23.
On to Victory (Universal)—March 30.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—March 23.
One Touch of Nature (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 23.
Orderly (King-Bee)—April 13.
Other Woman (Pathe)—April 6, April 13.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Outcast (Mutual)—March 30.
Over There (Select)—March 30, April 13.
Out West (Paramount)—March 30.

P

Painted Madonna (Fox)—March 30.
Pants (Kleine)—March 16.
Pathe News Weekly (Pathe)—April 6.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 23.
Pendleton Round-up (Pathe)—March 23.
Periwinkle (Mutual)—March 16.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—March 16, April 13.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Phantom Husband (Triangle)—March 16.
Please Help Emily (Mutual)—March 23.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—March 30, April 13.
Polly Redhead (Bluebird)—April 6.
Price Mark (Paramount)—March 16, April 6.
Price of a Good Time (Jewel)—April 13.
Price of Folly (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Price of Silence (Bluebird)—March 23.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 16, March 30.
Primal Lure (Triangle)—March 23, April 6.
Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Pullman Bride (Paramount)—March 16.
Pudd'nhead Wilson (Paramount)—March 23.
Public Defender (State Rights)—March 30.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—March 23.
Range Boss (Kleine)—March 16.
Rasputin (World)—March 23.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 16, March 30, April 6.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—March 30.
Red Ace (Universal)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—March 16, April 6.
Redemption (State Rights)—March 30.
Regenerates (Triangle)—March 16, April 13.
Reggie Mixes In (Triangle)—April 13.
Revenge (Metro)—April 13.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 23, April 13.
Rink (Mutual)—April 6.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 23.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—March 23.
Roping Her Romeo (Paramount)—March 16.
Rose of the World (Artcraft)—March 9.
Rough House (Paramount)—March 16.
Round-up at Pendleton (Pathe)—March 23.
Ruggles of Red Gap (Kleine)—April 6.
Runaway (Mutual)—March 30.

S

Sadie Goes to Heaven (Kleine)—March 30.
Savage (Bluebird)—March 23, April 6.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Scandal (Select)—March 16.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 23.
Sea Master (Mutual)—April 13.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—April 6.
Selfish Woman (Paramount)—April 6.
Seven Keys to Baldpate (Artcraft)—March 30.
Seven Pearls (Pathe)—March 23.
Seven Sisters (Paramount)—April 13.

Clara Horton, whose work for Triangle is attracting much attention.

Seven Swans (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Seventeen (Paramount)—April 13.
Shadows of Her Pest (Fox)—March 30.
Shell Game (Metro)—April 13.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—March 30.
Southern Justice (Bluebird)—March 30.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Shorty Hamilton Comedies (Mutual)—March 16.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—April 6.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—March 23, April 6.
Slacker (Metro)—March 23, March 30.
Snap Judgment (Mutual)—March 16.
Snow White (Paramount)—March 16.
Somebody's Widow (Mutual)—March 16.
Son of a Gun (Fox)—April 13.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—March 16.
Song of Songs (Artcraft)—March 23.
Soul in Trust (Triangle)—March 23.
Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls Triumphant (Triangle)—March 23.
Spirit of Romance (Paramount)—April 6.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—April 6.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Spurs of Sybil (World)—March 23, March 30.
Spy (Fox)—March 23, April 6.
Square Deceiver (Metro)—March 16.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—March 23.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 16, March 30.
Studio Girl (Select)—April 6, April 13.
Submarine Eye (First National Exhibitors)—April 6.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 23, April 13.
Sunny Jane (Mutual)—March 16.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—March 23.

T

Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tell-Tale Step (Kleine)—March 23.
Ten of Diamonds (Triangle)—March 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 23.
That Night (Paramount)—April 13.
Thing We Love (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
This Is the Life (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13.
Thou Art the Man (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—March 23.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 30.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—April 6.
Transgression (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Traveling Salesman (Paramount)—April 13.
Treason (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Treasure Island (Fox)—March 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—April 6.
Twin Kiddies (Pathe)—March 23.
Twinkler (Mutual)—March 16.

U

Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 23, April 6.
Universal Current Events—March 16.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—April 6.
Up or Down (Triangle)—April 6.
Upper Crust (Mutual)—March 16.

V

Varmint (Paramount)—March 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Vengeance Is Mine (Pathe)—April 13.
Vixen (Fox)—April 6.
Voice of Conscience (Metro)—March 16.

W

Wanted a Mother (World)—April 13.
War Brides (State Rights)—April 13.
War Pictures (Schneider)—March 30.
Wasp (World)—April 13.
Watch Your Neighbor (Paramount)—March 16.
Wheel of the Law (Metro)—April 6.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
When Men Are Tempted (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Whims of Society (World)—March 16, March 23.
Who Leads the National Army (National Training Camps)—March 16.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—March 16, April 13.
Wild Strain (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 16, March 23.
Wild Winship's Widow (Triangle)—April 6.
Winding Trail (Metro)—March 16, April 6.
Winged Mystery (Bluebird)—March 23.
Wishing Ring (World)—March 23.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6.
Wolf and His Mate (Universal)—March 23.
Woman and Wife (Select)—March 23.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 23.
World for Sale (Paramount)—March 16, March 23, March 30, April 13.

DON R. EGBERT,
Managing Editor

NEW YORK OFFICE: 1022 LONGACRE BUILDING,
Forty-second Street and Broadway
Telephone Bryant 7030
CHARLES W BRENNAN, Advertising Manager

LOS ANGELES OFFICE: 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD.,
MABEL CONDON, Western Representative

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
Changes of advertising copy should reach the office of publication not less than fifteen days in advance of date of issue. Regular date of issue every Saturday.

MOTOGRAPHY

THE MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
ELECTRICITY MAGAZINE CORPORATION
E. R. MOCK, President and Treasurer
PAUL H. WOODRUFF, Editor in Chief, E. M. C. Publications
MONADNOCK BUILDING
CHICAGO, ILL.
Branch Telephone Exchange: Harrison 3014

Entered at Chicago Post Office as Second Class Mail Matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
Per Year $3.00

Canada - -	Per year $4.00
Foreign - -	Per year 5.00
Single copy - - - -	.15

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS
REMITTANCES—Remittances should be made by check, New York draft or money order in favor of MOTOGRAPHY. Foreign subscriptions may be remitted direct by International Postal Money Order.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS—The old address should be given as well as the new, and notice should be received two weeks in advance of the desired change.

This publication is free and independent of all business or house connections or control. No manufacturer or supply dealer, or their stockholders or representatives, have any financial interest in MOTOGRAPHY or any voice in its management or policy.

Volume XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 13, 1918 Number 15

The Business Side of Pushing Liberty Bonds

IN SAYING a few words about the most important event in America just now, we are going to dwell somewhat upon the selfish side of the situation. To tell our readers what may happen if they do not support the Third Liberty Loan to the utmost; to show why it will be to their personal interest to back it with all their influence—that is not nearly so pleasant as recounting the patriotic reasons for helping. Then, too, it may look to a few of our readers (who do not know us well) as though we were thinking of the exhibitors as selfish or lukewarm. No one knows better than we how hard the theatre men have worked for the national welfare, how freely and generously they have given their time, their money, their theatres, themselves, to the cause.

But the fact that amusement taxes are already extraordinarily high is the main reason why we approach the subject from this angle. The patriotic reasons, the appeals to the sense of national service in every normal man, have been given better than we could possibly give them. The business reasons are just as important. Business is not sordid; profits are not sordid; the ambition to succeed, to prosper, to grow in power and wealth, is not sordid; these are the things upon which depends our national prosperity, our ability to meet even the most extraordinary demands of today.

We are going to help put over the Third Liberty Loan for all the old familiar reasons. And in addition it will do us no harm to consider these things: That our government is going ahead with its schedule. That there is no way out of spending billions of dollars for the maintenance of our right to live and pursue our happiness in freedom. That WE are the ones who are to spend those billions.

And spend them we will, by one means or another. Those of us who are so shortsighted as to shrink from LENDING the money must and will be made to GIVE the money. In a sentence, it is a choice between getting four and a quarter per cent interest as a gift and then getting the whole sum back, or giving up an equivalent sum as a tax, without any return whatsoever.

You have authorized your government to collect money from you in two ways—by taxes and by loans. The loans you get back, with interest. The taxes you never get back except in benefits brought about by their expenditure—and those you get also from the loans. The loans are voluntary; you can lend as much or as little as you wish, or leave them alone. The taxes are compulsory; you pay them whether you want to or not.

If everybody lends—takes Liberty Bonds—higher taxes will not be necessary. If the people will not lend, they will give by way of higher taxes. Very likely that means higher ticket taxes and higher film stock taxes. Certainly it means a still higher cost of living.

The more people you, Exhibitor, induce to buy Liberty Bonds the less likely is it that your taxes will be increased.

When Your Equipment Wears Out

MOST people know nowadays what depreciation means, through the conversation of automobile owners. It is getting to be a favorite term with them, because it means the value of their cars after they have used them for any period of time, and the amount they will be allowed for them on the purchase of a new car. So the man who paid two thousand dollars for his car last year, and finds it worth only one thousand this year, says his depreciation is fifty per cent. He is wrong, of course; because a fifty per cent depreciation would mean that his car was worth nothing at the end of two years. An engineer might say that the depreciation line was a curve, because it goes down rapidly at first, yet never reaches zero.

Yet familiar as car owners have become with the meaning of depreciation, not one in a hundred ever figures it as a part of his operating cost. He includes gasoline, oil, tires, repairs, possibly paint, in his records—if he keeps any records at all. But the constantly lessening value is not considered until it is time to buy a new car.

As long as the car is a pleasure proposition, the lack of accounting for depreciation does not really matter. If, when it is time to get a new car, the owner lacks the price, he simply does not buy one. But in a business sense, failure to account for depreciation is suicidal.

The things that depreciate in a motion picture theatre are mainly the projecting machines, the seats, the floor covering, and any other fixtures or furniture that are subjected to wear and tear. Most of these things may seem to be just as good the second year as the first. But they are really worth less each year, until ultimately they become practically worthless. This happens in spite of close attention to care, maintenance and repairs; for repairs, as we all know, will not keep a projection machine from going to the junk heap some day.

We think it is safe to say that the average exhibitor owning one theatre does not include depreciation in his bookkeeping. Knowing that some things about his property will wear out, he "trusts to luck" to have enough cash in the bank to buy new ones when the time comes. He knows, too, that if actually necessary he can borrow the money when the day of replacement arrives. But he fails to realize that if he pays only reasonable expenses, draws only a reasonable salary himself, and pays only reasonable profits on the investment, and then has no money to buy a pair of new machines when the old ones are worn out—his theatre is losing money. If he must borrow to pay for new machines or new seats, he is losing money just as surely as if he had to borrow to pay his salary or his "profits."

It is perfectly plain that anything calculated to last five years has a twenty per cent depreciation. If the thing cost new five hundred dollars, that means one hundred dollars a year should be set aside—in the "depreciation account"—so that the replacement, when it became necessary, would pay for itself. And that hundred dollars should be charged off before any "dividends" are declared or "profits" paid. If there is nothing left for profit after the depreciation account is taken care of, then there is no real profit; in other words, the house is not making money.

There is another term used by accountants, called "obsolescence." It sounds mysterious, but all it means is that the piece of furniture or the machine has become obsolete—that is, something very much better has come into use. For example, a projecting machine might still be good for several years of use, and yet one of the manufacturers might have invented a new type so far superior to the old that the exhibitor would want to install the new one right away. Such things happen quite frequently where any kind of machinery is used.

No one can calculate obsolescence in advance, so there is not much use trying to prepare for it. We can imagine, however, that the owner of a profitable theatre, who wanted to hold his success by keeping up to date would be willing to charge off to depreciation a little more than the calculated rate, so that he could take care of the obsolescence if there was any.

We started this dissertation with automobiles just to show the exhibitor that he need not feel ashamed of any previous neglect of depreciation. As a matter of fact, there are still big industrial and public utility companies operating without a proper system of accounting for depreciation. Naturally, they will all come to grief some day. They will have to borrow money at a good interest rate to buy new equipment, and that will cut down their credit, and then they will have to charge off the item anyway in order to pay back the loan. It is better to take care of it properly in the first place.

P. H. W.

Producer Speaks for Sunday Shows

DECRIES "REFORM" AGITATION IN MIDST OF WAR

By John R. Freuler

President, Mutual Film Corporation

THESE are days of harrowing suffering and superlative sacrifice, days when the great mass of the people are entitled to get from life every atom of happiness and pleasure—entitled to every moment that will take them from the horror of reality to the realm of even momentary enjoyment.

It is a time when any effort to curtail entertainment is out of place. The morale of the people is of utmost importance in the struggle for endurance through which the nation is passing. To deprive them of any of their few chances to enjoy life is to invite calamity within our own borders.

No Time for Meddling

The time is particularly and peculiarly inopportune for meddling reformers to be urging upon the legislative bodies of our states and municipalities laws for the Sunday closing of the motion picture theatre. The men who legislate for us are carrying a greater responsibility than ever and they can ill afford to tamper with the existing social order.

It is unfortunate that we have in many communities people who are so thoroughly saturated with the notion that they must make everybody else live as they themselves live that the question of Sunday closing of motion picture theatres is forever agitated. The professional meddler, however, must meddle; he always has and always will, but in times like these he ought to be careful what he meddles with.

Newspapers? Then Pictures, Too

I maintain that the American citizen is as much entitled to his Sunday picture as he is to his Sunday newspaper. The Sunday newspaper is a form of enlightenment and entertainment, more of entertainment than enlightenment. The motion picture is, too, a form of enlightenment and entertainment.

Progressive social workers and forward looking churchmen are not in the ranks of the agitators of Sunday closing. The opponents of the Sunday theatre are professional reformers.

Value of Pictures Shown

The importance of the motion picture has been demonstrated in many instances in the last few months of the "speeding up" process which has been going on in industries. The big factories devoting their energies to the making of munitions and war supplies have been quick to realize the absolute necessity of entertainment for their workmen and today theatres erected by factories are showing the best films.

Are the "reformers" trying to close your theatre on Sunday, or are they opposing your efforts to open it on that day? If so, then this message of Mr. Freuler should prove valuable in your fight. There are many ways in which you could use it or the arguments it contains. If you want extra copies of the magazine send us a letter and we will forward them to you at a special price.—Editor.

England and France have gradually increased the hours of labor. The United States, as the pressure becomes greater, will have to increase the hours of labor. As the hours of labor increase the recreation of workmen is of increasing importance.

Efficiency of Labor Is Factor

I am not arguing that the workmen of the United States will resent action depriving them of their Sunday amusement. I am arguing that their efficiency will be impaired, their morale lowered, by the loss of their Sunday recreation.

From the standpoint of broad moral benefit, the cleanly conducted motion picture theatre, running seven days a week, ranks high as an institution for better citizenship. The most radical of prohibitionists admit that the picture theatre has deprived the saloon of its excuse as a social institution, and trained social workers pay high tribute to the motion picture's accomplishments in binding the family closer together.

Films as Valuable as Press

It is time that the professional reformer let the motion picture alone. The motion picture has proved its place in the life of the people. It is no longer an experiment, but an institution. It is in many respects as necessary and as valuable as the public press.

Any effort to close the motion picture theatre on Sunday is an imposition, peculiarly and particularly in these times.

Critics Praise Broncho Billies

The Broncho Billy films, ten of which have been put in the hands of the Kleine branch offices for release by Essanay, are reported to be making an unprecedented record in booking.

Critics praise these dramas highly. The Chicago Examiner says:

"The revivified Broncho Billy drama pictures are unreeling and they stack up splendidly with present day stuff. Those one reel episodes dominated by daring riding and wonderful scenery are little classics."

A beautiful scene in "Rough and Ready," a William Fox De Luxe production starring William Farnum.

Picturesque scenes from "The Boss of the Lazy Y," a new Triangle picture featuring Roy Stewart.

Elaborate Sets for New Triangles

Carpenters and Directors Erect Canadian Trading Post, Adirondacks Camp and Mexican Border Village

A CANADIAN trading post, a summer camp in the Adirondacks and a Mexican border village have been erected at the Triangle Culver City studios for current productions.

"The Law of the Great Northwest," Ralph Westfall's play of the Canadian wilderness, required the reproduction of a typical trading station of that region and many quaint French Canadian types and Indians, as supers intensify the realism of the picture.

An Adirondack camp not far from New York provides the locale for "Mademoiselle Paulette."

Roy Stewart's latest western has as a setting a cow town on the Mexican border.

The Triangle decorators and carpenters have been rushing the work on these three sets, as well as several important interiors.

During the last week two new stories have been put into production. "Mr. Miller's Economies" is the title of a two-reel comedy which is the concluding Keystone release on the April schedule. William Beaudine is directing. Edwin Brady, Charles Dorian, Myrtle Rishell and Myrtle Reeves are in the cast, which also includes little May Garcia, who appeared in the recent release, "Man Above the Law." Mrs. Kate Corbaley, author of "Real Folks," the Triangle contest winner, wrote this comedy.

Roy Stewart's new western, which is the other play got under way, is temporarily entitled "A Man Worth While." Alvin J. Neitz, author of the star's latest vehicle, "Paying His Debt," wrote this drama, which shows the struggles of the cattle kings with the Mexican bandits and cattle rustlers.

Josie Sedgwick is the leading woman, and will execute many daring feats of horsemanship. Jack Curtis, who last appeared in "The Hard Rock Breed," has another "heavy" role, this time as a crooked foreman in league with the Mexican rustlers. Others in the cast are Frank MacQuarrie, William Jeffries, Louis (Bull) Durham and that well-known quintet of buckaroos, Pete Morrison, Curley Baldwin, Billy Patton, Abe Farra and R. M. Thompson.

The editing department has just received three five-reel pictures. One, "The Lonely Woman," is from the magazine story by John A. Moroso, author of the recent production, "The Shoes That Danced." The release of an innocent man from Sing Sing is the theme of the story. Belle Bennett has the title role, supported by Eugene Corey and Walter Perkins.

Another, "An Honest Man," features William Desmond as a modern Robin Hood. Mary Warren, who played opposite Desmond in "The Sea Panther," has her second role as his leading woman. Ann Kroman and Graham Pette are in the cast.

"Paying His Debt" is the third picture which has been completed. Roy Stewart has his first dual role in this production. Josie Sedgwick plays opposite him.

Directors Jack Conway, Jack Dillon, Gilbert P. Hamilton and Raymond Wells are well under way on their various productions. Director Wells is making rapid progress on "Mlle. Paulette," the scene of which is laid in a summer camp in the Adirondacks and in New York. Claire Anderson, who recently appeared in "The Answer," has the title role. She is cast as an actress who is resting up for the coming season. Wallace McDonald is a scion of a wealthy New York family. George Hernandez, George Pearce, Walter Perry, Anna Dodge and Dot Hagar are in the cast.

Darrell Foss' ability as a dancer is standing him in good stead in Director Jack Conway's picture, "Her Decision," in which Gloria Swanson has the featured role. Foss is supposed to open up a dancing academy, and is shown teaching all of the latest steps to young women of fashion, with Miss Swanson as the silent partner—the one who has put up the money.

This is Miss Swanson's third dramatic appearance, her former vehicles being "Smoke" and "Society for Sale." J. Barney Sherry, last seen in "Who Killed Walton?" has a leading part, as well as Ann Kroman. A girl's sacrifice to save her sister, who has been betrayed, is the basis of the plot.

Alma Rubens has the title role in "Judith," which Gilbert P. Hamilton is directing. Pauline Starke, Edward Peil, Peggy Pearce, Lillian Langdon, Myrtle Rishell, Walt Whitman, Lee Hill and Lee Phelps are included in the cast. Miss Rubens is seen as a fisherman's daughter, who becomes a seeress with studios in New York, the oriental settings of which are said to be elaborate.

Director Harry Edwards has nearly completed a two-reel comedy entitled "Their Neighbor's Baby," which numbers in the cast Rae Godfrey, Ray Griffith and Charles Dorian.

Thomas N. Heffron and Frank Borzage are waiting to be assigned new stories.

McAdoo Urges Liberty Loan Aid

ASKS SCREENING OF TRAILER AT EVERY SHOW

REITERATING his appreciation of the valuable service given in behalf of the first and second Liberty Loan campaigns, W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, has sent an appeal direct to every exhibitor in the country for their whole-hearted support in the third loan, the campaign for which opened April 6, the first anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany.

That Mr. McAdoo had sent such a letter was made public by Adolph Zukor, chairman of the committee from the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which was formed to co-operate with the treasury department in the various campaigns.

Text of McAdoo Letter

The letter of the Secretary of the Treasury follows:

"To the Motion Picture Exhibitors of America:

"Gentlemen:

"The motion picture exhibitors of America rendered invaluable service in the first and second Liberty Loan campaigns. I have no doubt that the government will have the same effective co-operation from them in the approaching campaign for the third loan, which will open on the sixth of April, 1918, the first anniversary of the declaration of a state of war between the United States and Germany.

"It is essential that every force in the country be rallied to the support of the government to make the loan a great success and in order to place at your command the means of assisting very effectively from the beginning of the campaign, you will receive in the course of the next few days two packages—one containing a set of five one-sheet lithographs, especially designed for the purpose of moving picture display; and the other containing a fifty-foot moving picture trailer bearing a patriotic message.

Poster Display Urged

"I sincerely hope that in the course of the campaign you will display all of the posters sent to you in your lobby or in the frames on the exterior of your theatre, singly or collectively.

"The fifty-foot trailer is designed for exhibition at every performance in your theatre during the campaign. In order that you may have it for use throughout the campaign, I am asked to request that you give instructions that it be preserved and not returned to any film exchange. Through its display at all performances, you will contribute very materially to the success of the third Liberty Loan and I shall deeply appreciate your patriotic co-operation.

"Sincerely yours,
(Signed) W. G. McAdoo."

Three Stars to Capital

Preparatory shots of the third campaign were fired by the industry with the departure for Washington of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin. En route they are speaking at every stop of importance.

Miss Pickford, Chaplin and Fairbanks have ceased their activities before the camera and during the entire month of April they will devote all of their time in the interest of the loan.

The stars are making the trip to Chicago over the Salt Lake route in what has been designated as the "Three-Star special." In Chicago a demonstration on a large scale awaits them. On the evening of their arrival here the trip to Washington will be resumed and while en route there will be receptions at Fort Wayne and Harrisburg.

Arriving at Washington, the stars will rest and the next day they will begin their tours. Chaplin will strike out for the South, Miss Pickford will tour the East and Fairbanks will journey through the Middle West.

Sample of posters to be shown by exhibitors in connection with the third Liberty Loan.

World to Release "The Trap" on April 15

Picture Features Alice Brady in Role of Girl Who Finds Happiness in Spite of Persecution and Duplicity

"THE TRAP" with Alice Brady in the star role is scheduled for release on April 15 by World-Pictures. The character of this picture is a decided deviation from the star's immediately previous drama, "Spurs of Sybil." That picture was a society comedy done in a broad farcical manner, but "The Trap" is a forceful drama dealing with the vicissitudes of a persecuted girl. It gives Miss Brady several supreme opportunities for the expression of her dramatic ability and possesses a climactic development of the intensest kind.

Director George Archainbaud, who directed "The Cross Bearer" and many other World successes, handled the production and the supporting cast is of unusual excellence.

Miss Brady plays the role of Doris Shaw, who is a motherless child living in an obscure fishing village, the principal interest of the inhabitants being the persecution of those who have different religious opinions. Nat Fletcher was a keen suitor for her hand, but he scarcely measured up to her standards. It was only when Stuart Kendall, a wealthy artist, visited the village that she found a man fulfilling her requirements.

But Nat revenged himself by circulating false reports regarding her so that the fanatics became worked into a frenzy and stoned her out of the village. An outcast, she succeeded in reaching New York in a penniless condition. One day while enviously watching the laughing diners in a little bohemian restaurant, she fainted.

They solicitously carried her into the place and compassionately gave her a position as a waitress. One day Kendall dined at the restaurant with a client for a prospective poster. While complaining that he could not find a suitable model, he cast his eyes upon Doris and recognizing her at once, requested her to pose for him. Kendall showered luxuries upon her and begged her to take his apartment temporarily.

It was then that a young ranchman from the West, who happened to see the poster, vowed to make the original his wife and in pursuing his enterprise came east and by accident met Doris. He appealed to her and their friendship grew, although Kendall expressed his disapproval of it and pointed out their relationships. But he found Doris adamant and then changed his tactics by pretending to be favorably interested in their happiness.

Masterson, the Westerner, asked her for her hand. Kendall maliciously resolved to disillusion Masterson on the evening of their wedding, but his duplicity attained only partial success, although Masterson left the city in a rage, for Doris, discovering his plans, left on the same train and the final scene discloses the couple reunited.

Alice Brady, Select star, as she will appear in her new picture, "The Ordeal of Rosetta."

Norma Talmadge Resumes Work

Norma Talmadge, the Select star, has returned from her flying trip to California, during which she made a four-day visit to her mother and two sisters.

Her return was the signal for resumption of work on her next production, "De Luxe Annie," the screen presentation of Scammon Lockwood's successful stage play of the present season, which, following its New York run, has been on tour of the larger cities.

Roland West, formerly manager of the Talmadge studios, is in charge of this picture. Miss Talmadge is again supported by Eugene O'Brien, who has been leading man in her recent productions, and who with her scored such a tremendous success in "Ghosts of Yesterday."

The adaptation was made by Paul West. Anthony Kelly, who was doing this script, was obliged to withdraw on account of the acceptance of a play from his pen for a production on the speaking stage by Cohan and Harris, necessitating his close attention to the spoken drama for a time.

Alice Brady Completes Picture

Alice Brady, Select star, has just completed filming "The Ordeal of Rosetta," in which her versatility and artistry are given full expression in the dual role of the twin sisters, Rosetta and Lola, respectively the heroine and villainess of the story.

An earthquake in the little Sicilian town of Cantonia, where the girls live with their father, Professor Gelardi, separates them. Rosetta comes to New York with her aged parent and becomes a stenographer and later the secretary of a successful novelist. Lola becomes an adventuress and drifts to South America.

Later she, too, comes to New York and the tangling threads of fate involve the sisters in a web of circumstances that furnish the ordeal from which Rosetta emerges victorious.

Miss Brady's company made an efficiency record in this production through the synchronized filming of exteriors and interiors. While Emile Chautard, the director, worked in the studio, his assistant, Albert Lena, not only made all arrangements for exteriors and built reproductions of a Riverside Drive apartment and a Mulberry Bend flat, but also actually photographed many of the outdoor scenes, including automobile runs on the Long Island estate of the novelist, the entrance to Sherry's and other bits of the production.

The star's leading man was Crauford Kent. Others in the cast are Ormi Hawley, Maude Turner Gordon, Henry Leoni and Hazel Washburn.

Dramatic moments in the new Triangle picture, "The Love Brokers," featuring Alma Rubens and Joe Bennett.

Four Triangle-Keystones This Month

First Is by Mrs. Kate Corbaley, Author of $1,000 Story in Recent Photoplay Contest

COMEDY production has continued steadily at the Culver City studios and four two-reelers, recently completed, are listed for April release on the Triangle card.

Several innovations are apparent on the new program. "Mr. Briggs Closes the House," the first feature of the month, is a deviation from the usual type of comedy. Mrs. Kate Corbaley, author of "Real Folks," the $1,000 story in the recent Triangle contest, wrote the theme.

Exceptionally good casts, it is said, have been selected for the forthcoming features, and many players from the dramatic end of the lot will make their appearance in comedy roles. Fritzie Ridgeway, Myrtle Rishell, Jack Livingston, Jack Richardson, Lillian West and May Walters are among the temporary deserters who will be seen in future Keystones.

Charles Mortimer Peck, the well-known writer who has recently joined the Triangle scenario staff, adapted Mrs. Corbaley's comedy for the screen. The picture deals with the comedies and errors of domestic life.

Jason Briggs, his wife's "superior" in everything but knitting, assures her that she may safely precede him on their long-planned vacation to the beach, telling her that he will close the house and follow on the next boat. Rather than trust the minute details to a mere man, however, she prepares a long list of "don'ts" for his guidance, while the meter of a waiting taxi tallies up the minutes in dollars and cents.

When Mrs. Briggs is on her way, her husband proceeds to "close the house." He leaves this mere trifle to two men who "take things easily." After preparing a banquet for themselves, the crooks appropriate everything of value in the house and depart in style, leaving the house much "cleaner" than Briggs had left it. The surprises which await the Briggs on their return are many and amusing.

William Beaudine directed.

Working with Director Herman Raymaker in "First Aid," on the April 14 program, are William Franey, Maud Wayne, Diana Carrillo, twelve-year-old Burwell Hamrick, and Myrtle Reeves. Mrs. Howard (Maud Wayne) is a "first aid fiend." She spends her time at the Red Cross meetings learning how to bandage the injured. She tries to drag Mr. Howard to a first aid demonstration, and not succeeding, decides to have one of her own. When Mrs. Graham, who decided to attend the function, was rowing thither, she tried to make a landing and found herself suddenly in the water. Immediately the Howards called first aid into play and results proved disastrous and catastrophic.

"Their Neighbor's Baby" is the comedy release for the week of April 21. In the cast are Fritzie Ridgeway, Rae Godfrey, Ray Griffith and Charles Dorian, Joey Jacobs, Little Barbara Connelly, who appeared in "Little Red Decides," and several other children.

"Mr. Miller's Economies" is the fourth and concluding comedy of the month. Edward Brady and Charles Dorian are the featured players.

Release Date Set

World-Pictures will release "Masks and Faces," with Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and other stars of the English stage on May 6.

Here's Efficiency for You

STAGE hands, blue; property men and carpenters, white; electricians, brown.

These are the colors of the uniforms now worn by the staffs at the World-Pictures studio, the change being made in the interest of increased efficiency.

Formerly when a director wanted a piece of furniture or prop removed from a set, he was just as apt to ask an electrician or a carpenter to do it as a property man. But no longer. All he has to do now is to look for a man in white.

Efficiency? Yes, indeed, because all of this makes for better, swifter and more economical production.

Prepare to Fight Reformers

Exhibitors of Montreal, Canada, have been informed that the victory of the Lord's Day Alliance over the theatre men of Quebec, closing all houses on Sundays, will be used as a lever to force Sunday closing in Montreal and other cities of the province. The victory of the reformers in Quebec was an easy one, as the film interests failed to organize for the fight.

The Montreal exhibitors do not purpose to surrender so easily, however. The Moving Picture Exhibitors' Association has been reorganized and Secretary A. H. Beaulne is hot after new members. The Montreal Exchangemen's Association is also very much alive and awake to the fact that it must take care of the interests of both exhibitors and exchanges. Several meetings have been held recently and it has been decided to retain legal counsel.

Romantic scenes from "The Business of Life," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature starring Alice Joyce.

"Over the Top" Opens at Lyric in New York

Transfer From Hudson Is Made by Vitagraph to Permit of Long Run—Empey Appearing in Person First Week

"OVER THE TOP," with Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey himself, the Vitagraph screen production made from Empey's famous book, began an extended run at the Lyric theatre, New York, March 31.

It had been previously announced that the big patriotic picture would be shown at the Hudson theatre on the same date. This was due to the fact that Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, was desirous of getting the picture into a theatre by April 6, the first anniversary of America's entry into the war, and the only big theatre available that could include this date was the Hudson. This was open for only ten days, and as a longer run is assured for "Over the Top," a theatre that could give a longer booking was desirable.

So when, at the last moment, the Vitagraph Company was fortunate enough to obtain the Lyric, the Henry B. Harris Estate, owners of the Hudson theatre, extended every courtesy and cooperation to the Vitagraph Company and gave its consent to the cancellation of the arrangements.

Sergeant Empey is appearing personally at every performance during the first week.

"Over the Top" is one of the most timely and important motion pictures ever produced. It follows closely the events of Empey's book and presents the struggle in France in sharp silhouette without any attempt at showing the major operations.

Through the expert knowledge of Sergeant Empey, gained through eighteen months of service with the British, trench fighting is revealed with great faithfulness and the spectator gets all of the thrill of watching trench raids without any of the horrors of slaughter.

More than 7,500 American soldiers, training at Camp Wheeler, near Macon, Ga., will be seen in action in the trench scenes, which were made through a special permit of the war department. Sergeant Empey and the Vitagraph company supporting him spent the greater part of a month at Camp Wheeler and the army officers have declared that the trench raids and hand-to-hand fighting scenes are the most realistic ever produced.

By the insight it gives into actual trench conditions as they are being met by thousands of Americans now, and as other thousands will come to know them soon, "Over the Top" takes a strong place in the patriotic educational propaganda of the nation. The war is presented in such a way that every parent or relative of a soldier must see it, because it gives reassurance that American courage and fighting instinct assert themselves in France today as they have on other battlefields in other days.

The Vitagraph Company has been more than three months in the making of the picture and is said to have expended a vast sum of money on it.

Prepare to Visit "Snowland"

Nell Shipman and her Vitagraph company, under the direction of William Wolbert, have gone to Truckee, Cal., to film the first scenes for the superfeature, "Boree, Son of Kazan."

Some wonderfully artistic effects in photography are planned. One scene of a pack of wolves traveling across the snow under the branches of snow covered trees with a full moon shining will be made. This pack will be used in other scenes also and it is planned to photograph many of the scenes showing the dog, as well as all of the settings requiring the snow location.

The company will remain in Truckee and its neighborhod for a month or more.

Pictures Face New Competition

The heaviest competition in the local history of the business will be experienced by managers of Louisville motion picture houses this summer. Every vaudeville, musical comedy, dramatic and burlesque house, every summer park, every dance hall and every other attraction will be "wide open."

In the past, the only competition the motion picture houses have had in the summer has been one big park, Fontaine Ferry, on the banks of the Ohio. Macauley's, B. F. Keith's National, B. F. Keith's Mary Anderson, the Gayety and the Buckingham, all "legit" houses, have closed their doors in previous years each April. Attracted by the big business that Camp Zachary Taylor has brought, however, all these houses will be wide open this year.

To Boost Trade with Films

Motion pictures are to be used in the new struggle for world domination in trade. British managers are the first to make use of the films.

It is announced in Washington that an organization called the Moving Picture Exhibitors of British Industries, Ltd., is arranging a tour of the important cities of western Europe, North and South America and the British dominions. Pictures will be shown illustrating the manufacture and use of various lines of British made goods.

To Save the Lives of Our Brothers and Sons
Invest in U. S.
Liberty Bonds
Goldwyn's every energy will be placed solidly behind our Government in its Liberty Bond campaign and in any and every manner that can aid the Nation at war.
Goldwyn Pictures Corporation
Samuel Goldfish, Pres.
Edgar Selwyn, V-Pres.
16 East 42d Street
New York City

Worth Fighting For?

SHALL this little girl grow up in the sort of American home we know, healthy and happy? Shall she have the advantage of living and learning in a free land, under free institutions? Shall such children develop into Liberty-loving citizens that a free America may be proud of?

For over two hundred years Americans have fought valiantly, and died gallantly, to win for themselves and hand down to their posterity the blessings of liberty, justice, self-government and equal opportunity. This precious heritage, bought at so great a price, is now threatened.

The question which today confronts America as a nation, and you as an individual, is whether or not a free America is worth fighting for

Are American children in this and all future generations to receive unimpaired the legacy of freedom of which we are now the custodians, or shall their country be turned over bodily to the brutal, rapacious, power-mad enemy which has forced us into this war?

This question cannot be answered by word of mouth, but by deeds alone.

Let your answer be your investment in

Liberty Bonds!

Metro Pictures Corporation

subscribes with all its earnestness to this patriotic principle and urges the full co-operation of the Motion Picture Industry with the Liberty Loan Committee.

How Much of Your Pay Do You Think You Can Keep if Germany Wins This War?

If, to help America win this war, you buy

Liberty Bonds

to the very limit of your ability you are not merely helping America. You are not merely making a good investment. You are not merely helping to bring peace nearer. You are doing all these things, and in addition you are buying the best protection for your own individual prosperity—yes, the only real protection you can buy.

Universal Support of the Government is loyalty and patriotism and besides—if Uncle Sam is not victorious in this war there will be mighty little profit n business for U. S.—Autocracy is a close collector.

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation

Producers and Distributors of Paramount and Artcraft Pictures

485 Fifth Avenue, New York City

What Will Protect YOU If These Are Defeated?
Our army and navy are the protectors and the only protectors of your home—your family—your income—your property.
What will become of you and yours if these protectors are weakened and rendered insufficient to their task?
They will not be defeated by the enemy.
The only way they can be defeated or weakened is through your failure to support them with ships, food, weapons, ammunitions, clothing and supplies.
Your life, your business, the future of your family, may depend upon how much real effort and sacrifice you make to invest in
Liberty Bonds
In utilizing this advertisement to talk Liberty Bonds rather than our own business, we do so in the firm belief that there will be little of either pleasure or profit in our business or any American business unless Liberty wins this war.
"The Eagle's Eye"
1476 Broadway, New York City
L.U. REAVIS

Will You Invest Your Money With Uncle Sam Now?

Or Let Germany Take It Away From You Later?

Be practical. Look squarely at the facts. We will either invest our money with Uncle Sam now, at good interest rates, to help him win this war, or we will give it up later to pay Germany's war cost—and as much more as Germany chooses to collect. Invest in

Liberty Bonds

Today

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

Triangle Distributing Corporation

1457 Broadway, New York

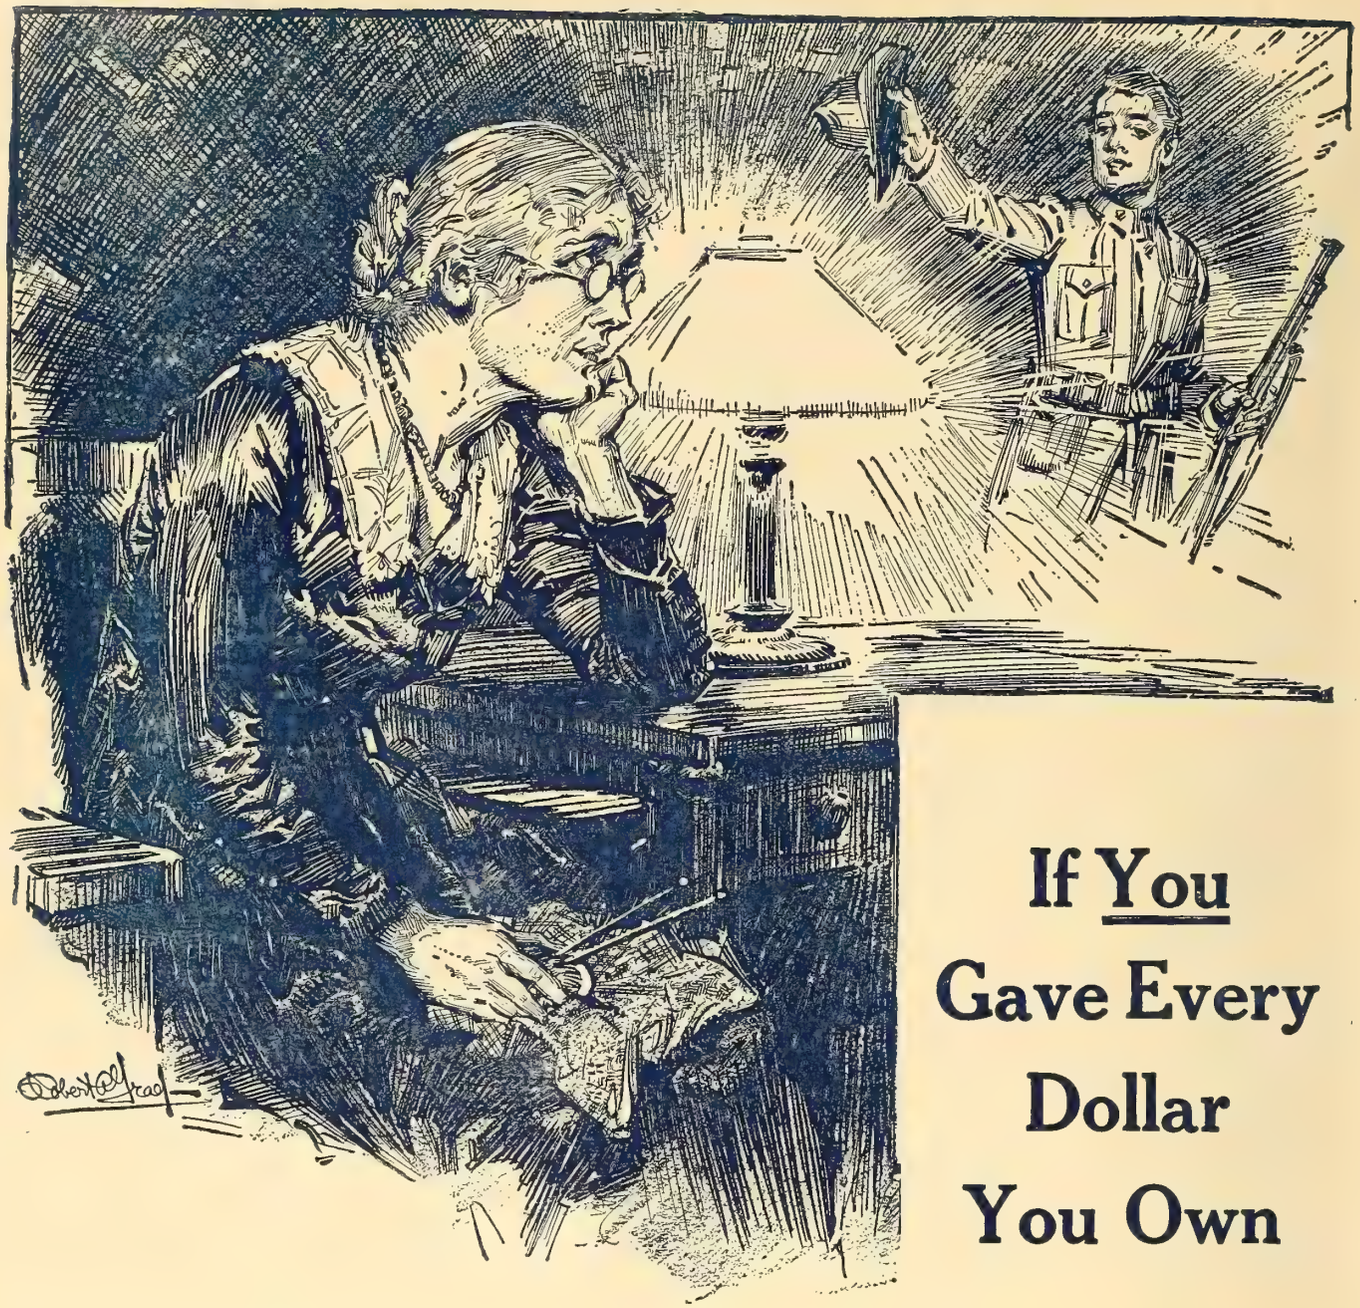
The THIRD LINE of DEFENSE
Get into it and Dig
LIBERTY LOAN
LIBERTY LOAN
LIBERTY LOAN
In this line every true American can and will help to win the war. Invest in
Liberty Bonds
In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by
Select Pictures Corporation
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Choose!

"Lend Me Your Money that I may equip my Army and Navy to insure for you and your children the blessings of Liberty."

"Give Me Your Money or Your Life"

Invest now to the limit of your ability in



U. S. Liberty Bonds

The Kaiser calls us "a nation of dollar chasers." Let us show him that we know how to use those dollars in the defense of Liberty and the overthrow of Prussianism.

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.

"Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"—Carl Laemmle, President

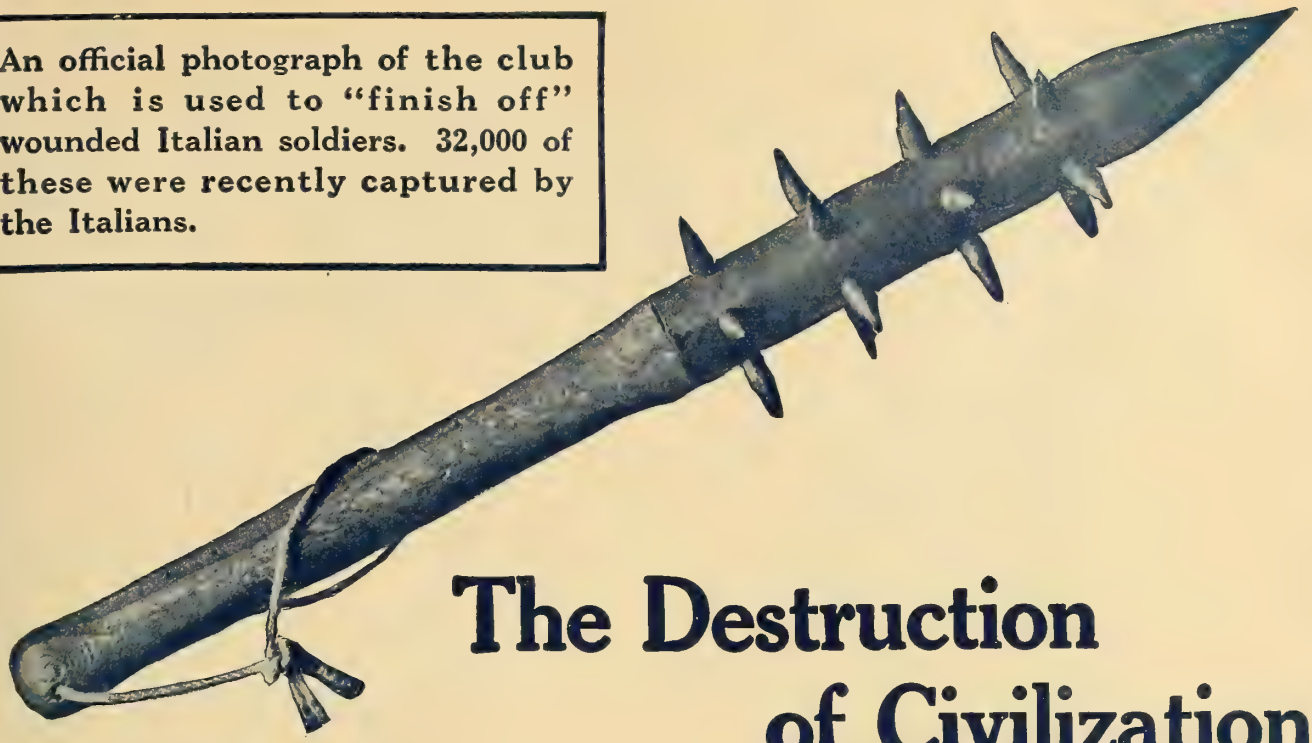
1600 Broadway, New York City

If You Gave Every Dollar You Own

how little would the sacrifice be compared to theirs.

We are not asked to give. We are asked only to lend. To lend at good interest secured by the best collateral on earth

U. S. Liberty Bonds



In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

Paralta Plays

"Pick of the Pictures"

Paralta Plays, Inc., 6 West 48th Street, New York City

An official photograph of the club which is used to "finish off" wounded Italian soldiers. 32,000 of these were recently captured by the Italians.

The Destruction of Civilization is in grim and sober reality what we are fighting this war to prevent. The club pictured above—from an actual official photograph—might be the weapon of a savage cave man of five thousand years ago. It is in fact the weapon with which German soldiers "finish off" enemy wounded who have fallen on the battlefield.

There is only one answer to make to such methods—the defeat of the German armies. America has taken up the sword to give that answer. Our army is in France to help win this war on the battlefield—that civilization may be safe, that America may be safe.

You Can Have Your Share in America's Answer to German Savagery

The Third Liberty Loan is your opportunity. It is the most direct blow that can be struck at German military supremacy. It is the most powerful aid that can be given our soldiers in France. It means rifles and helmets and gas-masks—the best protection for our men from German brutality. It means big guns and shells and airplanes—and VICTORY.

Invest today in bonds of the Third Liberty Loan, and save the lives of American soldiers.

Save Civilization, Save America, Your Own Family and Your Own Home

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

General Film Company
(Incorporated)
25 West 44th Street, New York City

Put your money in this bank

It's the safest in the world. It pays you good interest. And your deposits in it help to insure a priceless heritage of freedom and peace for your children and your childrens' children.

To the limit of your resources

Invest in the Third U. S.

Liberty Loan

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

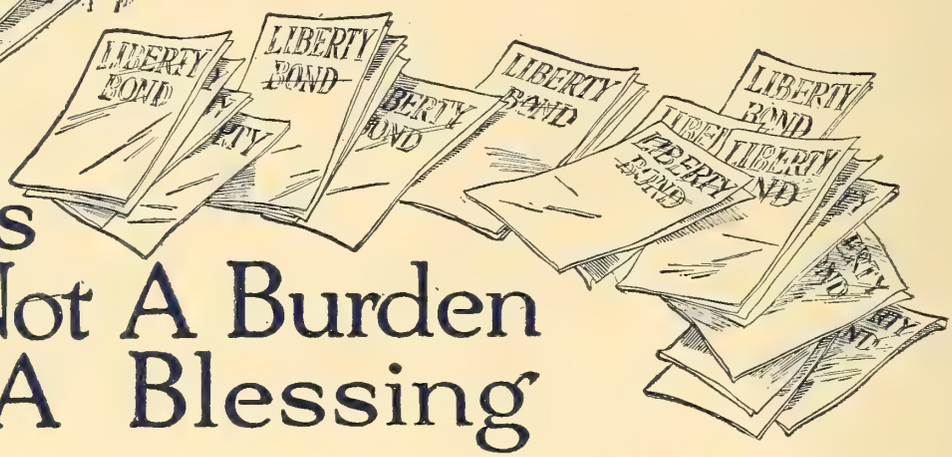
Pathe Exchange, Inc.

25 West 45th Street, New York City

He says we are bluffing!
Let's show him a big Card — and everybody in on the Pot.

Put up your ante now in the

3RD LIBERTY LOAN



In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

World Film Corp'n

126 West 46th Street, New York City

YOU are asked to save every cent not needed for your reasonable support and physical well being—this is thrift

Bonds Are Not A Burden But A Blessing

THRIFT requires the exercise of restraint and self-denial—qualities without which you cannot achieve the success in life which it is your ambition to achieve, and for the lack of which you are likely to suffer in later years.

The money you acquire by thrift you are asked to loan—not give—to your country. It will come back to you when you may need it far more than you do now, and you will be paid interest for its use.

This war is a frightful thing, but it may prove of inestimable benefit to you, if it teaches you the good habit of thrift. Start the habit by investing in

Liberty Bonds

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

Mutual Film Corporation

220 South State Street, Chicago, Ill.

Where Your Money Goes

WE are now building more naval and merchant ships than we have constructed in the last generation.

We are building a vast fleet of airplanes, and enormous supplies of artillery, motor trucks, machine guns, rifles and ammunition. We are feeding, clothing and training an army of a million men, and preparing for a million more. We have loaned billions of dollars to our allies to be spent in the United States.

From the shipyards of the Pacific to those of the Atlantic; on our farms and in our mines, mills and factories in every state in the Union; back of the firing lines in France, where men are training, camps are being erected and railroads built, billions upon billions are being expended for labor, for transportation, for materials and supplies of every description.

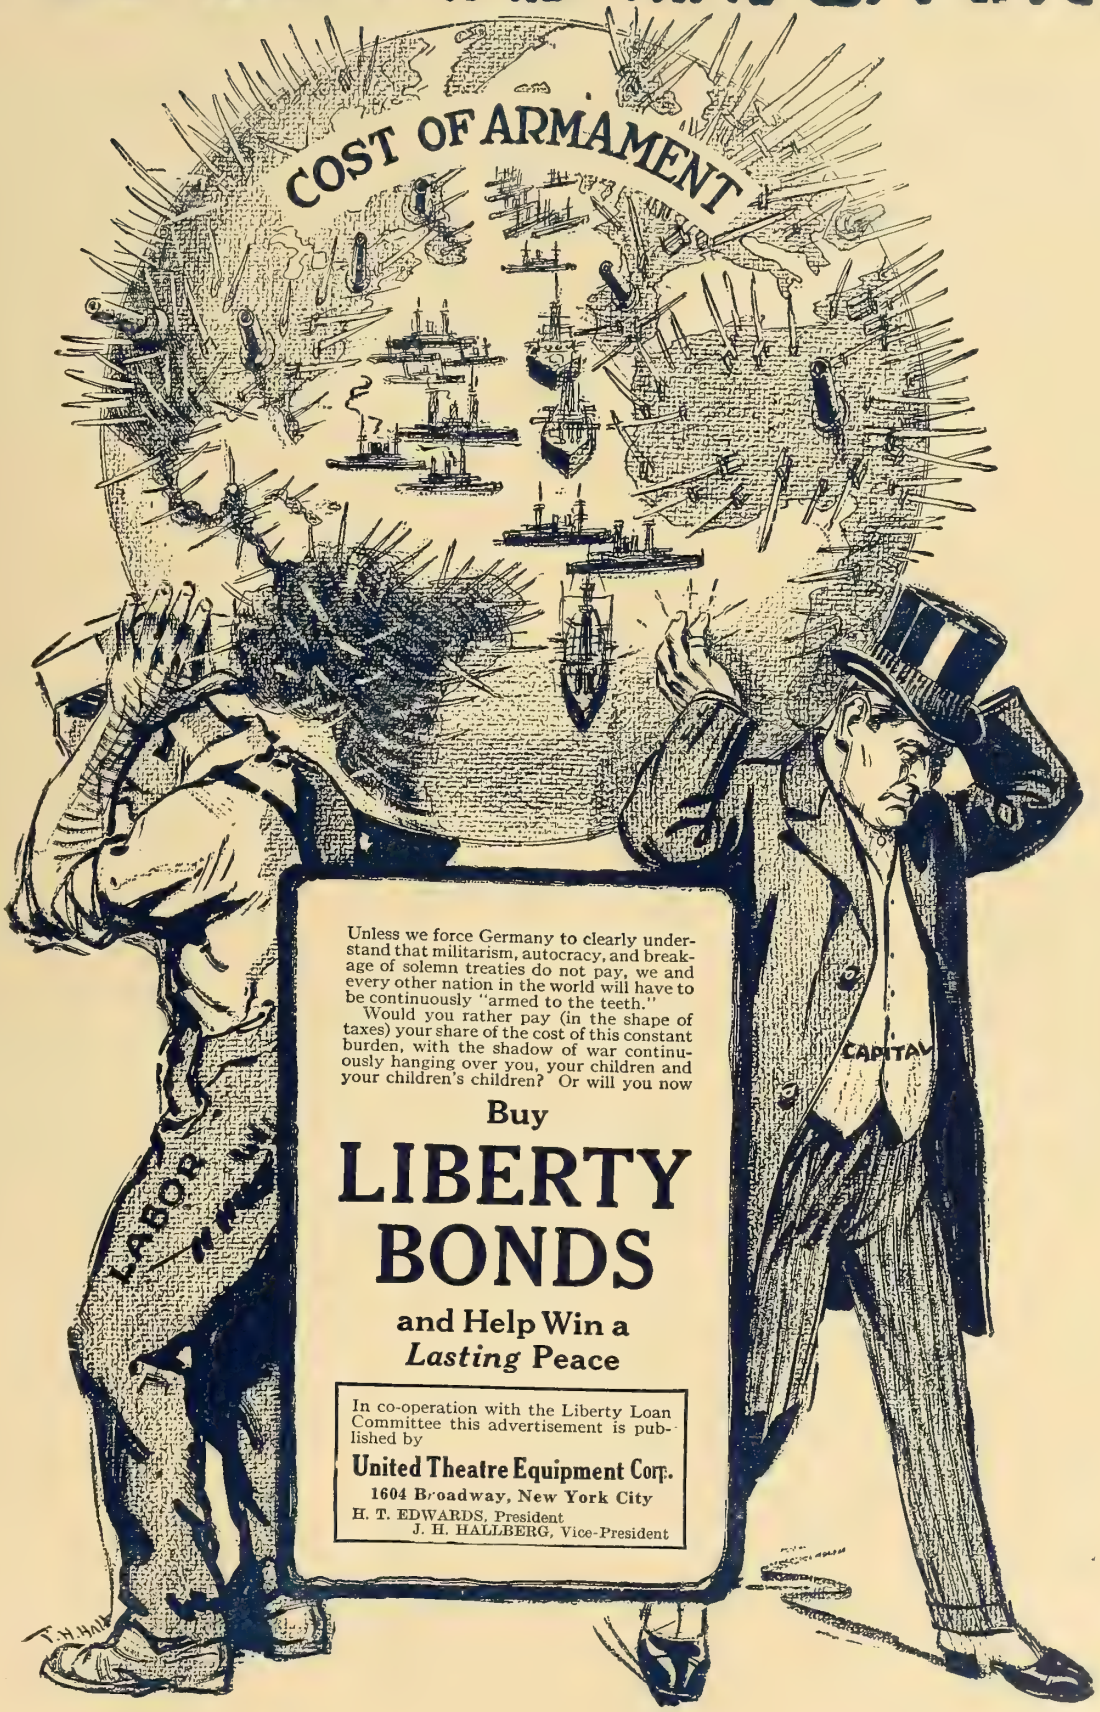
The mind can hardly conceive the sums of money required for our war preparations. Yet these expenditures are absolutely essential. We must win the war quickly if possible; we must carry it on for years if necessary. We must do the job with American thoroughness, let the cost be what it may.

Remember, when you invest in your Liberty Bonds, that there is immediate, urgent, imperative need for every dollar you can possibly spare.

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

Simplex MADE AND GUARANTEED BY THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC. Simplex

317 East 34th St.·· New York



"And there is a lot more up the river than has ever come over the falls."

Our business is mighty important to us but we are more than glad to substitute for our own message on this page the message of the Liberty Loan.

Nicholas Power Co., Inc.
90 Gold Street, New York City

DO YOU WANT THIS KIND OF PEACE?

Unless we force Germany to clearly understand that militarism, autocracy, and breakage of solemn treaties do not pay, we and every other nation in the world will have to be continuously "armed to the teeth."

Would you rather pay (in the shape of taxes) your share of the cost of this constant burden, with the shadow of war continuously hanging over you, your children and your children's children? Or will you now

Buy

LIBERTY BONDS

and Help Win a Lasting Peace

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by United Theatre Equipment Corp.

1604 Broadway, New York City

H. T. EDWARDS, President
J. H. HALLBERG, Vice-President

We are going to Win This War

The victory, like everything worth while in life, will require sacrifice, self denial, ungrudging effort.

In defense of Liberty, Justice and Civilization, we must use every weapon at our command. And not the least of these is money. Never in the history of the world has there been a truer cause. Invest in

Liberty Bonds

In co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee this advertisement is published by

Rothacker
FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.
TRADE MARK REG.

1339 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, Ill.

Attractive scenes from "The Business of Life," new Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature starring Alice Joyce.

Start Tour to Boost Petrova Pictures

Personal Representative of Star and Publicity Manager to Visit All Exchanges Distributing Product

HERBERT LUBIN, personal representative for Madame Olga Petrova, accompanied by Bert Ennis, director of publicity of the Petrova Picture Company, left New York last week for a tour of the exchanges of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. The First National distributes the Petrova productions.

To convince the exchange managers as well as exhibitors of Madame Petrova's earnest desire to co-operate with them in the working out of all commercial problems, Mr. Lubin will carry with him a personal message from the famous star. He will also make an intensive study of conditions surrounding the presentation of the Petrova features and be in a position to give valuable advice and assistance not only to the exchange man, but to the exhibitor as well.

He is particularly fitted for this task, having been the franchise holder of Metro productions in Canada for several years and to his credit goes the present successful standing of these films here. He is a film man of many years' experience, at the present time being a member of the firm of General Enterprises, Inc. Arthur H. Sawyer is his partner.

Mr. Ennis will carry out in full the working details of the recently established service bureau. He will carry with him an extensive line of accessories and advertising aids, exactly suited to the use of the exhibitors in towns both large and small and will concentrate a strong publicity drive on various sections of the country which heretofore have not received the attention they deserved.

In addition to this Mr. Ennis will carry with him a new advertising novelty for the exploitation of Madame Petrova's forthcoming productions. It is believed that exhibitors will give this latest adjunct of the service bureau an enthusiastic reception inasmuch as it will serve to attract the attention of thousands of people in their localities who have heretofore been only slightly interested in pictures. He will also coordinate the present activities of the Petrova publicity department with those of the exchanges.

A feature of the trip will be an extensive bill-board campaign to be carried out in the important cities. A beautiful twenty-four sheet stand has been prepared for this purpose and the Petrova Picture Company is in a position to furnish exhibitors with a sufficient quantity of the lithographs to cover thoroughly all advertising space.

Starting at Boston, the itinerary calls for visits to Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Des Moines, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Chicago and Dallas. Following a thorough investigation of these territories, the South and West will be visited.

Petrova Starts Fifth Picture

Mme. Olga Petrova has returned to New York after a brief vacation at Palm Beach, Fla., and will commence work immediately on the fifth of her special productions. The forthcoming vehicle is especially noted because of the prominence of the author and the unprecedented price paid for the screen rights.

"Patience Sparhawk and Her Times" is the title of the fifth production, which is a picturization of the celebrated novel by the same name from the pen of Gertrude Atherton. This book is now in its twelfth edition, has been translated into several foreign languages and has been read by millions of devotees of the photoplay.

Ralph Ince, who directed "Tempered Steel," the latest production in which Madame Petrova is to appear, has been re-engaged to picturize Miss Atherton's novel.

Mary Murillo is working on the adaptation of the story.

Much pains have been taken to select the exact types required and several faces heretofore unseen in support of Madame Petrova will appear. Madame Petrova has selected Rockcliffe Fellows to play the leading male role. Mr. Fellows has appeared in support of many of the most prominent female stars and his work is known to millions of fans.

New Company Organized

The Arcey Film Company has been organized at Chicago for the purpose of purchasing and distributing to the representative theatres of the country motion picture subjects of short length and recognized merit.

The company, of which J. J. Richardson is general manager, is especially interested in Griffith-Biograph re-issues, or copies of those which have not been re-issued.

Star Begins New Picture

June Elvidge has begun her new World-Picture, "The Echo," with Travers Vale directing. Prominent in the cast is John Bowers.

"Heart of the Sunset" Is Full of Thrills

Fascinating Romance of Man and Woman in Widely Different Stations Revealed in Texas Border Scenes

THE most absorbing and thrilling Rex Beach story ever screened—"Heart of the Sunset"—a melodramatic romance of the great American Southwest in the not far gone days when Uncle Sam, angered almost beyond patience, stepped into Vera Cruz and with a mighty fleet of dreadnoughts to back him up, took nagging Mexico by the back of the neck and shook it until its teeth chattered, is shortly to be released by Goldwyn, according to an announcement by that company.

"Heart of the Sunset," despite the background, is not a tale of warfare. Rather is it a fascinating romance of the borderland, woven with that skill for which the author is famous around the lives and love of two creatures widely separated by station and environment—Alaire Austin, beautiful, wretched wife, in time the widow, of a wealthy and dissolute young ranch owner, and Dave Law, Texas ranger and two-gun man.

The picture has been produced with the skill and care always given to the Rex Beach productions. It is packed with thrilling action and incident. The brawn, the courage and the spirit of America are in the picture.

One sees the daring Texas rangers, disregarding international law in just fury at the depredations of the revolutionists, sweeping into Mexico in an officially unauthorized invasion of a foreign land.

Have you ever seen the Philippine "water cure," responsible for one of America's greatest army scandals, in a motion picture? It provides one of the powerful scenes.

Do you know the most terrible death in the world? General Longorio threatens to bury one of his bandits to his neck in an ant hill and fill his mouth with honey.

Think of a brave American boy being made to watch through the night a band of Mexican savages digging his own grave.

Imagine the plight of a beautiful woman, just widowed by the treacherous act of a bandit leader's hired assassin, trapped in the rebel chief's headquarters in the fastness of Mexico's sand and cactus and commanded on pain of death to marry her captor at once.

These are only a few of the breath-taking heart throbs in "Heart of the Sunset." The picture will be distributed as a Rex Beach special.

New Star Combination

Madge Evans and Johnny Hines are to appear shortly in a World-Picture entitled "Clarissa," which was especially written for them by Maravene Thompson.

An interesting scene from the new Rex Beach picture, "Heart of the Sunset," distributed by Goldwyn.

Announcement

THE attention of exhibitors is called to the sixteen-page Liberty Loan insert in this issue. Publication of the insert represents MOTOGRAPHY's part in the boosting of the loan. The section was designed and prepared by producers, distributors and manufacturers, but it is given circulation by MOTOGRAPHY gratis.

To run this insert it was necessary to cut down the size of the magazine ten pages to avoid bulk. As it is, the number is six pages larger than ordinarily.

In view of the fact that MOTOGRAPHY is doing its bit, the indulgence of the readers is asked in the slight reduction of news pages. The editors believe that no subscriber will make objection in view of the cause.

Capitol Comedies Being Shown

The first of the Capitol Comedies starring "Smiling Bill" Parsons was shown at the Strand Theatre, New York, last week to audiences which took delight in following through two fast-moving reels the adventures of a fat, bald-headed, jovial newspaper reporter (Parsons) and the baby he "borrows" to carry off the first prize in a neighborhood baby show.

"Bill's Baby" is the initial picture of twenty-six two-reelers to be distributed annually by Goldwyn under a contract with Parsons, the star and producer.

Billie Rhodes, for some time a screen star in her own right, supports Parsons in "Bill's Baby." There are half a dozen other capable funmakers, not the least important of which is the baby. She is a three-year-old girl whose name, unfortunately, was not preserved for the records. Next to Parsons she's the hit of the show.

Plans Madge Kennedy Week

Thomas Furniss, owner of the Rex theatre, Duluth, Minn., in the belief that Madge Kennedy is without a peer in her line, has arranged for a "Madge Kennedy Week" in the near future. He will repeat on "Baby Mine" and "Nearly Married" during the week that he plays the star in "Our Little Wife.'

"I predict that within a year Madge Kennedy will be in a class all by herself," says Mr. Furniss. "She wins her spectators right from the jump, and though 'Baby Mine' and 'Nearly Married' were both six-reelers, many of my patrons told me they couldn't get enough of her."

Two scenes from Marguerite Clark's new Paramount production, "Rich Man, Poor Man."

Film "Face in the Dark" Scenes in Bank

Goldwyn Players Have Run of Fort Lee Institution Sunday Morning and Realism Will Be the Result

NOT often is a director afforded the co-operation of a bank in photogphing scenes supposed to take place in one. Usually such settings are built inside the studio with such care that audiences do not suspect that they are not real.

But on behalf of Goldwyn, Director Hobart Henley is fortunate in having enlisted the interest of the Fort Lee National Bank in the production of "The Face in the Dark," the Irvin S. Cobb drama of the secret service soon to be released, starring Mae Marsh.

Much of the action is laid in a country bank, with many important scenes centering around the various departments and the vaults themselves.

Arrangements were made with the executives of the bank and on a recent Sunday morning Miss Marsh, Niles Welch, Joseph Smiley, Donald Hall and Mr. Henley took possession of the building. Lights had been installed the day before, so the Goldwyn players entered without attracting any attention. One by one the scenes were taken—Niles Welch at his paying teller's window, smiling through the wicket at Miss Marsh and making a mistake in his accounts because of her presence might have been a little incident in real life.

Finally, work was completed and the party prepared to leave. Outside they were met by policemen. It would make a good story to say that they were arrested on suspicion and locked up, but everyone in Fort Lee being used to the way of motion picture producers is ready for anything. The guardians of the law asked questions, but were soon convinced that the Goldwyn workers were not making away with the bank's assets. There was another side to the undertaking, however.

During the course of the play the vaults are blown open and the compartments robbed. Obviously this could not be accomplished in the real bank. Art Director Hugo Ballin could only duplicate the safe inside the studio. Armed with sketching materials, he was allowed to copy the intricacies of the Fort Lee vaults and his duplicate was constructed with such success that an official of the institution, invited to the studio, declared that when the explosion took place he felt a thrill of horror. It was like standing by and watching the real bank's locks being forced before his eyes.

Letters from Star Fill House

Five hundred motion picture devotees at Iowa Falls, Ia., last week received personal letters from the Goldwyn star inviting them to see her in "Thais."

The letters were due to the alertness of E. O. Ellsworth, manager of the Metropolitan Theatre, Iowa Falls. Two days of capacity business with "Thais" fully repaid him for his effort.

So enthusiastic were some who received the Mary Garden letters that they have framed them, according to Mr. Ellsworth, though the majority understood it was only a circular letter.

Mr. Ellsworth had the letters printed in his home town, and after addressing and stamping them, sent them to the Goldwyn offices with the request that they be mailed from New York. Goldwyn officials, appreciating the value of Mr. Ellsworth's stunt, readily assented and the letters were mailed from the general offices of the corporation.

The letters read:

Dear Iowa Falls:

Next Thursday and Friday you may see me in Goldwyn's magnificent production of "Thais" at your Metropolitan Theatre. This is my first motion picture and in your section of Iowa you may see me first at the Metropolitan.

Just think! I began by not liking motion picture work—and now I adore "the movies."

Where thousands heard or saw me at the opera or in concert, millions now may see me in Goldwyn's "Thais."

It is thrilling!

Won't you please come to see my "Thais"?

Sincerely,
(Signed) Mary Garden.

Act to Bar Inconsistencies

For the purpose of eliminating all the inconsistencies which wise film fans spot and which in many instances have marred big productions, all World pictures are now being checked up by a staff of five people before work on a film is commenced.

It is realized by World-Pictures executives that with the elimination of inconsistencies from all pictures—no matter by whom they are produced—that the entire industry will immediately assume a higher level in the eyes of the public.

It is largely because of anachronisms and inconsistencies that the silent drama has not been received on the same high plane as the spoken drama and in blazing the trail in this particular line, World-Pictures is doing its bit.

Fox Bill for April Is Large and Varied

Includes Two Standards, Four Special Features, Two Mutt and Jeff Cartoons and One Sunshine Comedy

THE APRIL releases of the Fox Film Corporation include two Standard plays, four special features, two Mutt and Jeff animated cartoons and one Sunshine comedy.

Of the Standard plays, one, "The Soul of Buddha" is a Theda Bara super-production, written by Miss Bara herself and featuring her as a half-caste Indian girl. The star is first shown as a sacred dancer sworn to the worship of Buddha. But she falls in love with a British officer, is cursed by the high priest and later is struck down on a Paris concert stage just as she is entering upon a promising stage career. Her adventures lead her through the gay night life of Paris and she is given many opportunities by her weird role to run the gamut of emotional acting. The picture was directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

"The Blindness of Divorce," the other Standard release, was written and directed by Frank Lloyd. It is played by an all-star cast, prominent among whom are Bertha Mann, Charles Clary, Rhea Mitchell and Bertram Grassby. The drama tells in a strikingly effective manner the story of a woman divorced by her husband in spite of innocence and driven into despair by the scorn of society. The curse of the divorce court even besmirches her daughter and is just about to wreck the young woman's life when the mother, now a broken outcast, appears in a court-room and denounces the judge as the hypocritical cause of her own downfall.

Jewel Carmen, in "The Bride of Fear," a Fox special feature, portrays the part of a girl, discouraged in her attempt to make a way for herself in a great city, who is saved from suicide by a crook. Through fear, she is forced to marry him, but later learns to love the son of a wealthy business man. Only the violent death of her jail-bird husband releases her from his ruinous influence. The play was written by Bennett Cohen and directed by S. A. Franklin.

"American Buds," another special feature, presents the Fox "Baby Grands," Jane and Katherine Lee, in a sparkling romantic drama in which the two children are seen as inmates of a poor farm. The mischievous orphans not only make things lively for everybody, but they drag into the action several military men and parents, real or pretended. The play was written and staged by Kenean Buel. Prominent among the support of the Lee children are Albert Gran, Regina Quinn, Lucile Southerwaite, Leslie Austin, H. D. Southard and Nora Cecil.

Tom Mix has an uproarious comedy in "Western Blood." The play is different from what Mix has been accustomed to appear in because it features him and his cowpuncher friends in dress suits. Much to his and his friends' discomfort, Mix decrees dress suits for everybody invited to meet a pretty girl in whom he is greatly interested, and the resulting capers and mixups provide may ludicrous situations. Mix's leading woman is Victoria Forde. The story was written by Tom Mix himself and the acting was directed by Lynn Reynolds.

George Scarborough's thrilling drama, "Her One Mistake," is the special feature for Gladys Brockwell. Here the star again brings to the screen a dual role, playing the part of Harriet Gordon, an heiress, and Peggy Malone, her maid. The action begins when the heiress elopes with "Chicago Charlie," a crook, and continues through several years and through many exciting adventures until Harriet finally stabs the man who lured her from home and "bled" her of her money. The drama was staged by Edward Le Saint. Supporting Miss Brockwell are William Scott, William Louis, and Charles Perley.

The Sunshine comedy is "A Waiter's Wasted Life." This hilarious farce is said to be fully up to the standard which Lehrman has set for variety, action, daring escapades and laughable situations.

Mutt and Jeff will disport themselves in "The Freight Investigation" and "The Leak."

An amusing situation in "Western Blood," a new William Fox picture starring Tom Mix.

"The Spy" Guides Authorities

"Persons possessing powerful influence are making a strong effort to minimize the offenses of the members of the German spy ring who are already under arrest, and particularly to save from official molestation several persons of prominence whose names have not yet figured publicly in the scandal," says the New York Herald.

"Which only goes to prove," commented William Fox, "that the prognostications in my great anti-German propaganda picture, 'The Spy,' to the effect that on the list of Prussian secret agents in America would be found many names of natives who had been lured by promises of titles and honors from the imperial war lord more than by monetary reasons.

"In this thrilling photoplay a typical New York clubman is inspired by the patriotism of the old Union League to go to Berlin and, by even bolder methods, secure for the American government a copy of this list of secret agents. I cannot state for a fact that this has been done, but evidently the authorities have taken a tip from this picture and have gone after other suspects besides those of German blood and names."

Louise Glaum Starts Her Second Play

Story Is by Monte M. Katterjohn and Gives Star Full Opportunity to Win Sympathy of Audiences

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from the offices of the Paralta Plays Inc., that the second Louise Glaum production will be from an original story which has been written by Monte M. Katterjohn, who wrote "An Alien Enemy," in which Miss Glaum will make her debut as a Paralta star. Wallace Worsley, who directed "An Alien Enemy," will also be in charge of the new production, work on which will be started immediately.

The play will be produced under the working title, "One of the Multitude." Mr. Katterjohn found his material in a typical small town of Indiana, a location which the author knows thoroughly and which contains intimate types. The town is called Midland and is described as being "populated by best families but sadly in need of a few funerals."

The story is that of an illegitimate daughter of a prominent judge. The girl, having been driven away from home by the feeling of enmity which is not openly expressed by the townspeople, but which is commonly understood, comes back after a space of time, supposedly married to a wealthy oil promoter, who is one of the town's newest and most popular acquisitions.

But the man of wealth leaves her adrift in her own home town which originally ostracized her. Having forsaken her, he marries a socially accepted daughter of the judge.

This is the anti-climax of the story which leads to a series of big dramatic moments which pulsate with human interest and which promise to present the star in situations entirely new, giving her exceptional opportunity to play upon the heartstrings of the human emotions in a pathetic appeal that is bound to win the sympathy of her audiences.

Writes New Alaskan Story

Monte M. Katterjohn, Paralta staff author, is now at work on another Alaskan story which will form the next starring vehicle for Henry Walthall, who will work under the direction of Bertram Bracken. Coming as it does after "The Flame of the Yukon" and "Carmen of the Klondike," which were also written by Mr. Katterjohn, much is expected of the new production.

Bessie Barriscale Gets Role of Crook

Famous for Her Cunning and Daring, Heroine Steals Without Compunction in "Blindfolded," New Paralta Play

IN Bessie Barriscale's new Paralta production, "Blindfolded," which will be released in the near future, there is an element that, figuring as it does from start to finish of the play and being the foundation of the character of "Peggy," the lead, has a very striking interest.

It is the remarkable training of "Peggy," who from earliest childhood is taught that it is right and just to steal from the rich. In later years, when "Peggy" becomes famous as a female crook, her conscience is easy throughout all manner of crimes, due to this fundamental training, which was conceived from the warped viewpoint of her crook guardian, Muldoon, "The Ear."

"The Ear" is blind, having lost his eyes in a premature explosion of nitroglycerine while blowing a safe. Each day he gives her lessons in the science that he knows so well. A practice safe is kept at the house, on which she is taught opening combination by her sense of hearing. As a reward, she always finds a piece of candy in the safe.

So she is taught to regard the money she will find in other safes some day—that it is merely the reward for having performed her duty, in taking from the rich their tainted wealth.

Meanwhile Raymond B. West, the director, with his camera man and assistants, watch Miss Barriscale's portrayal of the part. The scenario was written by E. Richard Schayer. Its strong theme and original treatment caused rejoicing at the Paralta studios when it was read, and it is felt that the picture, directed by Mr. West and led by such an actress as Miss Barriscale, cannot fail to achieve a wide popularity.

A deep moment in Mary Garden's second Goldwyn production, "The Splendid Sinner."

Star to Wear Beautiful Gowns

Margarita Fisher will wear some beautiful gowns in her new picture, "A Square Deal," written by Albert Payson Terhune, and will throw all of her charm and vivacity into the role of a girl from a comfortable, middle-class home in Brooklyn, who marries a wealthy man and insists upon living in a hotel and spending all her time with friends who like to discuss things they call "the higher thought."

One day her hitherto devoted husband refused to come home to a hotel dinner. He told her he had found a woman who was willing to cook a dinner and make a real home for him—and the girl woke up to the real values of life.

It is a story with a real human appeal. The cast includes Jack Mower, who will play opposite Miss Fisher, Val Paul, Constance Johnson, L. M. Wells and Nanine Wright.

Writes Play for Blackwell

Harry O. Hoyt, a scenario writer with 600 stories to his credit, has written "The Beloved Blackmailer" for World Pictures.

Samples of the comedy in the new Empire Mutual production, "The Richest Girl," starring Ann Murdock.

Ann Murdock Takes Daring Comedy Role

New Empire Feature, "The Richest Girl," a Racy Farce Filled with Many Amusing and Complicated Situations

ANN MURDOCK in "The Richest Girl" is announced for release April 8 by Mutual. The production was made at the Empire All Star studios under the direction of Albert Capellani. It is a comedy of the type which has made Miss Murdock a Broadway star in Frohman plays.

The story concerns itself with the embarrassing situation in which Benjamine Downey, the daughter of a multi-millionaire chocolate baron, is placed when her new touring car gets stalled in front of the cottage of a handsome bachelor in the environs of New York, and she accepts the hospitality of the bachelor for the night. The bachelor is entertaining an artist friend and they both view with alarm the consequences if the bachelor's fiancee, who is expected, should arrive.

"The Richest Girl" takes possession of the bachelor's bed while he dozes in the reception hall. Just as they are all sitting down to breakfast, Flora Mingasson, the bachelor's fiancee, arrives with her father, and things begin to happen.

Paul, the bachelor, is dismissed from his position in Papa Mingasson's office and his engagement is broken by Flora. Benjamine becomes interested in Paul and contrives to meet him on several occasions, aided by the good offices of the artist. When Paul calls on "The Richest Girl" to reproach her for the misfortunes which have befallen him he discovers that he has fallen deeply in love with her and that his love is reciprocated.

David Powell, who has played the lead in many of Miss Murdock's productions, is cast as Paul Normand, the bachelor. Paul Capellani does admirable work as Felix, the artist. Herbert Ayling is Father Mingasson, while Charles Wellesley has the role of Downey, "The Richest Girl's" father.

Miss Murdock is seen in some dazzling gowns and an exquisite suit of silk pajamas that could easily be run through the eye of a large darning needle.

Screen Telegram will be released April 10 and 14. Some graphic views of the French preparations for the great Hun drive were shown in the release of March 27. The French Army was seen manipulating monster snow plows through Alsatian mountain drifts and moving monster guns into position.

The Strand Comedy, starring Billie Rhodes, is scheduled for release April 9. "For Art's Sake" is the title.

Mary is an artist and lives in bohemian environments, which her parents decide is no place for a young girl of high spirits. Brother arrives to take her home, when Mary tells him she is married. He mistakes a married friend for her husband and complications ensue. Mary's sweetheart turns up opportunely and brings a minister and the situation is saved.

Russell Play Completed

William Russell has completed work on "Hearts or Diamonds," the first of his pictures for William Russell Productions, Inc., and it has been set for release by the Mutual Film Corporation, through which the Russell productions will be distributed April 22.

"Hearts or Diamonds" is from the pen of William Hamilton Osborne, whose fiction is appearing regularly in the Saturday Evening Post. It was selected by Mr. Russell himself after a conference with the author, as admirably suited to Mr. Russell's particular abilities.

The picture was produced under the direction of Henry King, who recently directed Mary Miles Minter in "A Bit of Jade" and Gail Kane in a series of successful dramas and comedy dramas notable among which was "Souls in Pawn" and "A Game of Wits." Miss Charlotte Burton plays the leading role.

Film Has Stirring Interiors

In the Mary Miles Minter feature, "The Greater Call," now being produced at the American Film Company studios in Santa Barbara, will be shown two interiors that will interest even the critics.

One is that of a church holding services and the other that of a theatre, with the play on. Both are real, permission to use the church and theatre being obtained at great difficulty and expense.

Ebony Starts Work

Work on the first of a series of Ebony one-reel comedies for release on the General Film program has begun. These are of the ultra-slapstick variety, inaugurating what are said to be some new types of rapid-action comedy, by colored comedians. The picture's working title is "When Coontown Went Dry," written by Bob Horner and directed by Ralph Phillips and Charles David.

Strand Gets New Comedienne

Lillian Hamilton, well-known screen comedienne, has been added to the cast of Strand-Mutual comedies, starring pretty Billie Rhodes. Miss Hamilton makes her first appearance in "For Art's Sake," the release of April 9.

Beautiful House Opened in Yakima, Wash.

Crowds Almost Fight to Get in Liberty, Latest of String of Theatres Owned by Frederick Mercy

THE new Liberty theatre at Yakima, Wash., was thrown open to the public the other day by Frederick Mercy's Theatrical Enterprises, owners of the Majestic, Empire, Avenue and Yakima theatres. Crowds almost fought to get in.

The foyer was decorated with floral offerings from friends. Among them was a handsome Liberty Bell, the gift of the employes of the Mercy organization.

In opening the house, the orchestra played "the Star Spangled Banner," after which a film was thrown on the screen which showed Mr. Mercy, Mrs. Mercy, the little Mercys and all the employes of the Mercy Enterprises, together with Mayor Sweet and Commissioners McNare and Marble, Chief of Police Gilmore, part of the force, Fire Chief Dawson and Assistant Chief Lambert, fire apparatus and men. The officials were all guests of honor. The feature film was Marguerite Clark in one of the sub-deb stories.

Innovations a plenty—all of them in the line of modern progress—are to be found in the new house. One does not enter an ordinary theatre lobby; one enters a restful foyer with large windows, below which are enticingly comfortable seats while there are restful wicker chairs throughout. The green carpet and green hangings strike the color note of the Liberty while the gold eagles emblazoned on the hangings call the theatre's name to mind.

Views of the new Liberty Theatre, Yakima, Washington, opened just a few weeks ago by the Mercy Amusement Company, Inc. The picture at the top is a flash-light on the opening night.

The foyer with all its comforts is beautiful enough to serve the most fastidious hostess as a reception room and, in a way, it is a reception room in which the Liberty and its management will make the Yakima public feel welcome and at home.

In the foyer the guests are greeted by the ushers—charming girls in blue and gray uniforms, whose simplicity adds to the youthful appearance of the wearers. The main auditorium of the theatre has gray-tinted walls with black, gold and green Pompeian patterns to decorate them, while hanging lamps are in the same colors and designs. There are sidelights attached to the walls, also, so the Liberty will be well lighted.

At the front of the building there is the orchestra pit and an electric photoplayer to use on occasions when an orchestra is not available. Back of this come rows and rows of seats, all with green leather cushions and comfortable backs. Moreover, they are so placed that the lankiest man can stretch himself at ease. The floor space is so large that more chairs than were first sent for had to be ordered to fill it, so there has been no crowding.

In the rear are loges, which are shut off from the remainder of the theatre by green curtains and are fitted with wicker chairs.

Star Takes Vacation

Constance Talmadge, the Select star, whose ability as an actress in both comedy and drama fields has given her a high position as an exponent of comedy-drama, is resting from her labors in behalf of the Select Pictures Corporation. This is the result of an unusually successful period of play-making which followed her arrival at Hollywood last December.

During the period she has been in the West, Miss Talmadge has made three pictures for the Select Pictures-Star series, all of them dramatic subjects with high comedy value and with the two elements so mixed that it is hard to place them either as comedies or as dramas.

These productions are "The Shuttle," which is a screen version of Frances Hodgson Burnett's international novel of the same name and which was directed by Rollin Sturgeon; "Up the Road with Sallie," picturized from the successful novel of the same name by Frances Sterrett and directed by William Desmond Taylor, and "Good Night Paul," a mirthful adaptation of the musical comedy stage success of the same name, which was directed by Walter Edwards.

Lina Cavalieri Starts on "Gismonda"

Famous Sardou Play in Which Bernhardt Won Fame to Be Released Under the Paramount Trademark

LINA CAVALIERI has begun a sensational and spectacular production of "Gismonda," the Sardou play in which Sarah Bernhardt won great fame, according to an announcement from Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president and head of productions of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. The scenes are being taken at the Fort Lee studio and when completed the picture will be released under the Paramount trademark.

"To produce this play in motion pictures properly is a great undertaking," said Mr. Lasky, "for it is necessary actually to depict the stirring incidents, the sensational acts and the spectacular scenes which were merely talked about on the speaking stage. The regal splendor of Athens in the year 1500, when it was governed by the Italians of Florence and was the center of the arts of peace, is the locale of this drama.

"The underlying theme expounded by Sardou was democracy, and it is particularly appropriate that this subject should be released at this time when the entire world is fighting for or against this doctrine. Gismonda was the widowed Duchess of Athens, of the bluest of royal blood, whose hand was sought by the richest and most powerful rulers, who capitulated before her great beauty and charm. Sardou has shown how true nobility lies in the individual character and that even this haughty woman, in spite of all tradition and precedent, came to realize it and rewarded the valor and worth of a poor peasant with her hand.

"Gismonda refuses all offers of marriage, devoting her life to her four-year-old son, Francisco, who has inherited the uncertain rule of conquered provinces. Her dukedom is threatened continually by the pirate, Fabrique, who burns villages and pillages the shores. By proclamation Gismonda offers the dukedom of Shila and 800 ducats in gold for Fabrique's head. Zaccaria, a distant relative of Gismonda, arrives to pay court to her and finding her son standing in his way, arranges with one of his satellites to have the child thrown into the den of a lion.

"Almerio, a simple huntsman, leaps into the den and after a terrific struggle with the ferocious beast, brings the child to safety and restores it to the arms of its mother. Gismonda, having heard the cries of agony of her child, had sworn on the cross that she would wed the one who saved Francisco. After she has recovered her composure, Gismonda is distressed on beholding Almerio, for she had never dreamed that one so humble, almost a slave, should display so much courage when all the nobles had shrunk from the danger.

"Almerio had always looked to Gismonda with devotional love and agrees with her when she declares that even though she should keep her vow and wed him the people would not recognize one of such lowly birth as their ruler. At the request of the duchess he goes forth in quest of Fabrique and succeeds in slaying the pirate. He then claims the dukedom, the reward which was attached to this deed of valor. Though now of high rank, he is still unable to gain Gismonda's consent to marry him.

"Gismonda finally learns the details of the plot for the death of her son from one Gregoras, who confesses that he committed the atrocious act at the command of Zaccaria, and she kills Gregoras with her own hands. This incident takes place just outside the hut of Almerio, whom she has visited secretly, and to save her name Almerio falsely declares he destroyed the man.

Despite the forebodings of Gismonda the populace make an idol of Almerio. Gismonda has learned to love him and she willingly yields to public clamor and marries him."

One of the many amusing moments in the Strand-Mutual comedy "She Wouldn't Grow Up," featuring Billie Rhodes.

"The Lie," With Elsie Ferguson, Expected to Be a Hit

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation expects that Elsie Ferguson will score another big success in her new Artcraft picture, "The Lie," released April 8, as it provides a good vehicle for the exercise of her emotional talent.

The play was written by Sir Henry Arthur Jones and was produced on the speaking stage in England and in America. The theme is that of a great sacrifice made by one sister for another, to the end that the family honor may not suffer. The plans go somewhat awry, however, and the self-sacrificing sister bears the humiliation of the other's error.

Miss Ferguson plays the part of Elinor Shale, who, with her sister, Lucy, lives with her dissipated and ruined father, Sir Robert Shale. Lucy has an unfortunate love affair and confides her coming maternity to Elinor, who sacrifices her own happiness by leaving the man she loves and expects to marry to go away with her sister.

Gerald Forster, Elinor's sweetheart, is falsely told by Lucy that Elinor is the mother of the child and succeeds in marrying him herself. While the play is replete with tense dramatic moments, the greatest heights reached by Miss Ferguson are in the scene where she learns of her sister's perfidy and rent with conflicting emotions of grief, humiliation and indignation, denounces Lucy and declares her intention of telling Forster the whole truth.

A feature of this photoplay is the fact that both the star and the supporting feminine roles are played by women of exceptional pulchritude.

Scenes that throb with life from the Thomas H. Ince production for Artcraft release, "The Tiger Man," starring William S. Hart.

Brady Films Own Scenes from Airplane

Producer Turns Camera Man in Production of "Stolen Orders" Because Employes Lack the Nerve

IN "Stolen Orders," William A. Brady's spectacular production based on the Drury Lane melodrama, "Sealed Orders," are several scenes which show a big balloon somewhere over the Atlantic. These scenes depict an attempt at flight from a desolate spot on the coast by an enemy agent, personated by Montagu Love.

The balloon—one of the largest in the country and capable of long distance journeys with as many as four passengers—is the basis of exciting episodes, including a fight in the basket, the fall of the fighters into the ocean hundreds of feet below, and the shelling and final demolition of the big craft by anti-aircraft guns on shore.

Thrills experienced by the audiences which see the play will compare with those experienced by thousands who were engaged at one time or another in its production.

Mr. Brady for one will long remember the balloon episodes. When the balloon was high in the air, the advisability of having a camera above the huge bag to shoot down and catch the action in the basket at close range became apparent.

A hydroplane, which a few minutes later was to figure in the story, was handy, and with it an aviator. But there arose immediately the question as to which of the camera men would go up. No one stepped forward to volunteer—and there came a sudden silence. Time and light were fleeting and the necessity was great. Mr. Brady grabbed a nearby camera, stepped into the vacant seat beside the aviator, and a few moments later was in the air above the balloon.

The result will be seen in the play, which in addition to enlisting the services of its producer as a high-flying camera man enlisted those of six stars—Kitty Gordon, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, George MacQuarrie and Madge Evans.

Ince Wires Wilson About New Picture

Tells President Charles Ray Is Making Patriotic Film That Will Arouse Many from Their Apathy

SO THOROUGHLY convinced is Thomas H. Ince that the Paramount picture upon which Charles Ray is now at work will be one of the most powerful arguments for patriotism, one of the strongest propaganda films, while yet retaining all the essentials of a perfect photoplay, that he has wired President Wilson, apprising him of its nature and pointing out its possibilities for service to the government.

Mr. Ince is well acquainted with the chief executive and feels at liberty to offer a suggestion of this character.

The picture will follow in order of release another that is yet uncompleted, which in turn succeeds "Playing the Game" the April 22 release. It is directed by Victor Schertzinger. The other uncompleted film was directed by Irvin Willat.

R. Cecil Smith is the author of the patriotic photoplay, which depicts the experiences of a young man who is at first apathetic, and later becomes an extraordinarily shining example of the true American. Further details concerning it and the one which precedes it in order of release will shortly be made known.

Blood Transfusion a Feature of New Paramount

In "The Honor of His House," the latest Paramount picture starring Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese actor is called upon to submit to a wonderful operation in blood transfusion. Hayakawa plays the part of Count Onato, a Japanese scientist. Count Onato, jealous of his wife's love for another man, poisons her and then is horrified to find that she is soon to have a child. To save her life he has the blood transfused from his own body to hers and so loses his own life.

This act, which still belongs to the future of medicine, is played with convincing fidelity by Hayakawa, who, because of his knowledge of science, was able to introduce several little touches to the characterization which made it true to life.

Like so many Japanese, Hayakawa is of a scientific turn of mind and spends a great deal of time in reading scientific books and in research work of various kinds. His knowledge of the terms used by scientists and the tools used by them has been of inestimable value to him in his screen portrayals, for he is often called upon to portray Asiatic scientists.

In fact the American mind generally pictures the upper class Japanese as a man of scientific bent. While this holds true of Hayakawa he has another and more poetic side that is not so well known by the public. That is his interest in the folklore and ancient poetry of his native country.

In "The Honor of His House" Hayakawa gives one of the most artistic and vivid characterizations of his career and he is also given excellent support by Florence Vidor, as the wife, and by handsome Jack Holt as Robert Farlow, a rival scientist.

The picture was produced under the direction of William C. DeMille. Marian Fairfax, the author of the story, has used the characters of the eternal triangle in a new way.

Essanay Busy on New Feature Films

Representative of Mr. Spoor Picks Cast for "Young America" in New York, While Scouts Seek Ideal Locations

ESSANAY is busily engaged in the preparation of its next big feature production, "Young America." President George K. Spoor purchased the rights from Cohan and Harris and it has already been put into scenario form by Essanay's staff of writers.

Director Berthelet has almost completed his plans for interior art decorations and settings. Scouts are out seeking ideal locations for the exterior scenes.

Mr. Spoor has a representative in New York looking for a suitable cast. This is in connection with his new policy of picking the cast to fit the picture, instead of relying altogether on stock company players. This same policy was largely adhered to in "Ruggles of Red Gap" and in "A Pair of Sixes."

In the former Frederic Burton and Lawrence D'Orsay were engaged to play the leading roles in support of Taylor Holmes, while several minor characters were also supplied by talent outside the Essanay studios. In "A Pair of Sixes" Maude Eburne, Alice Mann, Robert Conness and others were engaged to play with Mr. Holmes.

"Young America" was written by Fred Ballard and had a highly successful run on Broadway, as also in other cities. It is believed that it will make even a superior screen production.

Other productions are also being put under way, including "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," which in all probability will be the release following "Young America," although several other plays, of which Essanay holds the rights, are being considered.

The latest of the Taylor Holmes features, "A Pair of Sixes," which was released through the George Kleine system April 1, is booking rapidly. This is held by critics to be the funniest of all the Holmes' comedies. Large downtown theatres in practically all the cities of the country have arranged bookings, according to the reports of the Kleine offices. The picture was adapted from the stage play by Edward Peple and is in seven parts.

The release following this is the Chaplin jingle, "Chase Me Charlie." This is a British version of Charlie Chaplin's funniest films and is taken from the Essanay Chaplin comedies. The titles are in jingle form and the scenes from the various comedies together with the titles dovetail to form a complete new story. It is in five parts and is released April 6.

Canada Saves Daylight Also

Canada as well as the United States is now on a daylight savings basis, clocks having been set forward an hour at 2 a. m. March 31. The plan will give daylight to the Canadian west in the summer until 10:30 p. m.

A laugh in "The Camouflage Kiss," the new William Fox picture starring June Caprice.

Notables See "The Crossbearer"

A notable gathering saw the new World-Picture, "The Crossbearer," presented at Carnegie hall, New York, the other night, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, for the purpose of furthering the drive for the Catholic war fund.

Heading the list of notables was His Eminence, John Cardinal Farley. Others invited to the showing were John D. Rockefeller, James Butler, Clarence Mackay, Harry Payne Whitney, Thomas Fortune Ryan, Morgan J. O'Brien and Adrian Iselin.

The picture received the heartiest sort of a greeting from the audience, which was deeply impressed with the vitality and importance of the production. It was agreed that Montagu Love's impersonation of Cardinal Mercier is one of the really great characterizations to be given to the screen and high praise was showered on World-Pictures for the effective manner in which the production has been staged.

Owes Success to Mother

Perhaps there is no story in the biography of filmdom more touching than that of Clare Horton, recent addition to Triangle forces, and her mother. A deep tie of affection that exists between the two has been a great contributing factor to Miss Horton's success and is a lesson in the importance of close comradeship between mother and daughter.

Says the child actress:

"My mother and myself have had many happy days, together with sad ones. For two years we had a hard struggle, as I was at an unfortunate age, not a little girl or a grown girl. My mother did extra work and sewed at nighttime until I was old enough to start, which was with "The Plow Woman." Christmas a year ago we didn't have a dollar, but I have encouraged my mother by saying it couldn't always be dark.

"My mother and myself are constant pals. Where you see one of us you will find the other. There is never a time you see me without my mother. We both study each other and never allow either side to argue.

"My mother designs everything I wear, even to my millinery. I am always delighted with her work. When I am at a piano, mother will possibly be sewing and if I play a wrong note her ear, far from the piano, will detect my mistake and she will correct me. I cannot fool her at all."

World-Pictures has purchased from Grace MacGowan Cook the picture rights to her successful novel, "The Power and the Glory."

Reviews of Current Film Releases

WRITTEN BY MOTOGRAPHY CRITICS

"The Home Trail"

Vitagraph Feature with Alfred Whitman and Nell Shipman. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

THE west of 1850 is brought back to us in this most recent Blue Ribbon feature, starring Alfred Whitman and Nell Shipman, and the story which is gradually unfolded proves delightful entertainment. Period pictures are always picturesque in costumes, manners, and plot; and the very essence of the pioneer days, of our great western country, is transferred to the screen with no material loss of prestige.

The beginning of the trail

The story relates the experiences of Tom Evans, a young rancher, and his sweetheart, Clara. Tom and Blackie had been pals for some time and the friendship had acted as a protection for the latter, whose reputation was not of the best. Tom had always been a powerful man and respected by the community. When Tom married Clara and settled down to a quieter life, Blackie realized the consequences to his personal safety, and planned to benefit in some way. Working upon Clara's romantic propensities, which in a way had been the cause of her marriage to Tom, Blackie at last convinced her that her husband was no longer the man he had been. He induces Clara to go away with him and Tom follows in pursuit. Tom finds his wife and supposed friend at a roadhouse, but the sheriff intervenes in the fight that follows, giving Blackie his chance to escape. Clara becomes an inmate of the roadhouse, while Tom is deputized by the sheriff and becomes an arm of the law. Some time later, Blackie, now wanted for several daring hold-ups, turns up at the house, and Clara, planning revenge on the despoiler of her happiness, induces him to visit her that night. The sheriff and Tom are informed, and when Blackie enters the darkened room he finds himself surrounded. A gun-fight ensues, in the course of which Clara falls mortally wounded by a shot from Blackie's gun. Tom follows Blackie to the desert and there leaves him to die of thirst. Tom returns to town and, his wife dead, he resumes his travels along the "home trail" with little Elsie, the store-keeper's daughter, as his companion.

Skillful manipulation of the plot by Director William Wolbert makes this a delightfully pleasing release. Alfred Whitman as Tom Evans is excellent in the part and performs in his usually brilliant style. Nell Shipman reveals herself as possessing quite an abundance of dramatic ability in the part of Clara. Her work is increasing in value in each successive picture and she is fast winning her way to well-earned laurels. Joe Rickson fills the bill as Blackie in convincing fashion. Others in the cast include Patricia Palmer, Hal Wilson, and S. E. Jennings.

The photography is on a par with past Vitagraph releases, several of the scenes being particularly effective. The atmosphere of the period is carefully maintained and the interior scenes are fully in keeping with the entire production.

"The Magic Eye"

Zoe Rae Feature Universal Special for April 1. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

ALTHOUGH featuring a child star, the plot of this picture seems to be designed for adults, for it is melodramatic, with a villain of the deep-dyed variety, and a number of complications beyond the understanding of children. It will, though, be liked by the youngsters because of the work of Zoe Rae as the heroine and Elwood Burdell as a boy scout. There is some humor in the picture and several pretty outdoor scenes. But as a whole its appeal is only to a very uncritical audience because of its many inconsistencies.

Rea Berger directed the picture from a story by Norris Shannon, put into scenario form by Frank H. Clark. The cast of players includes Claire Du Brey, Charles Mailes, H. A. Barrows, and William Carroll. The picture is released April 1.

The story: Zoe Rae plays Shirley, the small daughter of John Bowman, captain of a tramp steamer. Fearing submarines, Bowman persuades his wife not to accompany him, as she had formerly done, when he makes his next trip. He leaves his wife and child in the care of Sam Bullard, agent of the steamship line. Shirley distrusts Bullard, but her mother seems to be under his influence. One night Shirley dreams that her father's ship has been torpedoed. In the morning the report comes that the ship and all on board have been lost. Bullard insists that Mrs. Bowman collect the insurance money and turn it over to him. Shirley alone believes that her father is saved. She is right, for he returns in time to protect his wife and the insurance company from Bullard's trickery.

"Life or Honor"

Ivan Film Production Starring James Morrison. Reviewed by L. J. Bourstein

IVAN FILM COMPANY'S initial production minus the services of the founder of the company, Ivan Abramson, is a rather weird and fantastic conglomeration of incidents that have been woven into one big idea, from which is evolved a genuine mystery.

Edmund Lawrence, the director, has indeed introduced some extraordinarily weird fantasies in this production. A man suspected of murder is put through a third degree the like of which probably has never been shown on a screen before. It is possible that this may cause a lack of interest instead of exciting more than the usual curiosity. What more gruesome sight than a skeleton coming toward you, in the darkest moments of night, could possibly be shown? Or the sight of the head of the man you had killed suddenly appearing before you? Then a bony hand is stretched out to smite you and you reel back in terror. Thus runs the picture and one is wont to flee from such sights as these.

The Third Degree

James Morrison has a dual role in this picture and fills each in an entirely acceptable manner. He plays the part of Jimmy Manly and also that of Aguinaldo, a Filipino. His excellent work is somewhat marred by poor photography in the scenes showing both characters on the screen at one time. The camera-man was not careful enough in marking his lines, with the result that the scenes were lighted rather poorly. Except for these scenes, of which there were few, the camera work was excellent, several exceptional lightings having been effected.

Violet Palmer enacts the part of Peggy Harmon, Jimmy's fiancee, and presents a delightful and refreshing appearance. Also let us whisper that it is she who really is that walking skeleton we mentioned before. Leah Baird, the third prominent member of the cast, plays the part of Peggy's sister, Helen. Others in the cast include Harry Burckhardt, Edward Mackay, Ben Hendricks, and little Florenz Sottong. All are acceptable.

The story: Peggy Harmon and Jimmy Manly elope, but Jimmie finds he has no money. He stops at his home to borrow from his father, who is furious on learning of his son's intentions. Aguinaldo, a Filipino man servant, is a witness to the quarrel. Next morning the elder Manly is found dead and Jimmy is arrested. But here follows a series of complications that do not seem at all clear to the writer. Peggy's married sister lives in the house next to Manly. Holmes, a friend of the family, is staying with them for the night, and Helen, Peggy's sister, walks in her sleep. She falls and Holmes carries her to her room and from her window is a witness to the murder. Not wishing to sacrifice the honor of his friends, he enlists the aid of Martin Cross, an eccentric and confirmed bachelor who had once been a well known detective. A trap is set for Aguinaldo and after subjecting him to a terrifying third degree, the Filipino confesses. Jimmy is released. A second elopement follows, but this time it "takes."

"The Richest Girl"

Ann Murdock in Mutual Star Production of April 7. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS feature is designed for those who especially like Ann Murdock, for it depends almost entirely upon her personality for its appeal. It gives her a chance to wear a number of fetching costumes and to be "cute." She gets little help from the story itself, which is mediocre, to speak of it as kindly as possible. The photography, settings and locations are very pleasing. The supporting players, headed by David Powell, are satisfactory, but not much is demanded of them. Albert Capellani directed.

The music cue sheet furnished by Mutual with this picture calls for gay, dainty selections, and an accompaniment of this sort will put the picture over in most theatres by getting the patrons into a frivolous state of mind. Otherwise the picture hardly has weight enough to hold them.

The story: Benjamine Downey is the daughter of a millionaire candy maker and is a very much spoiled girl. She is accustomed to having her own way in everything. Trying out her new car, she is stalled before a cottage in the country, where two young bachelors, cared for by a middle-aged housekeeper, are living. The girl insists on spending the night there, while her chauffeur sets out for help to repair the car. The next day the fiancee of one of the men, with her father, comes calling and discovers Benjamine. The girl at once breaks her engagement and later report of the scandal also causes the young man to lose his job. Benjamine, in the city, calls on him to apologize for the trouble she has caused, but thereby creates further disturbance. But she and the young man have fallen in love and their marriage silences the evil reports.

Benjamine invades the artist's studio

"Fast Company"

Franklyn Farnum in His Latest Bluebird Comedy Drama. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THIS is a fine picture for an Irish community. The hero, brought up to worship society's rites and believing himself a descendant of a long line of aristocrats, learns that his forefathers really were Irish and that the founder of the family fortune was a pirate. He is overjoyed at learning this and decides that he must live up to such a heritage. His quick transformation from a mollycoddle to a conquering hero is amusing and will delight the average comedy-loving audience. This is the theme of the play, and it is well worked out. The offering is up to the standard of the Farnum Bluebird productions and will meet with the reception Franklyn Farnum pictures usually do.

Juanita Hansen appears opposite the star. Others in the cast are Fred Montague, Katherine Griffith, Lon Chaney and Edward Cecil. The story is by John McDermott, directed by Lynn Reynolds. The picture will be released April 1.

The story: Lawrence Percival Van Huyler has been trained in social rites until he is very much of a mollycoddle. He fears to do anything which might be unworthy of his dignified and very proper ancestors. Even the girl he is to marry, Alicia, becomes disgusted with him and turns to Richard Barnaby, an arctic explorer who is a great contrast to the ladylike Percival.

Percival greatly admires Dan McCarty, an athlete and a newspaper reporter. One day McCarty is assigned to write a story about the tearing down of an old house once owned by the Van Huylers. Percival goes with him. They discover, concealed in the wall, a box containing the confession of the original Van Huyler, who had changed his name from Patrick O'Malley when he gave up his profitable career as pirate. The shock of the discovery changes Percival's nature. He decides to be as Irish and energetic as his idol, McCarty, and his efforts at celebrating land him in jail. However, he converts his painfully proper father to his way of thinking and also outdistances his rival, the explorer, in the race for Alicia's affections.

"Naughty, Naughty!"

Enid Bennett in Excellent Paramount Comedy Drama. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

HERE is one of the daintiest, most refreshing and really humorous comedy dramas produced in many a day. C. Gardner Sullivan wrote the story, and he has kept it always human and realistic, so that it is very funny but not farcical. The subtitles are cleverly written and add their full share to the complete excellence of the picture. Enid Bennett is ideal for the leading role. She is aided by Marjory Bennett, her sister, and Gloria Hope. Three more charming young players it would be hard to find.

The many villages types are cleverly played and are used to advantage to keep the humor bubbling. The funny situations are put over in effective style, with unexpected touches of contrast and character insight. One of the best episodes is that of the church entertainment, when the heroine, very lightly clad, performs a spring dance before the horrified villagers. When their own daughters, even the littles ones, join the dance, also dressed as nymphs, the party is quite broken up.

The direction, by Jerome Storm, the photography, the settings and acting are all first class. The picture will appeal to the most critical clientele, as well as to all other classes.

The story: Roberta Miller returns to her home town of Lilyville after some time spent in New York City. She astonishes the natives by her smart clothes and advanced ideas. They in turn depress her by their stern repression of all fun. Matthew Sampson, the young editor of the town newspaper, who is in love with Roberta, is as "set" in his ways as the elder people, and Roberta resolves to convert him before she marries him.

The villagers were suspicious of Roberta and when she gave a barefoot dance at a church entertainment they were scandalized. Roberta and Matthew's sister, Prudence, are close friends and they plan to convince the village people that some fun is necessary to life. Judith Holmes (Gloria Hope) is the model girl of the town, and Roberta decides to get Judith into mischief. She teaches the girl to dance and awakens her love of finery and admiration. The three girls go to a dance hall across the state line. Roberta and Prudence plan to have Judith found there alone, but they relent and rescue her. Roberta finds one of the church deacons at the dance hall and threatens to expose him unless he aids her. He announces that he and Roberta have investigated conditions and have decided that Lilyville must provide dancing parties for its own young people if it is to keep them out of mischief. So Roberta achieces her object and finds fun among her own friends.

"Mrs. Slacker"

Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale in Pathe Feature. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

THERE is dramatic material in this story, but Agnes C. Johnston, author, and Hobart Henley, director, have worked it out in a light fashion so that it becomes an improbable but entertaining comedy drama. Perhaps it is just as well, for Gladys Hulette is associated with comedy dramas in the minds of photoplay fans, and hen admirers will not be disappointed in her work in this play, even though the plot strays from probability.

Creighton Hale plays opposite Miss Hulette in this offering, but his role is not a very sympathetic one, until the end. His name, however, should prove a drawing card wherever Pathe serials have been shown. Paul Clerget, that excellent French characten actor, is also a member of the cast. As usual in Hulette plays, there are a number of children, character types and animals to lend comedy and pathos to the picture.

As a whole, the picture is satisfactory. It is well produced by the Astra studios and it is clean, wholesome and cheerful. It is not a wonderful picture, but it will entertain the patrons of the neighborhood house, children and grown-ups, who come to see Gladys Hulette and Creighton Hale. If it is more of a comedy and less dramatic than its title suggests, they will probably enjoy the comedy and not complain.

The story: Gladys Hulette is Susie Simpkins, who lives with her uncle, a drunkard, and supports herself by taking in washing. One day she meets Robert Gibbs (Hale), son of a wealthy family. This young man is of a very timid disposition and she has only contempt for him until one day he saves her from drowning. She changes her opinion of him and he becomes a hero in her eyes.

Susie is very patriotic and organizes amateur theatrical performances among the children for the benefit of the Red Cross. When the call for volunteers comes, she expects that Robert will at once enlist. He asks her to marry him, and she agrees. They are secretly married, and then she learns that he did this to avoid being called in the draft. She begs to be taken in his place. In her patriotic work, she learns of a plot to blow up a munitions plant and she tries to give the alarm. The plotters capture her, but Robert arrives in time to free her and foil the plotters. His patriotic fervor is aroused and he decides to fight for his country in the army and his family, realizing that Susie is a heroine, promise to take care of and educate her.

"The Bluebird"

Artcraft Production of Maeterlink's Classic. Reviewed by Genevieve Harris

UNDER Maurice Tourneur's direction, "The Bluebird," which was loved as a stage production, becomes a motion picture. Anyone who has seen or read the Belgian poet's lovely play will appreciate how well pictures could interpret the fancies, and also how wonderful a picture it would make if handled with artistic feeling. These people need only be told that it has been done just as they would wish, with all its beauty, fancy and truth preserved, that it has gained by being translated into pictures, in order to understand how fine this offering is. There is only praise to be given director, players, photographers and all others concerned in its making.

Those who are not familiar with the original play have a surprise in store. They are to learn how vivid, interesting and beautiful an allegorical story can be. This is really a sort of a fairy tale, but it is not "make believe" so much as it is an unusual way of looking on life. For the story is real, is founded on life, in which we are all seeking the "Bluebird" of happiness of one sort on another. In this story the two children, in a dream, set out to find their "Bluebird." A fairy leads them through the adventures which follow, and they visit the spirit world, the kingdom of night, the homes of those who have died, the halls where wait the souls of those still to be born, and other mystic regions. And the spirit of real things becomes apparent to them, the soul of fire, of light, of water, for instance. These transformations are handled beautifully through the camera tricks of double exposure, and the beautiful photography makes the entire picture seem like a fairy dream.

The allegory underlying the story is very simple. It will not be oven the heads of even an audience of children. The children, in fact, will be delighted with the picture, but not more so than their elders, who will appreciate both the truth of the play and the great amount of careful, artistic work necessary in the working out. The more high class and critical the audience, the greater the success of the picture, but all audiences with any love for the beautiful will be pleased.

The little children who play the leading roles, Tula Belle and Robin MacDougall, are well chosen and are clever, attractive little players. The cast is very large, but each member is worthy of praise. The production as a whole is one which marks another step forward in the artistic progress of the film world.

Silver bullion of a quality equal to that used by the United States Mint goes into the manufacture of

EASTMAN FILM

It may be properly inferred that the demands are rigidly exacting.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Pauline Frederick in a scene from "La Tosca."

Latest News of State Rights Productions

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE INDEPENDENT FIELD

Many Seek Mutt and Jeff Rights Abroad

Territory Open Except Where Fox Has Offices—Valuable European Field Barely Scratched So Far

FOLLOWING the widespread announcement by William Fox of the conclusion of a contract with Bud Fisher for world-wide distribution of Mutt and Jeff animated cartoons a lively contest for foreign territory has developed.

It is now stated by Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox company, that territory will be available except where the Fox company has its own branches.

"We are getting inquiries all the time," said Mr. Sheehan, "and contracts are being closed daily, but as matters stand there is some good territory remaining in Central and South America, some in Europe and some scattered through various other parts of the globe.

"Mexico, for instance, has not yet been disposed of and neither have the Central American countries. In South America, we have Chile, Peru and Bolivia available. Probably the biggest opportunity, however, exists in Europe. France, Belgium, Russia, Holland, Spain and Portugal, Switzerland, Italy, Greece and the Balkan States can all be obtained. These latter countries will be especially interested in the animated cartoons because Bud Fisher now is a captain of artillery in the British army and his drawings will deal largely in the future with life at the front.

"There also will be lively interest in the announcement that we are prepared to sell the Mutt and Jeff rights for the Philippine Islands. China, India, the Dutch East Indies, Egypt and South Africa likewise are on our open list."

Francis Ford Play Finished

Having finished his first production, "Berlin via America," Francis Ford announces that he is considering offers for territorial allotments.

Mr. Ford, in addition to his duties as producer and director, himself enacts one of the principal characters in the story, an aviator in the army of the Huns, who is not all he appears to be.

Edna Emerson plays opposite Mr. Ford in the role of an American girl "doing her bit."

The story contains an element of mystery as well as romance.

Record Quantity of Film Sent to France

Sidney Garrett Ships 750,000 Feet to Mundusfilm Company of Paris, for Which He Is Purchasing Agent

THERE left for France last week what is probably the largest consignment of quality film ever shipped to that country by any individual—750,000 feet.

Among the super-productions exported were Charlie Chaplin's "A Dog's Life," "The Whip," "The Bar Sinister," "The Cold Deck," "The Submarine Eye," "The Barrier," and the latest Metro, Paralta and King Bee Billy West comedies.

These productions are shipped to the newly-formed Mundusfilm Company of Paris. Sidney Garrett has been elected exclusive purchasing agent for this company.

Mr. Garrett purchased exclusive rights to all these productions for France and the bigger part of Europe, for which he paid a price said to be the greatest in film history.

Mr. Garrett is president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., and buys more first-class productions for the foreign market probably, than any other two companies combined.

He has recently been elected president of the newly-formed Bengar Pictures, Inc., organized to export all the Selig productions. He has closed for Scandinavian territory for these plays and in conjunction with his other interests expects to ship more than one million feet of film before May 1.

When E. J. Myrick, managing director of the Liberty Theatre at Portland, Ore., showed "The Garden of Allah," he decided to present it in an unusual manner. The picture above illustrates one of his ideas. All the ushers were costumed in harmony with the picture. The costumes were designed by Mr. Myrick himself.

Scrantonia Expands

The Scrantonia Photoplay Corporation, which has announced for immediate release six one-reel comedies featuring the Chinese actor, Charlie Fang, has expanded operations and will immediately commence the producing of six- and seven-reel photoplays, to be released by way of the state rights market through Jesse J. Goldburg.

Negotiations are pending for the purchase of the Crystal Palace at Rocky Glen, Pennsylvania, six miles out of Scranton. The Crystal Palace is the largest all glass enclosed structure in the United States and is perfectly suited to studio purposes.

France to Distribute Through Sterling

Producer of "The Natural Law" Concludes Beck Organization Is Best for Both Himself and Exchange Men

CHAS. H. FRANCE, producer and director of "The Natural Law," the famous play that he picturized immediately after its tour of the first-class theatres with the same cast that played at the Republic Theatre, New York, for eight months, has decided, after careful consideration, that the "Sterling System" offers the best means of country-wide distribution as well as the most equitable arrangement for the independent man of each territory.

After several talks with Arthur F. Beck, president of the "Sterling System," Mr. France concluded to place all his future productions with the Sterling Pictures Corporation.

Mr. France has had conferences with all the prominent independent exchangemen of the country and they have placed their approval on the deal.

H. R. Ebenstein, manager of sales for the Sterling Pictures Corporation, had an important conference with Mr. France before leaving on a ten weeks' trip, regarding the arrangements on which "The Natural Law" was to be sold.

Gets U. S. Exhibitors' Features

One of the most important transactions of the year in the motion picture industry has just been concluded between Foursquare Pictures and the U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corporation. By the terms of the contract, Foursquare will now sell the features acquired by the U. E. Exhibitors in addition to attending to all other details pertaining to their distribution.

Most of the U. S. Exhibitors salesmen in the various territories have now become Foursquare representatives, and part of the selling organization of this company. The move was made in the interests of a more intensive development of the growing U. S. Exhibitors business and to prepare for the greatest possible efficiency in the distribution of its product.

The plans now completed by Frank G. Hall of the U. S. Exhibitors provide for the acquiring of features of exceptional pretentiousness and quality.

This is not a picture from "Naughty, Naughty," the new Paramount release. It is a pose of Vera Steadman and Roxana McGowan as they appeared recently in a comedy filmed at the Mack Sennett studios.

Dilemma Turned into Comedy

While being filmed in "The Claim," her latest Metro picture, Edith Storey and her director, Frank Reicher, were confronted with a problem in infant management. Miss Storey was playing the part of a gambler's wife. Suddenly the temperamental infant set up a howl, in total disregard of dramatic technique. It was hungry.

Both the star and her director had trouble enough and were too busy to humor the child.

"There ought to be some way to keep it quiet," said Mr. Reicher.

Miss Storey thought a moment.

"There is," she exclaimed, "and I have found it!"

The property man furnished a bit of twine, which Miss Storey had him fasten to a rafter in the set. At the other end Miss Storey made a loop, which she fastened about the baby's bottle. The young hopeful, placed on its back on a table, grasped the neck of the bottle in a chubby fist and was soon contentedly absorbing a meal.

The effect was so novel, with its genuine comedy touch, that the camera man shot it, and it was incorporated in the film.

Gaumont to Produce Features

Fulfilling its promise to independent exhibitors, the Gaumont Company intends to produce a number of big motion picture dramas in the near future. Prominent stars will be featured in strong stories written by famous authors and produced in the most attractive manner possible.

Two of the stories call for hundreds of girls of exceptional beauty. To secure the proper types, the Gaumont Company has inaugurated a beauty contest which is being conducted by the leading daily paper in each of the United States.

Pictures of the most attractive of the contestants will be run during the contest in the two Gaumont news-reels, the Gaumont News and Gaumont Graphic.

Solution of Projection Problems

HOW TO GET THE BEST RESULTS TOLD IN DETAIL

New Mazda Projection Equipment

Enterprise Optical Company Brings Out Apparatus to Conform to the Demand of the Times

By J. Wesley Smith

CONFORMING with the demand of the times, the Enterprise Optical Company of Chicago, manufacturers of the Motiograph projector, have placed a Mazda projection equipment on the market.

The lamp house is so designed and constructed that it can be used on all the different model Motiograph machines and can be installed in a very few minutes. The lamp house is shown in position in Figure 1 in the illustration herewith.

When direct current is used there is a special Mazda rheostat designed to give the best possible service on any voltage. This special rheostat is made in two units, which by the way is a feature not to be overlooked, as it permits the large unit which carries the greatest amount of resistance, thereby giving out all the heat, to be installed outside of the operating room, leaving only the small regulating rheostat with ampere meter to be mounted anywhere in the booth. Indicators show the proper way to turn the handle to control the voltage and all terminals are equipped with upturned lugs.

Where alternating current is used, the "Auto Mazda for Me R" (figure 2) is supplied and allows the operator to control the current to the accuracy of one-quarter of an ampere, which is a vital feature in order to procure the best results from this form of illumination.

The setting up and installing of a complete machine (figure 3), does not differ in any way from the regular arc lamp machines, with the exception of the adjustment of the bulb, which is given as follows:

The lamp socket has all adjustments for the lamps, the center contact being movable up or down by means of a thumb adjusting screw which is located directly under the center of the socket. This is necessary so that the lamp filament can be set parallel with the corrugated condensor after it is tightened in the socket.

The raising and lowering of the lamp so that the filament can be adjusted to the exact center of the condensor is handled the same as with an arc. The socket holder can also be adjusted sideways, independent of the side swing of the entire fixture.

After the lamp has been adjusted so that the filament is parallel with the condensor, turn the handle of the rheostat or compensarc to its lowest point and throw in the switch. Now with the lamp burning and the light shining through the corrugated condensor on the closed film gate, adjust the lamp so that the filament is exactly two inches behind the condensor.

Figure 1—Lamp house.

Now see that the rays center exactly in the light opening of the film gate, then slide the lamp house over to the position when using for stereoptican purposes, and swing the stereoptican condensor into place. Insert in the slide carrier the small metal focusing slide and pull it before the condensing lenses. Now bring one of the shutter blades in the path of the small beam of light and then draw the entire lamp backward in the house until the filament is sharply outlined on the shutter.

It is now time to place the reflector in place and it should be set so that the rear or convex surface is 2⅔ inches behind the lamp filament. The purpose of the reflector is to throw an image of the filament through the spaces between the filament coils in the lamp itself. When the projected image on the shutter blade shows that the mirror has been correctly set and the reflections of the filament shine directly through the lamp filament proper, the machine, as far as the light is concerned, is all ready to run.

Below is a question about the Mazda lamp and the answer:

Q.—How is the new Mazda lamp with the Powers equipment? Is it a success? Does it give a good picture? I am thinking of installing one. My throw is 72 feet and I want a picture 7½ by 10 feet wide. It gives me a good picture at that distance.

A.—To a large extent the Mazda lamp is still in the experimental stage, but from demonstrations I have witnessed it will only be a short time until they replace the arc lamp. In changing over your machine you will require a new lamp house and also a different system of condensors. The condensors in common use with an arc are two plano convex, while the Mazda lamp requires a special corrugated condensor and reflector.

The special condensor is made corrugated for two reasons. First, in ordinary projection the condensors are placed from six to fourteen inches from the arc, while with the Mazda lamp projection the condensor must be placed exactly 2½ inches from the filament. The ordinary plano convex type of condensors would have to be too thick for this short a focus. And second, to break up the image of the filament of the lamp which would be quite noticeable with ordinary condensors.

The spherical reflector further tends to break up the image of the filament on the screen and gives a good clear field. You do not state what voltage you are using, but with the Mazda lamp projector the voltage used is approximately 25. The Fort Wayne Works of the General Electric Company have developed an apparatus known as the Type I compensarc, which will reduce the voltage from 110 or 120 to the required one for the lamp.

By writing to the Nicholas Power Company, 90 Gold street, you will be able to procure from them the information required about the special lamp house, and you will probably be able to get one immediately from them. If you will also write to the Edison Lamp Works, Hanison, N. J., and ask them for their booklet, "Edison Mazda C Lamps for Motion Picture Projection," you will learn much that will be of benefit to you and I know they will give you all the advice and assistance toward the successful operation of their product.

As stated before, I believe it is only a question of a short time until the arc will be replaced by these lamps, and my reasons for believing so are first, Mazda projection will give a steadier picture than an arc, thereby causing less eye fatigue. Second, the color value is better. Third, the projection is at all times the same, as the Mazda Lamp does not require the constant manipulation that an arc does in order to keep it burning steady. Fourth, it generates less heat than the arc.

There is no doubt in my mind that you will be able to project a beautiful picture with the Mazda equipment, as your throw is not a long one, nor is your picture too large.

Many Society Folk in Film

Millionaire society people from many sections of the United States participated in a remarkable mob scene in "The Street of Seven Stars," the Mary Roberts Rinehart story in which Doris Kenyon will appear at the head of her own company, De Luxe Pictures, Inc.

Miss Kenyon and ten other members of the cast have just returned from Lake Placid, where some of the exteriors were filmed. While at Lake Placid, the members of the company were the guests of the exclusive Lake Placid Club. It is the first time that a motion picture company has been entertained at the club, or permitted the privilege of filming the more than six thousand acres of the club's property, which is considered the scenic cream of the Adirondacks and the St. Moritz of America.

More than two hundred members of the club joyfully entered into the spirit of furnishing realistic and artistic atmosphere for the picture. All of the participants, both men and women, were garbed in regulation skiing, skating and coasting costumes. Amazing skiing stunts were made before the camera by Miss Genevieve Brooke of Portland, Ore., and Washington, D. C.; H. S. Johannsen, a New York exporter, whose country home is in Pelham; Mrs. F. L. Stone of Schenectady, and others.

Miss Kenyon's daring work on the skiis elicited the admiration of scores of spectators. John B. O'Brien, who is directing "The Street of Seven Stars," declares the scenes taken at Lake Placid are the most beautiful ever filmed.

Noted Artist to Make the Sets for Kenyon Play

Charles Chambers, famous artist and illustrator, is making the sketches for the interior scenes of "The Street of Seven Stars," the Mary Roberts Rinehart story in which Doris Kenyon will appear at the head of her own company.

A number of the scenes are laid in the Latin quarter of Paris. Mr. Chambers spent several years in the quarter during his student days and is thoroughly familiar through personal contact with the surroundings.

Among the most important of the sets is a grand salon that was once occupied by a former empress but which degenerated into a pension housing three aspiring American artists; a coffee house, which was the headquarters for the students; a doctors' club, where the attendants of a famous clinic congregated; a dance hall, and the establishment of a celebrated modiste.

Elaborate drawings of each of these interiors are being made by Mr. Chambers, from which the sets will be made and furnished by B. D. Carber, who has just been engaged as technical director of Miss Kenyon's productions.

Theatre Starts Teas

Loew's Theatre, Montreal, Canada, has a new one. Manager Mills announces that hereafter afternoon tea will be served daily, except Saturday, from 2 to 5:30 without charge. The public is requested to take tea upon entering the theatre, rather than when leaving, to enable prompt and convenient service.

Figure 2—"Auto Mazda for me R."

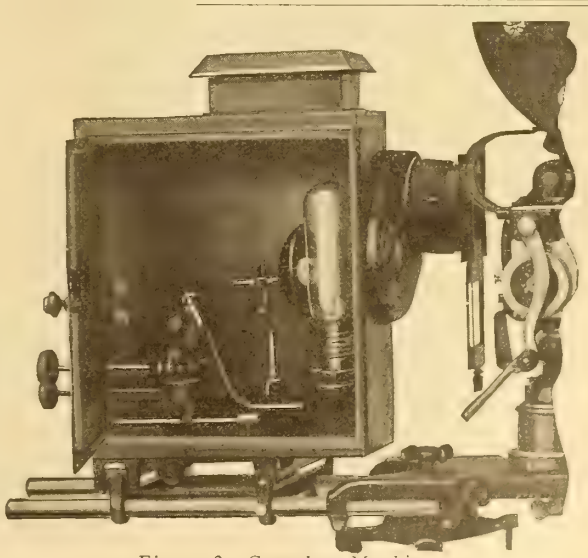

Figure 3—Complete Machine.

Notes of the Industry In General

BRIEF NEWS OF NEW YORK IN PARTICULAR

MOTOGRAPHY has received the following telegram from Bessie Love:

"Pathe has purchased from the Dodd, Mead Company the picture rights of 'Carolyn of the Corners,' the best selling book issued this year, for my next production, which will be my last Pathe play. Work on this picture will start next week and we hope to take the final scenes by May 1, on which date my contract expires.

"Before accepting either of the offers already received from large producing companies I will carefully consider the advisability of forming my own producing company in order always to have the highest quality stories, direction, photography, etc., and with this in view have already obtained an option on a Los Angeles studio."

✣ ✣ ✣

Jack Pickford, Paramount star, who recently went to New York from Los Angeles to join the colors, is a member of the navy now. He has been assigned to the intelligence department and given the task of censoring films for export. His first work was done in the projection room of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. Whenever scenes showing preparedness preparations appeared in Universal's Screen Magazine and Current Events he ordered them eliminated. While proper to show at home, he said, the government did not desire to have such pictures get outside of the country.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Artcraft production of Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird," an Easter release, was given a great advance showing in New York. The picture was screened at the Rivoli theatre. Long before the time set, the house was filled with exhibitors, exchange men, trade journal and newspaper critics, directors, stars and others in the industry. S. L. Rothapfel had arranged an excellent musical setting, together with many new effects in lighting. Hugo Riesenfeld, conductor of the orchestra, drew from the works of twenty-two noted composers, in addition to original compositions. Much praise was given by all who saw the film.

✣ ✣ ✣

Announcement is made of the organization of another film producing company in Canada, the name for which is the Pan-American Film Corporation. The new concern has taken possession of the studio at Trenton, Ont., formerly occupied by the Canadian National Features, Limited, which went into liquidation several months ago. It is the announced intention to produce photoplays of the Canadian Northwest and the title of the first release is "When He Brought Back His Man." The company is also arranging for the release of a Canadian news weekly, the first of which is promised for some time in April.

✣ ✣ ✣

"Mother" Mary Maurice, Vitagraph's beloved old actress, is in St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn, recovering from an operation which was performed a week ago. She was stricken a few days after she had completed her work in "Over the Top," in which she played the role of Sgt. Empey's nurse. Mother Maurice is 74 years old. Harry Waldron, another member of the Empey company, also is in the hospital. He was thrown from a horse and trampled upon during the taking of the final scenes.

✣ ✣ ✣

A special meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce was held last week to consider a request from the Moving Picture and Projection Machine Operators' Union for an increase in wages. Although a three-year contract has been signed by both organizations, the union justifies its request because of abnormal prices under war conditions. A committee consisting of A. G. Hettesheimer, chairman, John Weinig and I. Libson has been instructed to meet with representatives of the union and try to arrive at a satisfactory adjustment.

✣ ✣ ✣

John Emerson, one of the Famous Players-Lasky directors, was operated upon last week in New York for splenic anaemia. The entire spleen was removed. Mr. Emerson's physician predicts his rapid and complete recovery. After a rest of a couple of week, Mr. Emerson will begin work in collaboration with Anita Loos on a production for Paramount release.

✣ ✣ ✣

P. O. Parsons, formerly publicity and advertising manager of Pathe, has been appointed advertising manager by Paul Brunet, vice president and general manager. Tarleton Winchester, formerly serial publicity manager, has been made publicity manager. Harry Lewis has been appointed manager of the art department.

I. Libson, manager of the Family, Walnut, Strand and Bijou theatres, Cincinnati, has leased the Grand Opera house, one of Cincinnati's two large theatres, for the spoken drama, for the coming summer. Mr. Libson's policy will be to run special feature pictures at slightly advanced prices.

✣ ✣ ✣

"Men Who Have Made Love to Me," with "I Mary McLane," has been barred from Kansas City, the Kansas City court of appeals having made permanent a writ of prohibition obtained by the city officials February 6.

✣ ✣ ✣

D. Wolfe, proprietor of the Verdun Palace, Montreal, Canada, has obtained the Queen's Palace at Pointe St. Charles, Quebec, and is having it improved and redecorated. He plans to reopen about May 1.

✣ ✣ ✣

Edward Felix, formerly with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has taken a position as salesman for the southern part of Wisconsin with Metro Pictures Service, Inc., Milwaukee.

✣ ✣ ✣

Having completed "Thais" and "The Splendid Sinner" for Goldwyn, and made a triumphal return to opera in Chicago, New York and Boston, Mary Garden will soon go to France for the summer.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Strand theatre, New York, gave a benefit show under the auspices of Miss Anne Morgan and the Committee for Devastated France last week. After the show $20,000 in cash was turned over to the committee.

Reception room at new headquarters of Mutual in New York.

Latest News of Chicago

OF INTEREST TO ALL THE TRADE

THE Unity Photoplays Company has bought out the business of the Standard Film Company's Chicago office, acquiring thereby the rights for Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin to thirty Art Dramas, twelve Billy West Comedies, three super-Harts, ten two-reel Harts and ten Keystone Comedies. The deal was negotiated by President Frank Zambreno of Unity.

Edwin Mordue, assistant manager of Standard's office, goes to Unity to look after Unity's new interests. Fred Young, a salesman, goes with him as assistant. Paul DeOtto, another salesman, has gone to the Bee Hive exchange, and Ray Florine, Milwaukee representative, has gone to Pathe to take southern Illinois territory. The rest of Standard's employes have been absorbed by various organizations.

✣ ✣ ✣

A private showing of the Chicago series of the Henderson National Educational Films, showing the work of the public school system, was given last week by the Central Film Company. This series, which was photographed under the supervision of Dudley Grant Hays, shows the pupils in their war gardens, shows the training the boys receive so that they may be of real aid on the farms, the technical training given in the Parental School and many other phases of the work. The pictures are interesting and will have more than local value. The series is in two-reel installments.

✣ ✣ ✣

Charles H. Ryan, manager of the Garfield Theatre, reports the final chapter in the robbery of his house. Frank Carson, the thief, pleaded guilty in the courtroom of Judge Sullivan and was sentenced to an indefinite term in the reformatory at Pontiac.

Carson robbed the Garfield of $394 by holding up Mr. Ryan, his doorman and cashier at the point of two revolvers on a Sunday evening while a show was being presented. When he departed, however, Mr. Ryan and others pursued and captured him after he had emptied both revolvers in vain. Carson confessed and admitted other robberies, also.

✣ ✣ ✣

The George Kleine system has formally taken over the business of the Allen Film Corporation. Ned Allen, president of the corporation, will now devote his entire time to the Edmund M. Allen Attractions, which has headquarters in Cleveland and controls "The Garden of Allah," "The Warrior" and "Mother" in Indiana and Ohio. J. R. Grainger, general manager of the Allen Film Corporation, and Pat Dillon, who had charge of the Cook county office, have gone to New York.

✣ ✣ ✣

J. S. Mednikow, city salesman of the Celebrated Players Film Company, reports that he has booked the new Chopin Theatre, Milwaukee avenue and Division street, with first run Christie Comedies and "The Thirteenth Labor of Hercules."

Louis Jaffe has returned to the Celebrated Players Film Company as shipping clerk after an absence of six months, during which time he was employed by the Central Film Company.

✣ ✣ ✣

E. Thomas Beatty, owner of the Harper, Linden and Inglewood theatres, while in the west recently visited Los Angeles and peered "behind the scenes." He reports an interesting experience.

✣ ✣ ✣

Lee A. Ochs, president, and C. R. Seelye, vice-president and general manager of the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., visited Chicago again this week.

✣ ✣ ✣

George L. Levy, who travels Indiana for Unity Photoplays Company, spent the week-end in Chicago after quite a long absence. He reports business is getting better each day.

✣ ✣ ✣

Norma Talmadge, Select star, visited the Select office the other day in company with her husband, Joseph M. Schenck, en route to New York after a visit in California.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Conway has been appointed representative for William Fox in the Milwaukee territory, to succeed Theodore Stover, who becomes a city salesman for the Chicago office.

✣ ✣ ✣

"The Kaiser," the Jewel feature, met with such great success at the Ziegfeld theatre, Alfred Hamburger's Michigan avenue house, that it was held over for a second week.

✣ ✣ ✣

Lee Mann, formerly of Pathe and Vitagraph, has taken charge of the booking department of the Celebrated Players Film Company.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Central Film Company has acquired the Illinois rights to "My Four Years in Germany" and will arrange a long first run in Chicago.

United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., reports the addition of two new salesmen, C. H. Seidell of Pathe and Frank Harris of Paramount.

✣ ✣ ✣

Harry Weiss, manager of the Central Film Company office, is touring Indiana in the interests of Central Film pictures.

✣ ✣ ✣

Louis B. Goulden of the Celebrated Players Film Company is on a tour of Indiana in behalf of "Parentage."

✣ ✣ ✣

Louis Landau of the Washington Theatre at Granite City, Ill., was a visitor at the Central Film exchange last week.

✣ ✣ ✣

R. O. Proctor, manager of the Pathe office, spent several days in Kansas City last week on business.

✣ ✣ ✣

Max Goldstein, manager of the local Paramount office, has returned from a trip to New York.

✣ ✣ ✣

The Fox version of "Les Miserables," starring William Farnum, begins its Chicago run next week.

George Beban, portrayer of Italian types, as he appears in his latest Paramount picture, "One More American."

Complete Record of Current Films

BROUGHT UP TO DATE EACH WEEK

This record is intended to give, for the convenient use of the exhibitor in booking films, all the information about each film that it is possible to present in a space limited to one line. The classification is indicated by the letter at the left (D for drama, C for comedy, T for topical, S for scenic, E for educational, etc). Next comes the date and the title, followed by the names of the stars in parentheses. At the extreme right hand end of the line is the distributor's booking number, preceded by the name of the producing company. The figure appearing just before this name indicates the number of reels—the letter S meaning a split reel.

General Program

A Daughter of Uncle Sam Series

(Jane Vance and William Sorelle)

D 12 Episodes 1,000

Adventures of Stingaree Series

D An Eye for an Eye..... 2,000
D A Double Deception..... 2,000
D A Model Marauder..... 2,000
D The Mark of Stingaree..... 2,000
D An Order of the Court..... 2,000
D At the Sign of the Kangaroo..... 2,000

A Daughter of Daring Series

D The Detective's Danger..... 1,000
D The Railroad Smugglers..... 1,000
D The Deserted Engine 1,000

Blue Ridge Dramas (Ned Finley)

D The Return of O'Garry..... 2,000
D Mountain Law 2,000
D The Raiders of Sunset Gap..... 2,000

Broadway Star Features

D School and Schools (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D A Madison Sq. Arabian Night (O. Henry Series) 2,000
D The Rathskeller and the Rose (O. Henry Series) 2,000
C-D By Injunction (O. Henry Series)... 2,000
D The Song and the Sergeant (O. Henry Series) 2,000
C-D Lost on Dress Parade (O. Henry Series) 2,000
C-D Nemesis and the Candy Man (O. Henry Series)..... 2,000

Chaplin Comedies

C Work 2,000
C A Woman 2,000
C The Tramp 2,000
C His New Job..... 2,000

Clover Comedies

C The Wooing of Coffee Cake Kate.... 1,000
C Rip Roaring Rivals..... 1,000

Duplex Films, Inc.

D Shame (Zena Keefe)..... 7,000

Ebony Comedies

C A Black Sherlock Holmes..... 1,000
C Spying the Spy..... 1,000
C The Porters 1,000
C A Milk Fed Hero..... 1,000
C Busted Romance 1,000
C Spooks 1,000

Essanay Comedies

C When Macbeth Came to Snakeville.. 1,000
C Slippery Slim and His Tombstone... 1,000
C Slippery Slim and the Impersonator.. 1,000
C When Slippery Slim Met the Champion 1,000
C Slippery Slim and the Fortune Teller 1,000
C Slippery Slim and the Green-eyed Monster 1,000
C When Macbeth Came to Snakeville.. 1,000

Essanay Scenics

Sce. A Romance of Rails and Power.... 1,000
Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly 1,000

Export and Import Film Co. (Inc.)

D "Why—The Bolsheviki" 5,000

George Ade Fables

C The Fable of the Toilsome Ascent and the Shining Table Land..... 2,000
C The Fable of the Back Trackers From the Hot Sidewalks..... 2,000

Grant, Police Reporter Series

D The Mystery of Room 422..... 1,000
D A Deal in Bonds..... 1,000
D The Sign of the Scarf..... 1,000
D The Man With the Limp..... 1,000

Jaxon Comedies

C The Inspector's Wife..... 1,000
C In Wrong (Finn & Haddie)..... 1,000
C Anybody's Money 1,000
C Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie.... 1,000
C Marooned 1,000
C Sherman Was Right..... 1,000

Judge Brown Stories

C-D Thief or Angel..... 2,000
C-D Rebellion 2,000
C-D A Boy-Built City 2,000
C-D I'm a Man..... 2,000

Hanover Film Co.

D The Marvelous Maciste..... 6,000
D Camille 6,000

Novelty Films (Cartoons, Novelties and Scenics)

Me, der Kaiser; Our Heroes; Strange Sights in the Pacific Islands..... 1,000
Power, Pro and Con; England's Leaders on Land and Sea; Scenic..... 1,000
The Girth of a Nation; 4 Famous Battles of the Civil War; Scenic.. 1,000

Physical Culture Photo Play Co.

Edc. Physical Culture Screen Magazine issued monthly 1,000

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION

Selburn Comedies

C His College Proxy (Neal Burns, Gertrude Selby) 1,000
C Wedding Bells and Lunatics..... 1,000

Sparkle Comedies

C On the Love Line..... 1,000
C The Detective..... 1,000
C Smashing the Plot..... 1,000
C After the Matinee..... 1,000
C Double Cross..... 1,000
C The Best of a Bad Bargain..... 1,000

Three C Comedies

C A Boarding House Battle (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul). 1,000
C Stealing a Sweetheart (Lou Marks, Pearl Shepard, Oom Paul)..... 1,000

Mutual Program

Sunday

4-7 Screen Telegrams 1,000

Tuesday

4-9 For Art's Sake (Billie Rhodes). 1,000

Wednesday

4-10 Screen Telegram 1,000

Universal Program

3-4 Nobody's Wife (Louise Lovely) 5,000
3-11 Beauty in Chains (Ella Hall). 5,000
3-18 Thieves' Gold (Harry Carey).. 5,000
3-25 The Girl Who Wouldn't Suit (Louise Lovely) 5,000
4-1 The Magic Eye (Little Zoe Rae) 5,000
4-8 The Risky Road (Special Attraction) (Dorothy Phillips). 5,000

State Rights Productions

American War News (Serial Weekly) .....Cinema
Alma, Where Do You Live?..... .....Newfields Producing Co. 6,000
Come Through...Universal Film Co. 7,000
Corruption....Popular Pictures Corp.
Doing Their Bit.....The A. Kay Co. 3,000
Defense or Tribute (Defense of Tribute Film Co.)..... 5,000
Even as You and I..... .....Universal Film Co.
Fairy and the Waif..... .....Educational Film Co. 5,000
Five Nights....Jacques Kopfstein Co. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... ....H. Grossman Distributing Corp.
Garden of Knowledge..Robt. T. Kane
Girl Who Didn't Think..... .....Creative Film Corp. 6,000
Flora Finch Comedies..... .....H. Crossman Distributing Co.
Hand of Fate, The.Overland Film Co.
Hand That Rocks the Cradle, The.... .....Universal Film Co.
Hate.....Fairmont Film Co.
Ivan the Terrible..... .....Export and Import Film Co. 6,000
Her Condoned Sin.....Biograph Co. 6,000
Girl Who Doesn't Know..... .....Moss B. S. M. P. Corp. 5,000
Glory.....Unity Sales Corp. 7,000
God's Law.....Universal Film Corp.
God's Man ....Frohman Amusement Corp. 9,000
Golden-Spoon Mary..The A. Kay Co. 8,000
Great White Trail.....Wharton, Inc. 8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)... .....Frank Hall
Civilization .....Harper 9,000
Intolerance .....D. W. Griffith 9,000
Joan, the Woman (Geraldine Farrar) .....Cardinal 11,000
Madame Sherry.....M. H. Hoffman
Mother O' Mine.Bluebird Photoplays 5,000
Rustler's Frameup at Big Horn..... .....Ultra Film Co.
Seven Cardinal Virtues..... .....M. H. Hoffman 5,000
Sin Woman, The..M. H. Hoffman... 7,000
Slackers Heart, A..... .....Emerald Motion Pictures
Some Barrier, The.....A. Kay Co
S. O. S. American Standard Motion Picture Co..... .....Joseph F. Lee 5,000
Span of Life.....Sherman Elliott Corp 12,000
Spoilers, The..Jaxon Film Corp. 5,000
Strife.....Pathe Exchange
Tanks at the Battle of the Ancre.... .....A. Kay Co.
Terry Human Interest Reel..... .....Cinema Distributing Co. 12,000
Thirteenth Labor of Hercules..... .....Liberty Film Corp. 7,000
Three Musketeers, The..... .....Supreme Feature Films 10,000
Trip Through China, A..... .....E. I. S. Motion Picture Corp. 5,000
Trooper 44..... .....A. Kay Co.
20,000 Feats Under the Sea..... .....Universal Film Co.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.....Arrow 7,000
The Deemster (Derwent Hall Caine) .....Rex Beach 9,000
The Barrier.....Charter 2,000
The Lincoln Cycle (Benjamin Chapin) .....Corona Cinema 7,000
The Curse of Eve (Enid Markey)... .....Enlightenment Corporation 7,000
Enlighten Thy Daughter..... .....Graphic 5,000
The Woman and the Beast...Frank Hall 9,000
The Bar Sinister.....
The Honor System..... .....Honor System Booking 10,000
The Whip.....Paragon Films 8,000
The Ne'er-Do-Well .....Selig Special 8,000
The Garden of Allah....Selig Special 10,000

Feature Program

Artcraft

2-25	Headin' South (Douglas Fairbanks)	5,000
4-1	The Tiger Man (Wm. S. Hart)	5,000
4-8	The Lie (Elsie Ferguson)	5,000

Bluebird Photoplays

3-11	Hungry Eyes (Monroe Salisbury)	5,000
3-18	Brace Up (Herbert Rawlinson)	5,000
3-25	The Wine Girl (Carmel Myers)	5,000
4-1	Fast Company (Franklin Farnum)	5,000
4-8	The Red, Red Heart (Monroe Salisbury)	5,000

Fox Film Corporation

3-24	Rough and Ready (William Farnum) (Standard)	6,000
3-24	The Decay (Mutt and Jeff Cartoons)
3-31	The Kid Is Clever (George Walsh)	5,000
3-31	A Camouflage Kiss (June Caprice)	5,000
3-31	Back to the Balkans (Mutt and Jeff Cartoons	500
4-7	The Blindness of Divorce (Standard)	7,000
4-7	The Bride of Fear (Jewel Carmen)	5,000
4-7	The Freight Investigation (Mutt and Jeff Cartoons)	500
4-7	A Waiter's Wasted Life (Sunshine Com.)	2,000

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation

4-7	The Danger Game (Madge Kennedy)	6,000
	Bill's Baby (Capitol Com.)	2,000
	Bill's Predicament (Capitol Com.)	2,000

Goldwyn Specials

Heart of the Sunset	7,000
Blue Blood	6,000
Honor's Cross	6,000
Social Ambition	6,000
The Manx-Man	7,000
For the Freedom of the World.	7,000

Herbert Brenon Film Corp.

The Lone Wolf	7,000
Fall of the Romanoffs	8,000
Empty Pockets	7,000

Hoffman Foursquare Pictures

The Sin Woman (Irene Fenwick)	7,000
Madame Sherry (Gertrude McCoy)	5,000
A Trip Thru China (Brodsky's Art Pictures)	8,000
Her Fighting Chance (Jane Grey)	6,000
Should She Obey (Alice Wilson)	6,000
Whither Thou Goest (Rhea Mitchell)	5,000
The Great White Trail (Doris Kenyon)	6,000

Jester Comedies

Feb.	The Recruit (Twede Dan)	2,000
Mar.	His Golden Romance (Twede Dan)	2,000
Apr.	All "Fur" Her (Twede Dan)	2,000

King Bee Comedies

1-1	The Slave (Billy West)	2,000
1-15	The Stranger (Billy West)	2,000
2-1	His Day Out (Billy West)	2,000
2-15	The Rogue (Billy West)	2,000

Metro Pictures

3-25	Breakers Ahead (Viola Dana)	5,000
3-25	When a Man's Married (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000
4-1	The Landloper (Harold Lockwood)	5,000
4-1	Gas Logic (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000
4-8	Social Hypocrites (May Allison)	5,000
4-8	A Youthful Affair (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew	1,000

Metro Specials

Lest We Forget (Rita Jolinet)	8,000
The Legion of Death (Edith Storey)	7,000
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana)	7,000
Revelation (Nazimova)	7,000
The Slacker (Emily Stevens)	7,000
Draft 258 (Mabel Taliaferro)	7,000

Mutual Star Productions

3-11	Ann's Finish (Margarita Fischer)	5,000
3-18	The Girl and the Judge (Olive Tell)	5,000
4-1	A Bit of Jade (Mary Miles Minter)	5,000
4-8	The Richest Girl (Ann Murdock)	5,000

Perfection Pictures

3-18	Ruggles of Red Gap (Taylor Holmes)	7,000

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

Paralta Plays

2-15	The Turn of a Card (J. Warren Kerrigan)	7,000
3-1	Within the Cup (Bessie Barriscale)	7,000
3-15	Humdrum Brown (Henry B. Walthall)	6,000

Paramount Features

4-1	Honor of His House (Sessue Hayakawa)	5,000
4-8	His Majesty Bunker Bean (Jack Pickford)	5,000
4-8	The House of Silence (Wallace Reid)	5,000

Pathe

	(Drama)	3,000
3-10	The Price of Folly, No. 8, "Shifting Sands" (Drama)	2,000
3-10	Look Pleasant Please (Com.). Rolin	1,000
3-10	Our National Parks—Rainier Park—Mesa Verda Park (Travel) Pathe	1,000
3-10	Katzenjammer Kids — Spirits (Cartoon)	500
3-10	Jackie's Clothes (Educ.)	500
3-13	Hearst Pathe News, No. 22	1,000
3-16	Hearst Pathe News, No. 23	1,000
3-17	The Beggar Woman (Russian Art Films) Drama	5,000
3-17	The House of Hate, No. 2, "The Tiger's Eye" Drama	2,000
3-17	Fare, Please (Comedy) Rolin	2,000
3-17	Here Come the Girls (Comedy) Rolin	1,000
3-17	Picturesque France—The Cauterets (Colored) Travel	500
3-17	Children's Dances (Colored) Educational	500
3-20	Hearst-Pathe News, No. 24	1,000
3-23	Hearst-Pathe News, No. 25	1,000
3-25	The Hillcrest Mystery (Drama) Astra	5,000
3-24	The House of Hate, No. 3—A Woman's Perfidy (Drama) Astra	2,000
3-24	Let's Go (Comedy) Rolin	1,000
3-24	Pests of Our Fruit Trees (Educ.)	500
3-24	Picturesque France (Colored) (Travel)	500
3-27	Hearst Pathe News, No. 26	1,000
3-30	Hearst Pathe News, No. 27	1,000
	Keystone Comedy	2,000
3-31	Mrs. Slacker (Drama) Astra	5,000
3-31	The House of Hate, No. 4, The Man from Java (Drama) Vestra	2,000
3-31	On the Jump (Comedy) Rolin	1,000
3-31	The Valley of the Dordogne (France), Colored (Travel).	500
3-31	The Horse in Action, Part 2, Colored (Travel)	500
4-3	Hearst Pathe News, No. 28	1,000
4-6	Hearst Pathe News, No. 29	1,000
4-7	Twenty One (Bryant Washburn) (Com.-Dram.)	5,000
4-7	The House of Hate No. 5, Spies Within (Drama) Astra	2,000
4-7	Follow the Crown (Com.) Rolin	1,000
4-7	Quicker Transportation (Sweden) (Col.)	500
4-7	St. Flour and Aurillac, Picturesque France (Col.)	500
4-10	Hearst Pathe News, No. 30	1,000
4-13	Hearst Pathe News, No. 31	1,000

Petrova Picture Company

2-1	The Light Within (Madame Petrova)	7,000
3-18	The Life Mask (Madame Petrova)	7,000
4-	Tempered Steel (Madame Petrova)	7,000

Select Pictures Corporation

SPECIAL RELEASES

Over There (Charles Richman, Anna Q. Nilsson)	6,000
The Lone Wolf (Bert Lytell, Hazel Dawn)	7,000
The Barrier..Rex Beach Production	7,000
The Wild Girl (Eva Tangway)	5,000

Triangle Distributing Corporation

Released Week of

3-10	The Hard Rock Breed. Margery Wilson	5,000
3-10	Wives and Worries. Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-10	The Sea Panther (Wm. Desmond)	5,000
3-10	Did She Do Wrong? Keystone Comedy	2,000
3-17	Faith Endurin' (Roy Stuart)	5,000
3-17	A Social Shock Absorber. Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-17	The Answer (Alma Rubens)	7,000
3-17	Caught With the Goods. Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-17	Mud .....Keystone Comedy	2,000
3-24	Nancy Comes Home (Myrtle Lind)	5,000
3-24	Fork Over ...Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-17	Innocent's Progress (Pauline Starke)	5,000
3-24	A Janitor's Fall. Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-24	A Safe Danger. Keystone Comedy	2,000
3-31	Unfaithful (Dorothy Dalton)	2,000
3-31	The Marriage Bubble (Wm. Desmond)	3,000
3-31	A Good Elk..Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-31	Another Foolish Virgin (Margery Wilson)	5,000
3-31	Her Bohemian Party Triangle Komedy	1,000
3-31	A Playwright's Wrong. Keystone Comedy	2,000
4-7	The Love Brokers (Alma Rubens)	5,000
4-7	The Boss of Lazy "Y" (Roy Stuart)	5,000
4-7	Mr. Briggs Closes the House. Keystone Comedy	2,000

Vitagraph-V. L. S. E.

3-18	An American Live Wire (Earl Williams)	5,000
3-18	Tramps and Traitors. Big V Comedy	1,000
3-18	Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 13	2,000
3-18	A Telegraphic Tangle (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000
3-25	The Home Trail (Nell Shipman)	5,000
3-25	Stripes and Stumbles. Big V Comedy	1,000
3-25	Vengeance—And the Woman, No. 14	2,000
3-25	His Wife Knew About It (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000
4-1	Little Miss No-Account (Gladys Leslie)	5,000
4-1	Sleuths & Slickers. Big V Comedy	1,000
4-1	Vengeance—and the Woman, No. 15	2,000
4-1	Following the Scent (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000
4-8	The Business of Life (Alice Joyce)	5,000
4-8	Rummies and Razors. Big V Comedy	1,000
4-8	The Woman and the Web, No. 1, Caught in the Web	2,000
4-8	The Home Cure (Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew)	1,000

World Features

3-4	Spurs of Sybil (Alice Brady)	5,000
3-11	The Wasp (Kitty Gordon)	5,000
3-18	Wanted a Mother (Madge Evans)	5,000
3-25	The Way Out (Carlyle Blackwell)	5,000
4-1	The Cross Bearer (Montague Love)	7,000
4-8	The Witch Woman (Ethel Clayton)	5,000

Wholesome Films Corporation

	His Awful Downfall. Rex-Adams Comedy	1,000
	Little Red Riding Hood (Juvenile)	4,000

Essanay

Presents

A CHAPLIN JINGLE

"Chase Me Charlie"

A British version of Charlie Chaplin's funniest films—taken from the famous Essanay-Chaplin comedies. Screen time one hour.

Distributed by George Kleine System

Perfection Pictures

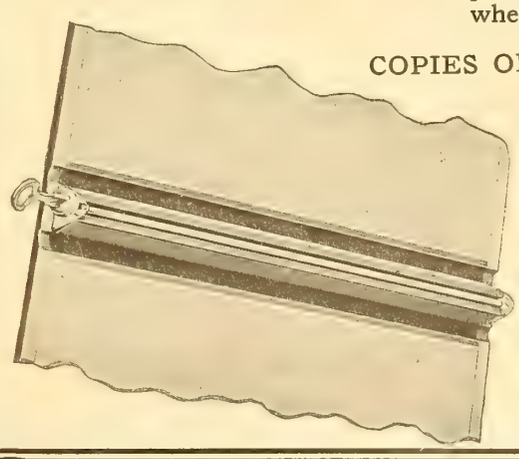
EXHIBITORS

OPEN

Save your copies of MOTOGRAPHY for future reference

By placing them in This Wonderful MAGAZINE BINDER

Any subscriber to Motography may secure one of these binders by sending us $1.00 in addition to the regular subscription price.



Address, MOTOGRAPHY, Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

CONVENIENT · DURABLE · ATTRACTIVE · INEXPENSIVE

When open the inside column is as easily accessible as the outside; and when closed has the appearance of a neatly bound book, no matter whether it contains one copy or a dozen.

CLOSED

COPIES OF MOTOGRAPHY MAY BE INSERTED WITHOUT MUTILATING OR PUNCHING

The very best materials used in manufacturing this binder.

PRICE $1.50

SINGLE COPY LOCK BINDER

Suitable for Reading Rooms, Libraries, Clubs, wherever it is desirable to have current numbers of Motography. Locks the copy in the binder so it cannot be removed without a key.

PRICE $1.50

MOTOGRAPHY

The MOTION PICTURE TRADE JOURNAL

SERGT. ARTHUR GUY EMPEY
As he appears in the Vitagraph Production, "Over the Top"

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 20, 1918 No. 16

New York Goes Wild With Enthusiasm!

ALBERT E. SMITH PRESENTS

"OVER THE TOP"

WITH SERGT. ARTHUR GUY

EMPEY HIMSELF

A MARVELOUS PHOTOPLAY OF EMPEY'S WORLD-FAMOUS BOOK

Scenario by Robert Gordon Anderson

Supported by LOIS MEREDITH
and
JAMES MORRISON
with an ALL STAR
VITAGRAPH CAST

Directed by Wilfrid North
Under the Personal Supervision of
ALBERT E. SMITH

Extract from the First Trade Paper Review

"Vitagraph Measures Up to a Big Opportunity and Scores a Victory"

"I want to say that I have never seen a reproduction of boys going 'Over the Top' that will compare with this one. It is so realistic you will forget it is a picture.—Each punch in the picture is strong enough to form the basis of a five real feature."

P. S. HARRISON
In Issue of April 13—Motion Picture News

VITAGRAPH

TRIANGLE

The Business End

OVER IN EUROPE the men in the front are bearing the burden of the fighting—and getting the glory.

The columns of the newspapers ring with their exploits.

That's the spectacular end of war.

At home, far from the battle line, millions of men and women go quietly about the task of supplying the food, the ammunition and the necessities of the men that are winning the glory.

That is the business end of the war.

The motion picture business presents a striking analogy to this war situation.

While producers are boasting of their stars and their wonderful tales; while they are raising their voices in a great din over the spectacular features of their product, the vast army of important details that really determine the consistent success of the exhibitor are neglected.

But not in TRIANGLE service are they overlooked.

This is one of the remarkable features of TRIANGLE.

When a TRIANGLE exhibitor receives his film he finds that it is in perfect shape. It has been thoroughly inspected and is in proper condition before it leaves the exchange.

A Traffic Department, in constant touch with each exchange, supervises all shipments, and routing. This is unique and was inaugurated in the film business by TRIANGLE. Films are shipped far enough in advance to reach their destinations in time, and by the most economical route.

Or when the reel boy calls for his pictures in the morning, he finds them ready. No delay and no worry about this important element in the business.

Every employee in the service of TRIANGLE is courteous. They believe the exhibitor is a gentleman and is deserving of every consideration.

Advertising requirements are handled with a precision and care that leaves nothing to be desired. Publicity material is sent out sufficiently in advance of release to be of 100% value to the exhibitor.

TRIANGLE could not serve the exhibitor better if it were owned and operated co-operatively by TRIANGLE exhibitors according to their own ideas and ideals. Film rentals are the most attractive in the business and exhibitors who know how to promote real pictures can always make money with TRIANGLE. TRIANGLE'S policy of the fair and square deal, frankness and helpfulness is making history in a business which has known many woes and tribulations for the exhibitor.

Are you progressing, prospering and profiting?

If not—TRIANGLE.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH
President

R. W. LYNCH
Vice-President

FRED KENT
Treasurer

Y. F. FREEMAN
General Manager

A gripping scene from "The Law of the Great Northwest," a Triangle play featuring Margery Wilson.

MAY 20 1918

MOTOGRAPHY

INCORPORATED WITH WHICH IS THE NICKELODEON

Vol. XIX CHICAGO, APRIL 20, 1918 No. 16

New York Bill Now Before Senate

PASSED IN ASSEMBLY BY VOTE OF 76 TO 63

WITH their Sunday show option bill passed in the assembly, exhibitors of New York state are awaiting with eagerness action by the senate. Although the bill had a narrow escape in the assembly, it is believed it will get a more favorable reception in the upper house, and that victory will crown the fight soon.

The bill passed the assembly by a vote of 76 to 63. It was lost by one vote in a previous roll call, but on the final roll call the deciding vote was cast by Raymond T. Kenyon of Essex, brother of Doris Kenyon, the star.

Debate Precedes Passage

Upon the first roll call Assemblyman Kenyon was absent from the chamber and only 75 votes were recorded in favor of the bill. On a motion of Assemblyman Welsh, the introducer of the bill, to reconsider the vote by which the measure was lost, a lively discussion followed as to the rules governing the procedure. It was finally decided by Speaker Sweet that the motion was in order and another vote was taken, which resulted in the passage of the measure. In the interim Assemblyman Kenyon returned to the chamber and cast the vote necessary to pass the bill.

When the bill was called for final action members who favored the legislation made stirring speeches.

Welsh Vouches for Bill

John W. Slacer of Erie, who was opposed to the Welsh bill, contended that it had not been properly acted upon by the codes committee. Assemblyman Welsh assured the members that Chairman Duke of the committee would vouch that all had been regular in the progress of the bill.

Assemblyman Shiplacoff, advocating the passage of the bill, said that he had visited several hundred cities during the last few months and when he arrived in a strange city he observed at once that where he saw boys in small groups playing craps he came to the conclusion that the motion picture theatres in that city were closed, and he found that he was always correct.

Shiplacoff Pleads for Rights

"The best thing that can be done for mankind is not to deprive him of his liberty," he said. "It is the right of each community to do as it pleases in regard to Sunday films. The closing of the theatres in New York City would be the means of corrupting hundreds of young men and women. If you close the saloons, where do you expect the people to go? If the pictures are bad on Sunday they are equally as bad on any other day of the week, and I congratulate Assemblyman Welsh for introducing such an admirable bill."

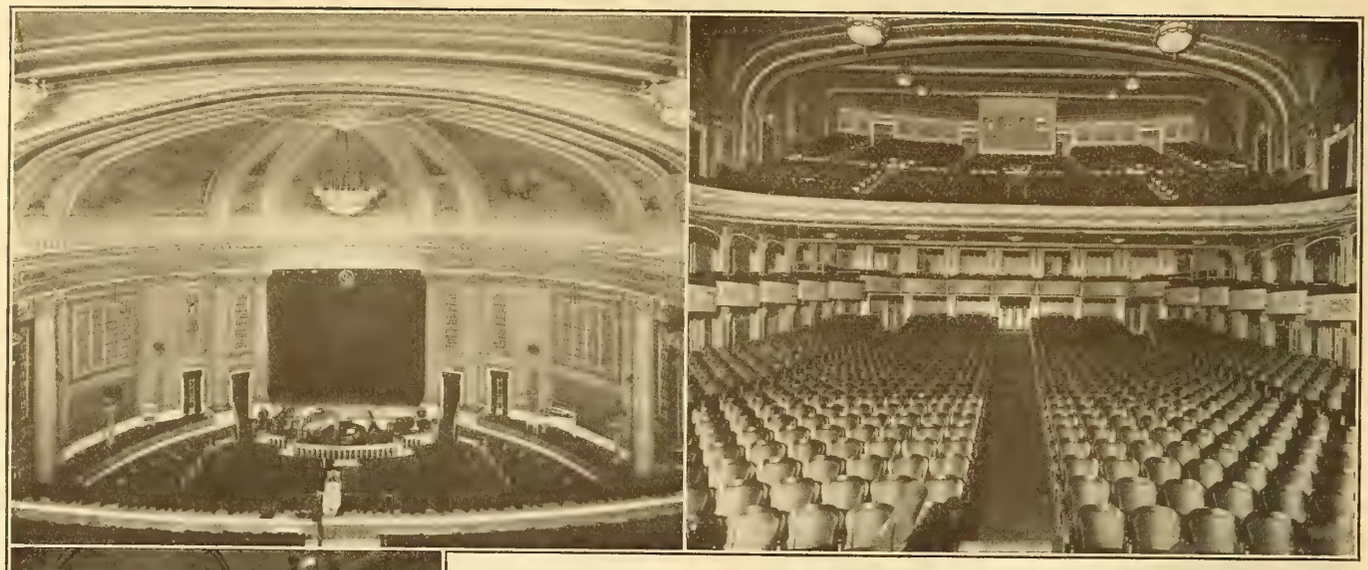
Charles D. Donahue, the Democratic floor leader, advocating the bill, quoted the decisions of several courts regarding the Sunday observance law, showing that it did not apply to the giving of motion picture shows, and that it was necessary to have a law of this kind on the statute books. Assemblyman Donahue admitted that he thought the bill could be drawn differently.

"But the result is what is desired," he said, "even if it will close some of the theatres in some localities. We do not want to go back to the old blue laws, that is certain. We see the same picture in the newspapers that we see on the screen, and cannot understand why there can be any objections to this bill."

People's Bill, Says Welsh

Assemblyman Welsh, asking for the support of his associates, declared that the legislature is not a religious council, or expected to standardize morals.

"You talk too much regarding the religious side of the question," said Mr. Welsh. "The policy of the proposed law is good and the bill has been properly drawn by the drafting committee. It is for the benefit of the people and not for church bodies. The New York State Mayors' Conference has suggested this proposition to regulate the movies, feeling that it will not cause a state-wide law on the subject, but will have the effect of clearing up a situation affecting Sunday observance."



Assemblymen McCue, Amos, Whitehorn and A. Taylor spoke in favor of the bill, while Fearon, Slacer, Wiltz, Prangen and Youker were lined up against it.

Senate Hearing Held

The measure has already been considered by the codes committee in the senate. The day of the hearing advocates of the bill stormed the house in large numbers and arguments of a convincing nature were presented. The theatre men were headed by J. Robert Ruben, secretary of the Metro Pictures Corporation.

"This bill is not a motion picture proposition," said Mr. Rubin, "but is in response to the request of a composite idea of the mayors of the state."

(Concluded on page 774)

Views of the new Central Park theatre, Central Park avenue and Twelfth street, Chicago, owned by Balaban and Katz. At the top, left, view of the stage and proscenium from the balcony; right, view of the seating arrangement from orchestra pit, showing main floor, boxes, balcony and gallery. At the bottom, view of the lobby leading to the main floor and balcony.

"The Busy Inn" Heads Pathe Program

One-Reel War Educational, Sixth Episode of "The House of Hate" and Comedy Also on Bill

MADAME NADYA LESIENKO in "The Busy Inn," a Russian Art drama, "The Whispering Wires of War," the sixth episode of "The House of Hate" and another rousing Harold Lloyd comedy head Pathe's program for April 14.

"The Busy Inn" is a strong Russian play of middle-class life adapted for the screen from the celebrated drama by Alexander Ostrovsky, Russia's greatest playwright. The cast includes the well known stars N. I. Panhoff and Madame Orlova. The play is odd for a Russian production in that it has a happy ending.

Questions of vital interest concerning the maneuvers of vast armies are vividly answered in "The Whispering Wires of War," which is a one-reel feature showing the spectacular work of the telephone and wireless divisions of the United States signal corps in France.

"A Live Target" is the title of the sixth episode of "The House of Hate." This episode opens with the Hooded Terror overpowering Pearl Waldon, played by Pearl White, in the apartment of Harvey Gresham, played by Antonio Moreno.

Gresham enters the apartment just as Pearl screams for help. The Hooded Terror releases her and flees out the window. He ascends the fire escape by gorilla-like leaps, plunges through a closed window amid a shower of broken glass and escapes to the roof.

Harvey and Pearl pursue the Terror, but he closes the trap door leading to the roof and bars their progress. As Harvey chops through the door with a fire axe the Terror seizes a halyard, attached to the flagpole and by a spectacular leap clears the distance to the next building. He crashes through a skylight and escapes.

The Terror is located the next day by the police through an automobile which he stole. At the same time Gresham, from a field laboratory, is directing the test of a liquid fire gun for the Allies.

The Terror eludes the police, who have been joined by Pearl, and speeding to the field where the test is in progress, turns the gun on the field laboratory.

As Pearl and two policemen hurry to the testing ground, the field laboratory bursts into flames. Harvey is seen staggering amid exploding chemicals as the episode ends.

"Pipe the Whiskers" is the name of Harold Lloyd's new one reel comedy, produced by Rolin and released by Pathe. It is a masterpiece of fun and action.

Two interesting split-reel Pathe colors for the week are "The Valley of the Dordogne" and "The Horse in Action." Hearst-Pathe News Nos. 32 and 33 complete the program.

Metro Cameraman to Colors

The Yorke-Metro Company, which produces the Harold Lockwood features for the Metro, contributed another member of its staff to the service of Uncle Sam, when Benjamin Pietropaoli, assistant to Cameraman Antonio Gaudio, left Los Angeles, April 6, for a camp on Lake Ontario to join the Photographic Division of the Signal Corps. Pietropaoli was scheduled to leave Los Angeles March 29 with a number of other recruits for Camp Lewis and had said good-bye to all of his associates, only to re-appear several days later with the information that his trip to Camp Lewis had been called off and that he had been instructed to report this week to be ready to join the Photographic Division of the Signal Corps, in accordance with orders received by his draft board from Washington.

Pietropaoli is the eleventh member of the Yorke-Metro Company to enter some branch of military service since the United States entered the war.

World Official on Tour

Ricord Gradwell, vice-president and general manager of World Pictures, is on a tour of the Middle West.

Proving That Ideals Pay

A STORY OF A CHICAGO THEATRE

By Genevieve Harris

WHEN Balaban-Katz, the Chicago exhibitor company which consists of Balaban Brothers and Samuel Katz, early last winter opened one of the most costly and beautiful of picture theatres at a location not only several miles from Chicago's downtown district, but in the southwestern part of the city in what may be called a middle-class neighborhood, the film trade watched the experiment with interest.

Having the theatre most artistically designed and efficiently equipped, the owners did not stop there, but set out to present programs in a manner befitting the worth of the house itself. They have achieved their purpose and they are demonstrating as well that the system pays in any neighborhood.

Draws on Entire City

The Central Park theatre is, at the end of its first few months of existence, drawing patronage not only from all parts of the city, but from several of the suburbs as well. It is just another example of the fact that the world will eventually seek out real worth, wherever it may be.

No large advertising campaign was launched for the theatre. Its programs were published in a dignified and effective way in the daily papers and the people who came once not only came frequently thereafter, but they sent all their friends. Here was a theatre which gave real entertainment; not just a "picture show."

Seats 2,600 Persons

The accompanying photographs give some idea of the beauty of the theatre, which is a 2,600-seat house. Soft, pleasing colors, an attractive lighting system, comfortable seats, with plenty of space, perfect ventilation—all these assure the physical well-being of the patron who visits this theatre. There is an air of refinement here, which the attendants of the house emphasize by their courtesy.

In the first place, no glaring posters or three-sheets are used to advertise the programs. Instead, in the lobby there are artistic, nicely framed, original posters, the work of Alexander Frank, the house director. These posters are so good and illustrate so well how effective this sort of announcement can be, that MOTOGRAPHY will publish several of them in a later issue, with further explanations from Mr. Frank.

Announcement of the two features next to come is made. Since the theatre runs each picture three days, this gives Mr. Frank time to work out his posters as a daily change would not.

The theatre finds that the longer runs of pictures are profitable, according to Mr. Balaban. The third day's business is the best, not only on an unusually good feature, but on the average program picture. For this reason it is only a matter of time until arrangements will be made to run each feature a full week.

Program Worked Out Carefully

The program of the theatre is worked out carefully. Entire dependence is not put either on the star or the picture itself. Instead, the whole program must be good, so that even if the feature picture should not make a great appeal to some patrons, they will still find entertainment.

Pictures are shown from two o'clock until eleven, continuously, the orchestra playing both afternoon and evening. During the orchestral overture, the theatre's five-color lighting system is used to attain beautiful effects. A storm imitation, worked by the electrician with these lights and sound effects, accompanied by the orchestra's rendition of the "William Tell" overture, is especially popular with the patrons and wins more applause than any other feature.

Mildred Keats, daughter of Harry Leslie Keats, millionaire automobile distributor of Portland, Ore., who has joined the William Fox forces following her appearance in "Queen of the Sea."

Following the overture is the topical review, a selection of scenes from various news weeklies, with brief scenic views. An interesting idea in this connection is the use of a military scene to begin and end this number. This gives the orchestra a chance to brighten up the program by catchy military selections.

A solo musical number follows, vocal, violin or piano. Care is taken that this number is in harmony with the tone of the feature picture. For instance, frequently the song which the singer uses is made the theme of the orchestra's accompaniment for the photoplay.

Seat None During Solo

The ushers seat nobody during the overture or solo number. Patrons needed to be educated to this system, but diplomacy was used and performers and seated patrons both appreciate it.

The orchestra is under the direction of Leo R. Lipstein, and he and the managing director, Leopold Kohls, arrange the accompaniment for the pictures. Pictures are screened in a private projection room in the basement and the music carefully cued and well rehearsed. A speedometer in the operator's both and one in the orchestra pit assure co-ordination between picture and music.

Never Speed Picture

That pictures are never to be speeded is a rule of the theatre. A time schedule is made out for the entire day's program, so that there is no confusion. But while there is no speeding, the program is never allowed to drag. There are no pauses. When one number is finished, another begins at once.

A play-room for children is one of the conveniences of the theatre. In this room, provided with swings and toys, restless little children can be left to amuse themselves instead of annoying patrons. This room is also useful when a "pink permit" picture is run. Instead of leaving the children at home, the mothers bring them, knowing they will be cared for. For in spite of its wide drawing power, the Central Park does not cease to have the friendly spirit of a neighborhood house.

It is proud of its automobile trade, of the many cars which line the street near it each evening, but it is also proud of the line of baby carriages lined up before it each afternoon while tired mothers enjoy the matinee in as rich and beautiful a theatre as they could wish for.

"What The Picture Did For Me"

VERDICTS ON FILMS IN LANGUAGE OF EXHIBITOR

Copyright 1918 by E. R. Mock.

The criticisms contained in this department of Motography are truthful statements relative to the actual box office value of the pictures. If the picture you wish to know about is not included, write Motography and the information will be sent you promptly. If you need the information quickly, telegraph us. This department is open to all. Using the blank form below, write us your experience with the pictures you are showing. Address Motography, Department D, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill.

Artcraft

AMARILLY OF CLOTHESLINE ALLEY, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Easily one of the best pictures the star has appeared in. A comedy with touches of pathos and thrills. Big business."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Stella Maris, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Business good. This is Miss Pickford's greatest picture but the title is poor."—Charles Weigel, Alhambra Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Wolves of the Rail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"Business good. Hart at his best. A good money-getter."—Charles Weigel, Alhambra Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Broadway Jones, with George M. Cohan (Artcraft)—"One of the best I ever ran. Everybody was pleased. Business extra good."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

The Woman God Forgot, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"A wonderfully massive production, easily worth twenty-five cents admission."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Reaching for the Moon, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Fairbanks is always good, but this one is a little weak."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Song of Songs, with Elsie Ferguson (Artcraft)—"Very good. Big crowd and it was well liked. The star is popular here."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

What Is the Picture's Box Office Value?

IS THE film you are running in your theater today a money maker? Pass the word on! Does the picture draw the crowds? Tell the exhibitors in the other states. They want to book the same pictures. Tell them in Motography's "What the Picture Did for Me" Department.

Your box office is the test of popularity. Fill in the blank NOW.

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Title .....
Star ..... Producer.....
Remarks .....
.....
.....

Address ..... City and State.....
Name of Theater..... Sent in by.....

Help the industry produce better films. Fill out the blank every week. Mail it to Motography, Monadnock Bldg.,Chicago.

The Man From Painted Post, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"My patrons all like the star and the production is very good."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

The Little American, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Greatest picture in months. It surely draws at the box-office. Book it."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Narrow Trail, with W. S. Hart (Artcraft)—"A great picture. Drew fine. Book it. It's O. K."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

In Again, Out Again, with Douglas Fairbanks (Artcraft)—"Good picture. Fair drawing power."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

A Romance of the Redwoods, with Mary Pickford (Artcraft)—"Mary always draws fairly well here but she has had better pictures."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Devil's Stone, with Geraldine Farrar (Artcraft)—"I did not see this but from what I could learn it pleased. Geraldine is well liked here."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Butterfly

High Speed, with Jack Mulhall (Butterfly)—"Clean mirth-provoking comedy drama. Business good."—P. G. Estee, Star Theatre, Alexandria, S. D.

The Reed Case, with Alan Holubar and Louise Lovely (Butterfly)—"A good detective story, well staged."—P. G. Estee, Star Theatre, Alexandria, S. D.

Madame Spy, with Jack Mulhall (Butterfly)—"A nice, clean sort of story. Nothing out of the ordinary."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

Fox

The Camouflage Kiss, with June Caprice (Fox)—"A comedy drama which is a scream from start to finish. Although our patrons do not usually like June Caprice, they say this is the best she has ever done. It is great for the neighborhood house."—Harry C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Woman and the Law, with Miriam Cooper (Fox)—"A pink permit picture based on the De Saulles case. The big question in the picture is which should have the child, a good mother or a bad father. It enjoyed a very successful week's run at this theatre and was well liked. The title is a good money getter."—Harry C. Miller, Alcazar Theatre, Chicago—Downtown house.

Stolen Honor, with Virginia Pearson (Fox)—"Drew a good crowd and everyone was well pleased."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

The Heart of Romance, with June Caprice (Fox)—"A good comedy drama which at times borders on the burlesque."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"A good picture but not worth what is asked for the Standards and will not justify an advance in admission prices."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Conqueror, with William Farnum (Fox)—"One of the greatest pictures I ever played. Boost this picture and boost your price."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Babes in the Woods, with the Fox Kiddies (Fox)—"A great kid picture."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

Trouble Makers, with the Lee Kids (Fox)—"Just a mixture of Katzenjammer kid pranks. Story rambling and slight. Some good comedy in spots."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Goldwyn

Nearly Married, with Madge Kennedy (Goldwyn)—"A good comedy drama. Madge Kennedy is a coming star. Fair business."—Miss Benesch, Belle Theatre, Chicago.

Sunshine Alley, with Mae Marsh (Goldwyn)—"A very weak plot for a good star. Just fair."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Kleine

The Appletree Girl, with Shirley Mason (Edison-Kleine)—"I received more favorable comments on this picture than on any I have run for some time. It drew better than we expected it to. It is thoroughly delightful and is a picture for the whole family."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Two Bit Seats, with Taylor Holmes (Essanay)—"Just a fair picture. Star does not draw here. Not as good as we expected."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Fibbers, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay)—"Fairly good. My patrons liked it. Usual prices."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Kill-joy, with Mary McAlister (Essanay)—"A good kids' picture, clean and interesting."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Young Mother Hubbard, with Mary McAlister (Essanay)—"A nice, clean story, mighty cute and clever. This little star is very pleasing."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

Skinner's Baby, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay-Kleine)—"This drew well but I don't know what to say about it. Personally I enjoyed it and can't see why it should not be shown and I have defended my showing of it. But I have been very severely criticised for having it."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Skinner's Bubble, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay)—"Good."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Skinner's Dress Suit, with Bryant Washburn (Essanay)—"Good."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Pants, with Mary McAlister (Essanay)—"Mary McAlister is a favorite here. A nice, pleasing story."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Lady of the Photograph, with Shirley Mason (Edison)—"Just fair. No drawing power. Business poor."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Men of the Desert, with Jack Gardner (Essanay)—"Very good before the censors cut it. They just about spoiled it."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

The Appletree Girl, with Shirley Mason (Edison-Kleine)—"A dandy, clean picture. Patrons well satisfied."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Metro

Blue Jeans, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A wonderful melodrama. The characters as played could not be improved upon. Picture well directed and well acted. The saw mill scenes were taken at the supposed original mill and are very interesting. There is a good fight scene. A vein of comedy runs throughout the picture. It is one which has an audience crying and laughing at once. Sallie Crute as the adventuress has never done better. I would advise the exhibitor, especially in the neighborhood house, to book this. You can't go wrong. I think it is one of the best pictures of the year. It had a successful run of two weeks at the Rose."—Harry C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Pidgin Island, with Lockwood and Allison (Metro)—"Exceptionally fine. These stars always draw a full house for me."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

Vanity, with Emmy Wehlen (Metro)—"A charming star in a good picture. Drew a fine crowd and pleased everyone."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Slacker, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"A good picture which carries a splendid patriotic lesson."—P. G. Estee, Star Theatre, Alexandria, S. D.

The Winding Trail, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"A good picture in itself but not pleasant as entertainment. However, our patrons were well pleased."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Legion of Death, with Edith Storey (Metro)—"A good picture, well acted with a capable star. Picture a great money-getter and full of patriotic spirit. Contains some realistic scenes of the women's Battalion of Death in action. A timely picture, well done."—Harry C. Miller, Rose Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Landloper, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"Too bad, Harold. You can do better and we are living in hopes that you will come back in your next."—Harry C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

Alias Mrs. Jessop, with Emily Stevens (Metro)—"A good picture. The star is popular here and her work in this is perfect. Her dual role was almost unbelievable."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Girl Without a Soul, with Viola Dana (Metro)—"Very good. Star's work extra good. S. R. O. business."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

To the Death, with Mme. Petrova (Metro)—"A fairly good offering. Business good. This star is too stiff."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Under Handicap, with Harold Lockwood (Metro)—"A good picture. My patrons were well satisfied. Extra good business."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Their Compact, with Bushman and Bayne (Metro)—"A good program picture. Patrons liked it. Business good."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Silence Sellers, with Mme. Petrova (Metro)—"Poor. Nothing to the story."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Mutual

American Maid, with Edna Goodrich (Mutual)—"A good title and a good picture. Edna Goodrich is not so well known but the catchy title brought them in."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

The Rainbow Girl, with Juliette Day (American-Mutual)—"Star good. Picture and subject may have been good when this was made. Film now in poor condition. Business poor."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Please Help Emily, with Ann Murdock (Mutual)—"Star very popular. Patrons were disappointed in this picture, for the film was in poor condition, being cut to about four reels. Films like this hurt business. Business fair."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

Paramount

Huck and Tom, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Dandy. Get it."—Harry C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.

Huck and Tom, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"Great. Everyone was pleased. Did good business two nights."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Taming Target Center, with Polly Moran (Sennett-Paramount)—"Great. Polly Moran is a regular feminine Douglas Fairbanks."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Are Waitresses Safe? (Sennett-Paramount)—"One of the best of Sennett's comedies."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

At Coney Island, with Fatty Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Greatest comedy in months. Book it at any price. It's great."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Caprice, with Mary Pickford (Paramount)—"A very good comedy drama, with many good laughs and a splendid story. Photography good. Film in good condition."—J. F. Hickenbottom, Grand Theatre, Juliaetta, Idaho.

Egged On, with Victor Moore (Paramount)—"Splendid comedy, slapstick but not too silly to be funny. One reel, yet long enough for many good laughs."—J. F. Hickenbottom, Grand Theatre, Hickenbottom, Juliaetta, Idaho.

Eve's Daughter, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"The picture is good and drew a good crowd. Everyone was satisfied."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

His Mother's Boy, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"Very good. Personally I believe Ray is the greatest actor on the screen. His work is wonderful and is just being appreciated by the public. He does not have to resort to stunts and so forth to put a picture over. Oh that there were more like Ray."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Love Letters, with Dorothy Dalton (Paramount)—"A relief from the past dance hall stuff this star has been playing. Story ordinary and not strong enough for any advance in price."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Ghost House, with Jack Pickford (Paramount)—"A pleasing comedy drama. The star is gaining in popularity and seems especially well adapted for the parts he takes."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

His Mother's Boy, with Charles Ray (Paramount)—"A fine production. Good story. Everyone pleased."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Land of Promise, with Billie Burke (Paramount)—"The best picture this star has appeared in so far. Liked by the majority. Good business."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Sunset Trail, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"Pleased the majority. Nice settings and scenery. Average story. Star pleasing as usual."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Fair Barbarian, with Vivian Martin (Paramount)—"A very pretty star in a nice picture with a good story. Business good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

Rimrock Jones, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Excellent story with a star who is fast becoming popular. Business very good."—A. E. Ableson, Zelda Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The Eternal Temptress, with Lina Cavalieri (Paramount)—"Not the picture that was expected of this star."—C. Everett Wagner, Dreamland Theatre, Chester, S. C.

The Bell Boy, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"Unusual comedy. Excellent. Good business."—Lubin Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Sleeping Fires, with Pauline Frederick (Paramount)—"A good picture to a good crowd."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The World Apart, with Wallace Reid (Paramount)—"Did not draw as well as Golden Fetters. A good picture."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

A Reckless Romeo, with Roscoe Arbuckle (Paramount)—"An excellent comedy that kept the audience in a continual laugh. Fatty is a good drawing card."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

Select

Over There, with Charles Richman (Select)—"Good business. Picture could be better."—Lubin Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

Over There, with Charles Richman (Select)—"A fine patriotic picture for any size town. Business good."—P. G. Estee, Star Theatre, Alexandria, S. D.

Over There, with Charles Richman (Select)—"A big box-office attraction and will please all who see it. Played to a packed house here."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

Ghosts of Yesterday, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"This picture went over pretty well. The story is not so well suited to Norma Talmadge as some of her previous ones but is O. K."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Lone Wolf, with Bert Lytell (Select)—"A good picture, but a little high in price."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Marionettes, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"One of the finest pictures we ever ran. Good from every standpoint."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

The Moth, with Norma Talmadge (Select)—"A dandy production, worth the money. Norma Talmadge is great."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Magda, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"A great picture, beautiful. Book it. We want more pictures like it."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Common Law, with Clara Kimball Young (Select)—"Not the star's best but a fairly good picture."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Triangle

Reggie Mixes In, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"A re-issue but pretty good. Fair business. Liked by all."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

Man Above the Law, with Jack Richardson (Triangle)—"I did not see this but reports were satisfactory."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—"Average program picture."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Ship of Doom, with Claire McDowell (Triangle)—"Star, picture and subject very good. Film in good condition. Business above the average."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Sudden Gentleman, with William Desmond (Triangle)—"Star, none better at any price. Picture and subject one of the best. Film in fine condition. Business good."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

For Valour, with Winifred Allen (Triangle)—"A good picture, showing up the slacker. Was well received. Brought a new view on the enlistment question to many."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Primal Lure, with W. S. Hart (Triangle)—"Capacity house. The picture is good, although Hart does not play a cowboy role."—George H. Done, Gayety Theatre, Payson, Utah.

Sudden Jim, with Charles Ray (Triangle)—"Not as good as his other pictures on this program but drew well."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Good Bad Man, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"A fair picture to a good crowd. The photography is much clearer in this than in the first re-issues."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Good Bad Man, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Even in good weather, I cannot make this star's pictures pay."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

The Gown of Destiny, with Alma Rubens (Triangle—"A very good picture. Story and cast fine. Excellent photography. Best Triangle for some time."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Lamb, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"A re-issue which did better than we expected. Doug. sends them home satisfied, even in his older pictures."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Betty Takes a Hand, with Olive Thomas (Triangle)—"A very good comedy drama which will make Miss Thomas more popular."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Framing Framers, with Charles Gunn (Triangle)—"An average Triangle feature which, although not full of thrills, furnishes a picture that will not disappoint."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

The Half-breed, with Douglas Fairbanks (Triangle)—"Just ordinary. Photography fair. Settings good. Business fair."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Universal

Phantom Riders, with Harry Carey (Universal special)—"As usual, Hary Carey brings the kids in. A western story."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

Nestor Comedies, with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran (Universal)—"For real clean comedy that contains a story and will please everyone of the patrons, I find these best. I show practically every brand of comedy. Prices of these are reasonable and they please all. Try, and be convinced."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Finley Nature Pictures (Universal)—"Excellent one-reel subjects that give variety to a program. When you show these, you help elevate your theatre to a higher standard."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Universal Current Events (Universal)—"No better nor worse than the rest. News reels depend on their age."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

Vitagraph

The Maelstrom, with Earle Williams (Vitagraph)—"This is a real picture with lots of punch in it and it will take with everyone. The star is always good. Played to a full house."—A. L. Jekyll, Fad Theatre, Parker, S. D.

Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation (Vitagraph)—"A great picture. Book it."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Within the Law, with Alice Joyce (Vitagraph)—"A big picture to a good crowd at advanced prices. It pleased all, although it is very long."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Magnificent Meddler, with Antonio Moreno (Vitagraph)—"A good picture. Fair drawing power."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

World

Broken Ties, with June Elvidge (World)—"A very odd sort of story, rather morbid. June Elvidge is too good a star to waste on such a picture."—Miss Benesch, Bell Theatre, Chicago.

Over Here (World)—"A two-reeler showing the building of cantonments in the south. Interesting and makes a good addition to a program."—Leo Peterson, Iris Theatre, Belle Fourche, S. D.

His Royal Highness, with Carlyle Blackwell (World)—"A so-called costume play which the public does not care for. Not up to World standard."—Miss Benesch, Garfield Theatre, Halsted St., Chicago.

Serials and Series

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"Very good. Draws the crowds."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

Vengeance and the Woman, with William Duncan (Vitagraph)—"This is proving a better drawing card than The Fighting Trail. It has a much stronger start with a better story and more action. Pleases both grown-ups and children."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Railroad Raiders, with Helen Holmes (Mutual)—"This didn't take here at all."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

The Red Ace, with Marie Walcamp (Universal)—"Chapter 12. Nothing to complain of."—Levi Stevens, Bijou Theatre, Alpena, Mich.

The Son of Democracy, with Benjamin Chapin (Paramount series)—"'The Crisis,' A wonderful story, splendidly acted. Chapin is great as Lincoln."—Charles Weigel, Alhambra Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

State Rights

On Trial, with Barbara Castleson (Essanay)—"This is great and everybody liked it. We displayed our S. R. O. sign for the first time since last fall."—A. N. Miles, Eminence Theatre, Eminence, Ky.

War's Women, with Frank Keenan (State Rights)—"Keep away from this."—A. L. Brown, Gem Theatre, Philip, S. D.

King of the Rails (General Electric)—"Three reel educational feature showing the system from the very beginning up to the electric engine. The last reel deals entirely with electricity and the construction of the electric engine. Shows beautiful scenery taken in the west and in the mountains where the electric locomotive is used. Was well received."—Bert Norton, Kozy Theatre, Eureka, Ill.

The Orderly, with Billy West (King Bee)—"It has come to pass that you can hardly tell Billy from Charlie, and he seems to go over practically as strong, considering that he is not so well known. He is gaining popularity and with a few original pictures, I believe he is made."—Harry C. Miller, Boston Theatre, Chicago.—Downtown house.

The Whip, with Irving Cummings (State Rights)—"Business splendid. Best picture since The Spoilers. Appeals to all classes."—Charles Weigel, Alhambra Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

The Cold Deck, with W. S. Hart (State Rights)—"The best Hart picture I have ever run. Star's work great. Fine business."—A. J. Hill, Glen Theatre, Chicago.

Index

In response to a number of requests for an index to "What the Pictures Did for Me," the following tabulated list of features commented upon in the last five issues, including the current issue of MOTOGRAPHY, is published:

A

Adopted Son (Metro)—March 23.
Alabaster Box (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp (Fox)—April 6.
Alias Mrs. Jessop (Metro)—April 20.
Alice Howell Comedies (Universal)—March 23.
All for a Husband (Fox)—April 6.
All Man (World)—March 23.
Amarilly of Clothesline Alley (Artcraft)—April 6, April 20.
American Maid (Mutual)—April 20.
American Widow (Metro)—April 6.
Appletree Girl (Kleine)—April 20.
Apostle of Vengeance (Triangle)—April 13.
Are Waitress Safe? (Paramount)—April 20.
Aryan (Triangle)—March 23.
Ashes of Hope (Triangle)—March 23.
At Coney Island (Paramount)—April 20.
Avenging Trail (Metro)—March 23, April 6.

B

Babes in the Woods (Fox)—April 20.
Back of the Man (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Bab's Matinee Idol (Paramount)—March 23.
Bargain (Standard)—April 6, April 13.
Bathhouse Tangle (Fox)—March 30.
Because of a Woman (Triangle)—April 6.
Bell Boy (Paramount)—April 20.
Beloved Traitor (Goldwyn)—April 13.
Betsy Ross (World)—March 30.
Betty Takes a Hand (Triangle)—April 20.
Blind Adventure (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Blind Man's Holiday (General)—March 30.
Blue Jeans (Metro)—March 30, April 20.
Bond Between (Paramount)—April 6.
Branded Soul (Fox)—April 6.
Broadway Bill (Metro)—April 6.
Broadway Love (Bluebird)—April 6.
Broadway Jones (Artcraft)—April 20.
Broken Ties (World)—April 20.
Brown of Harvard (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Brass Check (Metro)—April 13.
Bucking Broadway (Butterfly)—March 23.
Bull's Eye (Universal)—March 23.
Butcher Boy (Paramount)—April 6.
By Right of Possession (Vitagraph)—March 23.

C

Calendar Girl (Mutual)—March 30.
Call of the Cumberlands (Paramount)—March 23.
Camille (Fox)—April 6.
Camouflage Kiss (Fox)—April 20.
Caprice (Paramount)—April 20.
Case at Law (Triangle)—April 6.
Cassidy (Triangle)—March 23.
Cast-off (U. S. Exhibitors)—April 13.
Chain Gang (Bruce Scenic)—April 6.
Christie Comedies (State Rights)—March 23.
Cinderella Man (Goldwyn)—April 6.
City of Purple Dreams (Selig)—March 30.
Clodhopper (Triangle)—April 6.
Clever Mrs. Carfax (Paramount)—April 6.
Cold Deck (State Rights)—April 13, April 20.
Common Law (Select)—April 20.
Conqueror (Fox)—March 30, April 13, April 20.
Corespondent (Jewel)—March 23.
Country Hero (Paramount)—March 30.
Countess Charming (Paramount)—March 23.
Crisis (Selig)—April 6.
Cupid's Round-up (Fox)—March 30, April 6.

D

Daughter of the Gods (Fox)—April 13.
Daughter of Maryland (Mutual)—April 6.
David Garrick (Paramount)—March 30.
Devil Stone (Artcraft)—March 23, April 20.
Daybreak (Metro)—March 30, April 6.
Defeat of the City (General)—March 30.
Deemster (State Rights)—March 30.
Deep Purple (World)—April 6.
Desert Man (Triangle)—March 23.
Devil Dodger (Triangle)—March 23.
Divine Sacrifice (World)—March 23, April 6.
Dodging a Million (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Down to Earth (Artcraft)—March 30.
Draft 258 (Metro)—March 23.
Dream Doll (Kleine)—March 30.

E

Egged On (Paramount)—April 20.
End of the Tour (Metro)—April 6.
Eternal Question (Metro)—April 6.
Eternal Temptress (Paramount)—March 23, April 20.
Eve's Daughter (Paramount)—March 30, April 20.
Eyes of Mystery (Metro)—April 6.

F

Face Value (Bluebird)—March 23.
Fanatics (Triangle)— March 30.
Fair Barbarian (Paramount)—April 6, April 20.
Fires of Rebellion (Bluebird)—April 6.
Fibbers (Kleine)—April 20.
Fields of Honor (Goldwyn)—March 30, April 6, April 13.
Fighting Back (Triangle)—April 6.
Fighting Trail (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Finley Nature Pictures (Universal)—April 20.
Flame of the Yukon (Triangle)—March 16, March 23, April 6.
Flare-up Sal (Paramount)—April 13.
Flirting with Fate (Triangle)—March 30.
Floor Below (Goldwyn)—April 6.
For France (Vitagraph)—March 23.
For Liberty (Fox)—April 13.
For Valor (Triangle)—March 23, April 13, April 20.
Foundling (Paramount)—April 13.
Framing Framers (Triangle)—April 20.
Freckles (Paramount)—March 23, April 13.
From Two to Six (Triangle)—March 23.

G

Game of Wits (Mutual)—March 23.
Garden of Allah (Selig).
Gates of Gladness (World)—March 23, April 6.
Ghost House (Paramount)—March 30, April 20.
Ghosts of Yesterday (Select)—April 20.
Girl Angle (Mutual)—March 30, April 13.
Girl from Rector's (Mutual)—March 23.
Girl Glory (Triangle)—March 30.
Girl Without a Soul (Metro)—April 20.
Good Bad Man (Triangle)—April 6, April 20.
Good-for-Nothing (World)—March 23.

H

Half-breed (Triangle)—April 20.
Heart of Nora Flynn (Paramount)—March 23.
Heart of Romance (Fox)—April 20.
Heart's Revenge (Fox)—April 6.
Heiress for a Day (Triangle)—March 23.
Hell's Crater (Universal)—March 23.
Her Boy (Metro)—March 23.
Her Excellency the Governor (Triangle)—March 23.
Her Hour (World)—March 30.
Her Maternal Right (World)—March 30.
Hidden Pearls (Paramount)—March 30.
High Speed (Butterfly)—April 20.
Hired Man (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
His Father's Son (Paramount)—March 30.
His Mother's Boy (Paramount)—March 23, April 6, April 20.
His Own People (Vitagraph)—March 23, April 13, April 20.
His Picture in the Papers (Triangle)—April 6.
His Royal Highness (World)—March 23, March 30, April 20.
Honeymoon (Select)—April 6.
Honor System (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Hostage (Paramount)—April 6.
House of Terrible Scandals (Fox)—March 30.
Hubby's Holiday (Selburn—State Rights)—March 23.
Huck and Tom (Paramount)—April 6, April 13, April 20.
Husband and Wife (World)—March 23.

I

I Love You (Triangle)—April 6.
In Again, Out Again (Artcraft)—April 20.
In Slumberland (Triangle)—April 13.
In the Balance (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Indiscreet Corinne (Triangle)—April 6.
Innocent (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
International Sneak (Paramount)—March 23.

J

Jack and Jill (Paramount)—March 23, April 6.
Jack and the Beanstalk (Fox)—April 6.
Jack Spurlock, Prodigal (Fox)—March 23.
Jaguar's Claws (Paramount)—April 6.
Jewel in Pawn (Bluebird)—April 6.
Joan the Woman (Artcraft)—April 6.
John Ermine of Yellowstone (Universal)—March 23.
Jules of the Strong Heart (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.

K

Keith of the Border (Triangle)—March 23.
Keys of the Righteous (Paramount)—March 23, April 6, April 13.
Kill-joy (Kleine)—April 20.
King of the Rails (General Electric)—April 20.
Kingdom of Love (Fox)—March 30.
Knife (Select)—April 13.

L

Lady of the Photograph (Kleine)—April 20.
Lamb (Triangle)—April 20.
Land of Promise (Paramount)—April 6, April 20.
Landloper (Metro)—April 20.
Larnin', of Jim Benton (Triangle)—March 30, April 6.
Legion of Death (Metro)—April 6, April 20.
Lest We Forget (Metro)—April 13.
Limousine Life (Triangle)—April 13.
Little American (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6, April 13.
Little Princess (Artcraft)—March 23.
Little Red Decides (Triangle)—March 23.
Little Red Ridinghood (Wholesome)—March 23.
Little Shoes (Kleine)—April 6.
Lone Wolf (Select)—April 20.
Lost Express (Mutual)—March 23.
Love Letters (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 20.
Luke the Mechanic (Pathe)—March 30.

M

Mad Lover (State Rights)—March 30.
Madame Jealousy (Paramount)—April 6, April 13.
Madame Spy (Butterfly)—April 20.
Madame Who (Paralta)—March 23, April 13.
Maelstrom (Vitagraph)—April 20.
Magda (Select)—April 20.
Magnificent Meddler (Vitagraph)—April 20.
Man Above the Law (Triangle)—April 20.
Man From Painted Post (Artcraft)—April 20.
Man Hater (Triangle)—March 23, April 6.
Man Who Made Good (Triangle)—March 23.
Man's Man (Paralta)—March 23.
Manx Man (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Marked Man (Butterfly)—March 23.
Marionettes (Select)—March 30, April 20.
Mate of the Sally Ann (Mutual)—April 6.
Maternal Spark (Triangle)—April 6.
Me and My Dog (Robert Bruce—State Rights)—March 23.
Medicine Man (Triangle)—March 30.
Melissa of the Hills (Mutual)—April 6.
Melting Pot (State Rights)—April 6.
Men of the Desert (Kleine)—March 30, April 20.
Menace (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Men Who Made Love to Me (Kleine)—April 6.
Message of the Mouse (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Mice and Men (Paramount)—March 23.
Miss George Washington (Paramount)—March 23.
Modern Musketeer (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6.
Molly Entangled (Paramount)—April 6.
Molly Go Get 'Em (Mutual)—April 13.
Moth (Select)—April 20.
Mother Instinct (Triangle)—March 23, March 30.
Mother o' Mine (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Mother's Sin (Vitagraph)—April 6, April 13.
Mrs. Dane's Defense (Paramount)—April 6.
My Official Wife (Vitagraph)—March 23. April 6, April 13, April 20.
My Unmarried Wife (Bluebird)—April 6.

N

Nan of Music Mountain (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Narrow Trail (Artcraft)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13.
Naulahka (Pathe)—April 13.
Nearly Married (Goldwyn)—April 6, April 20.
Neglected Wife (Pathe)—March 23.
Nestor Comedies (Universal)—April 20.
North of 53 (Fox)—March 23.

O

Oh, Doctor (Paramount)—March 23.
On Trial (State Rights)—April 20.
On to Victory (Universal)—March 30.
One-Shot Ross (Triangle)—March 23.
One Touch of Nature (Kleine)—March 23, April 6.
Open Places (Kleine)—March 23.
Orderly (King-Bee)—April 13, April 20.
Other Woman (Pathe)—April 6, April 13.
Our Little Wife (Goldwyn)—March 23.
Outcast (Mutual)—March 30.
Over Here (World)—April 20.
Over There (Select)—March 30, April 13, April 20.
Out West (Paramount)—March 30.

P

Painted Madonna (Fox)—March 30.
Pants (Kleine)—April 20.
Pathe News Weekly (Pathe)—April 6.
Peggy Leads the Way (Mutual)—March 23.
Pendleton Round-up (Pathe)—March 23.
Petticoat Pilot (Paramount)—April 13.
Phantom Fortune (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Phantom Riders (Universal)—April 20.
Pidgin Island (Metro)—April 20.
Please Help Emily (Mutual)—March 23, April 20.
Polly of the Circus (Goldwyn)—March 30, April 13.
Polly Redhead (Bluebird)—April 6.
Price Mark (Paramount)—April 6.
Price of a Good Time (Jewel)—April 13.
Price of Folly (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Price of Silence (Bluebird)—March 23.
Pride of New York (Fox)—March 30.
Primal Lure (Triangle)—March 23, April 6, April 20.
Pudd'nhead Wilson (Paramount)—March 23.
Public Defender (State Rights)—March 30.

R

Railroad Raiders (Mutual)—March 23, April 20.
Rainbow Girl (Mutual)—April 20.
Reaching for the Moon (Artcraft)—March 30, April 6, April 20.
Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Artcraft)—March 30.
Reckless Romeo (Paramount)—April 20.
Red Ace (Universal)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13, April 20.
Red, White and Blue Blood (Metro)—April 6.
Redemption (State Rights)—March 30.
Reed Case (Butterfly)—April 20.
Regenerates (Triangle)—April 13.
Reggie Mixes In (Triangle)—April 13, April 20.
Revenge (Metro)—April 13.
Rimrock Jones (Paramount)—March 23, April 13, April 20.
Rink (Mutual)—April 6.
Rise of Jennie Cushing (Artcraft)—March 23.
Romance of the Redwoods (Artcraft)—March 23, April 20.
Round-up at Pendleton (Pathe)—March 23.
Ruggles of Red Gap (Kleine)—April 6.
Runaway (Mutual)—March 30.

S

Sadie Goes to Heaven (Kleine)—March 30.
Savage (Bluebird)—March 23, April 6.
Sawdust Ring (Triangle)—March 30.
Scarlet Pimpernal (Fox)—March 23.
Sea Master (Mutual)—April 13.
Seeking Happiness (Triangle)—April 6.
Selfish Woman (Paramount)—April 6.
Seven Keys to Baldpate (Artcraft)—March 30.
Seven Pearls (Pathe)—March 23, April 20.
Seven Sisters (Paramount)—April 13.
Seven Swans (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Seventeen (Paramount)—April 13.
Shadows of Her Pest (Fox)—March 30.
Shell Game (Metro)—April 13.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—March 30.
Southern Justice (Bluebird)—March 30.
Ship of Doom (Triangle)—March 30, April 20.
Silence Sellers (Metro)—April 20.
Silent Man (Artcraft)—April 6.
Sirens of the Sea (Jewel)—March 23, April 6.
Skinner's Baby (Kleine)—April 20.
Skinner's Bubble (Kleine)—April 20.
Skinner's Dress Suit (Kleine)—April 20.
Slacker (Metro)—March 23, March 30, April 20.
Sleeping Fires (Paramount)—April 20.
Son of a Gun (Fox)—April 13.
Son of Democracy (Paramount)—April 20.
Song of Songs (Artcraft)—March 23, April 20.
Soul in Trust (Triangle)—March 23.
Soul Master (Vitagraph)—March 16.
Souls Triumphant (Triangle)—March 23.
Spirit of Romance (Paramount)—April 6.
Spirit of '17 (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
Spotted Lily (Bluebird)—April 6.
Spreading Dawn (Goldwyn)—March 30.
Spurs of Sybil (World)—March 23, March 30.
Spy (Fox)—March 23, April 6.
Stainless Barrier (Triangle)—April 20.
Stella Maris (Artcraft)—March 23, April 20.
Stolen Honor (Fox)—April 20.
Strange Transgressor (Triangle)—March 30.
Studio Girl (Select)—April 6, April 13.
Submarine Eye (First National Exhibitors)—April 6.
Sudden Gentleman (Triangle)—March 23, April 20.
Sudden Jim (Paramount)—March 23, April 13, April 20.
Sunshine Alley (Goldwyn)—April 20.
Sweetheart of the Doomed (Triangle)—March 23.

T

Taming Target Center (Paramount)—April 20.
Tanks at the Battle of Ancre (Pathe)—March 30, April 6.
Tar-Heel Warrior (Triangle)—March 16.
Tell-Tale Step (Kleine)—March 23.
Ten of Diamonds (Triangle)—March 23.
Tenth Case (World)—March 23.
That Night (Paramount)—April 13.
Their Compact (Metro)—April 20.
Thing We Love (Paramount)—March 23, March 30.
This Is the Life (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6, April 13.
Thou Art the Man (Vitagraph)—April 6.
Thou Shalt Not Steal (Fox)—March 23.
Through the Wall (Vitagraph)—March 16, March 23.
Time Locks and Diamonds (Triangle)—March 30.
To the Death (Metro)—April 20.
Tom Sawyer (Paramount)—April 6.
Transgression (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Traveling Salesman (Paramount)—April 13.
Treason (Bluebird)—March 30, April 6.
Treasure Island (Fox)—March 23.
Triangle Comedies—March 16.
Trouble Buster (Paramount)—April 6.
Trouble Makers (Fox)—April 20.
Twin Kiddies (Pathe)—March 23.
Two Bit Seats (Kleine)—April 20.

U

Under Handicap (Metro)—April 20.
Under Suspicion (Metro)—March 23, April 6.
Universal Current Events—April 20.
Until They Get Me (Triangle)—April 6.
Up or Down (Triangle)—April 6.

V

Vanity (Metro)—April 20.
Varmint (Paramount)—March 23.
Vengeance and the Woman (Vitagraph)—March 23, April 20.
Vengeance Is Mine (Pathe)—April 13.
Vixen (Fox)—April 6.

W

Wanted a Mother (World)—April 13.
War Brides (State Rights)—April 13.
War Pictures (Schneider)—March 30.
War's Women (State Rights)—April 20.
Wasp (World)—April 13.
Wheel of the Law (Metro)—April 6.
When a Man Sees Red (Fox)—March 23, March 30, April 6.
When Men Are Tempted (Vitagraph)—March 23.
Whims of Society (World)—March 23.
Whip (State Rights)—April 20.
Widow's Might (Paramount)—April 13.
Wild Strain (Vitagraph)—March 23, March 30.
Wild Sumac (Triangle)—March 23.
Wild Winship's Widow (Triangle)—April 6.
Winding Trail (Metro)—April 6, April 20.
Winged Mystery (Bluebird)—March 23.
Wishing Ring (World)—March 23.
Within the Law (Vitagraph)—April 20.
Wolves of the Rail (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6, April 20.
Wolf and His Mate (Universal)—March 23.
Woman and the Law (Fox)—April 20.
Woman and Wife (Select)—March 23.
Woman God Forgot (Artcraft)—March 23, April 6, April 20.
Womanhood (Vitagraph)—March 23, April 20.
World Apart (Paramount)—April 20.
World for Sale (Paramount)—March 23, March 30, April 13.

Y

Young Mother Hubbard (Kleine)—April 20.

A scene from the Triangle Keystone picture, "Their Neighbor's Baby."

Interesting moments in the new American-Mutual production, "A Primitive Woman," starring Margarita Fisher.

"The Primitive Woman" Heads Mutual Bill

Screen Telegram and "The Helping Hand," Strand Comedy with Billie Rhodes, Complete Program

MARGARITA FISHER is announced by Mutual in "The Primitive Woman," released April 15. The play is from a widely-read story by Henry Albert Phillips, scenarioized by William Parker. The production was made under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham at the studios of the American Film Company, Inc.

This is a comedy of the rollicking type that is responsible for the popularity of the star. Elemental woman is a theme that has been a meaty subject for psychologists and novelists as well as satirists and it is the last phase that has furnished the author with many humorous and absurd situations, which are played up in this delightful comedy in an original way.

A modern daughter of Eve, arrayed in talcum powder and some sea-weed, roams the woods in order to show up a high-brow professor of antediluvian humanity, whose ideas of prehistoric woman have proved distasteful to her. Nan Graythorpe is "The Primitive Woman," played by Miss Fisher, and she leads Professor Learned, the delver into archaic subjects, a dog's life until, his ideas shattered, he tears up his notes and marries the "primitive woman," on condition that she return to twentieth century habits and conventional garb.

Jack Mower plays the learned professor and the cast includes such well-known actors as Emma Kluge, Millard Wilson, Helen Howard, Molly McConnell and Edward Peil.

Screen Telegram Nos. 14 and 15 will be released April 17 and 21. The activity in the United States for the grand drive against the kaiser's barbarians is graphically shown. A timely picture in No. 10 showed how the "mystery gun," with which the Huns bombarded Paris at a distance of seventy-six miles, was operated.

"The Helping Hand" is the title of the Strand comedy, starring Billie Rhodes, released April 16. Mary became peeved when Jim told her that Jack had made a bet he would become engaged to her within a week, and decided to take some of the ego out of him. She becomes engaged to Jack all right, but Jack finds he can't smoke, dance, drink or play cards, and is about to abdicate in favor of Jim, when he discovers Jim's perfidy. Jim is mussed up considerably before Jack gets through with him and Jack wins the right to do as he pleases.

"The Planter" a Real Success

One of the real box office successes of the past year, judging from authentic reports, has been "The Planter," the Mutual release in which Tyrone Power starred.

The unusual character of the story with its gripping action, admirable cast and beautiful tropical settings combine to make the production one of undoubted strength and appeal.

The Whitehouse theatre, Milwaukee, ran this subject four days and broke all box office records. The Bijou, Racine, Wis., used "The Planter" two days, and in spite of the fact that the management advanced prices, packed the house both days.

Exhibitors are congratulating Mutual for the pointers given in the special press book on the production. Where these advertising ideas were carried out good business invariably resulted.

Clara Kimball Young Starts "The Claw"

Story Is Staged Largely in South Africa Among Garrison Forts, Company Towns and Silences of the Desert

SETTLED at Hollywood, Clara Kimball Young has set right to work filming "The Claw," her next production for Select Pictures.

The original from which the photodrama is taken is from the pen of Cynthia Stockley, who will be remembered as the author of "Poppy," picturized by Norma Talmadge, now a Select star also. The scenario for "The Claw" was written by Charles E. Whittaker, who was responsible for the continuity of "The House of Glass," in which Clara Kimball Young's characterization of Margaret Case added fresh laurels to her rich crown of artistic achievements.

Deirdre Saurin, the beautiful young heroine of "The Claw," provides Miss Young with a role whose capriciousness and charm are somewhat different from the general run of her screen portrayals and will therefore display anew the artistic versatility of this star.

The story is staged largely in South Africa, among garrison forts, company towns and the vast silences of the desert, with the color, the richness and the adventure of the frontier lands, their wholesouled emotions and passions.

"The Claw" is being directed by Robert G. Vignola, who performed a similar function for Miss Young's latest Select picture made in the east, "The Reason Why," by Elinor Glyn, also the author of "Three Weeks."

Plans to Produce Opera in Pictures

Maurice Tourneur Contemplates Rapid Progress as He Severs Connection with Artcraft to Make Own Pictures

MAURICE TOURNEUR, who by a steady progression in the art of screen drama has won millions of admirers, will hereafter produce his own pictures. Having finished Ibsen's "A Doll's House," with Elsie Ferguson, for Artcraft, Mr. Tourneur from now on will be artistically independent, working in his own studio, choosing his own scenarios and making his own casts, knowing that great work is always greatly in demand and that perfection has its sure and appreciative public.

Mr. Tourneur has worked right through the gamut of film stories from such pieces as "The Whip," "Trilby," which established Clara Kimball Young as a screen star, and a score of smashing pictures of incident and excitement, to the delicate visions and idealism of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," with Mary Pickford; Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird," "Prunella," with Marguerite Clark; "Barbary Sheep," with Elsie Ferguson, and lastly, "A Doll's House."

Mr. Tourneur was a brilliant painter, a celebrated French actor, an associate of the famous Antoine, and a musician of repute before he finally took up the art of making motion pictures as his life's work. He studied the principles of light and optics; he mastered the history of costume and decoration; he learned all about fabrics; in a word he studied everything that bears upon the making of pictures that he might qualify as expert at every angle.

The advantage this gave him was enormous. The everyday work of the studio he handled without conscious effort, but all the time he aimed to widen the frontiers of the screen, to make the camera record ideas and ideals, to portray soul states, to convey to the spectator the sense of interior drama, of true personality.

Before his time such a scenario as that of "A Doll's House" or "The Blue Bird" would have been laughed at as hopelessly impossible of adequate production. Mr. Tourneur takes them and they are as entertaining as a thriller and at the same time beautiful with the imagination and the intellect of the great minds who conceived the originals.

Star Christens Plane

During her two years' sojourn in Santa Barbara making pictures for the American Film Company, Mary Miles Minter has been identified with every civic event of public importance; but the recent dedication of a hydroplane built by Alan and Malcolm Loughead for government service has impressed her more strongly than anything.

Mayor Neilsen made a brief address before William Dawson introduced Miss Minter. The charming little star then broke a bottle of water on the prow of the graceful plane and said: "I name thee F-1, and I dedicate thee to the service of thy country, to the cause of human liberty and to the winning of a permanent world peace."

From a basket concealed in the pilot's seat, Miss Minter released six white doves, suggestive of peace.

Following the services a trial flight was made, with Miss Minter as a passenger.

Work on "Young America" To Begin Soon

Juvenile Court Scene in New Essanay Feature Will Be Replica of That of Judge Ben Lindsay of Denver

THE juvenile court scenes which form such an important part in the forthcoming George K. Spoor feature, "Young America," have been prepared under the direct instructions of Judge Ben Lindsay of Denver, the father of the juvenile court system.

Director Arthur Berthelet is a warm personal friend of the judge and has made a careful study of the proceedings in the Denver court. He is now in communication with Judge Lindsay, getting every detail accurate for the production.

The court itself is being constructed in the Essanay studios and will be a replica of Judge Lindsay's court.

Outside locations have practically all been selected, and many of the interior settings finished. The leading players have been selected tentatively and will be announced shortly. It is expected that actual work will begin within a few days.

One of the hardest "characters" to find is the dog, which takes such an important role. The dog which played the part on the stage is dead and another animal is being trained for the part.

The greatest care is being taken to make the play accurate and every effort is being made to produce one of the greatest features of the year. The play was written by Fred Ballard.

A beautiful scene in "Her Helping Hand," a new Strand-Mutual comedy featuring Billie Rhodes.

Broncho Billies Book Fast

Demands have been so strong for the ten Broncho Billy dramas that Essanay has revivified that the company now is planning to issue other prints. These will be issued in blocks, one picture coming out each week. They will be released through the George Kleine system.

"Over the Top" a Box Office Success

SO SAYS MOTOGRAPHY MAN AFTER SEEING PICTURE

By Charles Wesley

"OVER THE TOP" is a picture well worth seeing. Not only does it give Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey a chance to visualize many of the stirring incidents related in his world-famous book of the same name, but the story which has been interwoven through the picture in order to give it plenty of heart interest makes a very gripping tale.

